Mr. West received no birthday reminder which he appreciated more than the following letter from his long-time friend, John Q. McAdams, president of the Winters State Bank. $2.00 He feels it is worth living a lifetime to receive such a letter, and for several years, Mr. McAdams has written him such greetings. The letter follows: "Dear D. M .:

> It's your birthday - bet you "clean forgot" - or did you?

When a friend has a birthday the occasion provides appropriateness for heart-dictated good wishes to be expressed by letter or by personal contact. It is an opportunity to convey genuine personal interest and esteem to the exclusion of any thought or ing those fine Blue Ribbon cattle on reference to things temporal or transient.
