Oak Creek Village Open House This Weekend

Formal opening of Oak Creek Village, new resort and shopping center north of Oak Creek Lake, is set for this weekend. Open House will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with all the facilities open for the inspection of the public.

The new center, which represents an investment of over $100,000, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. S.

AD-LIB-BEN

We're mighty proud of the ads in this week's paper in connection with the grand opening of Oak Creek Village, located between Oak Creek Lake and Blackwell. You can read all about the new shopping center in stories and the ads in this paper.

The Oak Creek Grocery and Craft's Meats have been advertising in the Enterprise for some time now, and this weekend the entire center will have an open house and you are invited to inspect it.

The new center is quite an asset to our area.

John King, publisher of The Robert Lee Observer, is helping George Helton, volunteer worker at the tuberculosis sanatorium at Carlsbad, work up a campaign to acquire a bus for use of patients. For some months now Helton has been taking a few patients fishing and on other outings in a station wagon. It has proved highly beneficial to them, we are told, and he is trying to figure out a way to raise $685.00 to buy an old bus, so he can take more of them at a time.

If you would like to contribute a dollar or fifty dollars to this worthwhile project, send it to King or bring or mail it to The Enterprise office and we'll see that it gets in the right hands. A very worthy project, we think.

Last Saturday, we took in "Six Flags Over Texas," the new amusement center between Fort Worth and Dallas. Those people

J. May and Mr. and Mrs. Bill May. The May Bros. have been in the building and development business in Sweetwater for several years.

Free prizes will be given away to lucky persons each day of the Grand Opening. Special inducements for area residents to visit the Village will be offered at the grocery store and market, the cafe and service station. A drawing will be held each day at the grocery store for valuable merchandise. To participate visitors only have to register. The cafe is offering every tenth hamburger free Friday, free coffee all day Saturday, and every tenth Sunday dinner free on Sunday.

May Bros. said they are proud of all the personnel they have secured to manage the various businesses incorporated in Oak Creek Village. They said they have employed personnel with many years experience in each department, thus assuring their customers the best in service.

Heading the grocery store are Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Sexton, who have had many years experience in the super market business in Sweetwater. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Craft manage and operate Craft's Meats in the Village. Before assuming their new position they operated a grocery and market in Blackwell. They also had many years experience in the market business in Fort Worth before moving to this area.

Mrs. Dorothy Milner is in charge of the Village Cafe. She is from San Angelo, and is experienced in all phases of restaurant operation.

Ralph C. Pike, who has worked for years in the service station business, is manager of the station. He came to Oak Creek from Lubbock.

In charge of the motel and washateria is Mrs. Mildred Leatherwood. She is in charge of keeping the 14 unit court ready at all times for visitors. She is widely experienced in this type of work.

Mrs. Terry Franks will move to Oak Creek Village in the near future and will be bookkeeper for the entire business. She will coordinate the various phases of the businesses so as to make it operate more smoothly as one unit.

The Mays, as well as each individual manager at Oak Creek Village, have issued an invitation for everyone in this part of West Texas to visit them this weekend and inspect the new facilities.

A story giving more details on the various stores in the Village is carried on page 2 of this newspaper.

Cafe Burglarized

The sheriff's department was called to investigate a burglary that occurred between 3:30 and 4:00 a.m. Saturday at the Coffee Shop Cafe at Bronte.

Approximately $50.00 was taken from the cigarette machine and juke box operated by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hageman.

Low Bid of $55,955 On Water Project

The City of Bronte and the Upper Colorado River Authority jointly have accepted a low bid of $55,955.96 on a water improvement project for the city. The bid was submitted by Texas Lawn Sprinkler Co. of Amarillo.

The bid was cleared with the city, the engineers employed by the UCRA and the bidder before it was accepted. The joint meeting at which the bid was accepted was held Tuesday afternoon.

L. T. Youngblood, chairman of the UCRA, said that a meeting of the river authority was scheduled for Wednesday night in San Angelo. He said as far as he could determine, the contract with Texas Lawn Sprinkler Co. would be signed at the meeting.

A wide span of nearly $23,000 separated the low and high bids on the project. High bid was $78,761.50. Next to the low bid

Longhorns Idle This Week; Will Play May Sept. 8

The Bronte Longhorns are idle this weekend, the first date of the season for school boy football. The open date will give Coach Bob Howard an additional week to get his team ready for its first game with May on Sept. 8.

With ten returning lettermen, the Longhorns have been picked by the Abilene Reporter-News sports staff to take District 6-B. Other members were rated in the following order: Trent, Robert Lee, Roby, Loraine and Hermleigh.

The other five members of the conference begin their competition this weekend with the following games scheduled: Robert Lee at Menard, Hermleigh at Coahoma, Clyde at Roby, Aspermont at Trent, and Loraine at Roscoe.

A small shower fell in the Bronte area about noon Tuesday. Cooler weather prevailed in this part of West Texas Wednesday.

be a tradition for this area. It is sponsored, for the most part, by Bronte merchants. Many of them have said that sponsoring the annual barbecue is one way they have of expressing their appreciation to everyone in the area for the past year's patronage.

The crowd is expected to start gathering at the park about 5 o'clock. The swimming pool will be closed at 5:30, and supper will be served at 6 p. m. The pool will reopen at 7 p. m. and swimming will be free after the pool reopens.

Ladies of the community are invited to bring salads for the barbecue. However, they are requested not to bring desserts this year.

No program is planned in connection with the event. Plenty of time will be available for those present to have an enjoyable visit with their neighbors.

Aubrey Denman, caretaker of the county park here, is in charge of the barbecue. He said that he is looking for a record breaking crowd this year. The number attending the barbecue has increased steadily each year.

Mrs. Looney Dies After Long Illness

Funeral services for Mrs. Jack Looney, 36, were held Wednesday at 2 p. m. in Robert Lee Baptist Church. Burial was in the McKenzieville Cemetery under direction of Clift Funeral Home. Her first cousins were pallbearers.

Mrs. Looney died Saturday in John Sealey Hospital in Galveston after a long illness. She was the daughter-in-law of Mrs. Lulla Brown of Bronte and a sister-in-law to Mrs. Matthew Caperton.

The Looneys were former residents of Robert Lee. She was the former Leta Walker.

The family has been living in Oklahoma for several years.

Survivors include her husband, four sons, Robert, George, Bill and Joe Dan Looney, all of the home; her father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker of Robert Lee and one brother, Tommy Walker of Sweetwater.

289 STUDENTS ENTER SCHOOL

A total of 289 students had enrolled in Bronte School up to Wednesday noon, according to High School Principal Joe B. Simpson.

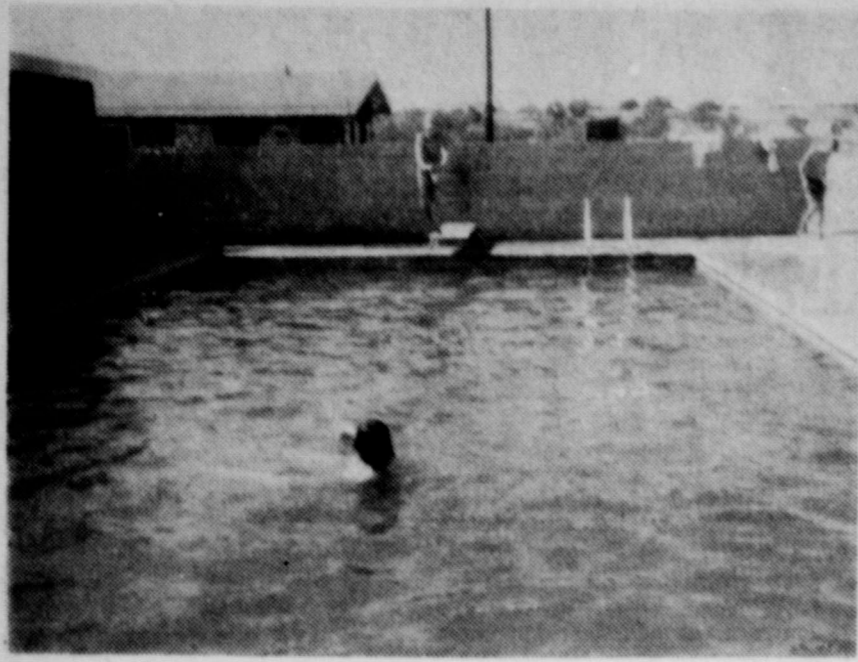

Simpson said the high school has a total of 74 students, while elementary school has 215.

The 1961-62 school term started Monday with an assembly program. After the program students reported to classes for a full day's schedule of work.

The school will have a holiday Monday, Labor Day.

Rev. R. W. Blackmon went to Lamesa today to attend an Evangelistic conference at Bryan St. Baptist Church. He will return Friday night. The Blackmon's daughter, Bette, will leave Monday for Jacksonville where she will enroll as a freshman student.

T. O. Spiller underwent major surgery Monday in a San Angelo hospital.

A COOL SPOT — One youngster has already hit the water and another is just about to, at Oak Creek Village swimming pool. The 20x40 foot pool is available for use of the public free of charge for the remainder of this season. It is located near the motel at the new shopping center.

Oak Creek Village Stores Are All Open

All the businesses connected with the new Oak Creek Village are now open and the center will have its formal opening this weekend. The new resort and shopping center is made up of the Village Grocery, Craft's Meats, a service station, cafe, motel and washateria.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. May and Mr. and Mrs. Bill May of Sweetwater are owners of the new center.

The grocery and market are housed in a 1500 square foot brick building. The latest in display and storage equipment has been installed to care properly for merchandise and to display it for customer's convenience. A large dairy foods case, frozen foods case, and pre-packaged meats case take care of perishable foods, while other items are conveniently arranged on shelves throughout the store.

Craft's Market is equipped with the most up to date meat handling equipment available. In addition to a large display counter, the market is equipped with a large walk-in cooling room, and with another vault for frozen meats. "Sharp freeze" facilities are available for those who wish to buy quantities of meat for home freezers. Numerous saws, tenderizers and other equipment are also in use in the market at Oak Creek Village.

The cafe, located just south of the grocery store, is completely new in every respect. Six large tables and a 20 foot counter are available for seating guests. The management has assured the public that its aim will be to serve good food at all times at reasonable prices.

The Oak Creek Village Service Station, located south of the cafe, is an independent dealer and buys its gasoline by the tank truck load. Large quantity buying permits the firm to sell gasoline cheaper than many retail outlets do. Five pumps have been installed. The station also handles a complete line of accessories, tires, batteries, etc.

Southern Baptists Work with Migrants

By REV. LESTER VINSON

Editor's Note: This is the concluding article in a series written by the Rev. Lester Vinson of Bronte. It concerns his special work with migrant workers on the East Coast. Our special thanks to him for this enlightening and interesting series of articles.

For the past four summers the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention has placed a missionary under special appointment for the duration of the harvest season on the Eastern Shore. Perhaps because of knowing and speaking the Spanish Language, and having served for some six years as a missionary myself, I was given this special appointment for this year. Our church heartily concurred in the planning and gave support to the program.

One of our first efforts was to secure an open air meeting place from the town of Cape Charles. This lot was located near a downtown shopping center and offered us an opportunity to invite the migrants to the services after they had purchased their weekly provisions. This permission was granted and after arranging for lighting the lot we began a project of having services every Saturday night at 7:30. There was singing and preaching in Spanish and also a religious film in Spanish which proved to be very helpful in reaching a larger number of people.

Another program consisted of a two-week Vacation Bible School which was conducted in the community building of Cheriton, Virginia. With the aid of most of the Baptist Churches of the Accomac Association we provided a program of Bible teaching, recreation, citizenship and handwork. Because the parents were in the fields we had to provide transportation for all the children making at least two or three trips to and from the camps to bring the children into Cheriton. The children seemed to really enjoy riding in my station wagon. They named it "La Wawita Blanca", the Little White Bus. Sometimes we had as many as 16 or 17 children piled in it at the same time.

The last major effort was to conduct a series of evangelistic services for one week's duration. In previous years, perhaps because of some prejudice and misunderstanding, the churches did not feel free to open their doors for these services. However, to our great joy, the First Baptist Church of Cheriton gave us free use of all their facilities for the entire week. We had good attendance and representatives of most denominations in all the services. We felt that this was a real step forward in creating a spirit of good will and appreciation for this group of migrants and the churches agreed.

Throughout our stay in Virginia, I served in a very real way as pastor to all these Spanish-speaking people. When they needed to see the doctor, write letters in English, settle labor disputes they felt free to call upon me. When they needed an interpreter I was in a position to help.

There remains much work yet undone because of lack of funds and personnel. The large negro camps are virtually untouched. Many of the late arriving Spanish-speaking crews could not be ministered to in their own language because my appointment was concluded. Somehow I feel that this vast moving population is our responsibility. They need to have the privilege of educational facilities, health programs, voting rights, and most of all they need someone to understand them, love them and to help lift them so they can improve themselves and provide a better life and future for these more than 3,000,000 nomadic farm laborers upon whom we depend so vitally for our everyday meals. If we care enough, we will not fail to respond.

County Agents News Column

By STERLING LINDSEY

The Sheep and Wool Production meeting held in the County Courtroom on Monday, Aug. 28, was attended by approximately 30 individuals from the area. I believe the four men on the program did an excellent job of presenting information of value to the sheep producer.

Jim Gray, Extension Service sheep and wool, goat and mohair specialist, presented his portion of the program on sheep selection in a manner easily understood or seen by those present. George Taylor, a San Angelo warehouseman, was equally efficient in telling the group little things that could help a sheep producer to place in the hands of the warehouseman a more saleable package. I think a fitting comment that came with his discussion was the following, "If you have a first class wool clip, treat it as such; if your clip is second hand, treat it like a second hand clip." No one wants to lessen the value in one day what took six months or a year to produce—not intentionally. But we often reduce the appearance of our wool without realizing it.

Dr. Koberg, the well known veterinarian from San Angelo, had a few choice words and answered numerous questions on sheep insects and diseases common to our area. And here again an interesting sideline comment as produced. Jim Gray, sheep specialist, stated that he can show us pastures in the Boerne area where stomach worms can be very destructive, where the operators never drench. He stated that they hold down the worm numbers, or not damaged to the point of needing to drench by two practices — holding the stocking rate down and by rotating pastures every 30-35 days. In all, the meeting produced numerous bits of information that were applicable to our area. A few more cotton dusters and sprayers went into use last week as efforts were made to protect cotton crops from the ravages of the cotton bollworm and boll-weevil. Only one serious buildup was found but progressive buildups of weevils were noted in all areas of the county. If you plan to institute control measures if they become necessary, I would make one or more square counts weekly in order to avoid any slip ups. Following the recent shower and because the corn fields are drying up, the bollworm may buildup in some fields. The boll-weevil has been building up all season and could do extensive damage before cotton matures. Presently the weevil is primarily laying eggs in the squares but they have invaded the bolls in some of the older cotton that has very few squares on top or on the terminals and in the fields heavily infested.

From now on, the decision to control or not to control insects bears greater importance than it did earlier in the season. A number of factors must be taken into consideration before control measures are recommended, such as moisture available, egg counts, stage of growth of the cotton, cotton set on the plants and amount of damage being done. Check your cotton, consider the above factors, then make the decision according to the findings on your field.

We have cotton insect control guides available that show the recommended sprays and dust, pressure to use, amount to apply per acre and the frequency of treatment recommended. If you would like a copy, call us or drop by the office.
