THANKSGIVING HOLDS A LESSON FOR US

Now that the Armistice Day holiday is past we can turn our minds to Thanksgiving. Baird will observe this great day on the traditional Thanksgiving Day — the fourth Thursday in November, Nov. 23. It is gratifying that the Baird people want to hold to this tradition and we heartily agree that this is the proper and entirely fitting thing to do. That first Thanksgiving holds out a lesson for all Americans if we will but stop and get it. This lesson is contained in the fact that at that time in 1621-22 there was plenty for all — only when men were free to work for themselves.

The Pilgrims nearly starved to death. They suffered hunger for two long years, with never enough food for the Colony's storehouse. Have you heard how the Governor and his councilors had complete control of the land and what people produced? How they tried to rouse the Colonists to raise more grain; and how they found a way that worked?

During their first year, food was scarce. Even after the 1621 harvest was gathered, the daily ration was only about a quarter of a pound of bread for each person.

In the spring of 1622, the Colonists complained they were too weak to work raising food. Although they were, on the whole, deeply religious, some were so hungry and they stole food from their starving fellow-workers.

Young men complained because they had to work hard to feed other men and their wives and children. Strong men who were heads of families griped. They said that even though they put in long hours and raised good crops, they and their children received no more food or clothes than men who were unable or unwilling to put in more than a few hours' work a day.

Women rebelled when ordered to cook for men not their husbands, or when requested to wash their clothes. And what about the husbands of women who had been set at these jobs? Their wives, they growled, were little better than slaves, and many men declared they wouldn't permit their women-folk to do that kind of work.

After months of bitter complaints, the Governor and chief men of the Colony came to the conclusion that they were making a bad mistake. As Governor Bradford said, they had thought they were "wiser than God."

And so, in 1623, they turned away from government dictation and gave each family a parcel of land for its own use.

Then what a change took place! Even the women went into the fields willingly, taking their children along with them. All — men, women and children — planted as much corn as they felt they could possibly work.

People who had formerly complained that they were too weak to dig or hoe, declaring that it was tyranny to make them undertake field work, gladly undertook to plant and cultivate for themselves.

And when the harvest was gathered, instead of famine they had plenty. And so they all gave thanks to God. And what a Thanksgiving they celebrated!

No wonder they gave up for all time their sharing of poverty . . . their belief that it was good for all to suffer scarcity together. They found that it is better for each man to work for himself to produce plenty, because that benefits everyone.

IN MEMORIAM OF BEN SIGAL

Junction Eagle

The sudden passing of Mr. Ben Sigal came as a shock to his wife, family and community. One day he was walking among us, the next he was gone from our midst. It was his wish to go in this way, rather than to suffer a lingering illness, so his wish was granted. He suffered no pain, the death angel was merciful.

Mr. Sigal was born in New York City, August 9, 1879, two months later his parents moved with their family to Texas, settling in Eastland, when the railroad came through town. Later they moved to Baird, where they engaged in the hotel business. It was in Baird that Ben Sigal met Miss Sallie Loper, whom he married on June 16, 1912. She remained his constant and faithful companion until the hour of his going.

In 1905, Mr. Sigal began his life's work as a ranchman, operating in several localities, until he and his wife moved to Junction in 1935, where they have continued to reside.

Mr. Sigal joined the Methodist Church when he was twenty-five years of age, and remained a loyal member until the time of his passing. In his earlier years, Mr. Sigal served as Sunday School superintendent, and his interest in Sunday School never lessened. He was a member of the local men's Bible class and was vitally concerned for the growth and interest of the membership. He was alert to all the various phases of church activities, and always his Christian influence made itself felt, where he might be. He was active in community affairs, also.

Surviving Mr. Sigal is his wife, one sister, Mrs. Annie Stallings of Fort Worth and two nieces who also reside in Fort Worth.

The pall bearers were L. H. McDonald, W. H. Dunk, Frank C. Hodges, F. M. Bierschwale, Frank Rembold, George Lehne, Crate Phillips and R. D. Blaylock.

Out of town relatives and friends attending the funeral were Mrs. Della Farrar of Baird, Mrs. Sigal's sister; Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Ray and Carol, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Wilcox and Gary, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Loper, Monahans; Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Young, Mrs. P. M. Neas of Abilene; Mrs. Jess McKiddy of Eden; Mr. and Mrs. Millard Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Rankin of Zephyr; Mrs. W. H. Cox of Leakey; Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Glasson, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Guy Crites and Mr. and Mrs. George Mires of Taft.

Mrs. Sigal returned with her sister and other relatives to Ft. Worth and Dallas, where she remained until the latter part of last week, when she came back to resume her residence here.

A host of friends extend their deepest sympathy to her. I cannot say, and I will not say that he is dead. He is just away! With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand, He has wandered into an unknown land. And left us dreaming how very fair It needs must be since he lingers there, And you—oh you, who the wildest year, For the old time step, and the glad return— Think of him faring on, as dear In the love of There as the love of Here; Think of him still as the same, I say; He is not dead—he is just away!

MRS. HICKMAN HOSTS BAIRD STUDY CLUBS WEDNESDAY

The beautiful home of Mrs. Ace Hickman was opened to the study clubs of Baird on Wednesday, Nov. 8th, with the Wednesday Club as hostess; the occasion being a talk on International Relations by Mrs. U. L. Willie, State Treasurer.

Mrs. Hickman, assisted by her daughter, Miss Betsy, and Mrs. Reeves Hickman, greeted the guests upon arrival, escorted to the register table, presided over by Mrs. A. E. Dyer, and then to the coffee table, where Mrs. V. E. Hill, assisted by Mrs. B. L. Russell, Jr., poured coffee. The table, laid with a lace cloth, was centered with an arrangement of yellow and white chrysanthemums in a crystal bowl. From the table, the guests were shown into the living room by Mrs. R. L. Alexander.

Miss Grimes, president of the Wednesday Club, welcomed the guests. "In The Still of the Night" by Cole Porter, was given by Mrs. Hugh Ross, Mrs. Rockey, Mrs. Sidney Foy and Mrs. C. B. Snyder. Mrs. Brightwell, in a few well-chosen words, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Willie of Matador, who, in addition to many other honors, is now State Treasurer.

Mrs. Willie, who has just returned from a trip to Europe, taken with a party of forty outstanding Federation women, took up a very interesting tour of the war-torn countries of England, Denmark, Holland, Austria, Switzerland, Germany, Italy, France and many other places of interest. They were royally entertained by foreign clubs and royalty. She visited the beautiful Vatican in Rome, and the party was given an audience with the Pope. One interesting feature of her talk was that every man in Germany with whom she talked, expressed the desire to come to America.

Miss Grimes introduced the members of the clubs who were guests. The Delphian, The Corinne Blackburn Wednesday Club and the Junior Wednesday Club.

Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Swim of Abilene, formerly of Baird, their daughter, Ruth and her husband E. B. Goble, of Plainview, attended homecoming at the First Methodist Church at Matador on Nov. 8th. Rev. Swim was formerly pastor at Matador.

Knox Waggoner, who is in the Navy, stationed at Key West, Fla., arrived home Saturday on a twelve day leave. Knox is the son of the late Mr. Waggoner.

Former Callahan Resident Is Spelling Champ

By Bill Pepper in Abilene Reporter-News

W. H. Dawkins, 73, a retired carpenter, fought through a tirade of tongue-twisting words to become grand champion speller for Abilene Thursday night in the Abilene High School Auditorium.

But if there had been anyone on the stage when he and two others were left who could have solved the riddle of how to spell "braggadocio," they would have won the bee.

The three remaining contestants—Dawkins, Mrs. Elgin Herrington, the runner-up, and R. O. Pearson—fell by the wayside when "braggadocio" popped its ugly head in their midst.

They were all called back and waded through the spelling of "diocese," "traitorous," and "Provender" before Pearson fell out on the spelling of "villanops." He misspelled it "villainous."

Dawkins was sponsored by the Excel Bible Class of St. Paul Methodist Church, Mrs. Herrington by the North Junior High PTA and Pearson by the Friendship Class of the First Christian Church.

Mrs. Herrington spelled "analogous," "analogous" and Dawkins spelled it the microphone and spelled it correctly to become winner and grand champion of the bee.

The contest, sponsored by the Abilene Classroom Teachers Association, was run off in a little over three hours.

In the senior high school division, Norma McMahan was winner. She went on to try her skill with the oldest, but failed to spell the giant-killer, "millennial," which four of the last contestants on the stake missed.

Miss McMahan spelled it "millennial," Homer Montgomery, Abilene attorney, spelled it "millennial," and the other two who were in the final stages of the fight mixed their "l's" and "n's" in the wrong places.

Judge A. K. Doss, of Municipal Court, spelled "parallelogram" but had stayed in the top 20 before he misspelled.

Jimmy Coward, who stayed in until 15 were left, spelled "purveyor," "purveyor," and David Brock, number 14, got his "l's" and "e's" twisted on "enfranchisement."

in until number 11, fell down on the spelling of "subversive." She got in a hurry and spelled it, "subvervice."

Mrs. Young wasn't the only one who got confused on the stage in front of about 200 persons, and under the pressure of words like "artesian," "veracious," "vernacular" and "exchequer."

In the junior division of the contest, it was McGregor vs. McMahan for almost ten minutes. Jimmy McGregor, who won the junior high division, finally spelled "picnicking," "picnicing," and Miss McMahan spelled it correctly to win.

The grand champion, Dawkins, has lived in Abilene for 30 years. He says that he is said by old-timers in Callahan County to be the first white-child born in the county.

This is the third bee for Dawkins. In 1948 he went down when he spelled "annoint," "anooint," and in 1949 when he spelled "dy-sentery" with an "l."

Dawkins lists Judge J. R. Black of 42nd District Court as one of his pupils in Admiral, where he was born.

Tom Odom, who has been sick for some time, is at home and improving.

The Denton Valley High School basketball girls won two more games last week Tuesday night they won from Hawley and from Noodle on Thursday night. The boys lost both games by a few points, but put up a good fight.

The girls and boys are to play Noodle at Denton Tuesday night. The Grammar school teams beat Elmdale Tuesday evening. They are to play in Eula Grammar School Tournament Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 16, 17 and 18.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Tom Odom and family Sunday night were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gibson and Janice, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Whitley and Jerry, and Jelora Mae Davis.

Eula Episodes

Mrs. R. G. Edwards
Enjoying Eulications for the Enjoyable Enlightenment of Everybody Everywhere.

Farmers had better keep a wary eye on fire of any kind. Sunday afternoon a grass fire was started on the R. P. Adams place, which is farmed by Hilton Tarrant. More than a dozen men and boys fought the blaze for two and one-half hours before it was extinguished. Forty acres of good grass was destroyed and about a mile of fence was so badly damaged that it will have to be rebuilt.

H. E. Jones did a wise thing Saturday. He took a wagon load of water to his place west of Eula and burned his fence rows before they caught from some other source. Those of you who have lush growth of grass around your homes and barns had better take some precautionary measures now before it is too late. Why not plow a fire wall along that pasture? Valuable grass and weed seed are destroyed, besides the loss of the cured grass.

A man from Abilene stopped by Saturday to inquire if there were any available houses to rent. Others in the community have reported the same. It seems to me that if some enterprising citizen could afford it, and would build a unit of houses in this community some of our problems would be solved. If they were rented to people with children, our fears of loosing our school because of the lack of scholastics would go with the wind. We have a good community. It is on an all-weather road. It is near enough to Abilene that workmen could commute to work. (Half of the community is already working in Abilene). We have an excellent school and two growing churches. Several years ago a newspaper reporter asked me what my ambition was, and I told him that my real desire was to see my community grow in such a way that Abilene would be a suburb. I am proud of our community and would recommend it to anyone, anytime.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Rosinbaum visited Sunday in the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary Toles, of Wichita Falls.

Margie Atwood, of Dallas, visited in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Atwood during the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brock and daughter, Rosa Lee, accompanied Helen Brock and Kay Carlton of Abilene, to San Antonio Saturday where they met Miss Carlton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Carlton, of Corpus Christi, for a two day visit.

Mrs. T. V. Trout is very ill at this writing. She is the mother of Mrs. J. P. Atwood.

Joe Ross Millhorn will report to Abilene Army Induction Center Friday morning, Nov. 17. We regret to see him go, and we will be looking forward to the time when he and the other boys who have already gone, can come again. His mother and dad, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Millhorn honored him with a farewell dinner Sunday. Those present included Betty Jo Dunn of Abilene, Margie Atwood of Dallas, Evelyn Favor, Norma Jean Owens, Chester Branch, Curtis Rosinbaum, Bob Ferguson, Windy Young, Bettye May Millhorn and Wanda Nell Versyp.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Warren of Sweetwater, and Lucian Warren of Oplin, were visitors in the Millhorn home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Alexander and sons, Kenny and Richard, of Burkburnett, were Sunday visitors in the home of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Mac Kelvey.

Mrs. Maria Leache returned Wednesday from Ft. Worth and Dallas where she spent the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. McGee of Temple visited with her mother, Mrs. James R. Gibson, over the weekend.

Sure, You Can Learn To Write A News Story, According to A & M Journalism Head

Club reporters for The Baird Star have at various times asked the editor how they should write news for the paper. Twice the editor spoke at the annual meeting of the Callahan County Women's Demonstration Clubs to give pointers on how the club's reporters might write their reports to the paper.

In the Progressive Farmer's November issue, Otis Miller, of the Journalism Department of Texas A. & M. College, stated that anyone can learn to write a good story for the local newspaper. We believe you will agree that you can when you read what he wrote as follows:

Have you just been elected reporter for your 4-H club or local FFA chapter? Has your local newspaper editor asked you to write a column every week about your class in vocational agriculture? Or have you been named reporter for one of those many high school campus clubs you belong to?

If you have, then you'll be interested in this article. For I'm going to tell you how any boy or girl can learn to write a story. But don't expect your first effort to be a masterpiece. However, after a few practice efforts, you will be writing first-rate stories.

The first rule is to write about interesting subjects. Select stories in which a great number of people will be interested. Most people read for entertainment, a few read for information, and still fewer read for practical guidance. A story that mostly entertains will please the greatest number of people. But you can slip some information—even some practical guidance—and your readers will take this along with their entertainment.

The second rule is to write interestingly. Don't make general statements. Be specific; give details. Don't say: We had a terrible storm last night. Tell how the black cloud swirled; how the winds came in gusts; how the lightning flashed constantly; how the rain, like liquid pellets, dashed against the windowpanes. Use sensory details. Make your reader feel and taste the storm.

The third rule is to write correctly. Follow the rules of "good grammar." Writing short sentences and short paragraphs will help. Don't use many adjectives. Instead of using the adjective as a crutch to make your nouns and verbs do the job. Select nouns that are pictures and verbs that are pack words. Make your readers see pictures because of the nouns you use; make your readers see action because your verbs run, leap, love, weep, and otherwise seem alive. Watch out for misplaced phrases and wrong reference words. Don't say: He blew out his brains after bidding his wife goodbye with a shotgun; and don't say: Monkeys always interest human beings, but after all, they are funny, aren't they?

So much for the three main rules of writing. Let's now consider a few specific things about writing stories.

Words are the tools the writer works with in building a story. Knowing and using the right word makes all the difference. Mark Twain once said that using the "nearly" right word was like using the lightning from lightning instead of the lightning itself to find one's way in the dark. Through words we communicate our ideas to the readers. Words stimulate the reader's processes of thought, appreciation, understanding, and comprehension. Words are symbols for ideas. If you use the right word, you start a whole train of thought in the reader's mind.

The newspaper reporter who has had training in journalism or who has learned to write from experience obeys all these rules. He puts them into practice so often that the rules become second nature to him. He doesn't have to remember the rules; he automatically puts them into effect. When a reporter has reached the point in his training and experience where rules are second nature to him, he can then devote his "whole mind" to his thinking. He is freed from the law of keeping the rules. Enough practice will enable you to do the same thing.

Good newspaper reporters write their stories in two parts; the lead and the body. Every lead has a "feature." The feature is the most significant fact in your story. The features is "blurted" out in the first few words of the first sentence in your lead.

Most front page newspaper stories have a summary lead and a cone-shaped style of body development. We might illustrate the whole thing — feature, lead, and body — with an ice cream cone where the ice cream is piled up in the mouth of the cone and is topped with a luscious red cherry. The cherry is the feature, the piled up ice cream is the lead, and the cone is the body of your story.

The summary lead answers the six questions: who, when, what, why, where and how. It does just what its name signifies: It summarizes the facts of the story.

The body is like the cone — it dwindles in news interest to a point. The most significant fact is placed at the top, next to the lead. The facts follow in dwindling interest order, until the last fact, the point of the cone, relates the least significant fact in your story. The body tapers to a point like your cone. And just as you get less ice cream the nearer you get to the bottom of the cone, so the reader gets less and less significant news the nearer he gets to the bottom or end of the story.

You're now ready to try your hand at writing a real news story. Choose an interesting subject, write interestingly, entertain your reader, and presto! you're in print!

C. S. RICES OBSERVE 60TH ANNIVERSARY
The McLean News

Sixty years with the wrong woman would be more than a man could stand, but those same years with the right woman have meant happiness over and over for Columbus Sylvester Rice, better known as just plain C. S. Rice, without the high-sounding name.

Monday, October 30, Rice and his wife, Ibbie, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary in McLean with an open house observance. All five children were present for the celebration, and many friends called during the day.

Mr. Rice is now 82, and Ibbie is 77. The couple was married October 30, 1890, at the home of Ibbie's aunt, Mrs. T. F. White, in Fort Worth. Conducting the holy matrimony ritual which has lasted for these 60 years was Rev. M. K. Little, Methodist pastor, then of Fort Worth. Rev. Little was still living when the couple observed their golden wedding anniversary in 1940, but Mr. Rice has not heard from him since then.

Mr. Rice was born September 20, 1868, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rice, in Leavenworth, Kansas, and Mrs. Rice was born February 1, 1873, in Panola county, Texas, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Nichols.

Following their marriage, the couple lived at Baird until 1893, when they moved to Ft. Worth. There Mr. Rice worked in the car repair department of the T&P Railway. In 1904, he quit the railway and began doing carpentry work.

On April 1, 1904, the Rice family moved to Shamrock, where he was employed by the Cicero Smith Lumber company. On August 18 of that year, they moved to McLean—and have lived here since that time—and Mr. Rice became manager of the Cicero Smith yard in McLean. He continued in that capacity until January 1, 1914.

In the meantime, in 1908, Mr. Rice went into partnership with A. A. Callahan and W. B. Upham in the hardware business. When he and Mr. Upham bought out the Callahan interest in the hardware business in 1914, he quit the lumber business. In 1916 he and Mr. Upham dissolved their partnership, and divided the stock.

From that grew the hardware, furniture, and undertaking business which Mr. Rice operated for a number of years. In 1919, he closed out his hardware stock, and later closed out his furniture stock. He continued in the undertaking business until 1941.

A short time later, Mr. Rice became manager of the Western Lumber and Hardware store in McLean, continuing in that capacity until the business was closed out in 1944. He did various types of work until 1949, when he took over as justice of the peace.

As for honors, he has had them. He was the first mayor of McLean, when the town was incorporated in 1900, serving several terms in that capacity. He has been justice of the peace on several occasions. In 1922, he was appointed to the office, and served until 1925. He was again appointed in 1926, and served until 1933. He was elected to the office in 1948, and then re-elected again this year.

His church career has been a bit varied, too. He and Mrs. Rice were charter members of the Baptist Church when it was formed here in the early part of the century. Both were active in the Baptist church, and Mr. Rice served as Sunday School superintendent for four or five years. About 18 years ago, however, they transferred their membership to the Methodist church, and are still active in work there. He served as Sunday School superintendent of the Methodist church for six years.

Children attending the 60th anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rice of Salina, Kan., Mrs. Ruby Haynes of Walnut Creek, Calif., Lt-Col. and Mrs. Erwin M. Rice of Austin, Mr. and Mrs. H. Vernon Rice of Lubbock, and Mr. and Mrs. Legon Burris of McLean.

Other relatives attending were Mrs. Laura Stratton of McLean; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Bowls of Fort Worth; Mrs. Bertha Ramsey of Corpus Christi; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil West and daughter, Sarann of Crane; Miss Rowless of Rowles of Ra.

A. C. Meier of Amarillo; and Miss Eunice Stratton, Mrs. Lucile Decker and son Bobby, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Switzer and children, Glenda, Laura Mae, and John, of McLean.

JUDY GARLAND, GENE KELLY HEAD "SUMMER STOCK"

It's happy news for film fans for Judy Garland and Gene Kelly are singing and dancing together in M.G.M.'s joyous Technicolor musical "Summer Stock" headline attraction at the Plaza Theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

The lilt story of "Summer Stock" takes place on a Connecticut farm, and it's as fresh and exhilarating as a new-laid egg. Judy plays Jane Falbury, owner of the farm and having a devil of a time making it pay. Gene plays Joe Ross, a neophyte producer who wants to use Jane's barn to try out a new show headed for Broadway. They strike a bargain. Jane will lend her barn if Joe and his troupers will help on the farm. The hilarious bedlam that ensues when these city slickers try their hand at feeding chickens, milking cows, ploughing a field and attacking other farm chores, the complications of getting their show in shape in the face of its temperamental star (Gloria De Haven) and the opposition of Jane's allergic-to-actors fiancé (Eddie Bracken), and the final solution of the problem in a grand and glorious song and topped by romance between Jane and Joe, makes for a musical romp which is as fast and frolicsome as it is tune-filled and laugh-jammed.

Judy Garland, who can make you cry one minute and laugh the next, is delightful as the distraught lady of the soil who at first considers the flock of these-pigs invading her farm more trouble than a squealing litter of pigs but who eventually finds the love of the theatre getting into her blood, too. Kelley, whether he is making romantic passes at his reluctant hostess or showing off his nimble footwork, is completely engaging, and the co-stars have a field day with the picture's assortment of new song.

The stars are given splendid support in the work of Eddie Bracken, Gloria De Haven, Phil Silvers, Ray Collins, Hans Conried, Carlton Carpenter and Nita Bieber.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Robinson, of Fort Worth, spent the weekend with Mr. Robinson's sister, Mrs. M. A. Cline and Mr. Cline.

Nurse Tells How Hadacol Was So Helpful To Her

Supplied Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin Which Her System Lacked

Mrs. Jennie Lee Adele, 412 N. 27 St., East St. Louis, Ill., a nurse, says she wishes she had found out about HADACOL sooner because since taking HADACOL she feels so good. Mrs. Adele was suffering a deficiency of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mrs. Adele's own statement: "I have been a nurse for over 14 years. My food never seemed to agree with me. I heard one day how so many folks were being helped because of HADACOL. I tried it and after 3 bottles I could tell a big improvement. Now I eat anything I want—sleep well and I am full of energy."

—elements so vital to help maintain good health and physical fitness.

Why These Vitamins and Minerals Come In Liquid Form
There's a very good reason why HADACOL comes in special liquid form. These precious Vitamins and Minerals are more easily and quickly absorbed into the blood stream this way—ready to go right to work. A big improvement is often noticed within a few days.

Don't Be A 'Doubting Thomas'
After reading Mrs. Adele's wonderful experience with HADACOL—how can you doubt that this great new nutritional formula will help you if your system lacks Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron, and Niacin?

What HADACOL did for Mrs. Adele, it can do for you if you're troubled with aches and pains in the shoulders, legs, and arms, certain nervous disturbances, insomnia when due to an upset stomach, stomach distress and a general run-down weakened condition due to such deficiencies.

So what are you waiting for? Don't you see that HADACOL is the kind of product you need—the kind you should buy and the kind you should start taking immediately!

Sold On A Strict Money-Back Guarantee

HADACOL even helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to course through your body, carrying these great health-building elements to every body organ. No wonder HADACOL helps you feel wonderful.

Be fair to yourself! Give yourself a break if you have such deficiencies! Why continue to drag yourself around—a burden to yourself and your family—when relief may be as close at hand as your nearest drugstore if you suffer a deficiency of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron. This great HADACOL is inexpensive, too—costs only a small amount a day. Trial size, only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order it direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana.
