WE ARE GOD'S WATCHMEN

Isa. 21:11: "Watchman, what stopped and given this subject of the night?" Have we ever considered that we are God's watchmen? That we are expected to keep awake and alert? What a responsibility! Just think of it, we are expected to be found on the walls of the City of God, watching for God. It is a great honor. And this means you. I don't care who you are, you were placed in this world to be God's watchman. If you want to hear a sermon on this subject come to the Methodist church next Sunday morning.

Evening service at eight o'clock.

HOW TO BUY YOUR BABY CHICKS

Rush business that hatcheries had last season will probably be repeated this coming season, reported D. B. Collinsworth, Agriculture teacher. To avoid difficulty in securing the number and quality of chicks desired, the poultryman should make his orders as far ahead of delivery date as possible.

First buy chicks as close to home as possible. If the kind or breed of chicks wanted cannot be secured in this locality, try not to go outside the state to make the purchase. The kind of poultry that will do best on the farms in this area can be found in Texas, continued Mr. Collinsworth.

Some causes for baby chick losses can be completely eliminated by proper buying. For example, no chicks should be lost from pullorum disease. Chicks that have been properly tested for this disease under an effective private testing program or under the National Poultry Improvement plan.

"AN INVITATION TO WORSHIP AND SERVE GOD"

Rev. 22:17: "And the Spirit and the bride say come."

Truly, this is an invitation from our Lord to come unto Him—His Holy Spirit is calling to you; His church invites you. "Come thou with us and we will do thee good." His promise is to you—"He that cometh unto me I will in nowise cast out."—John 6:37. And you who are troubled, He says: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."—Matt. 11:28.

Rayon Threatens Cotton

I have protested against the request of the Office of the Rubber Director and War Department for authority from the WPB to use vital materials to expand facilities for making high tenacity rayon for use as cords in tires.

If this is done, it will destroy about 10 per cent of the home market for cotton, and will be a severe blow to our cotton industry.

Cotton cord always has been used for this purpose. It has been tested and tried and proved. The Truman War Investigating Committee has investigated the subject and has strongly urged that the expansion of the rayon program as proposed be deferred.

Of course, the Duponts and other rayon interests want to change from cotton to rayon. But why, taking advantage of the war emergency conditions, change now and experiment on a substitute for a proven fabric the continued use of which means so much to our cotton industry? The cotton farmer is going all-out for the war program. He is entitled to this protection.

'A' Banners for Record-Breaking Crops Will Honor Farmers in 112 Counties of Nation

Food Processors, Too Will Be Awarded Achievement 'A's

America's leading food producing counties will be awarded "A" banners by the army for their exceptional contribution to the year's food program, the War Food administration has announced. Presentation of the citations for outstanding effort will be made during Thanksgiving week, with similar awards being given to food processing plants which made good records.

Designed by the army's heraldic division, the "A" banner compares with the army-navy "E" pennants awarded industrial plants. It will carry a blue "A" surrounded by a wreath composed of a head of wheat and half a gear wheel, all on a green field.

Nominations for the county farming awards will be made by state war boards of the U. S. department of agriculture, and regional directors of the Food Distribution administration will suggest deserving processing plants. The final 112 winners will be chosen by the War Food administration from these nominations. Allocations of the banners among the 48 states will be made on the basis of the relative farm population of each state. Some states will receive several county awards, due to the large number of farmers within their boundaries.

Factors which will be considered in the selection of the most productive counties, according to WFA, include: (1) extent by which 1943 goals were exceeded, (2) extent of the shifts made in order to produce war crops not previously grown in the county, (3) ingenuity shown in meeting production problems such as labor shortages, (4) record made in increasing yields per acre and per man, and in utilizing potential latent land and labor resources, and (5) extent of co-operation with other war programs.

Presentation of the "A" flags, which are to be flown from the courthouse of each winning county, will be made by a representative of the army at special ceremonies to be arranged by the winning counties. A representative chosen by the farmers will receive the production award.

Seasonal food processors—those little canning factories, those packers of dried fruit, makers of jelly and so forth, who operate only while the fruit and vegetables are coming in—are also eligible for a special award. For outstanding initiative in overcoming the obstacles in the way of producing processed food, or for increasing their output notably, seasonal processing plants will be awarded the Achievement "A" banner similar to that given to counties for farm production, but with a white star in the upper left-hand corner.

These little plants have joined enthusiastically in the nation's "Food for Freedom" program. The fact that they are not year-round operators makes them ineligible for the army-navy "E" award.

Standards Are High.

The same rigidly high standards must be met for both the "A" and the "E" awards.

In awarding the "A," the War Food administration will consider, first of all, quantity and quality of production in the light of available facilities.

Other major factors bearing on their decision will be:

1. Ingenuity and co-operation with the government in developing and producing war food products.
2. Co-operation in carrying out the purposes of the various food purchase programs.
3. Effective management; ability to overcome production obstacles; satisfactory management-labor relations, including the avoidance of work stoppages.
4. Training additional labor forces, low absentee records.
5. Accident prevention; health and sanitation.

"Victory depends as much on our ability to produce food as on our ability to manufacture guns, planes and ships."
—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

A presentation ceremony will be held for every honored plant as soon as possible after formal announcement of the award. The ceremonies will be simple but impressive. In appreciation of the essential role being played by seasonal processors in the "Food for Freedom" program, the army and navy will cooperate with WFA in making the presentations.

To protect the prestige of the "A" and the honor it represents, War Foods administration will exercise extreme caution in making the award. The procedure for plant nomination, however, is simple.

Any employee of the Food Distribution administration in Washington or in the field may propose a plant for consideration. Likewise, the nomination may be made by one of FDA's regional directors, or through the Washington branches of the WFA. An Awards board will consider every nomination and recommend final action to the director of food distribution.

Because of the short period of time many operators are in production, prompt attention will be given to every nomination.

The Consumer's Part.

Much as the breasts of farmers or factory workers will swell with pride when they see that "A" banner fluttering in the autumn breeze, they know it is but a symbol of the mighty effort that every American is making to win the war. Not only producers of food, but consumers too, have their part to play.

America's mighty home front forces are mobilizing during November in a nationwide campaign to help food fight for freedom. Ranking in importance with bonds, machinery, rubber, guns, tanks, ships and planes, food is a weapon of war that every civilian can turn against the enemy.

Rallying cry of the food army is the slogan: "Produce, Conserve, Share and Play Square!"

Citizens' groups in every community will advise the public of the meaning of these words, and of how each person can contribute to making the whole nation "food conscious." Four government agencies, the War Food administration, OPA, OWI and OCD, are co-operating to tell the food story. Briefly they explain each part of the program:

Produce and Conserve.

American farmers have done a remarkable job this year in again breaking food production records, and they plan to continue the good work in 1944 with the planting of 380 million acres. Helping them plant and harvest is something other civilians can do on the production line. Home gardens also aid in making more food, as does work in processing plants during the rush season.

Farmers themselves can help prevent waste of food before it goes to market, along with transportation companies and other handlers. The homemaker's job is to save food in the kitchen, and to can and preserve as much as possible. Everyone can try to eat the right foods, those that are nutritious and plentiful, so as to stretch the available supply. Substitute when the items wanted are on the scarce list, even if it means changing life-long eating habits.

SHARE

Another way to conserve is to buy and store vegetables that will keep well. This is particularly important in the case of white potatoes this year. The crop has been exceptionally large. Including both early and late potatoes, it is estimated that it will total more than 460 million bushels. Of this, 360 million bushels are late potatoes and are now being harvested. The late potato crop is 73 million bushels larger than the late crop of 1942, and the overall 1943 crop is 33 million bushels larger than the previous record crop of 1928, which totaled 427 million bushels. So it is plain that the farmers' response to the government's plea for increased production has been splendid. It is a great national asset to have this record crop of potatoes. It also presents problems of distribution which, if not efficiently handled, may result in the waste of, or the diversion from human consumption of a large part of this bumper crop. Although the War Food administration, during the past summer, set aside 15 million dollars for the erection of additional storage for Irish potatoes and sweet potatoes, the 1943 crop will exceed by more than 50 million bushels, available approved farm and commercial storage.

Every consumer who has space in his cellar or other suitable place is urged to buy and store as many potatoes as he conveniently can, so that none of this supply of food will go to waste. Other vegetables, like onions and turnips that keep well, should also be put away in storage places. Apples and any other fruits that can be kept over the winter should also be stored.

Share Fairly.

All Americans share the food with the men in uniform in camps at home and on foreign battlefields, with the peoples of the other United Nations helping to win the war, and with the countries liberated from Axis oppression. Farmers help each other to grow as much as they can by sharing seed, machinery, fertilizer and manpower in order to make "short" supplies go farther. Cheerful, willing acceptance of rationing rules results in fair shares for all, and plenty of food for fitness and health.

Food is critical war material. The government asks each citizen to pledge himself to accept no rationed foods without giving up ration stamps, and to pay no more than top legal prices. When rationing rules and price ceilings are not observed, un-American "black markets" appear. Do without, if what you want can't be purchased fairly.

Record food production has been achieved for the past seven years, yet America still doesn't have enough to answer all the demands of war and also to fulfill the unusual wants of civilians with tremendously increased purchasing power. For the duration of the war and for several years after it ends, the farmer's problem is not going to be whether he can find a market for what he produces, but whether he can produce as much as he can sell. Ever-increasing demands will continue to exceed the supply.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Success of the Dutch in transplanting the guine tree from Peru to Java helped encourage interest in the development of rubber plantations in the Far East in the early 1870's.

With all the discouragements of rubber and gasoline restrictions, automobile registrations at the end of 1942 were only 5 per cent lower than in 1941, a record year. Commercial vehicle registrations were down 5.5 per cent.

It is estimated that at one time there were between 300 million and 500 million wild rubber trees in the Amazon Valley and that less than 10 per cent have been tapped to date.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Breakfast Needs

How many notches are you pushing up the nutrition yardstick at breakfast time? There are three meals a day, and if your family is to receive the necessary amount of nutriment during that day you should take care of as many of these requirements at one meal as possible.

Another reason in favor of the nutritious breakfast is that it helps the family to be up and at the day's work with more zip and pep than if they just have the roll and coffee, bite-and-run excuse for breakfast.

Always have fruit or fruit juice to begin the day. Not only does it help to start the day off in good style, but it gives you some quota of your vitamins and minerals and calcium.

It's smart to introduce variety into the breakfast just as is done in the other meals. Vary breakfast breads as much as possible, the ways in which you fix eggs, the fruits served, and the cereals or other foods such as pancakes, waffles, french toast, etc.

*Walnut Waffles.

- (Makes 4 to 6 large waffles)
2 well-beaten egg yolks
1½ cups milk
2 cups pastry flour
¼ teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
6 tablespoons melted shortening or oil
2 stiffly beaten egg whites
1 cup broken walnut kernels

Combine beaten egg yolks and milk. Add flour sifted with salt and baking powder. Then add melted shortening or oil. Beat until smooth, then fold in egg whites and nuts. Bake in ungreased waffle iron.

Toast is an old standby and even more delightful if the bread used is varied occasionally. Here are two new favorites:

*Raisin Nut Bread.

- (Makes 1 1-pound loaf)
2 tablespoons shortening
4 tablespoons brown sugar
1 egg
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon allspice

Lynn Says:

Top of the Morning! A recent survey of students' breakfast habits revealed the following facts. About 50,000 students were contacted.

Most students do eat breakfast, but there are still some who go without it. Over half of them have rolls or bread of some kind, but more than half do not have breakfast food of any kind.

The larger percentage did not have fruit or milk—a must item for students' breakfasts.

About a fifth of the amount interviewed do not have meat or eggs for breakfast.

According to their own opinion, most of them feel they do not have an adequate breakfast.

They should be paper-thin and have a lacy effect.

No one could ask for a more satisfying breakfast than the luscious sweetness of maple syrup combined with light, fluffy tender buttermilk pancakes:

Buttermilk Pancakes.

2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, well beaten
2 cups (scant) buttermilk

SOME people have a talent for making guests comfortable and they are not always the people with big houses and what used to be called a spare room. Many a homemaker today is graciously sharing limited space in a house or apartment because war conditions make her feel that is part of her contribution.

This sketch shows an ingenious frame under which a folding cot may be stored in a hall or other out-of-the-way corner. The frame has a full skirted cover of denim trimmed in bands of flowered chintz. On top there stands a medicine closet with feet made

Tobacco High in 1500; Professors Taught Its Use

When tobacco was first introduced in England during the 16th century, it was literally worth its weight in gold—a pound of tobacco was commonly sold for an equal weight of silver and coins.

The art of smoking was also regarded most seriously, and it was considered a disgrace not to be able to inhale smoke through the nose. There were even professors of smoking who initiated beginners into the mysteries of inhaling and blowing smoke rings.

- It's Camel's job to see our soldiers, sailors, and Marines everywhere get their cigarettes fresh—cool smoking and slow burning, the way they like 'em.
- That's why Camels are packed to go around the world—packed to seal in that famous Camel flavor and mildness—anywhere, for months at a time.
- The Camel pack keeps your Camels fresh and full-flavored, too—preserving for you the extra goodness of Camel's matchless blend of costlier tobaccos.

FARMERS KEEP 1943 COTTON RECORD

Farmers are asked to keep record of their 1943 cotton production, and it is highly important that these records be kept accurately, according to R. B. Allen, Chairman of the Coke county office.

County AAA Committee. Mr. Allen explained that in past years, ginners have cooperated with the AAA by furnishing detailed records of cotton production for each farm, but that this year records will not be obtained from ginners, due to the suspension of marketing quotas.

In the past, records of production have served as a basis for determining the yields used in marketing quota program, crop insurance programs and in determining AAA payments.

"It is to a farmer's best interest that an accurate record of his 1943 cotton production be kept because this record may be needed in future AAA programs," Mr. Allen said. He said that each farmer should keep each gin ticket, bale receipt, or sales ticket for baled cotton and for lots of seed cotton sold. The AAA has offered to keep these records for any farmer who wishes to deliver or mail them to

No More Brass

On land or at sea our fighting men do their many chores by the sound of a bugle. All sorts of uncomplimentary epithets are used to designate the bugler, but nobody has yet been able to provide a satisfactory substitute for a bugle although recordings are used at some permanent bases.

Aboard ship the men fall in at the order of "Pipe muster." On land the bugler sounds "Assembly!" But no matter where the bugle is used thousands must be bought out of the money we are investing in War Bonds. Back the attack with an extra $100 Bond in the 3rd War Loan.

Fair Play

Farmers of the United States are bearing the brunt of this war. Examples of unselfish patriotism can be found in all walks of life but the agricultural industry this year is offering double portions of sacrifice.

Along with other patriots the farmer contributes freely of his sons and his substance, but he goes further. Almost unaided he is holding the line against inflation and deserves assurance of better times. Farmers have the best market this year that most of them ever saw but farm income is sagging conspicuously out of line. Government, through the Office of Price Administration, is holding farm prices down in the face of a labor shortage and scarcity of tools. Let's review some modern history briefly:

Memories of 1932

For the benefit of persons under 25 years old, on whom life's responsibilities rested but lightly in 1932, it was a poor year, especially for farmers. Herbert Hoover was president. Kidnapping news dominated the headlines. "Bring beer back" was the big political issue and automobile horns came out playing "How Dry I Am." Men had fights over places in lines where free meals were served and farm income reached "bottom." It had come down by a rough path from the peak of World War I.

The unfair ratio is easy to see by comparing farm earnings with wages of factory workers. During the war with Kaiser Bill, farmers earned 80% as much as laborers in industry; while the average worker was earning $5 the farmer had been able to earn $4 and didn't complain. But in 1932 the average farmer got only $1 while the laborer earned $5, and farmers did complain. They had cause.

Wails Were Heard

Agriculture's sad plight in the ten years just before World War II almost cost the United States her Free Enterprise system, a risk to be shunned forever. Braintrusts, wise and otherwise, set about to coax prosperity back to the farm. The motive was good but the plans were varied and visionary. Some that reached the stage of actual try-out were worse than useless.

There is no doubt whatever in my mind that another ten years of hand-to-mouth existence on the farm would ruin this country. America's most important task, next to winning the war, is making arrangements for farm prosperity to start with peace. Please remember I said "arrangements." Plans will have to work this time. Crackpottery is out. There is a way to get farm prosperity and it is no secret.

Price Parity Rot

In the Decade of the Braintrusts "price parity" was invented. It meant that farmers ought to be able any time to buy as much with the price of their crops as they did just before World War I. Parity was a wishing-bone with no meat on it. By plowing under young crops and paying shiftless people to let fields go to weeds, government finagled $2 to farmers for every $5 earned by industrial workers. But parity never came until 1942. War brought it, not boondoggling.

Farmers today are getting about 60% as much as industrial workers—$3 to $5. Farmers earned an average of $1,100 last year. If that's parity it is the same average income that industrial workers found too little to live on, back in cheap 1935. Study of the past proves one thing: War improves farm incomes. Something happens in war years that booms farm markets. Whatever the secret of farm income was in 1918 and 1942 is what farmers need in peaceful years.

Quantities Count

Farmers prosper when they grow all they can and sell it at fair prices on a ready market. It happens in war-time, but why? Is it because there is an Army and Navy to feed? Certainly not! These young men didn't just begin eating as they entered the service; our farmers have always fed these defenders. Moreover servicemen make up only about 4% of our population and eat only 6% of farm output.

Then what does make this demand? Is it Lend-Lease? Some people think so but they are wrong. Only about 6% of America's farm production moves that way. Our servicemen and our allies combined use just a little more food than we used to export; 10% before the war. The answer will be found near the smoke-stacks of America. War has put 10 million more workers in industry and raised their pay. Farm prosperity results from full employment at good pay.

As a factory worker earns $1,000 a year he spends about $300 of it to feed his family, buying low-priced, bulky food. When his earnings reach $2,000 a year his grocery bill is nearer $600. His family eats better food, more costly things, and maybe a little more of it. That's when the farmer prospers. And peace-time farm prosperity depends on two things: (1) Unrestricted prices and (2) industrial activity; full employment at good wages. Not on Government subsidies, and not on "scarcities" created by destroyed production.

Vigilance

Forms of government never have been static. Dominions rise and they fall. History shows that democracies and republics are especially short-lived. Some change by revolution, quickly; some by degree, more slowly; others by indirection, deviously. Many a nation has lost its power of self government. The immediate causes differ, but fundamentally they all had the same trouble—apathy.

Liberty demands attention! Even in America with a system that fosters the best living and working conditions any segment of mankind ever knew; even in America where a vast majority of people appreciate their opportunities, eternal vigilance is the price of freedom. Self-seeking, short-sighted minorities can play havoc with any democracy whose loyal majority is off its guard.

Signs of Danger

Little groups of opportunists play pressure politics. They cultivate class hatreds, they stimulate unlawful ambitions and magnify resentment at offenses, real and imaginary. These things are at work now in America. The form of government which is ours in the United States has no more assurance of endless life than had the Roman Republic or the Athenian Democracy, both of which died young, as did a score of more recent ones.

Consider Adolf Hitler, arch opportunist. It is told that before the present war he used silly confusion to accomplish astounding things. Once when he wanted to take another cherished liberty away from the German people, and feared trouble doing it, he sent orators throughout the empire as government representatives to brag about the value of the very privilege he planned to abolish. Then when he abruptly took it away, the people were too stunned to resent it or know who was to blame.

Our Own Troubles

Nearer home, circumstances are developing gradually which certainly threaten America as "The Land of the Free." Quietly the freedom of Private Enterprise is being paralyzed; the American way of life endangered. Choking Private Enterprise looks less serious than if, say, elections had been abolished and the press gagged. It would seem worse if the right of assembly were withdrawn and the privilege of worship denied. It would only seem worse, being more drastic.

Actually, a threat to either of the other freedoms would bring much quicker and more vigorous opposition. Unfortunately the public seldom recognizes the seriousness of an attack on business, but the fact remains that Private Enterprise is one of the four corner posts of human liberty; pillars that will stand or fall together.

The Four Pillars

- 1.—Popular Vote: the right of every man to a voice in the government under which he lives.
- 2.—Free Speech: man's inalienable right to have thoughts and express them to other people.
- 3.—Free Enterprise: man's right to work, earn, save, buy, own property, trade and get gain.
- 4.—Worship: the right of every intelligent being to worship God as his conscience dictates.

Assaulting one of these cardinal rights is to attack them all. A shot fired at the ballot-box is no worse than a thrust at free competition. As certainly as Private Enterprise falls the ballot-box will topple with it, for they are all one structure. Unfortunately the first siege is on Private Enterprise which many people consider the least sacred of our liberties. Observe how little disturbed the consuming public has been about conditions in the coal industry.

This Is Apathy Too

Big business has been obliged to stand for a lot of unfair bemeaning since the relatively mild administration of a former Roosevelt, the "Trust Buster." Villification of big business was recognized as good vote-getting ballyhoo as long ago as 1910 and office-seekers have started new epidemics of it every campaign year since. This, I believe, accounts for the public's indifference when coal mine operators, oil producers or meat packers find themselves maneuvered into an untenable position by some political group with more power than judgment.

Government price stabilization is forcing oil producers to make a failure in a crucial year and take the blame for it, when oil men insist that fresh oil could be found now as it has always been found, if crude oil prices permitted. Packers have a record of giving America good meat in abundance at fair prices.

Reddy: Like this: Fifteen cents out of every dollar you turn over to me my company turns over to the federal government as taxes—which in terms of the entire industry means over 400 million dollars. And that's ENOUGH TO BUY MORE THAN 1,500 GIANT BOMBERS—at a quarter-million each!

Extreme Measures

Production of critical materials certainly ought not to drag for want of government help or intervention where needed. Just the same, a fictitious demand for government aid can be set up like stage scenery. National security is fully recognized as a proper government responsibility but, in America, authority to conduct a war is vested in government for preserving democracy, not to cripple freedom and lay the foundation for a socialist state.

Home Front Volunteers Start Today To Put Over Third War Loan Campaign For World's Greatest Financing Drive

With the Slogan "Back the Attack—With War Bonds," Every American Citizen Is Asked to Buy at Least One Additional $100 Bond in September

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 9.—America's Third Army marched forth today to capture the most important immediate objective on the home front.

As 2,000,000 volunteers swung into line to put over the Third War Loan campaign, they were met with helping hands from millions of workers in the home front production battle, and cheers of encouragement from men on the fighting fronts—to whom the success of the Third War Loan is literally a matter of life and death.

To "Back the attack—with War Bonds"—every American who can do so will be asked to buy at least an extra $100 War Bond. The quota for those who are able to invest more from income or accumulated funds will be much higher.

Speaking of the great drive to raise $15 billion—a major portion to come from individuals—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., said:

"The United Nations are on the march. The first rumblings of the big offensive are being heard in all the Axis nations. Thousands of our men have stormed Sicily. Tons upon tons of bombs are dropping on Germany. We are attacking Jap-held territory as never before. This is a great day for us. But it means that the time has come for us to really tighten our belts here on the home front. We have come to a most crucial period in the war, and the success that we will have on the fighting fronts, will depend to a considerable extent upon the degree to which we here at home are willing to work and sacrifice for ultimate victory."

"It's going to be a costly victory. We have said that before, but we must repeat it again and again. The real war has only now begun. Billions of dollars more must be spent to keep the material of war going to our men at the front. Your Government must call upon you, the American people, for that money."

"Remember! It is up to all of us here at home to 'Back the Attack'—and to do it more enthusiastically, more thoroughly and with greater sacrifice than any attack has ever been backed by any home front in all history. Everything is at stake. Everyone must help to the very limit of his ability."

The drive, continuing throughout September, will offer to investors in addition to Series E, F and G United States Savings Bonds the following securities: Treasury Savings Notes, Series C; 2½ percent Treasury Bonds of 1964-69; 2 percent Treasury Bonds of 1951-53; ½ percent Certificates of Indebtedness.

ITALY:

Take Big Base

The once beautiful port of Naples smoked in ruins as Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark's Fifth Army clattered through its streets. To the north of the city, long German columns made their way toward Rome, 135 miles away, where they were expected to make their next stand in the hills.

Before giving up Naples, the Germans destroyed the elaborate docks and warehouses and other installations that had made the port one of Europe's finest. As a result, time will be required to reopen the port for Allied use in supplying the armies marching northward.

The German retreat at Naples also was influenced by Gen. Bernard Montgomery's flanking movement along the Adriatic sea coast to the East. By working its way northward, Montgomery's army had pushed behind the Germans, threatening to cut them off from the rear by crossing the mountains to the west.

WORLD AVIATION:

Seek U. S. Share

Returning from a 40,000-mile tour of the battle fronts, Senators James Mead, N. Y., Richard Russell, Ga., and Ralph Brewster, Maine, declared U. S. commercial aviation companies would be denied use of airports built in foreign countries by America.

The senators called upon congress to make provisions now for U. S. use of the airdromes by including agreements in lend-lease assistance. The senators also declared that while the U. S. was supplying the Allies with 85 per cent of their oil, Great Britain was not fully exploiting her tremendous petroleum reserves in Persia. At the present rate of consumption, they said, our oil will be used up in 11 years.

Any attempt to reduce the importance of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command in the South Pacific by placing him under the supreme direction of Lord Mountbatten would be bitterly resisted by Australian Prime Minister John Curtin, the senators said.

RUSSIA:

Near Poland

Russian troops drove within 100 miles of the old Polish border in the northern sector of the long front, while other Red forces assaulted prepared German positions on the west bank of the broad Dnieper river to the south.

Failing to hold their new line, the Germans would be pushed out of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, and they would lose substantial control of their Baltic sea route to Finland.

Stiffening German resistance and appearance of massed artillery along the west bank of the Dnieper, indicated that the Nazis were determined to make use of the broad river as one of their last natural defense lines along 750 miles. Russian crossings to the west bank in some sectors were met by prompt German counterattacks in an effort to prevent the organization of sizeable Red forces for continuation of their drive.

POST-WAR:

Study Peace Policy

Reportedly believing that other nations might take the Fulbright resolution as an indication of America's unlimited indulgence in world politics after the war, the senate foreign relations subcommittee moved to kill the bill.

The senate moved to write a bill of its own, broadly expressing America's post-war peace policy. It was thought that in so doing, support could be rallied for Sen. Arthur Vandenberg's provision assuring America of independence in determining her action in any program.

As chairman of the senate's foreign relations committee, Sen. Tom Connally led in the move to kill the Fulbright resolution. Connally has indicated America should await further development in world politics growing out of the war before committing itself to any course.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC:

Fight to Last

Stubborn Japanese fought to the death as the Allies closed in on their base at Finschafen. But the Allies were able to bring superior forces to bear from the north, west and south, and the Japs lacked the numbers to shift to meet the attacks.

While the Allied air force continued to pound Jap bases throughout the entire Southwest Pacific area, U. S. airmen reported the appearance of a "super-Zero" enemy fighter plane. Not only can this new plane outdive our P-38, it was said, but also affords the pilot better protection than the old Zero because of heavier armor.

Cavalry Rides Again

As a result of the mountainous terrain of Sicily and Italy, cavalry has come into its own again in this war.

Former cowboys and rodeo performers are astride the horses that are being ridden over rocky and craggy country where motor vehicles cannot be driven, to deliver food, water and other supplies to troops. Sometimes they escort mule packs.

Perched atop their mounts, the cavalrymen are often in position to detect machine gunners hidden under natural cover, and when they do, they pepper them with the small, yellow grenades.

WHEAT:

Canadian Purchases

With sales of wheat as feed running about one million bushels a day, the Commodity Credit corporation has gone into Canadian markets to bolster its stocks, recently estimated at 129 million bushels.

Total purchases from Canada have reached 30 million bushels, of which 22,500,000 bushels have been shipped into the country. Of the unshipped total, 3,500,000 bushels are waiting to be moved over water from northwestern ports.

Since July 1, CCC wheat sales principally for feed have approximated 111,500,000 bushels.

MEXICO:

Settle Oil Claims

In final settlement for oil properties which it took away from American nationals in 1933, Mexico agreed to pay a total of $29,137,700, of which $5,141,709 represents interest at 3 per cent.

During negotiations for the settlement, the American nationals had claimed the seized properties had a valuation of hundreds of millions of dollars. But a commission of experts trimmed this claim to $23,995,991.

Under terms of the agreement, the present balance of payments will be made in four annual installments.

U. S. WAR PLANTS:

13 Billion Stake

Speaking before a congressional committee, Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones advocated the sale of the government's 13 billion dollars worth of war plants and other property to local interests after the ending of hostilities.

The government now controls 50 per cent of aluminum production; 92 per cent of magnesium; 10 per cent of steel; 100 per cent of synthetic rubber and high octane gasoline; 50 per cent of machine tools, and 90 per cent of aircraft. In addition, it owns 47,000 square miles of land, the area of six New England states.

Washington Digest

Three-Nation Agreement Essential to World Peace

Evidence Points to Existence of Conciliatory Atmosphere Between U. S., Russia and England; Common Sense Pact Necessary.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

Sen. Tom Connally

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

Through the past days, Washington has been anxiously watching a very trying, very delicate and difficult operation—the attempt to break in a stubborn three-horse team which has never pulled together before.

The difficult journey toward an understanding to be reached by personal conversations across the table between Britain, the United States and Russia has begun. Following perhaps secret tripartite conferences between representatives of the three nations is the planned meeting of the heads of the three foreign offices. Questions frankly discussed with unsolved problems left open (if plans don't go amiss) will then be taken up between Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill personally.

It is a tremendous undertaking. This three-horse team has never run in harness together before. America has never been harnessed at all; Soviet Russia has had only one short and violent experience—that with Germany—which ended in disaster; and as for Britain, she is accustomed to being lead-horse; therefore, a lot of patience will be needed to hitch all three abreast.

There is a whole library of documentation to prove that an all-for-one, one-for-all agreement among these three nations is impossible. But it must be remembered that there were 13 powerful reasons once why a United States of America was impossible too.

The present goal is not the formation of a triple alliance. The present problem is simply to get a common sense agreement between three nations without which a post-war situation is bound to arise which Prime Minister Churchill described as "confusion." And when he used that word, he made a new high for English understatement. Few doubt that he meant war.

Arguments Against

As I said, there are plenty of reasons which can be cited why the United States and Britain and Russia cannot possibly agree but there are other reasons why they can.

There are two things which stand out in most people's minds as evidences that Stalin is not playing ball now and doesn't want to. One is the recurrent complaint in the official Russian press and earlier statements by Stalin himself to the effect that Russia is decidedly displeased with the Allies for not having built a second front by invading Europe from the British Isles. The other is the Moscow sponsorship of a Free Germany committee which appears to hold out better terms to Germany than unconditional surrender which the Allies demand.

Recently, I talked with a military man who suggested that perhaps the call for a second front after the invasion of Italy was part of an agreement with the Allies to confuse Germany. Churchill has said that he was assured by Stalin, when the Russian drive began this summer, that the Russians were confident that they could withstand German attack. As things have turned out, the Germans have not been able to counterattack. They have ordered a general retreat. It was admitted by military experts at first that this is a planned and orderly retreat. After the invasion of Italy, the Germans admitted that it was a general retreat. Now it looks like a rout. In other words, the creation of the "third front" in the Mediterranean has forced the Germans to give up the idea of attempting a counter-offensive. But since the slender hope of Hitler lies in dissension among the United Nations, why should Russia let him know that she was satisfied with any Allied action?

Free Germany Committee

As to the Free Germany committee, Russia itself has not made any direct official statement concerning it, has not officially backed up its program. It is composed of German prisoners in Russia who demand of their fellow-countrymen that Germany get rid of her present rulers and surrender. That in itself is something everyone wants to see. How much short of unconditional surrender that is, certainly is open to friendly discussion. We know that it worked in regard to the Italian surrender terms.

Now, what are the main propositions which Britain, America and Russia do not see eye to eye?

In the first place, there is the question of "spheres of influence"—the Balkans, the Middle East, the Mediterranean.

I have been told by persons pretending to speak with authority, that Russia suggested the creation of the Mediterranean commission, a body made up of representatives from Moscow, London and Washington, meeting on equal terms. That commission, whoever thought it up, was agreed upon. Historically, Britain has always refused Russia any hand in Mediterranean affairs. That would seem to be a step forward and even before the commission could start functioning, Russia was allowed to have her say concerning the terms of the Italian surrender. Agreement was reached as to the terms.

That would seem to indicate that a conciliatory atmosphere has been created in advance. Unless Russia is absolutely unwilling to make compromises, we can expect reciprocity when the questions of the Balkans and the Middle East arise, where there have always been similar conflict of interests.

The Baltic States

Another very sensitive question is the difference of opinion as to the treatment of the small nations which lie on Russia's western frontiers, notably the Baltic states. It is said that Russia feels that as soon as the German armies are driven back into the Reich, these border states, especially Lithuania and Estonia, a part of Rumania (we leave the others aside for the moment, including Finland) are an integral part of Russia.

The United States, on the other hand, has always stood for the rights of small nations, for self-determination. Of course, Russia argues that plebiscites which indicate a desire to join the Soviet Republics have already been taken in part of the territory and if they were taken again, they would show the same results. That they express the will of the Nationals is denied by representatives of these countries in Washington.

Great Britain leans toward an acceptance of Russia's views however. The point has yet to be settled with the United States.

An additional point, which is really the one which has always caused suspicion on the part of Britain and America, is the question of communist propaganda spread by Russia for the purpose of overthrowing all capitalist governments. This is balanced by the fear on the part of Russia that capitalist governments are bent on destroying her as a communist state.

This is a tough one admittedly but not beyond the solution by honest men. Nor do honest men despair of its settlement.

Post-War Russia

From a purely cynical and material standpoint, it can be argued that post-war Russians will not attempt any move against Britain or America, either from within by propaganda and intrigue or from without by military attack because they will be an exhausted nation when the war is over. Competent observers believe it will take several generations for Russia to recover. Therefore, Russia's chief advantage will be gained by co-operation with other nations rather than by threats of aggression. To some degree, that also applies to Britain. Unquestionably, the United States will emerge from the war the greatest military power in the world. Only a combination of powers could defeat her. There rests, then, the moral responsibility on America of wise and generous use of her power—noblesse oblige.

This, I admit, is the bright side of the medal. But until the attempts toward tripartite discussion and agreement have utterly failed, there is no reason why the medal should not be presented, shiny side up.

When I hear you and others say that men of 30 and 40 years are poor fighting material I wonder if the white race is not going into decay or that civilization does not do more harm to men than good.—New York.

See Here, Private Hargrove!

by Marion Hargrove

THE STORY SO FAR: Private Marion Hargrove, late of the editorial staff of the Charlotte (N. C.) News, has been inducted into the army, classified as a cook and has spent a large share of his "spare" moments on KP duty. He has taken time out, however, to advise prospective doughboys to "paint the town red" before induction and once in the army to "keep an open mind" as the "first three weeks are the hardest." His constant assignment to KP is the despair of his sergeant who believes Hargrove will never learn to be a crack soldier. His last experience was a rifle inspection in which he fared badly. Now he begins a new episode concerning advancement in rank.

CHAPTER IV

Selectee Joseph G. Gantt, late of Liberty, South Carolina, came out for reveille this morning with a grin you could have used for a foot rule. He held both his arms against the front of his shirt in a queerly strained posture and blushed happily every time someone looked at him.

"The heat's got the boy," I told Gene Shumate. "Looks like the best ones always go first."

"That ain't the heat," said Cookie. "He seems to have a cramp in his arms." We looked at Citizen-Soldier Gantt's arms again. Then, for the first time, we noticed two shining stripes on each sleeve. Citizen-Soldier Gantt was a corporal now!

"Heavens to Betsy," we shouted in unison for his benefit. "Is that punk a corporal?" Corporal Gantt acknowledged the tribute by joyfully changing his color to a holiday

"Heavens to Betsy," we shouted in unison for his benefit. "Is that punk a corporal?"

red. The grin widened until his ears hung perilously on the brink of his lips. It took him half the morning to sober his spirits to working conditions.

Corporal Gantt has been in the Army exactly four months. He had been an acting corporal for three weeks before he got his stripes.

Heaven grant him strength for the ordeal ahead.

The term "buck private" was explained to us this afternoon. It refers to the Old Army Game, "passing the buck." The sergeant is first called on the carpet for a mistake in his platoon. The sergeant seeks out the corporal and gives him a dressing-down. The corporal passes the buck by scolding the ears of the private. The private doesn't even have a mule to kick, so he can't pass the buck any farther. He keeps it. That makes him a buck private.

"One of the most solemn and responsible trusts of a soldier," Sergeant "Curly" Taylor said today, "is his guard duty." Sergeant Taylor, who has been in the Army for nineteen years and probably knows more about guard duty than any man in Fort Bragg, is teaching us about guard duty now.

The soldier is called to this duty about once a month. For a twenty-four-hour period, he is on two hours, and off four hours, and he "walks his post in a military manner," guarding the peace and possessions and safety of a part of the post. He is responsible only to a corporal of the guard, a sergeant of the guard, an officer of the day, and his commanding officer.

The guard, or sentry, is known chiefly to the reading and movie-going public by two expressions, "Halt, who goes there?" and "Corporal of the guard! Post number three!" The former, Sergeant Taylor said with his best poker-face, has given the Army considerable worry at times.

According to the sergeant, the guard is instructed to give the "halt" order three times and then shoot. Over-enthusiastic rookies from the back counties, he said, had been known to go like this: "Halt halt halt! Ka-POW!" (You can believe it or leave it; I never question what the sergeant says.)

There was one rookie guard, he said, who halted him, questioned him and allowed him to pass. After he had gone several steps, the sentry again shouted, "Halt!" Sergeant Taylor came back and wanted to know—politely, of course—how come. "My orders," said the guard, "say to holler 'Halt' three times and then shoot. You're just on your second halt now!"

The other popular expression is the come-a-running call that goes up the line to the guardhouse when a guard takes a prisoner or "meets any case not covered by instruction" (General Order No. 9). If the guard is on the seventh post, he sings out, "Corporal of the guard! Post number seven!" The guard on the sixth post picks up the cry and it goes down the line like that.

There's the story about the officer of the day who questioned a new sentry, as officers of the day frequently do in order to test the sentries. "Suppose," the OD asked, "that you shouted, 'Halt' three times and I kept going, what would you do?"

The guard was apparently stumped by the question. Finally he answered, "Sir, I'd call the corporal of the guard."

The officer of the day gloated. "Aha!" he said. "So you'd call the corporal of the guard, would you? And just why would you call the corporal of the guard?"

This time the answer was prompt and decisive—and correct. "To haul away your dead body, sir!"

Heroes are born, not made.

There's one job here that is nothing but goldbricking in itself. That's the latrine orderly detail. You go to work after lunch and spend the rest of the afternoon watching the fire in the water heater and feeding it regularly—every two hours. The next morning you sweep and mop the washroom and spend the rest of the time until lunch watching the fire again. All in all, you lead a lazy, carefree existence.

There was a slip-up somewhere yesterday. I was latrine orderly instead of a KP. It was probably the mess sergeant's idea.

The boys started out after lunch for an afternoon of drilling in the warm Carolina sunshine and learning to drive trucks across ditches. An hour later, I decided to take a casual look at the boiler. When I opened the furnace-room door, a blast of strong brownish smoke struck me to the ground. I lay there for several minutes, tapping my forehead thoughtfully, while more smoke poured out.

When it still hadn't slackened after five minutes, I crawled under the layer of smoke to the boiler. There the sickening vapor was, pouring nonchalantly through clinks in the door.

"Don't come telling me about it," said Sergeant "Ma" Davidson. "Take out the pipes and clean them. All of them."

I had to see the top sergeant to get my instructions. When I returned to Sergeant Davidson I was happy again.

"Ma," I told him, "the top kick says for you to supervise the job."

The sergeant was furious with rage and frustration. I grabbed a screwdriver and he grabbed Private Downer, who had a black mark by his name for not wearing his identification tag. The three of us started work.

The man who devised the system for connecting an indoor boiler and an outdoor chimney should be parched with his own pipes and stuffed with oily soot.

Unscrew a pipe, lift it gently, coax it from its socket. Easy does it. Careful there. When you have it almost out, inhale for your sigh of relief. Crash! The whole network of pipes bounces off the floor scattering ashes and soot over half the battery area.

After half an hour of scrubbing and wiping the interior regions of all the pipes, they're ready to go up again. All but one of them are in place and the last one is ready to be fitted. Careful there! Easy, now! Watch out! Catch it! CRASH!

The boys come in from the drill field at 4:30 and head for the showers. There is no hot water.

"Get a load of that Hargrove," they fume, in an unnecessarily nasty manner. "He gets a job where all he has to do is throw a shovel of coal on the fire every two hours. And then when we come in, there ain't no hot water. There ain't even no fire. Throw the bum out."

I grinned weakly as I reported to the supply sergeant for work. "You must be that nice Sergeant Thomas W. Israel I've heard so many nice things about."

"I am also the nice sergeant," he said, "who is going to let you earn your seventy cents today. Take off your fatigue blouse, my man, and prepare to sweat. Today we make progress. We are going to unpack rifles."

It seems to me that when the manufacturer prepares to pack a box of Army rifles, his cruel streak comes out at its worst. From the look of the rifles, he has his three-year-old daughter prepare a compound of molasses, pitch, and used motor oil—the gooiier the better. He slings each gun into the resulting mess, slashes it around for a while, and then lays it neatly into the box.

You use a swab about the size of a tablecloth to wipe the grease from the rifle. When you're halfway through the first rifle, you have to use the gun to wipe the grease from the cloth. When you have finished, you need a large coal shovel to wipe the grease off yourself.

There is nothing so conducive to itching as the inability to scratch. Just when the molasses-pitch-axle grease mixture covers your hand to the point where you can't see the outlines of the fingers, that left nostril starts tingling. At first it itches only a little and you decide to suffer it. So you don't wipe your hands on the seat of your trousers. Instead you pick up another rifle and your hand sinks to the elbow in the goo which wraps it. This is the stage where your nose gets peevish and impatient and decides to itch in earnest.

Finally, you decide to give in. You wipe your hands—an operation which takes a good three or four minutes for satisfactory results. You lift your hand to scratch your nose, only to find that your nose isn't itching any more.

I was doing fairly well this morning, even when you take the itch into consideration, until the mess sergeant happened to stroll by.

"Hello, little man," he sings gaily, with a horrible gleam in his eyes. "You've not been around to see me for a long time. Aren't mad, are you?"

I look at my hands, at the rifle, at the old shoe, and at the mess sergeant. I hold my tongue. Health is wealth.

"We miss you terribly in the kitchen," he coos, "even when you go griping around that my food is the worst in the Army. I just saw the first sergeant and I asked him to let you be a KP just as soon as he can spare you. Oh, we're going to do wonders to that kitchenware, you and I."

He pats me on the forehead with ominous tenderness and departs.

The sergeant yelled out of the window at me, so I dropped my broom and went upstairs.

Five paces away, he turns for a parting shot. "Blabbermouth!" he snorts.

I suppose he's good to his mother, though.

The sergeant yelled out of the window at me, so I dropped my broom in the battery street and went upstairs. He was sitting on the foot locker, thoughtfully rubbing his chin with the handle of his mess-kit knife.

"Ralph Oxford got called up to the battery commander's office this morning," he said, "and do you know what the Old Man gave him?"

The sergeant closed his eyes and slowly shook his head. "Oxford isn't a sore thumb to the platoon like you are," he groaned. "Oxford got a bright red stripe to wear around his sleeve."

"Oxford's no fireman," I told him.

"You're dern right he ain't," said the sergeant. "Starting with today, Oxford and Zuber and Roff and Maciejewski and Pappas and Mihalakos are acting corporals!"

I knew there must be a moral to all this, so I wanted for him to go on.

"Now, why couldn't you have been one of those six boys?" he asked, (TO BE CONTINUED)

JESUS AND THE SABBATH

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:8-11; Isaiah 58:13, 14; Mark 2:23-3:6.
GOLDEN TEXT—And he said unto them, The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath.—Mark 2:27.

The sabbath was essentially a day of rest and worship; hence the principles which surrounded it and directed its life may be applied to our day of rest, which is the first day of the week—the Lord's day.

That word "rest" sounds a little strange in this busy world of ours, and yet it is an important one. It means quiet for the struggling one, calm for the troubled, repose for the weary, tranquility for the disturbed, cessation of labor for the worn-out one.

God in His infinite wisdom saw that without rest man would soon destroy himself, and He made provision for one day in seven when labor should cease and man should be free for that recreation of soul and body which should fit him for the labor of the week.

Our lesson answers two important questions about our rest day, namely, Why? and How?

I. Why We Keep a Day of Rest

(Exod. 20:8-11; Isa. 58:13, 14).
The chief reason is that God commands it. One day out of seven is for our re-creation by rest and worship. That should be sufficient to cause His people to "remember" the day "to keep it holy."

Doubtless it is true that essential war work and related activities must be carried on, even on Sunday. God did not forbid works of necessity. But even though there is this need, who will deny that many use Sunday for work that is not essential—and countless others devote it to godless pleasure.

Notice that the day of rest was to be not only for the family, but also for servants and for visitors. The employer who unnecessarily operates his factory or office on Sunday violates this commandment. Note also that the man who is to rest on the seventh day is supposed to work on the six days.

The precept of Exodus 20 is enforced by the promise of Isaiah 58. The man who delights in keeping God's commandment regarding the day of rest, will find that God delights in and honors him. Both men and nations have found this to be true.

II. How We Keep a Day of Rest

(Mark 2:23-3:6).
The formalists of Christ's day, the Pharisees, had overlooked the heart of God's law and the holy living which it was intended to produce, and had bound up even the observance of the sabbath (which was intended to be a day of rest and gladness) in such a mass of technical "thou shalt not's" that it was a day of fear. They had a false outward profession of worship and had entirely missed the true spirituality of God's law, a fact which drew upon their heads the anger and rebuke of our Lord.

The two incidents in this portion of our lesson reveal that under the cloak of earnestly observing the law of the sabbath, the Pharisees were actually covering their own hypocrisy and their hatred for Christ.

The accusations against the disciples because they had taken and eaten grain was not on the ground that they had stolen, for the law (Deut. 23:25) guaranteed that right to the one who passed through his neighbor's field. The Pharisees contended, however, that the disciples had worked on the sabbath in picking and hulling the grain.

The healing of the man with the withered arm revealed that back of their professed concern for the sabbath was a real hatred for Christ. It is an appalling thing that in the house of worship on the very sabbath day, these men, outwardly so religious, were plotting against our Lord.

Jesus cuts across human hypocrisy and hatred to declare that the true keeping of the sabbath is to do the work of God. No work of necessity (like plucking the grain) or of mercy (like healing the withered arm) is ever out of place on the day of rest.

A word of caution is needed, for some have sought to interpret this Scripture as providing biblical ground for doing all sorts of things on their day of rest. That day is for man's good, not for his destruction. His greatest good is served by rest, worship, spiritual development, Christian fellowship, and the doing of deeds of necessity and mercy.

One thing a soldier is afraid of is a display of emotion. That's why his slang so often sounds derogatory. For example, he refers to the silver eagles on his colonel's shoulder straps as "buzzards." But when he speaks of his favorite cigarette, he says: "Camels." They're first with men in the Army as well as with Sailors, Marines, and Coast Guardsmen. (According to actual sales records in service men's stores.) And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard wherever they are.—Adv.

MY CHILDREN MUST BE TRAINED IN BUSINESS

A successful business man who is the father of four, said that regardless of other training, he wanted his children to have, after graduating from high school, a thorough business training. He said he has found from his years of dealing with the public the most successful were those who knew the rudiments of business. He saw many fortunes lost or dwindled to nothing because the unfortunate knew nothing of business, which I learned in business college. "My course in Business Law, lege" says this man, "has been the means of saving me thousands of dollars."

One is daily confronted with problems requiring a knowledge of business. Even a doctor or lawyer will tell you that a knowledge of business is almost as necessary in the conducting of their profession as their expert knowledge is in administering to the sick or defending a client. Try to realize if you will just how a knowledge of business is related to the conduct of this war. Thousands upon tens of thousands of bookkeepers, typists, accountants, clerks, stenographers, the clerks, and office machine operators are working at top speed to keep the Army, Navy, Marines, and Air Corps at their full efficiency. Without these business trained workers the whole program would fail and we would probably lose the war.

So business DOES have its place in war as well as in peace. Then, too, business is rightfully looked upon as a PROFESSION—a highly trained profession. This suggests to us that if you are interested in business training, there is, in our opinion, not a better place in the Southwest to train for business than in that well known and highly-rated business school at Tyler, Texas, the Tyler Commercial College. Its work is of such high standard, the school carries the approval of the Texas State Department of Education. We understand they will mail their catalog to anyone who may be interested in business training.

If you want to take a business course, investigate at the Observer office.
