VOL. 13. ROBERT LEE, COKE COUNTY, TEXAS. MAY, 13, 1904. NO 45.

FOR PEOPLE.

Ob, ye men who prate of college, And of books as doors to hope, Go and give the living knowledge Where the toiling people grope Like the plants in shadowy places, They are needing sun to bloom, They are hungering for life's graces, They are wanting light and room.

Give them something more of pleasure Than ten-million dol'ar tomes, Give them work and give them leisure, Give them clubs and give them homes Open wide the door of beauty And invite the people in-And you'll find the paths of duty Better filled than paths of sin.

Ob. I can't sit debating On the issue of a creed With the mighty work that's waiting And the worlds tremendous need; And the cold, dogmatic steeple Bringe no pennies from my purse, While the people, people, people Groau beneath oppression's curse.

While the tenements are recking With the striving toiling poor, Do not sand your churchmen seeking Help for "heathens" to my door. Let them go where sin carouses, Or where secthing sweatshops stand, Let them see the slaughter houses Of the children of our land.

True reform has one beginning. The right hand of brotherhood. Would you help men out of sinning? Would you lead them unto good? Would you tes h that Christ has riseu? Prove it by your deeds of worth. If you want to close the prison, Beautify the homes of earth.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Robert Lee has again been ree ognized as a suitable place for a State Summer Normal. The people of the town afe glad to render every effort possible to make the session a decided; success; Teachers will not be able to fud a more social and hospitable citizenship anywhere. A literary society will be organized and maintainted through the Normal, developing oratory, music, reading etc. Good board may be obtained for $5 to $10 per month. The Normal here is giving an ex tra week for the benefit of its tenchers, making them more sure of passing the examination. Each subject that is taken up is finish. ed during the Normal, thereby giving an entire course in each branch that is studied. At the close of the Normal an examination will be held for State certif! cates. Each applicant must attend at least three weeks to be entitled to take the examination.

The papers with $1 will be sent to the State Board of Examiners' to be graded. An average of 85° per cent and not falling below 50 per cent on any subject will entitle the applicant ton six years' State certificate; or an average of 75 per cent and not falting below of on any subject a four years. State Certificate. We have a strong Faculty to teach the Normal,-W. J. Mc Farland, Conductor, T. D. Evans, N. C. Brown! F. K. Popplewell, G. C. Rhea. and Mrs T. D. Evans, associates. The work between the teacher will be specialized as nearly as possible, no teacher having more than four or five subjects to teach. The teaching will be done mostly by outlines and lectures, therefore any good text on each branch' may be used, not necessitating any expense for the purchase of new books, but if you' des to have certain texts they be had at wholesale price he back lines give about a one e rate for round trip to Normanpils.

Those desiring to built permanent or permanent Smary may do so by taking the aitional subjects: The Norma bend June 20th, and closes Julytth. For a catalog or fuller partiture write W. J. McFarland, Iber Lee, Texas.

The Úseful Camel.

The Somali camel can (sat everything and drinks nothings will make a meal where even the country pony would starve. Daremo, mimosa, acacia-all come alike to it; and when shoots and eaves are withered it can fall back on roots, thorns, bark. That sort of digestion makes it, of course, valuable in a country where the bill of fare seems compiled in the interest of the carnivora, but its indifference to liquid is its special virtue. While the Arab came! needs drink daily, his Somali brethren when on a march are watered only every fifth day and when drouth prevails may be left for ten. When grazing they are supposed to be watered everysixth day, but such regularity de pends on the energy of the herd ers and the condition of the grass, the herds when the grass is green being often left with water for as long as th months.

WORLD'S FAIR.

y Beautiful Pavilions and Preten Buildings Show Forth the erprise of American

A beautiful city has grown up among the trees on the World's Fair grounds at St. Louis. It has nothing to do with the immense exhibit painces; but is a thing spart. The bouses in this new ture. Some are palatial in size and appearance, while others look merely cozy and inviting. Never before have so many notable and historic buildings been constructed in one group. This new city might be called the City of the States, for the houses included in it are the state buildings at the Fair.

The city is not compact, but somewhat straggling, as betits the picturcoqueness of the view. Yet there is nothing suggestive of a Stringtownon-the-Pike about this city, for the grounds surrounding each of the bouses are beautified with gardens typical of the state represented.

All the states are to be represented at the World's Fuir. This means a great deal, a shiming triumph for the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and furnishes another illustration of the fact that this Exposition's completes is the marvel of the age.

Fifty-one states, territories and possions of the United States have taken the steps necessary to participate in the World's Fair on an important scale. But two states were still outside the fold at the last report, and in each of these was a well defined vement in favor of being represented at the Fair with buildings and exhibits. New Hampshire, the old home state, and Delaware are the states referred to. In New Hampshire a fund for participation is being raised priwhitely by patriotic citizens, so that in the event of legislative inaction this commonwealth may be represented.

The states and territories are expending over $7,000,000 in their efforts to show off to best adventinge at the Exposition. This is a million and a third more than was expended at the Chiengo exposition by the states. In addition to this, large cities in many ONE WAY COLONIST TICKstates will have municipal exhibits, the funds for which are not included in these figures. The municipal exhibit of the states there will be prominent manty exhibits provided by special appropriation of county funds.

This City of the States presents a leture of surpassing beauty. Nature done much to aid in the creation of the picture. Never before has any exposition been able to grant such advantageous sites for state buildings. The buildings are situated on a piateau shout seventy five feet higher than the level ground to the north upon which FORONLY $25.0() main exhibit palaces. The are hills and ravines here and there enabling the landscapists to lay out a most delightful pattern of roads and erraces and lawns.

The smallest of the state buildings is that of Arizona, which stands near the southeastern entrance to the grounds One of the largest is that of Missouri, from the dome of which it is said that perhaps the very firest view of the Exposition may be enjoyed. This building is a palace in the Italian renaimance architecture, built at a cost of $105,000. Near by is the reproducwhich the Louisiana Purchase transfer of highly ornate design, in the architecture of the French renaissance. Illinois is prominent with a most pretentious structure, with wide verandas and a commanding cupols.

d description of each of the state buildings, with any detail, would more than fill a newspaper page. It is only possible here to hint at some of the interesting structures. California, for being proportionately earlier. fastance, has reproduced in exact size the famous old La Rabida Mission. Connecticut presents a replica of the Sigourney residence at Hartford, home of the poetess Lydla Huntley Sigonsper in her time. This building is said to be the finest specimen of purely colonial architecture now standing. The New Kentucky Home, from the Blue Grass I tate, is a handsome club-House that would make some of the mansions along Fifth avenue, New York city, look insignificant. Beauvoir, the quaint old house which Jefferson Davis owned and occupied for many genre, is reproduced by Missis-C sippi. Its wide verandas or galleries give it a most inviting appearance. Washington's Beadquarters at Morris town, N. J., are reproduced by New Jersey. Virginia contributes Montieello, the home of Thomas Jefferson.

The state of Washington contributes a structure of unique design: It is called the Wigwam. five stories high, built of wood from Washington forests. The building is octagonal, with gigantic diagonal timbers rising from the ground and meeting in an opex sinety feet in the air, above which is built an observatory, from which a splendid view of the Expost-Mon may be bad. An elevator will earry visitors to the observatory.

New York Pennsylvania, Ohio, Aras, Colorado, West Virginia, in ns. Wisconsin, Texas and many ther states are represented by buty ings which cannot fuff to arouse stration. The Texas building is the shape of a tive pointed star. ppropriate idea for the big I tow. with classic porticoes of tower contain chamber. Kansas tious Buildings Show Forth the Enterprise of American Commonwealths.

A beautiful city has grown up among the trees on the World's Fair grounds theory of scientists is that there is pearance, while others look merely cozy a peculiar formation of stalactites and inviting. Never before have so in a cave there with an opening many notable and historic buildings somewhere through which the been constructed in one group. This

The city is not compact, but some thedral, who abducted Indian wo- on-the-Pike about this city, for the are beautified with gardens typical of great deal, a shining triumph for the Louislana Purchase Exposition, and turnishes another illustration of the fact that this Exposition's completeness is the marvel of the age.

Fifty-one states, territories and pos sessions of the United States have taken the steps necessary to particlpate in the World's Pair on an important scale. But two states were still outside the fold at the last report, and in each of these was a well defined movement in favor of being represented at the Fair with buffdings and exhibits. New Hampshire, the old home state, and Delaware are the states referred to. In New Hampshire a fund for participation is being raised privately by patriotic citizens, so that in the event of legislative inaction this commonwealth may be represented.

The states and territories are expending over $7,000,000 in their efforts to show off to best advantage at the Exposition. This is a million and a third more than was expended at the Chicago exposition by the states. In addition to this, large cities in many states will have municipal exhibits, the funds for which are not included in these figures. The municipal exhibit idea is entirely novel. From a number of the states there will be prominent county exhibits provided by special appropriation of county funds.

This City of the States presents a picture of surpassing beauty. Nature has done truch to aid in the creation of the picture. Never before has any exposition been able to grant such advantageous sites for state buildings. The buildings are situated on a plateau about seventy-five feet higher than the level ground to the north upon which stand the main exhibit palaces. There are hills and ravines here, and there, enabling the landscapisti to lay out a most delightful pattern of roads and terraces and lawns. The smallest of the state buildings is that of Arizona, which stands near the southeastern entrance to the grounds. One of the largest is that of Missouri, from the dome of which it is said that perhaps the very finest view of the Exposition may be enjoyed. This building is a palace in the Italian renaissance architecture, built at a cost of $105,000. Near by is the reproduction of the Cabildo at New Orleans, in which the Louisiana Purchase transfer ceremonies took place - Louislana's state building. Oblo has a clubhouse of highly ornate design, in the architecture of the French renaissance. Illinois is prominent with a most pretentious structure, with wide verandas and a commanding cupola.

A description of each of the state buildings, with any detail, would more than fill a newspaper page. It is only possible here to hint at some of the interesting structures. California, for instance, has reproduced in exact size the famous old La Rabida Mission. Connecticut presents a replica of the Sigourney residence at Hartford, home of the poetess Lydia Huntley Sigourney in her time. This building is said to be the finest specimen of purely colonial architecture now standing. The New Kentucky Home, from the Plue Grass State, is a handsome clubhouse that would make some of the mansions along Fifth avenue, New York city, look insignificant. Benuvotr, the quaint old house which Jefferson Davis owned and occupied for many years, is reproduced by Missis-Its wide verandas or gaileries give it a most inviting appearance Washington's headquarters at Morris town, N. J., are reproduced by New Virginia contributes Montfcello, the home of Thomas Jefferson

The state of Washington contributes a structure of unique design. It is called the Wigwam, five high, built of wood from Washington forests. The building is octagonal. with gigantic diagonal timbers rising from the ground and meeting in an apex ninety, pet in the air, above which a splendid view of the Exposition may be had.
