Hitler on Defensive Says Karl von Wiegand

ROOSEVELT'S recent speech to Congress has put Adolf Hitler on the defensive for the first time, according to Karl H. von Wiegand, celebrated correspondent in an article in the May issue of Cosmopolitan magazine, entitled: "Hitler at the Cross Roads." Hitler has always been convinced that the United States would never inject itself into another European conflict and has given little thought to the attitude of this country, persistently ignoring the warnings of his Washington Ambassador, Mr. von Wiegand says. Now he is suddenly faced with the problem of the Administration's attitude and this attitude will undoubtedly have an effect on his future plans. Hitler has the greatest contempt for our democracy but he is aware of the human and material resources of America and the blows that these can strike.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor Visit the Führer

Hitler is not a physical menace to the United States unless he makes an alliance with Great Britain; unless England should become Fascist, or unless Nazi Germany should conquer England. All of these possibilities seem remote. To Mr. von Wiegand, with whom Hitler has always been unusually frank, he has persistently ridiculed the idea that he has designs on America. "How can I get there?" he inquires sarcastically. He admits that it would be necessary for him to have command of the British fleet to accomplish this. There have been many wild reports about the strength of the German air force, most of them flattering. Mr. von Wiegand says Hitler himself takes a common sense view of aerial power. He says, "Air power can destroy, demoralize and intimidate. It cannot take an objective, occupy it or hold it."

The inner conviction of Hitler that his own days are numbered is also a contributing factor to the course he will pursue in the immediate future. In the circle immediately around him there is a nervous dread of angering the Führer. He is surrounded by yes men, afraid to bring him bad news, fearful to insinuate that things are not as he conceives them to be.

Hitler is a mystic with strong psychic perceptions. He does not commune with spirits, he communes with himself and in his meditations, inspiration comes to him. He is convinced that he was given a mission by Providence. The fact that many of his enemies have been borne out by events has given rise to the idea that he has a second sight—an idea which is by German cultural beliefs. It is a relief that Hitler is a

Pioneer Honored On Eighty-Third Birthday

To honor Rev. G. W. Tubb who was 83 Saturday, 142 relatives and friends of the early day Coke Countian met at his home in the Silver community for a picnic dinner Sunday. Of that number, 32 were relatives and all his children were present except a son, Robert, who lives at Blackwell and was unable to attend because of illness.

Born in Perry county, Alabama on April 8, 1856, Rev. Tubb moved with his parents to Enterprise, Miss. when he was a small child. Though quite small during the war between the states he has clear memories of the burning of his home town, Enterprise, on the Mobile & Ohio Ry., and of his fathers death in the siege of Vicksburg. In 1879 Mr. Tubb came to Texas in an ox wagon and during the first few years here he resided in Leon county, Montgomery county, back to Leon county then Llano and in 1890 he came to Coke and has lived in the same vicinity since. In 1881 he and Miss Gippy Tullis were married in Leon county. Mrs. Tubb died in 1924.

Although he has earned a livelihood at farming, Mr. Tubb ordained to the ministry in early manhood and was one of Coke county's earliest Baptist preachers. He and his son, Will, live on the home place in the north-west part of the county.

Children other than his two sons are, Mrs. Doc Rodgers, Lamesa and Mrs. Dave Millican, Silver.

Attend Father's Funeral

Bob Patterson went to Plainview last Saturday to attend the funeral of his father, W. B. Patterson, who passed away at the age of 85. Mr. Patterson was well known to many Coke county people, having resided east of town for many years. He was ill several weeks before he died.

The funeral brought together two of Mr. Patterson's brothers he had not met in 25 years.

Mrs. Lizzie Davis is having a neat cobblestone residence erected just west of her present home. She plans to build another one soon.

The home that had a whatnot in the corner, in the old days, had strange things on it, has a radio in the corner today, and gets strange things on it, too.

Anything is possible! Some day you will find a wife who thinks her husband is as brilliant a man as he thinks he is.

Little Affection for His Relative

Exhibiting little affection for their famous relative, 28 year-old William Patrick Hitler and his mother, Mrs. Brigid Dowling, nephew and sister-in-law of Adolph Hitler, landed in New York city for a long stay in the U. S. Mrs. Dowling, 47-year-old native of Ireland, was formerly the wife of Alois Hitler, half brother of the German Fuehrer and now a restaurant owner in Berlin. William Patrick is their son. He told reporters that his dictator uncle is a "menace" to the whole world, and many of his friends think he is mentally "unbalanced." Of Germany, which he left last January, young Hitler remarked, "There is a tremendous surge of discontent under the surface, and it may become an actual movement of protest at any moment." Commented the dictator's sister-in-law: "I guess the Hitlers in Berlin will not be very joyful about our visit here."--Pathfinder.

Marital Happiness Not Dependent on Types, Science Maintains

HAPPINESS in marriage is not dependent upon types or personalities which appear to be suited to each other, science has discovered.

The amazing findings of Professor Lewis M. Terman, revealed in the January issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, completely upset the tradition that this or that "type" of temperament is especially suited to some other "type," and that if a given marriage is unhappy it is chiefly because the wrong types have been mated.

In short, there is no reason for concluding that the oak can get along better with either another oak or with a clinging vine.

Professor Terman has found, instead, that marital happiness is due in the main to particular traits and special habits and the particular interests, likes and dislikes of one or both partners in the enterprise.

Of course, the final purpose of the five-year research was to discover, if possible, methods by which the happiness or unhappiness of a proposed marriage could be predicted in advance. There was one curious finding in this preliminary study. Husbands mated with dominant wives who "wore the pants" were found in the happy group somewhat more frequently than in the unhappy. The opposite, however, did not prove true. That is, where the husband was dominant, he was likely to be happy, but his wife was found in the unhappy class as often as in the happy.

"But every one of the grandiose personality combinations was about as likely to be found among one group as the other," says Dr. Albert E. Wiegman in reporting the amazing results to Cosmopolitan. "Therefore, no advice on this score could be given as a guide in selecting a mate. This certainly knocks into a cocked hat a vast deal of advice handed out by parents, friends, and in-laws."

The results of the investigation of 792 couples have enabled the scientists to establish four composite personality portraits of happy and unhappy wives and husbands.

The happy wife resembles very closely the "old-fashioned girl." She is not a social climber and is very methodical and attentive to detail. In short, she is the good mother, neighbor, housewife and friend. The unhappy wife, on the other hand, is more desirous of being important than of being liked. One of the absorbing passions of the unhappy wife is the "eternal quest of Eve"—romance.

The happy and unhappy husbands differ somewhat from the happy and unhappy wives in about half of the traits studied. The outstanding characteristic of the happy husband is cooperativeness. He gets along well with fellow workers and bosses, believes that women are the equals of men, and is benevolent toward inferiors. On the whole, unhappy husbands tend more to be contentious and are more easily rattled. They are irregular in habits of work, dislike detail, and frequently alternate between happiness and sadness without reason.

Professor Terman's theory furnishes abundant scientific proof that when two people stand at the marriage altar, the traits of personality they possess will determine whether or not their union will be the creative companionship they hope for.

Mrs. Roosevelt Urges Farm Careers For Youth

YOUNG people who are emerging into our crowded economic fields would do well to look toward the farm as a means of livelihood and a full and satisfactory way of life, according to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. When depressions come, hundreds of citizens leave the cities and go back to rural areas in order to live. This mute fact seems to indicate that the stability of the farm is preferable, in the time of disaster, to the insecurity of a wage-earner in the city.

Eleanor Roosevelt, America's much-traveled first lady, analyzes the problem in the May issue of Cosmopolitan magazine in an article entitled: "Security Begins Beyond the City Limits." She adds a plea for education along cultural and recreational lines which will compensate farm dwellers for the lack of ready-made entertainment offered by cities. Mrs. Roosevelt also discusses opportunities for financial success in farming, cites developments in agricultural methods, new markets and experiments in the industrial use of farm products which will provide year-around employment and new avenues of profit for agriculturists.

"It is possible to have as much culture in the country as in any city and more wholesome community life and amusement, but it requires more personal effort and better training," Mrs. Roosevelt declares. "We must see that education is interpreted in a broader way than in the past. It is absolutely vital that people living in rural areas have access to books of all kinds and learn to enjoy reading. With the radio there is now the possibility of teaching appreciation of good music and of developing participation in community music projects. Federal art projects, music projects, theatre projects, murals and sculptures all over the country have laid foundations for varied enjoyments which can be built up in rural areas."

Mrs. Roosevelt does not hesitate to touch on the aspects of rural life which are definitely in need of change. Chief among these is the problem of health and nourishment. The high mortality rate among country mothers and babies due to the lack of competent medical attention, is marked. Education regarding health and diet habits for growing children needs widespread dissemination. In the country where life is possible to raise a wide variety of fresh vegetables, fruits and dairy products, children are often undernourished due to pure ignorance on the part of their parents. Such education can be accomplished.

In urging rural life, Mrs. Roosevelt also urges the development of home-spirit in children who live in rural localities . . . a sense of belonging and having roots in a particular community, a responsibility for the present and the future of that place. Children are always interested in the traditions, legends and histories of their homes and early instruction in these things will build a lasting loyalty to a locale. Such loyalties will often overshadow the tinsel lures of big cities later on.

"One of the means I saw employed to inculcate this feeling was a project worked out by a progressive school in a rural community," she writes. "There happened to be a log cabin available for the use of the children and they were encouraged to restore this cabin which dated back a hundred years or more. They made it fairly livable with things they collected from their families and their neighbors, of the sort used in the cabin when it was originally built. They gave little plays which depicted the early life of a family in that cabin when the Indians roamed the countryside and the land was being cleared and tilled for the first time. In this way the children learned something of the past and what it had cost their ancestors to establish a community in the wilderness, thus acquiring a respect for the work accomplished and a sense of responsibility toward carrying it on satisfactorily."

Mrs. Roosevelt does not suggest "Security Begins Beyond the City Limits" that we merely go back to the farm. Instead she insists that we bring the farm forward where it can compete with the city as a way of

Christy Haircut Not For All Types, Says Noted Beauty Expert

THE Christy haircut, which has been creating so much excitement among milady's hairdressers, will not work on all types of hair.

This is the conclusion which the Beauty Clinic of Good Housekeeping Magazine has reached after several months of research and experiment. "As a result of our observations, we believe the Christy method works well on hair which has some wave," says Ruth Murrin, director of the Beauty Clinic, "but for hair that is straight as a poker, the cut is not satisfactory."

The theory back of the Christy cut is based on clever thinning and clipping which prevents the weight of the hair from pulling out the wave and makes it fall in a way that brings out the ripple. Then if you push it up and train it daily, the waves will become deeper and more tractable as time goes by. As your hair grows out, of course, new cuts will be necessary, and these should be done by a hairdresser who understands the principle of a wave cut.

Ruth Murrin

The Good Housekeeping Beauty Clinic also advises in the December issue of the magazine that this is not the cut for you if you are very fashion-conscious. To take advantage of it, you must be satisfied to have waves only where Nature placed them and this doesn't help the high-on-the-head coiffures.

It grows out perfectly straight

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Terror in a Tent"

HELLO, EVERYBODY: You know, there's always a lot of hard luck on camping trips. Somebody is sure to get sunburned, and somebody else always steps on a rusty nail or clips himself with the hatchet while chopping wood for the fire.

Camping trips just breed hard luck, but the one Syd Rapoport went on was the champion hoodoo camping trip of them all.

Syd lives in Brooklyn, N. Y. It was in the summer of 1935 that he and half a dozen other lads began planning that camping trip.

The gang decided to go anyway—at least, some of them did. When the day of the big trip rolled around one fellow had the mumps.

The Hikers Find a Camping Site. "There were only two brothers and myself left," says Syd, but we went anyway.

The ground was wet, and the earth was loose. They had a little trouble putting up their two small tents.

Finally he had a horrible dream.

shipshape. They got a fire going, cooked a meal, and when they had eaten it they were ready to turn in.

Syd dropped off to sleep, but he didn't sleep very well. Finally, he had a horrible dream—a dream that something cold and slimy was crawling over his arm.

In an instant Syd was wide awake. A full moon was shining and its bright light streamed in through the open flap of the pup tent.

Says he: "My first impulse was to jump and scream. But I couldn't have moved to save my life. I was frozen stiff with fear.

But it seemed to Syd that he could hardly keep himself from moving. Somehow he managed to lie there stiff and still.

Now Syd was afraid to swallow for fear of disturbing the snake. He felt his spine begin to creep and his hair felt as if it were standing up on his head.

The Snakes Smelled of Rotten Cucumbers. He could see the snake clearly now. And then, out of the corner of his eye, he saw another—and another.

Harold and Jerry were up. A couple of times they walked past Syd's tent, but they didn't look in.

"I began choking," says Syd, "but so did the snakes. They moved, and I lay back and breathed a sigh of relief.

PAUL ESTABLISHES CHURCHES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 14:1-7, 19-23. GOLDEN TEXT—According to the grace of God which is given unto me, as a wise masterbuilder, I have laid the foundation.

"Onward, Christian soldiers," says the well-known hymn, thus expressing the truth that Christianity is engaged in a relentless warfare against the world, the flesh, and the devil.

The constraining love of Christ sent Paul and his co-workers pressing on from Cyprus to Antioch in Pisidia, to Iconium, to Lystra, and to Derbe.

I. Belief and Unbelief (vv. 1, 2). "Multitudes both of the Jews and Greeks believed."

II. Popularity and Persecution (v. 4). "The multitude was divided," Paul knew all about that.

III. Boldness and Caution (vv. 3, 5, 6). The persecution at Iconium only made the messengers bold in their purpose to stay on.

IV. Death and Life (vv. 19, 20). The persecution at Lystra culminated in the stoning of Paul and his being left for dead.

V. Advance and Return (vv. 21-23). The work of God is not completed by the pioneering forward thrust into the strongholds of Satan.

Hail Those Depressed, Yet Optimistic Souls!

D YOU ever think as you pass folks that they are thinking much as you are. They have much the same hopes and fears, the same joys and sorrows, the same defeats and victories—and also about the same problems to worry about. There is the perpetual struggle to make a living, to get food, clothing and shelter for ourselves and for our own.

Some seem to have more of shadow than sunshine, but most of these meet life with a smile instead of a whine. We owe more than we think to such optimistic souls—and they would also enjoy a smile from us instead of a whine.—Ohio Farmer

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: My living room is looking very smart and gay; the clear sketches on how to fit and make slipcovers in your Book 1, SEWING, for the Home Decorator, have been a great help.

"While shopping in a drapery department I found some braid 1 1/4 inches wide in bright blue, green and red. I was so attracted by it that I had to find a way to use it. The result is a chair covered in plain blue glazed chintz with green seam bindings and the blue, green and red braid around the cushion and the bottom ruffle. It is very stunning and everyone admires it. My problem now is keeping my slipcovers firmly anchored in place. How should this be done?"

Here is a sketch of the chair that was inspired by a shopping tour. I have also sketched a method that is often used by professionals for anchoring slipcovers.

Give your house a fresh start with new curtains; slipcovers, lampshades and other smart new touches which you will find in Book 1, SEWING for the Home Decorator. Book 2, Gifts, Novelties and Embroidery, illustrates ninety embroidery stitches and many ways to use them. They are 25 cents each; with each order for both books, Rag Rug Leaflet is included FREE. QUICK QUOTES

PREPONDERANT SENTIMENT

"AFTER one hundred and fifty years, notwithstanding expansion of territory, enormous increase in population and profound economic changes; despite direct attack and subversive influences; there is every indication that the vastly preponderant sentiment of the American people is that our form of government shall be preserved." — Charles Evans Hughes, Chief Justice of the United States.

Constipation Relief That Also Pepsin-izes Stomach

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach-relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today! (Adv.)

I SAY, THERE'S NO OTHER TOBACCO LIKE PRINCE ALBERT FOR GETTING ALL THE SMOKING JOY THERE IS IN A 'MAKIN'S' CIGARETTE

Well, that's what you expect from a finer grade of tobacco, "crimp cut" for rollin' 'em, and treated to remove tongue-bite. Try a pocket tin as a starter—you'll never know how good P.A. is in a "makin's" cigarette unless you try it. No risk—just take hold of the iron-clad money-back offer. See reminder at right.

Under Treatment

J. Frank Norfleet, most noted sleuth of the United States, and brother of Mrs. S. M. Conner, has been stopping at the Grogan Wells Sanatorium of Sweetwater after his last swindler chase, which took him to every portion of the United States and Canada. During this man hunt Mr. Norfleet chased one of the parties 165 miles at record-breaking speed in his automobile and finally wrecked his machine, severely injuring his neck. When he recovered from this he found that his hearing was rapidly failing. He went to best specialists of New York and other cities and finally one of them told him medicine or operations would do him no good, it being the nerves of his ears which were affected.

After he has taken the full treatment, he next goes on the most important case of his career.

Mr. Norfleet is 78 years of age but is as active as most men of 50. He has appeared on numerous radio programs in every part of the country and is now completing a moving picture with a beautiful story woven through it to further bring out the fact that "Crime Does Not Pay."

Cruze McCutchen, who has been a hospital patient for some time, is reported as not improving and is said to be in a serious condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bradley and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Porter of Odessa visited in the home of M. D. Porter last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Walker moved last week end to Roscoe.

We believe that if the commercial radio announcers would change their same old song and dance occasionally, the public would appreciate it.
