The frustrated Lady Indians saw no options but to foul in an attempt to get control of the ball.

Unfortunately for Jim Ned, Karolen Biddix was pretty much on target, hitting eight out of ten free throws in the last quarter for the Lady Blizzards. Karolen also added another 3-pointer (she already had two) and a 2-pointer in the fourth quarter for a total of 22 points for the evening.

Also leading for Winters was Rachel Edwards who contributed 23 points from all over the court.

Coach Corley said, "This was a good win for us. Our stall was very effective, especially because ve made our free throws. We played a lot smarter the second half of the game."

Corley continued, "Jim Ned is an excellent basketball team. It means a lot when we can win against a team like this."

The Lady Blizzards begin second half of district play against Stanton on Friday.

"The second half will be more crucial than the first half,"Corley said. "We will face Stanton, Jim Ned and Forsan on their home courts and that always makes winning tougher."

It is our first Oil Patch Basics of the year, and, this time, we are going to start back where it all started in 1990.

We started from the beginning, then, and I think enough time has passed to begin again with the very basics of oil patch basics. Hopefully, a whole new group will get a chance to learn a little bit and some of you who saw it before can get a refresher course.

Our first topic will be the origin and geology of petroleum. I know it sounds boring, but it really is interesting (and it might Nolan County come in handy when trying to impress relatives). It will be short and sweet--trust me.

Let's discard some myths and misconceptions, first. Oil is not in some hollow underground cave just waiting to be pumped out. It is called a reservoir, but it is not like Lake Spence. The oil is contained in small spaces between grains of rock. These small spaces are called "porosity", or more exactly stated: porosity is the percentage of total volume of the rock that is hollow. The rock has to have porosity talk about in the coming months) to contain oil. A handy way to full of water (or oil if you are the & 164 FWL of Sec. 483, same Sur. messy sort). Oil reservoirs are very similar to this sponge, only the reservoir rock is hard, unlike the soft sponge.

Another common misconception is that oil occurs everywhere just like the water table encountered in water wells. I only wish this were true--we would all be rich. Actually, a trap of some kind must have been formed and oil must have migrated there at one time. Oil is the oxygen and carbon result of the melting and transformation of dead plants and animals. It is fluid and will move until it is trapped. It could be a big fold in the earth that traps oil or it could be something more complex. Suffice it to say that the oil must be trapped or it will have slipped under someone else's land (about a million years ago) where a trap did exist.

Now that we have a better idea of what oil reservoirs are, let's think about where they are. A little geology primer will help us.

We are sitting on top of several million years of old dead animals, plants, and various other trash and discardables. It is layed down in layers according to when the refuse was discarded. The periods of time when the layers are formed are grouped into formations and/ or zones. The longer ago it was discarded, the deeper it will be. (There are exceptions to this but that is the general idea.)

Several oil reservoirs can exist at several different depths if organic matter was in the vicinity. I think you get the idea. It can be a lot more complicated than this, as any geologist working by the hour will tell you.

That's it for this time. Our next Oil Patch Basics will pick up

Senior Citizens Nursing Home News by Billie Ruth Bishop

Thanks to Mrs. Virginia Marsh for the quilt scraps and to the Moore family for the beautiful flower arrangements.

The Emmert family honored Mrs. Geneva Emmert on her 95th birthday Wednesday with a birthday cake and ice cream.

Three ladies were honored at the birthday party this month. They were Geneva Emmert, Hermine Hasse, and Trudy Foreman. Congratulations to these three people. The ladies of the Wingate Baptist Church hosted the birthday party. They served cakes, cookies, and ice cream to everyone present and presented gifts to the honorees. Leona Chapmond decorated the table, beautifully, as always. Thank you all so much for your acts of kindness and thoughtfulness.

We have two new residents whom we would like to welcome into our midst. Mrs. Opal Hill, room 19B, and Mrs. Hilma Dunn, room 12A. They would appreciate your visits.

Mr. Isais Fernandez has returned to his home in Winters. We are always glad when someone can return home. Kay Hagle from the Pizza Hut came last Friday and made and cooked a pizza for us. We truly enjoyed it. It was very good. This was to celebrate National Pizza Week. Thank you, Kay.

Our voting is underway for Valentine King and Queen. Our presentation will be on Valentine's Day; we will celebrate the crowning with a party.

A few weeks ago I went with Mike Madden to San Saba. We were part of a team getting ready for an Emmaus Walk. An Emmaus Walk is a long weekend where folks come together to be renewed in their commitment to Jesus Christ, and to be built up in their faith. And a lot of other good things, too.

Anyway, as we pulled into the parking lot of the Methodist Church there, I noticed one of those historical signs that we see scattered around Texas. It was standing there in the church yard, so I went over and read it. As I recall the sign said something like this, "The territory around San Saba was rough and wild. Circuit riders were given $25.00 to buy a pistol and $125.00 to buy a horse." There it was, a matter of historical fact, that the circuit-riding preachers in those days had to be strong. No wimps allowed.

And it got me going. Last November when St. John's celebrated its 90th anniversary, I dressed up like a circuit rider. With a swallow-tail coat and striped pants and a big black hat. It was fun. And I sang a song:

"The circuit-riding preacher used to ride across the land With a rifle on his saddle and a Bible in his hand in Houston, we have not a single church."

He preached to prairie people all about the promised land As he went riding, singing down the trail."

It was no picnic for those circuit riders. Ross Phares has written a book entitled "Bible in Pocket, Gun in Hand," the story of Frontier Religion. The territory was tough. And people didn't know a lot about religion. Bibles were scarce. Churches were few and far between. In June 1839, two years after Houston became the capital of Texas, a local newspaper commented: "It is a source of much astonishment and of considerable severe comment upon the religious character of our city, that while we have a theatre, a courthouse, a jail and even a capital

Even prayer was foreign. Older children were puzzled at the ritual. The Reverend "Fighting" Jack Potter was requested to ask the blessing at a family dinner table when the family sat down to eat. As he bowed his head and humbly asked a blessing, a ten-year-old nephew of the host sat staring in wide-eyed amazement. He was so bewildered at the strange proceeding at the table that he looked the preacher up on the street the next day and asked him, "Are you the fort, to Mrs. Conner for the spepreacher that talks to the plate?"

It wasn't always that hard. The Montana artist Charlie Russell writes of the kind of reception that was given the beloved Rev. W.W. Van Orsdel, known as "Brother Van" in 1918. Years earlier Charlie had met "Brother Van" at a ranch supper. "When we all sat down to our elk meat, beans, coffee, and dried apples, under the rays of a bacon grease light, these men who knew little law, and one of them I know wore notches on his gun, men who had not prayed since they knelt at their mothers knees, bowed their heads while you, Brother Van, gave thanks, and when you finished, some one said 'Amen'. I am not sure, but I think it was a man who had been a road agent. I was 16 years old then, but have never forgotten that stay...".

"Be good an you will be happy" is an old saying, which many contradict and say goodness is a rough trail over dangerous passes with windfalls and swift, deep rivers to cross. I have never ridden it very far myself, but judging from the looks of you it's a cinch bet that with a hoss called "Faith" under you it's a smoother flower-grown trail with easy fords, where birds sing and cold, clear streams dance all the way to the pass that crosses the big divide.

"Brother Van, you have ridden that trail a long time and I hope you ride it to many birthdays on this side of the big range."

Today I am going to a meeting of preachers. I doubt there will be any circuit riders, but I am encouraged by them and their faith and their courage as they face a new kind of frontier. Thank God for preachers that talk to a plate. And pray for many who will follow in their trail.

Women's Service League to host Art Festival in Feb.

Women's Service League conducted their January meeting, Thursday the 19th, at the Methodist Church Fellowship Hall with eighteen members in attendance.

Hostesses were Teresa Davis, Chris Parramore, Debbie Goff, and Diane Torres. The ladies served finger sandwiches, chips, dips, sausage balls, cookies, and tea. The table was decorated blue and white.

The speaker for the evening was Winters Police Officer Toby Virden. Mr. Virden explained the importance and uses of mobile video cameras that police departments are currently using. The cameras with video and audio tapes are an invaluable source in tend.

establishing guilt or innocence as well as protection of the officer.

The business meeting following the speaker entailed, voting on continuing the phone service for the Rehab telethon. It was decided to discontinue this service for Winters because the telethon offers a toll free phone number for Winters residents to call in their pledges.

In other business, there will be a brief program February 16 at the school activity building. Immediately following refreshments, club members are asked to stay and help set up tables and booths for the Art Festival the next day. All members are encouraged to at-and desperate. We went to all the be a full-time mother. right doctors and had the proper the same, "You two are just overanxious."

We were frustrated but never in despair.

One day as I entered the driveway, Nannette ran to meet me, waving some papers in her hand. "Read this," she said with a tremor in her voice.

It was a letter from her brother, Captain Melbourne O'Banion, a dentist stationed with the army in Germany. The more I read the more excited I became. There was an orphanage in a small town just outside Munich, operated by an order of Catholic nuns.

The German economy had not made its recovery in 1956. There were not enough couples who could adopt a baby. Melbourne and his wife, Betty, had helped several couples in the states to adopt children. "Would we consider adopting a three-month-old baby girl?" he asked. Pictures were enclosed. The answer was yes. Our letter went out by airmail that night.

Within ten days we received another letter from Melbourne, half an inch thick. In it were forms and instructions from the German our loved one, Billy George Youth Council: couples had to be of the same religious affiliation Thanks to Bro. Oscar Fanning and attend church on a regular basis; have a reasonable amount of insurance; be buying their home and have a certain amount of savcial music, to the ladies of the ings. The man must have a permachurch for preparing and serving nent job and be caring enough to Nannette and I were still childless should not be working and must

We also had to send letters from tests made. Answers were always our minister, my employer, and three friends. The question: would we be suitable, loving parents for the child?

> Within a few days, we sent the package of information to Germany. Then the waiting game started. The natural mother had to appear before a judge to state that she was, of her own free will, allowing the baby to be adopted.

Melbourne arranged for the baby's entry into the United States for adoption. After an eternity, a letter came from the German Youth Council.

We stood and looked at that letter. Finally, Nannette said, "Hurry! Open it!" We didn't read far until we saw, "You have been approved for the adoption of Our choice, Lynette. We were to meet her in New York.

We could hardly wait. Nannette stayed busy getting the nursery ready while I twiddled my thumbs.

In the meantime, Nannette went to the doctor for a routine physical. When she returned for her test results, the doctor was smiling. He said, "Well, Mrs. Orr, they won't be twins, but I'm glad to tell you that there's a little one on the way. You won't be making the trip to New York. It's too risky."

It was a while before Nannette broke the news that I would be going to New York by myself to get our eight-month-old daughter. My knees shook, but I packed and was ready when the big day

After four years of marriage, support his family. The woman came. My flight was on a Lockheed Constellation. I don't know its flying speed but I thought it would never reach New York. I checked in the hotel at 10:00 p.m., tried to sleep, and finally succeeded only to have the silence shattered by the wake up call at 7:00 a.m. I was so excited that it took ten minutes to tie my tie.

Lynnette and the stewardess were to arrive at 12:00 noon. I caught a taxi and was at the airport by 11:00 a.m. I wasn't taking any chances on the New York traffic.

A redcap took my suitcase and we went to the American Airline counter. The agent checked and said that the flight from Germany was on time; maybe a few minutes early. Glory be!

I sat down; I got up. I sat down again and got up again. I was acting just like a new father.

Anxioulsy, I looked in all directions.

Suddenly I heard a voice behind me. "Are you Mr. Orr?"

There was a stewardess holding the most beautiful baby in the world. Our Lynette, studying me through those big brown eyes. Chills raced up and down my spine; tears filled my eyes.

The stewardess smiled as she said, "Here's your little daughter, Mr. Orr. Isn't she a honey?"

I couldn't say a word. To Be Continued.....

Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD) Seminar to help families understand and learn to cope with the disease

An Attention Deficit Disorder Seminar for Adults and Teens will be held Thursday, February 9, 1995 at 7:00 p.m. in the Johnson Street Church of Christ Auditorium, 2200 Johnson Street, San Angelo, Texas. The seminar will feature Dr. Lynn Weiss, a psychologist, who is founder and director of the ADD Center for Adults and Teens in Dallas.

This session will be on ADD in both teens and adults and address the misunderstanding, frustration, and heartbreak of ADD. Although generally thought of as a children's problem, ADD is most likely hereditary and frequently persists into adulthood, affecting as much as 10 percent of the acust population. Only recently have concerned families begun to recognize the symptoms in themselves and in spouses and relatives: attention span difficulty, fidgeting, poor impulse control, low stress tolerance, poor organization with poor task completion, or extreme mood swings.

Dr. Weiss, psychotherapist and mother of an ADD son, will explain what ADD is, how it manifests itself in adults, and what can be done to cope with it. Those attending will hear about ways to improve self image, the latest thinking on treatment with drugs, named as academic visualization techniques, and answers for intimacy problems.

Dr. Weiss will offer insight not only for those with ADD, but for the families and friends of ADD individuals. Her insight will also as an academic honor student for Somebody Cares!

Somebody Cares Ministries will host dedication, open house this Sunday moved. They are proud to announce their new location at the corner of the Novice Highway and Trinity Street.

In August, the old Pre-K building was purchased from the Winters School District, moved, and re-modeled. It is Somebody Cares children's church building. The first Wednesday children's activity was held on September 28.

In November, work began on the old pink house. It was "gutted", equipped with a new roof and siding, and then finished on the inside. The first service was January 1, 1995. What a glorious day for all members!

It took many hours of hard work from church members both young and old. They thank God for each hand that did all jobs, large and small.

The children had Award Sunday on January 8. Thirty-six children received certificates. These were for attendance for October through December. C.J. Johnson and Shyla Garza received Faithful Attendance awards (missed Somebody Cares Ministries has only 1 Sunday). Raquel Rios received a Perfect Attendance award. Recognized for Faithful Attendance for the year of 1994 were Shyla Garza and Raquel Rios. Rapheal Gallaway only missed 2 Sundays. Somebody Cares is proud of all member chil-

On Sunday, January 29, dedication and an open house will be for all who wish to come. There will be guest speakers and special music, followed by lunch.

On Sunday night at 6 p.m., Somebody Care Ministries will host an "Old Time Singing". All are invited to bring their instruments, and/or specials and join. Even if you do not sing or play, come for a time of praise and worship to the Lord. Refreshments and fellowship will follow. SERVICES

Literary and Service Club offers tips in getting along with others of Winters met in the home of Emily Pendergrass on Thursday, January 19. Sandwiches, chips, cheese dip, chocolate delight spiced tea, and coffee were served by hostesses Emily Pendergrass, Gwen Andrae, and Theresa Patterson (who was unable to at-

The program, "Tax Tips", was presented by Benny Polston C.P.A. of Winters. He spoke of social security changes in 1995, tax rates, important 1994 changes such as social security benefits, self-employed health insurance deductions, and gifts to charity. He also spoke of the nanny tax and the chances of being audited. Questions and answers followed.

After the program, vice president Gloria Poehls presided. Estella Bredemeyer led the collection, and Gwen Andrae led the flag pledges. Minutes were read by Emily Pendergrass. The Club donated to the "Christmas in April" fund.

Eula Mae Kruse, federation counselor, reminded members of the 35th spring convention, March 17 & 18 in Mertzon.

On a lighter side, Eula Mae suggested that members write down the good things that happen

The Literary and Service Club each day and when feeling down, to read through what has been written. One tends to forget the good and remember the bad. If you remember the good, it will most certainly lift your spirits.

> Eula Mae also recited 10 rules for getting along with others, as written by Norman Vincent Peale.

- Remember names. 2. Be comfortable to be around.
- 3. Be easy-going so things don't ruffle you.
- 4. Don't be a know-it-all. 5. Learn to be interesting. 6. Eliminate traits that irritate
- 7. Never miss chances to give compliments.
- 8. Work at liking people.
- 9. Learn to forgive. 10. Develop deep spiritual strength.

With these ideas in mind, the meeting adjourned.

Members present were Gwen Andrae, Estella Bredemeyer, Ethel Mae Clark, Selma Dietz, Noma Eoff, Pat Fenter, Jo Olive Hancock, Eula Mae Kruse, Billie Middlebrook, Emily Pendergrass, Gloria Poehls, Darlene Sims, Minnie Smith, and Lela Thormeyer. Jo Stoecker was a

The next meeting will be Feb. 16 with a Valentine exchange. Pat Fenter will be charge hostess with Trish Sloan of Australia giving the program.

The reason we make a long story short is so that we can tell another.

* Brother Oscar and Janie Fanning were after-church-services dinner guests with Dee and Sam Faubion. Sharon Craft of Lubbock was a visitor at church. Ginger Test of Novice touched up the picture over the church that was damaged from the fire. Nila and Therin Oborne re-did the altar chairs. Everyone is appreciative to these individuals for their work.

Many thanks. Eileen Cartwright carried Sandy Hamrick of Winters to her doctor checkup after her surgery. Afterwards they ate out at the Pizza Hut.

On Saturday, Eileen prepared dinner in the Noble Faubion home. Others present were Harvey Mae Faubion, Jeremy and Tiffany Prater, and Marqué and Will Mathis.

Helen Alexander spent Sunday with Juanita Shields.

Desireé Mathis, Karen Oats, and their teammates were in Coahoma Friday to play basketball. Desireé spent the night with Karen on Friday. Karen spent the night with Desireé on Saturday.

Roy McBeth came over to play with Will on Saturday.

The Joeris family of Winters came out for a while to visit with the Bill Mathis family.

Remember when families got together and had an all-day hog butchering? That's just what happened here with me on Saturday and my families came for dinner. We had platters and platters of fried tender loins with all the trimmings. Everyone had a ball.

Nila and Therin Osborne got in their pickup and decided to visit several of their neighbors Monday. First was Harvey Mae and Noble Faubion, then on to Juanita Shields, and then to Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Coats at Novice. On Thursday afternoon, they went to the home of L.C. and Ouita Foster to see Uncle Odell Simpson of Ama-

On Monday night, Doris Wood and the Calcote family attended the Winters-Jim Ned basketball games in Lawn.

Brenda and Richard Chambliss and Dottie Drake of Blackwell spent Saturday with Pat and Earl Cooper.

On Wednesday night, we had an inch or more of beautiful large snowflakes. It didn't last long though when followed by the 7/10 of an inch of rain.

Granddaughter cheers high school football players on to victory

Tiger Cheerleader

Deborah Ann Sudduth, the granddaughter of Dora Sudduth of Winters and the daughter of Jerry and Mary Ann Sudduth of Sealy, is a member of the Varsity Cheerleading Squad that has helped lead the Sealy Tigers to a successful football season.

Deborah is a Junior at Sealy High and is in her second year as "Aggie-like" yell practices and have been very instrumental in preparing the fans for the highscoring competition the Tigers gave their opponents this year. The cheerleaders are also known for their many hand painted signs the football team ran through and which are hung on the railings of the stadiums for each game.

The Tigers are the Class 3-A State Champions and ended their season with a 16-0 record. They beat Atlanta 36-15 in the Houston Astrodome in the state play-off Deborah is a former resident of Lufkin where she had been selected to the All-American cheerleading team and performed in the Aloha Bowl in Hawaii on Christmas Day in 1992. In Sealy, she has been selected to the Elite Squad which performs at the Christmas Light Parade on the Red River in Natchitoches, Louisiana. Deborah plans to contine cheerleader there. The squad is her cheerleading when she gradu-

Winters Police Beat

The information below is taken from reports on file with the Winters Police Department. Some of the information is provided to police by citizens, and in some cases, police have not finished investigating the reports. These reports make up a small percentage of the total calls the Department receives and responds to each week. Winters Police Department reports received and/or investigated from Sunday,

January 15, through Saturday, January 21, 1995. Winters Police Officers: • received a report of a theft of a trailer in the 600 block of N. Fannin. It was learned a few days later after the report that the trailer had been borrowed by a party and not stolen. The case was listed as unfounded. • responded to a reported family disturbance in the 500 block of S. Melwood. There was no evidence of physical evidence and a separation of the parties was made.

· filed charges on Michael Hernandez, 19, of Winters, for Evading Detenion. • investigated a report of a criminal mischief in the 200 block of Poplar in which person(s) unknown wrote vulgar language on the doors of a building.

by STAN BICKEL, RON EDINGTON, RONNIE VANICEK, and DAVID VINSON contest organizers

The Big Buck Contest came to an end with the closing of hunting season. Short spring and summer rains affected antler development on the young age bucks, but overall weights and condition were good due to the fall rains.

First through third places were awarded for Big Buck, Spike, Doe, 3-Doe-Tag, and Turkey; a winner was also named for the Oldest Deer. Awards were given in the 12 and under category for first place in each division as well. Individual drawings were held for each weigh-in category with an overall drawing for all entrants in the contest. A total of 26 prizes were awarded.

Rick Wleczyk was awarded first place for bringing in the biggest buck—a 12-point with a a .270 Browning bolt rifle. Pamela Guelker took second place with an eleven-point, weighing 148 pounds, being 3 1/2-yearsold. A Simmons spotting scope was given to Pamela. Third place winner, Myron Pate, was awarded with Simmons 10x50 binoculars. His buck racked 14 points spreading 18 inches, weighed 88 pounds, and was about 4 1/2-years-old.

Winners in other divisions are as follows:

Spike: 1st-Richard Halfmann, .270 Remington ADL; 2nd - Cody Hatfield, Gerber Multi-Pliers; 3rd - Jimmy Freeman, Buck light

Doe: 1st - Roy McNelley, .270 Remington ADL; 2nd - Sy Teaff, Gerber multi-pliers; 3rd - David Rural Hero nominations Miracle, Buck light knife.

3-Doe-Tag: 1st - Steve Jansa, .270 Remington ADL; 2nd - Jason Winkler, Gerber multi-pliers; 3rd - Joe Dankworth, Buck light knife.

Turkey: 1st - Lance Rausch, 870 Remington Express shotgun; 2nd - John McAlister, Gerber Gator knife; 3rd - Rex Ross, Buck Trekker knife.

Oldest Deer (7 1/2-years-old): Tony Harral, .22 Marlin semiautomatic rifle.

Overall drawing for all entrants: 1st - Jeremy Hardgorve, Si Smith handmade knife; 2nd- Glenn Pullin, Buck Outback knife; 3rd -Ronald McNaley, Swiss Huntsman knife.

Individual drawing for weighin categories (each received a Swiss Huntsman knive): Buck - Paint Rock.

spread of 19 1/2 inches, weighing Brent Jones; Doe - Brandon Halfmann; Spike - Brent Cranfill; 1/2-years-old. Rick was awarded Turkey - Kay Halfmann; 3-Doe-Tag - Norman Halfmann.

Due to multiple winners in the 3-Doe category, each entrant having won a prize somewhere else in the contest, the last place entrant lucked out by winning the drawing prize. Can you beat that! Everyone needs to look at this category real hard for next year. Shoot those does early in the season when they are still carrying good body condition.

12 and under: Buck: Jeffery Earnshaw, Simmons 10x50 binoculars; Doe: D.J. Fuchs, 10x50 binoculars; Spike and Turkey: no entrants.

In an effort to increase interest in the 3-Doe-Tag category for next year, prizes will be given the same for first through third places as are given for the Big Buck category.

Several ties in the top places and entrants placing in multiple categories, allowed some people placing in the lower standings to end up winning a prize (entrants are allowed one prize only).

Thanks to KRUN radio, The Ballinger Ledger, and The Winters Enterprise for their coverage of this event. Special thanks goes to Wal-Mart for donating the shotgun for the Turkey category and to Si Smith for his beautiful handmade knife for the overall drawing prize.

As before, donations from the contest are made to the Ballinger, Winters, and Paint Rock stock shows; West Texas Boys Ranch; West Texas Rehab; Christmas in April; and the Crozier Library in
