several uncertainties facing the oil leave us?

First on the list is the concern of how prices will behave with a regime change in Iraq. Prices stand to respond to reduced uncertainty (no war) but also to the level of production that might flow from Iraqi wells without United Nations' (UN) restrictions.

Prices have fluctuated over a broad range since the end of war began to look inevitable. First they fell, then they rose, then they fell again. It is hard to spot a trend, but, rest assured, less uncertainty will yield lower prices. How low? See you local fortune teller.

The less direct, but potentially more important, impact will be higher future production rates from Iraqi fields. If UN sanctions are lifted, then production rates will only be constrained by physical limits (wells, equipment, etc.) and OPEC quotas (Iraq is a member). I expect higher (than pre-war) rates will become a reality, but not to the level that some fear (or hope) for.

There are too many infrastructure problems within Iraq to export much more than the 2.5 million or so barrels per day it has produced at full throttle when allowed by the UN over the last 12 years. Some of these pipeline, facility, and well problems will be repaired over the next 18-24 months, but OPEC will begin to factor in as limitation by then.

Bottom-line: prices will go lower but will not likely drop to catastrophic levels.

Another question will be accessibility to the development of fields within Iraq. Right now, the Russians, French, and Germans have dibs on most of the development contracts outstanding. But, those agreements were signed with the previous regime. Will they hold?

It is hard to say if the existing agreements will be preserved, but

Now that the hostilities are all of the parties mentioned have winding down in Iraq, there are pledged to fight anyone who tries to void them. It is likely that a new and gas business. Where does it Iraqi government will pass judgment on this matter, but there is one thing that is clear: there will be opportunities for new development contracts. Whether American companies will be able to win many of them remains to be seen.

> And, just how big is the development target in Iraq?

You've probably read about the size of reserves in Iraq being second only to Saudi Arabia. The previous information minister claimed that they were even bigger than Saudi Arabia.

In reality, there is some truth to the claims, but it is very unlikely that proved reserves will ever approach those of Saudi Arabia. Most of the discovered reserves are along the Iran-Iraq border running from the north to the south. There are few viable fields in the western desert of the country. Many of these fields will require years of rehabilitation, redevelopment, or further appraisal before the reserves can be tapped.

But, there is no question Iraq is a major owner of future world oil reserves. With western technology and a more liberal fiscal regime, there will be ample opportunities for multinational oil companies to make some money there. We'll have to wait and see if it happens now or later.

Iraq has long been a mystery to the outside world, and it remains so even today. The future of the oil business there, and its effect on American companies, is still a bit undefined as yet. However, opportunity lies there for those willing to take the risks of short-term oil prices decreases and a less than stable political situation.

Is Country Club suffering a slow and painful death?

To the citizens and businesses of Winters:

As the Winters Country Club launches into its 76th year, I wonder what its status will be in two or even three years down the road.

Although not "in" the city limits, we attract people from all stations, grocery stores, etc. We have a policy to try to purchase anything we require for operation of the course from local businesses and we voted to allow any high school student to play at any time without paying green fees. We provide the facility to the United Methodist Church and the community for the Easter Sunday sunrise service, and we hold an annual adult/youth tournament. We have a low rental fee for private parties with or without bar services. In short, we try to be good citizens of 'our" town.

Yet, membership continues to decline to the point that we are having a difficult time making ends meet. At our annual "all members" meeting on April 10, I asked for advice and there was only one suggestion which might or might not help. That suggestion was to change the name from Country Club to Golf Course. The thought was that perhaps "country club" was too "high class" for some folks or they thought they were not welcome. We are a semi-private country club which means that we are open to the public.

Many of the businesses in Winters give tremendous support to the club; perhaps others should see what they can do to help. Every citizen that has quit the course due to differences of opinion with another member, and joined another club should reconsider that decision. Some of the arguments I have heard remind me of the old "Hatfield and McCoy" feuds.

My wife and I do a lot of traveling and usually take short cuts. We see many towns in Texas that are close to becoming ghost towns. How many of our businesses have closed their doors due to lack of support? We have virtually everything we need here in Winters to live comfortably but how many people buy their groceries, gas, or building needs in other cities? We save the hospital here because concerned citizens got together and made a difference. We now have two great doctors and a good administrator, all because people saw the need.

We need the support of Winters' citizens and I am now beseeching you to contact me if you have any questions about membership, sponsorship, tournaments, or just an outright donation.

We have solicited businesses and individuals to advertise on our new tee box signs and have succeeded in selling space on the top of all nine signs. (There's still space for nine sponsors on the bottom of each sign). And while this provided a bit of relief, it is not enough. This club is open to the public. It is not the elitist place that some might think it to be. We are just a 18, 2003, in a Ballinger Nursing Home. group of "good ole folks" who enjoy golf.

Reader applauds apology; asks for another

Dear Editor:

The letter from Dustin Frazier (Enterprise 4/10/03) was very interesting. Mr. Frazier is serving the time for his crime. He probably will pay fines or restitution as well. Yet, he publicly confessed and asked forgiveness for trespassing against the Winters community. This is just as the Bible instructs us to do. If his words are sincere, I applaud him.

There is another individual in Winters who could learn a great deal from Mr. Frazier. He knows who he is and he has betrayed the Winters community for decades.

Pastor's Points

Editor's Note: This column features a different Winters minister each week in no particular order. Comments may or may not reflect the opinions or views of The Winters Enterprise.

The basis of freedom

by Ferris Akins, Pastor of Hopewell Baptist Church

The First Amendment in its final form reads, "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for the redress of grievances."

In the April 17, 2003, issue of the Abilene Reporter News, actor Tim Robbins claims that one casualty of the war with Iraq is the First Amendment right to oppose it. Mr. Robbins made this comment because his scheduled appearance at Baseball's Hall of Fame was cancelled last week. He has been an anti-war critic.

I fear Mr. Robbins does not properly understand the First Amendment. His right to speak out against the war has been protected. He, however, does not understand my First Amendment right grants me the privilege of speaking out against him. This he does not seem to grasp. The freedom of speech also carries a responsibility to respect others freedom to speak and act.

Freedom of speech, as we know it in America, has been purchased at a heavy price. Purchased with the blood, sweat, toil, tears, and sacrifices of our forefathers, as well as our contemporaries. The blood of young Americans has been shed in recent weeks to help Iraqis gain a measure of freedom and so we in America might retain our freedoms (including Mr. Robbins).

Charles Malik, former chairman of the United Nations General Assembly, said that true freedom is the greatest promise any nation can offer to the world.

Carl F.H. Henry has written, "True freedom is whole and indivisible, it embraces political freedom, moral freedom, spiritual freedom, freedom of thought, freedom of belief, freedom of expression, free enterprise, a free press, free elections, but supremely, freedom to perform the will of God. Religious freedom is basic to all else; it offers humankind not only freedom not to worship God, but freedom to worship God.

President Lincoln warned us wisely. "I appeal to you to constantly bear in mind that not with the politicians, not with the Presidents, not with the office seekers, but with you is the

WHS on April 29-30 and May 1-2 Late start scheduled for certain grade levels during TAKS testing

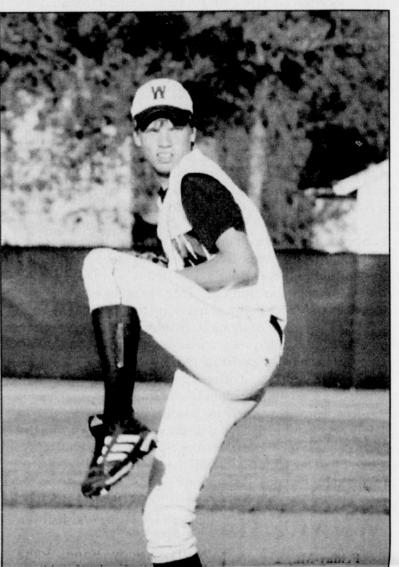

Winters High School students and parents need to be aware of late starting times for school on April 29 & 30 and May 1 & 2 due to the TAKS testing schedule. ONLY those high school students listed as "late start" on those specific dates may arrive at school for an 11 a.m. start. Junior high students DO NOT have a late start on any testing day.

The testing schedule for students and late start schedule is as follows:

TESTING Tuesday, April 29 7th, 8th and 11th grade Math Wednesday, April 30 7th and 8th grade Reading 10th grade Math Thursday, May 1 8th, 10th, 11th grade Social Studies 9th grade Math Friday, May 2 10th and 11th grade Science

"Late start" students should report to their fourth period classrooms.

Allowed the freedom of creativity to design backgrounds and decorate the display case, students also scanned photos as well as researched the military's ties to Winters High School. "There were people we didn't even know were in the military," said senior Kemari Hale. "It's humbling to find that there's so many from Winters in the service."

Speaking about some of her formerschoolmates, senior Ashley Burson said, "I can't believe they're in the military...that they're actually going over there and fighting for all of us."

Of the nearly two week long endeavor, senior Leslye Geistmann said, "It's something small, but it's something to do to show our appreciation-every little bit makes a difference."

Police Beat

The following are cases from the Winters Police Department. Some cases may still be under investigation. Information, reported through Crimestoppers leading to the close of any case, could result in up to a $1,000 reward.

The following information has been obtained from reports and or incidents investigated by the Winters Police Department during the week of April 14 through April 20, 2003. These are just a few reports received each week by members of the Winters Police Department. Officers:

· were contacted by the Winters High School about a theft. The WHS Cheerleaders were selling meal tickets for a fundraiser. One of the cheerleaders reported that 61 of her tickets had been taken out of her backpack. Two other students reported that another male student had given them tickets stating he had found them. More tickets were found to be in the male juvenile's possession. None of the cheerleaders had sold tickets to this individual. The maximum total amount of the missing tickets is $366. The cheerleaders reprinted tickets in a different color and will only honor the turquoise tickets at the meal. This case is pending in juvenile court.

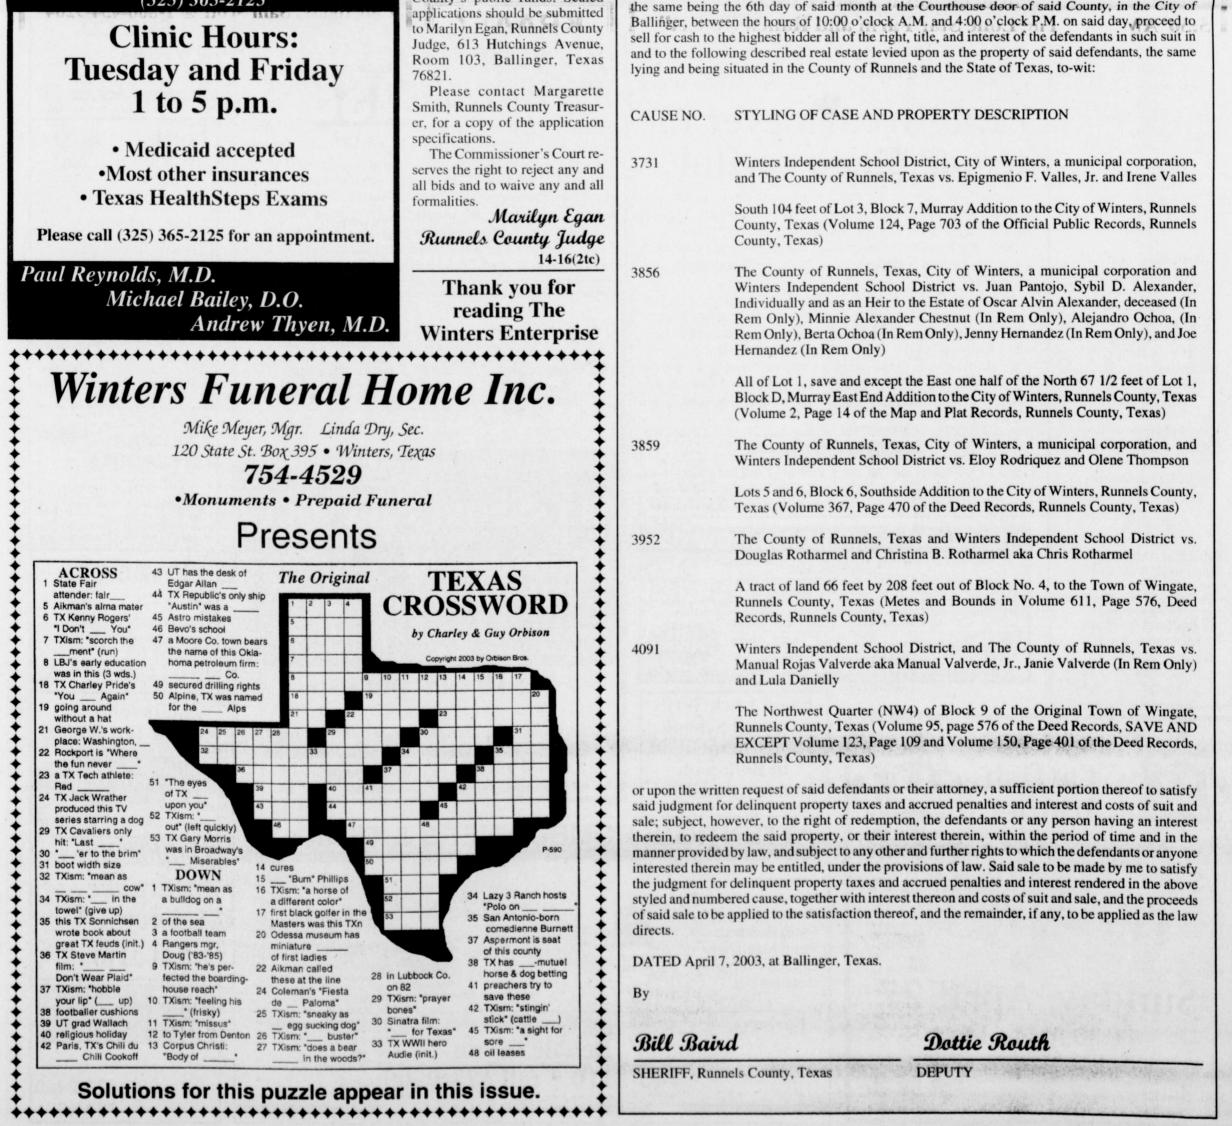

• were called to the 300 block of Melwood for a terroristic threat complaint. The complainant, a Winters male, stated that two men from Coleman, Timmy Don Kinney and Edward Martinez, had come to his residence while he was at work. The two males reportedly told another member of the household that they were going to beat up the complainant. The incident was over name calling of one of the Coleman men's sister. Officers were unable to locate the two men and are still seeking information on the case.

• were contacted about a Burglary of a Building in the 900 block of N. Main. Upon arrival the officers were shown a northwest facing window that had been broken out. The suspect had moved a table to be able to climb through the window. The suspect was apparently looking for cash. The owner stated that he always takes the cash home. The victim stated that he did not believe there was anything else missing. The officers attempted to lift a fingerprint left an another metal box. This is still under investigation.

Runnels County Crimestoppers offers a cash reward for information which leads to the grand jury indictment or conviction of offenders and the caller does not have to give his or her name. To give a Crimestoppers tip, call your local law enforcement agency at:

FINDING THE PRIZE EGGS at Saturday's Easter egg hunt in the park were (l-r) Chelsea Gray, Billy Ochoa, Haley Stewart, Brittany Gray, Jace Young, Joseph Deanda, and Ryan Young. Winners not pictured were Gabby Madrid, Zachary Schwartz, Noah Young, Jake Prado, Cody Henson, and Melissa Doty. Approximately fifty eager youngsters hunted 1,000 eggs and treats donated by Lawrence Bros. IGA Supermarket. The supermarket also donated prizes including stuffed toy bunnies for the winners and Easter coloring books for each participant. The April 19 event was the second annual (photo by Jean Boles) hunt sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.
