Phillips, Boulter victorious

Castro County Democrats gave Mel Phillips a margin of more than 3-1 over H. Bryan Poff Jr. in Tuesday's runoff for their party's nomination for state senator.

In an extremely light turnout, Phillips received 178 votes to Poff's 58. Throughout the 31st Senatorial District, Phillips led the runoff race 65% to 35%. He will face Republican Teel Bivins in the November general election.

In the Republican Party primary runoff, Castro County voters gave Congressman Beau Boulter an overwhelming 152-4 nod over Wes Gilbreath for the nomination for US senator. Boulter also carried the race statewide, and will face Sen. Lloyd Bentsen in the general election.

Local Republicans also followed the statewide trends in their party's two other runoff races, favoring Ed Emmett over P. S. (Sam) Ervin by a 108-31 margin in the railroad commissioner's race, and Nathan Hecht over Ronald S. Block by 108-29 in the race for justice of the State Supreme Court, Place 2. Emmett and Hecht also led statewide in the two races.

All OM teams place in state competition

"Going up against stiff competition that was very polished" didn't seem to bother the six Odyssey of the Minds teams from Dimmitt Saturday—they all placed anyway.

Dimmitt teams, competing against larger schools, earned two second-place finishes, three third-place finishes and a fifth-place finish. Only the first-place team in each division's category—five in Division II and four in Division III—will go to the world competition in Maryland this year.

"Dimmitt was the only school there that had every team place. We're proud of that because we were competing mostly against Class 5A schools," said Vicki Richards, Middle School OM Coordinator.

TOP CONSERVATION HONOREES
... Rancher Leonard Wilhelm and Homemaker Lois Wales.

Wilhelm, Wales are SCS honorees

Leonard Wilhelm and Lois Wales were the top honorees at the annual Running Water soil and Water Conservation District's awards banquet Saturday night.

Wilhelm was named the Conservation Rancher of the Year and Wales was honored as Conservation Homemaker of the Year.

Both county honorees were also regional winners—Wilhelm is the Regional Conservation Rancher and Wales is the runner-up Homemaker.

Also honored at the banquet were poster and essay winners.

Jared Birkenfeld finished first in the county, Brittany Sheffy was second and Kimberlea Grossman was third.

Two of the essays submitted to regional placed.

Johnny Rutkowski, who was third in the county, finished second at regional. Susan Waggoner, second in the county, earned a third place award at regional. Lorelea Acker won the county contest.

All regional winners will be honored at the regional banquet May 6 in Canyon.

For the past 40 years Wilhelm has applied conservation practices to his land and that is why he was selected as the Rancher of the Year.

He has been a strong supporter of the District's programs as well as an avid "missionary" in encouraging his neighboring farmers and ranchers to work with SCS to plan and carry out conservation practices on their land. The Wilhelm ranch includes 10 sections of land. In 1976, he formed a partnership with his children, Dean Wilhelm, Julius Birkenfeld and Joyce Ringwald. Wilhelm's current conservation plan includes three water wells, one acre of 127 trees for livestock windbreaks, one water storage facility and he has constructed four strand barbed wire fencing for a total length of 10,916.6 feet.

He has placed 300 acres into the CRP program, seeded 450 acres in grass and has sprayed 730 acres with chemical to assist in weed control. Wilhelm farms about 1,800 acres of cropland in which he rotates wheat, milo and corn with cotton.

Charges filed

Hart cheerleader killed in accident

Shandi Ann McLain, 17-year-old Hart High School cheerleader, was killed Saturday night when the pickup in which she was a passenger overturned 2-1/4 times on a county dirt road 3.3 miles southwest of Dimmitt.

The pickup's driver, Jeremy Warren, 18, of Dimmitt, received minor head injuries, scratches and abrasions in the accident, according to State Trooper Ron Morgan, who investigated.

The Dept. of Public Safety filed a charge of involuntary manslaughter against Warren Monday. District Attorney Jimmy Davis said the charge—a third-degree felony—will probably be considered by the 64th District Court Grand Jury at its next session May 10. Meanwhile, Justice of the Peace Marshall Young has placed Warren under $7,500 bond.

Morgan said that Warren—a Dimmitt High School senior and all-regional basketball player—was driving east on the dirt road about 10:50 p.m. when the 1982 Chevrolet pickup ran into a bar ditch on the right side, then returned to the roadway and rolled 2-1/4 times. Miss McLain was partially ejected from the pickup cab during the second rollover, Morgan said.

Neither of the youths were wearing seatbelts, Morgan added. Young pronounced Miss McLain dead at the scene. Her body was have walked away" from the accident, Morgan said. "There was plenty of 'room to live' in the pickup cab. That's not to say they wouldn't have been injured."

Miss McLain, daughter of Allen McLain, had been a Hart High School cheerleader three years and had just been elected for a fourth year. She also was a junior class officer and a member of HHS's tennis, track, basketball and volleyball teams.

Funeral services for Miss McLain were held Tuesday afternoon in the First Baptist Church of Hart.

Scholarship fund started

A scholarship fund has been started in memory of Shandi McLain at the Hale County State Bank in Hart and the First State Bank of Dimmitt.

Miss McLain, 17, was killed in a pickup rollover Saturday night southwest of Dimmitt.

Anyone wishing to contribute a memorial gift to the scholarship fund may do so at either of the local banks. Checks should be made out to the Shandi McLain Memorial Scholarship Fund.

POW's coming back

45 years ago they were captured and were held prisoner in Castro and Deaf Smith Counties.

Today, the former Italian Prisoners of War from World War II are making plans to come back to visit their old camp, and the people they met and worked for in the 1940's.

About 50 of the original POW's will be visiting in the United States and the old Hereford Prisoner of War Camp, located northwest of Dimmitt.

The POW's main contacts in planning the visit are Gen. Franco Di Bello, former commander of Italy's NATO forces and Armando Boscolo.

Dimmitt's Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Delores Heller said a tentative schedule has been planned for the Italians visit, but nothing is finalized yet.

The visitors will stop in Umbarger and Hereford before visiting their old camp.

In preparation for the Italians' visit, the Castro County Historical Commission is restoring the old POW Chapel, a project that has won a distinguished "Award of Merit" from the Texas Historical Commission. Representatives from the county commission will receive the award April 23 at the state commission's Annual Preservation Conference in Brownsville.

Construction on the original POW camp, which was the largest of 21 POW camps in the state, during WW II began in July, 1942. The first POW's arrived in April, 1943. The majority of the prisoners were incarcerated at the camp for about three years.

"The original camp was protected by a barbed wire fence designed with nine strings of wire, six inches apart, a 110 hot wire fence and a guard armed with a machine gun," said Rosemary Wilhelm of the Castro County Historical Commission. Wilhelm said the Historical Commission will cut 18 inch pieces of the wire fence, tie a yellow ribbon around each piece, and will present it, to the prisoner's as a souvenir.

The commission is also trying to put together a scrapbook to present to the visitors.

"We want anything anybody has that has something to do with the POWs," said Heller. "We want correspondence of any kind people in the county might have had with the prisoner's. We are really looking for pictures and stories about the prisoners when they were here. We don't have much time to put the scrapbook together, so we need to receive items as soon as possible.

Anyone who has something they want to include in the scrapbook should take the items to Clara Vick at Cowsett Abstract & Title Company in Dimmitt, or mail it to Teeny Bowden, HCR 1, Box 50, Dimmitt, Texas 79027.

County calls meeting to fight RR closure

County commissioners learned Monday that Burlington Northern apparently is trying again to close the railway spur line from Plainview through Hart to Dimmitt.

A public meeting has been called for next Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the courthouse basement to discuss the situation.

"Hale County called me, and they want a meeting," County Judge Polly Simpson said. "We need all our county commissioners, growers, business people and other interested parties there. I understand Burlington will have people there also."

The spur line, once considered one of the richest stretches of track in the original Fort Worth & Denver Railway system because of its huge shipments of grain toward state terminals and the Houston export docks, almost was shut down years ago after Burlington Northern took over the system, but local opposition headed off the move.

The commissioners adopted a resolution approving a "911" emergency telephone service.

The 911 project is being pushed by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, which is attempting to get approval of the plan from all cities and counties in its service area.

911 is a dedicated nationwide phone number to use for contacting emergency services such as police, fire departments, emergency ambulance service and lifesaving services. Combined with sophisticated computer networking and coordination of emergency services, the "hotline" program has been credited with saving thousands of lives. The 911 service is now available mainly in metropolitan areas.

Under the PRPC proposal, the cost of establishing the 911 service through the region's telephone systems would be paid via a 2% surcharge on long-distance calls, with a continuing fee of 50 cents per month per customer line, Judge Simpson said.

However, she added that adoption of the resolution meant only that the county officially favors the Cora West and Windy Blue went to Clarendon Friday with Cyndy Reynolds to attend a program of church music.

Cyndy and her mother, Dee Williams, played for the art club. Dee played the pipe organ and Cyndy played the piano in a big beautiful Methodist Church. Art clubs from Amarillo, Plainview and other towns were there.

Songs performed in the church musical were Arioso, Ave Maria, Easter Fantasy, Fragment from an Etude, In Praise of God, Grace Greater Than Our Sin, Angus Dei, and There is More to Life.

An excerpt of There is More to Life, written by Ralph Carmichael, follows:

*Is there something missing?
Is there more to life?
Who can tell us where to turn?
Help Us! Help Us!
Help Us through the Strife.
Can We find the Answers?
Can we really know?
Does the Bible show the way
For us, for us here below?*

The fellowship after was nice and many knew Cyndy because she lived in Clarendon for the first twelve years of her life.

Cora West and Alene Griffin of Plainview, attended a funeral for G.T. Simmons, a long-time friend in Olustee, Okla., recently. They spent the night with their sisters, Kathrine Hensley and Daisy Wallen. Helen Richardson spent Easter weekend near Dallas with family and friends. The group met at Cedar Creek Lake in a home belonging to Ka and L.L. Cotter, Helen's niece and husband.

The beautiful lake was inviting to water skiers and boat riders. Helen especially enjoyed her first visit to the gigantic "First Monday Flea Market," at Canton.

Louise Kemp spent Easter in Atlanta, Ga., with her daughter, Ginger Ward and Jinsie. An 84-year-old lady who has toured Europe many times is a concert teacher in the choir for the five- and six-year olds in the Methodist Private School where Jinsie is a student.

This little choir performed on Easter Sunday along with the adult choir. Louise was really impressed with the results of this lady's directing. Also, while Louise was in Atlanta, Ginger's friends helped her celebrate her birthday. Louise reported the Dogwood was in bloom as well as many other flowers. It was a very beautiful sight.

The Sweet Adelines and two barber shop quartets will be performing at the Dimmitt High School Auditorium on April 30 at 7:30 p.m. This program is sponsored by the ROW and the proceeds will help send a student to Girls' State. Admission is $5 for adults and $2.50 for students.

The Tulia Literary Arts Study Club met in the home of Lucille Brasher in Tulia Thursday afternoon with 22 members and three guests present. Mary Parks of Plainview was the guest reviewer of the book It's My Turn by Ruth Graham, for my sister, Lynna Cloer. Mrs. Weldon Butler of Lubbock and I enjoyed the afternoon. Mary, Jean, and I have many friends in that club so we enjoyed seeing them again. Lucille served a delicious Jello salad and a chocolate pound cake.

Bill Neely of Amarillo, author of the book Quannah Parker, met with the museum board members and the historical commission Tuesday night at the museum. Those present were Clara Vick, Madge Robb, Helen Richardson, Mary Woodburn, Mary Edna Hendrix, Dale Winders, Ted Sheffy, Lon Woodburn, George Bagwell, Judge Jack and Murma Miller.

Out-of-town visitors at the museum last week were Lloyd and Lucille Killough of Lubbock and

The Gospel Singers sang for the residents of Canterbury Villa Saturday night during the supper hour. Christina Salinas amazed the group by joining in the singing and doing a great job. She also sang a special Jesus Loves Me. Others in the group were Ed and Betty Freeman, Virgil and Geneva Justice, Gene and Connie Ivey, Alvin and Frances Frazier, Oleta Sanders, Ara Morrison, Irene Carpenter, Gladys Benson, Johnnie Davis and Mary Edna Hendrix. They all went to Maria's to eat later.

Jo Prather from Naples, Italy and Beth McLendon and Chase of Dallas came to Dimmitt to be with their mother, Kate Beecher, when their father, Edgar Beecher was in the hospital.

Mauzee Youts took Geneva Dennis to El Sombrero on Saturday to celebrate her belated birthday. Others enjoying the food and fun were Connie Ivey, Irene Carpenter, Ruth Hays and Mary Edna Hendrix. While Mauzee was out of town, a few friends took Geneva out to eat on her birthday.

Dennie Stokes of Pasadena, Calif. is here in Dimmitt visiting his mother, Ioma Stokes.

Beth Hodges of Panhandle was in Dimmitt Sunday to visit with her mother, Beral Hance. They had lunch at K-Bob's with C.A. and Oleada Hance and Martha Isaacs. Beth and Jack Hodges are going to Dallas this weekend to visit their daughter, Keri and Mike Ferguson and a grandson, Tyler.

She, Verba, Ezell, Larry and Sharon, Stacy Norman, and Jeremy and Laura Hurtado and Matt took supper to Tex and Norma Conard's in Dimmitt Saturday night to help them celebrate their 47th wedding anniversary.

Rev. David and Debra Fletcher, Hadley, Haley and Harmony attended the gospel music with Ezell and Verba Sadler at Clovis Tuesday night. J.B. Henslee of Hale Center went with the Sadlers to the blue grass music program in Farwell Thursday night.

Edd and Sandra Waggoner, Laura, Susan and John left Thursday morning for Houston for the children to participate in the state Odyssey of the Mind competition. Susan's team placed second, Laura's team placed third and John's team placed fifth. They were very busy, but they got in a day of sightseeing.

Molligay Waggoner and three friends from ACU, Carrie, Debbie and Johna spent the weekend with Winston and Judy Waggoner. Quint and Patti Waggoner, Lauren and Tyler and Paul Dannevik of Dimmitt had dinner with them Sunday.

Clyde and Judy Damron attended the funeral of his cousin in Lubbock Thursday. Last Sunday they and Justin and Tracy were with Clyde's parents, and other family members for the day.

Judy Damron went on the bus with Justin and the other kids to the science fair at Wayland. Three of the younger group won ribbons.

A trace of rain was received Friday.

Randy Powell and Dusty Smith of Dimmitt visited with Ezell and Verba Saturday night.

Haley Fletcher brought the special music for the Sunday night services.

Embrée Roy and Willie Mae Sadler returned home Saturday night from an extended vacation at Port Isabel on the Gulf Coast. They didn't have very favorable weather for fishing, but they did enjoy a few pretty days during the five-week vacation. They have not heard from Gale and Verna either.

Susan Waggoner won second place in the county and third place in region with her essay on soil conservation.

We can weather it if we support each other.

For Your Summer Wedding

There's a myriad of possibilities for today's bride and groom

Over the years many things about weddings have changed, but one thing remains constant: The joy and excitement that two people feel on their wedding day.

This is probably the only thing typical about each and every wedding. No one wedding is alike, and certainly no one marriage is alike. This is probably the most important rule to remember when planning your wedding day and your life together!

Being as organized as possible, and being willing to compromise, are also invaluable rules to remember. With so many people, including your spouse-to-be, offering their opinion about what should be done on your wedding day, keeping a cool head and being open to different suggestions can really ease the tension that is bound to develop at this time.

Many couples feel that they are doing a balancing act between family and friends during the months that precede the wedding. To avoid feeling this way, do everything possible to organize your thoughts and prioritize the things that need to be done.

Making lists is a good way to begin. Even if you make dozens of lists and never look at them again, you are at least organizing thoughts in your own mind.

Share responsibilities

Delegate tasks to willing friends and family members. Don't be afraid to ask those closest to you to help with the writing of invitations, or the organization of the seating plan; these are time-consuming jobs, you need all the help you can get! Also, it's a nice way to get people who care about you involved with the wedding.

Set realistic deadlines. Having a game plan, complete with start and finish dates that are attainable, will help to get you on the right schedule.

Planning a wedding, however, is not just work and organization, it's fun, and you should try to enjoy at least some of the planning even if between frequent panic attacks.

It's the perfect opportunity to plan an event which reflects both you, and your spouse-to-be's, personal style. Being comfortable with the type of wedding ceremony, reception, style of dress and attendants that you choose is an important key to enjoying your day.

Traditional weddings are back, complete with formal sit-down dinners, wedding gowns with trains, tuxedos with tails, and 10-attendant wedding parties. However, small, intimate weddings are also on the rise.

Bridal fashion may seem pretty much the same from year to year: "A white dress is a white dress." But if you look closely the changes become apparent, having to do not only with matters of sleeve length and neckline, but with formality versus informality.

The late '60s and early '70s, for example, were a time of extreme informality in wedding clothes — "homespun" and "peasant" looks were popular.

This season's bridesmaids who don't appear in white are most likely to wear peach or yellow tones. Last year's front-runners, lavender and dusty rose, are also still being chosen. A brand-new, unusual shade for bridesmaids: Navy blue, brightened with white and a gay touch like a pink ribbon.

Each particular style of wedding has its own appeal and charm, so that choosing the best one for you and your spouse-to-be depends entirely on personal tastes, finances and what makes you happiest.

If a small, private wedding is not your ideal, and the thought of a show-stopping extravaganza makes you break out in hives, why not consider a wedding held in any number of historical homes, large brownstones, lofts, updated warehouses or boats that are available for rent.

Many of these spaces are available only to people within traveling distance of a large metropolitan city but, more and more, historical homes, museums and art galleries everywhere are being made available to the public for parties, receptions and business events.

Investigate fees

A fee is usually charged but, in many cases, it may be less than what a commercial establishment might charge. The monies collected are generally put towards the general upkeep of the home or museum.

Many places supply a caterer, however you should be prepared to supply your own caterer if necessary.

Establishments that have never been open to the public should not be ruled out. Many such places have just never thought of the possibility of renting, yet might be perfectly willing to do so if approached.

The options available to couples today are varied. From different wedding ceremonies and receptions, to styles of living, division of household chores, child-rearing practices and career choices, today's young couples are making more decisions than ever before, about the directions their lives will take.

The other women in the wedding — the mothers — are seeing their choice in dresses expand this season as never before. The key word for this category of fashion is "younger." "Today's mother is more active and in better physical shape than her predecessors," says Ms. Diorio. She's likely to wear a fashionable dressy dress rather than one that's stamped "mother of the bride."

Finally, what is the groom wearing? As with his bride, his outfit is a combination of tradition and individuality. The formal all-black or all-white tuxedo continues to be most men's first choice: It's become almost a uniform for formal weddings.

But the personal touch is showing up in accessories. One groom might wear an ash rose cummerbund and tie. Another might show some flair in his choice of boutonniere. Instead of the usual white carnation, he'll wear one of the flowers that appears in the bride's bouquet — anything from a rose to an alstroemeria lily.

WHITE IS LEADING THE BRIDAL PROCESSION for spring/summer

Bridal fashion trends

The best-seller style in bridal gowns now is the ultra-romantic ballgown with its billowy skirt, narrow waist, puffed sleeves and flowing train. The ballgown came in a few seasons ago, picked up steam when Princess Diana wore it, and still shows every sign of remaining the look. All the major manufacturers make it, in fabrics ranging from pure satin to polytaffeta and polyorganza.

As popular as the ballgown is, however, it's not a bride's only choice. Unlike in past eras, a distinguishing feature of bridal fashion today is that there is no one fashion. Says Marianne Diorio, Fashion Editor of Bride's Magazine: "There's a real push toward individuality in bridal and there's a manufacturer to suit every woman's wedding style." In the same pages that show the ballgown, Bride's features a type of dress that's its opposite: A slim, dropped-waist style that Ms. Diorio calls the "Chariots of Fire" look. These dresses have little adornment (though some have touches of lace and beadwork), but depend on clean lines and good fabrics for their richness.

White rather than ivory is traditional for warm-weather weddings, but this year sees the preference for white go one

Pointers on how to cater the reception

Although big weddings are back in fashion, small nuptial celebrations are the choice of many of today's brides.

A wedding of 35 guests or less has a number of advantages, not the least of which is the ability to cater the affair yourself, or with minimal help.

In the June/July issue of Chocolatier magazine, caterer Rick Rodgers provided tips on how to cater a wedding reception. Some of Rodgers' advice includes:

- Use as many rooms in your home as possible. Don't squeeze tables, a bar and buffet into the living and dining rooms alone, or instant gridlock can occur.

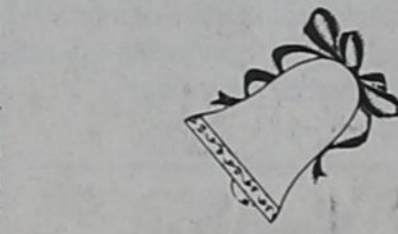

- By serving foods chilled, or at room temperature, you will eliminate the need for chafing dishes and last-minute cooking.

- Set up the buffet as close to the kitchen as possible.

- Resist a friend's offer to help in the kitchen on the day of the wedding. Employ some professional help to serve at the party and let friends prepare dishes before the day of the affair.

- To cater your own reception and to bake your own wedding cake, however, is a tall order. Professional bakers and caterers are skilled in the elaborate techniques necessary to make your cake look like a dream come true.

If you're not a professional baker, ask a friend who is a professional baker to make your cake.

Father of the bride

As they stroll proudly down the aisle his mind races to earlier years.

When she used to skin her knees and he wipes away the tears.

Where did those tender days go, is she ready for a new stage of life?

And what about that cavalier young man, is he ready for a wife?

This time he'll give her up for good, not just a Saturday night.

He hopes that all her needs are met and that this bond of love is right.

There's so much that she'll have to learn when the ups and downs get rough.

Like patience and forgiveness and he hopes she'll have enough.

They're almost at the end of the aisle, it went by much too fast.

He needed hours more than this to fondly remember the past.

She's letting go of his arm now and the feeling tugs at his heart.

But he knows that even a husband's love will never replace his part.

He's done his best to let her grow and played the role of guide.

She'll be his daughter forever so today she can be the bride.

Try tossing birdseed instead

Birdseed is the ecologically safest stuff to toss at the bride and groom, says a Connecticut lawmaker who has introduced a bill banning instant rice weddings, reports International Wildlife magazine.

Innocuous as it seems, instant rice kills birds that eat it by absorbing moisture, causing severe bloating, says Mae Schmdle, the legislator introducing the birdseed bill. She does not advocate policing weddings, but simply wants well-wishers to convert to birdseed.

Talking to your florist

A practical guide to wedding flowers

Toasts to happiness and health, marriage and prosperity and love — this is the language of the wedding celebration. Your wedding flowers will augment these hearty toasts by setting the mood you want for the price you can afford if you learn yet another tongue: The language of the florist.

This means describing your forthcoming wedding in as much detail as possible in order for the florist to arrange roses, daisies, orchids, stephanotis, chrysanthemums or other flowers that reflect your tastes.

As the lights dim and guests start to dance, they'll whirl past the radiant colors, catch a whiff of floral perfume, and feel — perhaps just for a fleeting moment — transported to a heavenly fantasy land. But this is in the future. For now, to make this dream come true, you must make an appointment to talk to a florist. A good florist recognizes that each wedding is born from the feelings of the bride and groom-to-be and is willing to discuss their plans and whims.

The first question you're likely to be asked is: What colors are the bride's and bridesmaids' gowns? Be equipped to answer with swatches of the materials. If you rely on mere descriptions ("Well... my gown is sort of pinkish-yellowish-beige-ish"), the florist might arrange a bridal bouquet of salmon-colored carnations to match a gown that's really coral. Disastrous.

Seeing the color and texture of the fabric, the florist can design the most complementary bouquets, corsages and headpieces. A bright, intricate bouquet of delicate flowers is a beautiful focal point for a simple chiffon gown. But a ruffled, puckered, frilly gown and a highly textured bouquet will fight non-stop for the limelight. And the last thing that belongs at any wedding is a battle.

Centuries ago in England, a typical groom, kept waiting several hours while his bride was corseted and fussed over, would know she had finally arrived at the church when her maid of honor gave him a flower from the bridal bouquet to wear in his lapel.

Though modern grooms don't wait nearly as long for the brides, more and more men are breaking the tradition of pompon or carnation boutonnières and wearing freesias, roses, asters — any flower their brides carry.

The next question is: What sort of mood do you want to set? A formal, traditional atmosphere is enhanced by tall and imposing gladiolus, large potted plants, deep red roses next to crispy white baby's breath and exotic flowers such as orchids with intricately curled petals. By contrast, sprays of daisies, carnations and pert bachelor buttons create an atmosphere that's casual and playful.

Before you can discuss table decorations for the reception hall and flowers for the church, the florist will want to visit these places with you to get a feel for their design. It's best if you can supply the florist with floor plans.

Finally, state clearly and directly what you plan to spend, and the florist will determine what can be done for the price. There is no average price for wedding flowers because there is no average wedding.

Total cost will depend on the kinds of flowers, number of bouquets, their size and their style. Traditional round clutches cost less than intricate cascades or bouquets with built-in corsages.

The heights of the bride and bridesmaids are other determining factors. Tall women need large bouquets, whereas women with small builds can get away with smaller, less expensive clutches.

Potted plants and flower arrangements used to decorate the church and reception area will enhance the festive atmosphere and also will increase your flower tab. You can reduce this cost by ordering small arrangements, instead of lavish, grandiose ones, and setting them on pedestals. Many churches and reception halls can provide them.

Shop around before choosing a florist. Get more than one estimate of price. Talk to newly wedded friends about their florists. You might profit from their experiences. But don't shop for too long. Many florists request that orders for large weddings be placed one to three months in advance.

Wherever you go, flowers in season will be the best bargain because florists are well stocked with them and can easily order more. Seasonal flowers for late summer and fall, for instance, include a varied and colorful assortment of asters, mums, gladiolus, carnations, baby's breath, lilies, roses and stephanotis. What's in season in New York is in season in Chicago, Arizona, California and across the country.

By no means are you restricted to seasonal flowers. Time was when flowers were selected which bespoke fertility. Chinese and Mexican languages of flowers, for example, had it that orange blossoms, because of their profusion on the fruit-bearing tree, symbolized fertility. They were used in all wedding bouquets in the hope that the couple would be blessed with many children. This tradition later made its way to the United States where orange blossoms were replaced by white stephanotis as the regenerative flower.

A dialect of the language of flowers is still shared here today, and couples might want to select flowers that impart special wedding wishes. The carnation, for example, bespeaks fidelity; lily of the valley symbolizes happiness; good health is embodied in the hopeful, spring-flowering iris; narcissus represents prosperity; and the rose is the traditional flower of love.

Another way to narrow down the vast choice is to select flowers of the month of the wedding or the months of the couples' birthdays.

August's flower is gladiolus, September's aster, the flower for October is the marigold, chrysanthemums for November and narcissus for December. For January, there's the carnation, February the violet, March daffodils, sweet pea for April, lily of the valley for May, June roses and delphinium for July. Choosing flowers this way, you might have to have them tinted to match your color scheme.

Whatever flowers you select, whatever they symbolize, if you can talk florists' talk, they will embody the essence of festivity, happiness, sheer beauty and everything that makes a wedding a wedding.

'Engaging' questions: How to cope

The simple announcement "I'm getting married" guarantees you'll be in the spotlight for months ahead. This "instant celebrity" often invites endless personal questions from family, friends... even strangers. "Where did you meet?" "How did he propose?" Some may be fun to answer, others can be irritating.

An article in a recent issue of Bride's magazine suggests dealing with some common questions this way:

• "Why do you want to get married?" — With today's acceptance of the single lifestyle, and of couples who live together without marrying, a person who takes the traditional route may be asked to "justify" that decision.

If you can answer this question — and if you want to — you might explain that you're serious about your religion, or that you believe marriage is the strongest statement of commitment two people can make. But sometimes the best answer is much simpler: "It just feels right to me."

• "Why did you decide to marry him?" — Questions about your choice of partner can be upsetting, particularly if these doubts come from people you love and respect. Usually the best answer is, "When you get to know Bob better, I'm sure you'll see why."

What if the question causes you to have doubts yourself? Does this mean that you are making a mistake? Remember that marriage is a very big step; even people who are very much in love worry.

• "When are you going to have a baby?" — This is a touchy question, but it can be helpful to distinguish someone who is merely prying from someone who is genuinely interested in passing along valuable advice. In the first case, a non-answer, such as "Why do you ask?" might stop the questioning short.

In the second case, if the question comes from an older sister, for example, what at first seems intrusive could actually get you to explore an issue you hadn't thought about before.

• "Will you be quitting your job?" — Many people still assume that a bride will automatically give up her place in the work force for a place at home. "No, of course not!" is a good reply, whether the questioner is a friend, relative, stranger... or your boss. In the latter case, you might underscore your answer by being particularly dedicated at work.

If you do decide to stop working, or if you'll be moving to another town after the wedding, be honest. Give your employer plenty of notice and leave on a good note.

• "How much will your wedding cost?" or "Who's paying for the wedding?" — The first question is tactless... and very common. You could wave it aside with something like, "Never mind. Just come and enjoy yourself."

The second question could be answered honestly: "Bill's parents and mine are splitting the bill." Or with a joke: "We're accepting contributions of $100 or more from all those kind enough to inquire!" Or, as with any one of these "engaging" questions, by simply not answering at all!

How to weather 'friendships' after wedding

You may be doing something unforgivable in the eyes of your single friends: Getting married. By being sensitive to those close to you who may be envious or fearful of losing you, you can dispel guilt feelings for your own happiness and work to strengthen your friendships, instead.

Here are some suggestions from Bride's Magazine about how you can stabilize the many types of "friendships" that occur when you marry.

• The neglected friend: With two career schedules to juggle and limited time to spend together, most newlyweds find it difficult to justify going out with single friends alone. Even staunch allies may feel deserted or relegated to the sidelines.

"If two friends are single and one marries, the single person often takes stock of her situation and feels left behind, even though she's happy her friend is moving on," says Cynthia Mitchell, Ph.D., a clinical psychologist in Cambridge, Mass.

What's important to the continuity of the friendship is for both of you to explain the pulls that you are experiencing. Even a 10-minute phone call or short note can appease hurt feelings. Then, when your newlywed life is settled, be sure she or he knows how much the patience was appreciated.

• The jealous friend: The "man shortage" has created its share of acute spinsterphobia among single women. Your plans may make your single friends feel jealous, even hostile, from the moment you announce your engagement.

But recognizing the reasons behind those feelings can help keep them to a minimum. Hauling out your gifts may have brought shouts of glee at your 14th birthday party, but your friends might now interpret a display of wedding gifts as showiness or bragging.

Instead of dwelling on "your glorious future with the man of your dreams," focus on your friends' ideas, new job or mutual hobbies. Renew the interests that brought you together as friends in the first place.

• The valuable new friend: In time, the protective shell that newlywed couples usually build around each other falls away, and they become more objective about marriage, and their spouse.

The husband and wife realize that they can't fulfill each other's every need, so they begin to seek out other people to enjoy interests and hobbies that their spouse doesn't share — a passion for ballet, or a penchant for flea markets. Your outings can enrich your marriage, and you'll return home full of energy, enthusiasm and new experiences to relate.

• The venerable old friend: Reviving an old friendship can also fill a need for continuity in your life. Friends often share a history that predates the couple's relationship: Good times you had in the "old neighborhood," or memories of one of your parents who's no longer alive.

Reminiscing over old photographs and stories with your husband won't be quite the same, because he wasn't there. Your friend was.

• The "nothing in common" denominator: It's important to understand that, while friendships are valuable, drifting apart is also a part of life's process. Interests and needs are constantly being honed, and turning points such as marriage lead you to pay more attention to relationships that enrich you.

If, despite differences in your lives, you still want to hold onto a good friend, make a concentrated effort to appreciate each other's life choices, needs and interests.

It doesn't hurt to admit that, while you love your spouse, you envy your friends' plans to tour Japan, begin a new career in a distant city, devote time to a political group. Chances are, they crave a part of your world as well, and you can reinforce satisfaction with your choices by admitting that each lifestyle is appealing.

Here's the perfect cake for an at-home wedding

The low key wedding, the one without the fanfare, curlicues and cupid, gets an understated wedding cake, too. What's more, it's a cake that can easily be made by the bride or a group of the bride's or groom's relatives.

The first step

Using your own favorite pound cake recipe or four one-pound packages of pound cake mix, make one each: 10-inch, 7-inch and 6-inch rounds. Cool in pans for 10 minutes. Remove from pans and cool thoroughly on wire rack.

Prepare chocolate and cranberry fillings:

CRANBERRY FILLING

4 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup Cointreau or other orange flavored liqueur
2 cans (16 ounces each) Ocean Spray Whole Berry Cranberry Sauce

Dissolve cornstarch in liqueur until smooth, combine with whole berry cranberry sauce.
Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently until sauce thickens and clears, about 5 minutes. Cool.

CHOCOLATE FILLING

1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
4 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled
1 package (1 pound) confectioners'

sugar, sifted
2 egg yolks
1/4 cup milk

Combine butter or margarine, melted chocolate and half the sugar.

Add yolks, remaining sugar and enough milk to make filling smooth and of good spreading consistency.

Make two batches of a meringue buttercream frosting found in your favorite cookbook.

To assemble:

Cut each cake layer horizontally into thirds. Place bottom layer of large cake layer on a 10" cardboard round support; spreading with chocolate filling, top with second layer, spread with cranberry filling, top with final layer; repeat with 7" and 6" rounds. Chill in freezer.

Use one recipe of buttercream to frost totally sides and tops of each cake, with a thin coating to seal in crumbs. Chill in freezer.

To finish cake: Frost each tier with buttercream, smoothing sides and tops with a metal spatula.

Assemble tiers on plate with large tier on bottom, 7-inch in middle, and small one atop for bride and groom to save for their first anniversary.

Using a pastry bag, with small shell tube or star, pipe frosting between layers and fill openings.

Chill in freezer until ready to serve.

If desired, top cake with heart-shaped cookies bearing names of the bride and groom.

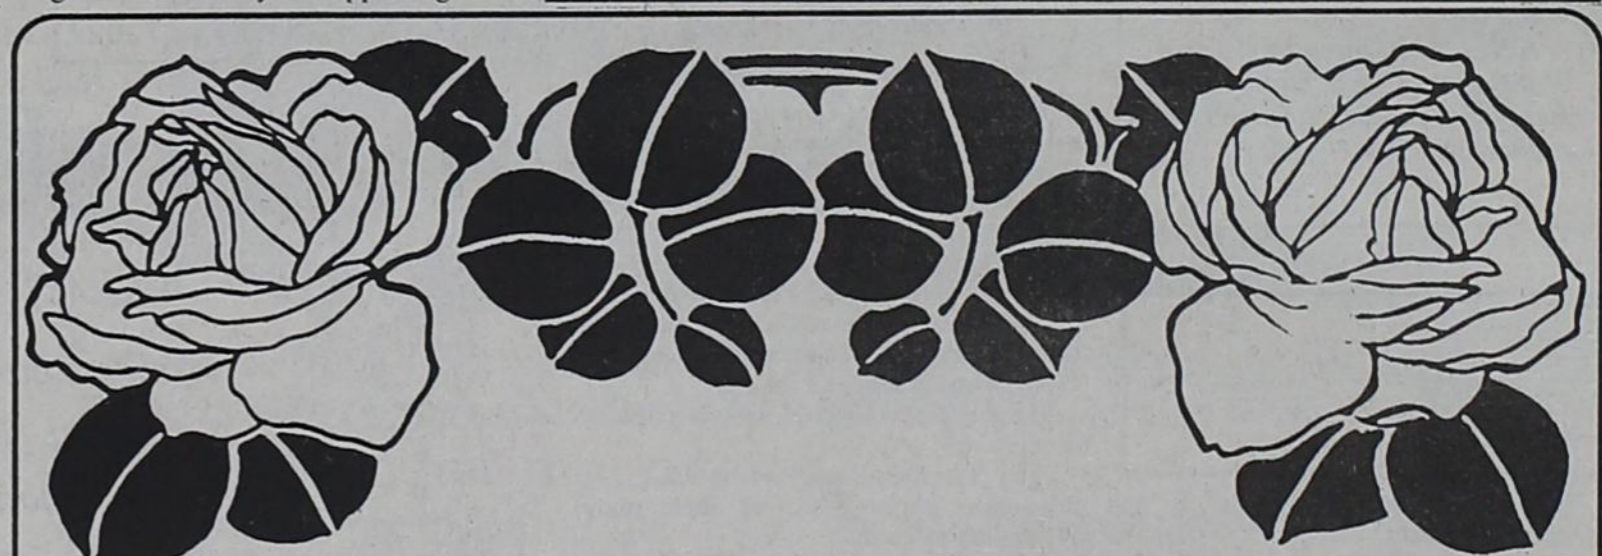

A SIMPLE WEDDING CAKE is the perfect complement to an at-home wedding. Based on a pound cake mix, this cake has cranberry and chocolate fillings, and is topped with heart-shaped cookies with the bride and groom's names.

MARTHA JO HYMAN lends a shoulder so Mayor Wayne Collins can sign a proclamation denoting April 16-22 as Parkinson's Disease Week in Dimmitt.

Parkinson's Disease: searching for answers

You probably don't know what Parkinson's Disease is.

And if you have it, you may not know it. And neither may your doctor—even after a second, third or fourth examination.

And it can drive you batty until you find out for sure what's causing those strange, scary things to be happening to your body.

That's how it was with Martha Jo Hyman of Dimmitt.

"People know nothing about Parkinson's Disease, and I didn't either until I was diagnosed," she said. "Most people know at least something about multiple sclerosis, but 10 times as many people have Parkinson's."

"PD" is a chronic disease that affects the involuntary nervous system—the "automatic" nerves that control your muscles without commands from the brain. The malady brings about a general deterioration of the nerve-to-muscle relationship, which in turn leads to constant tremors in the muscles—the kind of tremors you've probably had in an arm, hand or leg sometimes when you've over-exerted.

Researchers are still looking for the cause, or causes.

Mrs. Hyman was diagnosed as having PD in April 1986.

"I think I had had it for several years, but developed the tremors about eight months before I was diagnosed," she said. "I could give you a whole list of doctors (eight, in fact) who couldn't diagnose it before a neurologist in Dallas finally did."

PD strikes one in 100 people, and most victims are over 40 years of age. But it can also strike someone as young as 18, she explained.

Curiously, the prevalence rate in West Texas is 10 times the national average. That's one of the reasons why Mrs. Hyman is allowing the Texas Tech Health Sciences Center to use her as a research subject.

"I'm one of their guinea pigs," she said with a grin. "They do blood work on me regularly, and they've been conducting extensive research into the environment I grew up in—where I was raised, what kind of crops were grown there, what kinds of processing plants I've lived around, and so forth. They're looking for any little thing that might give them a clue as to the cause."

Across the nation, others are doing what they can to help spotlight the disease and stimulate more public understanding and more support for the research programs. The two main national spokesmen are Congressman Morris K. "Mo" Udall of Arizona, who has PD, and television personality Ralph Edwards, whose wife has it.

In proclaiming April 16-22 as Parkinson's Disease Week in Dimmitt, Mayor Collins noted, "By focusing the attention of the citizens of Dimmitt on this chronic disease condition which affects the lives of so many, we hope to promote quality research in the ongoing efforts to find the cause and cure for this disease and encourage services to help meet the day-to-day needs of Parkinsonians and their family members."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Hyman copes—as a wife, mother and business woman.

"The tremors can be controlled by medication, but it gets worse with stress, fatigue or anxiety," she said.

"You learn to compensate for it. When you're really shaking, it gets in the way of living, though."

One of the main challenges to the PD victim is to conquer the self-consciousness that might come with the onset of the involuntary tremors.

"One of my friends 'went into the closet' with it, but couldn't live that way and eventually came back out," Mrs. Hyman said. "I didn't know how to go into the closet. I just try to live with it and make the best of each day."

Patricia, Tommy and Michael Kern of Dallas, spent the Easter weekend here with their parents, Bud and Rita Kern.

Theresa Kern and her husband, Long Vo and children, John and Clare of Dallas, spent an Easter vacation in Rome, Italy visiting Long's father, brothers and sisters. They had the privilege of attending Palm Sunday mass celebrated at the Vatican with Pope John Paul II.

The Secular Franciscan Order of St. Anthony's Fraternity held their regular meeting and election Sunday afternoon at the home of Thelma Wethington. They all enjoyed dinner at the Senior Citizen's Center before the meeting. A special guest present for the day was Violet Tipotsch, provincial minister from Roswell, N.M. All members were present and really enjoyed the day.

Grand Jury indicts seven

The 64th District Court Grand Jury returned felony indictments last week against seven persons who are charged with livestock theft, sexual assault, burglary and escape.

Jesus Constantino Holguin, 33, of Dimmitt, a citizen of Mexico here on a work visa, was indicted for aggravated sexual assault. The first-degree felony charge could result in a prison term of five to 99 years upon conviction, according to District Attorney Jimmy Davis.

Valentin Guevara, 22, of Hereford, was indicted on a charge of cattle theft. The charges stemmed from the theft of four head of cattle from 3K Cattle Feeders in northern Castro County March 10. The two men could face prison terms of two to 10 years upon conviction of the third-degree felony charge, Davis said. He added that Guevara, an undocumented alien, is currently in Deaf Smith County Jail facing similar charges.

The Grand Jury also returned an indictment on theft of livestock against Gabriel Montiel, 24, of Dimmitt, who is charged with stealing 35 hogs from Sunnyside Pork Producers Feb. 22 and selling 29 of them at Clovis Hog Co. the same day. Davis said that the hogs were positively identified at Clovis by their ear markings, and that a professional handwriting analyst testified that Montiel's signature on the Clovis sale ticket was genuine.

Kenny Ray Jones, 25, and Charles Landis Parker, 23, both of Amarillo, were indicted for felony burglary after being charged with burglarizing Castro Co-op Gin Feb. 21. Davis said the two men are presently in jail in Vega and are wanted in several states for a series of burglaries.

The Grand Jury indicted Jaime Hernandez Dozal, 25, on a charge of escaping from the Castro County Jail Dec. 29. Dozal was arrested in Oklahoma City on an escape warrant from Castro County and was returned to face charges of burglary and vandalism stemming from an incident in 1985 northwest of Dimmitt.

According to Davis and Sheriff Lonny Rhynes, Dozal originally was charged with burglarizing a house on the Bill Clark farm northwest of town, taking a pickup owned by Howard Smithson, and ramming the pickup into the house.

The Grand Jury returned felony DWI indictments against three men—Albert Earl Ewing, 32, Benito Juan Castaneda, 36, and Jesus F. Aguirre, 38.

Drugs aren't cool.

And if you think they are then you're just fooling yourself.

They'll destroy your mind, ruin your health and drain your bankroll...and that's only if you're one of the lucky ones. The not-so-lucky drug users don't live to tell about it.

It doesn't take a college education to get smart about staying away from drugs. So wise up and put your foot down. Drugs are bad news, and anyone with a head on their shoulders can figure it out.

Students from Dimmitt High School recently visited the B'nai Israel Temple in Amarillo in conjunction with their in-depth study of the Middle East.

Rabbi Joel Dobin hosted the members of Katie Ivey's world area studies class on March 31.

brew and discussed Judaic customs with the Rabbi.

The students who visited the temple were Greg Gentry, Kelly Goolsby, Jo Hyman, Greg Malone, Justin Nelson, Aaron Odum, Ty O'Kelly, Kristi Petty, Chanin Ross, Becky Rutkowski, Wayne Schacher, Brian Stewart and Laura Waggoner.

Such a familiar cry to any parent, and who could resist such an appeal. Many times the cry of "I'm thirsty" is a genuine one, but there are times when it is a scheme to linger a little longer, the result of a strong desire to remain awake and play with the dolls and toys that loving parents have provided.

While meeting the physical, play, and comfort needs, don't forget the need for "Living Waters." Take the family to church, where all may hear of, and be drawn closer to our loving Father.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Parent questions school punishment

Dear Editor:

As a parent of one of "The Dirty Dozen," I cannot remain silent any longer. I would like to take a few moments to ask the citizens of Dimmitt to analyze how the current administration of the DISD again reinforces negative behavior to our children. I guess it is too much to ask that our school officials hand out "fair and consistent" discipline.

It was with dismay that we as parents found out about the drinking that took place in Austin during the state basketball finals. At the parents' meeting, after the "Kangaroo Court" the preceding day, we were unable to get any answers to our questions. The same thing happened when we met with the superintendent. We as parents inquired about a hearing with the school board and were told that the board president did not think there was anything to discuss.

My first questions were: How could this happen? Where were the sponsors? Why the two-week delay in reporting this incident? Why wasn't the entire basketball team and all the cheerleaders questioned? Why were some students suspended without due process? Did the punishment fit the crime?

The answer we received to all of our questions was "I don't know." Some of the students were suspended for five days on hearsay evidence.

I, for one, am proud of "The Dirty Dozen." Disappointed, yes, but proud because they had the internal fortitude to tell the truth and take their unjust treatment. Yes, many of them lost a chance at scholarships, etc., because of their actions. I only pray that these children will not be taught the lesson that if you lie and cheat you can beat this current administration policy.

My other concern is that we are unable to send our children on a school-sponsored trip with school sponsors and expect that they will be properly supervised. It has been stated that students should know how to act. This is true. However, using that analogy, why didn't we just give them the keys to the school van and send them to Austin on their own?

My final questions are: Why does the cheerleader who leaves the "party" with beer and boyfriend... go unpunished? Is she exempt from punishment because of her mom's connections with the school administration?

With the school board elections coming up, I would encourage the citizens of Dimmitt to find a candidate who is truly concerned about our children's welfare and a quality education. Please consider a candidate who believes that it is time for a change toward a more responsible government.

OM teams deserve praise

Dear Editor,

I have recently had the privilege and pleasure of going with a special group of young people.

I'm referring to the OM teams. They are definitely "The Pride of Dimmitt." Everywhere we went they were complimented on their behavior. They were always on the bus at the specified time. They competed with confidence and all came back having placed at state.

I kept track of the awards and Dimmitt was the ONLY school district with more than one team there that had a 100% placement. That says something for our young people.

I want to thank the Dimmitt School Board for allowing this program in our school system. It shows the state we're not only strong athletically, but academically as well. I commend the two directors who so aptly handled the program this year. Vicki Richards and Danna Beck deserve a lot of credit.

I would also like to thank Charles Spring for volunteering his time and horse trailer to carry the team props. Without people like him backing the teams, they wouldn't have gotten this far.

As the father of two OM'ers and husband of a coach, I've seen the many hours these kids and coaches have put into solving these problems. They have worked hard and it shows.

I would like to say a very special thanks to the coaches. They've volunteered their time and get nothing in return except the satisfaction of seeing their teams perform well.

I say congratulations OM teams! You performed well and behaved fantastically. I was very proud of you.

Board made 'big mistake'

Dear Editor:

I think the Dimmitt School Board has made a big mistake in letting Ms. Corkran go.

I have substituted for Ms. Corkran. The Middle School Band was very well behaved and well rounded in their musical skills.

I speak as a former drum major and John Phillip Sousa Award winner, and as the mother of a band member. Ms. Corkran has finally turned the band program around. Dimmitt can be proud of her.

She has discipline with her students, and respect in return. She makes the kids practice, and you can hear the difference. She is more like "Smith" than any other director we have had. I feel she should be in charge of the entire band program in Dimmitt.

I am in support of her rehiring. Those of you who are in support should also let it be known. Tell your board members. All of them. Let your PRIDE show and let Dimmitt have the honor of being No. 1 in band again.

JOAN BRAAFLADT CRAIG
(P.S. — I don't normally write letters to the editor, but I feel this is important to our school and our town and it must be corrected.)

DHS Band members 'outraged'

Dear Editor:

WE ARE OUTRAGED!
The Dimmitt High School Band feels that Miss (Cheryl) Corkran should stay! People do not realize how much she has helped our band. She spent extra time with the Flag Corps and twirlers to prepare for Auxiliary Championships. She has helped our band by being at the high school every morning at 7:45 for individual section rehearsals. She is a very well respected assistant band director.

The morning Miss Corkran told us she was resigning, we were devastated! We feel that we need more teachers in the Dimmitt school system like Miss Corkran.

It's the students who really know what is going on during class. We wonder if the school board members have ever actually sat through a band class or have children of their own involved in the band program.

We would like Miss Corkran to stay as a BAND DIRECTOR.

Band student wants teacher reinstated

Dear Editor,

I am a member of the Dimmitt High School Band and would like to talk about the resignation of Band Director Miss Corkran. When Miss Corkran announced her resignation, it all came to us as a surprise. In her first year, she led the junior high band, who had received a division IV rating the year before, to a division I rating and most outstanding band, I thought nobody would have any complaints. It seems like if she (Miss Corkran) does her best, people are still not satisfied. If the parents think it is that easy to work real hard with the students and get a division I, maybe they should try being the band director for once. Miss Corkran has put a lot of work into the Dimmitt Band Program and has no reason to be receiving any complaints; therefore, I believe the School Board should reconsider and give Miss Corkran her job back.

A VERY DISAPPOINTED
BAND MEMBER

Clean-up campaign begins Monday

Dimmitt's annual clean-up campaign, sponsored by the Mayor's Council on City Beautification, kicks off Monday and will continue through Friday, April 23.

"Beautification is like housework, it's never all done," said Sara Hill, chairman of the MCCB.

The MCCB is working closely with City Manager Reeford Burous to get junk cars removed, high weeds cut and abandoned houses removed.

"It's a big and important job because no one wants to live in a dirty, ugly town," Hill said. "Our first impression on prospective newcomers and visitors is made by the cleanliness and beauty of our town. There is a lot of local interest in CUFUPU (Clean Up, Fix Up, Pride UP) because it is so important."

The MCCB has planned several activities during the clean-up week including a poster contest for students in kindergarten through the sixth grade. Posters are due in the school principal's office by Friday. They will be judged and put up around town in store windows. Cash prizes will be given to the winners on Monday.

Posters can be full or half-size. Each poster should have one clear message about clean-up or beautification.

Children at Richardson Elementary School are coloring grocery sacks provided by Dimmitt Thriftway. The sacks will be returned to the store and used to sack groceries during the clean-up campaign.

RES students will also pick up litter on the school grounds.

The MCCB is rewarding people for bringing in litter during the campaign. If anyone brings in a trash bag full of litter, they will receive a free ice cream cone or a baby red bud tree—free.

Both Buckley and the students at Dimmitt Middle School are filling the big showcase with litter they have collected. Paul Walden and Dimmitt High School students are designing showcases to inspire students to stop littering.

30-second spots to remind Dimmitt residents to clean up and beautify their city are being taped by students in Susan Hanners Gifted and Talented class and by Elayne Patridge and her drama students. The spots will be played on KDHN radio.

Hanners' G/T students are also conducting a slogan contest at Dimmitt Middle School. The winning CUFUPU slogans will be seen on Dimmitt TV Cable.

The Young Homemakers are going to plant the merchant's barrels with flowers during the week. Merchants have purchased the plants through the Chamber of Commerce.

The Fireman's Auxiliary will continue to take care of the triangle south of the George Howell Baseball Park. Martha Jo Hyman and the Tots 'n Teens girls will clean the mini park downtown and Bennie Ross will take care of the triangle across from Paxton Tire and Service.

Parents seek expanded special education program

A small group of parents asked the Dimmitt School Board Monday night for an expanded special education program for their children.

The parents contended that the Early Childhood Education program does not do enough, but the Trainable Mentally Retarded program is too advanced.

James Simpson remarked that the ECE program is geared to children up to age 6, but then there is nowhere for them to go except into the TMR program, which lumps together all ages.

"From age 7 to 21 is too wide an age difference to be in the same program," Simpson said.

Patty Cartwright told the board that most of the students at the TMR building are older and at a different skill level. She added that some of the students in ECE eventually will be ready to enter kindergarten, but not for a while yet.

"A transitional classroom is needed," she concluded.

Board Chairman Glenn Odom told the group that the board will look into the matter and see what can be done, but added, "We're not making any promises."

He remarked that they might see about splitting the TMR building to make room for a transitional classroom, but a teacher would still have to be found.

Business Administrator Gene King told the board that $9,000 must be spent on a contract with ASAI of Lubbock for asbestos identification and abatement.

Federal regulations concerning asbestos require that all asbestos in public schools be identified, and a plan be developed for its management.

ASAI will inspect all buildings owned, leased or in use by the school district, identify any asbestos materials, and develop a management plan that will meet all regulations, as well as provide local maintenance people with the required 14 hours of training in proper maintenance of asbestos materials.

King told the board that it is wise to hire a specializing firm to perform the work because of the liability involved and the penalties applied by the government.

Board members approved the proposed calendar for the 1988-89 school year, with the first day of instruction set for Sept. 1, and graduation set for June 2.

Teachers will begin new teacher in-service Aug. 22, and regular in-service Aug. 24. Other in-service days will be Jan. 20 and June 2.

Holidays will be Sept. 5, Nov. 24-25, Dec. 21-Jan. 2, Feb. 17, and March 20-24 (spring break).

April 17 and May 12 would be designated as weather make-up days, so that if no school days are missed because of bad weather, these would be used as days off.

High School Counselor John Thomas reported on the Adult Basic Education Program, revealing that the General Education Development (GED) test battery will undergo changes this year.

From figures presented by Thomas, 77 persons took the GED tests in 1987 and 61 of those completed the program, with 29 of those receiving instruction through the GED classes offered at Dimmitt High School. Twenty-five have already completed the program so far in 1988, with 18 participating in classes through February.

Also offered in the ABE program are classes in English as a second language, which are averaging 31 in attendance per month through March. These classes are taught on two different levels—one for those with practically no English at all, and one for those who can speak some and read a little.

Thomas credited the program's teachers with a large part of its success, calling it a "tremendous asset to this community."

Board members voted to accept the recommendations of the extracurricular committee in establishing cheerleaders for the ninth grade and junior varsity football teams.

Four students will be selected from the ninth grade to serve the next year as cheerleaders for home games for the ninth grade and JV football teams. These cheerleaders would not attend a summer camp for cheerleaders, and would not be scheduled into a cheerleader class. They will have basic uniforms and provide their own white tennis shoes.

A few changes also were made in the rules governing the varsity cheerleaders. In applying for the position, each applicant must submit a parental consent form, which is attached to a copy of the rules.

A contract to supply carpeting for rooms in several buildings was awarded to Paul Graham Company Builders Supply of Lubbock, with a total bid of $26,830. Other bids included $29,243 from Witt Builders Supply of Amarillo, and $24,180.50 from Mark Davis Carpet World in Amarillo.

King told the board that the Davis carpet did not match the specifications asked in the bids and would not match in color.

In executive session, the board accepted two resignations. First grade teacher Laverne Bates is retiring after 36 years with the schools here, and high school math teacher and assistant coach Roy Dudgeon is moving to Crane.

Supt. Robert Ryan said that the board personnel committee, comprised of Arlie Petty, David Schaeffer and Glenn Odom, along with administrative personnel Kenneth Cleveland, Alex Glass and himself (Ryan), will begin screening applications this week for the position of head football coach.

Police Calls

coe County Agent several months ago.

Bob Robinson, district Extension Service director, told the commissioners that the county's salary share is now $4,000, and it must be committed before the Extension Service can assign a new assistant county agent.

"Thirty-one assistant agricultural agent's positions are now open in the state, and Castro is in the top five ag income counties in the state," Robinson said. "Castro is listed No. 1 as far as filling this position."

Commissioner Jeff Robertson argued that the county's increased salary share amounted to a raise, and the county had disallowed a requested raise for Constable James Dobbs recently. He also said he questioned the real need for an assistant county agent here.

Most of an assistant CA's time here would be devoted to coordinating 4-H youth programs, "and an investment in our youth is the best investment we can make," Commissioner Vincent Guggemos said. The assistant CA post here is important to the Extension Service, County Agent Seth Ralston added, "because Castro is one of the top agricultural counties in the state and is a good training ground for young men to go on and become county agents in other counties."

"We've got to get Precinct 2 out of the courthouse basement for elections because it's not accessible to handicapped people, and all polling places are supposed to be," County Clerk Joy Jones told the commissioners, adding, "I've had some more complaints during this year's primaries."

The commissioners discussed possible alternatives and agreed to study the problem further.

Three Dimmitt women reportedly broke into a house on Northeast Seventh Street at 1:45 a.m. Monday and attacked a sleeping man and woman with high-heeled shoes.

The female victim was struck at least 50 times on the face, shoulder and right leg, and the man received puncture wounds on the head, right shoulder and right leg, according to emergency room attendants at Plains Memorial Hospital.

The three women reportedly were the man's wife and sisters.

Charges of burglary with intent to commit a felony are pending against the three women, Police Chief Gary Thurman said.

Dennis Edwards of Hereford, owner of Edwards Laundry, 106 W. Jones St., complained to city police last Thursday that someone had used quarter-sized plastic slugs to operate his washers and dryers, stealing $40 to $50 worth of service from the coin-operated machines.

Miguel Velasquez, manager of the Azteca Complex, reported to city police last Wednesday that someone had broken into an apartment and had stashed two tires in the bathroom.

The Police Dept. took the two tires—a Uniroyal LR-78-15 and a Safetymark P 225-75-15 with a gray rim—into evidence as possible stolen property.

911 project, and committed the county only "to consider implementing" the fee structure.

The Commissioners' Court passed an order to recertify the local Emergency Operating Plan with the Division of Emergency Management—but with reservations.

"I think the whole plan needs to be revised," Judge Simpson commented.

The Emergency Operating Plan is a specific "action plan" for local governments, law enforcement agencies, emergency services and volunteer groups to use to coordinate their efforts in case of an emergency such as a tornado. It uses a "central command post" near the law enforcement dispatching center to coordinate and direct field activities.

Judge Simpson said she feels it has been too long since the plan has been studied or practiced by those responsible for making it work.

"We had an ordinance in 1975 for our cities and county, and it has not been revised or updated since then at the county level, although the City of Dimmitt adopted a revised plan in 1987," she said. "We really need to have a meeting sometime with all the officials of the county and cities to make sure we all know the aspects of it and how it will operate."

By a 3-1 vote, the commissioners approved a motion to provide $4,000 as the county's share of salary for a new assistant county agricultural agent.

The county already had $3,651 budgeted toward an assistant CA's salary, and had not drawn from the fund since former Assistant CA Curtis Preston was named the Bris-
