Funds Approved For Second Demo Primary Low Cost Housing To Be Held Saturday

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has announced a Federal loan for construction of 18 low-rent homes at Bronte. Eight of the homes are to be designed for elderly persons.

Average cost to build and equip the new homes is estimated at $10,073 each. The Housing Authority of the City of Bronte will award all contracts for construction.

A $248,483 federal loan will be repaid by the Housing Authority of the City of Bronte from proceeds of the sale of its long-term bonds to private investors.

The loan will provide funds for construction and equipment, site acquisition and improvement, utilities, planning and design fees, space for management, maintenance, tenant activities, interest on the loan, and administrative costs.

A contract between HUD and the Housing Authority of the City of Bronte also provides for annual contributions by the Federal Government. These contributions help keep rents within the means of low-income families.

Freezing Irish Potatoes

Preparation of New Potatoes for Freezing — Select potatoes the size of walnuts. Scrub well in cold water to remove skins, or wash and scrape. Pre-heat in boiling water: 5 to 8 minutes, depending on size.

Cooling: Cool in cold running water 5 to 8 minutes.

Pack: Pack dry without water.

French Fried Potatoes for Freezing

Use mature potatoes suitable for French frying. Wash, peel and cut into sticks 1/4 inch square. Pre-heat sticks in boiling water for two minutes. Cool in cold running water three minutes. Pack dry, without water.

Preparation: Fry in deep fat to light golden brown. Drain thoroughly on absorbent paper. Cool to room temperature. Pack in moisture-vapor-proof frozen food containers.

Thawing and heating: Remove from package, place on baking sheet, reheat in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for five minutes.

Sheers Call For Special Seams

Are you planning to sew with the sheer fabrics, such as voiles and dotted swiss? They are popular this season, but their transparency calls for special treatment of the seams.

There are three different ways to make seams in sheer fabrics.

The first method is to stitch a plain 3/8 inch seam with the right sides of the fabric together. Make another row of stitching within the seam allowance, 1/8 inch from the first seam. Then trim the seam close to the second stitching line.

Another method is to make a French seam by placing the wrong sides of the fabric together. Stitch a plain 3/8 inch seam, and trim the seam allowance 1/8 inch. Then turn the garment with the right sides together and press the garment flat along the seam line. Baste and stitch along the regular 3/8 inch seam line so that the finished seam will be 1/4 inch wide.

A third method of seaming sheer fabrics is a mock French seam. Stitch the right sides of the fabric together along the 3/8 inch seam line. Next turn the raw edges in 1/4 inch toward the seamline and sew together by hand or machine to make a 3/8 inch seam.

Best results are usually obtained by using the French seam on straight seams and the mock French seam on curved seams where fitting is necessary.

When you are choosing a pattern for a sheer fabric, check to see that sheers are recommended. The garment will look better if few seams are in evidence.

Rusty Clothes

While laundry aids are a boon to today's homemaker, problems in their selection and use are compounded by the number on the market and the constantly changing and improving formulas. For example, if you have rust spots on your clothes, the problem may be the way the bluing is used. When researchers at the South Dakota State Agricultural Experiment Station recently answered a woman's call for help, they found nothing wrong with her water supply or equipment. The difficulty turned out to be small specks of non-liquid bluing which remained on the clothes after they had been removed from the washer. When heated — by ironing or in the dryer — the specks of bluing caused rust-like stains. There was nothing wrong with the product. The homemaker had simply failed to dissolve it properly either before or during washing.

Taken to the Cleaners

You may think dry cleaning disinfects your clothes. It doesn't, say U. S. Department of Agriculture microbiologists. Some bacteria are able to live through the dry cleaning process. Few, however, can survive steam finishing and pressing. So, if you use a coin-cleaners, be sure to add the finishing touch to your clothes.

Coke Has Big Share in Oil Industry, Celebrating 100th Birthday In Texas

As Texas celebrates its 100th anniversary as an oil-producing state, Coke County shares in the development that made the Lone Star State the No. 1 energy producing source for a booming American civilization.

In 1866 Lyne T. Barret — a man most history books forgot — drilled the first Texas oil well near Nacogdoches at a depth of 106 feet. In the one hundred years that follow, the search for oil and gas spread to every county in Texas, and today Coke County is one of 210 which produce oil or gas.

Barret and other pioneer Texas oil men left a legacy for Coke County that can be measured at approximately 19.4 million a year, based on statistics compiled by Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

During Texas' first century of oil production (29 billion barrels), Coke County has contributed approximately 130 million barrels, its record dating from 1942.

The latest U. S. Bureau of Mines figures (1964) show Coke County produced more than 5.5 million barrels of crude oil valued at $16.2 million; and 26.2 billions cubic feet of natural gas worth about $3.2 million. The 1965 output would be approximately the same, preliminary estimates indicate.

Coke County ranks 58th among the Texas counties producing oil and gas. It includes one of the state's 97 fields which are classified as "giants" with ultimate recovery estimates in excess of 100 million barrels — the Jameson Field.

Payrolls, distribution of royalty checks to landowners, new drilling ventures and tax payments are some of the ways by which oil and gas revenues are injected into the Coke County economy.

One of the most important "crops" harvested by Texas farmers, ranchers and other landowners is the royalty interest from oil and gas operations. These payments are at the rate of approximately $2.4 million a year in Coke County. Many more thousands a year are paid in lease rentals and bonuses on acreage which operators hope will some day yield oil or gas.

In addition to sharing the tax load for local schools and levels of government, oil and gas producers and royalty owners send some $973,000 a year to the State Treasury in severance taxes. Oil taxes account for $746,000; gas $227,000. Several schools in this county depend on the oil and gas property taxes for a sizeable part of the annual locally-raised budgets. Some examples: Bronte, 61%; Robert Lee, 62%.

Triggered by the first discovery in 1942, the search for oil in Coke County is still under way. The Oil and Gas Journal reported 38 wells were drilled in the county last year. Twenty four of these were "wildcats" seeking new fields or production from new strata. Results: 16 oil wells; 1 gas well; 21 dry holes. Oilmen and other investors risked an estimated $2.8 million in Coke County to drill 204,000 feet of hole. Some $1.5 million disappeared forever in dry holes. One of the most significant technological developments of the last

Social Security Pays $329,088 In Coke

455 persons in Coke County received a total of $329,088.00 in social security benefits in 1965, J. G. Keen, social security assistant district manager in San Angelo, revealed this week, an increase of $35,962.00 and 17 people over the year before.

A large part of the increase in payments resulted from changes made by the social security amendments of 1965, Keen said. Those changes which were in addition to the new program of health insurance for the aged, included a 7% increase in monthly benefits retroactive to January 1965; benefits for widows as early as 60; benefits for full-time students between 18 and 22; benefits for some divorced women; benefits for some people over 72 who hadn't worked long enough to get social security before; and the payment of disability insurance benefits to workers who are unable to work because of a disability that lasts 12 months or more.

"In addition to the people who began getting benefits in 1965 because of these changes," Keen continued, "a good many older people, upon applying for medicare, found they were eligible for regular social security benefits, too. All in all, the 1965 figures for Coke County include 239 retired workers, 23 disabled workers, and 193 wives and children of retired, disabled, or deceased workers. The average monthly social security benefit for Coke County beneficiaries amounted to $60.00 in 1965."

"These figures," Keen said, "show how wide the protection offered by social security has become. Just about every man, woman, and child in Coke County has in social security the assurance that loss of income because of retirement, disability, or death will not result in destitution — and now with medicare everyone has the assurance that the costs of operations or medical services in his later years will not wipe out his savings."

Guests of the Wade Rees family Friday were their cousins, the Johnny Hemlyns of Bay City. Mr. Hemlyn is an engineer with Cele-naise Corp.
