2003 Runnels County Junior Livestock Show and Premium Sale is this weekend in Ballinger

Runnels County is set to host the single, largest youth event in the county this weekend, Friday and Saturday, January 10-11, 2003, at the Ballinger Community Center. The Runnels County Junior Livestock Show Association will continue a long-standing stock show tradition in Runnels County by hosting the second annual countywide livestock show following last year's extremely successful debut.

"United We Stand" is the theme for this year's event as the communities of Ballinger, Miles, and Winters join together in featuring nearly 170 exhibitors representing area high school FFA chapters and Runnels County 4-H. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

Recognized throughout the state for their quality showmen and livestock projects, Runnels County exhibitors will show 533 entries including lambs, goats, swine, cattle, turkeys, and rabbits. Both breeding and market stock will be exhibited.

All livestock will arrive in Ballinger from 1-7 p.m. on Thursday, January 9. Weigh-in and classification is scheduled from 6-8 p.m. that evening.

Meat goats, rabbits, market lambs, breeding sheep, and turkeys will be shown on Friday. Swine and cattle are scheduled for Saturday. Showmanship competitions will be held immediately following each species.

Show superintendents for the 2002 show include: rabbits-Rhonda Legg; swine-Clarence Schaefer; cattle-Del Davis; turkeys-Johnny Fulton; sheep-Bobby Patton; and meat goats-Bill Bredemeyer.

The Ballinger Young Farmers will sponsor meals on Friday and again at lunch on Saturday. They will offer a hamburger meal both days during the lunch hour. For $4, they are serving fresh grilled burgers with all the fixings, chips, and tea. Friday night they will host a BBQ Sandwich Supper which includes sandwich, chips, and glass of iced tea for $4.

The Ballinger Young Homemakers and Runnels County 4-H Club will sponsor a full concession stand during the show. They will sell breakfast burritos both mornings and offer hot and cold beverages, home baked goodies, and nachos.

A barbecue dinner will be served at 5 p.m. on Saturday at the Ballinger Community Center, just prior to the Runnels County Premium Sale. The meal of barbecued brisket, beans, potato salad, bread, and drink will be served compliments of the RCJLSA to all buyers. Others may purchase the meal for $5 per plate for adults and $3 for children. To-go plates will be available.

Each exhibitor will sell one livestock project of their choice at the Premium Sale scheduled for 6 p.m. later that evening. All money collected at the auction will go directly to the exhibitors, many of whom will use the money to purchase projects for next year, or finance college.

It is not too late to pledge your donation for the Runnels County Premium Sale. Buyers will be welcomed the night of the sale and donations will be accepted at the event as well. Donations may also be made by contacting any community stock show board member, FFA advisor, or the Runnels County Extension Office.

The Runnels County Junior Livestock Show Association Board of Directors includes: C.J. Robinson, president; Greg W. Schwertner, vice-president; Curtis Kalina, secretary; Sharon Wanoreck, treasurer; and directors, Bill Belew, Craig Driver, Denny Heathcott, John Hoelscher, Glen Hoppe, Jr., Rick Minzenmayer, Johnny Bob Pritchard, and Victor Probandt.

Commissioners approve remodeling of County Extension Service office

Runnels County Commissioners met for a special meeting Tuesday, December 31 at the courthouse.

Commissioners approved office space for the Runnels County Extension Office in the building the county bought at 209 South 7th Street in Ballinger. Plans were also submitted for remodeling by the staff of the Extension Service and those were approved by commissioners.

Commissioners also approved a resolution approving and authorizing the submission of an application for funding through the office of Rural Community Affairs/Disaster Relief Fund. The application is for the City of Ballinger, requesting funds for laying a pipeline for the Abilene/Ivie water line east of Ballinger.

In other business, commissioners:

- Approved official bonds of Marilyn Egan, County Judge, in the amount of $10,000; See COMMISSIONERS, page 6

Seniors to host hamburger supper Tuesday, Jan. 14

Parents of the Senior Class of 2003 will be hosting a hamburger supper, Tuesday, January 14, 2003, at the school cafeteria. Serving time will be from 5 p.m.-8 p.m.

Winters varsity and jr. varsity teams, both boys and girls, will be playing basketball versus Jim Ned in the school gym.

Hamburgers, french fries, homemade desserts, and a drink will be served for $5.00 per person. Take outs will be available.

For more information, please call Cheryl Sneed 767-3977, Teresa Davis 754-5422, or Kim Jackson 754-4339.

RYAN YOUNG, age 5, seems to have his pig under control in the Little Britches Pig Show during the Winters Junior Livestock Show Saturday. Approximately 20 youngsters participated in this always-entertaining segment of the annual show. Ryan is the son of Jason and Tammy Young of Winters.

Enterprise says goodbye to good friend and "Well" author Pastor Jim Hanson to pursue book writing

by Jean Boles, editor

As written in Ecclesiastes 3, "To every thing there is a season." And as we all know, seasons change.

Such is the case with our dear friend and column contributor, Pastor Jim Hanson. Lest you fear he has departed from this earth (which will be an exciting day for him, I'm sure), he has simply decided to follow another path for awhile.

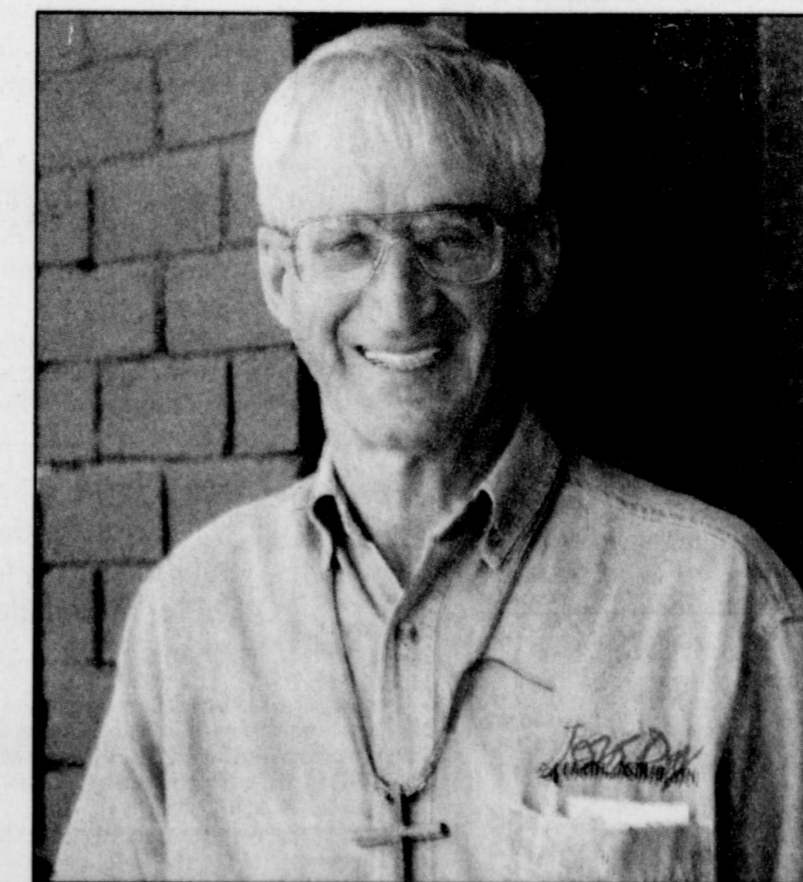

Pastor Jim, who has graciously blessed us all with his weekly column, "From the Well," since 1991, is publishing his last column in this issue. He feels the time has come for him to concentrate on another avenue of writing. He is strongly convicted about fulfilling our Lord's direction for his life, and this includes writing a book. Good for him.

In our visit last week, I told him I have very mixed emotions about his decision. As editor of this newspaper and an avid fan of his writing, I selfishly don't want him to quit his column.

But as a writer with constant deadlines, I certainly understand his weariness and need for change. More so, as a Christian, I understand that we are to follow our Lord's directives wherever we can best serve Him.

I will miss Pastor Jim's writings about Minnesota and the Dakotas, his early years with his family, his blessed life with his wonderful Ramona and their large brood of kids and grandkids, and how they have learned to walk daily with our Lord through good times and bad. He has taken us on adventures which brought smiles and sometimes tears. And he has shared writings of other great authors that I would never have gotten to read had they not appeared in "From the Well."

On a personal level, I was most privileged to be named Woman of the Year by the Chamber of Commerce the same year that Pastor Jim was named Man of the Year. We both laughed about being selected and the Chamber's ability to surprise us. Sharing that honor with Jim will always be a highlight in my life.

Jim and Ramona have also been generous to listen to me whine and babble about issues in my life, and given me good, sound advice.

And they are always smiling — and making other people smile. One of my favorite memory pictures of them is seeing them wearing their Christmas shirts and Santa hats, singing and entertaining at the local nursing home, then holding hands as they walked down the hall. Sweet, giving people. They certainly set the example of that saying, "I may wear out but I'm not going to rust out."

I'll never forget Ramona telling me that someone once asked her how, in all the busyness of their lives, she can even remember the names of their 19 grandchildren. She said, "That's easy. I pray for each one of them by name every single day."

Good words to live by. Good words coming from The Well.

God bless you, Jim and Ramona. We love you and we look forward to reading your first book.

Oil Bidness

by Reg Boles ©2002

Get ready for something you never thought you would hear from a person in the oil and gas business.

Oil prices are too high. Yes, that's right: oil prices are too high. You heard it here, first. I truly think prices are at a point where it is detrimental to the industry as a whole.

Let me explain, if I may. There is a point where oil prices reach a level that cause two important things to happen. The first is that higher prices, if high enough, make people mad, and the other is that prices can get high enough that producers start to increase production, undermining long-term price stability.

When people get mad, they fume over higher gasoline prices and really start to build a distrust, dare I say hatred, toward the oil industry. And, while this response is disproportionate, such bad feelings are unhealthy for everyone involved in the business.

No matter how hard we try to communicate why prices rise and fall, explain that manipulating a commodity market with worldwide tentacles is impossible, or try to frame the upswings in price in proportion to the downward price moves, the general public is in no mood to be understanding when prices at the pump pass $1.50 per gallon. And—check your local filling station—prices are getting there.

Such damage is not easily undone. In fact, it appears to be cumulative. People already dislike the oil and gas business unless they are in it. And, those feelings don't seem to be relieved by a period of tranquility, such as that experienced over the last few years. The feelings are sharpened by every recurrence of price increases. The higher the price peak, the madder people get.

Out of the realm of psychology and public relations, the more technical issue is that of price elasticity on the supply side. When prices reach about $25 per barrel for any significant period of time, operators and investors start to broaden their scope of acceptable projects. As a result, development activity increases, and, from more activity usually comes more production.

While I admit that this response in the North American continent has been muted this time around (probably due to lack of potential targets), the worldwide response has been to continually search for opportunities to increase production and find new reserves. With prices topping $30 per barrel, fringe projects are beginning to pop up on the radar screen of development companies. An excitement is building for the oil and gas business as a destination for investment.

Unfortunately, it will all be short-lived. Prices will not stabilize in the mid-30's. At that price, with current reserves and production capacity, new production that is only viable at current prices will be targeted for development. Not to mention that OPEC can now justify increasing production to try to catch a little of the higher revenue per barrel.

All of this additional production (whether from new fields or from OPEC spigots) will be hard to suppress once prices drop, and it will always be out there waiting to lower prices at the next spike. Ultimately, this undermines stability of the marketplace in the future as shifts in demand and unused productive capacity buffet prices.

So, what price is right? I sure don't know, but I would guess that a price around $24 to $27 would be the best range. Such prices might be low enough to keep gasoline prices in a reasonable range, they would provide good revenue streams for producers, but those prices would limit the financing for inflated productive capacity. Right or wrong on that point, I know in my heart that $32 is too high.

So, one more time: here's to hoping prices will fall, just a little, in the first quarter. Shazam! I said it—you weren't dreaming.

Letter to the Editor

Resident shares God's healing promises with readers

Dear Editor:

We have just celebrated the birth of our Savior Jesus Christ. What joy there is in this coming. Thirty-three years later He was nailed to a cross, died and was resurrected. At that time, He not only gave His life for our sins but also for our sicknesses and diseases.

Surely He hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows (literal - Hebrew: surely He has lifted, carried, or borne our sicknesses, our diseases and our pains).

Yet we did esteem them stricken, smitten of God and afflicted. But He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities, the chastisement of our peace was upon Him and with His stripes we were healed (Isaiah 53:4-5).

Because of God's unfailing word and promises, I claim my healing in the name of Jesus Christ and I stand and await the manifestation.

And He cast out the spirits with a word and healed all who were sick, that I might be fulfilled which was spoken by Isaiah the prophet, saying, "He, Himself took our infirmities and bore our sicknesses." (Matthew 8:16-17)

There are numerous other scriptures promising healing through Jesus for those who believe. I would like to shout this to the nations. I will start with Winters, Texas.

God bless those reading this.

Margaux Murphy*

From The Well

by
Pastor Jim Hanson

Pastor Jim Hanson

This is my last column "From the Well." It's not because the Well has gone dry. It's simply that I believe that I have been called to do another kind of writing. Not a column. Rather a book.

It's been in my well for some time. To write a book on Ramona's and my life together. We have been so blessed. And I'd like to let our family, and our friends, and whoever might be interested to hear, or rather, read our story.

And, there just isn't enough time to do both. So: Thank you to you, dear readers. You have been a joy to write to. And you have been so supportive. So grateful. It warms my heart.

Thank you Jean, Randall, and The Winters Enterprise staff. You have been patient, understanding, and a delight to know. Please forgive me for the many times that I got this column in "at the last minute", and sometimes not typed but scribbled.

I love small town newspapers. I like the kind of reporting and the kind of news that they bring. It has been a privilege to be part of the Enterprise, and I pray God's blessing on you and your future editions. I also encourage you, dear readers, to keep reading it.

I never thought that I would write a column in a weekly paper in a small town. It was a surprise to me to be asked. I really thought I'd run dry after about 10 columns. But, as time went on, the well just kept filling up.

And now it's time for me to try another kind of writing. Writing our story. And even as each of the "From the Well" columns was couched in prayer and "to God be the glory", so also will be my efforts to "write a biography." God has so blessed us that it seems to me that the only way He will get the credit is to get it in print.

So, thank you again. And God bless you. From the deepest part of my well.

PUBLIC LIBRARY GETS A FACELIFT with a new awning and paint job at 120 N. Main. The library is open Monday through Thursday from 1-6 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. until noon and offers a variety of computer services as well as reading material.

BRIAN MCGONAGILL, City of Winters Police Chief, was honored as Employee of the Quarter at the City's quarterly staff meeting on Tuesday, December 31. City Manager Dr. Aref Hassan presents "Mac" a proclamation signed by Mayor Dawson McGuffin. The Chief has been employed with the City since July, 2001.

Chamber of Commerce to host annual banquet Feb. 1

The Winters Area Chamber of Commerce will host their annual banquet, in honor of the Man & Woman of the Year, on February 1, at the WHS Cafeteria, at 7 p.m.

The theme for this year's banquet is "Our Town". There will be door prizes given away and a meal consisting of sirloin steak, baked potato, green salad, cobbler, & tea will be served. The "Bluff Creek Ramblers" Band will provide the entertainment.

Cost is $12.00 per person and tickets are available from the chamber office at 118 W. Dale, Monday-Friday from 9 a.m. - Noon. Tickets may also be purchased from any of the following chamber directors: Chris Bahlman, Brenda Burton, Ruth Cooper, Barry Jackson, Clay Bush, Danny Clack, Sharon Kennedy, Sam Geistmann, Jane Bourdo, Donna Smith, or Janice Pruser.

Tickets will not be available for purchase at the door. For more information you may contact Julie Frierson at 754-5210.

Poems sought in contest

A $1,000 grand prize is being offered in a new poetry contest sponsored by Celestial Arts, free to everyone. A whopping $50,000 in prizes will be awarded during the coming year!

"Even if you have never entered a competition before," says Poetry Editor Michael Thomas, "this is your opportunity to win big. Even if you have written only one poem, it deserves to be read and appreciated. Beginners are welcome!"

To enter, send one poem 21 lines or less: Celestial Arts, P.O. Box 1140, Talent, OR 97540. Or enter on-line at <www.freecontest.com>.

Be sure your name and address is on the page with your poem. The deadline for entering is January 31, 2003. A winner's list will be sent to all entrants.

Blizzards named to Standard-Times All-West Texas Football Team, Super Team

More accolades are due members of the 2002 Blizzard football team.

Named Most Valuable Player in Class 2A on the San Angelo Standard-Times All-West Texas Team is Shane Colburn.

Colburn, a 6'2", 185 lb. WHS senior, and quarterback for the state semifinalist Blizzards, received the honor for his 3,396 yards passing and scored 43 touchdowns.

Standard-Times writer Jeff McDonald writes, "At a school with quite a recent history of quarterbacks, Colburn's name must be near the top of the list."

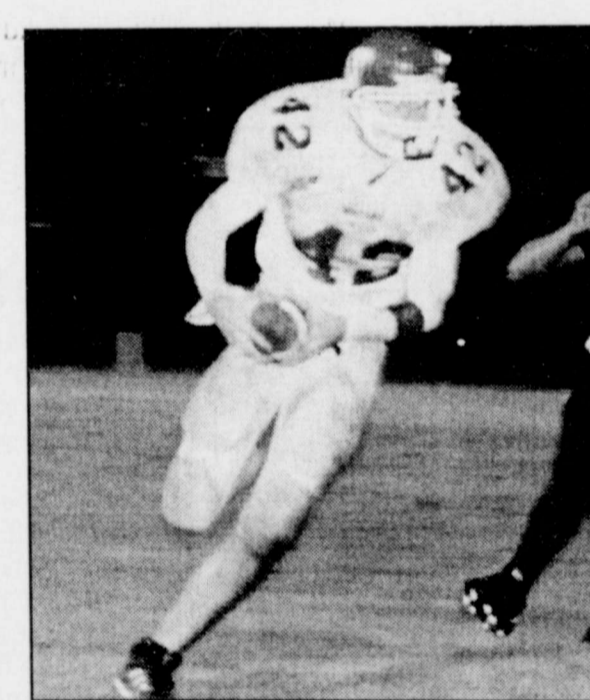

The last time a Winters quarterback took the MVP award was seven years ago when John Paul Belew was named.

Also taking top honors on the All-West Team is Winters Coach Chuck Lipsey, who was named Coach of the Year.

In only his second year as head coach of the Blizzards, Lipsey and his staff led the Winters team to the semifinal round of playoffs for only the second time in school history. See FOOTBALL TEAMS, page 5

Rosa Linda Petty graduates Mary Hardin-Baylor University

Former Winters resident Rosa Linda Petty graduated Saturday, December 14, 2002, from the University of Mary Hardin-Baylor in Belton. She earned a bachelor of science degree in computer science with a minor in business administration.

While at Mary Hardin-Baylor, Rosa Linda was named to the Vice President's Honor Roll in Fall 2001 and Spring 2002. She worked part-time at the Texas Workforce Center in Temple as a work study while attending college.

She and husband Steve reside in Copperas Cove. They have three children: Marcus, 18 years old; Zachary, 9; and Travis, 6.

Rosa Linda first began attending school part-time in the spring of 1995. She had served as a Non-Commissioned Officer, Staff Sergeant in the United States Army from 1990-1993 as a 24T, Patriot Operator/Maintainer and then as an active reservist in the U.S. Army Reserves from 1993-1997 as a 71L, Administrative Specialist and 31C, Commo Chief.

She began school full-time in 2000 and says that is has not been an easy journey on her quest to finish school. "I owe a special thanks to both my parents for always encouraging me, believing in me, and stressing the importance of an education. My children also deserve recognition, without them I could not have finished. They have had to make many sacrifices along the way and I am grateful. A final thanks to my husband, Steve Petty, for his love, patience, and understanding. I love you all."

Rosa Linda is a 1983 Winters High School graduate and is the daughter of Manuel Vera of Winters and Rosa Gonzales of San Antonio.

National Weather Service releases the top five weather events of 2002

Weather across West Central Texas can change dramatically and is typically characterized by flash floods and tornadoes. Here are the top five weather events for 2002 which impacted West Central Texas, according to the National Weather Service Office in San Angelo:

1. The Abilene and Brownwood Flash Flood, July 6-7, estimated cost $57 million, no fatalities.
2. The Albany Flash Flood, April 25, estimated cost $3 million, one fatality.
3. San Angelo hail storm, March 19, estimated cost $16 million, no fatalities.
4. Roscoe hail storm, May 4, estimated cost $12 million, no fatalities.

5. Throckmorton tornado, April 7, estimated cost, $10,000, no fatalities.

Although these five weather events topped the list in 2002, last year will go down in history as the year with a record high number of tornadoes. Thirty-four tornadoes were observed across West Central Texas by the National Weather Service's network of Skywarn storm spotters and the general public.

In addition, numerous hail storms battered many towns across the region. Those hail storms knocked out windows, destroyed crops and damaged roofs and vehicles. One winter storm, on January 1, produced three to four inches of heavy snow from Coleman to San Angelo.

The National Weather Service provides these safety tips:

1. Know the name of your county and those around you.
2. Have a means to receive forecasts, watches and warnings, such as your local radio and TV station, cable, internet provider and NOAA Weather Radio, 24 hours a day.
3. Take appropriate action when a watch or warning is issued for your county, because the weather can change suddenly, as it did in 2002.

The Abilene Philharmonic Orchestra presents "Stars and Stripes Forever"

In this the 10th season of Maestro Shinik Hahm's tenure with the Abilene Philharmonic Orchestra, they are proud to present "Stars and Stripes Forever" at 8:00 p.m., Saturday, January 11, 2003, at the Abilene Civic Center.

"Stars and Stripes Forever," with guest conductor and arranger Ed George, sports a large community chorus and features former Abilenian, Bob Bailey's National Pride March. It is a salute to the nation's heroes, both in and out of uniform, living and dead. Don Gillis' Ceremony of Allegiance and Calvin Custer's medley of Broadway hits hymning the Big Apple (including the Theme from New York, New York; Forty-Second Street; Lullaby of Broadway; and Leonard Bernstein's New York, New York) lead into Ed George's haunting arrangement of Taps. Then John Williams' moving Hymn to the Fallen from Saving Private Ryan is followed by an American Civil War Fantasy by Jerry Bilik, and by John Cacavas' Star-Spangled Spectacular: A Salute to George M. Cohan (including Mary's a Grand Old Name; Give My Regards to Broadway; Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway; Yankee Doodle Dandy; and You're a Grand Old Flag). The first half ends with former Abilenian, Bob Bailey's National Pride March.

The second half begins rousing with Aaron Copland's famous Fanfare for the Common Man, continues with Robert Lowden's Armed Forces Salute: the official songs of the Air Force, Marines, Navy, Army and the Coast Guard passing in musical review. God Bless the USA, Lee Greenwood's smash patriotic hit, and Irving Berlin's enduring God Bless America precede E.E. Bagley's National Emblem March. Then The Yellow Rose of Texas, This Land Is Your Land, Deep in the Heart of Texas, and the Battle Hymn of the Republic are sung by the chorus. As a fitting crown to the evening, you will hear Sousa's The Stars and Stripes Forever. For those who enjoy the best of patriotic music, this will be a night to remember.

For ticket information call 677-6710 or 800-460-0610. This concert is sponsored in part by Abilene Diagnostic Clinic. The Abilene Philharmonic Association is a nonprofit organization.

THIS PULLING UNIT CRASHED through property owned by Scott Gerhart at the north end of Winters on US 83 on December 30, after the driver, Johnny Gray of Abilene, lost control of the vehicle. According to a Winters police report, the unit, belonging to Quail Well Service of Abilene, left the highway, traveled to the right, through a ditch, tearing through a cattle guard and pipe fence, damaging a deer feeder and deer stand, and landing in the Gerhart's front yard. Damage is estimated at $3,000. No injuries were reported.

Extension News & Views

Texas Cooperative Extension to offer Foodservice Manager course certification

Statistics indicate that foodborne illness continues to be a health issue in the United States. Each year, 1 in 4 Americans will become sick, 1 in 1,000 will become hospitalized, and 5,000 will die due to a foodborne illness.

During the past legislative session, a statute was amended that allowed the Texas Department of Health (TDH) to require each food establishment to have one certified food manager.

Recently, the Texas Board of Health adopted rules to implement this statute. Many of you have already received a letter from the Texas Department of Health regarding this. Under these new rules, each food establishment permitted by the Texas Department of Health must have one certified food manager. New food manager certificates will be valid for 5 years.

Texas Cooperative Extension, Runnels County, is collaborating with 4 neighboring counties in manager certification training. This program will be offered for $79 on January 27th and February 3rd, 2003 at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center on Hwy 87 north of San Angelo. Cost includes training, materials, and the State Food Manager certification examination.

This program is designed to not only prepare food service managers to pass the certification examination; it will provide valuable education regarding the safe handling of food. Almost 50 cents of every dollar Americans spend on food is spent on meals prepared away from home. Therefore, careful attention to food safety will help keep customers safe and satisfied.

Foodborne illnesses are estimated to cost thousands of dollars in lost wages, insurance, and medical bills. With these statistics, knowledge of how to prevent foodborne illness is essential. The benefits of improved food safety include:

- Increased customer satisfaction
- Improved relationships with health officials
- Prevention of bad publicity and lawsuits due to foodborne illness

By attending the course food service managers will learn about

- identifying potentially hazardous foods and common errors in food handling
- preventing contamination and cross-contamination of food
- teaching and encouraging personal hygiene for employees
- complying with government regulations
- maintaining clean utensils, equipment and surroundings
- controlling pests

Foodborne illnesses can be prevented by following simple food safety practices. For more information about the Food Protection Management training of Texas Cooperative Extension, called "Food Safety: It's Our Business," call Patricia Hohensee at 365-5042.

All programs and information of Texas Cooperative Extension are available to everyone without regard to race, color, religion, sex, age, handicap, or national origin. We request that you contact the Runnels County Extension Office (915-365-5042) as soon as possible to advise us of the auxiliary aid you will require.

Nationwide search for "Fighting 36th"

The 36th Division Association is searching for anyone who ever served in the 36th Infantry Division at anytime.

For information about the Association and the 2003 reunion in Irving, please contact Leonard Wilkerson, Membership Secretary, P.O. Box 2049, Malakoff, Texas 75148-2049, or FAX (903) 489-3603, phone (903) 489-1644.

Retired Highway Employees to meet Jan. 13

Retired Highway Employees will meet at 11:30 a.m. on Monday, January 13, at Zentner's Steak House, 2715 Sherwood Way, in San Angelo.

The purpose of the luncheon is for retirees of the Texas Highway Department, State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, and Texas Department of Transportation to get together to visit and renew friendships.

Spouses are invited to the luncheon.

Quarterly sales decrease 1.0%

As reported November 25, 2002, by the office of State Comptroller Carole Keeton Rylander, gross sales for Runnels County decreased 1.0 percent for the second quarter of 2002 as compared to the same reporting period in 2001.

Sales for the second quarter of 2002 totaled $44,418,749 as compared to $44,867,807 for the same period in 2001.

Use tax purchases include $121,645 while $14,362,070 is subject to state sales and use tax.

For the second quarter, there were 275 reporting outlets in Runnels County in 2002 and 285 in 2001.

Conservation News & Notes

by Kay Mansell, District Technician

Plant a tree

Don't miss the trees that you have waited for all year. Order now to ensure the trees you want are available.

In cooperation with the Texas Forest Service Nursery near Lubbock, the Runnels Soil & Water Conservation District (RSWCD) will be offering quality hardwood and evergreen tree seedlings for sale to area residents through the Windbreak Tree Program.

These seedlings are healthy, viable seedlings that are well adapted to the soil and weather conditions in Runnels County.

Runnels SWCD will be offering three categories of seedlings this year: conifers, hardwoods, and wildlife packets.

Twelve-inch conifers (Afghanistan pine, Arizona Cypress, Austrian pine, Italian Stone Pine, and red cedar) have a 28 cubic-inch root volume and are $30.00 for 15 trees in felt containers. Bullet-plastic containers have a 10 cubic-inch root volume and are $20.00 for 15 trees.

Bareroot hardwoods (amar honeysuckle, aromatic sumac, bur oak, catalpa, desert willow, flameleaf sumac, fourwing saltbush, green ash, hackberry, honeylocust, lacebark elm, nanking cherry, Russian olive, sand cherry, sand plum, and shumard oak) are approximately 24 inches in height and sell for $25.00 for 50 trees.

The wildlife packets (100 trees in 4 species) contain species beneficial to wildlife habitat and nutrition. Types of wildlife packets available are deer, turkey, squirrel, and quail and pheasant and are priced at $46.00 per packet.

This program will conclude on January 24, 2003, and seedlings will arrive at the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) office in Ballinger on February 6, 2003.

Please consider that ordering early will have trees reserved before stocks are depleted.

Technical assistance in planning your windbreak is available. For more information, call 365-3514 ext. 3 or come by the NRCS office at 2000 Hutchins Avenue in Ballinger and place your order.

ALIVE AND WELL is "Lucky" the parakeet. After extinguishing the flames of a late night house fire on December 22, 2002, members of the Winters Fire Department were informed of a pet still inside the structure. A search of the residence found the bird sitting in his cage, "lucky" to be alive. Lucky is being carried by Greg Tamez, son-in-law of the homeowner, Demetrio Martinez.

Few cases of eyestrain have been developed by looking on the bright side of things. —Anonymous

Police Beat

The information below is taken from reports on file with the Winters Police Department. Some cases may still be under investigation. These reports make up a small percentage of the total calls the Department receives and responds to each week.

Winters Police Department reports received and/or investigated from Monday, December 30, 2002, through Sunday, January 5, 2003. Winters Police Officers:

- were called to the 200 block of Truett Street about an intoxicated subject. The complainant stated he had asked the subject to leave and he refused. Officers spoke with the subject offering to take the subject home. The subject became uncooperative with the officers. They attempted to place the subject under arrest for Criminal Trespass. The subject began resisting and was placed on the ground to be handcuffed. The subject continued to fight with the officers when they attempted to place him into the patrol car. 30-year-old, Otis Liggins was finally secured in the patrol car and was transported to Runnels County Jail. He was booked for Public Intoxication, Criminal Trespass, and Resisting Arrest.

- were called to a fight in progress in the 200 block of Truett Street. Upon arrival officers could hear yelling coming from the back yard. As the officers entered the yard they could see a male subject being held back by a female and another male. The subject was cursing profusely and yelling for them to let him go so he could go after an unknown subject he had been fighting with. The subject pushed the female backwards causing her to do a back flip on the ground. The officers then restrained the subject to keep him from hurting himself or anyone else. 17-year-old, Michael Paul Roman, was then arrested for Public Intoxication and Disorderly Conduct. The subject was asked several times if he had any narcotics or weapons on his person. He stated that he did not. When officers arrived at the jail they asked him again. He stated that he did not. When officers arrived at the jail they asked him again. Upon putting the subject down at the jail he was found to be in possession of marijuana. He was then charged with Possession of a Controlled Subject in a Correctional Facility.

- were called to the 800 block of State Street in regards to an assault. Upon arrival officers spoke with a female subject outside of the residence. She told the officers that she had assaulted another female that lived at the residence. The officers then spoke to the victim. She apparent injuries on her mouth and bruising on her chest. Officers took statements and photographs then placed 36-year-old, Melissa Medina, under arrest for Assault Causing Bodily Injury.

- were called to a burglary of a habitation in the 200 block of West Pierce. Upon arrival officers spoke with the female victim. She stated that her ex-boyfriend had come through a window in the residence then began assaulting her and her male friend that was staying with her. When she tried to stop her ex-boyfriend, he struck her in the head, cutting her left temple. Jose Humberto Madrid, a 44-year-old, male was arrested and booked at Runnels County jail for Burglary of a Habitation, enhanced to a second degree felony, due to the assault.

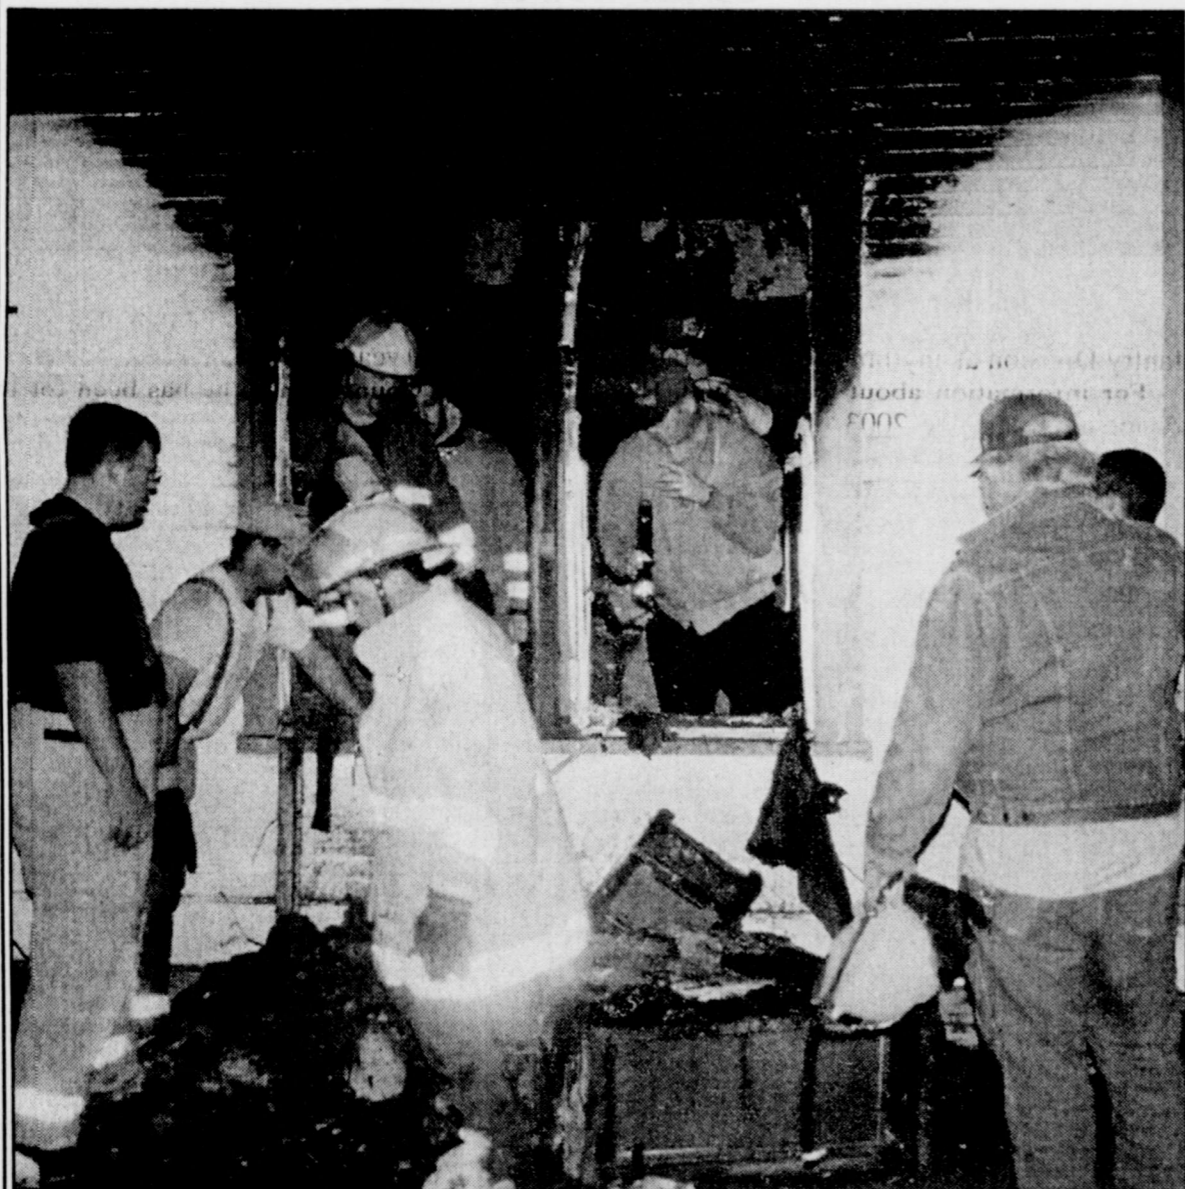

- were in the 500 block of Bowen Street, on a call, when they observed a vehicle, traveling at a high rate of speed, turn onto Bowen Street. The officers followed the car, with emergency flashers activated, attempting to stop the vehicle. The vehicle came to a stop in the 400 block of Humphrey Street. Officers had the driver exit the vehicle. The driver appeared to be intoxicated. The officers located an open box of Bud Light beer in the front seat with an open container in the floorboard. The floorboard carpets were wet and smelled like beer. The male subject was asked to perform field sobriety tasks. The subject agreed to the tasks. The subject was unable to perform the tasks as demonstrated by the officer. The subject was asked to take a portable breath test. He complied and was given a sealed test tube. The subject was unable to perform this task as instructed. Officers then arrested 31-year-old, Anthony Rodriguez, for Driving While Intoxicated, enhanced for the open container.

- were contacted that an unknown person had driven a vehicle into the side of a residence, knocking it off of the foundation in the 600 block of North Main. The reporting person stated she had been out of town since December 31 and her sons were the only ones at home. The youngest two sons stated that they did not know who might have done the damage. The reporting person stated she had asked her oldest son to move off of the property before she had left town. She was not sure if he had done the damage, but knew that he was angry with her for asking him to leave. There were pieces of a vehicle headlamp left at the point of impact. Photographs were taken of the damage. This case is still under investigation.

Investigation under way—

MEMBERS OF THE WINTERS FIRE DEPARTMENT begin the investigation into a late night house fire. At 11:58 p.m., on December 22, 2002, Winters Fire Department was dispatched to the residence of Demetrio Martinez, at 301 East Pierce Street, for a house fire. Upon arrival they found no one to be in the residence and the northeast bedroom to be completely engulfed in flames. The flames were quickly extinguished, and the fire damage was limited to the front two bedrooms, with smoke and heat damage to the remainder of the residence. The fire was deemed accidental and the cause of the fire was determined to be a space heater in the front bedroom. Does Social Security treat men & women equally? Yes, but ...

by Fredi Franki, Social Security Manager in San Angelo

Whenever I talk before groups of working women, one question always comes up. Why, I'm asked, do women often get less than men from Social Security when they retire? Especially since, as some women note, they make more money than many men.

The answer usually comes down to this: Social Security is based on how many years you worked, as well as how much you earned while working.

When it's time for you to apply for retirement benefits, Social Security will look at the highest 35 years of earnings to determine your basic benefit payment. For example, if you started working at 18 and worked every year until you were 66, you would have 48 years of earnings.

What if you don't have 35 years of work? Well, you only need 10 years of working and paying Social Security taxes to qualify for retirement benefits. But if you don't have 35 years of work, then we use a zero for each nonworking year when we do our calculations.

Why are women more likely to be affected by this than men? Well, it's not news that women are more likely to take time off from careers to care for children... or for older relatives.

It's also true that women are much more likely to have part-time jobs than men. And while a woman working part-time may earn an hourly wage that is higher than a male employee, her annual wages may be less.

The Social Security administration always encourages folks to start early in planning for their retirement and figuring out where the money they will need might come from. The Social Security Statement that is sent to you each year is a great place to begin. It shows how much you and your family can expect to receive from Social Security when you retire or become disabled or die.

When you visit www.ssa.gov/women, you'll find information on all of the issues that you need to think about.

Pest Management News

by Richard Minzenmayer, Extension Agent-Entomology

Greenbug alert

Over the holidays, I checked several wheat fields, which were not doing well and were yellowing in spots. I found rather large colonies of greenbugs present.

The greenbug population is building quite rapidly in some fields. The most susceptible fields will be those planted late. Fields which were planted early and/or are currently being grazed are not as susceptible to greenbug damage as those planted late with wheat plants still in the 3-5 leaf stage. It is recommended to check your fields regularly for the pressure of greenbugs.

The need to apply insecticide depends on the number of greenbugs present, the size of the plant, the vigor of the plant, the temperature, moisture conditions, the stage of plant growth, and the effectiveness of parasites and predators.

A general guideline for treatment of greenbugs in wheat is as follows:

Plant height	No. of bugs
3-6"	100-300
4-8"	200-400
6-16"	300-800

The appearance of yellowed spots and/or dead plants is an indication of greenbug infestation. In very young wheat, populations of 25-50 greenbugs per foot of drill row may warrant an insecticide treatment.

Remember that low temperatures will slow the activity and effectiveness of most insecticides. It may take twice as long for an insecticide to kill at 45° as it would at 70°. If temperatures are below 50°, you should use the highest rate recommended. The two most common insecticides used for greenbug control are Dimethoate 2.67 lbs. @ 3/4 to 1 pt./acre or Lorsban @ 0.5 to 1.0 pt./acre. Both carry a four-day grazing interval.

Concho Valley Cotton Conference

The Runnels/Tom Green IPM committee, the Tom Green Crops committee, and the Texas Cooperative Extension staff will be sponsoring their 5th Concho Valley Cotton Conference on Tuesday, March 25, 2003. You are invited to come and spend the day with us.

The educational program is currently being put together and will be addressing such topics as: Conservation-tillage Cropping Systems, Herbicide Resistance Management, Chemical Efficacy in Con-till Systems, Weed Management on Con-till Cropping Systems, Drip Irrigation Systems and Maintenance of These Systems, Weather Modification Program, Industry Updates with industry representatives along with the Southern Rolling Plains Cotton Growers Association Annual Meeting.

We will have the trade show exhibitors for you to visit before, during break, and after the conference. There will be a complimentary noon meal, and CEUs for private, commercial, and noncommercial applicators will be given out to those who stay the entire conference day.

To pre-register, call the Runnels County Extension Office at 365-2219, the Entomologist Office at 365-5212, or the Tom Green County Extension Office at 659-6523 by March 21. After this date, there will be a $10 registration fee.

DALTON FRIERSON, age 12, killed this 9-point buck, using a .243 rifle, on the evening of December 11, 2002, at Windham Ranch in Callahan County. Over the span of Dalton's hunting career, this was his fifteenth deer, but his first killed when hunting by himself. Dalton is the son of Kerry and Julie Frierson of Winters.

Grand Efforts...all the way around!

THE 2002 GRAND CHAMPION STEER AT THE RUNNELS COUNTY Junior Livestock Show was purchased by Top Buyer at the event, Mueller, Inc. of Ballinger. Exhibiting the top steer was Matthew Kalina of Miles who will return to the 2003 show in his senior and final year. Representing Mueller, Inc. at the 2002 auction was owner Bryan Davenport. Besides the corporate headquarters plant and offices in Ballinger, Mueller's, which manufactures steel buildings and components, operates 16 branch stores with four more to open soon. The Runnels County Junior Livestock Show Association appreciates the financial support of top buyers, such as Mueller, Inc., along with all donors and sponsors and looks forward to a great turnout at the 2003 auction scheduled for 6 p.m. on Saturday evening at the Ballinger Community Center. Over $85,000 was raised for Runnels County youth last year, with even greater expectations for this year's event. All businesses, organizations, and individuals are encouraged to attend the sale and support the single largest youth event in Runnels County.

USDA to hold briefing on available USDA programs

The U.S. Department of Agriculture will hold an informational briefing January 15, 2003, in Victoria, Texas, to acquaint farmers, ranchers, and other constituents with a wide array of agency services and to highlight changes and new provisions in the 2002 Farm Bill.

"This session is an important part of our ongoing implementation of the 2002 Farm Bill and commitment to reach as many people as possible about USDA programs," said Agriculture Secretary Ann M. Veneman. "Stakeholders will have the opportunity to hear from USDA experts on the many programs available to them."

The briefing will be held January 15 at the Holiday Inn in Victoria from 8:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. The session, organized by USDA Rural Development and the USDA Office of Outreach, will feature presentations on a broad array of topics including conservation programs, insurance and drought relief programs, food and nutrition programs and rural utilities, rural business and rural housing programs. Other meetings are being considered and will be announced when details are available.

"We are committed to reaching out to the full spectrum of USDA customers, including under-served customers, minorities, and women, to ensure they benefit from USDA programs and services," said Assistant Secretary for Administration Lou Gallegos.

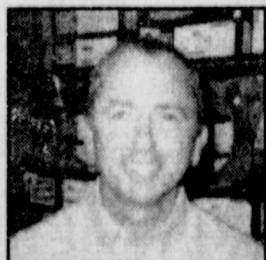

For information about the briefing, please visit USDA's Farm Bill website at <www.usda.gov> or call 202-720-6350 or toll free 1-800-880-4183.
