The one that didn't get away —

O. D. BRADFORD of Wingate hoists his prize 42-lb. bluecat he caught on Jan. 30 at the old Winters lake near Elm Creek Reservoir. Using 2" shad for bait and fishing off the bank on the north side of the island, Bradford said he battled the monster fish for about 30 minutes before pulling it in on his 30 lb. test line, Rhino rod and Garcia reel. "This kind of fish just bites once in a lifetime," he exclaimed.

Dr. Bill Tatum, president of the board of directors of the Runnels County Museum and Fine Arts Center (old Runnels County Jail) reported to the court that, "nothing is simple any more!"

Tatum, along with Elizabeth O'Connor, secretary of the board, reported the organization is now legally organized and is working to obtain non-profit status from the Internal Revenue Service. Tatum complimented O'Connor for the large number of hours she had spent on the paper work involved in getting the group legally organized.

Oil Bidness

By Reg Boles ©2001

Gas consumption in the U.S. is expected to increase by 15% in the next five years and as much as 60% over the next 15 years. Where will this gas come from?

In the not-to-distant past, a large portion of gas supply to the U.S. came from Mexico, but this supply is no longer available. A combination of falling Mexican capacity and rising Mexican consumption precludes any meaningful volumes of gas flowing north into the U.S.

The U.S. is having a hard time producing enough to keep up with demand, particularly in the Northeast. After factoring in transmission bottlenecks, it is not possible for the large gas supply regions (Texas, Gulf of Mexico, Louisiana, Oklahoma) to reliably meet peak demand levels in the Northeastern U.S.

Canada is (and has been) very willing to step in to provide a stable supply of natural gas to the growing market in the northern states. This market has been exploding as fuel oil and coal are being displaced by cleaner-burning natural gas in power plants and home heating. Canadian gas is close and abundant to these new consumers.

So, if the U.S. is to meet the growing demand for natural gas, they will have to do it with stepped-up drilling onshore and offshore U.S. combined with help from our Canadian neighbors.

Already, the Canadians are anticipating this growing appetite for their gas by beefing up exploration and production and by expanding transmission lines to the south. Not too long ago, domestic producers looked at this as a threat, but not now.

The Canadian supply is buying U.S. producers some valuable time to upgrade drilling and development programs to increase the supply domestically. It has been mentioned here on previous occasions the difficulty U.S. producers will face in maintaining, let alone increasing, production.

As it is, Canada provides greater than 10% of the current supply. Projections of demand and supply indicate that we are headed for a 30 trillion cubic feet annual gas market. (Contrast that with a 18 trillion cubic feet gas market in 1985!) In the future, Canadian gas may have to contribute up to 5 trillion cubic feet per year just to equalize demand. So, speak kindly of our northern friends. We will surely need their production to keep prices in a range that will keep natural gas competitive as a fuel and allow us to heat our homes with affordable natural gas for the next few

Pastor Jim Hanson

The other day I read a beautiful "faith story". It was in the church newsletter of a friend of mine. It had come over the internet. It is worth passing on...as are all "faith stories". We have enough of the other kind. The title of the story is THE PRICE OF A MIRACLE...

Sally was only eight years old when she heard Mommy and Daddy talking about her little brother, Georgi. He was very sick and they had done everything they could afford to save his life. Only a very expensive surgery could save him now...and that was out of the question...it was just too costly. She heard Daddy say, in whispered desperation, "Only a miracle can save him now."

Sally went to her bedroom and pulled her piggybank from its hiding place in the closet. She shook all of the change out on the floor and counted it carefully...three times. The total had to be exactly right. No mistakes. She tied up the coins in a cold-weather-kerchief, slipped out of the apartment, and made her way to the corner drug store. She waited patiently for the pharmacist to get her attention...but he was too busy talking to another man to be bothered by an eight-year-old.

She scuffed her feet on the floor to make some noise. She cleared her throat. Finally she took a quarter from its hiding place and banged it on the glass counter. That did it! "And what do you want?" the pharmacist asked. Annoyed. "I'm talking to my brother." Sally answered with the same tone of voice, "Well, I want to talk to you about my brother. He's sick, and I want to buy a miracle." "I beg your pardon," the pharmacist replied. Sally continued. "My daddy says only a miracle can save him now...so...how much does a miracle cost?"

A well dressed man, standing near, stooped down and asked Sally, "What kind of a miracle does your brother need?" "I don't know," she answered, a tear apearing on her cheek. "I just know that he's really sick and Mommy says he needs an operation. But my folks can't pay for it...but I have my money." "How much do you have?" asked the well dressed man. "One dollar and eleven cents," she answered proudly, "and it's all my money I have in the world." "What a coincidence," smiled the well dressed man, "One dollar and eleven cents...the exact price of a miracle to save a little brother."

He took her money in one hand and with the other he grasped her mitten and said, "Take me to where you live. I want to see your brother and meet your parents." That well dressed man was Dr. Carlton Armstrong, renowned surgeon who specialized in Georgi's disease. The operation was completed without charge and it wasn't long until Georgi was home again and doing well. Mommy and Daddy were happily talking about the chain of events that had brought all this to come to pass. "That surgery," Mommy whispered, "it's like a miracle. I wonder how much it would have cost?"

As she heard it Sally smiled to herself. She knew how much such a miracle would cost. Exactly one dollar and eleven cents. Plus faith!

I just love these "faith-lifters". They stir up my soul. They've got to be something a lot like the passage in Hebrews 10:24, "and let us consider how to stir up one another to love and good works." Consider it. Faith like the little girl. And good works like the well dressed man. How great. How good.

Card of Thanks

"Thank You" just does not seem like enough for all of the people who have helped us through this time in our lives. We are truly blessed to live in a town that opens its arms and hearts to comfort.

From the time Derek was born, we have had help, comfort, and support. The many baby-sitters, the teachers, the friends who could make him laugh, and the many kids at school who wanted to be his "buddy."

We will forever remember how our little town rallied to come to the hospital to visit during Derek's last week at home. We will also remember the people who sat in the hospital telling Derek stories, combing his hair, and keeping him comfortable.

A special thanks to the staff at North Runnels Hospital, Dr. Lee, North Runnels EMS, the staff at Hospice of Abilene, Don Roath, the women of the Methodist Church, Mike Meyer and staff, Landa Grohman, and scores of many other people who came with prayers, food, and support.

God Bless You All Roy, Ann, Dalton & Devon Shackelford

Wow!!! When one is in need in our community, the outpouring of love and concern is just overwhelming. We have felt that energy, prayers, and concern and they have made a very stressful and difficult time easier.

All of our loyal friends and employees at school have been such a great help and both of our minds have been a little less stressed because of the help and initiative of those people.

We appreciate all the prayers, encouraging cards, and flowers that have been offered on our behalf. Blizzard Power is just the thing to keep all of us going. Once again, you all have proven that!

Thank you so much. Bill & Cindy Cathey and Girls

Card of Thanks

During our time of bereavement for our beloved mother, mother-in-law, and grandmother, we have been so grateful for all the food, flowers, memorials, and especially the prayers that were offered during this time.

Once again, living in a small town has proven to be so uplifting for all of our family. Doris had lived in this area for a very long time and had many friends and business clients that she had been faithful to for many years.

Her last few years had been a struggle physically, but she never let her friends and family get down about the way life had been for her. She enjoyed her life and our family has been blessed to have her for as long as we have.

Please continue to remember all of us, because this is still not an easy time and your prayers will be appreciated.

Thank you all again for everything done in Doris Cathey Smith's honor.

Trustees did, however, adopt a resolution calling for May 5, 2001, as the trustee election date for Place 1 and Place 7. Place 7 (which is an at-large position) is currently held by Larry Walker who says he will not seek another term. Allen Andrae, current board president, serves in Place 1, and has not expressed whether or not he will run for re-election.

Anyone seeking a position on the school board should file their candidacy in writing, indicating ruary 19, 2001, through March 21, 2001.

Early voting will be conducted at the WISD Business Office between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. beginning April 18, 2001, through May 1, 2001. Early voting clerks are Rhonda Goetz, Jimmy Butler and Wes Hays, Jr. Marlene Smith will serve as election judge on May 5.

Trustees also approved the application to offer Internet Networking Technologies I and II, pending further information from the district they seek, from Feb- beginning with the 2001-2002 academic school year. These classes will be in association with Cisco Networking Academy and will be internet based.

Board members decided to meet on Monday, February 19, 2001, at 5 p.m in the school cafeteria to set goals and priorities for the school district. This meeting is open to the public.

The next regular board meeting will be Monday, March 12, at 6:30 p.m. in the administration building.

wishing to volunteer for one of these work teams should contact the captain.

Monetary donations are down from previous years and would be greatly appreciated by CIA. Any individual, business, or organization wishing to make a contribution may send it to: Christmas In April, P.O. Box 262, Winters, Texas, 79567.

All financial contributions go directly towards the purchase of material/supplies to repair homes which have been selected based on set guidelines including financial need, age (elderly) and/or disability, and direct improvement of the living environment for health and safety purposes.

This annual service project brings community members, from all walks of life, together in a day of fellowship while helping those who are unable to help themselves. Winters joined the national CIA organization in 1994 and has repaired nearly 50 area homes since that time.

Contentment is not the fulfillment of what you want, but the realization of how much you already have.

COUNTY, continued

All commissioners, County Judge Marilyn Egan, County Auditor Darlene Smith and County Treasurer Margarette Smith were present for the meeting.

The luncheon will be Thursday, February 22, from 11a.m. to 1 p.m. The menu will be sliced ham, scalloped potatoes or sweet potatoes, green beans, and angel food cake with cherries and whipped topping. Also available will be tea and coffee. The price will be $5 per person.

Anyone wishing to help may contact Kay Colburn, Marlene Smith, or Nina Hale. Proceeds from this luncheon, just as in the past, will help complete the restoration of the Rock Hotel so everyone is encouraged to attend.

On March 4, there will be an open house at the Gus Pruser Agriculture Museum. Everyone in the community is invited to come and enjoy the exhibits depicting the history of agriculture in West Texas.

March 10, is the day chosen for the dismantling and moving of the Blue Gap Post Office. The log building will have to be dismantled and labeled, piece by piece, so that it can be restored to its original, working configuration. Anyone interested in helping should contact Randall

In regular business, the meeting was called to order by Nina Hale. The financial report was given by Marlene Smith, treasurer, who stated that there are no bookings scheduled at the Rock Hotel until summer. Income from these bookings helps to pay the utility bills and furthers the renovation still in progress. If you would like to book the Rock Hotel for your function, please contact Marlene Smith.

Life goes on

Once upon a time there was a skinny, little redheaded girl named Dolly who lived in the country near Drasco with her parents and two little sisters, Lucile

National "Food Check-Out Day" observed in Runnels County Runnels Co. Farm Bureau

National "Food Check-Out Day" was celebrated February 7, 2001, as Runnels County area residents contributed nonperishable food items at the following grocery stores: Shoppin' Baskit IGA and Bill's Grocery in Ballinger,

Lawrence Bros. IGA in Winters and Ideal Grocery in Miles. Food Check-Out Day represents a day by which the average American has earned enough income to buy his or her food for the entire year. In 2001, this was

Wednesday, February 7, only 38 days after New Year's Day. "Our abundant food is one of the great success stories in America," said Bill Bredemeyer, president of Runnels County Farm Bureau. "Food Check-Out Day" shows the great affordability of food and it also gives us a chance to share some of that blessing with folks who are in need." The local Farm Bureau purchased food and invited residents of Runnels County to donate nonperishable items for the use of a local food pantry. In Ballinger, the food was donated to the Community Food & Clothing Pantry. The food in Winters was donated to the Winters Food Pantry, and the Ministerial Alliance in Miles

received the Miles donation. "The people who grow America's food are very proud of our role, but many others, from research to distribution, are also involved," Bredemeyer said. "It takes only 38 days to earn enough money to buy a year's supply of food, but it takes more than 120

GUEST COLUMNIST A Loving Brother

by Calvin Helm

In the late 1950's I was a student at Texas Tech University in Lubbock, Texas. I was married, and had to work after school hours to pay expenses. I was employed by Lang Transit, a trucking firm with docks located at 38th and Quirt.

We transferred freight that came into our terminal from other freight lines to trucks that carried it to points further west, mostly into New Mexico. Several young men worked on the docks there. Some of them were also college students.

One of these college students was from Sundown, Texas, and his name was Clay Jones. Clay and I became close friends since we were the last two to be hired during this time.

Clay was a very good athlete and had played on the Texas State Champion team from Sundown in 1955. Clay had started to college on a football scholarship in Portalas, New Mexico, but had some problems and had transferred to Tech.

His athletic skills were greater than his scholarly skills, or at least his desire to apply them. His younger brother was a student at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, and had passed Clay in the number of credits required to graduate. This was a thorn in Clay's side and was of great concern to him. He was very upset and expressed his discouragement to me just before Thanksgiving vacation in 1959.

The week after Thanksgiving I came to work and Clay was already at work. He seemed to be in exceptionally high spirits as he was singing. I asked him why he was so happy. His response was, "Do you remember that problem I was having with my younger brother at Hardin-Simmons? Well, I took care of that over the holidays.

I asked, "What did you do?" He replied, "I went down there Friday night and we went out on the town. We had a lot to drink and stayed up most of the night. The next morning, after a few beers, I took him down to the Air Force Recruiting office and signed him up. He ships out next week!"

Editor's note: The Winters Enterprise invites prospective writers to submit short stories for consideration of publication. Stories must be limited to 400 words, and will be published as space allows. Stories must be printed or typed, signed, and include complete address and phone number of author.

Dr. Tommy L. Russell is happy to announce that he has acquired the services of a Registered Dental Hygienist, Jamie Lankford.

Jamie Lankford grew up in Garden City and is a graduate of Howard College of Dental Hygiene. She is married to Kelly Lankford, a student at Abilene Christian University. They live in Abilene where she is also employed in the office of Dr. James Brooks and Dr Terrie Lovelace. Mrs. Lankford is available in Winters every Tuesday.

Current or former patients wanting to utilize these services should contact Dr. Russell's office at 754-5538.

Health Notes

At North Runnels Home Health our focus is providing the best care possible for patients and helping them care for themselves. We believe the more our patients know, the better care they can receive.

SIX THINGS YOU CAN DO TO FIGHT HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

- Eat healthy foods. Eat more fruits, vegetables, and grains like beans, rice, corn tortillas, and
- Eat less salt and sodium. Most sodium is found in packaged foods. Read food labels to check the amount of sodium in the food you eat. Use other seasonings in the food you cook at home.
- Don't smoke. Don't smoke to protect your heart and your family's heart health.
- Be active. Do things that make you move every day like climbing stairs, walking, dancing, etc. Enjoy these activities with family and friends.
- 5. Lose weight if you are overweight. Women often gain weight as they get older. It is important not to let this happen.
- Limit alcohol. Do not have more than one drink a day. One drink is:

An alien among us

This guy has been here 30 years or so now. Very few folks are even aware he exists. He sneaked in on us from South Africa during the in the county that has livestock.

His living habits are really nasty. He stays and works and reproduces where ordinary folks just do not poke around much. However, he performs a wonderful service but gets no thanks. It is somewhat like old Rodney Dangerfield used to say about himself "he just don't get no re-

Gene and I noticed them a kind live on every farm and ranch of cattle we held overnight in a small trap. We noted that the next day not one cow patty remained. Tons of manure can also be deposited around water tubs. Yet these areas too are clean in a short period of time.

His job is simple — he is just making love and making a living. However, in doing so, he recycles essential nutrients back into the soil. His tunnels provide avenues where rain can quickly and deeply penetrate. He puts organic matter where it belongs — down deep.

He is not our native "tumble bug" that rolls up "stuff" and takes it off somewhere. Tumble knows his way around inside a 1970s. Chances are he and his couple of years ago. We had a lot bugs are not very efficient compared with this guy from Africa. to realize this guy is responsible He buries it straight down under for saving agricultural producers

Chemical insecticides put him in harms way when applied to livestock for the purpose of preventing face fly eggs, for example, from hatching in the cow patty. It kills his eggs too. If we will just let him, he will bury the fly eggs along with the manure. Fly eggs cannot live and do well from 1 to 3 feet underground.
