STATE HIGHWAY NO 158 TO BE COMPLETED

COLORADO CITY-SAN ANGELO and also STERLING CITY HIGHWAYS TO BE REWORKED

The assurance of the completion of State Highway No. 158 between Bronte and Robert Lee has been given by the announcement in Austin of the State Highway Commission's approval of a State Highway W.P.A. Project on a five mile section of this highway. This section is from the Mountain Creek Bridge, within the city limits of Robert Lee, east five miles and calls for grade, drainage, structures and surface or a finished job. On the completion of this program, which will take about ten months, we believe that we have the assurance the Commission will approve another program from the east end of this five miles into Bronte on a finished basis, thereby giving us a surfaced highway from Robert Lee to Bronte.

It being the policy of the Highway Commission to surface all highways as soon as possible after the caliche has been finished, we are reasonable assured that Highway No. 208 from Robert Lee south to its intersection with the present hard surface and Highway No. 109 from Bronte south to Ballinger will be hard surfaced this summer or soon thereafter. Therefore with the completion of the Bronte-Robert Lee Highway No. 158 we should not have any highways left in Coke County to work on except Highway No. 158 west to Sterling City and Highway No. 208 north to Colorado City.

Referring to the Sterling City Highway No. 158 and to the Colorado City Highway No. 208 and the possibility of their early completion, I see no reason why we should not be able to continue this Highway Program that we have now in operation. For the past five years we have averaged $100,000.00 per year, for the year ahead, 1940, if we get that which we anticipate, it will amount to more than $100,000.00. I believe that we can continue this average and if we do, within the next five years we will have gone a long way on the completion of the Sterling City Highway No. 158 and the Colorado City Highway No. 208. However we have a hard fight ahead of us and it is going to take time, patience and lots of hard work to get the job done, but with the continued effort we will succeed.

For your information I quote a part of a speech delivered by Brady Gentry, Chairman of the State Highway Commission, his speech in part:

There are 26,000 miles in the Texas highway system. Of this mileage, 3,500 miles might be termed "paper" designations. The Highway Commission, by official action, has signified that roads in this classification should be constructed to give the state a well-round system of roads, but no funds are available for their improvement.

There are 5,500 miles in the state system that have no surface of any kind. An additional 5,500 miles are obsolete when considered in the light of present traffic needs and should be rebuilt immediately.

There are only 12,000 miles in the state system today that can be classed as adequate to meet existing traffic demands.

It would cost more than $400,000,000.00 to bring the present system up to modern standards, yet the highway department has only $25,000,000.00 for construction. On this basis, it would require sixteen years to give Texas a modernized highway system.

In addition, about 400 miles of the presently adequate highways annually will become obsolete.

To extend highway facilities where needed badly, Texas should add another 400 miles yearly to its primary road system. If these two items above mentioned were met, the entire revenue of the Highway Department would be consumed annually."

Take in consideration the above statement as made by the Hon. Brady Gentry and you will see what difficulties confront us in securing highway construction in Coke County. However, if we continue the present average of $100,000.00 per year, we will complete all highways in Coke County long before the sixteen years are ended, but we must keep in mind that the hard work for this completion of our highway lays ahead of us and not behind.

Hoping that this information will be of some benefit to you, I am,

Sincerely,

McNeil Wylie, County Judge, Coke County, Texas.

... AND NEVER THE TWAIN SHALL MEET

East and West can never meet according to the immortal lines by Kipling, which suggest the theme of this thrilling serial.

The story centers around Lynn Harding, beautiful American girl who is vacationing in India as the guest of the Maharajah of Kador. Two men enter Lynn's life: Carl Norwood, a British Captain of Engineers, and suave, charming Prince Rumbhia, heir to the throne of Kador.

In the struggle that ensues the age-old conflict between East and West is dramatically presented. Set against the background of India, masterful in its characterization, full of action and romance, "East and West" is one of the most exciting stories ever to come from Mr. Mundy's talented pen.

Europe's Emergency Measures Hit U. S. Economic Structure; Allies Link Trade, Diplomacy

DOMESTIC

A Neutral's Woes

In Washington, both executive and legislative branches had their hands full with rapidly increasing foreign complications. U. S. neutrality had come home to roost, bringing with it the problems of war in Europe and Asia. Among them:

Defense. The munitions board warned there was too much crude rubber and tin being shipped to European countries. In January's first 12 days, for example, 1,000 tons of tin were exported against stocks on hand of only 3,500 tons. Unless dealers and manufacturers co-operated better in conserving these "strategic materials," the board threatened new restrictions.

Agriculture. Contrary to expectations, Europe's war has given the U. S. farmer a bad time of it. Both France and Britain, anxious to cement their ties with neutrals (see THE WARS) are making trade pacts nearer at home. Choice example is Britain's decision to buy all her tobacco from Turkey, eliminating a $60,000,000 annual market for U. S. growers. This month Britain ceased large orders of U. S. cotton as provided under a special barter treaty. To bolster her foreign exchange and save shipping space on her boats for more important munitions, Britain had almost eliminated purchases of U. S. wheat, fruits, pork, etc. Said the agriculture department: "This situation is likely to continue through much of 1940."

Mails. For two months British vessels have stopped and searched European-bound U. S. vessels, often seizing mail in violation of the 1907 Hague convention. After repeated protests, Secretary of State Cordell Hull finally got an answer—cut almost to the point of hostility: "His majesty's government finds themselves unable to share the views of the United States . . ." Two days later, hearing that Pan-American clipper ships were being searched at Bermuda for contraband mail, Mr. Hull warned the planes may soon skip Bermuda altogether, jumping from New York to the Azores.

(Whether by coincidence or because Britain is trying furiously to win Italy away from the Rome-Berlin axis, the state department figured Italian vessels halted by the British at Gibraltar were detained an average of four days; U. S. ships: 12.4 days.)

Safety Zone. After considering for one week Britain's refusal to recognize the 300-mile zone around the Western hemisphere wherein belligerent acts are "forbidden," the Pan-American neutrality committee meeting at Rio de Janeiro found itself stymied.

Japan. As the abrogated U. S.-Japanese trade treaty lapsed, congress and the state department felt heavy pressure (much of it church-inspired) for imposition of an embargo against munitions shipments to Tokyo. Japan was worried, because the U. S. is both her best customer and the chief foreign source of her war supplies, without which she could no longer fight in China. U. S. cotton farmers meanwhile feared a trade breach with Nippon, heaping insult on the already deep wound created by loss of British trade.

THE WARS:

Britain Grows Bold

"Each one hopes that if he feeds the crocodile enough, the crocodile will eat him last."

Thus warned Britain's Winston Churchill in a radio address urging Europe's neutrals to join the allies in "united action" against Germany. It came when dark clouds floated over Scandinavia, the Lowlands and Balkans. But Winston Churchill missed the boat. Commented a Brussels paper: "Belgium does not feed the crocodile, and is ready to defend herself against invasion."

(Churchill's admiralty was not doing so well either. Chalked up was Britain's twenty-first acknowledged naval loss, the 1,485-ton flotilla leader Grenville.)

All Scandinavia was meanwhile going overboard for the sake of Finland, but that did not mean Norway, Sweden and Denmark wanted to gang up with the allies against Joe Stalin and Adolf Hitler. Nor did Italy wax enthusiastic about British-French overtures designed to encourage Il Duce's formation of a strong neutral bloc in the Balkans. Of these latter states only Rumania, which has the most to lose in a war, hoped for a strong alliance to ward off attacks.

(Rumania had another worry. Several German divisions were stacked against her northern frontier in the Russian section of Poland, ostensibly to police the German-Rumanian railroad. This, plus reports that German technicians were operating oil wells in Russian Poland, gave foundation to rumors that Poland may again be partitioned, giving southern lands to the Reich.)

While the western front remained stalemated, while R. A. F. fliers struck at Sylt and Helgoland air bases, the British lion showed unmistakable signs of renewed boldness. Heaped atop Churchill's speech and the curt rejection of American notes (See DOMESTIC) came seizure of 21 Nazi seamen from a Japanese boat in the Pacific.

Finland's war enjoyed only a temporary respite before the Russians launched a sudden five-front attack which (according to the Finn high command) was repulsed readily with several thousand Russian casualties. On land they were still triumphant, but the Finns lacked power to combat the Soviet's most effective weapon—bombing raids.

CONGRESS:

In Mourning

Senate page boys placed a calendar of bills on his desk as usual; it would be unthinkable to do otherwise. Missouri's Bennett Clark stated for the record: "Last night at 8:45 p. m., remorseless events transpired to take from us our beloved friend and colleague." At tiny Fairfield, Ill., where he once ran away from home to join a theatrical troupe, the folks mourned. They did likewise at Boise, capital of the state he had represented for 33 years.

Who would follow William E. Borah to congress was a matter of conjecture; it might be his long-time friend, Idaho's Gov. A. C. Bottolfsen. But for the moment there was a strange dearth of conjecture on this point. Democrats and Republicans, politicians and statesmen, congress and the nation paid tribute to one of its elders.

Momentous Question Faces U. S. In Matter of Helping Finland

Places Our Country at Forks of National Policy; Possible Involvement in Current War Seen as Great Peril; Other Nations Might Come Begging.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—The question of aid to valiant little Finland is a proposition that is getting right close to home. Whether we like it or not, it can hardly be denied any longer that the proposal to extend money help to the Finns has brought the United States to a fork in the road of national policy.

It is accepted as a fact that our sympathies as a nation and as individual human beings are with the Finns. There can be no question that almost all right-thinking persons hope that the butcher, Stalin, and his dastardly schemers meet ultimate destruction. That is the hope. The end, of course, may not be what we hope, but it is no sin to hope for results with which we agree in the matter of freedom for any distressed people. Our national decision must be of momentous importance. This is so because, as I stated above, we are at the forks of the road of national policy.

Moreover, we cannot be blind to the fact that the question of aid to Finland comprehends a decision wherein domestic matters are just as vital as those involved in the international relationship concerned.

I think we can forget about the amount of money involved. After all, the $60,000,000 that would be loaned is a mere drop in the bucket when measured by the gigantic totals with which the Roosevelt administration has made the nation familiar. So, the intrinsic worth of the aid can be passed over.

American Involvement in War Is Crux of Question

Succinctly stated, the question which lies in the background; the footpad that awaits an opportunity to slug unsuspecting innocents; the man-killer that must be watched for is American involvement in the current world war! That is the heart, the crux, of the question, although I believe it is not as apparent as it is real. It must not be overlooked.

I am unwilling at this moment to assert, as a personal conclusion, that granting of a $60,000,000 loan will lead definitely to the brink of American participation in that European catastrophe. But I am more unwilling to declare a conviction that we can remain out of the bloody maelstrom if such a loan is made.

It is a situation so fraught with dangers to our future, as a nation, that almost anything can happen.

It may be said that a gift of money—that is what it will result in for the chances of repayment seem to be nil—will do no more than cause a fresh wave of hatred for us on the part of the Russians and Germans.

Let us picture it this way and suppose the decision of congress is to loan the money: Russia and Germany start a vigorous press and propaganda attack upon the United States. We will be called every sort of vermin that has a name, if the propaganda follows the usual Russian or German pattern. Ignorant citizens of the two countries will be driven to angry passion, willing to do anything to punish America. The chain of events moves to the open sea. An American ship, not bound for warring countries, guiltless insofar as war rules are concerned, is sighted by a Russian or German raider. Our ship goes down. American blood has been spilled. And, the next step?

Other Nations Then Might Come Begging Help From Us

Now, let us examine another possibility. It is this: if we extend financial assistance to the Finns, does it seem likely any of the other nations—Norway or Sweden, if they get into the Baltic trouble, or England or France—will overlook the opportunity to beg help from us?

And, further, does anyone hold the conviction for a minute that there would not be a veritable deluge of propaganda in this country in behalf of loans to Norway or Sweden or even England and France, once the ice is broken by help to Finland.

The second point, therefore, is that if a precedent is established by extension of aid to Finland, it is surely possible that loans to the others would follow. I said it was "possible;" I believe it is probable.

What then becomes of the iron-clad Johnson act? That law, pushed through by Sen. Hiram Johnson, the California Republican, makes it impossible for any government to borrow money within the United States if that nation has not paid its war debts to the United States.

Finland, of course, is the only one of the World war borrowers that has even attempted to repay its borrowings and so a loan to Finland does no violence to the Johnson act.

Yet, I have a feeling that if the ice is broken, and passionate appeals are made for help for the others on the side of freedom—if those things come about, I am very doubtful that supporters of the Johnson act will be able to hold the line against the onrushing waters of propaganda which our own government would quickly employ.

President Roosevelt, I believe, was a bit tricky in the way he presented the proposal for a Finnish loan to congress. At first, we writers were informed from mysterious sources that there was a drive under way at the Capitol that was to lead to a loan for Finland. There were quick denials of that from congressional quarters.

President Avoids an Open Frank Recommendation

Eventually, the situation was clarified. Mr. Roosevelt sent identical letters to the speaker of the house and the president of the senate. He called attention to American sympathy for the plight of the Finns. He indicated that the bulk of the people hoped that, if anything should happen to Stalin, it would be something of consequence. But he avoided an open, frank recommendation. The President made a case in his argument for the loan, yet he did not follow the usual course of making a recommendation. It was unusual restraint on the President's part, something quite different than he always had done theretofore.

What Mr. Roosevelt did on the proposal for a Finnish loan, therefore, was to say to congress, in effect: "I am for such a loan but the responsibility is yours and if it has a bad flareback or if it gets us into trouble, you will have to take the blame."

The President's course respecting his letters on the Finnish loan had the unexpected reaction of recalling his position concerning repeal of the arms embargo. Most persons will remember how vigorously the President insisted on repeal of the arms embargo because, as he wrote congress, "such a statute is unneutral." It will be recalled, moreover, Mr. Roosevelt and his spokesmen in congress said with a great show of patriotism that this nation must do nothing at all that will involve us in a war that is distinctly Europe's trouble.

Distinction Between Selling Goods and Lending Money

It seems to me there is a distinction to be drawn between permitting the warring nations, or any of them, to come here and buy supplies and pay cash on the barrel-head for them, and the course that is not suggested. They buy them, pay for them, cart them away in their own ships that are manned by sailors of their own nationality. To make a loan of United States government money to one of the warring powers, however, is a national and not a private, act. It is official. It represents a determination of policy by the constitutional methods that are prescribed. These same methods are used in the declaration of war.

There are numerous other phases of less importance. None of them strikes me, however, as affecting the inescapable conclusion of the dangers inherent in the proposition.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Starching Curtains.—If curtains are thoroughly dried before being starched they will keep clean longer.

Washing Pearl-Handled Knives.—Never allow bone or pearl-handled knives to soak in dish water. Dip the blades into hot, soapy water, then dry them well.

Ferns grown in the house will have a rich green color if a teaspoon of household ammonia is added in a quart of water and poured over the ferns once or twice a month.

Wood Cutout Designs

HERE is a new department that we know is going to meet with tremendous popularity with our readers, for it brings you the opportunity of combining pleasure and profit. With jig, coping or keyhole saw, you may cut these designs from wallboard, plywood or thin lumber. Each pattern brings accurate outline of the design, and complete directions for making and painting.

Men, women, boys and girls are finding this a fascinating pastime, and with each order will be sent a circular showing many additional novelties which you may make at home.

Today, we are showing designs that will appeal to flower lovers. Cut out and paint these clever designs and they become gay realistic flower boxes of your own making. Number Z9069, 15 cents, brings you the pattern for these eight designs along with general directions.

Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get at its cause. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to "cure" it afterward—you can avoid having it.

Chances are you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk"! And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this is what you lack, try crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains just the "bulk" you need. Eat All-Bran often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

BY TALBOT MUNDY

TALBOT MUNDY—WNU SERVICE

SYNOPSIS

Captain Carl Norwood has been sent from his native England to the Kadur River district in India, along with his indispensable manservant, Moses O'Leary, soldier of fortune. Norwood's job is to survey the district to determine whether a valuable secret diamond mine belongs to the temple priests or to the ruler, the Maharajah of Kadur.

Noor Mahlam chuckled. It was like the gurgle of dirty water and it swallowed the silk of his voice. Even his gesture changed. He became as hoarse as an auctioneer encouraging a doubtful bidder:

"Sahib, there is newness at the palace such as never before was! There is a godsend in the guest-house. She has money, and a niece worth more than money. Oh, such loveliness! And oh, such ill temper! The aunt is never satisfied unless she is humiliating someone. She humiliates even His Highness. And the niece is never happy unless she can be as kind as her aunt is cruel."

"Why are they there?" asked O'Leary.

"It is a mystery. Nobody knows."

"Who wants to know?"

"Ah, sahib, you must not ask what I may not tell you."

"I'll bet a month's pay," said O'Leary, "that the temple Brahmins have sent out a call for information."

"Would it make any difference to you, Mr. O'Leary, where the two hundred rupees came from supposing you had it?"

"Two fifty might tempt me. I'd think it over."

"Even that price might not be too high for exact information as to why Captain Norwood is in Kadur; and also why Mrs. Harding and Miss Lynn Harding are here at the same time. There is some connection. What is it?"

"I'll find out," said O'Leary.

"And you will sell me the information?"

"I'll think it over. If I can't find a higher bidder, maybe you and I can do business. You'd better watch out for me. I'll take a stroll through the bazaar later on."

"Very well, Mr. O'Leary. My office is—"

"What do I care where your office is. D'you think I'd let myself be seen calling on you? You keep a dekho lifting. You've plenty o' spies. Find out where I go, and follow, and bring your money with you. Three hundred."

"But sahib, we agreed to—"

"I said three hundred. You'd better go before I'm seen talking to you. Captain Norwood might be back any minute. If he should ask me who you are I'd have to tell him, and it wouldn't sound nice. Him and me never lie to each other."

CHAPTER II

Captain Carl Norwood was in nothing yet that he or anyone could recognize as trouble. On horseback, followed by a mounted native orderly, he was entering the ancient gate of Kadur City. A good-looking fellow, young to be a Captain of Royal Engineers. He looked more like a cavalryman. Inside the city gates, there was a stinking herd of loaded camels. They blocked the street. Norwood's horse that wasn't used to camels went into a panic. When he had calmed the horse he dismounted, and told him to let the horse get used to the smell of camels and follow as soon as the camels were out of the way. He wanted to stretch his legs anyhow. It was only a mile walk to the Residency, on the far side of the city. The swarming streets were interesting, just before sunset, with the night life just beginning.

The Residency stood in a vast compound amid neem trees. Guard-house—flagpole—Union Jack. The Residency guard of native Indian infantry was turning out to pay the customary honors to the flag at sunset. The Resident was on the front steps, middle-aged and military looking. Norwood had to wait until the brief ceremony was over. His reception was not cordial. The invitation to dinner was perfunctory, so phrased that it was easy to refuse.

"I'm tired, sir. Long march. I would like to turn in early."

"Very well, Captain Norwood. Don't let me inconvenience you. I was informed, of course, that you were coming. Can't say that I approve of this survey of the Kadur River. The priests will resent it bitterly. There may be trouble enough as it is over the temple boundary dispute. The Maharajah claims ownership of certain buildings, beneath which it has been an open secret for centuries that the priests have a diamond mine."

"That's why I'm here, sir. I was told that Prince Rundhia started the argument."

"Yes, he's heir to the throne. He had to start it in the Maharajah's name, but it was Rundhia's idea. The Maharajah is a quiet old gentleman, thank heaven. No initiative. Satisfied to let things take their course. I believe the quarrel would settle itself, if we would let it alone. The diamond mine is one of those open secrets that do no harm until they're aired by busy-bodies. The arrangement has worked perfectly well all these years. The priests don't win many diamonds from the mine. Sometimes years go by without their finding any stones worth putting on the market. But they make an occasional find."

"The older, stouter woman, who had used the fan to hide her face, should be the Maharanees of Kadur. But Norwood knew she was childless; otherwise Prince Rundhia, the Maharajah's nephew, would not be heir to the throne. The ladies of Kadur have black, not golden hair, so the younger girl could hardly be a relative. She might be a princess on a visit from some northern Indian State."

The orderly, selected because he was a native of Kadur, rode up with the led horse.

"Has Prince Rundhia taken a wife?" Norwood asked him.

"No, sahib. One does not discuss zenana ladies—not with men of an alien race. The orderly grinned himself into the kind of silence that suggests the subject is forbidden."

Norwood rode back to his camp, where Moses Lafayette O'Leary lied, like three men of three different races, about who had drunk the whiskey.

"It was an emergency," said O'Leary. "Yes, sir, I took the liberty. But how can I get information if I mayn't count on your knowledge o' my honesty, and take a chance now and then on your overlooking what would be impudence if someone else should do it? I have to treat my informants decent. Have you heard who's staying at the palace? There's a guesthouse in the garden full o' women. Americans. Two. A young one. And an aunt who'd fill a hotel. Truck-loads o' luggage. I've heard say the aunt could make a brace of tigers wish they'd looked the other way. They say she's a holy terror. But they tell me the young one 'ud melt your heart to look at her. They call the young one Miss Lynn Harding."

"What else have you found out?"

"Not much."

"You're about due for an Irish promotion. You're getting too fat. I've my eye on a man who knows what work is."

"All right, sir. If you want me to talk before I know what I'm talking about, I'll do it. Here goes. The whole bazaar's as full o' dirty rumors as Stoddard's dog is o' fleas. There's a game on, and it's all set. They're laying for us, and the way they figure it we're in the bag already. I've been offered a bribe to tell why you're in Kadur."

"Cash?"

"No. Promises. Man name o' Noor Mahlam."

"Beyond that you were offered a bribe, did you get any other line on their intentions?"

"No. I know we're being spied on. There's a saying in Kadur that diamonds see in the dark. We're being watched now. We can't afford a mistake. But they'll try some more bribery first before they act ugly."

"Don't take their money. Don't take a gift of any kind from anyone."

"Me?"

"Yes. You."

"I'm incorruptible."

CHAPTER III

Mrs. Deborah Harding, in leggings, a short skirt, and a wide pith helmet, wearing goggles, and with a camera suspended somehow from her portly figure, prodded ruins with the ferrule of a green silk sunshade. Two palace servants danced attendance on her, doing their obsequious utmost to prevent calamity.

"Sahiba! Not good! Much too many cobra—kerait—scorpions—too bad. Come, look this way. Plenty ruins this way."

But Mrs. Deborah Harding wasn't in the habit of taking the advice of anyone less than a Supreme Court Justice; nor would she hesitate to question that if it didn't agree with her own convictions. She was dynamic, opulent, willful dignity personified. As honorary special correspondent to The Woman Citizen, of Aaronville, Clarendon County, Ohio, she was being an authority on ruins. She looked like authority. She had authoritative gestures, and a notebook.

It was close on sunset. Mrs. Deborah Harding's goggles were dusty. The blood-red sunrays confused her vision. She was one of those people who always believe what they see but nothing that they don't see. She saw a cobra. She did not see that the stone, on which she set her foot, was loose, curved on its under side and resting insecurely on a flat rock. So she twisted her ankle and sat down—hard. It jolted every bone in her corpulent body.

Two hundred and eight pounds of widow with bankers' references and one hundred per cent opinions, can sit down harder than a crate of groceries.

"I never saw such people—such a country. I have travelled all around the world from America. I have visited numbers of countries. I have not seen your equals anywhere for inefficiency and lack of human intelligence. What shall I do now? I am in pain. Have you no ideas? Can't you suggest something?"

One of them mounted the pony and cantered away for assistance. Mrs. Deborah Harding sat fanning herself and making impotently harsh remarks about the swarms of flies that were looking for a last, lazy meal before going to sleep.

The cantering servant drew rein at an outlying police kana and, after a heatedly uncomplimentary debate with the policeman in charge, phoned the palace. The Maharanees was out. It entered no one's head to consult the Maharajah; it was his hour of the day to study postage stamps, so he was incommunicado, except to the physician who should bring him his evening tonic. However, Prince Rundhia had returned that afternoon, from a visit to Delhi. Someone phoned him. Things happened.

There are two palaces. Rundhia's is separated from the Maharajah's only by a high wall and two widths of glorious garden. Rundhia's imported patent automatic garage-door swung open. His imported ex-Czarist chauffeur whirled a Rolls-Royce to the front door. Rundhia took the wheel. They opened the front gate just in time. Another split second and he would have crashed it, sacked the lot of them, and bummed a new car from his aunt.

There was a whirl of dust, a din of tooting. Headlights flooded the narrow roads with blinding glare. Three dogs and some belated chickens died the death. Three villages gasped and called on thirty gods to witness their piety. Rundhia rammed on the brakes and got out of the car to bow to Mrs. Harding just as calmly, as blandly, as amusedly courteous as if he were entering her drawing room.

"Well, I am glad to see you," said Mrs. Deborah Harding. "I don't know who you are, but—"

"Prince Rundhia, your host's nephew."

"How d'you do. You took your own time, d.dn't you? I had begun to think no one was coming."

The garden guesthouse was a copy of a cottage at Juan les Pins. It had been Rundhia's idea. The Prince had persuaded his aunt the Maharanees to go thoroughly modern for once.

The Maharanees almost worshiped Rundhia, but she had compelled him to return from Europe by cutting off the supplies of cash. She wanted him to learn to be fit for the throne. But Rundhia was always threatening to go to Europe again unless she made things tolerable; so she had to make good his gambling losses and to humor his whims.

No one had stayed at the guesthouse until Mrs. Deborah Harding heard about it during her tour of India. She knew exactly how to contrive invitations. She considered she conferred a favor on the rules of Kadur by accepting their hospitality for herself and her niece.

Mystic Had Come Short On That Routing Service

The man sat with his hand outstretched as the fortune-teller read his palm.

"See that line?" asked the mystic, pointing to the fellow's palm. "That means that you are going to take a trip in the very near future. To Chicago, perhaps."

When he left the fortune-teller the fellow hurried to the railway station.

"A ticket to Chicago," he directed.

"Right, sir," replied the clerk. "Single or return?"

The fellow stuck out his palm.

"I don't know," he said. "Take a look!"

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Banks and Newspapers

Newspapers and banks have at least one thing in common, in the opinion of the Ouachita Citizen of West Monroe, Louisiana. Both of them get plenty of criticism.

"The most difficult task that we can think of at the moment is to run a bank or a newspaper to please everyone," says the Citizen. "If the banker is conservative he is charged with not being helpful to the community. If he lends the depositors' money too freely he is criticized when the borrower can't repay and the bank closes. The newspaper man who prints all the news regardless of who makes it, is criticized and called sensational. If he leaves it out he is charged with being afraid to print the news. The best plan for the banker or the newspaperman to follow is to run his business the way he thinks it should be run and let the critics criticize".

It would be an interesting experiment if "self-startling" critics were given charge of the nation's banks and newspapers for a period. It's a safe bet that they'd rapidly learn a sad lesson --and an equally safe bet that the public which depends on banks to safeguard its money and newspapers to give it to the news of the world, would take a terrific beating.

Banking has given the American business unparalleled service--it furnished the financial lifeblood that built this nation in world record time. The American newspaper gives the people better, more complete and more accurate coverage of what is happening a mile away or ten thousand miles away than the press of any other country. The bankers and the editors will go on doing these vital jobs while "the critics criticize".

Although our Governor made a statement on one of his Sunday radio programs that WPA Administrator Paul V. McNutt had no grounds for blaming him for the situation existing in Texas, Judge Borden of Shackelford County, Chairman of the County Judges and Commissioners Committee, said on the radio Monday that the Governor was embarrassed when the Committee reminded him that he vetoes a bill last summer which was passed by the Legislature. The bill would have provided for the intake to bring $2,000,000.00 to Texas annually, and the $1,000 laid off of WPA would still be working.

State Health Department

Prevalence of colds and pneumonia at this season has prompted Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer, to outline generalized preventive precautions against the disease in the hope of reducing its incidence in Texas.

"Most of us know how serious pneumonia is, but not every one realizes that it is particularly dangerous for babies and young children. A child under one year of age who has pneumonia is very much more likely to die than older child," Dr. Cox warns.

"Through the use of a new drug and serum, doctors and health workers hope to save many lives, which would have been lost in the past. The State Health Department is cooperating with the medical profession of Texas in using this drug to best advantage in treatment of pneumonia.

"Improvement in treatment will save many, many lives, but more could be saved if children and adults were protected against contraction of pneumonia in the first place.

"A few simple precautions should be followed: no person with a cold should be allowed to handle or even come close to a baby. The rule should apply to relatives as well as friends. If the mother, or other persons taking care of the baby, has a cold, she should wear a mask and be especially careful about washing her hands before touching the baby.

"Children in general good health are in a much better position to fight off an infection than those not in the best condition. The best and surest way to secure good health for a child is to keep him or her under the regular supervision of the family physician.

"In short, insure good general health by having the child under regular supervision; do everything possible to prevent colds; if a cold does develop, do not use any 'medicines' or 'drops' except under the doctor's orders; if the child seems ill, call the doctor without delay".

General Motors Builds 25-Millionth Unit

Brief ceremonies were held in the Chevrolet assembly plant at Flint, January 11, marking completion of this car, the 25-millionth unit built by General Motors. In behalf of the thousands of workers who had a hand in its manufacture, 75 members of the final assembly line crew handed M. E. Coyle, Chevrolet general manager, a commemorative scroll for presentation to W. S. Knudsen, president of General Motors. Veteran Chevrolet employees, and executives of the Buick and AC Spark Plug divisions, were present as special guests.

Factual Report of War Activities

JOSEPH W. LABINE

THE war in Europe is the one subject of interest to all our readers, but the moves on the checkerboards of the battlefields and diplomacy are not easily understood. America is being flooded from every war-torn nation with vast quantities of propaganda for the purpose of influencing public opinion in this country. Reports of actual events are so severely censored, and so many false reports are issued, that it is hard to get a fair account of actual happenings. Scare headlines appear in the daily papers of the world, only to be contradicted or forgotten in the next edition because there was no actual foundation for the statements covered by such headings.

In the Weekly News Analysis we are printing each week, our readers find a concise factual statement of events in Europe, with such interpretation, explanation and comment as will make the report of these actual happenings easily understood. It provides the most valuable coverage of the war to be found in any publication.

Weekly News Analysis is prepared for us each week by Mr. Joseph W. LaBine, a careful observer and talented writer, who has made a thorough study of European history of modern times and of European armaments.

Mr. LaBine is a product of rural America. He was born and raised in a small town and completed his education at a mid-western university, where he majored in journalism. Following his completion of the journalism course, he worked on a weekly newspaper, before going into the metropolitan field. He has specialized as a commentator and is recognized as having unusual ability in that line. His Weekly News Analysis, as it appears in our columns, presents evidence of that ability.

Our readers can confidently accept Mr. LaBine's statements of war happenings, and his comments, as the basis of their discussions of the war.

Last Newsmen to See Borah Recalls How 'Lion of Idaho' Kept Mum in 1936 Campaign

Didn't Favor Landon, So He Played Ball With Home State Dems.

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
 (Co-author, with Drew Pearson, of "The Washington Merry-Go-Round.")
 (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WASHINGTON. — The Senate just doesn't seem the same without Senator Borah.

He was the first leader I came to know intimately as a cub Washington reporter 15 years ago, and I saw him last the day before his fatal accident. I think I am the last newsmen he talked to.

It was late in the afternoon. I knew that the President's message on the Finnish loan was due the next day, and I dropped into Borah's office to get his views. Wrapped in an army blanket, he was lying on a couch, reading an article on trade treaties. He motioned me to a chair, which I pulled up near him. On the marble mantle directly over him was a striking new photograph of himself which, he liked very much.

Duty Came First.

Borah looked well, but frail, and recalling that during the Christmas holiday he had told me he was thinking of taking Mrs. Borah south, I said, "What about your trip?"

"I guess that's off, Robert," he replied. "Mrs. Borah won't stay if I don't, and I can't."

"Why not? Things aren't so active now. A few weeks of warm weather and sunshine would do you a lot of good."

"Yes, but I can't leave. Those trade treaties are up and I've got to be on hand to keep an eye on developments. It's a close fight and we can't take any chances. I would like a little rest, but I feel it's my duty to stay on the job and oppose this act."

"What about the Finnish loan?" I asked.

"That's a very distressing dilemma for me, Robert," he said. "My heart goes out to those gallant people, but at the same time I have grave misgivings about lending money to anyone in Europe. Once we let down the bars we can't foresee what it may lead to. We must keep out of that mess regardless of our personal sympathies."

Dilemma of 1936.

I remember another time when he was in a dilemma. It was in 1936.

That spring, at the age of 71 and for the first time in his long career, he decided to make a serious try for the presidency. There was considerable popular response, but the machine politicians were against him. He went to the Cleveland convention empty-handed—and he knew it.

The night Herbert Hoover made

HE WATCHED LONDON—Senator Borah waited for Alf Landon's campaign before "prejudging" him, but he later confided: "I am not for him."

his speech—which he secretly hoped would stampee the delegates—I countered Borah leaving his hotel. It was past midnight, hot and sticky.

"Come along, Robert, and walk with me," he said. "It's cooler out here."

So we walked about the deserted streets and he talked about Hoover, the convention, and Alf Landon.

Doubted Landon's Ability.

"They'll nominate Landon tomorrow," he said. "The stage is all set. Hoover tried to run away with the convention tonight, but they don't want any of him. It will be Landon and Knox, you mark my word."

"And then what are you going to do, Senator?"

"I don't know. I'll wait and see what Landon says. But what I'm wondering is what can he say. He knows nothing about national or foreign affairs. I am told he is a nice gentleman, but the country needs more than that in the White House in these times. I don't want to prejudice Landon. I shall hear him out, but I have a strong hunch I will not support him."

He Didn't, Either!

Borah's premonition was right. Three months later I spent a day with him in Boise as he campaigned for his sixth senatorial term. We had a long talk that night in his room before he retired. I remarked that I hadn't heard him say a word during the day about Landon.

"And I don't intend to say anything about him," Borah replied quietly. "I am not for him."

"Are you for Roosevelt?"

"Well, Robert," he said, "I've got a lot of Democratic friends in Idaho and I think they know where I stand." And then with a gentle smile he added, "That's a pretty good news story, isn't it?"

It certainly was. It was the big scoop of the campaign.

Birth Marks Classified in Three Types

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

A GREAT amount of interest was aroused when the Doctors Kelly of Baltimore removed a birth mark from one of the Dionne quintuplets by the use of radium.

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

There has been so much discussion about birth marks as to whether or not they can be removed that a late classification of these marks and their treatment should be helpful to patients and physicians.

In the Journal of Pediatrics (children's diseases), Dr. F. Young gives a summary of the kinds and the treatment of birth marks, together with the most successful method of treatment in each case.

"There are three main types, namely, the capillary or port-wine stain, the strawberry growth, and the tumor or lump containing blood.

Dr. Barton

Treatment should be given according to the type of tumor, its location, and size. The simple reddish stains about the back of the head, neck and forehead disappear of themselves and no treatment is needed. The treatment of the large port-wine mark is unsatisfying and at best radium or snow substitutes a white scar for the red mark. Removal of the small port-wine marks by surgery offers best results.

Removal of Strawberry.
 "Strawberry growths on the body and limbs and on the face, when small and suitably located, should be removed by surgery.

"When the growth is large and involves the facial features, surface radiation, electric-dessication (drying it up by electricity or carbon dioxide snow) are effective.

"The large, blood-filled growths are best injected with the solutions commonly used to destroy hemorrhoids or piles."

I believe the above information which classifies birth marks and growths and outlines best treatment for each class should help physician and patient to come to a decision on what is best to do in any particular case—leave the mark alone or use the particular methods.

No Early Symptom Of Stomach Cancer

WHY do so many cases of cancer of the stomach become so advanced that by the time they are discovered it is too late to save life by the usual methods—operation, X-ray or radium?

As a matter of fact, there is really no early definite symptom to guide the physician or warn the patient. In cancer of other parts of the body—skin, mouth, breast, generative organs—there is a sore, a lump, hemorrhage or other discharge which gives warning, and treatment can be given in time to save life.

In their Handbook of Cancer the Department of Cancer Control, Canadian Medical association, states:

"It must be emphasized that there is no characteristic of early cancer of the stomach. In fact, if one waits for a so-called typical history in all probability the growth will have advanced to an utterly hopeless stage. The common early symptoms as reported by Squire Spriggs at the New Forest clinic, England, are:

1. An indefinite feeling of discomfort in the stomach, increased by taking meals, the discomfort lasting most of the day, but disappearing at night.

2. Symptoms more marked and now associated with belching of gas and gas distension. (This is the commonest symptom also in gall-bladder disturbance.)

3. Loss of appetite, particularly for certain foods, such as meat.

4. Definite pain and discomfort after meals.

5. A feeling of tiredness, loss of weight and thinning of the blood. "Any combination of the above symptoms appearing for the first time in any individual of cancer age (40 and up), and particularly if there is present also fatigue, loss of weight, anemia (thin blood), must be considered as evidence of cancer of the stomach till proved otherwise, and the proof must be substantiated by the report of an expert X-ray specialist."

Sticky Air

Now that tremendous speeds have been attained in the sky, airmen are encountering a new danger. This is "sticky air." When an object moves through space at excessive speed, the viscosity of the air is such that it tends to stick to the wings and surface of the plane.

It is known that this sticky air is about an inch thick, and remains in layer formation for at least 12 feet after contact with the plane. At high speeds, sticky air behaves like a liquid instead of a gas and forms new problems for the airman. Steps are being taken in schools and commercial concerns to teach pilots how to counteract this danger.

Here's New Dignity For Old Chair Set

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

ANY dining room may be made fresh and smart with built-in cupboards, a little paint and inexpensive curtains. But what may be done to bring a set of outmoded chairs up-to-date? The one sketched at the upper right is typical of many that are substantial and sturdy though scarred by long use. All that they need is an up-to-date frock to make them perfectly at home in that modern dining room.

This slip cover is made of medium blue cotton rep with darker blue for the bias binding and the cotton fringe around the bottom. Large button moulds are covered with the slip cover material for the bottom-up-the-back opening. Or use snaps under the buttons. The narrow ties sewn to the corners of the inside of the seat cover hold it neatly in place.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' Sewing Book No. 3 contains six other interesting ways to use slip covers, with step-by-step directions. There are 32 pages of fascinating ideas. Spool shelves; braided rugs; crazypatch quilts; many embroidery designs with numerous stitches illustrated. Ask for Book 3 and enclose 10 cents coin to cover cost. Address: Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York.

Constipation Relief That Also Pepsin-izes Stomach

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach-relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the Laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

FISH FILLETS IN TOMATO CUPS
See Recipes Below

My Family Likes Fish!

"There's all the health of the sea in fish," according to an old saying, and modern home makers find that there's variety and economy for menus, too.

Fish and sea foods are available the year 'round in almost limitless variety. In most markets it's possible, now, to purchase (1) fish "in the round," just as it comes from the water, (2) fish that is cleaned, scaled, and ready to cook, (3) boneless fish fillets, and (4) fish steaks. Fish and sea foods may be purchased quick-frozen too.

If fish is purchased "in the round," that is with skin, bones, head, and tail included, allow one pound of fish per serving; if purchased cleaned and scaled, allow one pound for two servings, and if purchased in the form of fish fillets or fish steaks, allow one pound for three servings.

Fish cookery is simple, especially when you use fish that is cleaned and scaled, fillets, steaks, or the quick-frozen products. Remember, though, that the flavor of most fish is delicate, and that you need well-seasoned sauces and accompaniments to serve with it.

You'll find practical and easy-to-follow recipes for preparing fish and sea foods in my booklet, "Feeding Father." There are recipes for the old-fashioned cod fish balls men love, for delicious clam chowder, and for the other fish and sea food dishes you'll want to serve your family often.

Fish in Pepper Shells.
(Serves 6)

- 6 tablespoons butter
- 6 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 cup top milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 cups cold fish (flaked)
- 6 whole green peppers
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- Paprika

Melt 3 tablespoons butter, add flour and blend; add milk and cook over low flame, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from flame; add salt, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. Then add flaked fish. Place in cleaned green peppers, top with bread crumbs, combined with remaining butter (melted), and a dash of paprika. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) approximately 25 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

kle the inside with salt and pepper. Cut fillets in lengthwise strips. Brush each strip with melted butter, and sprinkle with salt, pepper, lemon juice, and parsley. Roll the strips firmly and place in the tomato cups. Brush tops with melted butter, sprinkle with parsley, and place in a greased baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 to 35 minutes. Baste occasionally while baking.

Oyster Stew.

- 1 pint oysters
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1 quart rich milk
- Salt and pepper to taste

Place oysters, strained oyster liquor, and butter in a saucepan and cook gently until edges of oysters begin to curl. Heat milk in a separate saucepan at the same time. (Caution: Milk should be thoroughly heated—but should not boil.) Add oysters to milk and season to taste. Serve immediately.

Sauteed Oysters.
(Serves 4)

- 1 pint oysters (large)
- 1 cup cracker crumbs
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 cup butter

Drain oysters. Add salt and pepper to cracker crumbs, blend thoroughly, and then roll oysters in the seasoned crumbs, covering thoroughly. Melt butter in frying pan and saute oysters until they are golden brown on one side. Turn with spatula or pancake turner and brown on other side. Drain on absorbent paper and serve very hot with catsup or tartar sauce.

Crab Meat Sunday Night Supper Sandwiches.
(Serves 5)

- 1 13-ounce tin crab meat
- 5 slices white bread
- 1/4 pound Roquefort cheese
- 1/4 cup cream
- 1 head lettuce
- 1 15-ounce can pimento-stuffed olives

Toast bread on one side only. On untoasted side, place a generous covering of crab meat—flaked. Cover crab meat with Roquefort cheese—softened in cream. Broil lightly until cheese mixture has browned. Serve on lettuce and garnish with stuffed olives.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for February 4

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

HOLDING LIFE SACRED

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 1:27-31; 1 Corinthians 6:19, 20; II Corinthians 6:16-7:1.
GOLDEN TEXT—Ye are bought with a price; therefore glorify God in your body.—I Corinthians 6:20.

Moral action and right living can only be assured on the basis of right thinking. If our principles are right, our action will be sure and our life will be steady. Fundamental in our consideration of temperate living is a right understanding of life itself. Where did we come from? Whom do we resemble? What are the ruling forces in life? To whom do we belong? If he gets these matters straight, any honest man will come out right in his life decisions.

I. Man Was Created in the Image of God (Gen. 1:27-31).

"God created man"—so says Scripture, and all the forces of infidelity and unbelief have not been able to break down that simple statement. The creation story of Genesis stands and will stand. Let no critic of God's Word, no spinner of human philosophies, however plausible, take that assurance from you.

The important point for our lesson is the fact that God created man in His own image; in other words, made him an intelligent, moral and spiritual being. It takes a very glib person indeed to believe the theory (which, by the way, has never been proved) that man has evolved from some elementary substance by way of the animal into his present high estate. Man came from the hand of God ready to take dominion over the earth (vv. 28-30), able to name all the animals (Gen. 2:19, 20), and above all, capable of fellowship with God.

Remember that you are God's creation and that you bear His likeness and you will have a high regard for your life. You will guard it, develop it, and above all you will commit it in glad surrender to God through Jesus Christ.

II. The Believer Is Indwelt by the Holy Spirit (I Cor. 6:19, 20).

Redemption at the great price of Jesus' blood not only makes the believer belong to God (v. 20), but also makes his body the temple of the Holy Spirit. When the child of God grasps that truth, his attitude toward his body and toward his life which it bears is revolutionized. Since the third person of the blessed Trinity dwells in me, I will not abuse, neglect, or misuse my body. I will not take it to places where the indwelling Spirit would not go. I will not use it or any of its members to do anything which does not honor God. On the other hand, I will yield it without delay and without reservation to the Holy Spirit and count on Him to empower and use it for God's glory.

The writer wishes to bear testimony that when this truth laid hold of him, even years after he was converted, it changed his whole life. It can do the same for every Christian who reads these lines. And what about the unbeliever? He can accept Christ right now and at once the Holy Spirit will indwell him too. Why not?

III. The Believer Should Live a Separated Life (II Cor. 6:16-7:1).

We have fallen upon evil days when it seems to be assumed by Christian people that only certain individuals in the Church are called to a life of separation from worldliness. Men seem to say, "The preacher? Of course! The deacon? Oh, yes! The elders? Yes! The trustees? Well, not necessarily. Church members? Well, some do and some don't." It is felt that it is just a matter of choice or of disposition, and that the failure to live such a separated life is really no reflection on one's spirituality.

That erroneous view must have come directly from the devil himself. Christian man or woman, will you listen to Satan or to God's Word? Read again II Corinthians 6:16, 17. Note the blessed promise in verse 18, and then heed the admonition in 7:1, "Dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God."

The command and the invitation are to you, Christian friend. If you will respond there will be a revival in your own heart, and if all those who read these lines will respond to God's invitation and admonition, there will be a revival in thousands of churches all over America this week. Why not?
