MERICA is busily engaged in building a defense of her freedom.

This freedom of ours-freedom of action, freedom of thought, freedom from fear and oppression, freedom of enterprise-is the most precious thing in the world to protect.

Electric service will play a big part in this great program of strengthening our defenses. Your electric company is ready NOW to do its full share in any task this community may be called upon to perform.

We're ready because for years we have planned far in advance in order to meet your everincreasing demands for electrical service.

Because of this we have built power capacity in advance of any demands in the community.

To assure constant power under all conditions our several sources of electricity are linked together so that the switch at your finger-tip controls power from many sources. If one should fail, it is but a split second until a new source of power is at your bidding.

The highly skilled and trained staff of people who have built up your electric service, and who are serving you from day to day, are eager for any new task.

It is through these people, and this marvelous system of interconnected power plants and distribution lines they have built, that we are ready to do our part.

Meanwhile, we have not forgotten that our job in the future, as in the past, is to improve our service and its usefulness to you, and bring more of the good things of life to more people at less cost.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Roger Shaw 'Battle of Britain' On as Nazi Bombers Increase Momentum of Mass Attacks; British Are Forced Out of Shanghai; Italy Stages Minor African Offensive

(EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union ,

THE WAR: Step-Up

Reports from both London and Berlin indicated that long awaited aerial blitzkrieg against the British isles had been stepped up to the point where as many as 500 Nazi planes were making periodic attacks on shipping ports and airdromes.

Apparently the German tactics had a threefold objective: (1) to challenge Britain's sea control of the English channel by damaging naval harbors and shore establishments; (2) weakening of British air defenses by bombing airports, silencing ground guns and attempting to wear down British pilots by forcing them to maintain 24-hour patrols; (3) a bolstering of the morale of the German people by continued reports of air victories.

As usual London and Berlin in turn each claimed to have the upper hand in the first days of this "battle of Britain." Nazi leaders declared that in the first raids the ports of Margate, Dover and Portsmouth (naval yards) had been ruined by constant bombings. British sources reported a large number of Nazi warplanes shot down (as many as 60 in one day) and government spokesmen praised what they called the "heroic work" of the British fighter plane pilots.

Down East

The most interesting new phase of the II German war was not in the least degree German. It came as John Bull's worst setback in the whole fracas, since last September, and Hitler had virtually nothing to do with it. It was simply this:

The Japanese kicked the British out of the wicked Chinese city of Shanghai. Here England has controlled the so-called international settlement for a century. In North China, where corrupt Shanghai is queen-city, there still are 10,000 British subjects, and nearly a billion dollars' worth of British invested capital. But out the British garrison went, and it was sent far south to Hongkong, a British commercial island just off Canton. Hongkong probably will be next. Already, the independence, right now. Churchill had always been the No. 1 foe of Indian home-rule, and the Indo-nationalists simply didn't trust him. In the last war, India had dished up millions of soldiers and workers, and many, many millions of good, hard dollars. What Churchill really wanted, was another crack at these untold, untapped resources. But Gandhi, as usual, was from Missourior, perhaps, from the Irish Free State.

In Africa

The Italians in Ethiopia staged an offensive against little British Somaliland, on the Red sea. Mussolini's local legions started out by doing very well, and won some bushleague initial successes. It looked as if the Somali capital of Berabera, was going to get it, and the Italians captured some tanks and sunk some airplanes, as they forged ahead. London did not worry much abcut Berabera. That hell-hole is no gold mine like Shanghai, Hongkong, Bombay or Calcutta, where imperial

One of the funniest aspects of the war developed. It was this. Perhaps 400 of Sir Oswald Mosley's blackshirts-male and female-are

A British soldier seems to get some grim humor out of the leaflet dropped on many English towns from German bombing planes. Leaflets contained a translation of Adolf Hitler's speech in which he made "A Last Appeal to Reason" before sending aerial legions on extensive raids over the British Isles.

FINLAND: Doomed?

The Germans took over Czechoslovakia in two stages. The first stage consisted in grabbing the Germanic Sudeten region, and the second stage came five months later, when Hitler snatched virtually all the rest of the country. So, with Russia and the Finns. After a war of 100 days, Stalin took the Mannerheim line, Viborg, Finland's second city, strategic islands, and border strips. Finland was almost disarmed. Then the Soviet's absorbed Bessarabia (from Rumania) and the little Baltic states of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia.

Now it looked like Finland againor what was left of it. The Russians said they "feared" Finnish activities, and accused the Finns of maltreating their Communist minority. It was the old formula, to precede aggressive action. Meanwhile, the Finnish red leader, Otto Kuusinen, was elected vice president of the Soviet Russian parliament, as a significant gesture. Kuusinen had been an open traitor to his country during the first Finnish war of 1940. The number of Finnish Communists, actually, is rather minute. They call themselves "members of the society for friendship and peace with the Soviet Union in Finland."

Congressional Expenditures Pass Twenty-One Billion Dollar Mark This money Could Buy Entire Railway System of U. S.

WASHINGTON. - For the first time in American history one session of congress has authorized federal expenditures in excess of $20,-000,000,000.

The nation was astonished and indignant in 1913 when two sessions of congress appropriated $1,000,000,000. It was our first "billion dollar congress.

In 1934, we had our first $10,000,-000,000 session.

Six years later, between January 3 and August 15, 1940, the third session of the Seventy-sixth congress authorized spending to the extent of $21,439,678,000.

How much is $21,000,000,000. It would buy outright the entire railroad system of the United Statesevery mile of track, every bridge, terminal and yard, every piece of rolling stock and locomotive equipment, every mile of telephone and telegraph equipment, plus every station and siding.

The official reports of the Interstate Commerce commission place the current value of American railroads at roundly $20,000,000,000. The nation built up this railroad system over a period of 115 years.

It is difficult for the mind to grasp such spending. But we may reduce the authorizations of the present session to familiar terms. Let us assume that the whole amount authorized since January had been devoted to building houses at $3,000 each. That would be a substantial house - better than the average American home today. Federal appropriations for these eight months would build 7,000,000 such houses, or one for every fourth family in the United States.

Translated into bushels of wheat at current market prices, the expenditures approved for the proam since January this year tell a

All taxes were 54 per cent of combined net before taxes. Seven corporations earned a profit but landed in the red after paying taxes.

Taxes were $3.05 per common share outstanding, against dividends of $1.62 per common share paid for the year.

These corporations maintained average employment of 3,378,255 persons.

Conclusion of the study: "Evermounting tax burdens are not only a handicap to the national welfare, but also raise added problems for every manufacturer and business man. They directly affect every employee and stockholder. They increase the cost of doing business, and reduce or wipe out profits."

WASHINGTON. - Aid to Britain has slipped into second place, with our own preparedness now first. This is not because President Roosevelt wants it that way. The President believes that aid to Britain is the best possible policy for the United States-that every day Britain holds off the Nazis gives the U.S. that additional day to prepare, that every weakening of Germany under the British defensive blows will make the eventual task of the United States that much easier. Put a little stronger, he believes that when we give the British soldiers and sailors something to fight with, we save the lives of American boys later on.

There is a very strong following for this theory throughout the country, entirely distinct from the group which sentimentally favors Britain either as a country or as a form of government, in contrast with the dictatorship. Actually it is believed here that the Republican high command feels the same way, with the exception of the vice presidential nominee, Charles L. McNary.

Yet it is politics which has caused the President to turn cagy on new steps to aid Britain. He has to be

That's Not All

There are 500,000,000 folks in the British empire. Of these, about 70,-000,000 are whites, and the rest are multi-colored. Some 400,000,000 of them live in India. In the II German war, they have been practical-interned in the Brixton and Halloway jails in London. Mosley is a wealthy blueblood, and so are most of his Fascist followers: people who are used to the best, in everything.

These Fascists have turned the two jails into pleasure resorts. One lady Fascist ordered 26 bottles of champagne in a single day. The wardens have turned into waiters. The government has had to advertise for more wardens, to do more waitering. Lady Mosley, sister of Hitler's famous girl-friend, Unity, takes sunbaths in a bathing suit, on the prison lawn. Good Sir Oswald eats via an outside caterer, wears silk shirts, and sports a different, newly tailored ensemble each week.

DEFENSE? Nat-Guard

The senate passed the measure of National Guard mobilization, by 71 to 7. The National Guardsmen, who didn't seem to know what they were in for, could be sent absolutely anywhere in the Western hemisphere, or to the far-flung Philippines, for that matter. Most of them were business men, and could ill be spared from key positions. Married men were exempted if they resigned within three weeks after they were called up. As a whole, the National Guard is supposed to have Willkie tendencies, and not Roose-veltian ones. But Mr. Roosevelt hastened to assure the Guardists that it was most unlikely they would be sent far afield-something like a 100 to 1 shot. This tended to cool their disgruntlement. New York's crack high-society cavalry became an armored-car outfit and New York's ditto infantry turned into coast artillery anti-aircraft. So did Harlem's ditto-ditto infantry Negroids. The entire New England National Guard had two tanks (from Hartford, Conn.), and it was authentically asserted by war department bigwigs that we wouldn't have a real army till 1944.

Persecution

The two toughest papers in Nazi Germany are the Stuermer and the Schwarze Korps. The latter is the organ of the party's "elite" black bodyguards. It came out with an editorial which said: a German peace will be a Jewless peace. It said: the Nazis plan to clear the entire European continent of Jews, and colonize them in some remote spot. It said: the recent Hungarian and Rumanian anti-semitic legislation is too weak. Needless to say, the radical Schwarze Korps did not speak for the German conservatives. like Goering, Krupp, and Schacht, whom it dislikes, and who openly dislike it.

Julius Streicher, Nazi boss of Nuremburg, and publisher of the radical Stuermer, was reported dead. Then he was reported alive again, but it seems he had lost his lucrative Nuremburg job. Streicher is a close student of Yankee lynchings, which he approves. He always quotes the "latest" lynch in detail, when the Yankees assail his methods in the III Reich. Streicher is especially disliked by Tory-minded Goering. Plebeian Mr. Streicher is a self-made man. Goering is not. The air marshal attended the aristocratic Prussian "West Point," and his father was a bigshot under the old Kaiser. Goering owns the National Zeitung of Essen, which is comparatively "respectable." It is not especially anti-semitic, nor is the German air force.

More of It

Another aspect of Nazi persecution is the Danish case. Up in Copenhagen-the Paris of the north, they claim-they still like to fight duels. But the Nazis have disarmed the Danes, and they are gun-less to the "nth" degree. A local dramatic critic made a dirty crack about a local actress. So a local actor challenged the critic. The critic accepted. There were no guns, no pistols, no nothing fiery. But hate will find a way. The enemies took to bows and arrows. After two flights of arrows, the actor was pinked in the arm, and it was all over. The actress looked on, and everybody went home anti-Nazi, but happy.

Assuming a farm price of 70 cents a bushel and an average yield of 30 bushels per acre, we arrive at a gross production of $21 per acre.

This means that it will take a billion acres of wheat to pay for the federal spending authorized in eight months-assuming the government took every ounce of the national farm production.

But, of course, we could not raise a billion acres of anything in a single year. The combined harvested area of all American farms and all crops is only 300,000,000 acres. This means it would take the full crop of three successive harvests, plus onethird of the fourth harvest, to pay the federal spending bill as approved in the year 1940 to date.

Stated another way, every American farm would have to produce its normal crop and turn everything over to the government for more than three years to pay for this first $20,000,000,000 congress.

This would mean nothing left on the farms for feed, seed, or family food supplies. It would leave nothing for routine operating expenses.

Our federal government is the fastest growing "industry" in the United States.

Recent official figures show public employment in 1939 as 125.3 per cent of 1929-despite a small decrease in the combined state and local payrolls over the decade.

Only one major sector of American industry employed more persons last year, as compared with 1929-the electric utilities, with employment at 102.4 per cent.

But total factory employment for 1939 was but 80.4 per cent of 1929. Employment in retail trade was 75.6 per cent; and railroad employment, 64.7 per cent.

The U. S. civil service commission's July report shows a few more than 1,000,000 civil employees on the federal payroll-against 564,487 on March 4, 1933.

American industry in 1939 paid taxes aggregrating $611 for every person on the payroll. This is the figure reported by the American Federation of Investors, on the basis of corporations.

SURE that he is not endangering his own re-election. Not because the high command of the Republicans would attack such an action, but because the isolationists are making such a determined effort to convince the public that Roosevelt is leading us down the path to war.

For instance, take the matter of these 50 destroyers. Ambassador Lord Lothian said in a radio interview a few weeks back that the greatest aid this country could give Britain IMMEDIATELY would be 50 of those World war destroyers. These are the destroyers which up until the present war broke out everyone thought would eventually be broken up for scrap. They had been packed in grease, with no thought of their ever being put in commission until last fall, when President Roosevelt ordered them put in shape for use. At that time there was much talk about the "neutrality patrol."

But later there came the torpedoboat episode. It developed that the United States had built some of these little ships with 18-inch torpedo tubes, the size used by the British. We have no 18-inch torpedoes; our navy does not like them, preferring the 21-inch type.

Congress discovered by accident that these torpedo boats were to be turned over to the British and there was a terrific outcry from the isolationists. They protested despite the obvious absurdity of our keeping a type of boat which fires a different size torpedo from the one we use when the British were eager to pay for them, and we could use that money to build the type we do want.

So eager is the President to aid the British that there is no doubt he would have forced the issue, and have forced the issue more recently on the 50 old destroyers, if he were not alarmed by the strength shown by Wendell Willkie in the polls. As it is, he is afraid of alienating the followers of the isolationists-just a few of them voting against him in November might decide whether or not there is to be four more years of the New Deal.

But he is working on public sentiment. The fact that Secretary of State Cordell Hull virtually summoned photographers to picture him congratulating Gen. John J. Pershing, after Pershing's radio appeal detailed reports from 183 leading to let Britain have the destroyers, speaks volumes.

CHAPTER XI-Continued -12-

"I knowed that scout when he was a little shaver-everybody in Texas knows the Bowies," said Carson. "My brother Mose and this boy grew up together. Hates Injuns and greas-ers like pizen. If you can get him to trail South with us, he's worth a troop o' cavalry-knows the country, the folks, well liked and fights like a wildcat."

"Hold him," growled Fremont. "I'll get him."

Outside, when Carson rejoined Bowie, the talk went on. Carson talked eloquently of the importance of Fremont's campaign to California and its people and of the determination of every man in his ranks to fight to the death against any attempt of England to take possession of this prize of the Pacific coast. He promised fat pay. Bowie smiled. "Kit, do you mean the kind of promises to pay he gives Californians every time he steals their horses and cattle?"

"Steals?" echoed Carson indignantly. "What do you mean?"

"That's what honest men call it. He took three hundred head of horses a few weeks ago from the Guadalupe Rancho. Nat Spear says the paper he gave Don Ramon ain't worth the ink on it. I heard all about it at Yerba Buena last week."

"To the devil with Nat Spear. I know he pays us boys and pays us well. And no soldiering, no camp work, Henry. We're scouts, and soldier boys wait on us.'

Bowie listened with simulated patience; yet his tempter seemed to feel he was holding something back. Finally Bowie spoke. "That all sounds fine, Kit. But I'd like to ask you just one thing before I say more. Why did you shoot the unarmed De Haro boys when they were crossing the river to visit your camp?"

The blunt question took Carson aback. He seemed to color even under the bronze of his fine features. The two men were sitting frontier-fashion astride a fallen log. Bowie was looking straight into Caring he would easily satisfy the comandante that his arrest was owing to the drunken stupidity of the guard. After much palaver the next morning he was brought before an underling of the governor and subjected to a grilling that astonished him. His own simple tale of who he was and what he was doing in San Diego was brushed aside as of no value, and he was questioned closely as to what his relations were with the faction that Governor Pico of the department feared was planning an attack on him personally.

After hours of examination which naturally developed nothing Bowie was remanded to the guardhouse. There he fretted and fumed day after day until his resentment wore itself dumb. He was summoned at last before the governor himself. This, the prisoner felt sure, would be the end of it.

Such was not the case. Pico bore a name that inspired all who sought justice at his hands with foreboding. But the Texan knew nothing of the mentality that characterized this leader of the mission spoilers.

Again Bowie told his story; it fell on deaf ears. The strange revolver taken from him was not merely evidence but proof conclusive in Pico's judgment that Bowie was a spy.

"Maybe you did, Kit, but I'd never think it of you."

His protestations availed him nothing.

his rifle and his ammunition was row and high that he could see only the face itself. Bowie, sitting on the bunk, studied keenly the eyes that studied him. For a long moment there came a calm voice from the barred window.

"My son: I am a padre. May I speak a moment with you?"

Bowie was annoyed but prudent. 'Certainly, Padre.'

He stepped to the cell door. "What can I do for you?" he asked in a courteous manner, though inwardly resentful.

"The guard will be here presently," continued the padre. "He will open the door."

"That is not necessary, Padre. We can talk here face to face quite as well."

"Not quite so well, my son. I would rather sit down with you a few moments that we may speak undisturbed."

"Padre mio," said Bowie firmly, "I am at my devotions; please leave me in peace. I have but a few hours to live."

"That is why I wish to speak with you, my son. You were at your devotions. That is well. Are you a Catholic?"

Bowie was stumped. "I-well, not exactly, Padre. You see . .

Footsteps were heard outside. "Here comes the guard," said the padre, turning to look. "Let him open the door just a moment, my son. I promise I will not annoy you."

After locking the cell door, the guard had gone, leaving the two men in Bowie's narrow quarters. "My leg is not very good. You notice my limp," said the padre. "May I sit down?"

Motioning his unbidden guest to the one three-legged stool and seating himself on his bunk, Bowie hoped the padre's searching eyes would detect nothing of the loose earth piled underneath it. Yet to the uneasy prisoner it seemed almost too much to hope. His industry had made noticeable progress. "They tell me, my son, that you are a spy," began the padre casually."

"So they tell me," returned Bowie, slightly acid in his tone.

"I ask, is it true?" continued his questioner.

"It is not," answered Bowie bluntly. "I have had no trial; not a shred of evidence lies against me. The truth is, Padre mio, your governor wants for himself a new and unusual firearm-it is called a revolver-that his men took from me. And he is putting me out of the way to get a clear title to it."

"Do not, my son, say 'your governor.' I am not an officer of the Mexican government. I am a Spaniard. My sole earthly quest in California is the salvation of souls. You may be a spy-though I do not believe it, for the whole story has been told me-or you may be twenty times a spy; that matters nothing to me. But since you are condemned to death let me ask: what of your soul? what of eternity? You are an Americano?"

"Henry, did you hear about that too? Darned sorry it happened, but we was in a box. The old man's orders was to take no prisoners. When I seen the boys and Berreyesa acoming I asked him flat out, Henry, what I should do. He come straight back with, 'Take no prisoners. We got no room for prisoners.' He'd been crowded pretty hard for two months. Everything had gone wrong. I had to obey orders, Henry, didn't I?"

"Maybe you had to obey orders, Kit. But I'd never think it of you. Your brother Mose never would have done that-you know that as well as I do.'

"Well, it's done," snapped Kit, much put out at the rebuke, "so, anyway, there's no use talking about it. Where you goin', Henry?'

Bowie had risen, picked up his rifle and was shaking his legs. "I'm going, just as I told you, up the river to Sutter's."

"But, bears 'n' Injuns, hold your horses till you talk to the old man."

"I'm not talking to him, Kit. He can't hire me to murder decent peaceable boys like the De Haros." "Sh! don't talk so loud, you old bullfrog. Stay overnight and think it over. You've picked on the only mean job he ever put on me, Henry.

"Kit, I'm on my way." No effort at persuasion availed. Bowie shook hands with Kit and his friends and exchanged raillery with them but went his way.

Everything at Sutter's Fort pleased him. Captain Sutter had charged the whole atmosphere with his own magnetic personality. When he persuaded Bowie to remain for a time with him it was to be on Bowie's own terms, if Bowie would name any. In the end Sutter named for his new recruit so liberal a percentage on his fur business that Bowie himself insisted on reducing it.

Captain Sutter had at his command the services of former mission Indians who, on the despoiling of the missions by the freebooting Mexican politicos, had found them-selves adrift and thrown on their own resources. Some fell back into savagery and pillage, imitating their Mexican despoilers. Others, of the better stripe, sought service where prise of Captain Sutter. Still, something suppressed but gnawing at his feelings urged him to seek new scenes, new excitement, to deaden a vague sense of loneliness. When he told Captain Sutter he was leaving him there was an explosion. But it was a good-natured one, and the two parted friends. Bowie promised to come back sometime if he could make it.

Leaving the valley with one pony, Bowie worked South along the Sierras, sleeping under the stars and killing such small game as he needed for food until, passing the Tehachapi range, he stopped at the Mission San Gabriel, only to learn that a state of war existed between Mexican factions and that the southern end of the department was, for one side or the other, under arms.

CHAPTER XII

Bowie had no intention of mixing in a squabble between Mexican California grafters, and to avoid the sham battle lines he kept well inland in order to reach San Diego. He meant to outfit there and strike across the desert for Texas, which he had not seen for years. He reached San Diego late at night. He had intended to sleep outside the town overnight. But toward night fall rain had begun to fall and when he reached the presidio there was a heavy downpour. He rode up to the presidio gate. where he was challenged by, a sentry, whom he answered in good Spanish and asked for shelter.

The sentry called the captain of the guard out into the rain from a game of seven-up.

Whether this was unpleasant for the captain, whether the call spoiled a winning streak, or whether the captain had had too much pulgue. Bowie never could figure out. But he was very brusque. He ordered Bowie to dismount, ordered him searched and disarmed. No answer that the Texan could make to his insolent questioning would satisfy him. He pronounced Bowie a spy. put him under arrest and sent him to the guardhouse.

The Texan's surprise was equaled by his annoyance and his contempt for his captors. However, he reflected that a night in the dry guardhouse would be better than a night in the rain. But to find himself for from under the floor. He glanced the first time in his California life toward the peephole. A face was they could; many were in the em- without his knife, his revolver, or there. But the aperture was so nar-

At three o'clock he was notified that he would be shot as a spy next morning. Bowie took the message, silent and hard featured, from the guard who brought it. But with his wits keyed high by the amazing news, he studied closely through the bars of the peephole in the cell door the features of the Indian soldier who bore the message. It flashed suddenly on Bowie that he had seen that man before. "Sanchez," he said calmly, "I thank you for tell-ing me this."

The Indian started at the utterance of his name. "I thank you, Sanchez," continued Bowie, unmoved by the stolid guard's amazement, "because you and I are old friends. You do not recognize me: I am covered with half a beard and unwashed and eaten by vermin. Look closer, Sanchez"-Bowie lowered his voice-"look closer. I am Bowie, whom you knew at Guadalupe. We fought together in the canyon of the Santa Maria-did we not?"

Sanchez stared hard at him. Bowie's very quiet pierced the sluggishness of his Indian nature.

"Senor," he stammered, speaking low and with the utmost caution. "I remember all. I did not know you. How can I help you? If I let you out they will shoot me."

"Do nothing of that kind. Only, as soon as you can, bring me something to eat and pass me a good knife. That's all-go. Tell them I will be ready.'

Sanchez proved not ungrateful. Bowie's contempt for everything and everyone concerned in his imprisonment was not lessened by the threat of immediate death. But he set to work, within a minute after the knife was in his hand, to dig himself out of his crude surroundings.

Working feverishly for an hour in the clay underlying the stone floor, he had made progress in his tunnel when, although no sound reached his ear, the scant light through the peephole of his cell door lessened just enough to make him realize someone was looking in.

Expecting a bullet in the back of his head, he turned as unconcernedly as possible from the bunk near which he was working. Behind the bunk lay the loose earth scooped

"No, Padre."

"Not Americano-what then, my son?"

"A Tejano."

"A Tejano," echoed the Franciscan, still searching Bowie's face narrowly and speaking as if musing or as if placing in his mind a fact at a time to serve as tesserae for a "When did you possible mosaic. first come to California?'

"Some ten or twelve years ago, Padre. What," demanded Bowie impatiently, "has that to do with this trumped-up charge against me?

"Nothing, nothing whatever, my son. But if you will be patient it may have something to do with what I have in mind. By what route did you come to California?"

"Across the Rio Colorado and the desert of the South."

The padre's interest seemed to grow. He spoke on with slight but increasing keenness. "Then you must have come in not very far from San Diego," he persisted, still musing.

"I did so come."

"I presume," continued the padre gently insinuating, "that you spoke Spanish when you came to Califor-

"When I came to California neither I nor my companions could speak a word of Spanish."

"You did not come alone, then?" "Two Texan scouts came with me.'

"Three of you." The white-haired man, his penetrating eyes bent closely on Bowie, hesitated an instant. He spoke then intently. "My son, did you and your companions hear about that time of Indian mur ders?"

"I have heard of many Indian murders since coming to California."

"I speak of a raid and a murder in which a Spanish ranchero and his two vaqueros were killed, his house burned and two of his little girls carried into captivity by the Indians."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL CUNDAY CHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Dean of The Moody Bible Institute (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for August 25

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts se-lected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

CONFESSION AND FORGIVENESS

LESSON TEXT-II Samuel 12:13, 14; Psalm 51:1-3, 9-13; 32:5. GOLDEN TEXT-Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed.-James 5:16.

If the Bible told us only of perfect people, we would recognize it as being not true to life and assuredly of no help to us who know our own sinful natures. The Bible, however, tells us in all truthfulness of the bad as well as the good, the weak as well as the strong, the humble as well as the mighty.

The lesson centers around David, the humble shepherd boy who became king; and in the height of his glory, being tempted of his own evil desires, fell into the lowest of sin, which he then sought to cover by a well-planned murder. He finds no peace until he repents and returns to God. Three words summarize the lesson.

1. Sin (II Sam. 12:13, 14).

That little three lettered word seems to have the hiss of the serpent in it-sin-the cause of all man's woes and the heartache of a loving God.

David had tried to hide his sin and he said, "My bones waxed old through my roaring all the day long. For day and night thy hand was "heavy upon me" (Ps. 32: 3, 4). "Be sure your sin will find you out" (Num. 32:23) is just as true today as it was in David's time.

The nature of sin is described in Psalm 51, and if we may anticipate a bit, we note that it is described by three words: "transgression," meaning a rebellious "stepping over" God's boundaries: "iniquity." from the same root as our word "unequal," meaning crookedness of heart and life; and "sin," which means missing the mark, a life going the wrong way.

Note that sin, while it may bring sorrow and trouble to us and those round about us, is "against the Lord" (v. 13 and Ps. 51:4). The sinner must face and answer to God for his sin.

Nathan's straightforward dealing with David brought him to

II. Repentance (Ps. 51:1-3, 9-13).

Suede Fashions Due for Big Vogue This Fall and Winter

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

verted into a suede way of thinking, you will when you see the fascinating things designers are doing with handsome suede for the coming fall and winter. In a wide range of colors, never so beautiful, never so exquisitely supple and never before so versatile for all purposes, suede has reached the point where it is regarded as a staple medium for the making of smart apparel.

No matter from what fashion angle the approach is made, suede qualifies as the perfect answer. There's nothing smarter on the boards for fall than a coat or a jacket, a suit or a one-piece dress made of suede. As to accessories of suede the rich colors of suede and its delightsome yield to deft handling is revealed throughout a whole list of bags and hats, belts, gloves and footwear that add the swank touch to goodlooking costumes.

Women of keen fashion-sense like suede because it not only has proved to be dependably wearable and practical, but when it comes to color suede is positively glamorous and stands in a class all its own when it comes to interpreting a new high in fashion.

Destined to be adored is the littleboy jacket done in suede as shown At least this is what fashion is doto the left in the illustration. It is ing, playing on the theme in a way collarless with slightly padded shoulders. It boasts of three large patch pockets. Helen Wood, glamour girl of 1940 in filmland, chooses this jacket in a gold nugget hue to wear over a moss green suede dress. Any school-faring girl will do well to include in her wardrobe a suede ensemble after the manner of the model shown to the right. Here you see Rosemary De Camp, dramatic cinema actress, in a one-piece dress made of porcelain blue suede. Softness is achieved by a fulness gathered in under the slash pockets on the waist. Strange Facts Swift Canal Travel Loud Whale Blow Market for Rust

I The United States fleet can go through the Panama canal with and thoughts if they are always to remarkable speed. Energy of Love

The various kinds of energy which are developed from heat are not more real, nor more powlove in the inner life of man-Henry Van Dyke.

What David expressed to Nathan -"I have sinned against the Lord" -is more fully expressed in the great psalm of penitence which we know as Psalm 51. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith well says that "probably these verses have brought more comfort. and assurance of forgiveness, and hope for a renewed life after some terrible transgression, to a greater number of God's children down through the ages than any other single passage in the pages of the Old Testament."

To acknowledge one's transgression before God is to open the floodgates of His mercy, to receive His grace in forgiveness, cleansing, restoration, new joy, and (note it well) renewed usefulness (v. 13). God does not cast His people off because of their sin, nor cut off their usefulness when they repent.

, Observe, however, that God did not permit David's sin to go unpunished. God is forgiving, but even repentance cannot wipe out the results of sin (II Sam. 12:14). God chastised David to declare before the people all of His divine hatred of sin. To sin against God is no light and casual thing. It cuts deepty into life, and only the grace of God is sufficient to bring a man up out of that pit. But there is

III. Forgiveness (Ps. 32:5).

How tender and sweet is that word -forgiveness. It speaks of the removal of guilt, the breaking down of the barrier which sin has created, and the restoration of fellowship. Where all had been wrong and troubled, all has become right and at peace.

These things are true even in the forgiveness of one man toward another who has offended, but infinitely greater when the heart of God meets the repentant sinner. He is so ready to meet such a man that even while he is thinking of confessing, God sees the attitude of his heart and forgives. "At this moment, without sight or sound that mortal ear can detect, or attitude that the eye of man can observe, even before the thing is said, when I make up my mind to confess, 'thou forgavest the iniquity of my sin'! Do you wonder that when this man was going to write a psalm about this matter, he had to begin, 'O the blessings of transgression forgiven, and sin covered'?" (G. Campbell Morgan).

Gold Jewelry Will Be Worn This Fall

In spite of the fact that gold jewelry has been somewhat out of the picture for a brief spell comes reports to the effect that it has again come to the fore in the style picture. However, the new gold jewelry that will enliven smart black jersey dresses and those of sheer wools, is not of the garish spectacular type. There is exquisite refinement expressed in subtle detail and workmanship in the incoming necklaces, bracelets, pins, clips and lapel ornaments.

Fashion Notes

A skin-tight suit will tend to make you look thinner.

Suits made of crisp, rustling black taffeta are a favorite fashion. Soft silk net is one of the fabrics featured in Bruyere's midseason collection.

For the large figure, this season's popular ballerina suits will be becoming.

White eyelet embroidery gives a dressed-up look to a casual suit of cotton chambray.

A head covering and wrap, all in one, is easily evolved from the smart triangular shawls.

Decorative trims are subtle and restrained in the new Lily Dache hat presentations for early fall.

Light-colored fur jackets for cool summer days or evenings are more exotic looking this year than ever before.

To dress up your summer frocks, coats and even accessories with distinction, smart designers are doing neat tricks with soutache braid.

It's time to give thought to the inevitable easy-to-slip-on jacket that is indispensable when cool breezes announce that autumn days are here. The pick of them all, in the estimation of fashion-wise college girls and their younger school-faring sisters is the jacket that is made of bright red corduroy. A grand twosome for early fall days on the campus or for general wear when the tang of autumn calls for comfortable wraps is a jacket of stoplight red corduroy such as is pictured here, topped with a matching hat of the identical corduroy

Picnics for four or five families are usually co-operative affairs. Each family may supply its own lunch, but more often each one provides one item in large enough quantities to serve the crowd. One family might provide the salad, one the meat, and still another family the dessert, which might be watermelon, a luscious chocolate cake, or a freezer full of old fashioned ice cream. With a little planning, the cost can be fairly equally distributed.
