Runnels County Ag Day set for March 14

The Runnels County Crops and Home Economics Committees and the Runnels County Texas Agricultural Extension Service will be hosting the Tenth Annual Runnels County "Ag Day" on March 14, 1995, at the Ballinger High School. The event begins at 10:30 a.m. with registration, the Trade Show, and a special early-bird ladies program presented by the "Heart of Texas Cooking School."

The theme this year is "Runnels County in the Changing World of Agriculture," and three outstanding programs for producers, ladies, and youth, along with exhibits, meals, and special activities have been planned to make this the best Ag Day ever. A special awards program will be conducted during the evening program in which recognition is given to the Farm Family of the Year, the Agribusiness of the Year, and the recipients of the Pat Lee Memorial Scholarship.

The keynote speaker, well-known professor turned cowboy poet, Dr. George Newman, will present "The Cowboy Way of Life: Readings from Poetry and Stories." Dr. Neman, who prefers the title of cowboy-rancher over his other lofty accomplishments as an author, professor, biologist, and PhD., is a popular speaker in West Texas and hopes he can use his life's work to promote some understanding between ranchers and the public.

Please mark your calendar now and plan to attend the 1995 Runnels County Ag Day.

FAMILY DOLLAR STORES have installed their new sign at the old Winn's building and plan their grand opening for March 16.

As more and more independents venture overseas for their oil reserves, it is interesting to note the great respect the "U.S. Independent" receives from foreign entrepreneurs.

The American oil man and woman are held in such high esteem, they are almost deified. Now, be sure, this applies to many types of American small business legends, but the oil field wildcatter is a hero of immense proportions in many countries where the spirit of enterprise and capitalism is being released for the first time. Nolan County

The budding businessperson in South America, the former Soviet Union (FSU), and other emerging markets are in awe of the risk-taking, mythologically enhanced in some cases, oil patch pioneers that made millions from nothing. They see the model that they can follow to a life of riches borne of their own efforts in these men and women.

But wait, weren't there a lot of 375. major oil companies involved in bigger ways in these oil fields afar? Wouldn't their efforts and successes far outshine the independents?

Well, in some cases, yes. But, remember that it was a small Californian company (Cabeen Exploration) that discovered several giant oil fields in the 1960's after the majors had given up on the area. And, it was Asamera, Petromer Trend, and Roy Huffington that aggressively explored and discovered the reserves in Indonesia.

These were wildcatters that took immense risks and won big. They are legends in the oil patches across the world.

This doesn't mean that the reputations that independents have are borne solely of successes outside the U.S. The successes of John D. Rockefeller (who actually built a company that would spawn most of the current major oil companies), Colonel Drake, and even Clayton Williams have been 241 spread throughout the oil patch all over the world. Spread mainly by roughnecks and roustabouts hired from America to work the newest oil fields around the world.

The lure of making one's own future is great for those hungry to have any type of control over their own lives. They are ready to take risks for the one chance to make their own success.

They say it is going to take a while for the newly liberated economies to learn about capitalism and its risks and rewards. But, Sur. No. 132. RULE 36.

A few years ago, there was a Broadway musical entitled "Fiddler On The Roof." As a stage musical, it played to 30,000,000 people throughout the world. The film version was seen by countless others. It is the story of a small Jewish village in the Russian Ukraine in the time of the Tzars, where ordinary people live, making the best of a not very encouraging set of circumstances.

It's all about Tevye, the milkman; Golde, his wife; and their five daughters. And the traditions of their time and their culture. It's all about life, real life. The problems and experiences of everyday living, anyplace in the world. So down to earth. So refreshing. So unlike so many Broadway productions.

The other day Ramona and I sang a few songs from "Fiddler." We love the play and all the songs. We saw the musical in New York on Broadway, and, several times since. We have the recording of the movie version. We have gotten into it, and it has gotten into us.

One of our favorite songs in it is "Sabbath Prayer." Every Friday night, Tevye and Golde and their daughters kept the Sabbath. Like in "Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy." There would be Sabbath food, and lighting of candles, and prayers - all done together by the family in their own home. In the musical, Tevye and Golde sing: "May the Lord protect and defend you, May He always shield you from shame; May you come to be in Paradise a shining name. May you be like Ruth and like Esther, May you be deserving of praise; Strengthen them, O Lord, and keep them from the strangers ways. May God bless you and grant you long lives, May God make you good mothers and good wives, May the Lord protect and defend you, May the Lord preserve you from pain; Favor them, O Lord, with happiness and peace. Oh, hear our Sabbath Prayer, Amen." Interjected into this prayer were two special requests - "May the Lord fulfill our Sabbath Prayer for you" and "May He send you husbands who will care for you."

It's a wonderful prayer. The kind of prayer that any set of parents tradition - keeping the Sabbath. It causes me to wonder and reflect. What has happened to some of these great traditions? The keeping of entered in the all-day tournament. Competition begins at 10:00 a.m. locked behind each tour group for the Sabbath is a tradition among Jewish people that is 4,000 years old. The basic ingredients are found in the "Book of Deuteronomy" in the Coordinator Jenny Carothers urges the public to attend these games to "Old Testament."

What about Christians? How do they keep the Sabbath, this one day of the week, set aside for family and prayer and worship? We have thank the merchants and citizens from the area for donations to the Sunday, and Sunday School, and church every Sunday. That is our one team. day of the week, to keep the beat and rhythm of creation.

When I was a boy, I loved Sunday. We would all start getting ready for Sunday on Saturday night. That meant, among other things, taking a bath. I'm not sure I always loved that part. But, we did start out clean and cleaned-up on the outside. Sunday morning break fast was special. And we all got dressed up in our very best clothes, our Sunday-go-tomeeting clothes. Sunday School meant hearing the stories, the Bible stories, stories of David and Goliath, Daniel in the lion's den, Moses, Abraham, Ruth, and Esther. And songs - that I still remember. "Jesus loves me." "Jesus Wants Me For a Sunbeam." "Two Little Eyes." Then church. Prayers. Hymns. And sermon. Then Sunday dinner. The best meal of the week. And Sunday afternoon - family time. Fun time. Several families got together. Parents visited together and children played together. It was a tradition. It was our way of "Remembering the Sabbath Day to keep it holy." Those days still stick in my memory and I remember those days.

Our politicians and social scientists are wondering what to do - there is so much violence, family break-ups, parentless children, crime. What would happen if we were to take back Sunday again, and make it what it used to be? Could happen. It's not too late. It's never too late to "Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy."

Waggoners named as King and Queen of Square Dance

Wilbur and Louise Waggoner were crowned as King and Queen of Square Dance at the February dance of the Winters Squares held at the Winters Community Center on Saturday night, February 25.

Wilbur and Louise have been square dancing for over 35 years. They have been angels to hundreds of couples and are still enjoying the friends they have made.

Crowns, corsages, and cake along with many dear friends made the evening special for the Waggoners.

Approximately 80 people attended the regular monthly dance of the Winters Squares. Tracey Dowell from McCaulley called the dance. He started with the Grand March containing nine squares. People came from Abilene, Ballinger, Bronte, San Angelo, and Winters.

A group of us made the trip in the church van back when Fred Thomas was our pastor. When we renewed. reached the cavern, eight miles west of Sonora, we spent some time in the headquarters building of native stone and glass, which housed the ticket office, snack bar, and gift shop. This was good our guide and the tour to begin.

It has been said that the delicate beauty of the caverns cannot be described but must be seen for one's self, and this is true. However, I'll attempt to relate some of the things we saw and the explanation given by our guide, a young ered with a yellow glaze, and again girl named Lee Ann.

According to Lee Ann, somewhere between 1890 and 1900 the cave was discovered by a sheep herder who was chasing his dog retrieving the coon, the large cavity was found. In the beginning, the opening was about 18 inches in diameter, the only natural opening, but today it has been made safety. That is, so that no one will enter inadvertently and get lost.

While we were adjusting to the soft blue of the carbide indirect lighting system which gave just enough light to reveal the interior, water in the caverns. One is called Lee Ann explained that the only other light would be the large flashlight she carried to point out are usually clear. At one pool, we specific spots described.

Some senior adults have said They are located in limestone which was once on the ocean floor. Roughly, 60 million years ago the limestone was uplifted, resulting in cracks appearing in the lime-It is only a two and one-half stone and began to make the foroil on the skin slows their growth. The temperature was a cool 70 degrees and we held on to the iron rails provided along the trails, sometimes the moisture made them slick. We passed through "popcorn alley," which was forentertainment while waiting for mations above our heads covered with little nodes of coral globulite formed when moisture in the limestone moves outward from a tiny crack and deposits crystals on the outer surface of the large structure. Later on, our guide pointed out some "buttered popcorn," cov-"popcorn on straws" that would make nice decorations for the Christmas tree formations nearby.

It is hard for a person to absorb all of the glittering scenery at the Sonora Caverns. So profuse are some of the formations that portions of the walls and ceiling are completely covered. A wonderland of sparkling color from pure white to shade of faint greens, blues, pale rose, and browns was the result.

There are several pools of pure the Horseshoe Lake because of its shape and is slightly colored, they were allowed to pitch in coins for

Reflections by COACH ED HENLEY

This year is really hard to understand. We started out with expectations that included a possible District Championship. But, as in all sports, there were factors which changed the course of events.

I won't go into all of them, because it would sound like excuses. I will say this. We played just as hard at the end of the season as we did at the beginning. What we lacked in ability, we made up for in desire. There were lots of times we could have quit, but we didn't. There were lots of times we could have laid down, but we didn't. If this was a character building season or a major test from the great man in the sky, I say "thank you" to my Seniors for leading us

To this year's Seniors-Zane Guy, Kelly Thompson, Robert Reed, Ramie Reyes, Charlie Burton, Trevor Richards, and Scott Kozelsky-take pride in what you learned and don't ever doubt your efforts.

To this year's Juniors—Mark Deike and Kevin Conner—your untiring efforts did not go unnoticed. You have another chance, let's work hard and take advantage of it.

I would like to say "thanks" to all our supporters-students, faculty, and administration—and a special "thanks" to all the parents for giving me their sons to work with. To my wife, I could not have made it without you!

Thank you for helping to make Attention Farmers! March 15, Sincerely, 1995, is the last day to sign up for crop insurance on the following crops: cotton, grain sorghum, wheat, oats, barley, and grapes.

is March 15

Crop insurance is mandatory. You must sign up for at least a minimum level of crop insurance to be eligible for USDA Farm programs, including Price Support, Production Adjustment, C.R.P., and certain Farmers Home Administration loans.

Anyone who will receive

Existing CRP contracts, ACP cost-shares and FMHA loans, and or wool/mohair incentive payments are exempt from this requirement, if these are the only USDA benefits requested.

Even though a crop may not be a participating crop, insurance will be required for the non-participating crop if any other USDA benefits are being received. Ribbons were awarded for first, second, and third places in each grade level at each school district. Other deserving posters were given Honorable Mention ribbons. In addition, posters from each grade level from all the schools were combined and judged to select the overall district winners.

Each year, the Runnels Soil

Also, the first place overall district winner will represent the Runnels SWCD at the San Angelo Area Awards Banquet to be held in March on the campus of Angelo State Universtiy. At the banquet, the first place overall winner will receive an engraved plaque signifying his/her accomplishments in conservation education.
