1889 - OUR GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY YEAR - 1939

VOLUME 49

ROBERT LEE, COKE COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY JUNE 16, 1939

NUMBER 49

SOIL CONSERVATION

The Legislature has passed a Soil Conservation Bill. It should have done this long ago.

One member of the House many years ago started talking about Soil Conservation--and he has kept hammering at the matter every time the Legislature convened. He has been a far-sighted member. He has been conservative in his views. He has not tried to build around his efforts some manner of political stepping stone. He has had at heart the interests of every farmer in Texas. He was not working along the lines of making the race for some State office a few years later.

That member is the Hon. Robt. Fuchs of Brenham--one of agriculture's staunchest friends and whose efforts have leaned more to the interests of agriculture than to any other phase of state administrative powers.

If Fuchs could have been listened to many years ago, the soils of Texas would have been richer to the tune of hundreds of millions of dollars.

But Fuchs is conservative. He is the type of man who will do to tie to and the people of his district should look upon him as an honest, tireless faithful servant who is capable of engineering a thing through.

Possibly Fuchs' efforts have had more to do with the passage of the Soil Conservation Bill by the present session of the Legislature than any one member--but he was an engineer--laying plans and selling the idea.

The reward for Mr. Fuchs will be in the enrichment of the soils for the future generations and their toils will be less and their income greater while he perhaps may be in that land beyond. But he will be conscious of having labored for the posterity of his people, his state and his nation.

Mr. Fuchs was the author of H. B. 13 of the 42nd Legislature--the state's first soil conservation act and may well be called, "The father of soil conservation in Texas." Other states have patterned after Texas already.

NOTICE

I will inspect the alleys, toilets and backyards, of Robert Lee, beginning the week of June 20th.

J. K. Griffith,
County Health Officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stroud, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Breakbill of Rogers, N. M., spent last week-end visiting relatives here. Mr. Stroud and Mrs. Breakbill are grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. M. Stroud.

E. E. Rhodes of Carrizo will start a revival meeting at the Church of Christ, beginning July 8, and continuing through two Sundays.

An open-air bowling alley is being installed near Denman Ice Station and will be under the management of Ivan Puett and Woodrow Gardner.

WITH THE PICTURES

If you enjoyed the Oklahoma Kid, here's your opportunity to see another one similar with Iris Meredith and Charles Starrett in "Thundering Wes." Friday and Saturday. That musical bunch, the "Sons of the Pioneers," will also be featured.

A good two-reel comedy and The March of Times.

Sunday and Monday you will see Basil Rathbone, Boris Karloff, Bela Lugosi and Josephine Hutchinson in "Son of Frankenstein." Is he a man, or is he a monster? A new Juggernaut of Destruction loosed upon the world! Created by the torment, ed mind of a genius. New spine-tingling story! New weird characters! New terrors! new thrills!

After 20 years... the Monster is loose again! stalking in grim silence through the night... waiting his chance to wreak vengeance!

If you are the least bit squeamish you had better carry your smelling salts along when you see this picture.

Also comedy, "Can You Take It?" Latest news flashes.

Wednesday only, "A Man to Remember," with Ann Shirley and Edward Ellis. This is a story of a country doctor who devotes his life to the service of others and achieves true greatness although considered a failure is the role depicted by Edward Ellis in the title role.

A picture to hit the heart of all who see it! The drama of a fighting man of medicine who taught a town the meaning of human sympathy.

A gentle, heart-warming story, beautifully acted, beautifully told and beautifully directed. Its a compelling story filled with genuine characters.

Also comedy!

Stamford Reunion

Herds of bucking horses, ferocious Brahma steers, wild cows and fast Brahma calves are being assembled for the rodeo contests in which more than 200 cowboys will compete for $2,600 in prizes during the tenth annual Texas Cowboy Reunion in Stamford July 3, 4 and 5.

The Reunion's own corral of bucking horses, which include such famous outlaws as "Dr. Blackwell," "Calamity Jane," "Pitchfork Bay," is being supplemented with stock leased from Everett E. Colborn of Dublin, who furnishes pitching horses for the annual New York Rodeo in Madison Square Garden. Colborn has 180 bucking horses to select from.

The "Dr. Blackwell" horse has defied riders in the Reunion rodeo for nine years. He is one of the few actual outlaw horses. He has the killing instinct and will attack any man who comes near him on foot, pawing and biting.

Marriage licenses were issued last Friday to Jodie Devoll and Miss Lorene Askins.

Robert Lee Lions to Serve Chuck Wagon Supper

Robert Lee Lions Club will serve a chuck-wagon supper to visiting Lions and their guests Thursday night, June 22. The affair will be held at the school building and preparations are being made to serve 250 or 300 visiting Lions.

Each club will feature ten minutes of entertainment, and as an added attraction, will be the presence of the Tucker twins from Winters.

The club here is adding new members at every meeting, and with its rapid growth and enthusiasm, there is sure to be something worth while accomplished.

The Robert Lee Lions are looking forward to a pleasant evening and are doing everything to entertain the large crowd expected and see that they are well fed.

Revival Meeting

Next Sunday night, June 18, we will start a revival meeting at the Community Church at Divide. Bro. Fred De Lashaw will do the preaching. Read II Chron. 7:14 and come.

At Baptist Church

A visiting minister will preach at our evening service Sunday. The pastor will start a meeting at Divide at that time.

Baptist Meeting

Beginning August 13, the Robert Lee Baptist Church will experience our Summer revival. Bro. Lawrence Hays, of Park Heights Baptist Church, San Angelo, will lead us. Let us all be prepared when the starting day comes.

"El Valle" Garden Club

Eleven members and three visitors were present when Mrs. Fred DeLashaw entertained the El Valle garden club at her home Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Cortez Russell gave a talk on orchids and Mrs. B. A. Austin led a discussion on the cause and eradication of chiggers on home lawns. At the social hour Mrs. Jack Lassiter conducted an interesting "character analysis" game.

Mrs. J. S. Craddock will be hostess to the club at its next meeting when a covered dish luncheon will be served and husbands of the members will be guests.

Members present were Mesdames J. S. Craddock, Cortez Russell, B. A. Austin, W. H. Campbell, W. M. Simpson, F. C. Clark, H. E. Smith, W. J. Cumbie, Jack Lassiter, J. C. Snead, Jr. and the hostess. Visitors were Mrs. Frank Dean Bryan, Mrs. B. M. Gramling and Mrs. Kate Vaughn of Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kamsour returned this week from a two-weeks visit to Oklahoma.

SCOUTING WITH TROOP 20

At the regular meeting of the Lions Club, four of the Boy Scouts received the Tenderfoot requirements for the Lions. Eddie Paul Good gave the Scout Oath and Law. Derwood Davis told the history of the flag and respect due it. Wallace Clift gave the significance of the Scout badge and uniform, and Jack Tuub tied the nine useful knots and told of their uses. Derwood Davis, who had passed his Tenderfoot tests but had not received his badge, was presented it by Scoutmaster, T. M. Wylie.

Thursday evening, June 8, the Boy Scout Troop went on a hike to the lake. Each Scout cooked his own meat and potatoes. A number of the Scouts passed several of the second-class tests. The Scouts were accompanied by Scoutmaster T. M. Wylie, Fred McDonald, Jr., and Marvin Barnes.

Next Sunday afternoon Scoutmaster Wylie of the Boy Scout Troop in Robert Lee plans to leave with Scouts from Robert Lee and Bronte for Camp Louis Farr. They expect to return sometime during the coming week.

Wallace Clift, Troop Scribe.

A Letter to the Governor

June 5, 1939

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel
State Capitol, Austin, Texas

Dear Governor O'Daniel:

Enclosed find a "break-down" analysis of the last votes on Senate Joint Resolution No. 12 and House bill No. 340 which I am sure is self-explanatory.

I have given much thought to your talk of Sunday, May 28, and am writing you at this time, not for the purpose of threatening you into doing anything, but in the interest of the good people of Texas. Especially in the interest of the needy old people, I ask you respectfully to analyze the enclosed records from the House Journal.

In your talk on Sunday, May 28, you "threatened" the 56 members definitely opposed to S. J. R. No. 12, intimating that you will use your powers to defeat them in the next election.

Now, Governor, I want to call your attention to the group that you stand with--the middle group of the enclosed data--of which there are only 26 members, a very small minority of this house.

So far you have supported all tax remission measures by signing them as they reached you, thereby, reducing our State Revenue several million dollars. Also, you signed the liberalization bill last Saturday, June 3rd, thereby, putting 60,000 to 75,000 more people on the pension rolls with no money in the Treasury to pay them.

Governor, I offered a resolution a few weeks ago asking you to please assist our group that believe in Statutory Tax Laws. It failed to pass by a vote of 54 to 52. It was my opinion then, and it is still my opinion, that if we could have your support with the free use of the radio, we could pass some reasonable Statutory Tax Laws by which we could take care of the Social Security Program.

But as shown in the attached authentic data, you are still standing with the 26 "stand-patters" for S. J. R. No. 12. I cannot understand why you call the 55 on the other side the Minority-Blockers.

I feel that this session should close. I personally appeal to you in the name of the tax payers of Texas and the participants of the Social Security Plan to face the facts of this situation as it now exists, and give your support of reasonable Statutory Tax Laws.

Believing that it is better for you to defeat my political career than for me to turn against the best interest of my district, I make this last appeal to turn from the proposal of the 26 minority, and assist us in enacting the better tax plan.

Yours very truly,
R. H. Reaves, Representative,
92nd District

A Visit to the Robert Lee Sewing Room

As you pass down the street you may see through the plate glass window of a public building, women at work at sewing machines and if you take the trouble to give more than a passing glance you will see others at the cutting table and still others doing hand work. Hundreds pass every day and know in a general way that these women are workers in a WPA sewing room but few have any definite idea of the class and amount of work done there.

The usual run of work includes the making of every garment necessary for the average family and that all material shall be used and nothing wasted, scraps are made into work gloves, helmets, household articles. But in addition to the machine work on articles of clothing and utility, all forms of hand trims are taught and applied.

Just to get an idea of the amount of work done in the Coke County rooms, since January 1, there have been made 4772 articles of clothing. Aside from this, men have been supplied with sturdy work gloves, school children have had warm jackets and helmets, the family fireside had known the cheer and comfort of hooked and braided rugs, all sorts and sizes of utility bags have found their way to closet doors and mother's work-a-day life has been made brighter by pretty yet serviceable aprons.

Aside from the immediate purpose of furnishing of work and supplying clothing for needy families, there is a side to the WPA sewing room work farther reaching and more enduring--the training the workers are receiving. Some came on the project with a fair knowledge of machine and hand work on a small scale, some could make only simple garments and others had practically no experience in sewing of any kind and none had any knowledge of producing garments on a large scale. Now where a new worker is taken on, she is first given instruction in the rudiments of sewing before being given a garment to make. Once a worker has a foundation in the essentials of sewing, she is given ample latitude for individual expression in designing and trimming.

Olsen-Newton

J. D. Olsen and Miss Christine Newton were married May 28, Rev. C. Reginald Hardy, Methodist minister at Bronte, officiating.

Mrs. Olsen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Newton of this place. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Olsen, living south of town.

H. E. Peters, representing the American National Insurance Co., Galveston, was a caller at this office Wednesday.

German Corner on Munitions Makes U. S. Embargo Provision Help Reich's Cause, Is Charge

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

NEUTRALITY: Co-operation?

German domination over lesser European nations need not only mean dependence on the Reich for peacetime manufactured goods. If such was the case last year, Adolf Hitler's aggression this spring added military domination to the already pressing economic leverage. Reason: Already boss of Germany's mighty Krupp works, Berlin captured the even mightier Skoda plants when Czechoslovakia fell before the conquerer. Until then southeast Europe's minor nations (like Rumania, Greece, Turkey and Jugoslavia) had Skoda guns and shells to ward off the aggressive Reich. Today Skoda munitions go mainly to Germany and can be bought by lesser nations only in exchange for concessions.

CZECHIA'S SKODA WORKS
It may change U. S. policy.

Aggravating the situation is the Anglo-French rearmament program, which demands domestic consumption of all munitions produced in those nations' plants. Lesser countries get none.

This forceful argument against current U. S. neutrality legislation was apparently saved for the crucial moment. Not offered early this session during house and senate committee hearings, it was plumped in their laps unexpectedly by Secretary of State Cordell Hull just as the two houses seemed likely to give neutrality an airing.

It seemed a fairly sound basis for changing U. S. policy, isolationists notwithstanding. Since the Nazi government has become No. 1 source of military supplies, moreover since practically continuous German mobilization aggravates the situation, Mr. Hull joined Nevada's Sen. Key Pittman in demanding repeal of the neutrality act's embargo provision.

(This provision stipulates that once the President finds a state of war exists in any foreign conflict, the sale of U. S. arms and munitions is prohibited.)

Best anti-embargo argument: That it actually places the U. S. in a position of co-operating with Nazi Germany in freezing out smaller nations by depriving them of munitions.

On the surface less pressing when war scares have temporarily died down, neutrality revision seemed out of the question.

PENSIONS: Revision

Downed in the house 302 to 97 was Dr. Francis E. Townsend's visionary plan to give everyone over 60 about $200 a month through a $20,000,000,000-a-year 3 per cent transaction tax. This was beaten before it reached the floor, much to the embarrassment of representatives who accepted Townsend support last election. But by adjournment time congress will probably liberalize social security to start paying 65-year-oldsters next year on basis of their average previous wages rather than on their payroll tax accumulations:

Method. Under present rules, social security taxes would rise from 1 per cent to 1½ per cent against both employer and employee on January 1, 1940; to 2 per cent in 1941; 2½ per cent in 1942; and 3 per cent in 1949. Probable revision: Current 1 per cent rate against each will be frozen for three years.

Results. At present a worker now making $100 a month would get nothing but a small lump sum settlement in 1940. Under revisions, he would begin getting $25.75 a month if single and $38.63 if married.

Significance. By cutting payroll contributions and boosting pensions, congress will upset the elaborately planned program for a $48,000,000,000 old-age reserve account by 1980, scheduled to draw 3 per cent interest as it grew through the years. Proposed amendments, however, are merely being realistic about the fact that the current $2,000,000,000 reserve is all I. O. U.'s from the treasury, whose interest is paid by borrowing more money and thus raising taxes.

COMMUNICATIONS:

Free Speech?

Fourteen U. S. radio stations are "international," i. e., they direct broadcasts to foreign continents (chiefly Latin America) as well as to home listeners. European stations do likewise, but under government orders they propagandize programs in a way that the U. S. Constitution would forbid as an impediment to guaranteed free speech.

Surprised and puzzled, therefore, were the 14 international stations when Washington's unpopular federal communications commission ordered that beginning November 1 their programs must "promote international good will, understanding and co-operation." When time comes to renew their year-by-year licenses, stations must show their programs have reflected the "culture of this country."

What FCC denied was censorship, nevertheless seemed that way to more than one congressman.

PEOPLE:

Men at Work

Three new jobs for the following men may soon make news:

GROVER CLEVELAND BERGDOLL, notorious World War draft dodger, now in military prison after returning from Germany, says he will use his wealth to relieve U. S. employment by opening his Philadelphia brewery and other inherited property. Other plans include a private building project on his 24½ acre farm near Philadelphia.

ADMIRAL WILLIAM D. LEAHY, retiring chief of U. S. naval operations, whose projected appointment as Puerto Rican governor to succeed Blanton Winship was mysteriously dropped, is now expected to succeed Claude A. Swanson as secretary of the navy. Already past retirement age, Admiral Leahy is remaining as naval chief temporarily.

JESSE JONES, Texan chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is expected to be named administrator of the consolidated federal lending agency effective July 1 under President Roosevelt's first government reorganization plan. Mr. Jones may also administer the proposed program of loans to small business.

TREASURY:

News Notes

June 15 is quarterly U. S. treasury refinancing time. Only refinancing this June is an offer to exchange $426,554,600 in 1½ per cent notes maturing next September for new five year, ¾ per cent notes maturing June 15, 1944. No new money will be needed until September. Other treasury news:

During the first 11 months of the 1938-39 fiscal year the U. S. operated with a deficit of $3,240,467,092, which will probably hit $4,000,000,000 by year's end on June 30.

Secretary Morgenthau revealed only 49 Americans had million-dollar incomes in 1937, compared with 61 in 1936. Yet 6,350,148 people filed 1937 income tax returns, compared with only 5,413,499 in 1936.

Okayed by the senate was a measure to remove the $30,000,000 limit on federal bond insurance, though the total debt limit of $45,000,000,000 (to be reached next fiscal year) remains undisturbed.

Star Dust

★ Winner: Virginia Vale

★ Scouts Eye Graduates

★ Elbow Room for Grant

By Virginia Vale

APPARENTLY Jesse Lasky, who is now conducting his second search for new faces for the screen, thinks that there is something in a name—at least, something in my name. For he has chosen "Virginia Vale" as the name which will be bestowed on the girl who is selected as the winner of this nationwide talent quest.

The boy who wins will be called "Robert Stanton"—which makes me wonder if some man, somewhere, who really is named Robert Stanton, was as startled and exasperated as I was over discovering that his name had been kidnaped, as it were. There ought to be a law against it!

Freddie Bartholomew is no longer a star. Metro has demoted him, and promoted James Stewart, whose popularity increases with every picture he makes—and he's making plenty of them these days.

These are the days when the girls who are graduated from high school or college may be taking a screen test right along with their diplomas, without knowing it. Practically all of the major movie companies are in need of pretty girls, it's said, and talent scouts have gone forth to find them.

Of course, the very girls who come out best in these informal screen tests could probably go to Hollywood and try hopelessly for years to get into the studios.

Remember Wesley Barry, one of the screen's first child stars? He has been signed for a feature role in "Stunt Pilot," the second in a series of Monogram pictures based on the "Tailspin Tommy" cartoon strip.

He has been in the real estate business for three years, and during the last nine months has been sales manager for a large realty firm in Hollywood.

Cecil B. DeMille always orders an extra microphone on the stage when Cary Grant is doing a play on that radio theater program. The extra microphone is used exclusively by Grant, who waves his arms and gesticulates while performing, and doesn't like to worry about accidentally striking the person beside him.

Over a period of two months The Three Marshalls (Peggy, Jack and Kay) have had to change their radio program five times because the songs they submitted to the stations before taking to the air were banned.

They couldn't sing "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum"—it was thought to be offensive. "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" was all right if only Peggy and Kay sang the lyrics; Jack could play the music, but he couldn't sing—network rulings reject the song if it's sung by a man.

They couldn't sing "The Preacher and the Bear" because the lyrics contain the word "coon." "Shoot the Likker to Me, Jive Boy," a jam session favorite, could be sung only if some word not suggesting an alcoholic beverage was substituted for "likker"—which in this instance was used as a musical term.

ODDS AND ENDS—"Captain Fury," the first motion picture to be shown at New York's "World of Tomorrow," is one of the most old-fashioned melodramas seen for a long time in the world of today. . . . Here's an inspired title for you—the sequel to "Angels With Dirty Faces" will be called "Angels Wash Their Faces" . . . Mickey Rooney's going to England to make "A Yank at Eton" this summer . . . Jack Benny's "Man About Town" may reverse the popularity of musical pictures. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Triple-Barreled Thrill"

HELLO, EVERYBODY:

This column has passed out a lot of free advice at one time or another. It seems that everybody who ever has an adventure, learns something from it that he wants to pass along to the rest of the world, and this seems to be the clearing house for that kind of information. I've issued warnings about everything from jumping off 40-story buildings to getting friendly with the mother-in-law of a man-eating tiger. Today I've got another warning for you. I don't know if you'll ever have occasion to use it, but I'll pass it along for what it's worth. If you're ever motoring to Niagara Falls at night, don't go by the River road.

That comes from Jim McDermott of New York City. Some of you fellows who have been to that address before may recognize it as the Men's Night Court. Well, that's where you'll find Jim. He's the fingerprint expert there. But in 1926, Jim was a member of the Immigration Border Patrol, stationed at Tonawanda, N. Y., half way between Niagara Falls and Buffalo. That's how he found out about River road.

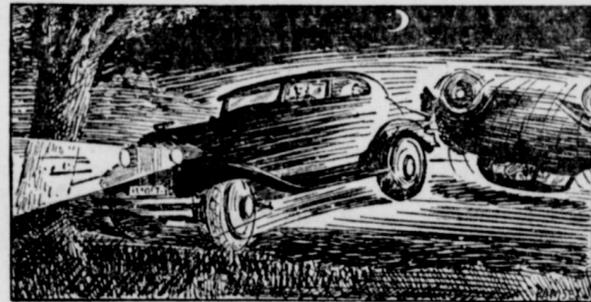

River road was dangerous because of the way cars sped along it at night. But speeding cars weren't the only danger, folks said. It was the duty of Jim and another lad—Roscoe Doane—to patrol that road in a car. Their duty was to prevent the smuggling of aliens and of contraband goods, the principal contraband in that pre-repeal day being liquor.

"Before I took the job," says Jim, "people advised me against it. They claimed the bootleggers were desperate and would shoot on sight. I found this to be untrue. But I did face death in three violent forms, in about as many minutes on one particular night of my service."

They Started Out in a Small Roadster.

That night came in the spring of 1926. Jim and Roscoe started out in a small roadster, with the top down. Roscoe was driving, for Jim, at that time didn't know how to operate a car. Fix's Ferry was their starting point. They hung around there until about 11:15, and then started to drive toward Tonawanda.

They had gone about two miles when they came to a point where the road narrowed down and the Erie canal ran alongside it for a distance. An auto with glaring headlights was approaching. It was coming straight down the center of the road and it was coming plenty fast. Jim yelled to Roscoe, "Give this fellow all the room you can, or he'll hit us." Roscoe was already turning over on the grass at the side of the road. But the headlights came rushing on.

Then—BANG! The car hit them! Says Jim: "Our car seemed to soar in the air for a moment or two. As we were hit, Roscoe jumped to get out, and landed in my lap. The left front wheel of the big sedan had caught our front wheel. It lifted our light car completely off the road and swung it around. At the same time, it turned over and landed bottom up, diagonally across the narrow roadway."

Jim says that, during the brief moment while they were turning over, just one question presented itself to his mind. That was: "Will I be dead when we hit?" But down there, trapped under the overturned car, Jim found to his surprise that he wasn't dead.

The Weight of the Car Seemed to Increase Momentarily.

"Roscoe was on top of me," he says, "with his back on my face, and he was doing some struggling. I couldn't move. My shoulders and the back of my neck were on the road, and I was still on the seat, albeit upside down. My back ached and the weight of the car, crushing down on me, was increasing momentarily."

He was in that position when suddenly he heard Roscoe let out an oath. "Here's a guy doing 50 and no lights," he cried. "He'll hit us sure as hell." Jim couldn't see a thing, but it was true, he knew. Their car was lying right across the road. A man going at that speed, with no lights, could hardly help but hit them.

Says Jim: "For the second time, I thought the end had come. I could see only a few feet ahead through the wreckage, but I could hear the roar of the approaching car. I gritted my teeth and struggled to get out, but I couldn't move. Roscoe was making my position more uncomfortable every second. I shouted out, 'Where is he?' At the same time I heard the roar of the motor diminish and Roscoe yelled back, 'He's gone.'"

Two narrow escapes. And a third still to come. As the night grew quiet again, Jim discovered that their headlights were still burning and the motor was still running.

Suddenly He Felt Something Drip Down on His Face.

And then, suddenly, he felt something drip down on his face. "My first thought was that it was blood," he says, "but that couldn't be. This fluid was cold. I struggled to get my hand to my face, but before I got it there, I knew it was gasoline. It was coming from the tank just outside the dashboard, over the engine. I had faced death twice before—and now I was facing it again in a more dreadful form. Our engine was still running. At any moment the car might burst into flames!"

It didn't occur to Jim to shut off the switch. He didn't know how to drive a car. Momentarily he expected an explosion—fire—agony and death. And then, all at once, he heard voices. Someone was saying, "All on this side, now." The car was lifted off them, and half a dozen men were pulling him out. A bunch of army officers, returning from Buffalo to Fort Niagara, had come along and found them.

The car that hit them had run through a ditch and crashed into a tree. It contained a suitcase full of counterfeit liquor labels, but the driver was gone. He had walked down the road and telephoned ahead for help. The second car had just managed to get by them because a farmer's wife, who had seen the crash, ran to the road with a lantern. That second car got by with barely two inches to spare. But it didn't stop. Cars without lights along that road never did.

Jim was laid up three weeks with a wrenched back, but Roscoe Doane got off with a few bruises. But even so, Jim doesn't think it's particularly safe at night on that River road.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Young, pretty Jane Barnes, who lived with her brother, Baldwin, in Sherwood Park, near Washington, was not particularly impressed when she read that rich, attractive Edith Towne had been left at the altar by Delafield Simms, wealthy New Yorker. However, she still mused over it when she met Evans Follette, a young neighbor, whom the war had left completely discouraged and despondent. Evans had always loved Jane. That morning Baldwin Barnes, on his way to work in Washington, offered assistance to a tall, lovely girl in distress. Later he found a bag she had left in the car, containing a diamond ring on which was inscribed "Del to Edith—Forever." He knew then that his passenger had been Edith Towne. Already he was half in love with her. That night he discussed the matter with Jane, and they called her uncle, worldly, sophisticated Frederick Towne. He visited them at their home, delighted with Jane's simplicity. He told them Edith's story because her uncle desired it. Edith Towne had accepted Delafield Simms, whom she liked but did not love. She disappeared immediately after the wedding was to have taken place. The next day Jane received a basket of fruit from Towne, and a note asking if he might call again. Mrs. Follette, widowed mother of Evans, was a woman of indomitable courage. Impoverished she nevertheless managed to keep Evans and herself in comparative comfort by running a dairy farm. Evans mentally depressed and disillusioned had little self reliance and looked to his mother and Jane for guidance. Edith Towne phones Baldy in answer to an ad. She asked him to bring her pocketbook. Jane calls on Frederick Towne in his elaborate office.

CHAPTER V—Continued

Jane bought modestly and Briggs carried her parcels. He even made a suggestion as to the cut of the steak. His father, it seemed, had been a butcher.

They drove back then for Frederick. Briggs went up for him, and returned to say that Mr. Towne would be down in a moment.

Frederick was, as a matter of fact, finishing a letter to Delafield Simms:

"I am assuming that you will get your mail at the Poinciana, but I shall also send a copy to your New York office. Edith has asked me to return the ring to you. I shall hold it until I learn where it may be delivered into your hands.

"As for myself, I can only say this—that my first impulse was to kill you. But perhaps I am too civilized to believe that your death would make things better. You must understand, of course, that you've put yourself beyond the pale of decent people."

Lucy's pencil wavered—a flush stained her throat and cheeks—then she wrote steadily, as Frederick's voice continued:

"You will find yourself black-balled by several of the clubs. Whatever your motive, the world sees no excuse."

He stopped. "Will you read that over again, Miss Logan?"

So Lucy read it—still with that hot flush on her cheeks, and when she had finished Frederick said, "You can lock the ring in the safe until I give you further instructions."

A clerk came in to say that the car was waiting, and presently Frederick Towne went away and Lucy was left alone in the great room, which was not to her a forest of adventure, as it had seemed to Jane, but a great prison where she tugged at her chains.

She thought of Delafield Simms sailing fast to southern waters. Of those purple seas—the blazing stars in the splendid nights. Delafield had told her of them. They had often talked together.

She turned the ring around on her finger, studying the carved figure. The woman with the butterfly wings was exquisite—but she did not know her name. She slipped the ring on the third finger of her left hand. Its diamonds blazed.

She locked it presently in the safe—then came back and read the letter which Towne had signed. She sealed it and stamped the envelope. Then she wrote a letter of her own. She made a little ring of her hair, and fastened it to the page. Beneath it she wrote, "Lucy to Del—forever." She kissed the words, held the crackling sheet against her heart. Her eyes were shining. The great room was no longer a prison. She saw beyond captivity to the open sea.

Mrs. Allison and the three old ladies with whom Jane was to drink tea, were neighbors. Mrs. Allison lived alone and the other three lived in the homes of their several sons and daughters. They played cards every Friday afternoon, and Jane always came over when Mrs. Allison entertained and helped her with the refreshments. They were very simple and pleasant old ladies with a nice sense of their own dignity.

At any rate, they had Jane. Some of the other young people scorned these elderly tea-parties, and if they came, were apt to show it in their manner. But Jane was never scornful. She always had the time of her life, and the old ladies felt particularly joyous and juvenile when she was one of them.

But this afternoon Jane was late. Tea was always served promptly at four. And it happened that there were popovers. So, of course, they couldn't wait.

"I telephoned to Sophy," said Mrs. Allison, "and Jane has gone to town. I suppose something has kept her. Anyhow we'll start in."

So the old ladies ate the popovers and drank hot sweet chocolate, and found them not as delectable as when Jane was there to share them.

Things were, indeed, a bit dull. They discussed Mrs. Follette, whose faults furnished a perpetual topic. Mrs. Allison told them that the young Baldwins had dined at Castle

They came up the path.

Manor on Thanksgiving. And that there had been other guests.

"How can she afford it," was the unanimous opinion, "with that poor boy on her hands?"

"He's sitting up there on the terrace," Mrs. Allison further informed them. "Do you think I'd better ask him to come over?"

They thought she might, but her hospitable purpose was never fulfilled, for as she stepped out on the porch, a long, low limousine stopped in front of the house, and out of it came Jane in all the glory of a great bunch of orchids, and with a man by her side, whose elegance measured up to the limousine and the lovely flowers.

They came up the path and Jane said, "Mrs. Allison, may I present Mr. Towne, and will you give him a cup of tea?"

"Indeed, I will," Mrs. Allison seemed to rise on wings of gratification, "only it is chocolate and not tea."

And Frederick said that he adored chocolate, and presently Mrs. Allison's little living-room was all in a pleasant flutter; and over on Jane's terrace, Evans Follette sat, a lonely sentinel, and pondered on the limousine, and the elegance of Jane's escort.

Once old Sophy called to him, "You'll ketch your death, Mr. Evans."

He shook his head and smiled at her. A man who had lived through a winter in the trenches thought nothing of this. Physical cold was easy to endure. The cold that clutched at his heart was the thing that frightened him.

The early night came on. There were lights now in Mrs. Allison's house, and within was warmth and laughter. The old ladies, excited and eager, told each other in flashing asides that Mr. Towne was the great Frederick Towne. The one whose name was so often in the papers, and his niece, Edith, had been deserted at the altar. "You know, my dear, the one who ran away."

When Jane said that she must be getting home, they pressed around her, sniffing her flowers, saying pleasant things of her prettiness—hinting of Towne's absorption in her.

She laughed and sparkled. It was a joyous experience. Mr. Towne had a way of making her feel important. And the adulation of the old ladies added to her elation.

As Frederick and Jane walked across the street towards the little house on the terrace, a gaunt figure rose from the top step and greeted them.

"Evans," Jane scolded, "you need a guardian. Don't you know that you shouldn't sit out in such weather as this?"

"I'm not cold."

She presented him to Frederick. "Won't you come in, Mr. Towne?"

But he would not. He would call her up. Jane stood on the porch and watched him go down the steps. He waved to her when he reached his car.

"Oh, Evans," she said, "I've had such a day."

They went into the house together. Jane lighted the lamp. "Can't you dine with us?"

"I hoped you might ask me. Mother is staying with a sick friend. If I go home, I shall sup on bread and milk."

"Sophy's chops will be much better." She held her flowers up to him. "Isn't the fragrance heavenly?"

"Towne gave them to you?"

She nodded. "Oh, I've been very grand and gorgeous—lunch at the Chevy Chase club—a long drive afterward—" she broke off. "Evans, you look half-frozen. Sit here by the fire and get warm."

"I met both trains."

"Evans—why will you do such things?"

"I wanted to see you."

"But you can see me any time—"

"I cannot. Not when you are lurching with fashionable gentlemen with gold-lined pocketbooks." He held out his hands to the blaze. "Do you like him?"

"Mr. Towne? Yes, and I like the things he does for me. I had to pinch myself to be sure it was true."

"If what was true?"

"That I was really playing around with the great Frederick Towne."

"You talk as if he were conferring a favor."

She had her coat off now and her hat. She came and sat down in the chair opposite him. "Evans," she said, "you're jealous." She was still vivid with the excitement of the afternoon, lighted up by it, her skin warmed into color by the swift flowing blood beneath.

"Well, I am jealous," he tried to smile at her, then went on with a touch of bitterness, "Do you know what I thought about as I sat watching the lights at Mrs. Allison's? Well, as I came over today I passed a snowy field—and there was a scarecrow in the midst of it, fluttering his rags, a lonely thing, an ugly thing. Well, we're two of a kind, Jane, that scarecrow and I."

Her shocked glance stopped him. "Evans, you don't know what you are saying."

He went on recklessly. "Well, after all, Jane, the thing is this. It's a man's looks and his money that count. I'm the same man inside of me that I was when I went away. You know that. You might have loved me. The thing that is left you don't love. Yet I am the same man—"

As he flung the words at her, her eyes met his steadily. "No," she said, "you are not the same man."

"Why not?"

"The man of yesterday did not think—dark thoughts—"

The light had gone out of her as if he had blown it with a breath. "Jane," he said, unsteadily, "I am sorry—"

She melted at once and began to scold him, almost with tenderness. "What made you look at the scarecrow? Why didn't you turn your back on him, or if you had to look, why didn't you wave and say, 'Cheer up, old chap, summer's coming, and you'll be here again?' To me there's something debonaire in a scarecrow in summer—he dances in the breeze and seems to fling defiance to the crows."

He fell in with her mood. "But his defiance is all bluff."

"How do you know? If he keeps away a crow, and adds an ear of corn to a farmer's store—hasn't he fulfilled his destiny?"

"Oh, if you want to put it that way. I suppose you are hinting that I can keep away a crow or two—"

"I'm not hinting, I am telling it straight out."

They heard Baldy's step in the hall. Jane, rising, gave Evans' head a pat as she passed him. "You are thinking about yourself too much, old dear; stop it."

Baldy, ramping in, demanded a detailed account of Jane's adventure.

"And I took Briggs to market," she told him gleefully, midway of her recital; "you should have seen him. He carried my parcels—and offered advice—"

Baldy had no ears for Briggs' attractions. "Did you get the things Miss Towne wanted?"

"We did. We went to the house and I waited in the car while Mr. Towne had the bags packed. He wanted me to go in but I wouldn't. We brought her bags out with us."

"Who's we?"

"Mr. Towne and I, myself," she added the spectacular details.

"Do you mean that you've been playing around with him all day?"

"Not all day, Baldy. Part of it."

"I'm not sure that I like it."

"Why not?"

"A man like that. He might fill your head with ideas."

CHAPTER VI

Baldy Barnes faring forth to find Edith Towne on Sunday morning was a figure as old as the age—youth in quest of romance.

It was very cold and the clouds were heavy with wind. But neither cold nor clouds could damp his ardor—at his journey's end was a lady with eyes of burning blue.

People were going to church as he came into the city and bells were ringing, but presently he rode again in country silences. He crossed the long bridge into Virginia and followed the road to the south.

It was early and he met few cars. Yet had the way been packed with motors, he would have still been alone in that world of imagination where he saw Edith Towne and that first wonderful moment of meeting.

So he entered Alexandria, passing through the narrow streets that speak so eloquently of history. Beyond the town was another stretch of road parallel to the broad stream, and at last an ancient roadside inn, of red brick, with a garden at the back, barren now, but in summer a tangle of bloom, with an expanse of reeds and water plants, extending out into the river, and a low spidery boat-landing, which showed black at this season above the ice.

For years the old inn had been deserted, until motor cars had brought back its vanished glories. Once more its wide doors were open. There was nothing pretentious about it. But Baldy knew its reputation for genuine hospitality.

He wondered how Edith had kept herself hidden in such a place. It was amazing that no one had discovered her. That some hint of her presence had not been given to the newspapers.

He found her in a quaint sitting-room upstairs. "I think," she said to him, as he came in, "that you are very good-natured to take all this trouble for me—"

"It isn't any trouble." His assurance was gone. With her hat off she was doubly wonderful. He felt his youth and inexperience, yet words came to him, "And I didn't do it for you, I did it for myself."

She laughed. "Do you always say such nice things?"

"I shall always say them to you. And you mustn't mind. Really," Jane would have recognized returning confidence in that cock of the head, "I'm just a page—twanging a lyre."

Wart-Hog, Ugliest of Animals

Generally acknowledged to be the ugliest of all animals is the wart-hog, whose head, out of all proportion to the size of its body, is adorned with enormous warts. This strange animal also has a long, thick mane, but the rest of its body is practically naked. Its tusks curve in the most fantastic manner. The most ludicrous thing about it is that if you surprise one of these creatures coming out of a hole, it will turn a complete somersault, according to a writer in Pearson's London Weekly.

Great Optimists

"I'VE got it all figured out, dear. We can meet the second payment when your brother pays me back that fifty he borrowed."

"You can bet your bottom dollar this curve we're coming to would be too much for an ordinary car going at this speed."

"Let's just stay home and have a perfect evening listening to the radio."

"If it's raining when we leave we'll just grab the first taxi that comes along."

"You'll have to take pot-luck, old man, but the wife will be tickled to see you."

"MEIN KAMPF"

Through the courtesy of one of my good friends, a copy of Mein Kampf (My Battle), Hitler prophesies opinions, philosophy, hates orders and directions to the German people.

This book was written about fifteen years ago, while Hitler was a jail-bird in an Austrian hoosgow where he was sent for raising all the hell he could in the community in which he resided.

As a prophet Hitler hit the nail on the head. He predicted that in the spring of 1938, he would take over Austria, and he did. In the fall of 1938, he said, he would take over Czechoslovakia, and it came to pass as he said it would. In 1939, he prophesied, Germany would get Hungary and Poland under her wings. They already have Mamel and they are preparing to take over the rest of the countries before the year is out.

Hitler predicts a World War in 1941 in which Great Britain will become a province of the German Reich. He says America is already a German country and as soon as his jackasses bearing Nazi propaganda can pick a load into the American public, he will reach across the Atlantic and take us in.

In his battle time-table, he did not say anything about taking in the moon. It would seem that Hitler is no hog, he only wants the land of this planet. Maybe he will let the moon keep on shining as has always done.

Hitler is one of the greatest liars the world has ever produced. As a coward, no man can lay greater claims to this distinction than Adolf Hitler. It takes a coward to kill women and children because their helpless and are in no position to harm him. Hitler's chief entertainment along this line is murder and plunder, and when the curtain falls he crawls into a hole which he has dug in a Mountain and pulls the hole in after him.

As a hater, he wears the belt. He says the very scent of a Jew makes him sick at his stomach. The only thing he likes about a Jew is his money. When Hitler discovers a rich Jew he throws him down and takes his money away from him and then kicks him out of the country.

Some people refer to Hitler as a bastard. This is a mistake. Hitler couldn't help his father being born out of wedlock. I don't hold that against him.

In apologizing to the female canine of which many refer to him as being a son, I want the dog to understand that he is not of her litter, except by practice.

It is in the program of life that Hitler will die some day, and when he does, the world will be at peace again. If the good Lord intends to take Hitler "O, let it be soon".

FOR PRESIDENT

Mr. Garner's announcement that he will seek the Democratic Presidential nomination next year turns a rumor into a fact.

It also serves to further emphasize the split in the ranks of the majority party. Mr. Garner has a solid following among the relatively conservative Democrats-which includes the influential Southern bloc almost 100 per cent--and he is hardly disliked by the more extreme New Dealers. He will probably go to the convention with enough votes to make it tough for any candidate he opposes.

At the same time, talk of nominating Secretary Hull, as a sort of compromise candidate, grows. Many feel Mr. Hull would be the strongest candidate the Democrats could put in the field.

The customer was being shaved in a country town to which he was a visitor, when the barber cut him. The man was all apologies, and placed a piece of tissue paper over the gash. "That's all right," said the victim, with a smile of forgiveness; "I don't often get shaved by a man who deals in three trades." "Three trades?" queried the puzzled barber. "Yes," came the sarcastic reply—"barber, butcher, and paper-hanger."

The Better Way to Correct Constipation

One way to treat constipation is to endure it first and cure it afterward. The other way is to avoid having it by getting at its cause. So why not save yourself those dull headachy days, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can do it by a simple common-sense "ounce of prevention"? If your trouble, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, "the better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it every day—and drink plenty of water—you can not only get regular but keep regular, day after day and month after month! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions. These physicians, you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for functional kidney disorder and for relief of the pain and worry it causes. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be warning of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging back-ache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, stiffness, painness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

OATMEAL MEAT PATTIES
See Recipe Below.

When the Allowance Is Low

Lucky is the homemaker who has tucked away on her pantry shelf a package or two of oatmeal, and in her recipe file a half-dozen clever suggestions for using it in her menus. For oatmeal is a quick change artist, and with a little ingenuity you can turn out a whole array of tempting, unusual dishes as delicious to eat as they are inexpensive to eat.

For example, have you ever tried making light, flavorful raisin muffins with oatmeal? Or have you used oatmeal in a thick, hearty vegetable soup to give it that "stick-to-theribs" quality so much to be desired for active families? Had you thought of using it to stretch the meat budget, by making a little meat go a long way in meat patties or meat loaf? You've used oatmeal for luscious, soft, chewy cookies, of course, but have you tried it for making the crust for a delectable apple pudding, or have you substituted it for nut meats in a rich-tasting torte?

You see, besides adding interest and variety to meals, and doing a first-class job of budget stretching, oatmeal may be trusted to add a large amount of low-cost food energy to the diet. Oatmeal, moreover, is an excellent source of vitamin B, modernly called thiamin. This vitamin is absolutely necessary to enable the body to transform food (especially carbohydrates) into muscular energy. Thiamin stimulates the appetite, too, and it helps in overcoming constipation, and acts as a prevention of nervousness.

Here, then, is a brand new series of carefully tested recipes, all of which contain oatmeal, all of which will be family favorites in your recipe box.

Meat Patties.
(Serves six)

- 6 slices bacon
  - ¾ pound beef (ground)
  - ¼ pound pork (ground)
  - 1 egg (beaten)
  - 1 tablespoon onion (chopped)
  - 1 cup tomatoes (canned or fresh)
  - ¼ cup milk
  - ½ cup oatmeal
  - ¾ teaspoon salt
  - Dash of pepper
- Line six muffin tins with strips of bacon. Combine remaining ingredients and mix well. Put into the muffin tins. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for approximately one hour.

Vegetable Oatmeal Soup.
(Serves eight)

- 2 pounds soup bone (½ bone, ½ meat)
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 2 quarts water
- 4 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups tomatoes (canned)
- 1 cup carrots (cubed)
- ¼ cup onion (chopped)
- ½ cup celery (chopped)
- ½ cup oatmeal or 1 cup regular rolled oats (uncooked)

Remove part of meat from cracked soup bone, cut meat into cubes and brown lightly in hot fat. Place meat, soup bone, water, salt and pepper in soup kettle. Cover tightly and simmer approximately two hours. Cool, strain, and chill sufficiently so that excess fat may be skimmed off. There should be 6½ cups of soup stock. Return stock to kettle and add vegetables. Bring to a boil, then slowly add oatmeal. Cover and simmer approximately ½ hour, or until vegetables are tender. Soup meat used in making the stock may be cut in small pieces and added. Serve with finely chopped parsley, if desired.

Old-Fashioned Oatmeal Cookies.
(Makes five dozen)

- ¾ cup shortening
  - 1½ cups dark brown sugar
  - 1½ cups general purpose flour
  - ½ teaspoon salt
  - ¾ teaspoon soda
  - 3 cups oatmeal
  - ¾ cup sour milk
  - ½ teaspoon vanilla
- Cream the shortening and sugar thoroughly. Sift together the flour, salt, and soda, and combine with oatmeal. Add to the creamed mixture, alternately, with the milk. Stir in the vanilla. Roll out to ¼-inch thickness on a lightly floured board. Cut into 2½-inch rounds with a floured cookie cutter. Bake on a greased cookie sheet in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for about 10 minutes.

Oatmeal Apple Torte.
(Makes eight servings)

- CRUST:
- 2 cups flour
  - ¾ cup oatmeal (uncooked)
  - ½ teaspoon salt
  - 1 cup brown sugar
  - ¾ cup butter (melted)
- Combine the ingredients in the order in which they are listed. Reserve one cup of this mixture for the top. Pack the remainder into the bottom of an eight-inch square pan.

- FILLING:
- 1 cup sugar
  - 2 tablespoons cornstarch
  - ¼ teaspoon salt
  - 1 cup water
  - 1 tablespoon butter
  - 1 teaspoon vanilla
  - 2 cups apples (pared and chopped)
- Combine the sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add the water and butter, and cook over a low flame for about 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Cool and add the vanilla and apples. Pour the filling over the crust, and cover with one cup of crust mixture reserved for this. Bake in a moderately slow oven (325 degrees) for about one hour. Serve warm with plain or whipped cream.

As a Breakfast Food.

Modern homemakers serve oatmeal porridge often and for variety add chopped dates, figs, seedless raisins, or dried prunes or apricots (cut in strips) while cooking.

PAUL WRITES PERSONAL LETTERS

LESSON TEXT—II Timothy 1:1-6; Philemon 1-7, 21, 22. GOLDEN TEXT—Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.—II Timothy 2:15.

Letters—what interest we all take in them! We go to town to get the mail, or we stop our work at the familiar signal of the postman. Too little thought is given to the possibility that our letters may be a means of blessing in God's hand. Paul has given us model Christian epistles.

In considering our lesson it is difficult to indicate specific verses, but the reader can readily identify the truth taken from the lesson under each division.

I. Remembrance.

Paul did not write letters which were impersonal and distant in spirit. The warmth of a loving heart, the refreshing recollection of past fellowship, a genuine interest in the joys and sorrows of his brethren put love into every sentence.

We need to learn the art of writing letters. Even so-called business communications may often carry a touch of encouragement or inspiration. Personal letters should certainly be a constant medium of keeping bright the flame of affection between parents and children, brothers and sisters, and Christian friends separated by distance.

Observe that the remembrance of Paul had to do with both personal and spiritual matters, and note how naturally and easily the two blend. There should be no need of being offensively "preachy" in writing letters. The personal and spiritual interests of our lives should be so close together that we normally and without effort can put them forth as one in spirit.

II. Inspiration.

Who has not had the unforgettable experience of receiving a letter just when its cheering word was needed. Many a man has been saved from despair and possible destruction by such "a word fitly spoken" which is "like apples of gold in pictures of silver" (Prov. 25:11). "A word spoken in due season, how good is it!" (Prov. 15:23). We enjoy receiving such letters—do we make an effort to write them to others? Or do we excuse ourselves by saying, "You know I am such a poor letter-writer!" when the fact is that we are probably lazy or indifferent to the needs of our friends?

Notice that Paul's inspiration and instruction to his friends revolved around two points—his constant prayers on their behalf and his faithful presentation of the teaching of God's Word. If we would follow his example we must first really pray and then study God's Word for ourselves before we shall be ready to pass it on to others.

III. Admonition.

Scolding has no place in a letter, but kindly admonition is quite in order. Paul improved every opportunity to urge his readers to personal piety, Christian fellowship, attendance upon the means of grace, prayer, and the study of God's Word. He also urged his young brother in the Lord's service to "stir up the gift of God" which was in him. The influence of the world, the pressure of work, or some burden of spirit might cause a man to bog down in the slough of despond or of mediocrity. A letter from a true Christian friend at such a time might well be the means in God's hand of renewing holy resolves and of stimulating renewed endeavor.

IV. Co-operation.

Friendship and fellowship are not one-sided. The very words demand the existence and interaction of two personal beings. "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly" (Prov. 18:24). Paul recognized this, and when he wrote to Philemon he gave him opportunity to respond in loving obedience to a request while at the same time he showed the highest degree of Christian consideration and courtesy toward Philemon. The epistle is a "masterpiece of persuasive tact and delicacy and an enduring model of truest Christian courtesy" (Ellicott).

No right thinking person is satisfied to be the constant recipient of the love and thoughtfulness of another with no opportunity to reciprocate. The smallest child or the humblest individual who must receive help wants to show appreciation.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, and Pepsin-ize Acid Stomach Too

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your drugstore today!

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells. Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. ### AROUND THE HOUSE

For High Windows.—High windows appear shorter if the hangings are looped back with a slight curve and tied somewhat below the middle.

When Making Egg Sandwiches.—Scramble the egg instead of boiling it. Not only are more sandwiches made, but they are more easily digested.

Tea Towels.—Add a little borax to the water when washing tea towels. It removes dirt and grease and makes the towels a good color. It also acts as a disinfectant.

side edge of the opening is being whipped. Just follow these sketches. No other directions are needed. Use either linen or mercerized thread in a matching color.

NOTE: Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator, and No. 2, Gifts, Novelties, and Embroideries, are now 15 cents each, or both books for 25 cents. Readers who have not secured their copies of these two books should send in their orders at once, as no more copies will be available when the present stock is sold. Your choice of the QUILT LEAFLET illustrating 36 authentic patchwork stitches; or the RAG RUG LEAFLET, will be included with orders for both books for the present, but the offer may be withdrawn at any time. Leaflets are 6 cents each when ordered without the books.

Everyone should have copies of these two books containing 96 HOW TO SEW articles by Mrs. Spears, that have not appeared in the paper. Send your order at once to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

THIS idea is the result of an experiment. A friend had a set of sadly out-of-date white linen drawn work scarves for buffet, serving and dining table. Her dining room was being done over with touches of turquoise blue in the draperies and wall paper, so she had the scarves dyed to match. They were so effective that the simplest part of the drawn work design was copied in coarse linen in various colors for mats and scarves throughout the house.

While the turquoise scarves were especially attractive, those in golden yellow and a bedroom set in soft rose were also full of charm. The sketch shows how the drawn work is done. If you are looking for something effective that is quick to make, here it is. Just pull out the threads of the linen to make an open space about an inch wide. The scarf may be hemmed at the same time the out-

Frog Ears

One might well ask where the ears are when we cannot see them. But we must remember that an ear is simply something by means of which the animal can hear, and not necessarily anything we can see. The real hearing is all done inside the skull and in the case of frogs, there is a little hole some distance behind each eye, and not from the angle of the mouth. The frog is entirely without outside ears at all. Inside this hole is the internal ear, and in the frog there is a middle ear, too, for the purpose of conducting the sound to a special nerve, which takes it to the brain where the real hearing is done.

Why Not Join the Army?

From Abilene Reporter:

"Wanted--Able-bodied men between the ages of 18 and 35, of good moral character and good health, from 64 to 78 inches tall and between 128 and 211 pounds in weight. Board, lodging and clothing furnished; pay small to begin with, but chance of advancement excellent. Apply nearest recruiting office, United States Army."

That might well be the type of ad now being run by the war department-if the war department ran ads. Uncle Sam needs 115,000 enlistees in the next 13 months, either original or repeat. He is particularly anxious to get hold of eager young men wanting to learn airplane mechanics and other work connected with aviation. They can earn while they learn.

The army is no bed of roses, but it does offer a steady job at the world's top for soldier pay, plus clothing and equipment, plus three square meals a day, plus a comfortable place to sleep, plus a chance to advance in ranks.

Thousands of footloose young men could do a lot worse than to join up with the army. It is something to have all your ordinary wants cared for, including the best of hospital care in case of sickness.

At a time when the world is aviation-mad, the young man who receives army training in airplane mechanics has prospects of steady job in civil life if he tires of the army. Uncle Sam will give him the best mechanical education obtainable anywhere.

It's no place for a gold-bricker, any more than is a job in civil life; but for the ambitious young man who is tired of idleness or part-time employment, the army has something worthwhile to offer.

Bobbie Lee Davis and party returned from an extended tour of a portion of the U. S. and Canada this week. After a day or so of rest, they left Thursday for Virginia accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Davis where Mr. Davis will visit his parents for the first time in 37 years.
