Street Paving To Be Soon Completed

The business part of Bronte has been a busy place indeed the past few days. The "big rush" is due to the fact that Bucey & Childs, road paving contractors, who have had their crews at work for some weeks paving highway 70 south to the Tom Green county line, made a contract last week with the city council of Bronte to pave the business district of the town.

For the past two days the roaring of the road machinery, as the surface has been dug away, preparatory to paving, with the consequent dust, has kept things in an uproar. But, the dirty part of the work is over now and it will not be long until the job will be completed and Bronte will have paved streets in most of the business section.

MRS. W. A. Glenn Dies

In the early morning hours this morning Mrs. W. A. Glenn died at the family home in Bronte. As we go to press we learn the funeral will be held at the Bronte Baptist church Saturday morning at ten o'clock, with Revs. Lewis Stuckey and J. H. Thompson conducting the religious services.

A biographical sketch of this pioneer lady and gracious woman will appear next week.

COLD EASTER, AND MUCH FRUIT KILLED

Sunday was Easter, and it was the coldest Easter Sunday in the recollection of many of the old timers. It was the earliest Easter in several years and hence it is thought that perhaps the severe cold weather is passed, as there rarely is ever any very cold weather after Easter.

For about four days—Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday it was below freezing. The fruit was greatly damaged—some insist that all of it is ruined while others say that only a part of it was destroyed.

The cold did much damage to the young garden of the wife of the editor. Beans and other such vegetables were planted early and were up when the cold caught them and killed the last stalk of them it seems at this time.

ATTEND FUNERAL AT MILES

The writer and wife went to Miles Saturday morning, where writer was called to conduct the funeral of "Uncle Dick" Farmer, who died at Abilene Friday.

We had only a passing acquaintance many years ago with the deceased. But for nearly forty years we have known and have enjoyed the confidence and friendship of the brother of the deceased, "Uncle Sam" Farmer and his family, at Miles.

It was either the first or the second night we spent in Miles, in the fall of 1900, we spent in the home of "Uncle Sam." The first two nights we were in that town, we spent one night in the home of our lamented good friend, R. W. Perry—one of the finest and best men we ever knew, and one of the hardy pioneers of that town. The other night was spent in the home of "Uncle Sam" Farmer. We do not recall just which it was. At that time Miles was just starting as a town. These two stalwart pioneers and their families with two or three other pioneer families laid the foundations for Miles which has grown to be one of the substantial smaller towns of this part of West Texas, with its churches and school and with its business streets paved.

It would make interesting reading as to the first evangelical series of meetings that were held in the community and the struggle the pioneers had in getting churches and schools. A decade later the writer became a citizen of Miles and owned and edited their newspaper for some years. At that time many others had come and had united with the first settlers in building the town to proportions that made a town of commercial importance as well as a town of good churches and good schools. Among those we recall who became steadfast friends of the writer who have passed on to their reward were the Raleys, the Hancocks, the Boykins, the Graves, the Glaze, the Voss, the Childress, the Jennings, the Weas, (no akin to the writer) the Alexanders, the Atwells, the Huttons, the Brooks, the Tylers, and many others too numerous to mention here. Some of those mentioned became as good friends as we ever had in life—some of them our neighbors whose neighborly ministrations in times of illness we shall never forget.

Hence, Saturday as we went out to their well-kept and beautiful cemetery, on the hilltops, overlooking the Concho river valley to the south and the country in other directions, and we observed the names of some called above, on the markers that mark their last resting place, we felt as one who walks in a banquet hall deserted. Then, as we looked around us there, into the faces of those present, we saw the faces of many of our own generation who were there during the time of our residence there a quarter of a century ago. They have remained there and have "carried on" aided by others who came later, in a worthy way and have maintained the heritage given them by the pioneer fathers and mothers of the community.

But, through those long thirty-seven years since first we were in Miles and was a guest of "Uncle Sam" and Mrs. Farmer the first night we spent in their home, our friendship has grown and ripened, and for many years we have felt towards "Uncle Sam" somewhat as a son thinks of his father. Therefore, the our acquaintance with the deceased brother was only pass-

Clean Up Week Begins Monday

Next week, beginning Monday is Clean Up Week. Both nationally and in Texas emphasis is to be given to a clean up of every city, town and community all over the country.

Joining in the movement Mayor R. E. Cumbie has a notice and call to the people of Bronte to join next week and make Bronte one of the cleanest and most sanitary places to its size to be found anywhere.

Mayor Cumbie's appeal follows:

To the people of Bronte:

Next week, from Monday, April 5 to and through Saturday, April 10, has been designated both by the federal government and by Texas as Clean Up Week and everyone is called upon to join in this campaign for cleanly and sanitary conditions.

Therefore, I, as mayor of our fine little town call upon you, each and all, to join next week with all the others of our citizens to the end that our town may not only be thoroughly sanitary as spring is now here, but also that it may be a beautiful place. We soon will have the paved road and people from everywhere will pass through our town. Let's haul off all the rubbish in the alleys and cut the weeds around our premises, as much as possible.

R. E. Cumbie,
Mayor.

NORTON BAPTIST G. A. HAS SOCIAL

To The Enterprise:

The Norton Intermediate Girls Auxiliary of the Baptist church enjoyed a social at Mrs. Roy L. Roper's home Friday afternoon. Games of "Buzz," "My Lord's Apparel," "Pussy Wants a Corner" and tennis were played. The girls were also entertained with piano selections played by Mrs. W. E. Elkins, sponsor of the Auxiliary, Phyllis Roper, Joan Conger and Elizabeth Clifton.

Refreshments of punch, hot chocolate, sandwiches and candy were served by Mrs. O. L. Conger and Mrs. Roper. Favours in the form of stars with "First G. A. Social—1937" were given to the following: Phyllis and Joyce Roper, Joan Conger, Estelle Wilkins, Sheila Nix, Doris Stuckey, Elkins, Theresa John Elkins and Elizabeth Clifton.

ing, his death brought us personal sorrow because of the sorrow his passing has brought to our dear, good old friend, "Uncle Sam."

"Uncle Dick" was a retired railroad engineer of the Southern Pacific. His wife died Aug. 5, 1906 and was buried at Miles the next day. Hence there was that which was tenderly beautiful in his children bringing his body back to Miles and putting it away for its last sleep, there beside the companion of his youth.

Deceased was thirty-three years old and was a member of the Baptist church. Religious services were held at the home of a daughter in Abilene where he had made his home for some time, by Dr. E. B. Surface, a Presbyterian minister. Brief religious services were conducted at the graveside at Miles by Rev. J. W. Leggitt, pastor of the Miles Methodist church, Rev. J. L. Wallace, pastor of the Miles Baptist church and the writer.

Methodist Meeting Is In Progress

The series of evangelistic services at the Methodist church, which was begun Friday night of last week, has been going on throughout the week. And notwithstanding the many things to hinder, chiefly the very unfavorable weather which continued until the middle of the week the interest in the meeting has been as much as could be expected.

Rev. A. H. Bankert of Tuleta, who is a gospel song evangelist, arrived Saturday and took charge of the choir and is directing the music of the meeting. He is a pleasing gentleman and his work as song evangelist is delighting all who have heard him. The writer regrets deeply that he could not be in the meeting.

Speaking to The Enterprise, Rev. Thompson requested that we give emphasis to the fact that both he and the song evangelist as well as all the interested members of his congregation are deeply desirous that the meeting shall be a community-wide meeting in its scope and therefore not only invites each and all to attend the meeting, but to aid everywise they can to the end that the community as a whole shall feel the uplift and helpfulness of the meeting.

BAPTIST LADIES MEET AT CHURCH

Mrs. Frank Keeney led a program on "Study of the Jews" Monday afternoon when the Baptist Missionary Society met at the church. Others present than the leader and Rev. Lewis Stuckey, were Meses. Lewis Stuckey, Clint Wilkins and Ed Cumbie.

Mrs. N. W. Kiker, and daughter, Helen, and son, Alvin, from Portales, New Mexico were Easter Sunday guests of Mrs. Kiker's daughter, Mrs. Jess Percifull, and Mr. Percifull. The many friends of the Kikers were glad to see them again.

WORK BEGINS ON THE RAWLINGS OIL WELL

Work of digging the cellar and other preliminary details incident to the drilling of the B. E. Ogden oil well on the E. C. Rawlings ranch, five miles north west of Bronte began in earnest Wednesday.

A crew of men are getting everything in readiness for placing the rig soon as it arrives from Wichita, Kansas. It is a standard rig.

LOIS LAMBERT HOSTESS TO THE Y. W. A.

The Baptist Young Women's Auxiliary met in a business session Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Lois Lambert.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served refreshments to Mrs. Lewis Stuckey, Mrs. J. B. Mackey, Mrs. Charles Baker, Waldrop.

COLLEGE STUDENTS, HOME FOR EASTER

The following young men and women who have been missed in Bronte for the past months returned home for Easter, Sunday: Iva Dell Modgling from Mary Hardin-Baylor College, Belton; Virginia Youghblood, Baylor University, Waco; Jenn Keeney and Gladys May Ash, Hardin-Simons University, Abilene and Dwain Leonard, West Texas Teachers College, Canyon.

A CONCRETE EXAMPLE

Last week when the Senate committee at Austin had the race track repeal bill before it, there were many in attendance, on both sides of the controversy.

Those favoring the repeal of race track gambling had argued that gambling on horse races should be forbidden legally because of the moral wreckage it has wrought in Texas. The defenders of gambling somewhat ridiculed the arguments of the proponents of repeal in this particular, and questioned the truthfulness of the arguments that had been advanced. At this juncture, Senator Nelson of Lubbock, sponsor of the repeal bill, having fortified himself in advance, expecting such declarations to come from the champions of the gamblers, presented a concrete example of the ruinous and damnable effects that legalized gambling on race tracks in Texas had brought. A man who took money that was not his with which to bet on the races, having lost his money, had no way of returning same to the one from whom he had illegally taken the money, seeing that disgrace to him and family was inevitable wrote a letter to his wife, telling all, expressing deepest regret, with the statement that he could not bear to meet the shame and disgrace to him and his family, committed suicide. Senator Nelson had this woman and her five little children sitting in the audience in the committee room. Senator Nelson asked her to stand, which she did, with her baby in her arms, and told the tragic story as to how that race track gambling had brought shame and ruin and shadow to her erstwhile happy home. No wonder the committee, made up of red-blooded American men, recommended without delay, overwhelmingly, that the bill be reported out favorably. And it may be by the time our readers receive their paper this week, it will have become a law in Texas that no man can with the consent of legal sanction in this state bet on a horse race, or any other form of gambling.

The thought has occurred to us that if the concrete evidence on the curse of legal liquor in Texas could be assembled and brought before the people, are there not enough red-blooded men and fair women who love humanity in this great old state to rise up and smite the whole liquor business hip and thigh, and thus say that they do not propose for such wreckage of human life and happiness as well as the material interests of the people to be sacrificed in order that those who do not care for the morals and the higher interests of men may make "easy money" selling the accursed stuff?

There is no getting around it consistently, ladies and gentlemen, every person in this state who has given sanction and encouragement to legal race track gambling, not only has the blood of Senator Nelson's man and the happiness of his family on their hands. Personally it is a matter of deep pride to us that we have never in the least given endorsement to race track or any other kind of gambling. It is likewise true that every man and woman in Texas who has given sanction and encouragement to the return of legal liquor has the blood and shame upon them of all that liquor has wrought since it raised its infamous head legally in Texas again. Some will seek to satisfy their consciences by saying, "Oh, well, they will drink it anyhow—so, you had as well let them have it legally and get the revenue which the state needs." God of our Fathers—what an un-American argument! They will likewise gamble regardless as to whether it is outlawed by the state or not. If the gambling repeal bill becomes a law, it will not end gambling—but, it will do this: it will relieve the people of Texas from being parties to any shame and ruin and death that gambling may bring. Likewise, when liquor was illegal in Texas, the people were not responsible—but how different now! Every crime, every death, every bit of the drunkenness and shame from the use of liquor now can be and should be charged up to the people of Texas.

Oh, Americans, and proud boasters of citizenship in the land of Houston, Crockett and Travis, "innocent blood is on your hands!"

PASSING SCHOOL BUSES

It has been suggested to The Enterprise that the attention of the people be called to the matter of passing school buses when the buses are stopped to load or unload children.

The Enterprise is advised, not authoritatively, however, that it is a violation of law, to pass a school bus when it is stopped for that purpose. Whether it is a violation of law or not, it is a dangerous thing to do and The Enterprise is printing this only for the sake of safety. You had better be safe than soory—so, keep in mind, never to pass abus when it is stopped, without going by in the most cautious way.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bowden visited Mrs. Bowden's parents in Bangs over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Willoughby were week end guests of relatives at Ranger.

IT'S "FARMER" HANKINS, IF YOU, PLEASE

Prof. and Mrs. E. A. Hankins of Lubbock were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert ... coming Saturday and returning home Monday.

Though here for a brief time, yet Prof. and Mrs. Hankins were two really busy people, meeting and greeting old friends and acquaintances, and more especially their many former pupils of the Bronte schools. Prof. and Mrs. Hankins have taught in and directed the affairs of the Bronte school at two different periods. Several years ago when the Bronte school was smaller than now and before Prof. and Mrs. Hankins had so many years of experience as teachers, they had charge of the Bronte school for some years. Then in 1931 Prof. Hankins was chosen as superintendent of the school and Mrs. Hankins was given a position as teacher in the high school department as teacher.

It was with the beginning of the administration of Prof. Hankins as superintendent that the Bronte school began to take on a new vision of its possibilities and "development and enlargement" became the slogan of the school. Prof. and Mrs. Hankins terminated their relations with the school in 1933 and returned to their former home at Lubbock.

Upon their return to their home at Lubbock Prof. Hankins gave up school work and turned his attention to his farm lands which he owns near Lubbock. Prof. Hankins now has a cotton farm of a thousand acres and is expecting a good crop this year and good prices—in which event he thinks, far as financial features are concerned, his farming will mean many times more than the compensations ever received from teaching. So, it is "farmer Hankins," now, if you please.

But, both these genial people are teachers by nature, as well as by training and therefore are always interested in the mental development and moral training of youth. They visited their "old haunts" at the school Monday morning, greeted everybody and inspected and admired the new auditorium and gymnasium and the new arrangement of the school building.

We acknowledge a very brief but most delightful call from these two dear good friends and most excellent people.

EIGHTH BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. D. Y. Roberts was hostess at a party Saturday afternoon, at a party, honoring their little daughter, Stella, on her eighth birthday.

The little guests romped and played to their hearts' content. Then the candles were lighted on the birthday cake. There were eight candles. W. W. Rogers, recently married, lighted the candles, and Mrs. W. W. Rogers, a recent bride, cut the cake. Betty Joyce Kiker, Wilma Caudle and the honoree.

Quite a few presents were received by the honoree which she very much appreciated.

Paul Pruitt has attended Norton High School all his school days. He lives near Marie. He was an outstanding player in the 1935 football team and was captain of the team in 1937. He has been and still is a good track and field man.

ATTENDS CARRIERS MEET AT LOMETA

M. M. Evans attended a convention of the star route mail carriers of the 21st district at Lometa Saturday night.

Mr. Evans is state committeeman of this district. The state chairman wired Mr. Evans Saturday morning to go to the convention and assume charge and preside over the body's deliberations during the evening.

Mr. Evans reports a good meeting and also a goodly attendance, considering the rainy unfavorable weather.

Mr. Evans says that he has received a letter from Congressman C. L. South stating that he was watching the bill in congress that seeks to get the star route

MAY HOLD MEETING IN BRONTE SOON

Rev. Raymond Wilson, pastor of the Angelo Heights Baptist church, in San Angelo, was in Bronte Tuesday. The writer acknowledges a pleasant call from this genial preacher friend.

Rev. Wilson plans to hold a meeting in Bronte in the near future. Rev. Wilson is not only a capable pulpiteer, but he is one of the busiest of men. He has regular hours over the radio and in the mean time he goes to all the surrounding towns and communities adjacent to San Angelo and holds evangelistic meetings.

Rev. Wilson said that he had been wanting to come to Bronte for a meeting for some time and had never until now got his affairs so that he could come.

Rev. Wilson has builded a large church and a great work in San Angelo. We have known him from his childhood and if he comes to Bronte, you should hear him, for he is "a man with a message." Watch The Enterprise for announcements and do not fail to attend.

Bronte's Bank In Prosperous State

If, as someone has said, a bank is a financial thermometer by which the financial condition of a community is determined, Bronte does not need a doctor or other wizard on finances, to determine as to its temperature and the state of its health in dollars and cents. For the April fool joke the town and section of country waked up on the morning of April 1, and found played on them, was the finding the First National in the most prosperous condition in all its history.

The bank's existence a period of thirty years, most prosperous year until was in 1919. The bank showed at the close of business March 31, $360,000 in deposits—this is the largest deposits shown since 1919. Cash and government bonds showed to be $307,000.
