"Grandmother" Rawlings Dies at Unusual Age of 98

The writer has been chronicling the deaths of people, as an editor for more than forty years—the dead have been persons, of course, of every age, and almost every station in life. But, in this, the account of the passing of Mrs. Mattie Jane Rawlings, who died at her home in San Angelo, early Wednesday morning, March 15, 1944, we chronicle the death of the most aged person whose passing we have given in the columns of our paper. Mrs. Rawlings had attained the unusual age of 98, when the clock of time struck for her its last stroke.

Mrs. Rawlings

Mrs. Rawlings' maiden name was Miss Mattie Jane Haynie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Haynie. She was a native of Arkansas, and was born in Sevier county, November 30, 1845. Shortly after her birth her parents came to Texas, settling first in Travis county, moving later to Burnet county. In 1860 the family moved to Llano county, where her father entered business in the town of Llano.

Funeral services were held at the Vautrain Funeral Home in San Angelo, Thursday afternoon, following which the body was brought to Bronte and entombment was in the family lot in Fairview cemetery, with Vautrain in charge, assisted by Frank Keeney, Bronte funeral director. Religious services were conducted by Dr. K. P. Barton, retired pastor of the First Methodist church of San Angelo, and an old time friend of deceased. The religious services were concluded at the grave side, in which Dr. Barton paid beautiful tribute to the memory of Mrs. Rawlings, tenderly, as the "unusually aged person, whose length of years is never reached, except by the very exceptional few—she was loved by the First Methodist church of which she was a member and in which she served until failing health a few years ago precluded further activities. She has many friends in San Angelo," the minister said, "and I want you here at Bronte to know how she is loved in that city because of her faithfulness to life's responsibilities and her loyalty to her friends—she will be missed."

It was in 1861, as the war clouds were gathering over their beloved Southland that Mattie Jane Haynie and Thomas B. Rawlings, a native of Tennessee, married and moved on to a farm in Burnet county. Just at the close of the Civil War her companion died. She remained there until 1904 at which time she moved with her family to

Baptists Worship at Ft. Chadbourne Next Sunday

Bronte Enterprise:

Please announce that Rev. H. L. Bloodworth of Silver and Sanco will preach at the Baptist church in Fort Chadbourne, Sunday, March 19, at 11 o'clock in the morning and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Everyone is cordially invited. A basket lunch will be served at the noon hour. Come and pray that we may have a great service.

Mrs. Curtis Walker.

Editor's note: To any who do not know Rev. Bloodworth, we speak this word for him: he is an excellent Christian gentleman and a capable and inspirational pulpit speaker.

"Freedom of Fear" Discussed by Rev. Hanson at the PTA

The Bronte PTA met in regular session, Tuesday afternoon, March 14, 1944, in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Geo. Thomas was the leader.

Miss Billie Emmett directed the musical numbers, played by Virginia Clark and Miss Wilma Anna Reed. The minuet was played.

The subject for discussion was The Freedom of Fear. The main speaker was Rev. A. Hanson. The minutes were read and approved.

The treasurer gave a report on what has been spent this year.

A motion carried that the PTA sponsor the sodding of the football field, not to exceed ten dollars as the maximum.

The nominating committee reported as follows: Mrs. Alfred Taylor, president; Mrs. Arrott, vice-president; Mrs. W. H. Maxwell, secretary; Mrs. Allene Mitchell, treasurer.

Rev. Hanson dismissed the meeting with prayer.

San Angelo and in 1906 the home was built where she resided until her death. Miss Minnie Rawlings, a daughter, taught in the San Angelo schools for thirty years until her death a few years ago.

"Grandmother" Rawlings as she was called by her loved ones and friends, is survived by one son, E. C. Rawlings, Bronte; 14 grandchildren; 20 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Out there in Fairview—that quiet, sequestered spot, Thursday, a warm springtime afternoon, the wearied, fragile body of this gracious woman of "the old South," was tenderly put away, beneath an embankment of springtime's first flowers, beautifully emblematic of her long and radiant life, and was left there to sleep, where the western stars will keep vigil at night and the songbirds will warble their carols above her resting place by day—but, her wonderful life will live on to make the world radiant in the memories of loved ones and the large circle of friends who were the beneficiaries of her queenly life.

"Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call to me,
May there be no moaning at the bar,
When I put out to sea."

Bronte Boy Cited For Heroism Beyond Line of Duty

Mrs. R. M. Bennett of San Antonio who will be remembered in Bronte as Mrs. Cova Petty, orders The Enterprise sent to her address in that city, enclosing remittance for same. She states that her folks here have been sending her occasional copies when there was news of special interest to her.

Mrs. Bennett also enclosed the photostatic copy of the letter below, which, as will be seen, from reading the letter, that it is a commendation of her son, Carroll Petty, for his devotion to duty in an emergency and for heroism beyond the bounds of duty. The letter follows:

STATION HOSPITAL
Office of the Surgeon
Birmingham Army Air Base
Birmingham, Alabama

21 February 1944
To Private Devere C. Petty, Birmingham Station Hospital Detachment, Army Air Base, Birmingham, Alabama.

1. It is with sincere gratification that I commend you for the keen devotion to duty that you displayed on the night of 18 January 1944, at the scene of the crash of a B 24 plane in the vicinity of the Birmingham Army Air Base, Birmingham, Alabama.

2. Your willingness to volunteer to proceed to the scene of the catastrophe and then to plunge into the smoldering wreckage in an hectic effort to extricate the bodies of the nine victims was beyond the call of duty. Many times during this difficult task, both you and your fellow workers found it almost impossible to continue due to the intense heat, the adverse lighting, and the almost unrecognizable state of the unfortunate crew. Nevertheless, you and your fellow soldiers remained at your self-chosen post until all of the bodies were accounted for, transported to a mortuary, and then positively identified. I am convinced that through this demonstration, you have manifested the deep interest you have in your training and have proven beyond doubt that your conduct in the future under such emergency conditions, whether here in the continental limits or on some foreign battleground, will be exemplary and that most becoming a medical soldier.

3. It is with appreciation that I offer this commendation for your outstanding services during this emergency; it is also my desire that this citation be recorded in the "Remarks" section of your Service Record (Form 24) so as to become a part of your permanent record.

Joseph M. Bosworth, Jr.,
Lt. Col., Medical Corps, Base Surgeon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Best of San Angelo were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Leathers and other relatives the last week end.

Mrs. F. S. Higginbotham departs today for Palm Springs, California where she goes to bring home with her, her daughter, Mrs. Frank Sawyer. Mr. Sawyer has completed his course of training and will be sent a cross within the next few days.

Rev. C. R. Blake, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Mesdames Lula Hines and Clint Wilkins and Mae Wilkins attended the district meeting of the Baptists at San Angelo, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Coke's Future Farmers and 4-H Clubbers Invade Fort Worth, Make Stock Sales and Have "a Whale of a Good Time"

Fort Worth has been quite a sizable city for some time. But, last Saturday morning "business picked up" in the Panther City. It was all due to the arrival of the Coke delegation of Future Farmers and 4-Hrs, who went over to "rest from their labors," for a day and tell those and were off for the big city where the big show was in progress—and they arrived there almost before sleepy old Fort Worth had "rubbed its sleepy eyes." But, nobody slept after Coke's farmers and ranchers "hit the old town." For the boys, it was one big round day of see-

Returning, the boys spent the night at Stephenville and Sunday returned home. The boys, of course, were all right—but, the supervisors—well, their be-

Coke County topped all divisions of the Fort Worth livestock market with cattle, hogs and lambs Tuesday. Their livestock grossed $6,831.39. They had 28 fed yearling steers that averaged 676 pounds and sold at $14.50 to $15.50 to average $100.76 per head.

Their hogs averaged 237 1-2

RABIES PREVALENT IN DOGS MORE IN THE WINTER THAN SUMMER

Austin, Texas, March 17, 1944 — Contrary to popular belief rabies is more prevalent in winter than in the so-called days of summer.

In a statement released this week by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, it was disclosed that in February the State Laboratory examined 316 animal brains for the presence of rabies, over thirty seven per cent of which tested positive.

"If all stray dogs were destroyed, and all pets vaccinated for rabies, it would go far toward stamping out this justly feared fatal disease," Dr. Cox said.

The doctor stressed that all dogs suspected of rabies be confined ten days for observation to see if the disease develops. If a dog sickens and dies during the observation period, the head should be packed in ice and sent to the State Health Department for examination. Freezing the brain, or killing the dog prematurely, or in such manner as to injure the brain may make correct laboratory findings uncertain, if not impossible.

Dr. Cox declared that after a dog is confined ten days and then killed, there is still ample time for a victim of his bite to be treated to prevent rabies, but he cautioned that if the disease is found to be present in the dog, the victim should begin treatment without further delay.

Buck Coleman called before leaving Thursday and paid a year in advance on subscription and said that soon as he was located, he would advise and we could send him the paper.

Claude Hallmark who is ordnance inspector at Camp Wolters, Mineral Wells, returned to his post first of last week, after a few days furlough visit with home folks and friends. Claude took time to call and extend his subscription, saying that the weekly visits of The Enterprise meant much to him. Claude is looking strong and robust. The editor acknowledges with appreciation an invitation from Claude to visit him at Camp Wolters. He promised that if we would come, he would show us everything in Army camp life from the front gate to the back doorsteps. If possible, as spring comes on and the weather more favorable, we are going to accept Claude's invitation—for, to be perfectly truthful about it, there's lots yet about army life, we don't know about. Claude inspects the guns at Camp Wolters, which includes everything in the form of a gun from a 22 rifle to the "big slots," in the form of cannon. And Claude "knows his guns," like a college professor knows his abes.

President Praises 4-H Members

An appeal to rural boys and girls in the nation to serve their country under the 4-H Club banner has been issued by President Roosevelt in observance of National 4-H Club Mobilization Week, March 4-12. In Texas there are more than 100,000 4-H Club members, according to the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service. Text of President Roosevelt's message is as follows:

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON
February 3, 1944.

TO ALL 4-H CLUB MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES:

Today our country relies on the determination and courage of its youth to see us through to victory. In the years to follow we shall look likewise to our youth for leadership in building a world of peace. Through 4-H Club work you have demonstrated that you are a powerful influence in this direction.

In being ever mindful of your responsibilities as each of you pledge your head, heart, hands and health to the service of your club, community and country, you are furthering your own wholesome development and that of your own family and community. Moreover, through assuming such responsibilities you are helping materially in building a world of progress, justice and mutual understanding.

I trust that rural boys and girls everywhere will respond to the roll call of 4-H Mobilization Week, March 4 to 12. For this year more than ever, members of the 4-H Clubs will be among the shock troops on the food production front to give that extra impetus to the war effort so essential to ultimate victory.
