STORM DAMAGE — This trailer house which was parked near the dam at Oak Creek Lake took a hard wind in last Thursday's storm and was upset. Several other trailers were turned over or moved off their foundations.

AD-LIB-BEN

Gov. Preston Smith on June 5 signed into law the bill creating the East Coke County Hospital District, providing voters of precincts 2 and 4 want it. Rep. George Baker sponsored the bill which was House Bill 1462, and Sen. David Ratliff got it through the Senate, even though both houses were extremely busy toward the end of the session.

The question, now that we have authority to establish a hospital district, is what are we going to do with it? The original idea behind the creation of East Coke County Hospital District was to use it as a vehicle for building a nursing home here in Bronte.

We would like to see these plans carried through, because the need for a nursing home is tremendous. Not only is it needed to care for elderly persons in the district, but if space can be made available, there are persons all over the country who are in need of these accommodations.

The first thing needed is an election setting up the district. Then we need to get some plans made on what is needed. Then another election would have to be held approving these plans and providing financing for them. Assistance from federal sources should be checked.

At any rate, citizens of the east side now have legislative approval to carry out whatever plans they care to make.

The dedication of the Robert Lee Dam and E. V. Spence Reservoir last Saturday was a very impressive program. The magnitude of the project and the effort which went into it were brought out by the several speakers on the program. Congressman Omar Burleson was particularly complimentary toward the Colorado River Municipal Water District for its initiative in building the big dam with no help from government sources.

We have often wondered how much the dam and other assets of CRMWD would have cost, had they been financed and built by the federal government. At present the water district has financed all of its projects with bonds in the amount of $53,600,000. This includes Robert Lee Dam, Lake J. B. Thomas, salt water control installations, a vast pipeline system from both lakes westward to Odessa, an underground water field in Martin County and many other smaller installations. There is no way of knowing how much all this would have cost as a government

Last Thursday's Storm Lashes Bronte Country

A storm of major proportions hit this area late last Thursday afternoon and left a trail of damage from wind and hail. Heaviest damage was to the north of Bronte.

Rain gauges in Bronte showed 2½ inches of moisture fell during the short period of the storm. North of town the rain measured up to 5 inches, accompanied by high winds and hail which did heavy damage to small grain crops which had not been cut, as well as to young cotton and feed plants.

The same hail storm which battered the country north of town began doing its damage in the Silver area, swept down through the Sanco community, moved on through the Fort Chadbourne area and on to Winters. Apparently, it increased in intensity as it moved eastward, since damage at Winters was heavier than anywhere else. Estimates of the damage to roofs, windows, trees, etc. at Winters was estimated in excess of $1 million. It was reported there was not an unsheltered window glass left in the town's buildings on the west and north sides.

One Winters man told The Enterprise that he had always heard of baseball size hail, but he had never actually seen it happen before. He added, however, that many of the ice chunks were more like the size of grapefruit.

R. C. Lasswell said he had heavy damage to his crops and house. Charlie Boecking said he had harvested his oat crop but lost his cotton to the hail. Other farmers in that area experienced heavy loss.

Wayman Percifull, who lives northwest of town, had a back porch and patio blown from the north end of his house, over the house and into the front yard. He estimated damage to his house, irrigation pipe and crops at $3,000.

As many as eight house trailers parked at Oak Creek Lake were turned over or blown off their foundations. Some damage was reported to cabins.

Damage in Bronte was light, with a few TV antennas down or bent. Several ceiling panels in the Enterprise office were blown down.

E. F. Glenn, local insurance man, said Wednesday that he has not had too many claims filed in his office. He noted damage to buildings on the places of O. L. Pittman, Mrs. F. S. Higginbotham where the R. T. Caperton family resides, Butner place operated by D. K. Glenn and where the Gaylon Woodards live, in addition to the Lasswell place, which probably had the heaviest damage.

Dam, Lake Dedicated To Good of W. Texas

(From Robert Lee Observer)

A large crowd was present and the weather was perfect for the dedication last Saturday of Robert Lee Dam and E. V. Spence Reservoir. A threat of rain kept everybody wondering, but the cloud cover only made the affair pleasant.

Rep. Omar Burleson, congressman for the 17th District of Texas, was the main speaker for the event. He praised the Colorado River Municipal Water District for its initiative in building the huge lake and was interrupted by applause when he said, "You did it yourselves, without asking anything from Washington."

CRMWD President Charles W. Perry of Odessa opened the program following the barbecue lunch which was served by the Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang.

Perry welcomed visitors and introduced members of the board of directors of CRMWD. John L. Taylor of Big Spring, member of the board, served as master of ceremonies for the remainder of the program.

Taylor introduced O. C. Fisher of San Angelo, congressman for the 21st District, who made a short talk paying tribute to those who worked to get a dam on the Colorado River in Coke County.

Next, Taylor named the three men he called primarily responsible for making the dam possible: J. B. Thomas, president of Texas Electric Service Co., S. W. Freese of the engineering firm Freese, Nichols and Erdress, and the late Col. E. V. Spence, former manager of CRMWD for whom the lake was named.

Thomas and Freese both spoke on early days of the organization

AUSTIN, TEX. — Gov. Preston Smith plans to answer the state's big money question Friday (June 20).

He is expected to announce on a statewide television hookup whether he will veto the Legislature's one-year budget bill and if so, when the special session to mop-up the unfinished finance job will be scheduled.

At noon the following day, the Governor will present further views on the subject when he addresses the 90th Annual Summer Convention of the Texas Press Association at Saturday's luncheon at the Inn of Six Flags in Arlington.

Fate of the $60.4 million teacher pay raise hangs delicately in the financial balance which Smith can tip in several directions with a flick of his veto pen.

State officials are having a hard time agreeing on just how much money is coming in during the next year — and whether there will be enough for both the salary hike and the $2.8 billion one-year budget.

As though the situation were not complicated enough already, Smith could throw it out of balance by vetoing any one — or more — of five revenue-raising bills before him. Or he could square it up again by line-item-vetoing of spending proposals.

He can, of course, veto the entire one-year bill and call legislators back to work promptly on a two-year budget. Many expect him to do just that.

BILLS CHALLENGED — Governor Smith left up in the air the fate of 41 bills and 13 concurrent resolutions passed at the last minute by the recent Legislature. He challenged their validity on two counts.

Smith said the measures — one of which created 28 new district courts — were not signed in the presence of the House and the Senate by the lieutenant governor and the speaker as required

Deadline Told For Water Users

The Texas Water Rights Commission announced recently that final notice of the recording deadline under the Water Rights Adjudication Act of 1967 has been given. Everyone who is using water from a public stream who does not claim under a certified filing or a permit from the State must record his claim by September 1, 1969. Users of water for domestic and livestock watering purposes are exempt from this requirement.

Failure to timely record the claim will "extinguish and bar" the claim of water right according to Sec. 4 of the Adjudication Act. All affected water users who have not already filed their claim are urged by the Commission to do so as soon as possible.

Valid claim will be recognized to the extent of maximum use of water without waste during any year between 1963 and 1967. Where the user was in the process of constructing a system or had facilities to use a larger amount of water on the effective date of the Act than he had actually used, use from 1968 to 1970 may be recognized.

Further information and forms for recording claims under the Water Rights Adjudication Act may be obtained from the Texas Water Rights Commission, P. O. Box 12396, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711.

by the constitution. He contended that they were signed after the Legislature already had gone home. In addition, they reached him seven days later than they should.

A thorough study will be made of their legal status before he acts, pledged Smith. Legislative leaders contend that a logjam of bills caused processing delays that are commonplace at the end of sessions. They say that other governors have not complained.

EDUCATION — Twenty-three college and university educators from around the state have sent Governor Smith a letter asking that he not veto the bill that will increase the cost of education to students by $10 a semester. They are the presidents and chancellors of the various state supported schools. They point out that vetoing the bill will cost the state $4 million a year.

BOND CAMPAIGN MAPPED Committees to ramrod a campaign for a $3.5 billion water development bond issue have been formed under the direction of Governor Smith and former Governors Allan Shivers, Price Daniel and John Connally.

Smith called for a statewide education campaign, warning that the state "stands on brink of water deficiency" unless an imaginative, positive program is carried out.

Austin attorney and former Ambassador to Australia, Ed Clark, heads the finance committee. Barnes will be chairman of senate participation and House Speaker Gus Mutscher directing activities of state representatives. Membership in overall campaign committee includes all but nine Texas legislators. Legislative "holdouts" include two senators and seven representatives.

Blackwell Church Having Revival

The Enterprise made an error in last week's story and ad about the revival meeting now in progress at the Blackwell Baptist Church.

It was stated that Rev. Kenneth F. Cones was doing the preaching and it should have read Kenneth F. Jones. The publisher regrets very much that this error was allowed to be printed.

The services will continue through Sunday. The Rev. James R. Clark, pastor, said that everyone in the area is cordially invited to attend the remaining services.

SPOONTS TO FT. HOOD

Lt. Johnny Spoonst, who was wounded in action in Vietnam recently and sent to a hospital in Japan, is being transferred this week to the hospital at Fort Hood, Texas, near Killeen.

The young Army lieutenant is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bon Spoonst of Abilene and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bruton of Bronte. Mr. Bruton reported that Spoonst called home on Fathers Day to say he was being sent back to Texas, and that it was "the best Fathers Day gift he ever received."

Spoonst has been awarded the Purple Heart and two Bronze Star Medals for his services in South Vietnam.

Breakfast Is Important

Recent brides turned homemakers may believe breakfast takes too much time, is too costly or is unnecessary.

But, an adequate breakfast will help husband and bride feel better and work better.

Research has pointed out that breakfast skipping results in undue fatigue and increases accident rates in the home and at work.

One needs breakfast to refuel the body after 12 to 14 hours' fasting during the night.

Breakfast should fill a third of one's daily nutritional requirements. Coffee and a sweet roll do not meet these needs.

The morning meal should include a meat or eggs, fruit, cereal and/or bread and milk.

Although school is out, children need breakfast to keep them going, regardless of the temperature.

A basic meal of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and spread which studies have shown to be nutritionally adequate should be served.

Make the summer breakfast "cool" by adding fruit to cereal; top that with ice cream. The ice cream replaces the breakfast milk.

A simple breakfast assembled the night before enables boaters, campers and vacationers to get an early start.

Pack fruit, cereal, milk, bread and spread for a nutritious basic breakfast.

Home Economics Tips

Never place breakfast cereals on a shelf used for soap or other cleaning products, or with foods having a strong odor. The aroma will adversely affect the cereals' flavor.

Store packages in a clean, cool dry place. After opening packages, reclose inner wrapping and tops to preserve crispness of the cereals.

Safety Standards on Your Car

Do you know what safety standards your new car should have?

On January 17, the Federal Highway Administrator required auto manufacturers to add to the safety certification label on each car the month and year it was manufactured. The label tells the car identification number.

Present certification labels indicate that the vehicle conforms to all safety standards applicable at the time of manufacture.

Dates are coded.

Unless the customer knows the dates that Federal safety standards became effective and can decipher the manufacturer date, this new label may not benefit the prospective customer in its present form. But it could be a first step toward more cooperation by the automobile manufacturers on fuller disclosure of safety regulations.

Rules for Revolution Still Working

On a dark night in May 1919, two lorries rumbled across a bridge and on into the town of Dusseldorf. Among the dozen rowdy, singing "Tommys" apparently headed for a gay evening were two representatives of the Allied military intelligence. These men had traced a wave of indiscipline, mutiny and murder among the troops to the local headquarters of a revolutionary organization established in the town.

Pretending to be drunk, they brushed by the sentries and arrested the ringleaders—a group of 13 men and women seated at a long table.

In the course of the raid the Allied officers emptied the contents of the safe. One of the documents found in it contained a specific outline of "Rules for Bringing About a Revolution." It is reprinted here to show the strategy of materialistic revolution, and how personal attitudes and habits of living affect the affairs of nations:

"A. Corrupt the young. Get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial, destroy their ruggedness.

"B. Get control of all means of publicity and thereby:

"1. Get people's minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books and plays and other trivialities.

"2. Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.

"3. Destroy the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding these latter up to ridicule, obloquy and contempt.

"4. Always preach true democracy, but seize power as fast and as ruthlessly as possible.

"5. By encouraging government extravagance, destroy its credit, produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general discontent.

"6. Foment unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders and foster a lenient and soft attitude on the part of government toward such disorders.

"7. By specious arguments cause the breakdown of the old moral virtues: honesty, sobriety, continence, faith in the pledged word, ruggedness.

"C. Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext, with a view to confiscating them and leaving the population helpless." — From NEW WORLD NEWS, February 1945.

and told of getting it "off the ground." They had high praise for the leadership of Colonel Spence during the early life of CRMWD.

Taylor also praised Colonel Spence for "taking the dream (of a dam on the Colorado) and making it a reality." Taylor also stated that when the colonel died, there was a pause in the operation of the water district, but there was no stop. He explained Spence had groomed present manager O. H. Ivey for the job and the operation continued almost uninterrupted.

Last part of the program was the introduction of Mrs. Spence who unveiled a plaque which shows the name of the dam and lake, along with a list of CRMWD officials.

A large number of dignitaries were recognized including Gerald C. Allen, L. T. Youngblood and Cumbe Ivey Sr., members of the board of the Upper Colorado River Authority; State Senators David Ratliff of Stamford and Pete Snelson of Odessa; Representatives Renal B. Rosson of Snyder, Ace Pickens of Odessa and Tom Craddick of Midland; Robert Spence, nephew of the late Colonel Spence; H. A. Beckwith, former member of the Texas Water Board, and Judge Otha F. Dent, present member of the Texas Water Rights Commission.

Historical Tour Held Last Week

Representatives of the Coke County Historical Survey Committee and of the Coke County 4-H Club Council conducted an historical tour Monday honoring Miss Elsa Joberg of Ponsberg, Norway. Miss Joberg, who is in the United States under the sponsorship of the National 4-H Foundation, is presently living with the E. S. Derrick family at their ranch home in the Sanco community, north of Robert Lee.

Other out-of-county guests for the tour were Miss Suzanne McBurnett of Odessa, who is on a training assignment here with the Home Demonstration agent, and Byron Jay Varnadore of Houston.

Furnishing cars for the ten persons taking the tour were Mrs. A. J. Roe Jr., home demonstration agent and secretary of the Historical Survey Committee, and Mrs. Royce Smith, both of Robert Lee.

Historical points visited included Hayrick cemetery, and the site of the first county seat of Coke County at Hayrick, the ghost town of Fort Chadbourne, the ruins of Fort Chadburne and the Fort Chadbourne Cemetery, both established in 1852, and an Indian rock shelter, which contains Indian writings and other carvings of interest.

The group returned by way of Bronte and viewed historical markers there. Mrs. Bryan Yarbrough, chairman of the Coke County Historical Survey Committee, served as commentator for the tour.

project, but we would not be afraid to guesstimate it at over $100 million.

Many projects would never materialize without help of Uncle Sam, but this looks like a good example of how much cheaper and better things can be accomplished by free enterprise with top notch personnel and management.

It all boils down to the fact that any money we get from Washington first has to be sent there by us or somebody. Then, it has to be shipped back to us. The big rub is the thousands of sticky fingers it passes through going and coming.

Of course, another way of looking at it is that all the money handlers in the nation's capital have to have jobs, and if they weren't busy studying and approving federal projects, many of them would be out of work. Their number is sufficient to throw the country into economic chaos if they were told some sunny morning, "We don't need you any more."

It's probably another one of those unanswerable questions.
