WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Corregidor and Other Philippine Forts Fall After Constant Pounding by Japs; Eastern Supply Routes Safeguarded By Allied Occupation of Madagascar

(EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

To David Fairfax Oyster, 18, of Chevy Chase, Md., went the honor of being the first (and youngest) high school cadet accepted in the navy's aviation program. He is shown being sworn in by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, the first cadet to enter navy's Class V-5 by which high school graduates may qualify for commissions in the air force.

CORREGIDOR:

Chapter Ends

Even as the first British Commandos were landing on one important island (See Column Two-Madagascar: A Coup), American troops were engaged in their last stand for the Philippine island fortress, Corregidor, in Manila bay.

For almost a month since the fighting had ended on Bataan, American forces commanded by Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright had been holding this fortified rock against a terrific air and artillery pounding by the Japs, thoroughly entrenched on Luzon, across the bay.

The Jap's final assault ended after about two days of constant hammering from big guns and aerial bombs. When the first Jap landings on the island itself were reported, military experts in Washington could see that the end was near.

It was from Gen. Douglas Mac-Arthur's headquarters in Melbourne, Australia, that the blunt announcement finally came: "General Wainwright has surrendered Corregidor and other fortified islands in Manila harbor." The other island strongholds in addition to Corregidor are Fort Mills, Fort Hughes, Fort Drum and Fort Frank.

Then from Washington, the

MADAGASCAR: A Coup

When British troops landed on the French island of Madagascar to forestall an expected coup by the Japanese the United States state department was not long in announcing that this country was in sympathy with the move.

British sources explained that the move was made after the Laval French government in Vichy had played host to visiting Japanese officials en route to Berlin. And thus, continued this story, the Vichy government was very unlikely to put up any opposition to a movement by the Japs to seize the important island which is considered a vital base for guarding the sea lanes in the Indian ocean off the east coast of Africa.

Retaliatory action by the French was to be considered as an act of aggression against the entire group of the United Nations, according to the U. S. state department and this country, with Britain pledged to return the strategic island to France after the war.

RUSSIAN FRONT: A Pledge

If the Russian soldier can fulfill is pledge to Josef Stalin, 1942 will department reported that it had see the final defeat of Adolf Hitler's received a message from military might. For from Moscow Corregidor that resistance of our came the report that Russian soldiers all along the 2,000-mile Gering has ceased and terms are being man front had taken an oath to make this the final year of the war. Meanwhile other Russian dispatches told of a strong drive by Marshal Timoshenko's Red army of

NAZI WARSHIPS: Three Cripples

Last February when the three Nazi warships, the battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst, and the cruiser Prinz Eugen, made their startling escape from the Nazi-held port of Brest through the English channel, a naval offensive in northern waters to cut the United Nations Arctic supply line to Russia was foreseen.

Now the British admiralty has explained why such action has been lacking. An announcement from this source indicates that the three ships will be out of action for some time. They were severely damaged, say the British, by torpedo and bombing attacks in their channel flight, and by British mines and submarine action later. Thus instead of six powerful warships to smash at British and U.S. fleets, the Nazis have only three capable of immediate action.

NON-VIOLENCE: Gandhi's 'Defense'

Mohandas K. Gandhi once more proved his power over India's masses when the All-India Congress party's working committee decided to urge a policy of "non-violent nonco-operation" if their country is invaded by Japan.

The Congress thus returned to the ideas of Gandhi in spite of the more belligerent attitude of Jawaharlal Nehru and other party leaders who have stated that India must fight. Peace-loving Gandhi has advanced his policy of non-violence to the point of opposing the scorched earth policy.

The British government again took the blame for India's stand. The Congress party's resolution declared that such a policy was necessary.

Washington, D. C.

Spring has unloosed her fluttering green scarf over the capital, the stark pattern of black branches against sullen skies was gone. Behind the classic portico of the Treasury building I could see, from my high window, pointed tree tops like a jade comb in a gray dowager's hair.

That was May in Washington as it has looked for nearly a quarter of a century. But there was a grim signature in the upper corner of this picture framed by my office window that made the whole scene modern-strictly, brutally, 1942. It was the silhouette of a parapet, the top of a tall hotel and on the penthouse roof a black cylinder pointed upward-an anti-aircraft gun. But that did not hold my attention. I have seen hundreds, if not thousands, of those guns in the past weeks. It was a doughboy under his rounded helmet sitting on the edge of the parapet kicking his heels into space as his watchful young eyes followed the skyline.

To me he was the symbol of a million men scattered from the Arctic to the Antipodes, scanning strange skylines, soon to see them all turn red.

Never in history has a nation sent its sons out to as wide-flung a front as that which America is guarding today; never in history has such a terrible machine been built by a single people.

In less than half a year a nation that yesterday spent less on its army than on its movies, its autos, or its cosmetics has begun to man the outposts of the United Nations.

Gradually the United States has assumed military command in an area ten, perhaps 20 times, as wide as its own borders. Boys from Florida and Texas live in iron huts in Iceland under an American commander-boys from the Dakotas are sweating in Asiatic jungles-boys from New England are fighting sandstorms in the African deserts-American generals give commands in China, in the South Seas, in India and the Levant.

not so far in the East and the northwest Pacific-we still have at least one teaspoonful of sugar for our coffee, school begins, father goes to the office or the fields, there are still dishes to wash, shoes to shine, umbrellas to mend, babies to change. If it weren't for these common, engrossing things human beings could not carry on while the whole world goes through the excruciating agony of travail that will bring forth something whose nature no one can guess. To survive this ordeal requires the dull, unthinking indifference of the brute or the faith of saints and martyrs.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N-W, | the English speaking mixed with a heavy smattering of races drawn from as many different lands as our Northamericans.

"Daughter I am in my mother's house, but mistress of my own" wrote Kipling of "Our Lady of the Snows" as he called Canada whose wide vistas of lakeland, prairies, mountain and forest were too wide for even his facile genius to bring to a single canvas. Now she is a grown-up daughter who can speak to the motherland on equal terms.

Interdependency

Today, bound together in the same cause, the United States and Canada are more interdependent than ever. They must share in the framing of a new world after the war.

Canada has never accepted a lend-lease arrangement with the United States.

Canada's parliament has voted a free gift of a billion dollars to Britain.

Canada, dependent on so much of America's output to sustain her war effort is struggling to maintain financial independence so that she can sit down at the peace table with no debtor's shackles on her wrists, no burrs on her tongue, as an equal counselor among the Northamericans

But because the United States is a giant, financially and industrially, and Canada is small in comparison, she is deeply affected by what America does. That is why she is keenly interested in how the United States works out the program for checking inflation laid down in the President's message of April 27.

Canada's war effort depends on the United States for certain materials which Canada neither grows in her fertile soil nor fabricates in her factories. Canada has things America needs. You cannot go into one of the busy Canadian war factories without seeing the name of an American city stamped on some machine-American machine tools is an essential which we have furnished Canada so that she could equip not only her own army and navy but help Britain to equip hers.

And Canada has had a problem. She bought much more from us than we from her. American dollars became as scarce north of the border as corn pone (and it's hard to think of an American product unknown in Canada).

troops has been overcome. Fightarranged covering the capitulation of the island forts in Manila bay."

AUSTRALIA: A Jap Headache

For over a month the United Nations had been letting the world know, with Japan included, that their strength in Australia was assuming increased proportions. American troops in large numbers have been poured on to this continent to aid in its defense and to participate in the expected offensive action to recapture the East Indies and the Philippines.

Evidence of this increased strength has been indicated by the news dispatches of hard-fought air battles off the coasts of this important outpost. In one week-end, Allied headquarters reported a toll of 20 Jap planes destroyed and four Jap ships blasted by planes in scattered battles to the north and northeast. In one thrilling 35-minute fight a four-motored Jap flying boat was severely damaged.

This activity added impetus to the reasoning projected by military strategists to the effect that Japan was concentrating naval forces preparatory to a flank attack on U.S. communications in the South Pacific.

Japan must cut these vital lines if she would stall the threatened offensive against her. With the U.S. occupation of the French island of New Caledonia these communication lines of the United Nations have been further secured.

Alarmed by this news, Japan's opening moves were seen coming from the Marshall islands either through the Gilbert and Ellice islands or through the Solomon islands and the New Hebrides. Added to these developments was the earlier report that strong Jap naval forces which had gathered in the Bay of Bengal as a threat to India had suddenly disappeared. Only the Japs knew where they were headed, but the United Nations expected next to see them along the sea lanes be- mentation of workers is contemplattween San Francisco and Sydney.

the Ukraine, which cut deep into the Nazi position in the Donets industrial basin. This wedge would offer an effective obstacle to the German offensive aimed at the oil of the Caucasus.

RESOURCES:

Strong opposition to the war department's plan to lower the draft age to 18 or 19 was seen in congress as Louis B. Hershey, national selective service director, instructed state draft directors to include men of the 20 to 21 and 36 to 44 groups in the June calls.

At present the army and navy both are accepting voluntary enlistments of 18 and 19-year-old youths. Lowering the minimum draft age would make approximately 2,500,000 young men eligible for conscription.

An alternate plan was suggested by Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida. This would call for the pre-draft military training for those less than 20 years old. Success of either proposal depends largely upon the war department's ability to convince the house and senate military committees that they have exhausted military man power resources in the 20-46 age brackets.

However, Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower commission, stated that no draft or regi-| ed.

QUICKIES' OUT?

The practice of granting army and navy "quickie commissions" to unqualified civilians was condemned by Rep. Charles I. Faddis of Pennsylvania, chairman of a house subcommittee on army matters.

At the request of Faddis, who declared that congress must stop such action, the house military committee had written into the army pay bill an amendment requiring that future commissions be granted only to graduates of officers' training schools, National Guard and ROTC officers, or those who completed military courses at approved schools.

He stated that "Too many of these commissions are being issued. It may be true that in certain cases a man from civilian life is needed for a commissioned post, but there is no reason to commission a thousand of them."

FOUR DESTROYERS:

A new world's record was established at Kearney, N. J., when four destroyers slid down the ways in a mass launching which Gov. Charles Edison of New Jersey described as "the equivalent of a splendid naval victory.

The destroyers were the U.S.S. Fletcher, the U. S. S. Radford, the U. S. S. Quick and the U. S. S. Mervine. The exceedingly brief time in which they were constructed plus their condition (90 per cent complete) were the factors responsible for the world's record.

MISCELLANY:

Chicago: Uncle Sam's wartime call for more food will be answered by a 17,081,000-acre increase in the area planted to 14 major farm crops this spring, according to a statement of the Middle West Soil Improvement committee. "To make this additional acreage yield bigger crops," said the statement, "farmers will have to rely on soil management, including intelligent rotation, application of the correct analysis of fertilizer for particular crops and soils and the growing of fertilitybuilding legumes.

Canada Struggles for Financial Independence

Changing its business all around is one of the biggest jobs this country has today. Changing the business of a hundred million people is a long, hard job. We've only really got down to cases since Pearl Harbor. But when the President told us about forgetting the "creature comforts" and the efforts that have been made since April 28 in Washington to carry out his seven point cost-of-living program most people began to realize that we are on the way.

Recently I took a specially conducted trip through a section of the territory of our northern neighbor, Canada, where they have been busy "changing" ever since 1939.

From the moment you get off at the busy station in Montreal filled with uniforms and the folks there to meet them, you realize how important Canadians are to Americans, how important Americans are to Canadians, and how vital it is that each of these good American neighbors see eye to eye, work together and learn to forget "border and breed and birth" and to greet each other frankly and freely as brother Northamericans.

Canada is big-a little bigger in square miles - than the United States. It has a tenth of the people to support and develop this great heritage. Unlike the United States, one-third of the Canadians are French-speaking and two-thirds of lowed the Canadian pattern.

Tourist Dollars

One of the chief sources of American dollars was the American tourist. The tourist trade fell off with the beginning of the war. It has almost disappeared with the rationing of gasoline and tires. No Canadian can come to the United States and spend his money here (reducing Canada's dollar exchange) without proving his visit is strictly business.

One of the clauses of the famous "Hyde Park agreement" made by Prime Minister McKenzie-King and President Roosevelt was "co-ordination of price policies." Today that co-ordination has begun, 14 months after it was laid down. For there can be no effective price control in Canada if there is no control in the states whose products she has to buy. If American prices should soar how could the Canadian government force its own merchants to keep prices down on the many things they get from the United States, or how could the Canadian war budget bear the strain if the many war products they must have from us (gas engines for instance, for planes and tanks and trucks) went up in price?

Canada began to study price controls immediately after her declaration of war with Germany in 1939. But it was not until December, 1941, that maximum price regulation went into effect. Since then Canada has been watching, waiting, hoping that we would follow suit, because there could be no Canadian price ceiling unless there was a "northamerican" price ceiling. It would be a house with less than half a roof.

On December 1, 1941, Canada froze prices and wages allowed for unpreventable rise in the cost of living by granting a bonus in wages if the cost of living went up. It has, however, varied little, now if the President's program is successfully carried into effect, stabilization can be assured. We have fol-

ROBERT LEE OBSERVER

THE STORY SO FAR: Janice Trent runs away from wedding Ned Paxton, rich, but a gay blade. Disguised as a tubercular youth, she becomes camp secretary in Alaska where Bruce Harcourt had been made chief, replacing Joe Hale who had been going down hill. Janice keeps out of sight of Bruce, who knows ber. But one day, while visiting the cabin of the Samp sisters, who run the Waffle Shop, he sees her asleep in a chair. Jimmy Delevan, the secretary, is the very Janice whom he had on his last visit to New York impulsively advised not to marry Paxton. He deetdes camp is no place for a woman, but Tubby Grant, his assistant, insists it's bard to get a good secretary in the wilderness. Janice tells Bruce her story. Mrs. Hale is attracted to Bruce. Hale treats her badly. Hale suffers a stroke and they can't leave as scheduled. Hale calls Janice to take some dictation. Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER VI

Janice wondered what Tubby and Bruce would say about her going.

She had a sense of breathlessness as she pushed open the door of the Hale cabin. Joe Hale was seated in a wheel-chair near a window. He would have been good-looking had he lived decently, Janice told herself in that first glance.

"Good of you to come, Miss Trent, particularly as I now have no claim on your time. Feel like a boob not to bring up a chair for you, but the doctors won't let me take a step. Tyrants Mrs. Hale ran over to see the Samp girls fifteen minutes ago. Seized this chance to get an outline made for a codicil to my will. Not that I have the least intention of passing out, but, I've had a tap on the shoulder.'

Curious that his explanation left her with the same sense of uneasiness which had seized her as she entered the cabin, Janice thought. Was smoke coming from that pipe laid on the mantel? Had Mrs. Hale been gone fifteen minutes? Would tobacco keep hot that long? If she were away and Hale himself couldn't move, who had put it there? He selected a paper. "Here is the memorandum of what I want to dictate. You look as though you could keep a secret, Miss Trent. Beautiful women as a rule are dumb; I'll bet my gold nuggets you're an exception. I kiss your hands-in spirit."

She had heard that caressing inflection before too, she told herself, with a bitter little twist of her lips. If he wanted to impress her with a sense of friendliness, not in the manner of Ned Paxton should he approach her. She responded in her voice spest self free. She vented the remainder | of her fury on him. "What business is it of yours why

I went there?" "I'll make it my business," he answered savagely and pulled open the cabin door. . . .

Millicent Hale stood in the doorway. Under one arm was her toy Pekinese.

"I know that I'm breaking rules, your rules, coming to the office, Bruce, but I'm desperate. I-I-" she bit her lips, clenched her frail hands as though with all her being she were holding back a flood of emotion. "Tubby Grant told me that you and he were to air-trot tomorrow, were to scout out a place on the river from which to start the road toward the new bridge. That after that you would fly to the city. Take me. I'm fed-up on myself, on everything in this terrible wilderness. I haven't left our cabin for more than an hour since Joe's break-down, my nerves are on edge. If I go I can get some things he needs. Mary Samp promised to look after him. Why not take Miss Trent, that is if Argus of the Hundred Eyes will let her go.' "If Miss Trent will come. Care to go air-trotting, Miss Trent?" Fly! Janice throttled her imagination, attested fervently: "I'd love it.

"Then it's a date. Be sure you're ready on time. The plane starts the turned work-basket. A slammed door cut a terrified "Meow!" in half.

Blot! Blot had been kidnaped! By Kadyama? Hadn't Bruce said that the natives feared the cat as they did the Evil Spirit? It would break the Samp girls' heart if anything happened to their pet. Could she rescue it?

She jerked open the door, ran in pursuit of a bent, scurrying figure hooded in a brilliant Yakutat blanket The tip of a lashing black tail hung below it. Where was the Indian taking the cat?

Janice's breath came unevenly, the wide, full trousers swished about her feet, the strap of one parchment-kid sandal snapped. He had passed the Waffle Shop without being noticed. To the kennels? They were back of the office. Surely someone there would see him. What was the kidnaper's idea? He didn't intend-he did! He did!

Her shout of protest cracked in her dry throat-for all the world as though she were shrieking for help in a nightmare-as a struggling, kicking, spitting black ball was flung with terrific force into the yard where a dozen or more slant-eyed, ruby-tongued huskies were yipping and yelping and rollicking. They stiffened to rigidity as they regarded the motionless black heap. A trimly built Siberian broke the spell with a joyous yelp. He nosed the stunned cat, tossed it. A husky with baleful yellow eyes caught it, sent it whirling back. Like a shuttlecock it flew from dog to dog to an accompaniment of barks and growls. For a split second Janice hesitated as imagination projected a picture of herself being torn to ribbons. The kidnaper had vanished. Then she fumbled frantically at the gate. They would kill Blot. Where was the trick latch? She had it. She dashed into the midst of the excited tormentors, caught the black cat in the air, held it high as the dogs sprang for her. Gleeful yelps deepened to menacing growls. She backed toward the gate. Two or three huskies, she couldn't tell how many, sneaked behind her. Her heart pounded in her throat. She didn't know much about dog psychology, but she knew enough not to run.

Claws ripped at her dahlia jacket, at her satin trousers. She lost a parchment sandal. The slim gray Siberian carried it off, worrying it as he went. She backed cautiously, saying over and over, soothing-

"Nice boys! Down! Down!" Her lips were too stiff to voice command. The husky with the baleful glare stalked toward her in a sullen wolf-walk, lips lifting in spasmodic snarls. Suddenly he reared. His gold-flecked eyes were on a level with hers, his wrinkled nose bared yellowed fangs. Sneering at her, was he? Would she ever get outside that fence? Miss Martha would say, "There's a gate in every wall, my dear." There was in this one if she could only make it. The wolf-

LESSON TEXT-Matthew 22:41-23:11. GOLDEN TEXT-The stone which t builders rejected is become the head of the corner.-Mark 12:10.

"By what authority doest thou these things? and who gave thee this authority?" Such was the challenge Christ faced when He came into the temple on the last day that He was to be able to teach there. The chief priests and elders (Matt. 21:23) asked it because they knew that they had received their authority with their offices, whether appointive or hereditary.

Jesus held no such position, yet He had just driven the money changers out of what He called "my house" - the temple. They challenged Him, and through the long day He answered and also asked them questions. The discussion concludes with His facing of the Pharisees with

1. The Ultimate Question-"What Think Ye of the Christ?" (22:41-46).

The crux of the entire matter was right there for them, as it is for us, though in a somewhat different sense. They were looking for the Messiah-the Christ; but their idea of Him was that He would come as their royal leader, to break the yoke of Roman bondage and set them free. They knew He was to be the son of David, but they did not see in their own Scriptures that this one was to be David's greater son (Matt.12:42); that in the line of David was to come the one whom David "in the spirit" called "Lord" (Ps. 110:1). They knew about Christ, but they did not know Him.

II. The Final Test-Doing, Not Just Saying (23:1-4).

Having finally closed their mouths (22:46) Jesus proceeded to a solemn indictment of the scribes and Pharisees. First of all He declared that they failed in the final test of life, which is not words but actions.

Notice that He recognized their authority and their teaching, but in severe condemnation pointed out that they did not live what they professed. That is the criterion by which we shall all be judged. Those who think that because they belong to some church, or subscribe to a creed, or speak a smooth word of

It's a Dog's Life

A certain gentleman went out shooting with a pointer he had borrowed from a friend who was a crack shot. He, being a poor shot, missed again and again, the pointer each time looking at him in bewilderment.

Finally the dog set a pheasant in an open field, and glanced back at the man as much as to say: "Now, here's a perfectly good shot. See if you can do anything this time."

The pheasant rose and flew off; the man missed. The pointer sat down, raised his nose high and howled long and dolorously. Then, with never another look at the amateur huntsman, he turned and trotted home .- S. A. Derieux in "Animal Personalities."

She tried to remain indifferent to the meaning of the codicil she was transcribing, but it was startling. Plop! Plop! Plop! Plop! Plop! Plop! The sounds came from behind the screen. Small revelatory crashes that meant but one thing. A broken string of beads. So, Mrs.

She looked steadily back at him as she snapped the rubber band on her note-book.

"May I suggest that you mind your own business?"

The force with which she closed the door behind her relieved her overcharged spirit. In her dash ning round and round like mad. Blot from the cabin she collided with having a fit? Jimmy Chester.

minute the sun pokes its rim above the horizon, passengers or no passengers.'

With eager assurance of a prompt appearance Millicent Hale departed. 'And by the way," said Bruce, "I'll suggest that you go slow with Jimmy Chester."

A little demon of contrariness took possession of her.

Janice indulged in a delicately regretful sigh. "He is fascinating even if his eyes are tragically old." Harcourt left his desk, loomed over her. "Attractive! Jimmy's a corking engineer, but he's pulp where girls are concerned. The war left his eyes old and his temperaas safely play with high explosives. He's the type who would do something desperate if he got the wrong slant." . . . Squatted cobbler-fashion on the cot bed in her cabin Janice regarded herself in the roughly framed mirror above a dressing-table fashioned from a packing-box. She barely breathed as she met the mirrored eyes. Who was that girl really? What was she?

Dishes were rattling in the Waffle arations were going forward. She'd better slip into her gown. Miss Martha would be sending a tray into the living-room shortly. The Samp sisters would not permit her to step foot in the Shop when the men were eating there. Kadyama was filling the wood-box in the living-room, she could hear him shuffling back and forth. Regular as clock-work. One could tell the time by his coming and going. A curious character. Sardonic. Taciturn. She avoided him when she could.

What was that sound? Coat half off, she listened. Something run-

She thrust her arm back into the satin sleeve, dashed through the passage, stopped on the threshold of the living-room. Overturned chairs waved legs in air as though in exercise of their Daily Dozen. Spools rolled on the floor from the over-dog was leaping-"Drop the cat! Good God! Drop the cat! At him, Tong!'

Janice was conscious of a tawny shape flashing by her, of the impact of bodies, of a yelp of pain, before an arm was flung about her shoulders. She looked up into eyes blazing in a face, livid, lined. Bruce! Of course. Hadn't he appeared at the exact psychical moment to pick up her black slipper? She still clutched the cat as he drew her outside the gate.

She looked over her shoulder. Tong, his brush hanging straight, fangs bared, beautiful head lowered, glared at the dogs cringing away from him. She controlled a shiver. "Come on."

She looked up at Bruce Harcou whose fingers bit into her arm.

"I'm going as fast as I can with one sandal. This ground isn't a trot-ting-park."

She glanced down at her silkstockinged foot, regarded incredulously her shredded pajamas. She laughed, sobbed, laughed again. "Stop it! You'll have hysterics in a moment." Her voice caught treacherously in the midst of indignant denial. Without warning, Harcourt picked her up in his arms. She tried to free herself.

"Stop wriggling. You're heavy enough as it is.

"I can walk. It's absurd to carry me.

Breathing hard, he set her on her feet in the living-room of the Samp cabin. He closed the door and backed up against it. His face was darkly red as he demanded:

"Don't you know better than to run round this camp dressed in those things? I saw you from the office window. Couldn't believe my eyes. Look at yourself."

testimony they may then live as they please, will find themselves standing with the scribes and Pharisees on the judgment day. Why keep that kind of company?

III. The Great Hypocrisy-Pride Posing As Piety (23:5-9).

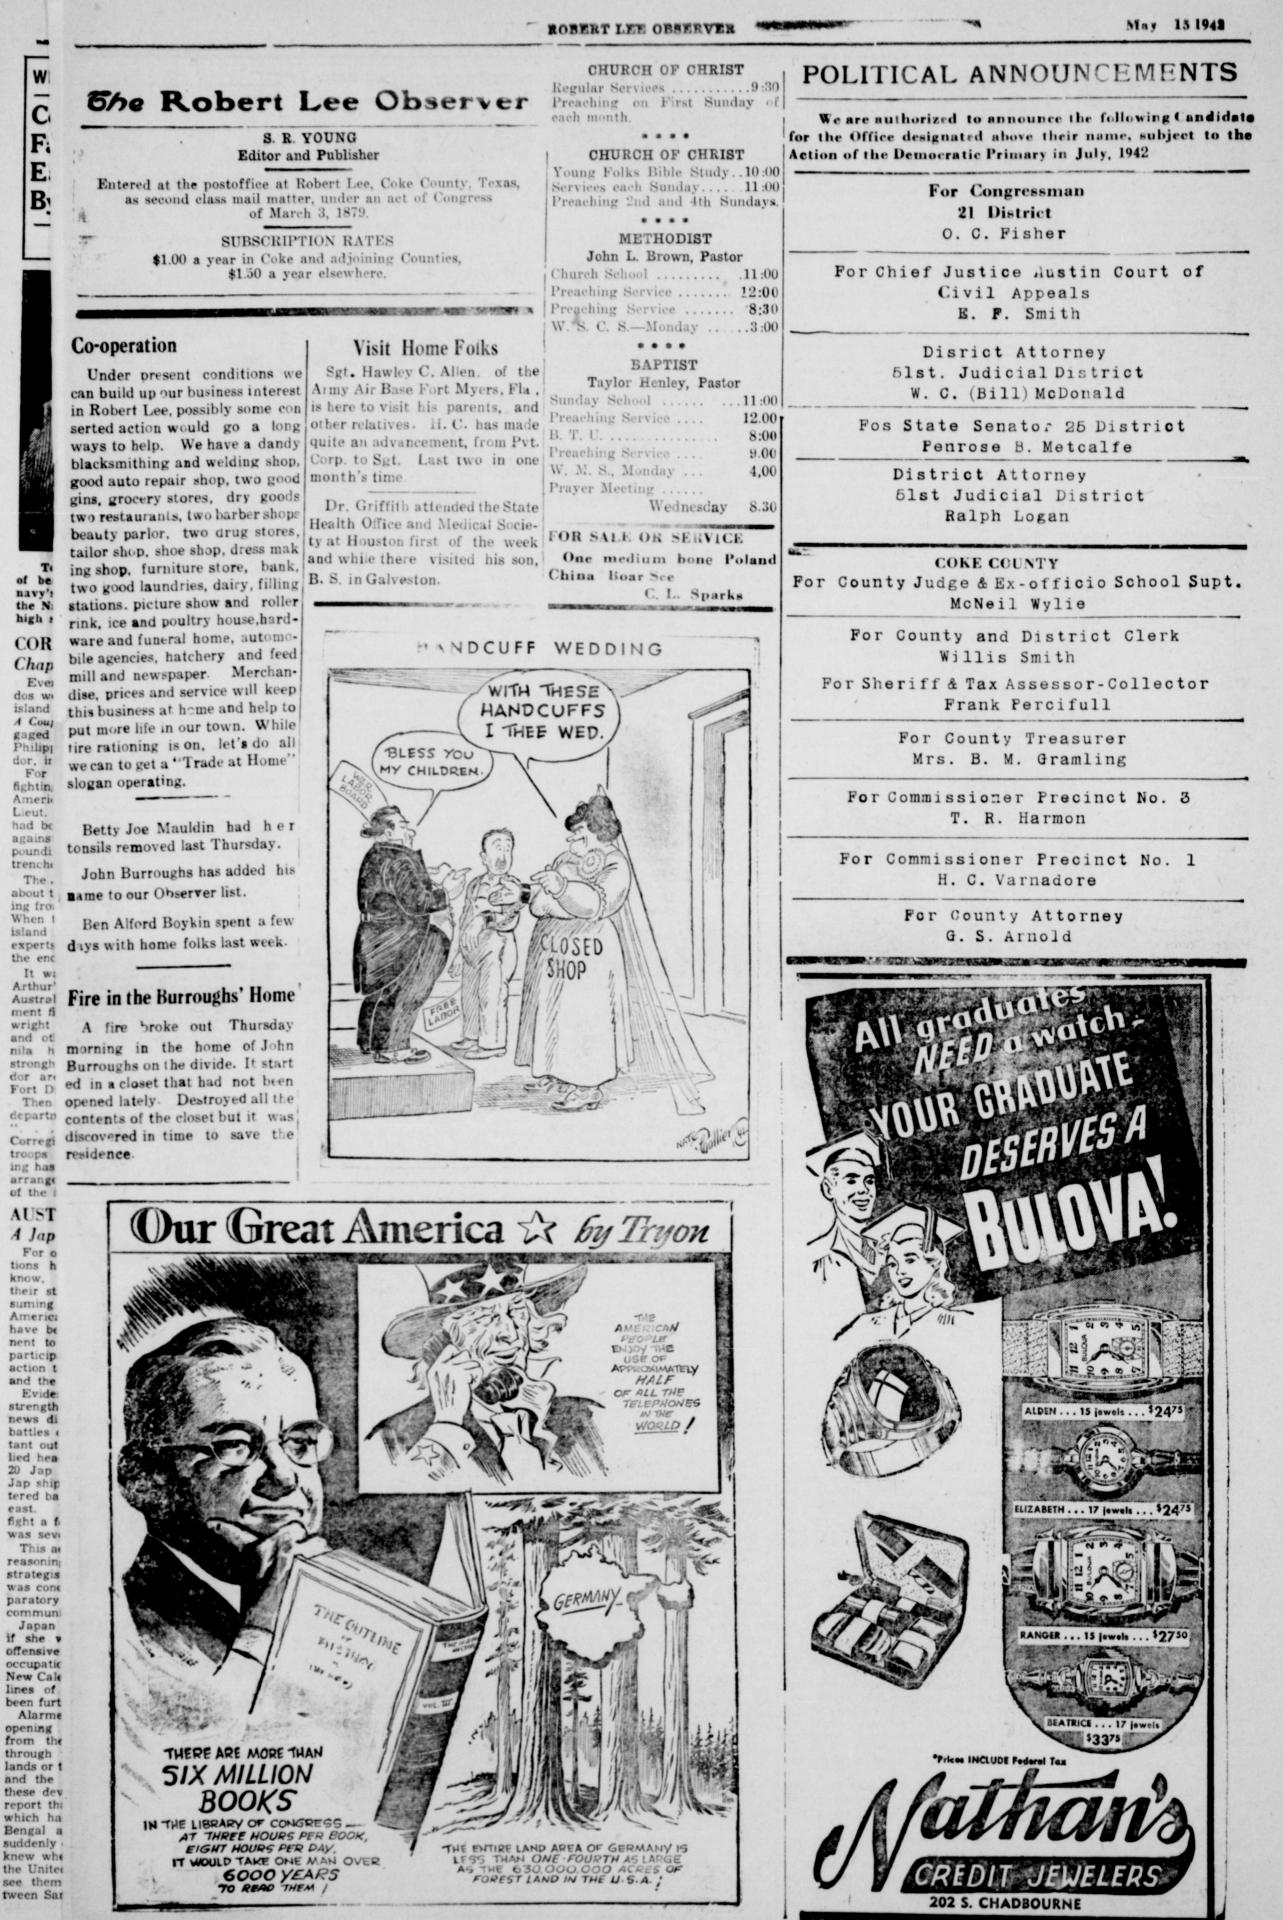

They were, oh, so religious! Interpreting literally and mechanically God's command that they keep His law always near them in action (hand) and in thought (mind) (see Deut. 6:8; 11:18), they made showy leather cases and wore them on wrist and forehead as containers of the written Word. They loved the chief seats and the titles of distinction. And all this was done in the name of religion. What hypocrisy!

But wait - are we any better? What about the preacher who is not happy unless he is invited into the pulpit? What about those who take or accept the titles which our Lord expressly forbids? What about those in the pew, as much as in the pulpit (and perhaps more), who want to be recognized as "the masters" of the church? To be sure, they do not always wish it to be so crudely put as that, but they do expect to be recognized as such "or else-." This too, under the name of Christianity. There indeed is the great hypocrisy!

IV. The Right Attitude-Service Not Recognition (23:10, 11).

He that is mastered of Christ is ready to be the servant of all. To exalt Him is to at once do away with self-praise and self-glory. Pride in position, and the desire to be praised and recognized by men, inevitably lead a man into a pitfall in which he is humbled. On the other hand, the one who in humility serves the Lord will, to his own surprise, find that God has exalted him. The way up is down,

"Torrey," said a well - known preacher with whom Dr. Torrey was associated in a great conference. "you and I are the most important men in Christian work in this country." Not long afterward God set that man aside. Quite different was the spirit of D. L. Moody, who at the height of his ministry for God would say, "There are better men here behind me on the platform to speak when I am through"-and he really believ

Trips to the Moon!

It is predicted that man's first visit to the moon will take place some time within the next 100 years.

The first flight, says Dr. Dinsmore Alter, director of the Griffith Astronomical observatory at Los Angeles, depends on the development of a new element known as Uranium 235, now being studied at the University of California.

"It is possible to send objects to the moon now," the scientist declares. "It has been estimated that the cost of a rocket to span the distance of between 232,000 to 253,000 miles would be about $100,000,000.

"Mebbe," says I, pickin' up that little compliment, "that's because I feel so good most of the time." For, you know, folks, when you feel good your disposition's apt to be good, too. But to do that, you got to eat right, which includes gettin' all your vitamins. And KELLOGG'S PEP is extra-rich in the two most often short in ordinary meals-vitamins Bi and D. Mighty fine-tastin', too. Try it!

A delicious cereal that supplies per 1serving: 1/2 daily need of vitamin D; 4/5 to 1/5 minimum daily need of vitamin Bi

Broiled Lamb Chops Keep Your Kitchen Comfortably Cool (See Recipes Below)

Kitchen Comfort

Spring Fever? Are the warm lazy days working havoc with your desire to cook, to work in the kitchen? Then dispel these lagging feeland the use of your oven to practically nothing.

This is the season to make the most of your broiler and meats that are at their best when broiled. Broiler specialties are lamb chops (both shoulder and loin), steaks, thick ham slices, and young chickens. If you heat your oven very hot and also the pan in which you are broiling your meat before you put the meat into the oven, you will actually be cutting down the time you have your oven on. In this way you are way ahead on economy of heat and also in keeping your kitchen comfortably cool.

To cut down the time you spend in actual cooking, select foods that cook quickly or that can be cooked and served together. Our menu today is a good example of this: the lamb chops broil quickly and the lima beans brought to a boil and cooked quickly take only as much time as the lamb chops to cook untacks of neuritis, due to infection of teeth, or tonsils and injury. The removal of the infected teeth and tonsils and the bracing of the joint between hip bone and back bone relieved the attacks.

Research workers find that about three in four cases are due to infection and one in four to injury. The injury may not be a direct blow or sprain but "tumors"-cancer and other growths-when they press against a nerve can cause neuritis. All kinds of poisons but particularly lead, arsenic and alcohol can cause neuritis.

Disturbances of the working processes of the body so that foods are not handled properly, such as is found in diabetes and anemia-thin blood-often cause neuritis.

A deficient diet, that is, one lacking in the needed vitamins, is an important cause of neuritis. The vitamin necessary to prevent or relieve neuritis is vitamin B-1.

"There is one cause of neuritis or neuritis-like pain that is more frequently encountered than any of the other causes and it is also most frequently overlooked. I refer to worry, fear, unhappiness and emotional distress.

How do these emotional disturbances cause neuritis? Dr. McKinney states that there are two ways. First, under the stress of unhappiness or worry the muscles of the neck, shoulders and back are unconsciously held tense and rigid. Muscles kept rigid under emotional strain become tender, sore and inflamed. These sore tense muscles, either by direct pressure on a near-by nerve, or by interfering with the blood supply to the nerve, will set up a neu. ritis.

Those reasons are enough to make you keep your refrigerator in the best of condition, but the recent limitation on making and selling refrigerators will certainly give you further reason to cherish it with the best possible care.

Keep the refrigerator away from the sun that comes into the kitchen. Keep it away from the stove, too, and give it enough space for good circulation of air at the back and top. Most refrigerators need a 21/2inch leeway at the back and 6 to 12 inches at the top.

Defrosting.

Once a week or oftener in the summer if the weather is humid, defrost the refrigerator. This will help it keep the proper temperature. When you defrost, wash the inside of the box, the trays, etc.,

Lynn Says:

Keep your kitchen well ventilated and you will drive away much of the feeling of fatigue that comes while you cook. Warm air usually rises so it is better to keep the windows open from the top to create better ventilation and avoid drafts.

Place an electric fan right above the stove so that it fans the warm air right out the windows, or combine a fan with a screen placed in the upper sash of one of the windows and adjust to fan the air in or out the room.

In some kitchens it is practicable to place a fan in the chimney flue provided for that purpose.

- Bran Sour Cream Muffins. (Makes 18 small muffins) 1 cup flour l teaspoon soda 1 teaspoon salt 1 cup sour cream
  - 1/2 cup molasses 2 tablespoons water

1 egg, beaten 2 cups bran cereal

Sift together flour, soda and salt. Combine cream, molasses, water and egg. Stir into dry ingredients and add bran cereal. Fill wellgreased muffin tins two-thirds full and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 20 to 25 minutes.

"Wilted Lettuce. 4 slices bacon, cut in small pieces and fried brown % cup vinegar 1/3 cup water

1 teaspoon sugar

When bacon is browned, add other ingredients and heat to boiling point. Pour over lettuce. Sliced hardcooked eggs and a little diced onion may be added to make the salad extra delicious.

*Frozen Prune Whip. (Serves 6) 11/2 cups cooked prunes 1/2 cup granulated sugar for prunes 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves 2 cups milk

1/2 cup granulated sugar 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

1 tablespoon plain gelatin 2 eggs

1 cup whipping cream

Cut prunes from pits in small pieces. Combine prunes with 1/2 cup sugar and spice and heat to dissolve sugar. Chill. Combine 11/2 cups milk, salt, and 1/2 cup sugar and scald. Add flavoring and gelatin moistened in remaining 1/2 cup milk and stir to dissolve gelatin. Pour over beaten eggs, stirring briskly. Chill until thick. Whip cream stiff and fold into chilled gelatin mix-ture; add prune mixture. Pour into refrigerator tray, place in freezing unit and freeze. Stir once or twice during freezing process.

Drugs and Foods

During the last war, a chaplain (padre) was admitted to our military hospital with scarlet fever.

He was very indignant as he was not sick and couldn't see how he could have scarlet fever at his age. I explained to him that sometimes the symptoms were so slight that they could pass unnoticed. I told him of my own two youngsters developing scarlet fever at the same time, one very ill with the red rash covering the entire body and the other with no signs of illness except slight redness of the abdomen and back.

He was placed in a separate room for observation and in a few hours the rash had disappeared. He had no rise in temperature or other signs of illness.

What caused the rash? A harmless drug that he had used the first time to produce sleep.

Although it was known at that time that some individuals are sensitive or allergic to some drugs and foods, the fact that scarlet fever was prevalent at the time caused the mistake in this case.

Since the last war the number of drugs and foods known to cause skin rashes and other symptoms of allergy has greatly increased. And added to these drugs and foods new substances now used in the treatment of illness are known to cause allergic symptoms.

Dr. Samuel L. Feinberg, Chicago, Northwestern medical school, in the Illinois Medical Journal mentions among others the use of vaccines, serums (sera), hormones, vitamins, and manufactured or synthetic chemicals. He warns that allergic symptoms, ranging from simple redness of the skin and local swelling to rhinitis (running nose), asthma, damage to liver, kidney or blood, shock and even death, result from the use of these substances in sensitive or allergic patients.

Physicians before using these various substances now question the patient as to any tendency to skin, nose, stomach, or other reactions from use of foods, drugs or other substances given them on previous occasions.

Celery tops should never be thrown away. They may be used as stock in soup or may be boiled with turnips, carrots, or cauliflower. Remove them from the pan before serving. A new flavor will be added to vegetable stand-bys. . . .

After use, dry steel wool in sun to prevent its rusting.

Do not add salt to the water when boiling corn on the cob-it would toughen the corn. Boil corn 10 minutes, drain and serve immediately tucked in the folds of a napkin. Never let corn stand in water after it is done; that would impair the flavor and texture.

A stale loaf of bread, with crusts removed, will yield eight cups of crumbs. When stale bread begins to collect around the kitchen, grind it into crumbs, and store away in a glass jar until ready to use.

Wilkins Was at w Post and Knew It ...

Wilkins felt that he could never ask Valerie to become his wife because she was an angel, whereas he himself had many little weaknesses of which no angel would approve. Valerie, on the other hand, kept thinking it was about time he popped the question.

One moonlight night, he spoke. "Valerie, w-will you-you m-marry me?" he stuttered, hardly daring to hope she had heard him.

"You bet!" she replied, briskly, already deciding on white satin and four bridesmaids.

"I know, darling. I know," he almost wept, "but if you'll only say 'Yes' I'll never back another horse as long as I live!"

The little man ordered his meal and waited patiently for it to be served. Half-way through the second course the waiter came quietly to his table.

'Excuse me, sir," he whispered, "but I advise you not to hurry with your meal."

PREPAREDNESS by 📥 the AMERICAN RED CROSS

Two million volunteer Red Cross workers-a militant army of mercy.

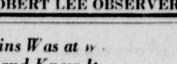

GIVING a pint of blood for the army and navy is a new form of patriotism in which thousands of loyal Americans are now participating.

This blood, processed into lifesaving plasma for emergency transfusions, is collected from volunteer blood donors at 18 Red Cross Blood Donor centers.

The program was launched in February, 1941, following a request by the surgeons general of the army and navy that the Red Cross provide 15,000 pints of blood to be processed into dried plasma. This program has now been expanded at the request of the army and navy to the point where over one million donors will be required. Eighteen centers have been opened, and donations are pouring in at the rate of approximately 60,000 a month.

Partners in Nature

One of the strangest partnerships in nature is that of the yucca plant and the ygcca moth, which cannot live without each other, says Collier's. The plant is fertilized only by pollen that is brought to it by this insect, and the insect's larvae are able to survive only on food furnished by this plant. Incidentally, the moth spends the daylight hours within the closed blossom, as both are nocturnal.

Giving blood is a simple process, requires but a few minutes time on the part of the donor, and has no after effects. The blood is shipped daily in refrigerated containers to the laboratories, where it is processed into dried plasma, a light, straw colored powder that can be kept indefinitely and transported easily.

Numerous cases have been reported where plasma saved the lives of American soldiers and sailors suffering from burns and traumatic shock, and Red Cross plasma has been distributed to our armed forces operating in the Atlantic and Pacific war theaters. However, thousands of additional dopors are needed to supply the full requirements for the army and navy, and to provide plasma for any civilian emergencies which may result from enemy action in this country.
