Nine-foot Skull of a Mastadon Found

A nine-foot skull of a prehistoric shovel jawed mastadon--the second unearthed in the same site--has been discovered in a Bee County water hole. Dr. E. H. Sellers, director of Texas Memorial Museum, University of Texas and WPA field men have been working the Bee County quarry for several months.

The shovel-sawed mastadon, an early form of the elephant, was about the same size as his descendant of to-day. Dr. Sellers stated.

The newly discovered skull will prove one of the largest found, he believed.

He credited the rich geologic "strata," which has already yielded the fossilized bones of one 20,000 year-old mastadon, to the presence of an ancient water hole where the beasts must have bogged in clay.

The recent schedule changes in the mail routes out of Robert Lee, especially the San Angelo route, is creating quite a lot of dissatisfaction among patrons. As it now stands we have no evening mail as heretofore. It leaves S. A. in the morning returning in the afternoon, leaving no time to pick up the accumulated mail for this place, therefore making it a day late. The Department, no doubt, thought the change would give us better service, but as it looks now it isn't going to work out so well.

Vernon Dickenson, linotype operator on the Abilene Reporter, was a visitor here Monday. This was his first visit to Robert Lee in 33 years. He started his printing career on the Observer when it was owned by Geo. Cowan.

The Fourth was very quietly observed in Robert Lee. Most everyone either spent the day on the river or visiting out of town.

A fishing party consisting of Dr. and Mrs. Griffith and their grandson and granddaughter, Dan and Billie Jo Parrish, Freeman Clark and family, Drue Scoggins and family and Mr. and Mrs. Chism Brown returned Tuesday night from a two-days stay on the Pecos. They report a good catch and a very pleasant outing.

Gov. O'Daniel says he will not call a special session of the Legislature, but the pressure that is being brought to bear in favor of it, may cause him to change his mind.

Quite a few of Robert Lee people attended the display of fireworks in San Angelo Tuesday night. An estimated crowd of 10,000 witnessed the display and program.

Next week The Observer rounds out 50 years of continuous service and starts out with Volume 50, No. 1., and is classed among one of the oldest papers in the State for continuous publication.

Smith-Trimble

J. J. S. Smith and Mrs. Lura Trimble were married Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride in Robert Lee, Rev. Hester officiating.

The couple are well-known over the county, and have a host of friends and acquaintances who wish them well.

Effective Monday of next week, the M System store at this place was placed under new management. Wylie Hillyer, the former manager, has been transferred to No. 1 in San Angelo and Frank Dean Bryan made manager here, with Roy Ross as assistant manager. Both young men have been employees of the M System since the advent of the company into this territory, and both are popular with the public.

Tommie Jo Kerley and her uncle, Ed McKinney, are visiting relatives in San Diego, California. They will also attend the World's Fair at San Francisco while there.

A cloudburst at Morehead, Ky., destroyed the little town and at least 80 persons lost their lives.

A lot of people were not alive on the fifth, as is usual after the Fourth. The violent deaths will probably reach 600 or more when the check-up is completed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Craddock are having their home remodeled, Wiley Noah of Sweetwater having charge of the work.

WITH THE PICTURES

Hold Everything! Joe E. Brown in "Flirting With Fate" Friday and Saturday with Beverly Roberts, Leo Carrillo, Wynne Gibson, Steffi Duna and others.

Its a tale of stranded vaudeville troupers in a bandit infested country in South America. You'll want to see this comedy first so that you can tell your friends about it before they start telling you. It has music, girls, romance and laughs. It is absolutely the fastest farce in which Joe Brown has ever starred in.

You'll see Joe in a lion's den, defenseless against the attack of a raging beast. You'll see him corralled with the wildest bull on the pampas. Its exciting and laughable. Don't miss it!

Sunday and Monday, "St. Louis Blues" with Dorothy Lamour, Lloyd Nolan, Maxine Sullivan and others. This is a picture of showboat life on the river. This is a fine picture, singing, dancing, entertainment of every description. Don't miss it!

Comedy and news. Wednesday, "Four Daughters" starring Priscilla Lane, Lola Lane, Rosemary Lane, Gale Page, Claud Rains, May Robson. This is outstanding picture, one that you'll enjoy. Also comedy.

Billie Jordan is home from Fort Sill, Okla., for a visit.

Experience has taught us that the way to keep our trousers pressed the longest is to refuse to call for them at the tailor's.

The Hot Check Law

Among the controversial measures which enveloped the 46th Session of the Texas Legislature, was the so-called "Hot-Check Bill." Both the Senate and the House finally agreed upon its passage. It is now on the desk of Gov. O'Daniel.

The measure is said to have "Teeth in it."

Now the question is "Who will the teeth bite?"

Will it bite the State of Texas? The answer is "No."

This latter question is suggested by virtue of the fact that Texas is the greatest writer of "hot-checks" known in the State today. For Texas has overdrawn many of its accounts and hardworking men and women on the payroll of the government, who draw reasonably low salaries, as well as the more favored who get the biggest pay, are given "hot checks", which they have to discount or wait an indefinite period for them to be accepted at face value.

The lawyers will quote the law to the effect that anyone going into a court of equity should go with clean hands.

This is no defense of the man or woman who may write a check impelled by criminal intentions. But after all, should not a man be allowed to use his own judgment as to whose check he cashes and let him be the one to "beware."

To get what you want is success. To want what get is happiness.

Home Owners Save In Interest Payments

Over forty-four thousand Texas owners with H. O. L. C. loans have saved at least $12,200,000 in interest payments during the last six years, said J. C. Anderson, Jr., State Manager of the H. O. L. C., on the sixth birthday of the organization, celebrated this month. This amount represents the difference between the interest paid at the H. O. L. C. 5% rate and the higher interest being paid when the loans were refinanced. This $12,200,000 has been put into circulation in towns and cities all over the state, said Mr. Anderson, and has had the effect of an increased income for these home owners.

Mr. Anderson stated that a remarkable record had been established by Texas home owners. In six years, $23,666,376 has been repaid--22.4% of the principal of H. O. L. C. loans in Texas.

Of the original loans, 2,113 have already been paid in full, though most of them had 15 years to run. At present, 32,352 home owners in Texas have either paid out their loans or else are maintaining their loans in good shape and are well on the road to completely owning their homes.

Mr. Anderson pointed out that all kinds of people have been aided by H. O. L. C.'s refinancing of home loans--laboring men, professional men, mothers with families to support--all of them--people who were hard hit by the depression, but who have since gotten on their feet and are gladly repaying their debt to the Home Owners' Corporation.

A party consisting of Mrs. W. K. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Clift and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Cortez Russell returned Tuesday night from a trip to several points in the state, which included Alpine, Ft. Stokton, Ft. Davis, McDonald Observatory, situated in the Davis Mountains, and from there to Carlsbad Cavern, where the party spent Monday.

Mrs. Charles Escue and two sons of Abilene are spending the week at the Turney ranch.

Question of the hour: When is the water in the city lake going to clear up?

Sgt. and Mrs. G. W. Lovett and son, Jack, are here from Langley Field, Virginia for a visit with Mrs. B. M. Gramling and children. Mrs. Lovett and Mrs. Gramling are sisters.

J. J. S. Smith who has been visiting friends and relatives at Temple, Schwertner, Granger, Taylor, Georgetown, and Houston, returned to his home at Edith, Sunday.

Miss Gwendolyn Higginbotham, former employee in the county agent's office, is back at work again after being absent for several months.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

New Government Lending Plan Will Hit Trouble, Say Experts; Strikes Spending Key for 1940

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

POLITICS:

Looking to 1940

"A year ago when the President sent his $4,500,000,000 lend-lease message to congress, I said it was like putting a shin plaster on a cancer. This plan now is just another shin plaster."

What looks like a shin plaster to North Carolina's Sen. Josiah W. Bailey looks to dubious U. S. business men as a timely reiteration of the politico-economic philosophy President Roosevelt expounded before congress last January 4, namely, that "government investment" in U. S. financial stability should not merely be an emergency stop gap, but a long-range standard policy. The new plan:

Government agencies would issue extra-budgetary federal-guaranteed securities for financing self-liquidating projects. Special U. S. authorilooked was the small size of a seven-year $3,860,000,000 program compared with $20,678,000,000 the New Deal spent on recovery and relief from 1933 to 1938. Nevertheless many a vital hole and many a political portent could be read from the measure:

Politics. With 10,000,000 still unemployed and national income about $12,000,000,000 under the "ideal" of $30,000,000,000 a year, the administration will obviously seek to perpetuate itself in 1940 by stimulating a temporary recovery as in 1938. Republicans and conservative Democrats point out that the new lending plan provides $870,000,000 to be spent next year; with FHA's new lending power ($800,000,000), with the emergency relief appropriation ($1,735,000,000) and record agricultural subsidies ($1,000,000,000) the coming fiscal year will bring expenditures of $4,405,000,000 as a prelude to the campaign and election.

Finance. Fears of orthodox U. S. financiers went unnoticed in the deluge of political talk. Among fears: 1. Mr. Roosevelt's insistence that the so-called "self liquidating" bonds be taxable brought investigation which revealed many projects are self-sustaining by so close a margin that to tax the bonds would make them a losing investment.

2. Loans to municipalities will be blocked in many cases by local laws and state regulations covering municipal indebtedness. Most large cities, moreover, have already reached their debt limit.

FRANCE:

Lesson

When French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet signed a mutual assistance pact with Turkish Ambassador Suad Davaz, Italo-German aggression into the eastern Mediterranean seemed effectively stymied. Moreover, for Signor Benito Mussolini it was an object lesson in gentlemanly behavior. Results: (1) Turkey is wooed away from the Rome-Berlin axis; (2) Anglo-French wartime control of the strategic Dardanelles makes German invasion of the Balkans less likely; (3) pro-Nazi Bulgaria is isolated.

TURKEY'S GAIN
It pays to be a gentleman.

Mussolini's object lesson was that Turkey won the strategic Republic of Hatay (Syrian Alexandretta) in return. Though the transfer was probably illegal in League of Nations eyes, under whose mandate France ruled it, Turkey nevertheless gained by negotiation what Italy has been unable to gain by threat. Stubborn Frenchmen still refuse to bow before Mussolini's demands for Suez canal rights, the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railroad and Italian minority rights in Tunisia.

NAVY:

Speed-Up

Fiscal year's start July 1 means new funds for new work in most U. S. government departments. Biggest appropriations for the 1939-40 fiscal year cover rearmament, and before July has passed into history the navy will be well under way with three new jobs:

Bases. Costing $65,000,000 are 12 plane and submarine bases for which congress has appropriated $31,621,000 to handle the first year's work. Outlying bases will be at San Juan, Puerto Rico; Kaneohe and Pearl Harbor, Hawaii; Sitka and Kodiak, Alaska; Midway island; Johnston island and Palmyra island in the western Pacific. Continental bases will be at Pensacola and Jacksonville, Fla., and Tongue Point, Ore.

Ships. Early June found 75 warships under construction, the program running ahead of last year. Meanwhile 24 new ships are being rushed, including two 45,000-ton "super" battleships. All will be laid down in 1940 and will cost about $350,000,000.

Planes. Effective immediately the "speed-up" policy will be applied to 500 new airships, whose completion during the 1939-40 fiscal year will bring the navy's total to 2,132.

By Virginia Vale

IT BEGINS to look as if those girls who made "Four Daughters" what it was (with the aid of John Garfield), have a life-time job. They appear again in the new "Daughters Courageous" with him, and will shortly make "Four Wives." The studio had intended to have them do "Four Mothers" as the next of the series, but now the wives will come first. Of course, they could go on forever, becoming grandmothers, widows, and then possibly "Four Second Wives." Just see what you, the public, started when you acclaimed the three Lane sisters and Gale Page in that first picture!

In case you're interested in that picture Samuel Goldwyn has been making, bringing Jascha Heifetz to the screen, the title has been changed again. "Music School" has been abandoned in favor of "They Shall Have Music."

When you see Brian Aherne in "Juarez"—if you haven't already seen him—you might pretend that you're a movie mogul and study his performance with the idea of offering him the role of "Christopher Columbus" in the movie version of that famous Italian's life. That's what Edward Small did.

On second thought, maybe you'd better not bother. For it would be a shame to do anything that would take your mind off the grand picture that Aherne, Paul Muni and Bette Davis made together. "Juarez" deserves all your attention.

For a long time it seemed likely that Rudy Vallee would be remembered as the man who started the "crooner" wave that swept over the country. Now it seems far more likely that he'll be famous as the fellow who discovered and developed more celebrities than anybody else.

Tommy Riggs, Edgar Bergen, Bob Burns—they're just three out of a list of more than one hundred radio celebrities who owe their fame to the chance that he gave them.

Those quiz programs, in one form or another, seem likely to go on forever, which is bad news for all the singers whom they have crowded off the airways.

One of the newest and most ingenious is that presided over by the two writers of mystery stories who sign their output "Ellery Queen." It's known as "The Adventures of Ellery Queen." Each week a mystery story is dramatized, with Mr. Queen and four guest detectives listening. As soon as Queen knows who the murderer is he stops the play, and each guest is asked to give his solution of the mystery. Then the dramatization is resumed and the author's solution given. It's lots of fun to follow from your own arm chair.

One of the radio singers for whom quiz programs hold no threats is Felix Knight, who's just had another renewal of his contract on that half-hour preceding the Vallee show. He appeared on it for one guest appearance, something like 84 weeks ago, and has been a regular ever since.

ODDS AND ENDS—"Tarzan Find Son," with little Johnny Sheffield as the son, is a lot of fun, and just about the time it was released Maureen O'Sullivan, who plays "Tarzan's" mate, was celebrating the birth of her first baby. . . . Metro has once more temporarily postponed filming "It Can't Happen Here" . . . Now it's Benjamin Franklin whose life is to be screened. . . . Ivan Blondell gives her usual expert performance in "Good Girls Go to Paris, Too."

ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"A Dog's Life"

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Today's Distinguished Adventurer didn't write his own story. He can neither read nor write.

That, of course, is nothing new in the realm of adventure. Plenty of great adventurers couldn't as much as sign their own names, but that didn't stop them from getting into tight spots or from living lives that were packed full of thrills and danger.

And it's the thrills and the danger we want in this column. I don't give a whoop how well you can write, or whether you can write at all. The writing part of it is my job, and all I want you boys and girls to do is give me the facts. Write 'em down on an old piece of wrapping paper, or if you can't write, get somebody else to write 'em down for you.

That's what today's Distinguished Adventurer did. His name, by the way, is Jip. He is one-half foxhound and one-half pointer, and he's one of the best all-around bird and rabbit dogs in the state of Illinois.

Jip's boss, Newton Belugum, of Chicago, sent me all the dope about Jip's adventure. Newt raised Jip from a pup, and he was right there when things began to happen. It was on a cold day in December, 1933, and Newt and Harry Russell and Frank Blackford were off on a hunting trip along the Kaskaskia river near Sullivan, Ill. Newt, of course, had Jip with him.

After Breakfast They Started for the River.

They arrived in Sullivan about four o'clock in the morning, had breakfast and started for the river. It was a bitter cold morning, with the mercury down to five below.

Newton was hunting through a cornfield, when suddenly he heard a yell that came from the river.

There was Jip, swirling about in the icy water. He had become thirsty and started out to get a drink, but the thin ice near the edge had broken and he had fallen in.

The three men stood on the bank and looked helplessly at one another. There wasn't a thing they could do for Jip, so they stood watching on the bank while the game little animal did his best to help himself.

The current was strong at that spot. Already it had carried him down from some point farther up the river. Now it was tugging at the poor little animal, trying to pull him away from the bank and whirl him out into the stream.

And then Newt had another idea. He loaded his gun and began firing at the ice.

Gamely, Jip tackled the ice with his paws. He broke it for about five feet toward shore, but he couldn't climb up on it when it became too thick to break.

Again and again the current pulled him out. Each time he managed to swim back. But already he had been in that icy water for 10 minutes, and he couldn't keep on fighting that current forever.

And all that time, Newt, standing up on the bank, was going through a hell that was almost as bad as the one his dog was fighting.

"Each time Jip fought his way back to the little cut he had made in the ice," Newt says, "he would look up at us with appealing eyes, as if he were trying to say, 'For God's sake, save me!'"

"By this time I was bewildered and desperate. I wanted to try to go out on the ice, but the other fellows told me it would be suicide and reminded me that I had three daughters at home depending on me."

"As I stood there, watching him fight for his life, I felt as though the whole world was going to pieces. To Frank and Harry I said, 'Fellows, he's done for, and I can't go home without him.'

They Started to Gather Up the Dead Branches.

"Finally I hit on an idea. We started gathering up all the dead branches we could find and throwing them into the water, hoping the current would drive them back of my dog, giving his hind legs something to kick against and enabling him to climb up on the ice."

But that idea of Newt's didn't work. The current was in the wrong direction. Jip had been in the water for 15 minutes by that time.

"There was ice on his eyebrows and nose," Newt says. "I couldn't stand it any longer so I went back and got my shotgun. I was going to shoot him and put him out of his misery, but my friends stopped me—told me not to shoot him as long as he had a fighting chance."

And then Newt had another idea. He loaded his gun and began firing at the ice!

Jip was out in the stream again, fighting his way back. The first shot ripped out a chunk of ice, lengthening the cut Jip had already started. Newt fired again—and again—and then the other two men got the idea. Newt was blasting a channel in the ice so the dog could swim closer to the bank! They picked up their own guns and started to help.

They cut that channel almost to the shore. Jim swam into it, but still he couldn't get his hind legs up on the ice. Then Newt had another idea. All three men fired at once at the ice on the upstream side of the dog. That did the trick. A big, triangular piece of ice, half sunken in the water, floated down and got under Jip's hind legs, and Jip kicked himself up to safety.

They called Jip down to a spot where the bank was lower, and then went and got him. The poor pup was all in. His tail was frozen stiff by an icicle. He was cut and bleeding, and there was ice on his face and ears.

Newt put his coat around him and rubbed him until he could stand up. He carried him to a gully where he'd be out of the wind. As he set him down, out jumped a rabbit from a brush patch a few feet away.

"And when Jip got through chasing that rabbit," says Newt, "he was O. K. again."

REAR ADM. HARRY YARNELL

A pop-eyed Japanese consul in Shanghai received an unexpectedly brusque message recently for transmittal to Tokyo. It said that the American navy will go "wherever necessary" to protect American citizens and that it expects no interference from Japan, who has been trying to shove Occidentals out of the Orient.

The message came from Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, spare native of Independence, Iowa, director of America's Asiatic fleet and unofficial Far Eastern diplomatic representative since October, 1936. It was almost the parting shot of a man who has won virtually all disputes with Japan growing out of the Chinese war. For Mr. Yarnell, who meantime has won the admiration and even the respect of Japan, will reach statutory retirement age in July.

Veteran of the Spanish-American war, Philippine insurrection, Boxer campaign, Vera Cruz occupation and World war (where he commanded the U. S. S. Nashville), his most difficult assignment is the present one. He will be succeeded by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, possibly returning to his prairie home after a job well done.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Young, pretty Jane Barnes, who lived with her brother, Baldwin, in Sherwood Park, near Washington, was not particularly impressed when she read that rich, attractive Edith Towne had been left at the altar by DeLafeld Simms, wealthy New Yorker. However, she still mused over it when she met Evans Follette, a young neighbor, whom the war had left completely discouraged and despondent. Evans had always loved Jane. That morning Baldwin Barnes, on his way to work in Washington, offered assistance to a tall, lovely girl in distress. Later he found a bag she had left in the car, containing a diamond ring on which was inscribed "Del to Edith—Forever." He knew then that his passenger had been Edith Towne. Already he was half in love with her. That night he discussed the matter with Jane, and they called her uncle, worldly, sophisticated Frederick Towne. He visited them at their home, delighted with Jane's simplicity. He told them Edith's story. Because her uncle desired it, Edith Towne had accepted DeLafeld Simms, whom she liked but did not love. She disappeared immediately after the wedding was to have taken place. The next day Jane received a basket of fruit from Towne, and a note asking if he might call again. Mrs. Follette, widowed mother of Evans, was a woman of indomitable courage. Impoverished, she nevertheless managed to keep Evans and herself in comparative comfort by running a dairy farm. Evans, mentally depressed and disillusioned, had little self reliance and looked to his mother and Jane for guidance. Edith Towne phones Baldy in answer to an ad. She asked him to bring her pocketbook. Jane calls on Frederick Towne in his elaborate office. He gives Lucy, his stenographer, a letter to DeLafeld Simms in which he severely criticizes him. Unknown to him, Lucy and Simms are in love with each other. Towne takes Jane home in his limousine. She introduces him to Evans, who is jealous of Towne. Baldy goes to meet Edith Towne at her hiding place. He convinces her that she should return home and face her friends. She is interested in Baldy. Later they eat in a restaurant where Edith sees several friends. She knows they will see to it that the news is spread. When Towne asks Jane to dine with him Evans realizes that he must do something to rehabilitate himself.

CHAPTER VII—Continued

The Towne car was waiting, and Mrs. Follette in a flurry welcomed them. "I don't see why you didn't ride over with him."

"He hadn't come, and we preferred to walk."

"What was the matter with you, Evans?"

"Nothing much, Mother. I'm sorry you were fussed." He gave her no further explanation.

Jane put on her slippers and went off in the great car. And then Evans said, "I'm going over to Hallam's."

"Aren't you well, my dear?"

"I want to talk to him." He saw her anxious look, and bent and kissed her. "Don't worry, Mumsie, I'm all right."

Dr. Hallam's old estate adjoined the Follette farm. The doctor was a nerve specialist, and went every morning to Washington, coming back at night to the quiet of his charming home. He was unmarried and was looked after by men-servants. He had been much interested in Evans' case, and had in fact had charge of it.

The doctor was by the library fire, smoking a cigar and reading a brown book. He welcomed Evans heartily. "I was wondering when you would turn up again." He showed the title of his book, "Boswell. There was a man. As great as the man he wrote about, and we are just beginning to find it out."

"Rare edition?" Evans sat down.

"Yes. Got it at Lowdermilk's yesterday."

"We've oodles of old books on our shelves. Ought to sell them, I suppose."

"I wouldn't sell one of mine." Hallam was emphatic. "I'd rather murder a baby."

Evans flamed suddenly. "I'd sell mine, if I could get the things I want."

"I don't want anything as much as I want my books."

"I do. I want life as I used to live it."

The doctor sat up and looked at him. "You mean before the war?"

"Yes."

"Good."

"I'm tired of being half a man. If there's any way out of it, I want you to tell me."

The doctor's eyes were bright with interest. He knew the first symptoms of recovery in such cases. The neurasthenic quality of Evans' trouble had robbed him of initiative. His waking-up was a promising sign.

"The thing to do, of course, is to get to work. Why don't you open an office?"

"A fat chance I'd have of getting clients."

"I think they'd come."

The doctor smoked for a time in silence, then he said, "Decide on something hard to do, and do it. Do it if you feel you are going to die in the attempt."

There was something inspiring to Evans in the idea. Hard things. That was it. He poured out the story of the past few days. The awful scene with Rusty. Tonight in the fog under the pines. "Wanted more than anything to drop myself in the river."

He was walking the floor, back and forth, limping to one edge of the rug, then limping to the other. Then Jane came. Little Jane Barnes. You know her, and she told me—where to get off—said I was—captain of my soul—" He stopped in front of the doctor, and smiled whimsically. "Are any of us captains of our souls, doctor?"

"I'll be darned if I know." The doctor was intensely serious. "Will-power has a lot to do with things. The trouble is when your will won't work—"

"Mine seems to be working on one cylinder." Again Evans was pacing the rug. "But that idea of an office appeals to me. It will take a bit of money, though. And it is rather a problem to know where to get it."

"Sell some of the old books. I'll buy them."

Light leaped into Evans' eyes. "It would be one way, wouldn't it? Mother would rather hate it. But what's a library against a life?" He seemed to fling the question to a listening universe.

The doctor laughed. "She'll be sensible if you put it up to her. And you must frivel a bit. Play around with the girls."

"I don't want any girls except Jane."

"Little Jane Barnes. Well, she'll do."

"I'll say she will."

The doctor, watching him as he walked back and forth, said, "The thing to do is to map out a normal day. Make it pretty close to the program you followed before the war. You haven't happened to keep a diary, have you?"

And he was interested.

"Yes. It's a clumsy record. Mother started me when I was a kid."

"That's what we want. Read it every night, and do some of the things the next day that you did then. You will find you can stick closer than you think. And it will give you a working plan."

Evans sat down and discussed the idea. It was late when he rose to leave.

"It will be slow," was Hallam's final admonition, "but I believe you can do it. And when things go wrong, just honk and I'll lend you some gas," his big laugh boomed out, as they stood in the door together. "Nasty night."

"I have a lantern." Evans picked it up from the porch.

When Evans reached home his mother called from upstairs. "I thought you were never coming."

"Hallam and I had a lot to talk about."

He came running up, and entering her room found her propped up on her pillows.

"Mother," said Evans, and stood looking down at her, "Hallam wants me to sell some of the old books and use the money to open an office."

"What kind of office?"

"Law. In town."

"But are you well enough, Evans?"

"He says that I am. He says that I must think that I am well, Mother."

"Dearest, don't spoil it with doubts. It's my life, Mother."

There was a look on his face which she had not seen since his return. Uplifted, eager. A light in his eyes, like the light which had shone in the eyes of a boy.

She found it difficult to speak. "My dear, the books are yours. Do as you think best."

He leaned over and kissed her, lifting her a bit. There was energy as well as affection in the quick caress. She drew herself away laughing, breathless. "How strong you are."

"Am I? Well, I think I am. And I am going to conquer the world, Mumsie."

His exaltation lasted during the reading of the diary. It was a fat little book, and the pages were written close in his fine firm script. He found things between the leaves—a four-leaved clover Jane had sent him when he made the football team. A rose, colorless and dry. Florence Preston had given it to him.

He dropped the rose in the wastebasket. How could he ever have thought of Florence? Love wasn't a thing of blue eyes and pale gold hair. It was a thing of fire and flame and fighting.

Fighting! That was it. With your back to the wall—and winning!

For some day he meant to win Jane. Did she think she could be in the world and not be his? And if she loved strength she should have it. He bent his head in his hands—his hands clasped tensely. There was a prayer in his heart. His whole being ached with the agony of his effort.

"Oh, God, let me fight and win. Bring me back to the full measure of a man."

Again he opened the book. Bits of printed verse dropped out of it. Jane had sent him this, "One who never turned his back, but marched breast-forward."

He opened the book and read of Jane, and of himself as he had once been. He skipped the record of his college days, except where he found such reference as this: "Little Jane is growing up. She met me at the station and held out her hand to me. I used always to kiss her, but this time I didn't dare. She was different somehow, but some day I'll kiss her."

And this: "Jane is rather a darling. But I am beginning to believe that I like 'em fair." That was when he had a terrible crush on Florence Preston, whose coloring was blue and gold. But it hadn't lasted, and he had come back to Jane with a sense of refreshment.

He found at last the pages given over to those first days after he had been admitted to the Washington bar, and had hung out his shingle.

"Sat at my desk all the morning. Great bluff. One client received with great effect of busy-ness. Had lunch with a lot of fellows—pancakes and sausages—ate an armful. Tea with three debutantes at the Shoreham—peaches. Dance at the Oakleys' in Georgetown. Corking time. One deadly moment when the butler took my overcoat. Poor people ought not to dance where there are butlers."

Autumn came: "Jane and I went today to gather fox grapes. Mother is making jelly and so is Jane. The vines were a great tangle. Shut in among them we seemed a thousand miles away from the world. Jane made herself a wreath of grape leaves, and looked like a nymph of the woods. I told her so and she gazed at me with those great gray eyes of hers and said, 'Evans, when the gods were young they must have lived like this—with grapes for their food, and the birds to sing for them, and the little wild things of the wood for company. It would be heavenly, wouldn't it?' She's a queer kid. Life with her wouldn't be humdrum. She's so intensely herself."

"We talked a bit about the war. I told her I should go if France needed me. I am not going to wait until this country gets into it. We owe a debt to France . . ."

He stopped there, and closed the book. He did not care to read farther. Oh, his debt to France had been paid. And after that day with Jane among the tangled vines things had moved faster—and faster.

He didn't want to think of it . . .

CHAPTER VIII

The evening wrap which Jane wore with her old white chiffon was of a bright Madonna blue with a black fur collar. Jane, as has been said, loved clear color, and when she dyed dingy things she brought them forth lovely to the eye and tremendously picturesque.

Frederick's house was a place where polished floors seemed to dissolve in pools of golden light, where a grand staircase led up to balconies, where the ceilings were almost incredibly high, the vistas almost incredibly remote. Frederick, coming towards her through those pools of golden light—blonde, big and smiling, brought a swift memory of another blonde and heroic figure, not in evening clothes—but in silver armor—"Nun sei bedankt, mein lieber Schwan," Lohengrin! That was it.

"A fat Lohengrin," she amended, maliciously.

Unaware of this devastating estimate, Frederick welcomed her with the air of a Cophetua. He was unconscious of his attitude of condescension. He was much attracted, but he knew, of course, that his interest in her would be a great thing for the little girl.

And he was interested. A queer thing had happened to him—a thing which clashed with all his theories, broke down the logic of his previous arguments. He had fallen in love with little Jane Barnes, at first sight if you please—like a crude boy. And he wanted her for his wife. It was an almost unbelievable situation. There had been so many women he might have married. Lovelier women than Jane, wittier, more distinguished, richer—of more assured social standing. He could have had the pick of them, yet not one of them had he wanted. Here was little Jane Barnes, bobbed hair, boyish, slender, quaint in her cheap clothes, and he could see no one else at the head of his table, no one else by his side in the big car, no one else to share the glamorous days of honeymoon, and the life which was to follow.

And so when young Baldwin had telephoned of Edith's plans, there had leaped into Towne's mind the realization of his opportunity. He would see Jane among his household gods. And he would see her alone. He had sent Briggs in time to have her there before the others arrived.

And now Fate had played further into his hands. "I've had another message from Edith," he told her; "we'll have to eat dinner without them. The fog caught them south of Alexandria, and they went into a ditch. They will eat at the nearest hotel while the car is being fixed up."

"Baldy's car always breaks at psychological moments," said Jane. "If it hadn't broken down on the bridge, he wouldn't have found your niece."

"And I wouldn't have known you"—he was smiling at her. "Who would ever have believed that so much hung on so little."

And now Waldron, the butler, announced dinner—and Jane entering the dining-room felt dwarfed by the Gargantuan tables, the high-backed ecclesiastical chairs, the tall silver candelsticks with their orange candles.

"Your color," Towne told her. "You see I remembered your knitting—"

"I'm crazy about brilliant wools," said Jane; "some day I am going to open a shop and sell them."

But he knew that she would not open a shop. "You were like some lovely bird—an oriole, perhaps, with your orange and black."

Monkeys First Smokers
Monkeys often imitate men, but when it comes to smoking it seems that English men look after monkeys. At Cawdor castle, the Scottish stronghold supposed to be the scene of Shakespeare's Macbeth, there is an old carving dating from before the introduction of tobacco to England, depicting monkeys smoking pipes.

QUICK QUOTES

RESPONSIBILITY OF CITIZENS

"THE difficult task of retrenchment in government expenditures cannot be accomplished without the active interest, encouragement and support of the citizens of this country. If economies are to be employed by this government—if expenditures are to be reduced—it will be because such a sentiment has been created back home and the demands made upon the Congress for such a policy."—U. S. Senator Pat Harrison.

HOT WEATHER BILIOUSNESS

Have you noticed that in hot weather your digestion and elimination seem to become torpid or lazy? Your food sours, forms gas, causes belching, heartburn, and a feeling of restlessness and irritability. Your tongue may be coated, your complexion bilious, and your bowel action sluggish or insufficient.

These are some of the symptoms of biliousness or so-called "Torpid Liver," so prevalent in hot climates. They call for calomel, or better still, Calotabs, the nausealess calomel compound tablets that make calomel-taking a pleasure.

Calotabs give you the effects of calomel and salts combined, helping Nature to expel the sour, stagnant bile and washing it out of the system. One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of water—that's all. Next morning your system feels clean and refreshed, your head is clear, your spirit bright, and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish and go about your work or pleasure.

Genuine Calotabs are sold only in checker-board (black and white) packages bearing the trade mark "Calotabs." Refuse imitations. Trial package only ten cents; family package twenty-five cents, at your dealer's (Adv.)

The world knows Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks are first in value, and that's why the world has placed them first in sales!

Important to every motor car buyer is the fact that Chevrolet, first in passenger car sales, is also first in motor truck sales, because truck buyers select the trucks that pay the greatest returns.

The same qualities that distinguish Chevrolet trucks exist in equal degree in Chevrolet passenger cars. You may choose your Chevrolet solely for its beauty, comfort, or performance—but you will get in addition that all-important extra value.

There was a man in our town,
Who wasn't very wise,
He had a big store filled with
goods,
But did not advertise.
And so his goods stayed on the shelf,
His suits went out of style,
Then he began to fret and fume,
You never saw him smile,
Sometime a customer would come,
But he'd leave disgusted,
When he saw weevils in his flour
And the tin cans rusted.
This merchant's bills were long past due,
He did not have a cent,
And had to close his doors,
because
He could not pay his rent.
There is a merchant down the street,
Who acts so very wise,

He has a big store filled with
goods,
And he does advertise.
He tells the prices of his goods,
Though they are low or high,
And people come for miles to get
The things they need to buy.
He owns his store and owes no

His goods are fresh and clean,
His bank account grows day by

"It pays to advertise."

Starring Lamb in Nation's Greatest Producing State

Texas' 9,400,000 sheep and a 75,600,000 pound annual production of wool makes her the leading sheep and wool state in the Nation, with more than twice the number and production of the second ranking state. The industry contributed $31,158,000 to the agricultural income of the state in 1938.

The sheep industry has largely centered on the Edwards Plateau of Southwest Texas, but of late years has spread to the Great Plains, North Central and East Texas.

Workers of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service see in this development an opportunity for farm families to improve their nutritional standards and to enlarge their choice of foods.

The extension foods committee has compiled a leaflet, C-145, "Starring Lamb", and of a series in its food campaign, designed to promote the increased use of lamb as a food. It contains suggestions for preparing and cooking lamb together with a discussion of the food values.

The leaflet, just off the press, is available for free distribution in the offices of county agricultural and home demonstration agents.

We deal very little with subjects of gambling and local mismanagement, because there isn't much of either about here. Often enough there are those who refuse to believe that forms of gambling have ever entered the confines of their peaceful village. That may be true, but few are the places that have not a slot machine to attract the chance-taker. Although, there has been a decided stand against slot machines in almost every community. It is a desire for easy money, contributing to a device where the odds are against you, and corrupting to youth. What a sad sight to see a youngster standing in front of a slot machine to await the "jack-pot", which so seldom comes. This is bound to affect one's outlook and morality, especially if one is young. The government is trying to protect you from these gambling devices and when you play them you are defrauding a government that you expect to protect you. Officials in many centers, and this is especially true in large cities, are often paid well to allow slot machines to stand. This has not happened here and we are glad we have such upright citizens that will not permit it to happen here.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, and Pepsin-ize Acid Stomach Too

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

BAKED EGGS IN HAM NESTS
See Recipe Below.

Meals That Are Different

A slice of golden-yellow cheese with a time-mellowed sharpness of flavor is the perfect accompaniment for a piece of rich, juicy, apple pie—but all too often we forget that its usefulness doesn't stop there. There are so many varieties of cheese, and so many uses for each, that menu making with this versatile food is fun.

There are rich, full-flavored cheeses, cheeses with a tempting sharpness of flavor, and delicate, mild cheeses—cheeses to suit every taste, and for every use, from appetizer to dessert.

Because cheese is high in food value and comparatively low in cost, meals built around it are nutritious and economical, too. And if you're feeding a family that won't drink milk, remember that serving cheese is an excellent way of getting more milk into the diet, for most cheese is concentrated whole milk (or milk which has been partially skimmed).

This group of cheese recipes, which I've found temptingly delicious, will help you to plan meals that are different and very good to eat.

Baked Eggs in Ham Nests.

Baked or boiled ham
Eggs
English muffins
American cheese (grated)
Line custard cups with thin slices of baked or boiled ham. Drop a raw egg into each cup, and bake them in a moderate oven, 325 degrees Fahrenheit, 15 to 20 minutes, or until the eggs are done.

Split the muffins, toast them, then sprinkle each half generously with grated cheese. Return to a moderate oven, 325 degrees Fahrenheit, to melt the cheese. Remove the egg and ham nests from the custard cups and place one on each muffin half. Serve immediately.

Hot Cheese Dreams.

(Serves 4-5)
6 slices bread
6 slices American cheese
1/2 cup chili sauce
6 slices bacon

Remove crusts from bread. Toast one side of each slice. On the untoasted side place a slice of cheese and a tablespoon of chili sauce. Cut bacon slices in halves and arrange two strips of the bacon on each sandwich. Broil until the bacon is crisp and brown. Serve with small sweet pickles.

Cheese Souffle.

(Serves 5)
1 1/2 cups milk
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 pound American cheese (sliced thin)
4 eggs (separated)
1/4 teaspoon paprika
2 drops tabasco sauce
3/4 teaspoon salt

Combine milk, bread crumbs, and butter in the upper part of a double boiler and heat. Add the cheese, and stir until the cheese is melted. Beat egg yolks until very light, add paprika, and tabasco sauce, and gradually stir in the cheese mixture. Add salt to egg whites, beat until stiff, and fold into a hot cheese mixture. Pour into greased baking dish and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees Fahrenheit) for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Serve immediately.

Macaroni and Cheese.

1 cup macaroni (uncooked)
1/2 cup grated cheese
1 teaspoon salt
Black pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1 cup milk
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
Break macaroni in short lengths, cover with boiling salted water, and cook until soft (25-30 minutes). Drain thoroughly, and place layers of the macaroni, grated cheese, salt and pepper in a baking dish. Dot with butter. Garnish with paprika. Mix the milk and prepared mustard together and pour over the macaroni. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) about one-half hour.

Swiss Cheese French Toast.

8 slices bread
1/4 cup butter
4 square slices Swiss cheese (1/8-inch thick)
3 eggs
3 tablespoons milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Dash paprika
1/4 cup butter

Remove crusts from bread. Spread one side of each slice of bread with creamed butter. Make sandwiches of cheese and bread, firmly pressing edges together. Beat eggs and add milk, salt, pepper and paprika. Melt remaining butter in a skillet. Dip sandwiches in egg mixture and fry in hot butter. When golden brown on both sides, remove from pan and serve very hot.

Tomato Jelly Salad With Cottage Cheese.

4 cups canned tomatoes
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 bay leaf
1/2 cup celery (chopped)
1 tablespoon onion (chopped)
4 whole cloves
2 tablespoons gelatin
1/2 cup water
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Combine the tomatoes, salt, pepper, bay leaf, celery, onion and cloves. Cook gently for 10 minutes and strain. Soak gelatin in cold water and add to the hot tomato mixture, together with Worcestershire sauce, stirring well. Chill until set.

JEROBOAM: A MAN WITH A GREAT OPPORTUNITY

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 11:26-31, 37-40. GOLDEN TEXT—In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths.—Proverbs 3:6.

Strength of personality apart from good character will not assure success but will, on the other hand, cause only intensified failure and disaster. We may even add divine promises of blessing which are given on condition of right living, and the man of courage and strength without good moral or spiritual character will only dissipate both promise and power and will become what is even worse than a failure—a bad example and a leader of wickedness.

I. Opportunity and Treachery (vv. 26-28).

Opportunity misused may become a curse, but that is the result when a man takes what might be a blessing and turns it into a blight. The life of Jeroboam is a warning against such sinfulness and at the same time it offers us an occasion to encourage young people to make the most of their opportunities for the glory of God.

That which commended Jeroboam to Solomon was that he was a man of courage and industry (v. 28). That combination will carry a man or woman to unlimited heights. The world is so full of timid and lazy folk, that the one who has a heart of valor and a willingness to work hard stands out in bold relief.

The sad thing was that there was treachery in the heart of Jeroboam. Had he been willing to wait God's time he would have received all that he did ultimately receive and more, but his strength of personality did not include good character, and he at once began to plot against the king who had given him his chance to develop and advance. Let us teach our young people to be loyal and true, as well as to be brave and ambitious.

II. Promise and Condition (vv. 29-31, 37-39).

God had reached the end of His patience with Solomon. He who had begun on his knees in the house of God, seeking wisdom that he might rule his people aright, had come to the end of his life in apostasy and in wicked indulgence of the wishes of his heathen wives. Through His prophet Ahijah, God made known the purpose to divide the kingdom into ten tribes and two—a separation which knew no reunion while Israel was in the land.

Jeroboam was promised the ten tribes with the assurance of the great blessing which had been given to David, but this was definitely on the condition that he would "hearken—walk—do—keep" (v. 38) God's statutes. The fact that he failed only emphasizes the folly and wickedness of the man, for he went on his way to destruction in spite of opportunity and blessing. Men are doing the same thing today. Oh, that we who teach this lesson might be enabled to stop some such prodigal on this coming Lord's Day.

III. Danger and Exile (v. 40).

Although Jeroboam in accordance with God's promise did ultimately come to his throne, it was by way of danger and a flight into Egypt. If he had gone God's way to the throne and had abided God's time, he might have spared himself both danger and exile in a heathen land. Perchance some one who reads these lines is just now languishing in the exile of an Egypt of despair because he has failed to obey God. To such a one we say, do not follow Jeroboam who went from exile on into greater sin and sorrow. Turn back now, seek God in confession and contrition, and if need be, in salvation. Get back to God's way and enjoy His blessing.

In making application of the lessons learned from the life of Jeroboam, let us not fail to point out that all down through the historical records he is referred to repeatedly as the man "who made Israel to sin." "Jeroboam's sins were not the sins of a common man. It is only kings, and kings' counselors, and popes, and bishops, and ministers, and elders, and such like, who can sin and make nations and churches and congregations to sin. But they can do it. And they are doing it every day. . . . The commonest and meanest man among us has more than enough of this terrible power of both sinning himself and making other men to sin" (Alexander Whyte).

Farmer Giles Found A Happy Equilibrium

Farmer Giles had married and all the village was talking. The bride was some twenty years younger than her husband, and, said the villagers, this was not right.

Eventually the rumor got to the ears of Giles himself. "Everybody's talking about you," began a friend. "They're sayin' you had no right to marry so young a girl as you did. The disparity is too great."

"Don't you believe it," said the farmer. "There's no disparity at all, for every time I looks at my wife I feel twenty years younger, an' every time she looks at me she feels twenty years older!"

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Thoughts on Education

EVERY mind was made for growth, for knowledge; and its nature is sinned against when it is doomed to ignorance.—Channing.
 To prepare us for complete living is the function which education has to discharge.—Spencer.
 I have sworn upon the altar of God eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the human mind.—Jefferson.
 Without popular education no government which rests on popular action can long endure.—Wilson.
 On the diffusion of education among the people rests the preservation of our free institutions.—D. Webster.

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

Keeping Mustard Fresh.—Mustard will keep fresh and moist much longer if a pinch of salt is added during the mixing.

For Yellowed Knife Handles.—If the handles of knives become yellow soak them in peroxide for four hours, then place out of doors in the sun.

Storing Honey.—Store honey in a warm, dry place. It should not be kept in the cellar or in a damp place as it will absorb moisture and ferment.

Removing Whitewash.—To remove whitewash from windows, rub with a cloth dipped in hot vinegar.

Clean Ice Trays.—Each week wash the ice tray with a baking soda solution. This prevents the development of stale and musty odors in the ice cubes.

Sunday Night Menu.—A delightful simple menu for Sunday night is: Hot bacon sandwiches, fruit salad with whipped cream, brownies and ice coffee.

For Polishing Glass.—Old linen is better than cotton. Newsprint paper may be used successfully.

Separating Covers.—When jam-pot covers become glued together, do not soak in water, but pass a hot iron over them with a thin paper laid between. They will then separate easily, though the gum will remain intact.

Mother Should Manage.—Youngsters should not be allowed to manage their money at first, while wisdom and character are still developing. Better to increase the pocket money and make them responsible for small things such as stockings, ties. After about two years the young people will have gradually learned how to manage for themselves.

Uncle Phil Says:

When to Shelve Patience
 Patience isn't much of a virtue when it is spent in waiting for something to turn up.
The two most beautiful things in the universe are the starry heavens above us and the feeling of duty within us.
It Pleases Him More
 It is much easier for a woman to mend her husband's clothes than his ways.
Too many people think "give and take" means the other fellow giving and their taking.

HOW to SEW By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

EVERY efficient kitchen has a book shelf. The paper back booklets that all homemakers love to collect may be placed in bright oil cloth folders so that they will make a brave show along with the bound cook books.

The prettiest folders of this sort that I have seen were made in green and yellow to match the kitchen color scheme. The diagrams given here show exactly how they were made. It is generally best to sort the booklets according to subjects rather than size.

The folders are stiffened with cardboard so they hold booklets of different sizes neatly. The cardboard should be cut the size of the largest booklet in the group. The fabric side of both pieces of oil-cloth should be entirely covered with paste to make it stick smoothly to the cardboard. Letter or write the general subject of the booklets on a label and paste it on the back. Place the folder flat under something heavy until it is dry.

NOTE: Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator, and No. 2, Gifts, Novelties, and Embroideries, are now 15 cents each, or both books for 25 cents. Readers who have not secured their copies of these two books should send in their orders at once, as no more copies will be available when the present stock is sold. Your choice

Spirit of Progress

A country is in a good, and sound, and healthy state when it exhibits the spirit of progress in all its institutions and in all its operations; and when with that spirit of progress it combines the spirit of affectionate retrospect upon the times and the generations that have gone before and the determination to husband and to turn at every point to the best account all that these previous generations have accumulated of what is good and worthy for the benefit of us, their children.—Gladstone.

Shifting the Blame

A woman stood on the edge of the busy street, watching the endless stream of traffic, and biding her time until there was a clear road.

A friend came up to her and said: "Are you waiting till the traffic clears? I wouldn't bother if I were you—just turn your back on them, like I do, and if they hit you it's their fault!"

Strange Facts

Undersea Painters 9-Day Railroad Thwarting Thunder

SEVERAL European artists, dressed in divers' suits and using weighted equipment and thick oil colors that do not run when in contact with water, have painted pictures while standing on the bottom of the sea, sometimes 50 feet below the surface.

The world's longest continuous railroad journey today is on the Trans-Siberian Express between Moscow and Vladivostok, Russia. Although the distance is only 5,812 miles, the running time is 8 days and 21 hours.

After 12 centuries, the house-leek, Sempervivum tectorum, a common evergreen plant, still is grown on roofs in many villages of several European countries to protect the houses from thunder. The Peruvian Indians clean their tall straw hats with white-lead paint, which eventually makes the hats as rigid and heavy as steel helmets.

About 50 years ago, a number of barbershops in New York city sold advertising space on their ceilings.—Collier's.

$50,000 Autograph

The United States Declaration of Independence was signed by 56 representatives, and W. Randolph Hearst, who began collecting signatures many years ago, now possesses 36 of them. Among them is that of Button Gwinnett, who signed for Georgia, and whose signature is the most prized by collectors. There are only 34 in existence, and one, ending a letter written by Gwinnett in 1776, was bought by Dr. Rosenbach a few years ago for no less than $50,000! A few years previously Dr. Rosenbach had given $28,500 for a similar specimen.

There are other valuable signatures, but none quite so sought after. A letter signed by Henry Fielding has fetched $3,500.

Among politicians, Disraeli's signature is the most valuable, and will fetch anything from $250 to $2,500. The signatures of painters, politicians, and actors are worth at most a few pounds, and no knowledgeable collector will pay more than a few pence for even the most famous film star's handwriting.
