Locals grandson gives away scholarship won with grand champion Chiangus

He gave away the $6,000 prize the same day.

The giveaway was a first in San Antonio Livestock Exposition history, officials said. The $6,000 prizes are college scholarships given to the exhibitors of the grand champion in each breed's junior show.

wife Katherine.

"My children won't have to worry about money for college, and it's our opinion that scholarship programs should benefit those youngsters who might not otherwise be able to afford college," said Mrs. Pritchard.

The prize went to 14-year-old Brent Dierlam of Victoria, whose own heifer, Trixie, was reserve grand champion. "We were quite happy and thrilled that Brent had gotten reserve grand champion," said his mother, Mendy. Then they got the other good news. She and husband Stanley were "flabbergasted" when they learned their son would get the scholarship. "We've known the Pritchards for almost a year," Mendy said, Brandon's parents are Dr. Larry describing them as a "wonderful

The Trash-Off coincides with Texas' wildflower season and kicks off Keep Texas Beautiful Month and Keep America Beautiful Month. "The Trash-Off has become one of the rites of spring that addresses one of the 'wrongs' of the roadway littering. A NEW BLIZZARD and its artist say 'hello' to Winters residents and visitors. The painter finished his work on the new south water tower but, according to project engineer John Voller, negotiations are underway to have the Blizzard re-done on a much larger scale as was originally planned.

Recently, I had the good fortune of talking with Daniel Yergin, the author of "The Prize."

To say "The Prize" is a book about the history of oil and gas is an understatement of grand proportion. It is considered by many to be the authority on what has made this business what it was and is and will be.

Anyway, Dr. Yergin has thoroughly researched the oil patch and continues to study its trends and cycles. As of late, he has been studying the current growth in the petroleum business worldwide.

He has boiled it down to three major ideas.

First, the relationship between governments and markets has changed dramatically. Around the world, national oil companies are privatizing, communism has gone out of style, and socialism persists only in France. He quoted one huge European national oil company (that is undergoing privatization) official as saying "no one can remember why the state needed to own an oil company in the first place."

Greater confidence in markets seems to be encouraging this step away from control of markets by governments. After all, with the Great Depression almost 70 years past, people have the feeling that markets can work unfettered by government intervention.

This freeing of the markets conspires to encourage deals and risk-taking, and development that is increasing oil patch activity around the world.

Second, the power of technology is contributing greatly to the ability of individuals and businesses to find and develop oil and gas fields. This has been a pet topic of mine, so no need to elaborate much further. In any event, the result of better, more available technology increases the activity level in our business.

of all — supply and demand.

and prices can move dramatically. of late, so the higher incomes are drawing more investment. This translates to more activity. His conclusions are that growth will continue. There may be temporary fluctuations in price on the downside, but the overall trend is increased activity. We can use good news like that.

Social Security offers publication for Women's History Month

March was Women's History This has tended to raise prices Month, and Social Security promotes its special publication for women as its "book of the month," according to Frank Upp, manager of the San Angelo Social Security office. "This is a must-read for women who want to be aware of the full implications of their increasing participation in the workforce and the role that Social Security plays."

> The booklet, "Social Security: What Every Woman Should Know," describes how Social Security affects a woman as a worker, wife, widow, mother, or divorcee. It gives important information about the family protection she's earning from Social Security, benefit options available, and how to insure earnings are credited to her account correctly.

> Upp noted that although Social Security rules are the same for men and women, women as a group get different results because of different work patterns, level of earnings, and life spans. "For example, women are more likely to work in the home and thus qualify for a spouse's benefit," Upp stated.

Upp said copies of the booklet are available by calling 1-800-772-1213, or your local Social Security office.

GRAPEVINE-Gayle W. Gardner Sr., 76, died Wednesday, March

There is a particular tightness between supply and demand in the oil and gas business today. The supply, and inventories that rely on supply, are kept on razor thin margins these days. This is the result of more "just-in-time delivery" inventory management, cost control enthusiasm gripping every consumer of energy, and an inability of producers to add production at the same rate of growth in demand.

All of the elements in the chain from producer to consumer are tight with little room for fluctuation. We are "...on the cusp ...," as Dr. Yergin describes it. A little too much oil or a not quite enough

A few weeks back I wrote a column on Bill Cosby. Just to mention his name makes me chuckle. Just last night I called our son John, who is also a pastor. We started talking. All of a sudden I said, "John, you've been watching Bill Cosby." We both laughed. Out loud. Because both of us had been watching. And we were in the mood for laughing. Bill does that to us!

I recall an Easter afternoon in Crookston, Minnesota. The children were all home from college and seminary. We had just moved to a new parsonage, built into the side of a hill. Glass doors opened onto a patio and 300 feet of backyard. After three services that morning, beginning at 7:00 a.m., I came home and broiled steaks. Ramona did all the rest. We ate heartily. And, then, sat inside looking out over the landscape. It was a lazy Spring afternoon.

One of our boys turned on the T.V. He surfed the channels, and came across one that was scrambled. We could hardly make out the figure of the actor, but we had no trouble making out his voice. It was Bill Cosby doing a 2 hour stand-up show in Las Vegas! There we were, glued to a tube that had scramble for visual, but good clear sound for audio — for 2 hours! On Easter Sunday afternoon! (I think I wrote about this in a previous column. It's o.k.) We laughed until our bellies ached. At one point, I laid on the floor and whooped and hollered. My eyes watered. It was such fun. Our funny bones were more than tickled...they were massaged!

Afterwards, later that night, I wondered, "Was that a good way to spend Easter? Shouldn't we have been doing something religious...like chanting psalms or reading Scriptures?" I truly felt a little guilt about it. And, have thought about it, on occasion, since. And wondered - Entry. was it O.K.?

But no more. It probably is the best Easter afternoon we as a family ever had. And, in the book, "Holy Humor" (which I have also previously referred to in this column. That is o.k.), I read in the introduction, "churches and prayer groups are encouraged to celebrate 'The Easter Laugh' — God's last laugh on the devil when He raised Jesus from the dead -" on Easter Monday and Bright Sunday (the Sunday after Easter).

Apparently this is a very old Christian custom — Easter Monday parties — in celebration of Jesus' resurrection. It was traditionally celebrated as a "Day of Joy and Laughter" in Catholic, Orthodox, and Protestant countries. I did not know that. Nobody told me that in college. And we certainly weren't taught it in Seminary. I feel gypped. Robbed of my rightful inheritance. What a thoroughly wonderful tradition! And much fun! Oswald Chambers really hits the nail on the head when he writes "We carry our religion as if it were a headache. There is neither joy nor power nor inspiration in it, none of the grandeur of the un-searchable riches of Christ about it, none of the passion of hilarious confidence in God."

Mayfest. My how time flies!!

We are still in need of some activities that we could use: Kiddie Korner - games and projects for young children; volleyball tournament - coordinator; entertainment, and arts and crafts booths. There may be room for some more food booths. Please call the Chamber if you have any ideas or can help with any of these.

The carnival will be here the day of Mayfest, but it will only provide rides, no food or drinks.

I would also like to remind everyone that Christmas in April is coming up April 19. We still have t-shirts available at the Chamber. They are very nice with "I Work For the CIA (Christmas in April)" on the front of the shirt. Anybody that's anybody needs to wear one!

We have had two new restaurants open this month. I have tried them both, and they both have great food. Let's keep them here by patronizing their restaurants, but do not forget our other restaurants in town also.

The VFW, Veterans Room BBQ is planned for Sunday, April 13, 11:30-1:30 p.m. at the school First "You'll be glad you did.

One month from today is cafeteria. This is for a very good cause so come on up and have some BBQ. Tickets are available activities. The following are some from the Chamber office, Hale Museum board members, and VFW members.

Harrell Josey has committed $5 per bottle sold of his dry wash to your favorite worthy projects in town. The dry wash works great to clean your car without any soap or water. Call the Chamber for more information to reach Mr. Josey.

Remember, when you are planning your projects for clubs or organizations, that most of your supplies can be purchased in Winters. Most businesses can get special item orders for you if they do not have them in their store. It is so important that you "Shop Winters First," and don't forget our wonderful little town of Wingate that has The Shed, Security State Bank, Wingate Cafe, Wingate Gin, and other facilities.

Two projects that we are working on at the Chamber are hunting season and Christmas lights. If you have any information on either, please give me a call.

That's all for now, but remember "Shop Winters/Wingate

Martin Luther wrote: "God is not a God of sadness, but the devil is. Christ is a God of joy. It is pleasing to the dear God whenever thou rejoicest or laughest from the bottom of thy heart."

Well, the book is full of jokes and good inspirational humor. About ten years ago, a group of Christian humorists, comedians, jokesters, cartoonists, and clowns organized The Fellowship of Merry Christians. They publish a monthly newsletter, "The Joyful Newsletter." This book, "Holy Humor," is a collection of many of the best and the funniest, arranged in calendar year order. They call April Holy Humor Month, and encourage Christians to be "fools for Christ's sake" on April Fool's Day, following another ancient Christian tradition of "holy fools."

Why not? For as the introduction says, "On the very eve of His crucifixion, Jesus said to His disciples: "These things I have spoken to you that my joy may be in you, and that your joy may be full. (John 15:11). The Man knows He's about to be nailed to a cross, and He's talking about joy! He also told us "be of good cheer.".

It's like the story, true, about the little boy who wanted to be the rock in front of the garden tomb in the Easter play. The director asked, "Wouldn't you like to have a speaking role." He would have no other. The play went very well. Once again she asked the boy, "Why do you want to be the rock?" He smiled, beamed at her, "Oh, it felt so good to let Jesus out of the tomb."

Happy Easter - time!

It Takes Two Things to Hold Home Trade at Home

With good automobiles and good highways a merchant cannot afford to sit back and think of any customer as "his."

Two important things to help keep "hometown dollars" at home: 1. A well-selected stock of quality merchandise that is fairly priced. 2. Letting the potential customers know about the goods by means of consistent advertising.

After 200 years, the best medium yet discovered for advertising is still your local hometown newspaper which serves your local area.

Lest we forget

Dr. Z. I. Hale's love for people and his desire to do something that would be of more service caused him to give up his field of engineering and attend optomertrist school following World War II, where he had a long and distinguished service.

In 1949, he opened an office in Winters. In 1954, he opened a similar office in Ballinger and worked three days a week at each. He discontinued his Ballinger practice in 1976, but continued in Winters until his death. He owned his office building in Winters, which his family gave to the city for a museum after his death.

Dr. Hale also was a rancher and farmer. He was a member of the First United Methodist Church and active in the Masonic Lodge, the Order of the Eastern Star, Lions Club, the American Legion, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Nina Griffith and Dr. Hale were married December 20, 1940, in San Antonio."We met at McMurry," she said. "I was the last of the "G's" and he was the first of the "H's". We both finished the same year."

His first station was at Orlando, Florida, where Dr. Hale and his quartermaster did a lot of fishing. They were out fishing when their wives gave them the news that Pearl Harbor had been bombed. They said, "Go back and stay by the telephone," and they went on fishing.

Two weeks later, Dr. Hale was ordered to Massachusetts in the dead of winter to the Anti-submarine Patrol. From there he was sent to Langly Field, Virginia, "Where we got to see all the movie stars," said Nina. Then to of how to treat it. After a stay in the hospital at Coral Gables, Florida, the doctors decided to collapse the lung and this was done at Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio. This kept him from going with his B-29 group to the South Pacific.

Dr. Hale went back to duty at Brooksfield in San Antonio, and from there overseas to Germany where he was automotive officer during the reconstruction. "I didn't go with him to Germany because Dickie was small and I was expecting Martha," said Nina. Both girls were born at Fort Sam Houston. (The Hale's daughters are Dr. Martha Hale of Rockville, Md. and Mrs. Bruce (Dickie) Gerig of Sugarland, and a granddaughter, Gesila Greace Gerig.)

While in the service, Dr. Hale received many awards and medals. After 1947, he was in the Air Force Reserves, and retired as a Lieutenant Colonel when he was 62, two years before his death.

Being an only child had its problems for Dr. Hale as well as the spelling of his unusual name. year are: He told his parents he was going to buy a long table and he wanted the seats around it filled with boys and girls. HENDRICK HOSPICE CO-ORDINATORS (from left) Jim Hanson, volunteer chaplain for Winters-Coleman area; Lee Harrison, local volunteer; Joyce Bahlman, local volunteer coordinator; Mary Jo Stevenson, volunteer coordinator of Abilene; and Glenn Shoemake, pastor of First Baptist Church of Winters met at the noon Lions club meeting where Ms. Stevenson spoke.

Hendrick Hospice comes to town by JIM HANSON

Tuesday, March 25, at Lions for patients with acute medical Club and Wednesday, March 26, at the Senior Citizens Activity Center, representatives of Hendrick Hospice Care told folks about some new events and new programs for the terminally ill. Hendrick Hospice is the new name for what was formerly known as Hospice of Abilene.

Hospice of Abilene came to Winters at our request (we had no Hospice Care prior to that time), trained 32 volunteers, offered a grief seminar, and has served us well. Since that time, other Hospice Care groups have come into this area.

Recently, what was Hospice of Abilene, has now become Hendrick Hospice Care. It is a not-for-profit care giver and does not bill its clients. It treats all folks who are terminally ill (not only cancer victims) regardless of their ability to pay.

Most recently, they opened an Dr. Judith Warren, Extension inpatient unit on the seventh floor of volunteer services in Winters, of Hendricks Medical Center, and Pastor Jim Hanson is volunneeds.

Hendrick Hospice Care is Christian care designed to provide support for people and their families in the final stages of terminal illness. Their team consists of the patient's family doctor, the hospice medical director, nurses, social workers, chaplains, and trained volunteers. It offers written information on grief support, conducts grief workshops, and bereavement support groups.

They have a special program for "children of loss," children who have lost a parent or loved one through death or divorce. This program is called Rainbows, and conducts two eight-week programs every year in Abilene.

Mary Joe Stevenson, volunteer coordinator, spoke at Lions Club on Tuesday. Jane Seamster, special projects coordinator, spoke to Senior Citizens on Wednesday.

Joyce Bahlman is coordinator Anderson Wing. It is a beautiful, teer chaplain for the Wintersthe Easter Sunrise Services at the Winters Country Club. Bill's sister, Nikki Pratt of Garland, called and wished everyone a happy Easter. Shane Stone of De Leon came over the weekend.

How about that south water tower. It's beginning to look really good isn't it?

The city guys have been real busy. The lake park is coming along nicely. If you want to plant a tree there, contact Rebecca at City Hall.

The City-Wide Cleanup will be coming around pretty soon. Please, if you have an old car or pickup setting around, take a realistic look at it. If there is not hope of you ever fixing it up, maybe you can sell it for junk, just get rid of it. Anything to get it off your place and make our city look nicer. This is the time to get rid of any old appliances, etc.

After the spring rains, the weeds and grass will be growing like crazy. So we'll have lots of mowing and weedeating to do too.

I have noticed lots of yards with limbs and stuff laying around. Please get it all together and at the curb and maybe the chipper can do away with it. By the way, we have lots of free chips to give away if needed.

For those of you who hate to throw stuff away - you might not realize it but your trash not only makes your place look bad, but your neighbors suffer also. I've seen some around that are absolutely repulsive. Not only does this look bad on the owner, but on all of us. The biggest worry is that piles of trash laying around are prime nesting grounds for snakes, mice, rats, and many other types of wild animals, some of which carry rabies or other diseases. If your property has this problem, please cleanitup. Maybe neighbors could put some pressure on those who don't care.

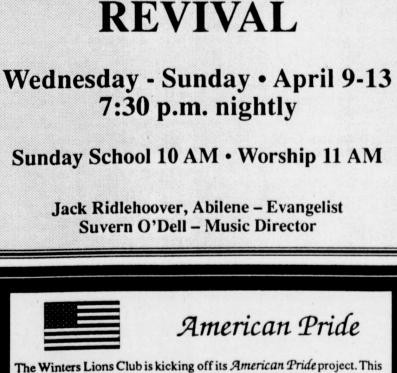

Well, I don't know about you, but I thank the Lord that it's finally spring time.

God bless you all. Find

Elm Creek lakekeepers provide Wingate Baptist refuge for Easter babies

by BILL and JEAN LAFAIR

We now have about 20 ducks hand. and 6 geese running free in the daytime and coming home at night. We have seven baby ducks and one baby goose that we will start turning loose as soon as they are too big to be fish food.

They aren't for target practice, but they enjoy the lake. They usually come up to people who feed them (they like bread most); otherwise, they seem to go their own way.

These days the big gander, Clyde, is a little ornery. We think it has something to do with the fact that it's spring and he doesn't have a wife. If he bothers anyone, they let us know and we re-direct his attention. Normally, he likes to visit and maybe eat out of your

There is plenty of room on the lake for more ducks and geese. We aren't set up to protect rabbits, but will gladly adopt any ducks and geese that need a home. The more, the merrier.

We've been selling duck eggs, with proceeds going toward the purchase of duck food. The eggs taste like chicken eggs and are the same size.

For anyone who wants to hatch ducks, we will save the eggs and not refrigerate them. Based on activities in the duck pen, they have to be fertile.

We will also accept any bread, veggie scraps, or grain. The ducks also like insects, but please don't bring us any.

Self-employed Medicare taxes

Q: I'm self-employed. I heard that I have to pay Medicare taxes on my entire income. Is this true?

A: Yes. While you only have to pay Social Security taxes on your income up to $65,400 in 1997, you are required to continue paying 2.9 percent Medicare taxes on your entire income.

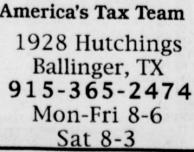

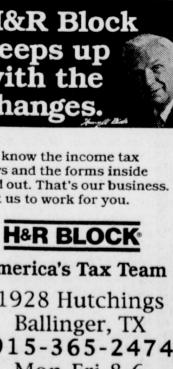

We know the income tax laws and the forms inside and out. That's our business. Put us to work for you.

The Starlight Liar's Club

You can just tell it's gonna be one 'a them nights.

Over by the campfire, Ace is scratchin' at his head through his hat. A sure sign if there ever was one.

Sittin' on a caliche rock, Slim is whittlin' on a cedar stay with his skinnin' knife. And Buck, squattin' on his haunches, is pokin' a handful of fresh clay against the cheek of his left jaw.

Nothin' is said to call the meetin' to order, but the Starlight Liar's Club is officially in session. To be a member, all you gotta do is pull up a stump and give a listen.

"I was huntin' elk," Ace begins, still scratchin' his head with his hat.

"Afternoon found me layin' on my belly as flat as a runover snake, sippin' cold ice water from a mountain stream."

About that time, a 7x7 bull elk comes sneakin' outa' the black timber right across from me. He had enough rack to hang out a week's worth 'a laundry. Appears we was both thirsty and chose the exact same spot to water ourselves.

Iknew if I's to have any chance of baggin' that bull, I couldn't let him get an eyeball peeled on me. So holdin' all the breath I could gather, I slithered on off into that creek like a water moccasin after a perch.

As soon as that elk stuck his snout in the creek, I reached up through that water and grabbed ahold of his head and horns like a stray dog after a bone.

Course, bein' a might startled, his eyes got as big around as a car wheel. He gave quite a jerk and me and him come outa' that creek like a fightin' sow.

I tried to plant my feet and bulldog him down, but this weren't no 150 pound steer like back home. Runnin' and fightin' through the brush, I bounced high off an

After awhile, he didn't gobble no more and thangs got quiet as a quotes that concisely make a point. chicken coop 'fore Sunday din-

I heard somethin' behind the liveoak log I was usin' for a fort.

Barely peekin' sideways, there was just enough room under the log that I could see the feet of that ole' gobbler and a beard draggin' the ground as thick as a whisk broom.

I reached under that log and, fastern' a scalded cat at a greyhound convention, I grabbed that gobbler by his ankles.

The ground shook and the feathers flew, but I held on tighter'n a window sash after a monsoon.

He was squawkin' and floggin' me like a dirty rug at a spring cleanin'. I yanked and yanked, but I couldn't get him to squeeze under that log.

After about two hours, both me and the turkey was 'bout spent.

I realized I wasn't never gonna get him under that log, so I just turned him loose, figurin' there had to be a better way.

So I took my yelper and finished callin' that ole' gobbler around that log and out in front of me so's I could get a shot!

"Kinda like the time I was in Antarctica trackin' seals,' Buck drawls, "when a giant polar bear comes chargin' at me from out of a snowbank"

San Angelo-based Extension wildlife specialist named Professional Conservationist of the Year

Dr. Dale Rollins, San Angelobased Extension wildlife specialist, was named Professional Conservationist of the Year by the Texas Outdoor Writers Association during its annual convention in Corpus Christi Feb. 20-22.

Rollins was nominated simultaneously by the Mason wildlife writer Larry Hodge and Charley Then I put him into an easy McTee of San Antonio, who relope and rode him on back into cently passed away. Hodge said Rollins was nominated on his work with youth, specifically the Bobwhite Brigade and more recently Predators in the Classroom.

"Rollins likes to use what he "I'd yelp and he'd gobble, calls 'silver bullets' in his teaching," said Hodge. "These silver bullets are generally famous

Through his work, Rollins is in- able statewide this year and natroducing a new generation to the outdoors that many of us thought were lost forever.'

The Bobwhite Brigade, now in its fifth year, uses lessons on bobwhite quail as a nucleus for teaching conservation to high school students. There are two such camps in Texas. Quail Unlimited also has adopted the concept as a model for its youth efforts nationwide.

Predators in the Classroom is a newly-introduced school enrichment curriculum aimed at fourth graders. The underlying goal is to interest youth in wildlife biology. The concept, now being piloted in San Angelo schools, will be availtionwide in 1998.

Hodge said, "Once it was known that Rollins' name was on the ballot, nominations were closed. This was an unprecedented move, but it was decided that Dale's nomination was so unique that it would be unfair to others to run against him."

To win, the candidate must be voted on by the membership. A total of 124 responded from the 200 members of the association, with only one voting against him.

"I'm not sure, but I think the one 'nay vote' was Kay, Dale's wife, who must have figured if he lost he wouldn't be gone another weekend," Hodge said.

Pecan trees need foliar zinc sprays

A famous horticulturist once said that the Georgia pecan industry would never have developed if folfar zinc sprays had not been accepted by growers as part of their pecan management program. If foliar zinc sprays are important in Georgia, they are absolutely essential in Texas, especially west Texas where high pH soils and low relative humidity predominate.

Under natural conditions, plant nutrition is not a problem (note the forests, woods, and plants). However, for a successful and productive home garden. some type of fertilizer must be added. But what is in fertilizer that makes it important? And what do those three numbers mean?

The numbers stand for the 3 major nutrients --- nitrogen, phos-phorus, and potassium, in that order. They tell how much of each nutrient is present as a percentage of the total weight of the fertilizers. Thus, a 50-pound sack of 10-20-10 contains 5 pounds of nitrogen, 10 pounds of phosphorus, and 5 pounds of potassium, or their chemical equivalents. That is only 20 pounds total; the rest of the fertilizer is simply inert carrier, or filler, such as sand, perlite, or rice hulls.
