

Severe Grasshopper Infestation Anticipation 1938

Egg counts made by county agricultural agents and Federal and State entomologists during the fall and winter indicate that Texas may expect a severe grasshopper infestation in the late spring and early summer of 1938, according to R. R. Reppert, entomologist of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service.

Surveys conducted by Reppert have led him to anticipate a much more severe infestation than was suffered in 1937.

In 9 counties, he expects that almost all susceptible crops will be attacked by the insects, in 7 counties half to three-fourths of the crops are endangered, in 17 counties the anticipated infestation will be from 30 to 50 percent, and in 48 counties the insects are expected to effect from 4 to 30 percent of the crop.

In addition, Reppert expects infestations of varying degrees in 23 counties in which complete surveys were not attempted. Major outbreaks are indicated in the upper Pandhandle and in north and north central Texas, with probable damage in the middle valleys of the Brazos and Trinity rivers.

The control measures hinges upon putting out poisoned bait as the grasshoppers emerge, and before they have had time to spread and multiply, Reppert pointed out. The 1937 control campaign returned more than a hundred dollars for each dollar spent, and saved crops valued at more than 5 million dollars.

It is estimated that there is a probable need for 14,000 tons of bait in the 1938 control campaign, or approximately six times the amount used in 1937. Plans have already been made for the distribution, mixing, and application of this material.

Methodist W. M. S.

Mrs. A. E. Latham was hostess to the Methodist W. M. S. when the group met at the church Monday afternoon for a study of the second division of the book 'The Radiant Heart' which was directed by Mrs. J. S. Gardner.

Other members present were Mesdames J. K. Griffith, Earl Hoggard, J. S. Craddock, Lizzy Hester, Elzie Wright, Frank Keading and Marvin Simpson.

Ariolets

The Ariolets met Tuesday after school hours at the home of Bryce and Louise Stewart for the regular meeting.

Plans for the year book was the chief matter of business and an enjoyable counting game furnished diversion.

The hostesses served cocoa with whipped cream and cookies.

All members of the club were present.

Crop and Feed Loans

Applications for emergency crop and feed loans for 1938 are now being received at Adams Abstract Co., Robert Lee by D. H. Harrison, Field Supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Credit Administration.

The loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers who cannot obtain credit from any other source. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1938 crops or for the purchase of feed for livestock, and the amount which may be loaned to any one farmer in 1938 may not exceed $400.

Farmers who can obtain the funds they need from an individual, production credit association, bank, or other concern are not eligible for crop and food loans from the Emergency Crop and Food Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration. The loans will not be made to standard rehabilitation clients whose current needs are provided for by the Farm Security Administration, formerly known as the Resettlement Administration.

As in the past, farmers who obtain emergency crop and food loans will give as security a first lien on the crop financed, or a first lien on the livestock to be fed if the money borrowed is to be used to produce or purchase food for livestock.

Where loans are made to tenants, the landlords, or others having an interest in the crops financed or the livestock to be fed, are required to waive their claims in favor of a lien to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration until the loan is repaid.

Checks in payment of approved loans will be mailed from the Regional Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office, Dallas, Texas.

Volley Ball Girls Win

Mrs. S. E. Adams and her volley ball team brought back a second place banner Saturday night, won in a contest with twelve strong teams which met in a tourney at Blackwell. The girls fought it out in the front lines throughout the tourney, winning all but one game and coming out second in the finals with Highland team nabbing first. Consolation banners were awarded to Bronte and Wingate.

In a match game with Sanco Friday night, the Robert Lee grammar grade volley ball team won three of five games.

Saturday night of this week the Blackwell team will meet Robert Lee here for a match game.

Word was received here Sunday of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Allen Davis of Taft. Mrs. Davis was formerly Miss Dorothy Clift. Her mother is with her.

Needle Craft Bazaar March Eighteenth

The Ariel Study Club of Robert Lee is sponsoring a Needle Craft Bazaar on March 19, to be held in the building formerly occupied by the Landers Variety Store.

Ladies of Coke County are invited to bring for exhibit their quilts, handwork, or antiques. There will be ribbons given for first, second and third places. Anyone wishing to place exhibits in the show see Mrs. Gerald Allen, Mrs. George Taylor, or Mrs. A. F. Landers. There will be a doll show for the little girls and prizes will be given.

A ten cents admission ticket will entitle you to a chance on the quilt top to be given away at 4:30 o'clock.

Mrs. T. M. Wiley, chairman of the Art Department, is in charge of general arrangements.

Street Work

The main street of Robert Lee, as well as some of the lateral streets, are being "dressed up" with three inches of a gravel and dirt combination, which is going to make a fine street.

Some eight or ten dump trucks worked two nights moving the dirt and the trucks were loaded by a road shovel, which could load a truck in about five seconds, and it is estimated that more than three thousand yards of dirt and gravel were placed on the streets.

The city and business firms and individuals are financing the work, and we understand $350,000 was subscribed for the purpose.

$52,000 Recommended for County Road Work

The county judge working for about 18 months through the Board of County and District Road Indebtedness, a board entirely separate and apart from the State Highway Department and composed of state comptroller, Geo. Sheppard, state treasurer, Charlie Lockhart, state highway engineer, Julian Montgomery and chief accountant, W. H. Gordon, has succeeded in getting the approval and recommendation of Mr. Gordon for state aid to the extent of $52,000 on a $100,000 road bond issue voted in 1929 and covering the San Angelo-Corpus Christi road through Precinct No. 1. Because the funds were expended without a road designation from Robert Lee through to the Mitchell county line, Mr. Gordon ruled that only that portion of the road from the Tom Green county line to Robert Lee was eligible to state aid. Since, however, the bond covers the entire precinct, all of Precinct No. 1 will benefit by the aid which, if granted, will save the tax-payers of the precinct $2,000 a year.

Mr. Gordon was in Robert last week and audited the bond funds and the judge is encouraged to hope for a definite approval of the aid at an early date.

Mr. Bowman extends an urgent invitation to the public to the public to attend and enjoy the meet with the high school classes.

Mrs. W. R. Walker and the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker are taking treatment in San Angelo. Friends will be delighted to learn that 'Mother' Walker has improved so that she is able to walk some.

Farm Foreclosure Averted

Many farmers are losing their property or undergoing heavy expense to save it, because they fail to take advantage of debt adjustment services offered by the Farm Security Administration, it is reported by T. F. Andrus, FSA's county supervisor. Guy H. Tomlinson was in conference recently with B. Miller, FSA's supervisor for this district, to develop plans for spreading information on debt adjustment.

"The county advisory committee for debt adjustment meets every month, and sometimes oftener, but it is not necessary for a farmer to take his case directly to them," Mr. Andrus said. "If he will come to the FSA office, I will go over his situation and advise him what the next step should be." Wherever action is taken in time, a satisfactory adjustment can usually be reached with little expense, the supervisor said, but the chances of settlement are decreased and the expense is increased when the debtor waits until foreclosure proceedings are about to be taken.

One case, recently foreclosed, could have been adjusted if application to the farm Security Administration had been made a few weeks earlier, he said. The farm involved in this case will be saved for its present owner by taking advantage of the reorganization provided under the Frazer-Lemke Amendment to the Bankruptcy Act, but the owner will have to pay $192.00 in attorney's fees, which would have been saved to him by earlier action. The supervisor cited a contrasting case, in which a farmer was about to be foreclosed on an $1800 mortgage. Negotiations covering several months resulted in the mortgage owner accepting a cash settlement of $1000.

To Present Play

Young people of the Green Mountain community will present a play, The Path Across the Hill, at the Green Mountain school Friday night. This event will take the place of the monthly night meeting of the local P.T.A.

The cast of characters includes Elton Neel, Autrey Cook, Dalton Schoeler, Joe Schooler, Willie Price, Margaret Garvin, Larue Millican, Eva Powers, Opal Dean Powers, and Helen Hines.

Mrs. Shelton and Mrs. Powell are directing the play.

Bro. Hayhurst will conduct a series of meetings at the Church of Christ beginning Friday night lasting through Sunday night.

Members of the Silver Baptist church will meet this coming Sunday afternoon to re-organize the Sunday school. Rev. DeLashaw, recently called pastor, will meet with the group and help in the organization.

Demands Colonies, Threatens Czechs and Says Germany Doesn't Fear War . . . Anthony Eden Resigns

Hitler Defies the World

POLITICAL turmoil spread over Europe after Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, in an address to the reichstag, declared his intention to make Germany one of the most powerful nations in the world, gave warning that it was re-arming and did not fear war though it desired peace, and demanded the return of Germany's lost colonies. Furthermore, Hitler upheld the aggressive actions of Italy and Japan, and asserted that Germany would not tolerate ultimate victory of the loyalist faction in Spain over Franco's rebel forces.

Adolf Hitler

The Fuehrer told with gratification of his success in compelling Chancellor Schuschnigg to give the Austrian Nazis representation in his cabinet and to permit them to act as a political party. He gave no assurance that the independence of Austria would be preserved. He openly threatened similar action against Czechoslovakia unless the Germans in that country were granted "political liberty."

Hitler's speech might be summarized as a declaration that Germany will ignore Great Britain, France and other western powers in carrying out her international policies, will continue her efforts to destroy the last vestiges of the general settlements which followed the World War; will insist that the "have not" nations must be restored to a basis of equality with the "have" powers, and is prepared to defy any combination of powers which may be formed against her.

Here are some of the other things Hitler told the reichstag:

Germany refuses to accept "credits or other promises" in substitution for the colonies taken from her by the treaty of Versailles.

Reports of dissension between the Nazi hierarchy and the Reichswehr are "nonsense" and in his new role as supreme commander of the Reich's armed forces he has decided to "strengthen the army to prevent the menace of war."

Germany has no intention of returning to the League of Nations.

Halifax Succeeds Eden

REFUSING to go along with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in his plans to "buy" a friendly settlement with Germany and Italy, Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary who has fought the ambitions of European dictators for two years, resigned from the cabinet. With him went Viscount Cranborne, the principal foreign undersecretary. Viscount Halifax was appointed to succeed Eden temporarily. This change was in effect another triumph for Hitler, was especially regretted by France, and threatened to precipitate a serious crisis for the British government.

Viscount Halifax, lord president of the council and former viceroy of India, is a personal friend of Hitler and an insistent advocate of immediate friendship with Germany and Italy, even at the cost of great concessions by Britain. He was sent to Berlin not long ago to talk over matters with the Nazi leaders.

Eden told the house of commons that he had resigned rather than deal with Italy in the face of Premier Mussolini's "rife, hostile propaganda" against Britain and Il Duce's "glorification" of victories in Spain.

Chamberlain boldly told the house of commons that his government would begin negotiations with Italy at once in hopes of obtaining a friendly settlement. He put forward a four-power peace plan designed to eliminate the dangers of war in Europe. As members of the pact, he advocated Germany, Italy, France, and Britain.

French Worried

PREMIER CHAUMETEMS and other high French officials saw, in Hitler's words concerning German minorities in other lands a definite threat against Czechoslovakia, a military ally of France, whose security the French are bound to defend. There are about 3,000,000 Germans in that country.

From Prague, the Czech capital, came word that Czechoslovakia would not even negotiate with Germany regarding autonomy for those Germans and would not yield to coercion as did Austria. Officials said that if negotiations are Hitler's aim, they would be regarded as "infringement of Czechoslovakia's sovereignty, and therefore not acceptable."

As for the prospective British-Italian agreement, the French government was fearful that Chamberlain's overtures to Mussolini would take a course that France could not follow without risk of alienating its own Socialist and Communist elements. The government, however, was determined to keep unbroken its close relations with Britain.

For Price Increases

BEFORE going to Hyde Park for a short vacation, President Roosevelt announced two moves designed to restore prosperity. He declared the administration's economic policies are being directed toward a limited increase in prices, to be achieved without inflation or any substantial increase in the cost of living.

He ordered the Reconstruction Finance corporation to renew its lending to industry and the railways. The President specifically mentioned farm prices as needing to be increased. On the other hand, he said certain other prices, such as those in the building industry, have remained at a high level for the last few years.

Earle Wants Toga

GOV. GEORGE H. EARLE of Pennsylvania announced his candidacy for United States senator, standing on his record as governor and continued support of the Roosevelt administration.

"If elected a member of the senate, I shall continue my services on behalf of the principles which have marked the Roosevelt administration and my own administration in Harrisburg," Earle said.

Kennedy Now Ambassador

JOSEPH P. KENNEDY took the oath as ambassador to Great Britain in the office of President Roosevelt and will soon leave for his new post. He resigned as chairman and member of the maritime commission and Mr. Roosevelt appointed as new head of that body Rear Admiral Emory S. Land of Colorado, retired chief of the navy's bureau of construction, who has been a member of the board since last April. To fill out Kennedy's term the President selected Max O'Rell Truitt of St. Louis, who has been the commission's counsel.

Mr. Kennedy apparently lost out in his squabble with Secretary of Labor Perkins concerning legislation to curb labor disorders in the American merchant marine. Both of them appealed to the President but that gentleman did not indicate his stand on the pending bill which Kennedy favored and Madame Perkins and the C. I. O. opposed.

Ortiz Inaugurated

ROBERTO O. ORTIZ was inaugurated president of Argentina for a six-year term, and pledged himself to maintain democracy. In a speech to the congress he said: "As a candidate I ratified my faith in democracy. That implied a solemn promise to respect liberty and guarantees of the constitution."

He went on to say that only a strong people can maintain peace and justice under present world conditions. Therefore, he added, development and perfection of armed institutions and moral reserve of the nation would be his special preoccupation.

Army Planes' Great Flight

SIX bombing planes of the United States army air corps successfully completed an epochal mass flight of 6,000 miles from Miami, Fla., to Buenos Aires. The only intermediate stop was at Lima, Peru. From there the bombers roared over the snow-capped Andes and landed at the Argentine capital, where thousands cheered the aviators. The planes carried 48 men besides the flight commander, Lieut. Col. Robert Olds.

Wallace Gets Busy

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE WALLACE is losing no time in putting into effect the new farm law which gives him increased powers over production. He announced the 1938 marketing quotas for cotton and two types of tobacco to start with. The national cotton acreage allotment was set at approximately 26,300,000 compared with last year's planted acreage of 34,383,000.

Sec. Wallace

The flue cured tobacco quota was fixed at 704,000,000 pounds, compared with the 1937 production of 850,000,000 pounds. The quota for dark tobacco was set at 145,000,000 pounds.

These quotas will remain in effect through the marketing year, subject to approval by two-thirds of the affected producers. Referenda among the producers are scheduled for March 12.

Cotton acreage allotments will be apportioned among individual farmers by local committees of producers.

Rescued from Ice Floe

FOUR Russian scientists, who spent nine months at an observation post near the North pole, were rescued, with their records and equipment from their ice floe that was drifting along the east coast of Greenland. This ice raft had carried them more than a thousand miles and was reached with difficulty by icebreaking vessels.

Rumania Goes Fascist

RUMANIA is now a Fascist corporative state of guilds patterned after Italy. This was settled when King Carol proclaimed the new constitution, which provides for a parliament composed of guilds of farmers, workers and intellectuals. Both the chamber of deputies and the senate are reduced in size and election of members is to be by trades and professions, not by political parties. The king will appoint half the senators and will have veto power over all legislation. All Rumanians are declared equal, with radical distinctions, and religious freedom is granted with the Orthodox Rumanian church as the state religion. Trials by jury are abolished and the death penalty reintroduced for certain crimes.

NEW YORK.—A bequest of $1,000,000, left to Harvard university by Mrs. Agnes Wahl Nieman, will make it possible for newspaper men to go to school at Harvard.

Scribes Get Free Course at Harvard It might be better if they would go to school to John Stewart Bryan, handsome, fluent, and erudite head of the committee which will pick the candidates for the Harvard sabbatical years.

Mr. Bryan is publisher of the Richmond News-Leader and president of the College of William and Mary. He talks rapidly and interestingly on poetry, politics, history, philosophy, the classics and humanities. If Mrs. Nieman had engaged him to do $1,000,000 worth of traveling and talking to newspaper men, instead of giving the money to Harvard, the light shed in the dark caverns of journalistic minds surely would have matched any possible Harvard effulgence. And, like Erasmus, Mr. Bryan loves to travel and talk.

The glow in Mr. Bryan's own mind was imparted partly by Harvard and partly by the University of Virginia. Of the southern aristocrat, he practiced law in Richmond and then engaged with his father, the late Joseph Bryan, in energetic co-management of the family newspaper, then the Richmond Times. The elder Mr. Bryan had established a tradition of independence which his son has maintained.

With the passing of such free-swinging journalists as Halstead, Greeley, Watter-son, and, more recently, Fremont Older, Mr. Bryan remains one of the few distinguished exemplars of that kind of spark-plug newspapering.

Example of Spark Plug Journalist He was president of the American Newspaper Publishers' association from 1926 to 1928.

Sixty-six years old, he still keeps up with his horsemanship, taking all the jumps until a few years ago. He is caught up in an incredible whirl of directorates, public and civic posts, clubs, philanthropies and social and political activities—always with time to talk.

Mme. Dupuy Gave France the Funnies MME. PAUL DUPUY, whose French chateau is now occupied by the duke and duchess of Windsor, was the first publisher to introduce American comic strips in France. The French liked the comics, but they wouldn't take the columnists. Mme. Dupuy found they liked to do their own interpreting and shied away from omniscience in all forms.

She is the American-born widow of Paul Dupuy. When M. Dupuy died in 1927, he left in her hands the biggest string of newspapers and magazines in France.

In the French tradition, in which the widow quietly assumes command of the cafe or shop, she picked up the vast publishing business, managing it at first from a sickbed, as she was convalescing from a long illness.

The publications included the Daily Petit Parisien, with a circulation of 1,800,000; Dimanche Illustré, a Sunday newspaper in which Mme. Dupuy introduced the first Sunday supplement in France; La Science et la Vie, comparable to the Scientific American; Omnia, an automobile journal; Le Republicain des Hautes-Pyrenees, a provincial daily; Nos Loisirs, a women's magazine; Agriculture Nouvelle, a weekly, and several others.

Mme. Dupuy was Helen Browne, blonde and beautiful daughter of William H. and Mary C. Browne of New York. She attended the Anne Browne school for young ladies at 715 Fifth avenue, New York. Studying in Paris, she met M. Dupuy, son of the founder of the Petit Parisien.

They were married in 1907 and have two sons and a daughter, the Princess de Polignac. For many years, their marriage has been cited as one ideal international romance—a bit of background which is, no doubt, of interest to the duke and duchess as they move into her charming old Chateau de la Maye, near Versailles.

Unwelcome, Perhaps, But Insulted—Never!

The young man had been overjoyed at getting a job as commercial traveler, but after a week he began to feel rather fed up.

"How are you getting on?" inquired an old hand at the game. "Badly," was the reply. "I have been insulted at every place I have visited."

"That's strange," was the reply. "I've been on the road 40 years. I have had my samples flung into the street. I have been taken by the scruff of the neck and hurled downstairs, and I don't deny that I have been rolled in the gutter. But insulted—never in all my years of experience have I been insulted!"

CHAPTER I

They sat facing each other, separated by thirty-seven years, two utterly different temperaments, and six feet of priceless wine-colored Bokhara that covered the old davenport. James Lambert, who found it difficult to relax when he intended to be unrelenting, sat stiffly, arms folded, at his end of the six feet. Leonora at hers was curled up in the manner of a little girl, her head with its aureole of pale gold hair resting upon a velvet cushion—one small, silver-clad foot dangling against the gorgeous color of the old Bokhara like some barbaric jewel from the Orient.

Though a log blazed cheerily on the hearth, the atmosphere of the room was tense with disapproval—James Lambert's disapproval. Said Leonora, resuming a discussion which dinner had interrupted:

"But that's no reason, Dad. No reason at all."

"No reason!" James paused, presumably to clear his throat but in reality to curb his temper. Past experience had taught him that it was futile to rage at this bewildering foster-daughter. She merely laughed at you. He wondered, the old wound aching for a moment, if the Italian baritone who had lured his wife away from him, possessed that quality. The girl's mother had been quick to anger; but Leonora simply wouldn't get mad no matter what the provocation. She laughed, and that made a man feel foolish—disarmed his dignity; and dignity, James sometimes thought with bitterness, was all he had, unless one counted a fat bank balance. His sense of humor that Nora loved, but which too often raised its head in disconcerting moments, he refused to consider an asset. But dignity was something one shouldn't trifle with, so he endeavored to be reasonable.

"Unless a house is founded upon a rock, my child, it will not survive."

"Nor will one that isn't founded upon love," retorted Leonora. "You can't beat that, Dad."

"In my case," he replied coldly, "love did not prove a firm foundation." And added, not wishing to pursue the subject of his own marital catastrophe: "Be sensible, Nora. That boy will never in the world provide for you." He threw an appraising glance at the silver slippers. "Just face the facts honestly, my dear. He is twenty-seven. By his own unabashed confession he dropped college after a few months merely because it bored him; and what has he accomplished since then, in the years that should have given him a start in life? Nothing. Absolutely nothing. Can you deny it?"

A maddening smile curved Leonora's adorable mouth.

"That depends on what you consider a start in life, Dad. He's got some perfectly corking memories."

"Memories!" James was obliged to clear his throat again; then said with sarcasm: "You'll find, I fear, that even the most delightful memories won't pay the butcher."

"And a thousand dollars," added the girl naively. "It's in the Farmers and Mechanics Bank downtown."

The sense of humor popped up and grinned at James. His mouth relaxed a little even as he contended: "Is it indeed? An appropriate place for the savings of a—vagabond!"

This brought a laugh from Leonora, a delightful laugh which brightened the whole room.

"Sometimes, Dad," she told him, "you are simply priceless. It's an enigma how so bright a man as you can be so dense. But the truth is, Don earned some of that thousand on a ranch in California. That's farming for you. And down at Santa Fe he worked three months at a garage, driving tourists. If anything's mechanical that ought to be; but you've no idea the amount of history he picked up along the way. And in South Africa—"

James Lambert's hand went up in the forbidding gesture popular with military officers.

"Don't go all over South Africa again, I beg of you. All this remarkable young man did there was to get into a diamond rush that netted him nothing. That is," he glanced at her sternly, "nothing but memories. Now look here, Nora. It's no use quibbling. You're blind ed just at present by all the fellow's exploits; but you're young and impressionable. You can forget him. I'll send you abroad again if that will help. I'll even go with you myself, though I loathe travel. Ned tells me—"

"I see," interrupted Nora, as one enlightened. "So Ned has been poisoning your mind? I might have known."

She spoke evenly, coldly, yet hot color dyed her face and something told her foster-father that she was nearer anger than he had ever seen her. But he was angry himself as he retorted in a voice like ice: "Is it anything deplorable for a man to be interested in the welfare of his own sister?"

"I'm only his half-sister," the girl corrected, "and there are times enough when he wishes I wasn't. Oh, I know what a good egg Ned is—in his own way; but he hasn't a spark of imagination. He never sees the other fellow's side. He's content to eat breakfast at precisely the same time each morning, and to know where he'll be every hour of the twenty-four. He's perfectly satisfied with Corinne and her beautifully kept house which changes with every changing style so you can't find your way around if you happen not to go there for a month. Corinne never does anything that isn't 'done,' you know; but she makes him comfortable, and that's all Ned asks of life—comfort, plus an increasing bank balance. He's a superb example of the successful, white-collared American business man, like—"

Nora paused, suddenly inarticulate; and James finished her sentence with a question: "Like his father?"

"You're not his father," began the girl, then stopped, fearing to hurt him. "I—I mean—"

"I've been Ned's father longer than I've been yours, Nora," he reminded her with unaccustomed gentleness. "The boy was less than two years old when I married his mother; and he's been compensation, as far as such a thing is possible, for all the trouble that came later."

"Meaning—me?"

She shouldn't have said just that, of course; but her lip trembled a little, and James forgave her. He responded instantly: "Don't be a goose, dear! I've never regarded you as a trouble—not for a minute. A problem, perhaps, because I don't always understand you, and you often rub me the wrong way. But I want you to be happy, Nora, and safe; and I can't see safety for a woman, or happiness either, unless there's a certain stability in the man she chooses. Don Mason hasn't got that stability; and I doubt if it's possible for him to acquire it now. I don't call him a ne'er-do-well, though—"

James stopped. The curtains at the door had parted, and a maid announced: "Mr. Mason is in the reception room, Miss Nora."

"Ask him to step in here, please," replied the girl. Then to her father: "Perhaps you'd better tell Don how you feel. Ned and Corinne made their attitude quite plain last evening at the Country Club. It hurt me frightfully. That's why I blew up just now. If I felt that Ned really cared about me it would be different; but he's never cared, not like a real brother—not as—as you care, Dad. Sometimes I feel—Oh, hello, Don! Come in. Dad wants to see you."

The young man paused on the threshold. He did not speak, yet one knew instinctively that he was asking: "Is this a declaration of war, or a friendly counsel?" It was, perhaps, only a few seconds that he waited in the illuminating silence, but, facing him, James Lambert was conscious of a pang of envy. Here was Youth! Youth at its best and brightest. What arguments could a man of sixty use, he asked himself, to counteract the sense of high adventure which this boy brought with him into the quiet room.

Years afterward James was to recall every detail of that scene: how as Don stood there his hair seemed to be blown back from his forehead by a mountain breeze—how tanned his neck had looked above the collar—how broad his shoulders—how strong his hands. And how, as the girl came forward, his eyes which had been shrewd and questioning, changed, softened, lighted as if by magic.

"You wish to see me, sir?" James thought: "I wish I may never see your handsome face again," but he gripped the outstretched hand in not unfriendly fashion as he replied with crisp finality: "Only to say that I'm taking Nora abroad for the next year."

For one startled moment Don's eyes met Leonora's—held them. What he read there James never knew. He said, a smile curving his engaging mouth: "Our tastes are similar! I meant to do that very thing myself."

"Indeed?" There was a world of sarcasm in the lifted eyebrows. "On a thousand dollars?"

Don said, quite seriously: "It shouldn't take a thousand, Mr. Lambert. I've been all the way from Persia to—"

"See here," James broke in with impatience, "it doesn't in the least matter where you've been. I've no doubt you traveled steerage—roughed it—even mixed with the darkies as a deck passenger. May I ask if you ever traveled with a woman?"

"Oh, Dad!" warned Nora; but the young man silenced her with a laugh.

"Sit tight, my dear. Your father's not insulting me. He's merely pointing out the fact that a feminine companion complicates things on a journey. He's right, of course; but as it happens, Mr. Lambert, I did travel for ten days with a girl I picked up outside of Shanghai. We—"

He paused because James Lambert had made a strange sound in his throat. Nora recognized it as the forerunner of a storm—a sort of distant thunder. If possible that storm must be averted, and she said hurriedly: "Don didn't mean, Dad—"

"And do you mean," blazed her father, thoroughly roused, "that you'll consider marrying a fellow who admits traveling with strange women—'picking them up' here, there, God knows where? Do you understand, child?"

To his amazement a short laugh came from Don.

"Calm down, everybody," he pleaded. "Calm down. The lady in the case was above reproach. This adventure of mine which sounds so wicked to you, Mr. Lambert, occurred during a Chinese rebellion. The girl got separated from her family and I took her under my brotherly wing, as it were, until we found them. Would you have had me leave a fellow countrywoman to the tender mercies of the bandits who had wrecked our train?"

Nora laughed; while her father experienced the unpleasant sensation of appearing foolish. This made him angrier still, and he exploded: "Why didn't you say so in the first place?"

"I'm under the impression," replied the young man suavely, "that you didn't give me time. What I started to tell you, Mr. Lambert, is that we got on famously despite unnatural conditions and innumerable hardships. She was a sport, that girl. I've often wondered why I didn't fall for her—that is, I wondered till I met Nora."

James, still slightly ruffled, snorted like an angry horse.

"Very pretty. Very pretty indeed; but you must consider the fact that my—that Nora has been accustomed to every luxury. Hardship is something she doesn't dimly glimpse. I doubt if she's ever known the minor discomfort of an upper berth, not to mention a lower. I've known her to take a drawing room for a night's trip. You, I believe, are twenty-seven years of age, and according to Nora you've accumulated only a thousand dollars. If she's mistaken, I apologize. If she's right, what, may I ask, have you to offer her compared to what dozens of the men she knows could offer?"

So it was war! The young man comprehended.

2 WAY RELIEF FOR THE MISERY OF COLDS

Take 2 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

If throat is sore from the cold, crush and stir 3 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets in 1/2 glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat rawness and soreness almost instantly.

All it usually costs to relieve the misery of a cold today—is 3¢ to 5¢—relief for the period of your cold 15¢ to 25¢. Hence no family need neglect even minor head colds.

Here is what to do: Take two BAYER tablets when you feel a cold coming on—with a full glass of water. Then repeat, if necessary, according to directions in each package. Relief comes rapidly.

The Bayer method of relieving colds is the way many doctors approve. You take Bayer Aspirin for relief—then if you are not improved promptly, you call the family doctor.

The "shining palace" was a sanctuary for Nora and Don Mason . . . a refuge for two veteran globe trotters . . . a place to hang their hats when new sights and sounds became tiresome. It was to this "shining palace" that Nora invited James Lambert, the strong-willed step-father who loved her but vowed never to forgive her elopement with the globe-trotting Don Mason.

James Lambert did not come . . . not until Nora's valiant spirit had almost been broken in the face of terrible adversity. State Health Department

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, states that slightly more than eleven Texans die each day from tuberculosis. In other words, over four thousand persons died of this disease last year.

In these days of economy, when the seeds of disease are being shown in the bodies of undernourished children, the prevention of tuberculosis is more necessary than ever. Tuberculosis formerly held first place as a cause of death; it now ranks third in Texas, while for the country as a whole it ranks seventh. Pneumonia was the only communicable disease that caused more deaths last year than did tuberculosis.

Tuberculosis has been known for centuries and constant search for a specific cure has been the goal of doctors for many years. However, no medicine, no medicine, yet discovered, will cure this disease. The treatment consists of rest, proper food, fresh air and proper medical supervision.

The greatest loss of life from this disease is between the ages of 20 to 40 years, and its economic cost to families and the State is enormous. Tuberculosis can be arrested if found in its early stages, therefore, the State Department of Health urges that every one not feeling up to par

Canned Grapefruit

American canned grapefruit segments and juice have become increasingly popular in the United Kingdom. The "U. K." is the principal export outlet for grapefruit and grapefruit juice canned in the United States, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Exports of canned segments and juice to the United Kingdom were but a quarter of a million cases in the 1931-32 season. These exports increased to more than a million cases this past season. During the same period, the United States production of canned segments and juice increased from a million cases to a production this past year of 10 million cases.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By REV. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for March 6

SERVING WITH WHAT WE HAVE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 6:1-13. GOLDEN TEXT—Such as I have give I thee.—Acts 3:6.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Went Home to Nazareth.

JUNIOR TOPIC—On a Journey for Jesus. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Serving With What We Have.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Serving With What We Have.

One of the difficulties we mortals face in dealing with spiritual things is that we interpret things in the realm of the spirit according to the principles and measurements of the physical world. We are quick to say "We cannot" on the basis of logical human reasoning, when an appreciation of the power of God operative on our behalf would enable us to say "We can," and having left God out of our thinking we find that indeed we cannot.

The lesson before us presents two pictures from our Lord's second visit to his home country, Nazareth. On His first visit they had tried to thrust Him over the precipice, and He in all the glory and poise of the Son of God had walked through their midst and gone His way. Now He comes again with His disciples. We then see how His home folk virtually made the power of the omnipotent God impotent because of their unbelief. On the other hand we see the weakness of men made mighty because of obedience to the command of God.

I. The Paralysis of Unbelief (vv. 1-6).

The world, the flesh, and the devil have brought forth a dark list of wicked things, but perhaps the most destructive and distressing of all is the foundation sin of unbelief. When we think back to the underlying reason for any sin or weakness in man it will be found that there is a failure to believe God. Men do not believe what He says about sin and its penalty, nor do they believe Him when He offers them grace and strength for victory.

At Nazareth the unbelief which limited the Son of God revealed itself in two questions—

1. "Whence hath this man these things?" (v. 2).

They could not deny His mighty works so they turn their attack on His person. "Is not this the carpenter?" (v. 3). Essentially this was envy, "the difficulty of acknowledging the superiority over themselves of one of their own number" (Morgan).

We are ashamed of the attitude of the men of Nazareth, but we follow in their footsteps. Heavy among the burdens a Christian worker must bear is the unbelief and ridicule of his own people. Because a man has sold us groceries, or painted our house or driven a taxi in our town we cannot see how he could ever be a preacher or a missionary. Well, he can, and it is such folk that God often calls.

2. "What is this wisdom?" (v. 2).

The wisdom of Jesus was the wisdom of God (John 7:16). But how could they know that? How can we know? In John 7:17 Jesus gave the answer: "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself." We see then that the reason for their unbelief was really an unwillingness to do the will of God. The controlling motive of their life was wrong. Had they been moved by a desire to do God's will, and a purpose to live in accordance therewith (even though there might have been failure in that earnest effort), they would have known that Jesus had His wisdom from God.

II. The Power of Divine Commission (vv. 7-13).

Just as unbelief hinders even the Son of God, so faith in God and obedience to His command makes of weak and poorly equipped men the mighty servants of God. In fact, their very dependence on Him for all things sets them free to devote themselves fully to the ministry of preaching and healing.

Note that they went "two by two." We have forgotten that divine plan, and often send men into remote and dangerous pioneer work—alone. Man needs fellowship; he needs counsel and control.

Consider also how they were to learn to trust God for their daily sustenance (vv. 8,9). They suffered no lack (see Luke 22:35). These men for the life of religious workers were modified later (Luke 22:36), but the principle remains the same—the man or woman who is not ready to depend on God for everything had better not set out to follow Him. It is a blessed and delightful life!

The Stars Above

FIXED stars are so called because they change their positions so slowly in comparison with the planets. All of the stars are in motion.

The name morning star is given to the planets Jupiter, Mars, Saturn and Venus, when one of them rises shortly before the sun and is a conspicuous object in the sky before dawn.

The brightest star is Sirius, the Dog star, in the Canis Major.

Betelgeuse, a bright reddish star in the constellation Orion, has a volume about 30,000,000 times that of the sun.

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

Cleaning Hair Brushes.—To remove grease and dirt from hair brushes and combs, wash them in a quart of water to which a teaspoon of ammonia is added; rinse and dry in the sun.

Washing Parsley.—Parsley washed with hot water keeps its flavor better and is easier to chop.

Jumpers Keep Their Shape.—When drying woolen jumpers run a curtain stick through both sleeves and then hang up. A coat hanger will make "pokes" on the shoulders and spoil the shape.

Sweet Omelet.—A tablespoon of sugar added to the regular omelet batter will produce a sweet omelet that is especially popular with youngsters.

Tape Measure Tip.—Glue a length of tape measure across the front edge of your sewing machine. It'll save that searching for a tape when you want to measure the depth of hems, tucks, etc.

An Heirloom Bedspread

Pattern 5908.

Here's an heirloom popcorn bedspread that's going to lend richness to your bedroom—just see how effectively that striking popcorn motif is set off by the lacy mesh background. It's fascinating work—crocheting the individual squares of durable string and once you've learned one you won't want to stop until all the squares are finished and joined into a spread of unusual beauty. In pattern 5908 you will find instructions for making the square shown; an illustration of it and of the stitches used; material requirements; a photograph of the square.

To obtain this pattern send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) to The Sewing Circle, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th St., New York, N. Y.

Please write your name, address and pattern number plainly.

TIPS to Gardeners

Seed Treatment

SEEDS are sometimes treated to hasten germination or to combat disease. The following practices are recommended by Harold N. Coulter, vegetable expert of the Ferry Seed Institute.

For more rapid germination:

Chip or nick the seed coat of the following flower seeds: Lathyrus (perennial sweet pea), the lupins, moonflower, all morning glories, and annual sweet peas. Be careful not to damage the interior of the seed.

Remove the tough outer shell of abronia (sand verbena), castor bean, nasturtium, and momordica.

Soak the following flower seeds in water for 12 hours: Canna lily, Job's tears, sweet pea, all morning glories, and momordica.

For preventing disease:

Soak the following vegetable seeds in hot water at exactly 122 degrees F. for precisely 30 minutes to combat black rot and black leg: Broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower and collards.

About Mongolia
Mongolia has an area of about 1,875,000 square miles and a population of 750,000 Mongols and 100,000 other nationalities, chiefly Chinese and Russians. The monks or lamas are said to form the most important element in the population, over 30 per cent of the male population. The foreign trade of Mongolia in recent years has been handled by government organizations backed by Soviet capital.
