Lady Blizzards freeze Jim Ned to end district with 10-0 record

Will meet Eldorado in bi-district contest on Friday

by Jean Boles

Who needs the Dallas Cowboys in the Super Bowl when Winters has the Lady Blizzards playing Jim Ned?

Especially when the Lady Blizzards can change the tempo and momentum of the game to come out the 42-36 winner.

Such was the case in last Friday night's showdown in Tuscola.

Tension was high and the fans were loud as the showdown began before an overflowing crowd.

The Lady Blizzards were already declared district 6-2A champions, winning the first half of play undefeated. Winters was undefeated in second half of district competition going into Friday's contest. Jim Ned lost to Wall earlier and needed to beat Winters for a playoff berth as district runner-up.

Apparently, the Lady Blizzards had other plans for the Lady Indians.

Jim Ned got the tipoff and raced down the court for a quick two point layup.

The Lady Blizzards, under the guidance of coaches Will Corley and Debra Whittenburg, made a surprising tactic by going into their full court "spread" stall on their first possession of the game although they were trailing 2-0.

The Lady Blizzards kept their composure and completed a very effective stall, running the clock down to 1:40 before Karolen Biddix drove to the basket for the layup. She was fouled on the shot and sank both free throws.

On their next possession, Jim Ned scored three points. Then Lady Blizzards Janet Guy sank a 3-pointer before the clock ran out. The first quarter ended with a 5-5 tie.

The pace of the game quickened in the next quarter and the Lady Indians went to the dressing room at halftime with a 22-19 lead.

Competition was evenly matched for most of the third quarter. With 4:14 left, Winters was ahead 25-24. The Lady Indians scored five quick points while the Lady Blizzards answered with seven points, ending the third period leading 32-29.

The fourth quarter was apparently a lesson in frustration for the Lady Indians as Winters again used their full court spread to change the pace of the game.

With about a minute off the clock, the Lady Blizzards held the ball, unchallenged by Jim Ned, taking the clock to 6:00 in the fourth quarter. The Lady Indians finally made an effort and fouled Rachel Edwards, who hit both ends of the bonus free throws, pushing the lead for Winters 34-29.

With 3:56 left to play, a foul on Winters sent the Jim Ned player to the free throw line for one point. Winters came back with the short jumper underneath and the score stood 36-30, Winters.

Jim Ned sparked and hit two shots from the floor, narrowing the score to 36-34.

With less than two minutes left, Lady Blizzards Janet Guy hit two free throws but Jim Ned came right back and scored two quick points.

With less than one minute left, Winters turned the ball over and Jim Ned drove to the basket but missed the layup. Brooke Killough got fouled on the rebound and hit both free throws for the Lady Blizzards, pushing the lead to 40-36.

Winters stole the ball from the Lady Indians and attempted to stall again. Jim Ned wasted no time in fouling Rachel Edwards who struggled a little during the evening after sustaining an injury last Tuesday night.

Karolen Biddix came up with ball for the Lady Blizzards with seven seconds left to play and hit both free throws after being fouled.

The clock ran out of time and Jim Ned ran out of basketball season.

For the second year in a row the Lady Blizzards came away with the district 6-2A championship.

Coach Corley said, "I am extremely proud of these young ladies. To go 10-0 in a district this tough is very special, especially when we can beat excellent ball clubs like Jim Ned and Stanton."

High scorers for the Lady Blizzards were Karolen Biddix with 11, and Rachel Edwards with 10.

When asked about his reason for using the full court spread, especially when Winters was behind, Corley said, "We had to get Jim Ned out of their zone and do something to take off the tension. We weren't as healthy as we've been and probably couldn't play full speed for four quarters."

Although three starters for the Lady Blizzards played with injuries, they should all be back, fully recovered, for Friday's playoff game.

The Lady Blizzards will meet Eldorado in bi-district competition this Friday, Feb. 17, at 7:30 p.m. at Howard College coliseum in Big Spring.

Eldorado has a strong point guard who has been averaging about 20 points per game.

Directions to the coliseum are on page 5. Restaurant guides are available at the Winters Enterprise office.

Stanton, district runner-up, will meet Ozona in playoff action.

Council bans glass containers from Community Center, promotes V. Skaggs to Sergeant

Effective March 1, 1995, the City Council unanimously voted to ban glass containers from the Winters Community Center.

Police officer Virginia Skaggs presented to the Council that glass containers introduced a danger to all people in the Community Center. She stated, "Glass was a danger to children and glass bottles could also be used as weapons."

The March 1 date was set as to allow the fire department to have their dance in the community center with the glass ban not in effect.

Bobby Blackwood, representing the Winters Volunteer Fire Department, asked that the ban be put into effect after the fire department dance because there was insufficient time to advertise and tell people that no glass containers will be allowed.

Just previous to this action, the City Council had passed a motion to allow the Winters Volunteer Fire Department to have a fund raising dance in the Community Center at no charge.

In other action in the Monday, February 13, meeting, J.B. Guy Jr. requested that a portion of Charles and Farrar Streets be closed. Charles Street borders the south side of Guy's Construction and Farrar borders the east.

Guy stated that the two streets in that area are natural waterways for drainage of that part of the city. He also said that this makes them very slick and muddy.

"When they get real muddy, kids like to drive their vehicles on those streets to slip and slide around," Guy said.

Charles Grenwelge owns property on the east side of Farrar Street and opposed the closing of the streets. He stated that if the streets were closed he might not be able to sell his property because of no access.

Grenwelge is also the City Street Superintendent and stated that a new pipeline was going to be laid down those streets and that was why no surface material had been put on the streets.

He also acknowledged that the streets were natural waterways and that they got slick and muddy when it rained. Grenwelge hoped that after the pipeline work was finished he could put caliche on the roads.

The Council voted unanimously to not close the roads.

Ten more lots were approved to be built in the Lakeview Cemetery.

The Council went into executive session at 7:00 p.m. concerning consultation with City Attorney and duty reassignment of an employee.

At 7:45 p.m., the meeting was reconvened. No action was taken on the consultation with the city attorney.

A motion was made to promote Virginia Skaggs to the position of Sergeant in the police department with a one step pay raise.

City Administrator Aref Hassan reported that the company of Texas Courts and Windscreens has agreed to do the repairs on the Ted Meyer Park tennis courts for the amount of money raised, $3,500. The work should begin in March.

Hassan also reported that he had completed a continuing education course for the renewal of his plumbing inspector's license.

The franchise tax was received from West Texas Utilities in the amount of $29,215. The budgeted amount was $26,500.

Council members present were David Evans, Manuel Esquivel, Garry Goff, Nelan Bahlman, and Mayor Joe Gerhart. Shirley Hall was absent.

SADIE, THE KID GOAT, and owner Ms. Alice Hale visited the Head Start children during an outside "Show and Tell". The goat, as most kids, was very active—playfully running and jumping—standing still just long enough to snip a bite when offered.

Congratulations, Lady Blizzards!

OIL BUSINESS . . .

By Reg Boles ©1995

I've done enough bashing of the U.S. Department of Energy over the last year, so it is time I balanced that with a little good news from the DOE.

It may be abolished. Just kidding! Actually, the guys and gals there have some positive things I want to tell you about.

The Deputy Assistant Secretary for Gas and Petroleum Technology (if they can't cut their budget, maybe they can trim their titles) is a geologist with real honest-to-goodness oil patch experience. He has 16 years of experience, mostly in the Gulf of Mexico with some majors and independents. Mr. Reginald Spiller touts their recent track record in research that promotes production at home. He also has some refreshing ideas about who knows what.

He says that the petroleum industry knows more about the oil business than the government ever will. That is certainly a good start.

The DOE is now focusing on making their research more timely and applicable. They are striving to fill a void of sorts that is left by the majors' exodus from the research area.

They have provided straight research, and they have funded research by industry participants, as well. The DOE has now set up a system to share information from other sources and from within the oil patch to aid in solutions to field and reservoir problems.

This has been met with some kudos from the oil patch. Folks have recognized the good job of this part of the DOE and have stated their appreciation.

The bottom-line is that the industry has been able to bring a wish list to the DOE and they have provided answers and research towards new applications that really work.

Some of this started in previous administrations, but the research arm of the DOE has continued to improve under the current President and Secretary of Energy.

Now, if the DOE can do the same thing with a non-research agenda, like incentives (in any form) and real political support to promote development in the U.S., they will have really shown me something.

During our time of need, family, friends, members of this community, and residents in other counties united to offer their love and support. Embraces or words of encouragement never seem like enough to the person making the offer; however, to us these simple words and expressions could never have meant more. The little things do count.

To all those, much too numerous to name, who believed, prayed, and offered their support or help in so many different ways, we can never repay you for your kind and good deeds. We can only ask that God reward each of you in his own way.

God has given each of us his most precious gift—the gift of life—for ourselves, our children, and our families. This gift should never be taken for granted nor should the rights of others be abused, neglected, or disrespected.

From The Well

by Pastor Jim Hanson

What does it mean to love somebody? I'm sure there are a lot of answers to that question. Many books have been written about love. But, for me, the most meaningful definition is "To love is to listen." I really discovered that when I was dating Ramona, before we were married. I had dated a number of women in my life, but, Ramona was different. When I took her out to dinner, she didn't look all over the room to see who was in the room, and who might be noticing her. She had eyes only for me. And, when I talked, she listened, she really listened to me. By opening her ears, she opened her heart to me. She didn't try to correct me, or steer the conversation to her agenda. She received me. I fell in love. "To love is to listen."

A number of years ago someone, I've forgotten who, wrote a book entitled "The Listener." The author wrote about several different people, in different situations. Each one went to a building, a kind of chapel. There was a screen, separating the person from the listener on the other side. Each one would come alone, and talk to the screen, until they had said all they had to say. They went deeper and deeper into their well. After so long, when they were all talked out, they left. Healed. Restored. The reader never knew who was on the other side of the screen. Nor did the characters in the book. It had to be God.

When I was ministering in Crookston, Minnesota, a young woman came to me, terribly upset. She said that "Nobody listens to me. My parents don't listen to me. My brother doesn't listen to me." So, I made a deal with her. I said that she could come and see me once a week, and, for one hour, I would listen. Just listen. Make no comments. Give no direction. Just listen. She agreed. After about six months she said, "I'm okay now. Thanks for listening."

By nature I'm a talker. But I'm glad that there are times when I will just listen. When I was early in my ministry, a psychiatrist in Billings, Montana, offered a group of us pastors 2 full mornings a month an opportunity to learn how to do some counseling. What he really taught us was how to listen. He said, "Good counselors are good listeners."

The young woman I referred to earlier in this column came to me, so excited, one day. She said, "Pastor, it really works." What had happened was that a friend of hers had had a series of mishaps and had gone into a deep depression. She went to see her friend. When I asked her what happened, she told me that for 3 days her friend said little or nothing. But, about half way through the 4th day, she opened up, and talked almost non-stop for 6 hours. She literally talked herself out of her depression. All she really needed was a listener. To love is to listen.

The other day I called my oldest son. His 5-year-old daughter answered the phone. I said, "This is Pastor Hanson. I want to talk with Nathan." Her response was, "Well, he isn't...Grandpa, is that you grandpa? Hi grandpa." My heart was warmed. She recognized my voice. She heard me. To listen is to love.

God is a listener. Every time we pray, He hears. He listens. As we continue to talk to Him, we go deeper into our well, it's as if He were Anna. He really hears us. His heart is warmed and so are ours. He loves to listen. Of course. For sure. For God is love. And to love is to listen.

Poe's Corner

Forever young

The heart is forever young was proven by the adults who attended the Triple L valentine party at the First Baptist Church Thursday.

Participants drew valentines from a fancy decorated box provided by Verline Anthis; told what each one had written on it; also described what they did in school days to celebrate the day. Most made their own valentines to give away.

The card I drew was a cute little skunk who said "You're scent-sational. Be my Valentine."

Those of us who grew up during, or right after the war days, were cynical. We said, "Roses are red, violets are blue. Pole cat stinks and so do you."

Wanda and Walter Durham received the prize for the best dressed couple. She wore a red and white checked dress with a bonnet to match. Walter wore a bright colored shirt and a derby hat. A handsome victorian couple that embossed the cover of a large valentine and told the story of its beginning was the prize.

The story of Valentine's Day begins in the third century with an oppressive Roman emperor and a humble Christian martyr. The emperor was Claudius II. The Christian was Valentinus.

Claudius had ordered all Romans to worship twelve Gods and he had made it a crime punishable by death to associate with Christians. But Valentinus was dedicated to the ideals of Christ, and not even the threat of death could keep him from practicing his beliefs. He was arrested and imprisoned.

During the last weeks of Valentinus' life a remarkable thing happened. The jailer brought his daughter, Julia, to Valentinus for lessons. Julia was a pretty girl with a quick mind. She had been blind since birth. He taught her arithmetic and told her about God. She saw the world through his eyes and found comfort in his quiet strength.

"Valentinus, does God really hear our prayers?" Julia asked one day.

"Yes, my child, He hears each one," he replied.

"I pray every morning and every night that I might see. I want so much to see everything you've told me about!"

"God does what is best for us if we will only believe in Him," Valentinus said.

They sat quietly together, each praying. Suddenly there was a brilliant light in the prison cell. Julia screamed, "Valentinus, I can see! I can see!"

Indians of Middle America once used chocolate beans as money.

Valentine's girl is Landa Grohman.

Praise to God! Valentinus exclaimed and he knelt in prayer.

On the eve of his death, Valentinus wrote a last note to Julia, urging her to stay close to God, and he signed it, "From Your Valentine". His sentence was carried out the next day, February 14, 270 A.D. It is said that Julia planted a pink blossomed almond tree near his grave.

Today, the almond tree remains a symbol of abiding love and friendship, on each February 14, St. Valentine's Day, messages of affection and devotion are exchanged around the world.

Although the romantic traditions of February 14 go back to early Christian days, it was years later -- after low pucid postal service was established -- that valentines as we know them appeared. During the victorian era they reached their lace and satin height, many of them handsome creations that are highly prized by present day collectors.

Candy of all kinds has long been a favorite for valentines. The American colonists made homemade candies with love notes scratched in the surface.

By the mid-nineteenth century, candy makers made heart-shaped, flavored sugar lozenges imprinted with love notes.

By the turn of the century, heart-shaped boxes of Valentines Day chocolates appeared in confectionary shapes from coast to coast.

Sweethearts spent an estimated $655 million on chocolates and other confectionary products last year according to the Chocolate Manufacturers Association.

GOOD DEFENSE by Rachel Edwards #14 and Brooke Killough #33 for the Lady Blizzards as they force two Jim Ned players to try to pass the ball during the final game of the regular season. Winters won 42-36 over the Lady Indians and will play Eldorado in Big Spring on Friday in bi-district competition.

Directions to Howard College coliseum in Big Spring for travelers to bi-district playoff

Enter I-20 west at Sweetwater and travel until you reach the FM700 exit at Big Spring, which will be past the FINA refinery.

The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce recommends taking the FM 700 exit due to heavy construction further down on I-20.

Take the FM700 exit and come to the 4-way stop. Turn left onto FM 700 (you will go under the overpass) and continue to the red light at the intersection of Birdwell and FM 700, which is also Marcy Drive. (The Big Spring Mall will be on your right). Turn right onto Birdwell and continue approximately nine blocks to Howard College.

Go through the first light at the college and take a right turn at the intersection of Birdwell Lane and Kentucky Way. The big coliseum should be easily seen at this point.

Winters will be sitting on the "visitors" side. Admission is $3.00 for adults and $2.00 for students. Big Spring restaurant guides and maps are available at The Winters Enterprise office at 104 N. Main. Let's all travel to Big Spring and support our Lady Blizzards in their championship playoffs.

Big changes for farm programs

"Farm programs have a new requirement this year," said Dwaine Lange, Chairman of Runnels County Consolidated Farm Service Agency. "Farmers may not earn crop program benefits without crop insurance." Lange pointed out one of the features of a new law, The Federal Crop Insurance Reform and Department of Agriculture Reorganization Act of 1994.

Beginning with this year's crops, farmers must purchase at least the minimal, or lowest, level of crop insurance to be eligible for benefits from programs run by the former ASCS, or Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. "The new law also changed the name ASCS to CFSA, which stands for Consolidated Farm Service Agency, and we've changed in more than name," he continued.

Mr. Lange noted that ASCS merged with the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. This means that you can buy minimum coverage insurance, or catastrophic crop insurance, from the new CFSA or from a private insurance agent, who can also provide additional coverage that is higher than the minimum. "I'm not going to recite all the details on minimum coverage here," he said. "They will be outlined in a letter to producers from the CFSA Office."

Parks and Wildlife Dept. schedules public hearings

Hunters, fishermen and others with an interest in the outdoors from across Texas can express their opinions about proposed hunting and fishing regulations and public hunting lands issues during hearings scheduled for late February and early March.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has scheduled hearings at 39 sites across the state.

Hearings are scheduled February 27 in Abilene at the Taylor County Courthouse Community Courtroom and in San Angelo at the JP Courtroom.

For the second consecutive year, the department will show a video presentation of proposed rules changes. This began last year in an attempt to provide the public with more understandable and consistent information.

Seminar in San Angelo Feb. 21-22

A two-day Farm and Ranch Estate Planning Seminar will be taught by Dr. Wayne Hayenga at San Angelo's Holiday Inn Convention Center February 21-22.

During the 12 hours of training time, Dr. Hayenga will discuss reducing your estate tax burden. Basic estate planning devices such as the will, a living trust, estate tax deferrals, gifts and property titles will be addressed. Special attention will be given to estate planning tools for those with agricultural interests. Life insurance and its role in estate planning and valuation rules will also be discussed.

Advanced registration is required; registration forms are available at the Runnels County Extension Office on the 3rd floor of the Courthouse in Ballinger. You may also request a form by calling (915) 365-5042.

There is a $75 per person fee and it includes all seminar materials, refreshments and lunches for both days.

Local youth to compete in calf scramble

Kevin Briley, son of Bobby and Connie Briley, and Misty Pritchard, daughter of Johnny and Deb Pritchard, will be competing in the 1995 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo calf scramble.

FFA member Kevin will be scrambling on February 18 for one of 320 calves to be awarded at this year's show.

Misty, a 4-H member, competes on March 3.

An entertaining event whose net proceeds provide educational contributions to Texas students, the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo ranks as the world's largest donor of agricultural scholarships.

Equally important is the Show's commitment to youngsters competing in the event itself. The calf scramble is one of the Show's major programs benefiting youth, requiring a year-long commitment to the animals project on the part of the winner. The athletic competition that takes place inside the Astrodome is exhilarating for both the exhibitors and the participants.

The actual event involves 28 steadfast, determined youngsters. Each contender is equally determined to catch one of the 14 calves. But these rugged animals scramble just as hard in an effort not to get caught. For those individuals who manage to capture, halter and bring a calf into the winners' square, the reward is a $1,000 purchase certificate.

In addition to the winners, two youngsters at each performance may be given "hard luck" calf certificates for their efforts in attempting to catch a calf.

The calf scramble certificates, donated by generous companies and individuals, are used to purchase purebred beef or dairy heifers. These calves are then raised by the winners and will compete in special competition at the Houston Livestock Show the following year.

FFA members to exhibit prize livestock at Houston

Sixteen FFA members from Winters will be joining other 4-H and FFA members from throughout Texas for show ring competition at the upcoming Houston Livestock Show, Feb. 17 through March 5, at the Astrohall.

These FFA and 4-H exhibitors compete in one of two divisions of the Houston Livestock Show - the junior show division. The other division, the open show, attracts its exhibitors from the world's largest agricultural industry, who are primarily professional breeders and ranchers.

Under the instruction of ag teacher Roy Shackelford, entries in the junior division from Winters are as follows:

James Andrae - Market Steer
J.W. Angel - Beef Heifer
Market Barrow
Matthew Angel - Market Barrow
Kevin Briley - Market Steer
Lance Donica - Market Steer

Tanner Donica - Market Steer

All net proceeds from the annual Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo provide funds for scholarships and research projects throughout the state. Currently, more than 1,500 students receive some form of Show-sponsored financial assistance. Since the first scholarship was given in 1957, more than 11,500 awards have been presented to Texas youth at a cost exceeding $35 million.

The 1995 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo begins livestock competition Friday, February 17.
