B. B. Edmiaston Dies As Result of Tuesday Fire

Heroic efforts of Bronte's volunteer firemen and the staff of Bronte Hospital failed to save the life of a retired Methodist minister who was trapped Tuesday night in his burning home in the southeast part of Bronte.

The Rev. B. B. Edmiaston, long time Methodist minister, died at 5:15 Wednesday morning. Dr. John R. Harris, who worked with the injured man all night, said cause of Mr. Edmiaston's death was massive inhalation of smoke.

Funeral Services Set Thursday at 2:00 PM

Funeral services for the Rev. B. B. Edmiaston, 84, will be held at First Methodist Church at 2 p.m. today (Thursday). Officiating will be the pastor, the Rev. A. S. Masterson, assisted by the Rev. Wayne Stout, pastor of Central Baptist Church.

Mr. Edmiaston died at 5:15 Wednesday morning as a result of inhaling too much smoke in a Tuesday night fire which badly damaged his home here. He was rescued from the burning building and taken to Bronte Hospital about 9:30 p.m.

Bernard Bates Edmiaston was born July 16, 1881, in Arkansas. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Edmiaston. He was married Nov. 8, 1905, in Chillicothe to Miss Ella Allen. Mrs. Edmiaston died June 8, 1955.

A long time Methodist minister, Mr. Edmiaston served for 28 years in the Central Texas Conference. He was pastor of churches at Waco, Talpa, Robert Lee, Hutto, Bangs, Strawn, Ve-

LIONS CLUB NEWS

Mrs. O. D. Hall was speaker at a recent meeting of Bronte Lions club when she discussed the Runnels County Association for Retarded Children. Coke County is included in this Association.

H. O. Whitt, A. S. Masterson, C. E. Bruton and Elmer Hurley attended a Zone meeting at Ballinger Friday night.

All members are urged to attend the dinner meeting Thursday at the Methodist Church.

PTA NEXT TUESDAY

Bronte PTA will meet Tuesday night, Dec. 8, at 7 p.m. in the school auditorium. The second grade, with their teacher, Mrs. Vera Thomas, will be in charge of the program. All school patrons are urged to attend.

He also had first, second and third degree burns on his face and on parts of his body, the doctor said.

Several attempts were made to enter the burning house from the time it was discovered about 9 p.m. until Martin Lee was successful in pulling the fallen man to the front door of the home. From there several firemen carried him to the waiting station wagon of C. B. Barbee. He was rushed to Bronte Hospital where the doctor and a corps of nurses worked all night to save his life.

The fire was discovered by a neighbor, Mrs. Bobby Vaughn, when she heard Mr. Edmiaston's cry for help. She ran to the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Wayne Stout who live next door to the Edmiaston residence. The fire alarm was turned in there, and everyone in the vicinity was soon alerted to assist in fighting the fire. Mrs. Vaughn and Roy Wayne Stout were first persons at the scene.

Attempts were made by C. B. Barbee, Stout, R. W. Sims and others to enter the house and rescue Mr. Edmiaston, before Lee was able to get him to the front door.

Young Stout was the only one who apparently suffered any injuries from the inhalation of smoke and from the heat. He went to the hospital about 11 p.m. Tuesday and was reported Wednesday morning to be recovering satisfactorily.

The fire started in the southeast corner room of the house, apparently from an electrical short. Those who checked the ruins say they believe Mr. Edmiaston was in the kitchen at the time, went from there into the room where the fire was, and then headed for his living room where he was overcome by the smoke.

The house was heavily damaged, but firemen put out the blaze once they got their equipment in operation.

FHA Style Show Set for Monday

A style show and musical program will be presented Monday night, Dec. 7, at 7:30 by members of Bronte Chapter of Future Homemakers of America, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Royce Fancher, homemaking teacher.

Twenty seven members of the FHA will model garments they have made at school. Class I will model dark cottons suitable for school. Class II will wear dresses that are versatile for sports or shopping, and Class III will model woolen suits and coats and formals. A few of their home sewing projects will also be worn.

The public is invited to attend.

They have to go into the area by helicopter. Family wealth, they wrote, is measured largely by the number of sled dogs owned. One well to do family was the proud owner of 16 of the Huskies.

Four feet of snow had fallen at Alakaket shortly before the letter was posted.

Te screw worm is still making indentations and headlines. The state's number of cases was the yearly high—a total of 30 cases reported. All but two of the cases were from the lower portion of the state, but the fact remains that we still have screwworms. A hard freeze over the entire state would be helpful, but we need to do our part, also. Any suspected case should be submitted for identification.

When is the best time to prune trees? We are asked this question many times during the year, and the question cannot be answered without additional information.

There should be a reason for all pruning, and when one should prune should be determined by the reason for pruning.

If your object is to shape a tree, generally speaking, such wholesale pruning should be done when the tree is dormant. Also, deadwood can be removed from trees without injuring them. Spring pruning, however, is recommended when doing correctional pruning, since the wounds heal faster than at other times of the year.

Pruning trees during the early fall tends to reduce plant hardness and, in general, is not a good practice.

Evergreens should not be sheared in late summer or fall as the cut ends may not heal over until spring.

Dead branches can be removed now.

Providing adequate winter protection for trees, shrubs and flowers is a problem which all homeowners must face. The amount of protection needed depends on the natural hardness of plants, severity of climate and exposure, and the condition of the plant at the time.

Winter injury to plants is usually attributable to two factors—severe cold or loss of moisture from shoots and branches. Extreme cold will cause twigs, stems and roots to freeze, prompting cell tissues to break down.

Excessive loss of moisture, which frequently causes winter killing, is due largely to the effect of strong, drying winds during periods of brilliant winter sunshine. Evaporation of moisture from twigs, branches, canes and leaves (in the case of evergreens) continues at a slow rate through the winter. To supply this moisture, plant roots must continue to absorb water.

When evaporation is rapidly accelerated by prolonged periods of winter wind and sunshine, plant roots are unable to supply moisture fast enough. Branches and canes become withered and, if this condition is sufficiently aggravated, it often results in dying back of a large portion of the plant or in its death.

Therefore, one of the important preparations for winter, say plant authorities, is to see that the soil is adequately supplied with moisture. If rainfall has been slight during the summer, the ground should be soaked thoroughly before freezing weather sets in, if possible.

To protect half-hardy shrubs and newly planted shrubs, some wind protection is advisable.

Lack of moisture in the winter can be just as costly as in the summer. The difference is that we do not see the damage until later.

Census of Agriculture Now Underway; 1959 Figures for Coke County Recalled

The 1964 Census of Agriculture, now being conducted by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce, in Coke County, will bring up to date the farm and ranch statistics last collected in 1959.

Here are a few of the many facts recorded in the 1959 agriculture census for this County, ranches in 1959, compared with 419 in 1954. The average size of farm and ranch was 1,701.9 acres in 1959, compared with 1,304 acres in 1954.

The value of products sold by the County's farmers and ranchers in 1959 was $2,100,769. The value of all crops sold was $153,708. The value of all livestock and livestock products sold was $1,947,061.

The 1964 national Census of Agriculture is the 18th in a series which began in 1840. Because of the rapid changes American agriculture has been undergoing in recent years, Census Bureau officials regard the current census as one of the most significant ever taken. They ask every farmer and rancher to cooperate in compiling an accurate record of these changes by filling out the census form he receives in the mail and holding the completed questionnaire until a census taker calls for it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Abilene, Texas
Nov. 23, 1964

Dear Libby and Ben:

I was so gratified to learn that the Diversity and Sorosis Clubs have decided to adopt the Abilene State School for the Mentally Retarded as their Christmas projects. The State School happens to be my particular interest, and I'm pleased that people from my hometown are contributing.

Since this happens to be Mental Retardation Week, it is a good time to point out that at the Abilene school alone there are between 2,100 and 2,300 students, ranging in age from 6 to 70 to 80 years. The one thing they all have in common is that they are so grateful for any little attention and so little makes them happy. My regular job is to work once a week at a recreation area set up by the Volunteer Services Council in a converted dairy barn, now called "The Enchanted Barn." The students are brought by bus, each ward getting there about once every two or three weeks for an hour's party. During that hour, they play bingo, sing or sometimes just listen to music and then have coffee or punch and popcorn. This doesn't sound very sophisticated or exciting, but you should see the pleasure such simple activity brings.

Funds and labor are necessary throughout the year, but at Christmas they are essential. Recently I heard Mrs. Evelyn Smith, Volunteer Services Coordinator, report that her office had spent some $2,000 so far on gifts. This sounds like an extravagant Christmas until you realize that that's less than $1.00 per person. It's true, many of these people have families who help in their support and provide gifts but at least half are wards of the state in every sense of the word.

The School accepts used clothing throughout the year, but at Christmas new gifts are requested. Specific items include costume jewelry, scarves, cosmetics, cologne, belts for men, gloves, billfolds, toys and simple games and books, etc. This may sound strange but we need lots of brush hair rollers in all sizes, and also one-piece molded soft rubber or plastic dolls. Dolls made without movable eyes, arms and legs and RE-movable hair and hard to find.

Should anyone desire further information, he may contact my mother, Mrs. Willie Mae Glenn, or me, in Abilene. My mother has also agreed to act as a collection agent for any gift items or money which we will forward on to the school. Checks can be made payable to Volunteer Services Council and sent directly to Volunteer Services office, Abilene State School.

These people are unfortunate, due to mysterious causes as yet not clearly understood, but they live, breathe, laugh and cry. They Are Different, and frequently they make normal home life abnormal. There must be a place for them and the Texas System of Special Schools and Hospitals provides that place. Unfortunately, but understandably, many fall victims to the "out of sight, out of mind" adage.

According to a check made this morning there are five students from Coke County at Abilene State School right now.

Gratefully,
Mrs. Normand (Betty Jo) Mann
1226 Westridge.

In the J. B. Mackey home for Thanksgiving Day were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Ed Mackey of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Breeding and Jerry of San Angelo, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cumbie and the Edward Cumbie family.

Coke Oil $23.2 Million Industry

A $23.2 million a year ingredient in the prosperity of Coke County is the production of oil and gas, the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association says in its current survey of economic factors stemming from petroleum operations here.

Using just-published U. S. Bureau of Mines figures as a base, the Association has projected what oil and gas activities mean in the county. In 1962 Coke County was producing more than 5.9 million barrels of crude oil and 45 billion cubic feet of natural gas. The oil was valued at $17.7 million; the natural gas at $5.5 million.

Coke County ranks 47th in the state as total value of oil and gas production.

"Demand for Texas crude picked up enough last year to give us an increase of about three per cent over 1962 on a statewide basis. This slightly improving trend seems to be holding this year as more autos are put on the road and nationwide business conditions accelerate," said James L. Sewell, president of the Association. "It will be several months, however, before we know to what extent individual counties are participating in the current market."

The dispersion of oil dollars through Coke County business channels and the healthy effect given property values by petroleum industry activity are indicated by several figures published by the Association.

It is estimated that royalty payments to Coke County landowners who are fortunate enough to have producing wells on their property create a "crop" worth about $2.9 million annually. These and other farmers and ranchers who leased acreage for exploration receive additional rental and bonus payments, but sufficient current data is not available for measuring the amount.

Oil and gas operators invested an estimated $1.7 million in Coke County last year in the search for new fields and in the development of zones where production has been found. The Oil and Gas Journal reports that 24 wells were drilled in the county in 1963, resulting in nine oil wells, and 15 dry holes.

Drilling operations included 17 wildcat wells in which operators hunted oil in new territory or at new depths. About $1 million of the drilling expenditures was lost to dry holes, the Association estimated.

Petroleum industry payrolls contribute about $785,000 a year to the county, according to Texas Employment Commission records. They show about 120 persons directly employed in oil and gas operations.

The state government's financial interest in Coke County operations is measured by the $1.2 million a year which the operators and royalty owners provide the state government in production taxes. These payments are in addition to those paid to local units of government and schools as property taxes. Oil and gas property taxes are reflected in local support of many Texas school districts. For example, 60.6 per cent of the local taxes for the Bronte School District comes from oil and gas operations; 62.3 per cent at Robert Lee.

Among the county's industrial operations is the processing of oil and gas. Two natural gasoline plants and one cycling plant are operated to recover butane, propane, natural gasoline and other liquids from natural gas. They have a capacity of 155 million cubic feet a day.

In addition to the big financial boost from Coke County oil, the eastern side of the county, particularly the Bronte area and Bronte School District benefit from oil produced in the western part of Runnels County. No figures are available as to how much revenue is derived from petroleum produced in the neighboring county.

The first issue of the Newsletter I mentioned some time ago was mailed to nearly 300 hundred homemakers in the county last week. I am sure I missed a number of persons who would like to be on my mailing list. If anyone did not receive a copy and wants to receive the next one which will be mailed in early December, send me your name and address soon.

I appreciate the many nice comments that I have heard and read on the forms that have been received since the mailing. I hope to make each newsletter worthwhile to any homemaker who receives it.

The committees for planning the lunches and concessions for the Stock Show will meet in my office Thursday. Council members who are to assist with the planning are Mesdames B. J. Luckett, J. B. WHAT'S NEW—Jet-age styling has caught up with the household brush. The newest version as two-tone bristles shaped to a point for nudging into corners with soap or detergent suds. A svelte grip-handle holds this brush securely in hand.

To prevent staining a "company" tablecloth, cover it with clear plastic yardage. This adds a lovely sheen and permits using a sudsy sponge to erase spills and spots right on the table! For a season touch, use a solid cloth in the traditional color, arrange appropriate cut-out pictures over the surface and then spread the plastic cover carefully. And remember to launder the cloth itself occasionally.

After leather gloves have been washed, dried, and "worked" on the hands for softening and re-shaping, store them flat and unfolded. To keep them clean, cover with tissue paper rather than a plastic bag. The reasons: leather must be able to "breathe" and tends to discolor if stored in air-tight plastic.

"Fishnets" are fast becoming decorating favorites because these airy fabrics achieve a light, spacious effect on windows and add softness to large wall expanses. Many such nets (made of acrylic, polyester, and nylon fibers) are safely sudsed in washing machines.

Farm Bureau Sets Membership Drive

A meeting of the board of directors of the Coke County Farm Bureau was held Tuesday night. Main point of interest on the program was a report from Ben Boykin, Fred McCabe Jr. and Dolan Mackey, who attended the recent state convention as delegates.

New committees were appointed and it was decided to hold the organization's annual membership drive in February to coincide with the state-wide drive.

A spokesman for the Farm Bureau reminded farmers and ranchmen that it is the largest and most influential farm organization in the country, and that benefits received from member-
