The Grands

Stock show sale raises $229,802

The floor price on barrows was Spraying, Bennett Cattle and low, but that didn't stop the 1995 Castro County Junior Livestock Sale from surpassing expectations of Buyers paid $210,627 for animals at Saturday's sale, with 86 lambs, 20 steers and 125 barrows drawing premium bids above floor prices.

Donations to the 4-H ($9,625), FFA ($1,800) and Dimmitt Fire Dept.($7,750) added another $19,175 bringing the sale total to $229,802, not far from the record of $241,605.22 which was set in 1991.

Auctioneer Jack Howell sold the floors first, with Dimmitt Feedyard providing the floor on steers at $75.50 per hundredweight. Jay Jackson of J-Bar Cattle Co. won the floor on barrows with a bid of 31¢ per pound, and he also won the bid on lambs, with a bid of 60¢ per pound.

Howell sold the grand champions next, then followed with reserve grands, breed champs and reserve breed champs, and the rest of the animals making the sale.

Tye Baca of Dimmitt earned $4,305 for his grand champion steer, a 1,230-lb. mediumweight Cross. The $3.50 per pound bid for the animal was provided by Baca's uncles, Gene Bradley and Andy Rog-

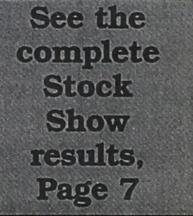

Andy Bennett of Hart drove his 230-lb mediumweight Cross barrow to the grand championship and a group of 17 businessmen provided him with a bid of $10.50 per pound for the animal. Among the buyers were Vic Nelson Seed, Hart Producers Co-op Gin, Hill Trucking, Tony Leibel, Jim Black Oil, Hart Auto and Farm Supply, Shirley Nelson, Triple A Pump Co., Cargill, Inc., Dewayne Brown Insurance, Hale County State Bank at Hart, Central Plains Spraying Service, Wilbur-Ellis, Hart of the

The top lamb in the show, a 138lb. heavyweight Medium Wool shown by Travis Crow of Dimmitt, brought a bid of $10 per pound from the three local cooperatives-Dimmitt Agri Industries, represented by Don Graham; Dimmitt Consumers, represented by Danny Rice; and Castro Co-op Gin, represented by Randy Small.

The reserve grand steer was exhibited by Jay McCormick, and the 1,280-lb light heavyweight Cross sold for $2 per pound to Rogers and Bradley.

The group of 17 businessmen and individuals which purchased the grand champion barrow also purchased the reserve grand barrow, which was shown by Hart's Shea Bennett. Bennett's barrow, a 244-lb. heavyweight Duroc, brought a bid of $7per pound.

Mike Baca provided a bid of $6 per pound for the reserve grand champion lamb, a 128-lb. light heavyweight Medium Wool shown by Toby Crow.

Junior showmanship winners Friday included Wesley Wright, lambs; Mandi Moore, barrows; and B.J. Hill, steers.

The senior showmanship winners were Julia McDonald, barrows; Beau Hill, steers; and Asia Kirby, lambs.

Tears, memories flow at Cleveland's induction at PSHOF

A crowd of over 500 persons was moved to tears Sunday as the late Kenneth Cleveland was inducted as the 100th member of the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame.

32 seasons before he was killed May 16, 1993 near Las Vegas, N.M. He totaled 887 wins to rank ninth on the all-time high school coaching list.

Cleveland's family, friends, and players current and former helped pack the auditorium at Amarillo College as Cleveland's widow, Libby, accepted the award.

Mrs. Cleveland accepted the award as Kenneth would have, then made some of her own thoughts and feelings known as she accepted the certificate from the PSHOF. A permanent plaque will hang with 100 others in the permanent display

Mrs. Cleveland recounted a love affair of almost 50 years with Cleveland coached the Bobcats for Kenneth, starting when she hit him in the eye with a baseball while they were in the fifth grade in Coleman. From then on, they were inseparable. They walked together to games, studied together and had what fun they could. They went to college together at the University of Texas at Austin and married after their freshman year there.

> "We married because we couldn't find a place where we could study without talking," Libby said.

5 county teams ready for playoffs

Five Castro County teams have made the playoffs, with the Nazareth girls starting post-season play today (Thursday) to get the ball bouncing.

The Swiftettes will meet Amherst at 6:30 p.m. at Abernathy High School in the bi-district game.

Friday, the Hart girls will face Idalou at 6 p.m. at Hutcherson 2-3 zone and a 2-2-1 press. Center in Plainview, and the Dimmitt girls will face Childress at 7 p.m. at the WTAMU Fieldhouse (The Box) in Canyon.

Next week the boys get into the playoffs, with Dimmitt facing Childress and Nazareth taking on Amherst. The Dimmitt-Childress game will probably be at 7 p.m. on Feb. 23 at The Box, while the Swifts will play at the same time in Abernathy.

Nazareth's game is a rematch of last year's bi-district game which the Swiftettes won, 89-39. The Lady Bulldogs are led by Jamie Mills, who had 11 points in last year's matchup.

"She's a good guard," said Nazareth coach Johnny Hampton. "She penetrates and she shoots threes. She'll be tough to stop."

Hampton said Amherst will run a

"Mills is the player to stop, but they have a good guard, too," Hampton said. "They're 15-8 and not a bad ballclub."

The Hart girls will be facing a veteran Idalou team which fell to Sundown 40-36 but claimed the second seed from District 4-2A.

Idalou has seven letterwinners back from the 1994 team. Benita Soto is a 5-7 junior post who had 13 points in Tuesday's game. Also back are Julie Heinrich, a 5-6 junior

Recycling is garbage

By MONA CHAREN

WASHINGTON-Now I know we are living in a new age. Electing Republican majorities in the House and Senate was nice, but it didn't approach the epochal significance of this-The Wall Street Journal has debunked recycling!

If there is any issue on which millions of people have been more hoodwinked, I don't know what it might be. The propaganda machine urging us to recycle has been relentless, moralistic and, according to the Journal, utterly misleading.

Listen up, Captain Planet, Barney the Dinosaur, Mr. Rogers and the rest of you commissars. Your arguments in favor of curbside recycling turn out to be, ahem, garbage.

The recent boom for curbside recycling got started after the famous garbage barge floated around the waters of the eastern US unsuccessfully looking for a place to unload its cargo of trash. News coverage at the time left the impression that the barge was forced to bounce from one port to the next because our dumps were too full. Walter Hang, a New York environmentalist, told Phil Donahue that "this barge really dramatizes the nationwide crisis we face with garbage disposal."

But as the Journal's Jeff Bailey reveals, the garbage barge was rejected not because there was insufficient dump capacity along the castern scaboard - in fact, thousands of tons of trash from the Northeast, sent by train, are dumped in the southern US every week-but because the mobsters Journal. who organized the garbage barge had not exactly nailed down a destination when they put out to sea. Owners of dumps were suspicious that the trash might contain hazardous waste and so declined to

By the time the garbage barge landed back in Brooklyn, a myth had been born—that the US was up to its eyeballs in trash and facing an emergency. Environmentalists stoked this misconception—and so did industry. As Bailey points out, there were a great many people in the trash business who were in a position to explain the truth about dump capacity in the US (the US Conference of Mayors says that cities have, on average, 16.5 years of capacity remaining, and others believe that to be a low estimate), but they chose to go along with the panic instead.

"The public's belief in a garbage crisis," writes Bailey, "helped WMX (formerly Waste Managment Inc.) and its competitors pass along huge price increases to municipalities and other customers."

The Environmental Protection Agency weighed in with a report in 1988 called "The Solid Waste Dilemma," which urged states and cities to devise voluntary recycling programs to reduce their waste by 25%. One of the authors of the EPA research said later that he never did understand the political use EPA had made of the data. "I've always wondered where that crap about a landfill capacity crisis came from," he told the Wall Street

And so the race to reduce garbage through recycling was on. Forty states passed laws to encourage recycling, and many cities subsidized it. According to polls, 77% of the public believes that trash is our No. 1 environmental problem and recycling the solution.

But it's not true. Not only is the belief that we are running out of landfill (a strange idea to anyone who has ever flown over this continent) mistaken, but the solution to the non-problem is problematical itself. Curbside recycling is extremely expensive. Funds spent on recycling are not spent on police, schools or fire departments. The trucks required to pick up the cans and bottles spew pollution into the atmosphere and burn fossil fuels. Before curbside recycling got started, California was recycling about 50% of its newspapers. After curbside recycling, the percentage went up to 60. That's a huge expense for such a low return. Besides, as Clark Wiseman, an economics professor at Gonzaga University in Washington, put it, "One thousand years of US trash would fit in an area 30 miles square, piled 300 feet deep.

Thank you, Wall Street Jouranl, for telling the truth. But I have my doubts as to whether the truth will dent the armor of the righteous propagandists in charge of children's television.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - Reform was the operative word in Gov. George W. Bush's first "State of the State" address which he delivered in 30 minutes during a joint session of the Legislature last week.

Bush outlined his administration's goals of welfare reform, tort reform, education reform and criminal and juvenile justice reform, and pledged to be a team player with legislators to make sure those goals are met.

Welfare benefits should be limited to two years for able-bodied parents with young children, Bush said, and warned that taxpayers would not continue to provide benefits to those who choose to have additional children while on welfare.

Regarding tort reform, Bush urged lawmakers to:

Cap punitive damages;

■ Exempt public employees and civic volunteers from being sued for good faith actions;

 Stop court and judge "shopping"; and Discourage frivolous lawsuits.

Bush continued to hammer on his campaign theme of returning local control to Texas public schools. Doing so, he said, would "free our teachers and parents and administrators to design the schools which best fit their communities' needs."

Speaking on criminal and juvenile justice reform, Bush said Texas must lower to 14 the age at which the most violent juveniles could be tried as adults and called for an end to mandatory early-release programs. He also called for speeding up appeals by death row inmates.

In comments to the Austin American-Statesman, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker James E. "Pete" Laney lauded Bush and said the teamwork already has begun.

Domestic Violence Bills

The Senate last week unanimously approved six domestic violence bills, the latest in a wave of legislative attempts to "break the cycle of violence" and offer better protection for victims.

Still being considered, however, by the Senate Criminal Justice Committee, is a bill by Sen. Mike Moncrief, D-Fort Worth, that would require battered spouses who file charges against their abusers to testify against them in court.

Domestic violence bills that have passed the Senate and now move on to the House would:

 Allow magistrates to issue temporary emergency orders without a court hearing;

 Increase punishment for those who repeatedly violate protective orders; and Allow authorities to hold suspects charged with stalking for 48 hours after bond has been posted.

"Texas is trying to adopt an attitude of zero-tolerance to violence in any shape, form or fashion. That's our mission," Montcrief told the Houston Chronicle.

Caucus Finance Disclosure Rep. Layton Black, D-Goldthwaite, has filed a bill that would require legislative caucuses to report their finances and expenditures.

Rep. Warren Chisum, D-Pampa, who is chairman of the Texas Conservative Coalition, said he will fight the bill, and that the coalition will never disclose the names of past contributors.

In early January, before the

The Original

Legislature convened, the Texas Conservative Coalition held a $500 to $10,000 a plate fund-raiser.

After the fund-raiser, legislators adopted rules requiring future disclosure and banning caucuses from raising funds 30 days before and after a legislative session, or during a session.

Bush Nominates UT Regents

Gov. Bush nominated Donald L. Evans of Midland and Linnet F. Deily of Houston to the University of Texas System Board of Regents last week. He also named former congressman Tom Loeffler of San Antonio to a second six-year term.

Evans, who chaired Bush's inaugural committee, is chairman and chief executive of Tom Brown Inc., a Midland energy company. Deily is chairman and president of First Interstate Bank of Texas.

If confirmed, Evans and Deily will replace Mario Ramirez and Robert Cruikshank.

Other Highlights

Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, has introduced a bill requiring all candidates for public office to submit to drug testing. State law allows drug testing of employees by both the government and the private sector. "Why should we be exempt? We are not a privileged class," Wilson said.

■ Housing and Urban Development Secretary Henry Cisneros has lost his bid to have his former mistress' lawsuit dismissed. In the ruling denying Cisneros' request for a summary judgement, State District Judge Blair Cherry of Lubbock said the suit must continue because, "...there are disputed fact issues that must be resolved."

A group of property-rich school districts plans to ask the Texas Supreme Court for a rehearing on its decision last week that upheld the state's tax-sharing school finance law. The districts involved include Borden County, Glasscock County and the Seminole district, all in West Texas, and Barbers Hill near Houston. Lawyer Earl Luna said other districts are contemplating joining the action.

Austin Notebook

By TOM HAYWOOD State Senate Dist. 30

As I mentioned last week, three separate bills are currently being considered by the senate Economic Development Committee: a bill to prohibit lawyers from "venue shopping" around the state to find plaintiff-friendly jurisdictions to try their cases, a measure to clarify the amount of damages for which each defendant is responsible in a lawsuit, and a measure to put reasonable limits on the amount of punishment, or punitive damages, a jury may award. I would like to discuss cach of these bills in a little more detail.

The first bill, regarding "venue shopping," would require that lawsuits be filed in the county where the accident, injury, or claim occurred. This means that if a person is injured by a defective toaster in Abilene, they would be required to file suit in Taylor County. That prevents an attorney searching the state for a county that has a history of high jury verdicts, or worse, from finding a judge to whom the attorney has given large campaign contributions. The bill being considered makes the system more practical, predictable, and sensible. For those situations where a person is injured in a county far away from their home, the miracle of VCR technology and closed circuit television can bring the courtroom across hundreds of miles electronically.

The second bill being considered clarifies that a person is only liable for the percentage of injury caused by their acts. Under current law, an attorney will often sue every possible defendant in the hope that one of the parties sued has "deep pockcts." In other words, they take a shotgun approach to litigation by spraying the playing field with lawsuits, hoping to hit a jackpot. State, I think that fines for wrongful Sometimes, a defendant with only a tenuous connection with a plaintiff can be made to pay an entire jury award simply because they had the most money. This is wrong, and must be changed. This bill would hold defendants liable for their percentage of the damages, not the entire amount.

NATIONAL NEWSPAPER

Finaly, the third bill to be considered by the Senate Economic Development Committee would set a reasonable limit on the amount of punishment a jury can inflict on a plaintiff. In much the same way as the State has placed limits on fines for crimes, this bill limits the ability of a jury to award such a high amount of punitive damages that a company is driven out of business. I must stress to you that this bill does not limit, in any way, a plaintiff's ability to be compensated for their damages. An injured or wronged person must be made whole by a jury verdict for actual damages—as it is a fundamental right. It is the punishment phase of the award that is being capped under this legislation. The cap would be twice the actual economic damages awarded under the bill as currently drafted. I have suggested to my collea-

More roads Dear Editor:

1. Building Roads. The Romans 2000 years ago built better roads than Castro County is today. Wake up Castro County and do something to stop this waste of our tax dollars. Why do we want to continue to waste tax dollars with obsolete ways of building roads?

2. The county's biggest expense is building and maintaining roads. Why continue wasting our money on this obsolete way of building and maintaining them. If our tax dollars had been spent wisely, all of our county roads that has 90% of the traffic would be paved today.

3. Let us start in February 1995 to change the obsolete way of building roads by going to modern technology. This will eliminate muddy roads. There are many places in Castro County that have had rut problems eliminated. Jack Dyer paid for most of the expense of building Road 520 north of his house one-half mile.

4. Check with the people that use this road in all kinds of weather about how it is. The corner of 518 and 624 has not had a rut in about two years. 628 south of Sunnyside Baptist Church has been fantastic.

The Plains Memorial Hospital Auxiliary met Wednesday morning with Jackie McLeroy presiding over the business meeting. Reports were given by Mattie Seale and Florene Leinen. A silent prayer was made for Bea Hardy, Ruby Wood and Juanita Bruegel, Auxiliary members who had passed away recently.

Sharon Ellison brought a very informative program on therapy and rehabilitation services. The group toured the rooms set up for this service.

Members present were Ethel Fry, Lucille Drerup, Irene Blanton, Jackie McLeroy, Betty Freeman, Florene Leinen, Barbara Sava, Nell DiCuffa, Claudine Langford, Mattie Seale, Lois Waggoner and Mary Edna Hendrix.

The Dimmitt Book Club met at Rhoads Memorial Library on Wednesday afternoon with Barbara Bain presiding over the business meeting. Cindy Adams called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting.

Kim Hays gave a delightful review of the book The Baby Train by Jan Harold Brunvard. Shirley Wise, Rosetta Bellinghausen and Mary Edna Hendrix were the hostesses for the social hour. They served party sandwiches, cookies decorated for Valentine's Day, hot fruit punch and pink lemonade. The table was colorful with a red flower arrangement surrounded with red hearts.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Crittenden establish new home in Abilene

Mr. and Mrs. Max Crittenden are home in Abilene after enjoying a wedding trip to Switzerland.

The bride is the former Liz Murphy, daughter of Dr. Bill D. Murphy of Dimmitt and Charlyne Murphy of Abilene.

The couple exchanged wedding vows in a formal, double-ring ceremony on Jan. 21 at Fairmont Methodist Church in Abilene. Lynn Anderson of the Preston Road Church of Christ officiated at the nuptial service.

The wedding was held in an 80year-old stone building with exposed wooden beams and stained glass windows. Banners with "Celebrate Jesus" and "Jesus Is Lord" hung at the front of the building.

Pianist Jan Seides-Murphy, sisterin-law of the bride, accompanied the singers Belinda van de Loo, Andy and Jan Murphy, Fawayne Murphy, Bill Murphy, Cheryl Durham, Bryson, Courtney, Scotlin and McKenzie Bowden, the McCoy Family and Tom Lau. Musical selections included I Will Follow You, Years in the Future, I Will Give Thanks, In This Very Room, The Gift of Love, Sometimes, How Beautiful, That's the Way, O Perfect Love and We'll Serve the Lord.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown designed by her cousin, Nancy Edwards, for the wedding of Edwards' daughter, Jana. The gown featured a cathedrallength train and was fashioned with lace flowers around the shoulders and at the bottom of the dress. It featured mutton-type sleeves and a vee neckline covered with lace which formed a high collar.

She wore a shoulder-length veil which fell from a halo of white silk flowers. The veil was borrowed from the bride's friend, Dana Kingham of Friendswood.

The bride also carried her cousin Jana's bouquet, which was "remade"

'Panhandle Day' in Austin set March 28

The Panhandle's biennial trip to lobby the Texas Legislature has been set for March 28.

The day will include lunch, lobbying and laughter, concluding with a barbecue dinner on the Capitol lawn, according to Layne Myatt, president of the Dimmitt Chamber of Commerce.

"Panhandle Day in Austin is one of the most effective ways our region has come up with to impact the legislative process," said Myatt.

State Sen. Teel Bivins said the biennial Panhandle Day celebration is an integral part of the region's legislative effort.

"Panhandle Day is a great opportunity for our people to meet the state's legislative leaders and let them know our concerns," said Bivins. "While it's a lot of fun and the food is good, it's also an

Commodities to be distributed

Commodities will be distributed for the first time this year Feb. 22 at 10 a.m. by Panhandle Community Services at 110 SW Second in Dimmitt.

Since the distribution is the first of the year, new applications must be taken. A current identification card and a utility bill must be presented at the distribution.

Items being distributed include three containers of butter, two cans of green beans, and one can each of peaches, tomatoes and pears.

Filing underway for hospital board

Filing is now underway for three positions open on the Castro County Hospital District board of directors.

The terms of James Welch and Lucille Drerup and the unexpired term currently being served by Carolyn Sides are up for election on May 6.

Filing petitions are available at the business office at Plains Memorial Hospital. Prospective candidates must have petitions with 100 signatures to earn a place on the CCHD ballot.

important part of the Panhandle's overall legislative effort."

A charter plane will leave from Amarillo at 10:30 a.m. and arrive in Austin before noon. Buses will provide transportation to a lunch with Gov. George W. Bush or Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock.

After lunch, participants will divide into legislative teams and visit the legislature and many state agencies to educate legislators and others about issues of concern to the Panhandle region.

"We are particularly interested in streamlining the permitting process for businesses and protecting private property rights," said Myatt. "Also, we need to continue to promote the education facilities within our region and improve our transportation infrastructure."

One regional commodity sure to receive attention is beef as 11 cooking teams from the area will prepare a barbecue dinner for the entire legislature to be served on the grounds of the Capitol.

Buses will return participants to the airport for an 8:30 p.m. departure from Austin, arriving in Amarillo at 9:40 p.m. Cost for the trip, including both dinners, will be $290. Interested parties should contact the Dimmitt Chamber of Commerce at 647-2524.

Hospitalized veterans

honored in proclamation

This week has been designated "Salute to Hospitalized Veterans Week" in a proclamation signed Feb. 2 by Dimmitt Mayor Wayne Collins.

The proclamation calls for citizens to not forget the sacrifice of veterans who are now hospitalized or separated from family and friends.

"To these men and women, we owe a debt of gratitude which can never be fully paid," reads the proclamation.

The proclamation calls for Dimmitt citizens to join with Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 8056 and their ladies' auxiliary to find appropriate ways to pay tribute to veterans hospitalized or in nursing

The maid of honor was outfitted in a burgundy floral gown with a lace collar. The bridesmaid wore a burgundy dress of finewale corduroy with a lace collar.

The bridal attendants carried longstemmed white roses with burgundy highlights.

Best man was Tom Lau, brother of the groom. William Jedidiah Murphy, son of the bride, was a groomsman.

Ushers were J.B. Gibbs, A.L. (Dusty) Rhodes, Steven Taliaferro and Rick Bowden.

After the wedding, the couple rode in a white horse-drawn carriage from the church to the reception at the Highland Family Life Center in

The bride's cake was frosted with chocolate and white icing and was decorated with silk flowers.

The groom's carrot cake was frosted with cream cheese icing and was decorated with white chocolate

The tables were decorated with burgundy candles and white silk flowers. A silver service was provided by Sandy Baker of Dimmitt. Almond punch was served.

The bride grew up in Dimmitt and completed her high school career at Abilene Christian High School. She Abilene Christian attended University and graduated from University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston as a physcian's assistant. She worked for Dr. Gary R. Hardee for the past year and a half. Before that she was a medical missionary with Youth With a Mission in Africa.

The groom graduated from the University of Iowa and University of Washington Law School. He previously held a position as international legal counsel for Youth With a Mission and is currently working in a private law practice in

TDH promoting children's safety

Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week is being observed this week by the Texas Dept. of Health to increase awareness about the need for children to be buckled up while riding in vehicles.

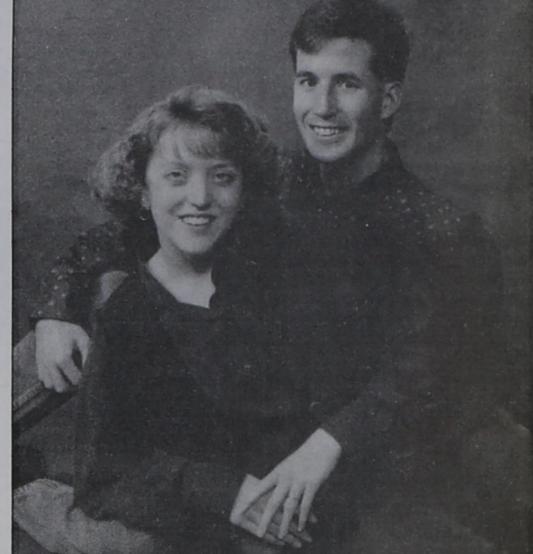

Safety seats are available through the Texas Dept. of Health office at 108 SW Second in Dimmitt. Information about safety seats and child safety is available by calling 647-2404.

Injuries from motor vehicle crashes are one of the leading killers of children. More than 70% of children, up through age four, who die as a result of riding unprotected in a motor vehicle crash would have been saved if they had been secured properly in safety seats. It is essential that parents buckle their children into safety seats every trip.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) estimates that more than 52,000 serious injuries and nearly 500 deaths could be prevented each year if every child under five was correctly buckled in a child safety seat. The week is part of the agency's "Safe and Sober" campaign, part of a nationwide effort to reduce drunk driving and increase the use of safety belts and child safety seats.

Church County showmen preparing for big exhibition in Houston

Forty-seven Castro County 4-H'ers and 88 FFA members from Castro County will be exhibiting projects at the annual Houston Livestock Show.

Friday and continues through March Sunday school classes will meet 5 with the junior show and the open show. Combined with horse show entries, the Houston show is the world's largest.

> About 14,000 entries are expected in the junior show this year. A variety of animals is shown in the junior show division: market steers, market swine, market sheep, market poultry, beef and dairy heifers, breeding sheep, goats, commercial steers and breeding rabbits.

> The four market animal categories (steers, sheep, swine and poultry) represent animals raised by the exhibitor as food sources. Top animals in each of these categories are eligible for their individual market auctions. Total money paid in 1994 at the four junior show auctions exceeded $4 million.

"Our junior show is the highlight of our livestock exhibition, placing an emphasis on education, supervised instruction and fair competition," said Don Jobes, Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo assistant general manager.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

By DON TAYLOR

I know you can

(Last of two parts)

Last week in the first part of this column, I told you I'd heard an educational consultant make a sweeping statement about what we should teach our children. This self-appointed expert demanded that we teach our young people to lower their expectations, accept less and disregard the American dream.

Hogwash, I say. We must not believe this consultant's assessment of current conditions in America. There is greater opportunity today than ever before.

I have a special message for every young person who reads this column: Don't listen to those who say you can't. I KNOW YOU CAN! I believe in you. You can overcome any circumstance, you can live a more fulfilling life and you can achieve greater success than any previous generation. The door is open and the opportunity is yours.

You can decide right now to be successful, and no consultant can stop you. Go ahead and dare to achieve greatness. Don't let occasional failures derail your train. Dr. Robert Schuller said, "Failure doesn't mean you are a failure, it just means you haven't succeeded yet."

I believe you have a wonderful opportunity to live a successful, rewarding life. I also believe you can learn from the success of others.

A recipe for success

Here are several ingredients you'll need for success. Mix them carefully into your life and enjoy.

- Get as much formal education as you can, as early as you can.
- Never stop learning and remember that every new experience is a learning opportunity.
- Realize that education and learning are not substitutes for work. You may earn what you learn, and you may earn in proportion to how well you learn, but you'll never earn or learn without working.
- Focus on what you can do, instead of dwelling on what you cannot.
- Folks may doubt what you say, but you force them to believe what you do. Don't just talk about it, get it

- When you do talk, tell the truth. Integrity is an inner strength. No one can take it away from you.
- Seek to acquire useful, practical knowledge. (Hint: You won't find it on MTV, Beavis and Butthead or The Simpsons.)
- Surround yourself with positive, enthusiastic friends.
- The very best preparation for a successful future is to do your very best today. This is true, whatever work you are doing. Even if it is repetitive, dull or routine, do it with all your ability.
- Strive to be worth more than your employer pays you. You will find there is a great joy and satisfaction that comes with knowing that you have exceeded others' expectations.
- Avoid alcohol, drugs and tobacco. They will destroy your health and drain away valuable financial resources.
- Invest some of your early earnings for your future. Save now, enjoy

- Follow God's commandments. You'll never go wrong concerning yourself more with how God thinks about you than what others think
- about you. Live every day as if there were no tomorrow. We have no guarantee except the promise that we will reap

Clark, Bradford earn national honors in NCGA corn contest

Dimmitt farmers H.J. Clark and Jack Bradford are winners in the 1994 National Corn Yield Contest sponsored by the National Corn Growers Association.

Clark is the state winner in the irrigated class. His contest field, planted with NC+ 7117, averaged 273.8 bushels per acre.

Clark said he relied on tried and true management practices.

"We do the same thing year after year," he said. "We have no secrets." This is the second first-place finish for Clark in the past five years. He also finished second in the past five years, all in the irrigated class. Clark also produces cotton and wheat on his 2,500 acres, and runs cattle on wheat pasture some years.

Clark planted his contest field in early April and harvested in late September. Planting rate was 36,000 per acre with 30-inch row spacing.

Because of the exceptionally dry weather Clark ran his center pivots hard, applying about 25 inches of water over the growing season.

Clark used conventional tillage methods. The corn was cultivated enhance moisture retention around the plants.

Keys to his success, Clark said, include "a good, uniform stand that comes up and grows off well. Then you have to keep it wet. Of course, you have to have the fertility, too."

Bradford was third in the irrigated class. Also planting NC+ 7117, Bradford's field yielded 260.7 bushels per acre.

Bradford, who farms 2,500 acres in partnership with his mother, Mildred, and brother, Jim, said use of a good hybrid and proper "care of the crop" led to the high yield.

The field was planted around April 22 at the rate of 32,000 seeds per acre with 40-inch row spacing. Because of the dry weather, Bradford pre-watered and watered eight times after that. The field was harvested in late September.

once, and a ripper-diker was used to enhance moisture retention around Computerized price system helps cotton

A new computerized price analysis and reporting system could benefit, the cotton industry throughout the US.

Dr. Don Ethridge, an economist at Texas Tech University, has designed a computerized price analysis and reporting system. It's known in the cotton industry as the Daily Price Estimate System (DPES).

"Texas and Oklahoma have been on a hotbed of new, modern technology in both production and marketing for many years, and more developments are on the way," said Dr. Ethridge.

He said there is "more market price information at our fingertips than anywhere else in the world."

The DPES gives producers daily spot market price reports. The program is connected to the Plains Cotton Cooperative Association's TELCOT system and The Network. Daily results are also available on the National Cotton Council's COTNET computer bulletin board.

Before the system was developed, producers had only the spot quotations furnished by the USDA to use as a reference. Research has shown that the USDA quotations are not as accurate as the DPES program. There has been a tendency for the daily spot quotation premiums to understate actual producer premiums for higher qualities and to overstate actual producer discounts for lower qualities. Cotton producers can now receive accurate and current prices on over 25,000 different qualities of cotton.

Cotton Talks

Additional information on the implementation of the Federal Crop Insurance Reform Act of 1994 should allow producers to move forward with their plans for 1995. The new requirements are a major change from previous years.

As reported earlier this year, all producers intending to participate in USDA programs in 1995 must purchase at least a minimum catastrophic risk protection (CAT) policy or an additional coverage policy to be eligible. Required insurance coverage must be purchased before the March 15 insurance sales closing date.

Producers can purchase the CAT policy at either their county Consolidated Farm Service Agency (CFSA) office or through any agent authorized to sell Federal Crop Insurance Corp. (FCIC) multi-peril insurance. Additional coverage policies can only be purchased from an agent authorized to sell FCIC multiperil insurance.

eligibility includes 1995 price support and production adjustment benefits, CRP benefits if the producer also has an interest in an insurable crop and FmHA direct operating, guaranteed operating, farm ownership and emergency loans approved or revised after Oct. 13, 1994.

With this in mind the following are a few specifics about the program that may help answer questions about the new requirements. If producers are still unclear about how the new requirements will affect them they should contact their county CFSA office for further information.

Coverage by producer-Each producer, such as an individual, with an interest in a crop for which insurance is required must purchase either the CAT policy or an additional coverage policy. Coverage is purchased by crop and applies to all farms in the county in which the producer has the same in-

It is acceptable for only one producer who has interest in a farm to purchase insurance, but the producer(s) who did not purchase at least the CAT policy will be ineligible for program benefits. It is also acceptable for one producer to purchase an additional coverage policy on the same farm.

mation concerning this application is contained in the public notice section of this newspaper. This notice is to be published on Feb. 9, 1995 and Feb.

Coverage-Producers Unit choosing the CAT policy will insure a crop by units. Generally a unit is defined as all land comprising a particular farm serial number. In addition, if a producer cash leases any acreage and receives 100% of the crop, the cash leased acreage will be considered part of the same unit (farm number) in which a producer also receives 100% of the crop on that unit.

An example whould be a producer who share leases Farm A from one individual and Farm B from another person, owns/operates Farm C and cash leases Farm D. Under current rules, the producer could buy coverages for farms A and B as separate units. Farms C and D would be considered one unit because the producer receives 100% of the crop on each.

Producers who decide to purchase an additional coverage policy may do so on optional units, such as units based on irrigated or dryland acreage The insurance requirement for if both are located on the same section or farm serial number, in addition to farm units.

> Actual Production History (APH)—APH records from specific units will be used to determine the insurance yield. Producers who have not been previously insured on a crop and have produced the crop before have the option to use APH records for each unit or have a transitional (T) yield assigned for any year prior to the year for which records are furnished.

Established Price-The established price for use as the basis for calculating the price per unit of measure to compute a loss will be 62 cents per pound for cotton.

Policy Cost—The CAT policy will cost $50 per crop per county not to exceed $200 per producer per county not to exceed $600 per producer. The cost of additional coverage policies is subject to individual records and the level of insurance being purchased and can be determined by an authorized FCIC multi-peril agent. Payment of the insurance premium may be delayed until after the sales closing Producers must furnish proof of 1995 insurance coverage prior to being eligible for program benefits. The agent furnishing a producer the CAT policy or an additional coverage policy will provide proof of insurance that can be used to determine program eligibility.

Baca, Bennett, Crow win at county show

Tye Baca, Andy Bennett and Travis Crow showed the top steer, barrow and lamb, respectively, at the Castro County Junior Livestock Show over the weekend, and each earned premium bids during Saturday's sale.

Castro County youths exhibited a total of 386 animals in the annual show, which is conducted by the Dimmitt Young Farmers.

Baca granded the steer show with his 1,230-lb. mediumweight Cross. The reserve grand champion was a 1,280-lb. light heavyweight Cross shown by Jay McCormick.

Andy Bennett drove his 230-lb. mediumweight Cross barrow to the grand championship while Shea Bennett had the reserve grand with a 244-lb. heavyweight Duroc.

In the lamb show, the Crow brothers, Travis and Toby, claimed the top two spots, with Travis exhibiting the grand champion lamb, a 138-lb. heavyweight Medium Wool; and Toby showing the reserve grand, a 128-lb. light heavyweight Medium Wool.

Junior showmanship winners included Wesley Wright, lambs; Mandi Moore, barrows; and B.J. Hill, steers.

Senior showmanship winners were Julia McDonald, barrows; Beau Hill, steers; and Asia Kirby, lambs.

Here are complete results from Friday's show.

Hart girls blast Morton to clinch title

Hart's girls wrapped up the District 3-2A title with a 74-23 win Friday at Morton.

Hart finished the second half at 7-0 in the conference and 13-1 in district play.

Hart actually scored the gamewinning points in the first quarter as the Lady 'Horns raced to a 25-4 win by the end of the first quarter. Hart scored just 15 points in the second quarter but held Morton to only two points as Hart claimed a 40-6 lead at halftime.

The Lady 'Horns outscored the Maidens by 10, 16-6, in the third quarter to post a 56-12 lead after 24 minutes. As Hart continued to empty its bench in the fourth period, the Lady 'Horns outraced Morton, 18-11, for the 51-point win.

Shea Bennett led Hart with 25 points, while Traci Knox scored 12

The Hart boys finished their season with a big win, downing Morton 64-39.

The Longhorns jumped on the Indians 15-5 by the end of the first quarter, and extended their lead to 34-19 at the break.

Hart stretched its lead to 16, 47-31, by the end of the third quarter, then went on another big run in the last eight minutes, outscoring the Indians 17-8 in the final period for the 25-point win.

J.R. Lee had 24 points and Jeremy Card added 15 to boost the Longhorns.

Sudan edges Swifts to win district

Sudan used strong second-half performances by several players to come from behind and beat the Nazareth Swifts Friday night in Sudan.

The 83-76 win gave the Hornets the District 7-A championship while the Swifts had to settle for second place with two losses, both to Sudan. Both teams will advance to the state playoffs.

Sudan was deadly from threepoint range, and that proved to be the difference Friday night.

Both teams hit 28 field goals, but Nazareth only hit two three-pointers while Sudan racked up six. Free throws added to Nazareth's problems, as Sudan hit 21-of-36 attempts from the charity stripe.

Nazareth had success from the line, too, shooting 78%, but they only made 18-of-23 (78%).

Both teams shot better than 50% from the field.

Scott Brockman led Nazareth with 24 points, including a near perfect 11-of-12 performance from the free throw line. Coby Schacher came in off the bench to add 17 for Nazareth while Gaylon Schilling had 15 and Colby Pohlmeier contributed 14.

Sudan was paced by Jarrod Fisher, who had 20 points, with eight of those coming in the first quarter and another nine in the fourth. Three other Hornets were in double figures including Roger Huey with 16, Jerimi Bourland with 15 and Gerald Weaver with 10.

Sudan held an early 10-5 lead after Fisher turned a couple of tough post moves into four points from 5:40 to seconds later and Schilling sank both free throws. The junior Nazareth post picked up a field goal a minute later to start a Nazareth run that resulted in a good first-quarter advantage. Schilling's field goal made it 12-9, Sudan, but Nazareth reeled off the next seven points. Pohlmeier brought Naz within a point, then Lee Ray turned the ball over and Nazareth capitalized with a three by Alston Farris. Robby Schmucker stole the ball, then Schilling added another field goal to give Nazareth a

A three-pointer by Ray with 2:17 left made it a close, three-point game, then Bourland hit two free throws to pull Sudan within a point with 2:07 left in the half. After a pair of free throws by Brockman and one by Fisher, Bourland tied the game at 37 with 1:38 left in the quarter.

But Brockman put Naz up by four at halftime on a pair of free throws and a field goal.

Three-pointers came into play early in the third quarter, and that's when Nazareth lost control of the

Fisher scored his first basket since the first quarter with 7:33 left in the third, then was silent until the fourth period. Weaver and Everest Williams didn't mind picking up the slack, though. Each had seven points in the period to lead Sudan on its comeback. Williams tied the score at 44 with 6:43 left and Nazareth called Schilling gave Nazareth the lead again, but it didn't last but eight seconds before Sudan took over for good on a three-pointer by Huey with 5:41 left.

Williams hit two baskets and the second put Sudan up 33-48 with 4:28 left. Bourland sparked the Hornet fans with a three-pointer and another basket in the last three minutes, and by the end of the stanza, Sudan was on top, 64-58.

The Swifts never got closer than five points the rest of the way, thanks to Fisher and Huey, who matched the Swifts basket for basket.

FIGHTING FOR POSITION—Nazareth's Scott Brockman (30) snags an offensive rebound away from Sudan's Jarrod Fisher (50) and Everest Wiliams (4) during first-quarter action Friday in Sudan. Brockman got the rebound and scored at the end of the first quarter to put his team on top, 24-15. Sudan came back in the second half to pull out an 83-76 win for the District 7-A championship. The Lady Hornets captured the District 7-A championship and will be the No. 1 seed in the playoffs while the Swiftettes will represent District 7 as the No. 2 seed.

The Lady Hornets, defending Class A state champions and the topranked team in the state, only trailed once in the game and that was when Nazareth's Jill Ramaekers scored the first basket 15 seconds into the girls went to work, never allowing the Swiftettes to gain an edge in scoring during a quarter.

Nazareth never regained the ground it lost early. The Swiftettes finished the game with 37% shooting (17-of-46) and didn't hit a single three-pointer. Sudan hit 46% of its shots and three of the accurate shots were treys. The Lady Hornets outdid the Swiftettes from the bonus stripe too, nailing 7 of 9 attempts while Nazareth only made 3 of 5.

Davis benefitted from sharp passes and strong inside moves throughout

After that the undefeated Sudan the game, and scored two of her baskets in the first two minutes of the game to put Sudan up 6-2, and Sudan took advantage of two Nazareth turnovers midway through the quarter to take a 12-4 lead before Nazareth Coach Johnny Hampton called time out.

> After the break the Swiftettes scored on baskets by Carie Wethington and Amy Pohlmeier to bring the score within four points, 12-8. Sudan scored the next four points, though, and held a 16-10 lead by two, but Swift Coach Mark after one quarter.

Davis hit two big baskets early in the second quarter to spark her team to a 13-8 run and 29-18 halftime lead.

The third quarter saw Sudan add five more points to its advantage thanks to several Nazareth turnovers. The Swiftettes had trouble scoring, too, missing their first seven shots of the second half before Misti Ball scored with 2:29 left. By that time Sudan had run ahead, 39-23, and carried that lead through the rest of

It was a contest to decide the like they're capable of playing." second seed from District 2-3A. It Friday's game which the Fillies won over the Bobbies in Dimmitt, 58-57.

The team which played for Dimmitt on Tuesday bore little resemblance to the outfit which played Friday. Friday's team had little inside scoring and, well, didn't play real well.

Tuesday (and has shown up a few other times this year) scored almost when it wanted. It packed the ball inside, and hit long shots from the outside to keep the Fillies honest. This Dimmitt team controlled the boards and outhustled the Shallowater girls most of the game.

The difference was in the final outcome, 73-57.

"The kids played super," said Dimmitt coach Richard Wood.

Shallowater players and fans are "Some of them are still just as sick as they can be. They would come out of the game and cough and cough Tuesday night at the Texan Dome in over on the bench. They just played their hearts out tonight and played

The win pushed the Dimmitt girls was supposed to be a rematch of into the playoffs for a bi-district match with District 1-3A champion Childress. The game will be Friday at 7 p.m. at the WTAMU Fieldhouse in Canyon.

Dimmitt took the lead for good in the first quarter, and Shallowater was never closer than two points after Kara Josselet swished her The Dimmitt team which played second trey of the period with 1:06 to go in the first quarter to give the Bobbies an 18-14 lead.

The game went back and forth from two to four points during the first half of the second quarter before Dolores Dimas came in to play the game of her life.

Dimmitt was ahead 22-20 when Dimas made her first shot with 5:17 to go. Twenty seconds later she was fouled and made both free throws. She scored her last points of the half with 1:41 to play, but ended up with to play in the period to put Dimmitt 14 during her 3:36 run to put the Bobbies up by as many as 14 at one point. Dimmitt led by 10 at the half, 38-28.

Dimas and Kim Thomas (who had seven points in the quarter) were able to muscle their way inside Tuesday.

"Dolores came in and took the ballgame over," Wood said. "She is a super player and tonight she played like she is capable of playing, and not kicking the ball away. She showed everyone tonight on both teams it's time to turn it up a notch."

Dimmitt shot eight-of-10 from the field in the second quarter to put the game away. For the night, the Bobbies were 27-of-56, 48%. Dimmitt also out-rebounded the Fillies, 42-32; the Bobbies forced 17 turnovers while committing only 11 turnovers.

Tiffany Wilcox scored nine seconds into the second half to give Dimmitt a 40-28 lead. The Bobbies then went scoreless until Amy Ethridge hit a free throw with 4:47 back up by eight, 41-33. Shallowater cut the gap to six a moment later, but Dimmitt turned the offense back on in the last half of the quarter to thwart Shallowater's hopes.

After the Bobbies missed nine straight shots following Wilcox's basket, Thomas hit two field goals to put Dimmitt back up 46-35 with 2:40 to go in the quarter. Wilcox then scored again before Thomas stole the ball, raced down the floor, then stopped on a dime and put the ball in the hole to give Dimmitt a 15point lead, 50-35, with 2:16 to play in the period.

After a Shallowater timeout and a Fillies' basket, Carrie Bradley nailed a trey and Amy Ethridge scored to run Dimmitt's lead to 16 points. The Bobbies led at the end of 24 minutes, 55-40.

The Bobbies asserted themselves early in the fourth.

"Ramos wasn't a factor tonight, and Amy shut her down. We shut Jenny Neal down most of the night," Wood said.

Bobbies fall short in last regular-season game

Second loss of week forces Tuesday playoff

Well, yuck.

Dimmitt's girls fell to Shallowater, 58-57, in the regular-season finale Friday at Kenneth Cleveland Gymnasium. The loss forced a onegame playoff between the two on Tuesday (see separate story) for the right to advance to post-season play as the runner-up from District 2-3A.

The game, like the Friona game three days earlier, was one the Bobbies could have won. A win in either would have clinched the playoffs, but instead sent the Bobbies reeling. It didn't look that way at first. Kim Thomas had the first six points of the game as Dimmitt jumped out to an 11-point lead before settling for a 17-8 cushion after the first quarter.

The Bobbies went almost two minutes in the second quarter without scoring, seeing their lead of 22-15 with 5:58 to play (after an Amy Ethridge free throw) dwindle to 22-21. Thomas hit two baskets and Ethridge canned a trey to give Dimmitt a 31-23 advantage with 3:08 to play. After Shallowater's Jenny

Dimmitt scrimmage scheduled for today

Dimmitt High School's baseball team, frozen out of its planned scrimmage Saturday with Tulia, will try to get some time in today (Thursday) against Hereford.

The scrimmage will start at 4 p.m. at George Howell Memorial Park.

The Bobcats will take on a team that made it to the Class 4A playoffs last year. The Herd was hit a little hard by graduation but should prove a stiff challenge for the Bobcats.

Dimmitt lost just one player off the squad that missed the playoffs by one game last year.

Dimmitt will host the Hereford JV in another scrimmage Saturday at 11 a.m. before beginning the regular season Tuesday at Lockney.

Local Kids Inc. signup underway

Make your own ad!

You CAN write your own classified! Just put down the essentials, what you think people will be interested in. You can count the words and send a check with your ad to PO Box 67, Dimmitt 79027, or bring it by 108 W. Bedford. (The cost is up there in the box with the dollar sign).

Here's an example of an ad, and how to count words: Classified advertising for sale. Big bargains for advertisers 647-3123, 108 W. Bedford.

That ad has 12 words, Phone numbers are one word. Addresses are usually three words. If it's paid in cash, it's $3 the first week and $1.80 for each week after that. Now, you can write your ad:

Address: City _____ State___Zip:____ Daytime phone number:

deal. Special - purpose embedded computer. A red light, a green light, a row of function buttons. Memory storage for 20 quick-dial numbers. And an instruction book on How to Operate This Here Telephone. (It just looks like a telephone; actually it's an FM radio transmitter.)

I have the 20 memory numbers for it listed in my pocket notebook. That's as far as I've gotten. I'll actually key them in as soon as I can get around to reading the instruction book again—unless I lose my notebook.

Verbie and I got ourselves a new microwave/convection oven for Christmas.

Well, we didn't really get around to buying it until a couple of weeks ago. We broke one of our regular policies here because the old microwave-one of the first ever sold in Dimmitt - still worked. But these new ones have so many bells and whistles that we couldn't resist. They're computerized.

(How many new microwaves would you guess the "Popcorn" button has sold?)

The old microwave would cook a bowl of oatmeal in 2:15. The new one does it in 1:30. So I've saved myself 45 seconds right there.

To warm up leftovers with the old microwave, you'd set it on Defrost, turn the crank to about five minutes, and check it every once in a while. With the new one you just push a Reheat button and it feels when the dish is appropriately hot, then shuts itself off and flashes a STAND ... COVER message at Same with popcorn. Just punch the Popcorn button and take it out when the microwave tells you to.

Beyond that, I don't know yet. There are all kinds of other buttons yet mysterious to me. I've gotta go back to a thick instruction book for

We haven't even tried it as a convection oven yet, although Jerry Kittrell assures us it'll bake cornbread like a dream. Even my cornbread. Next time I decide to make combread, I'll try to decide in time to read the instruction book first.

The mail brings daily offers of still more whiz-bang, computerized products: "Stick your finger in this thing and it'll measure your blood pressure and pulse rate." "Keep up with your daily appointments with this palm - sized gizmo." "Order this pocket thesaurus and

We switched to total computer production on the newspaper in 1987—the first weekly newspaper in this area to do so. Now our old computers are Model T's - we probably couldn't get $100 apiece for them as scrap — and we're trying to catch up with the new technology.

Our biggest original computer had 10 megabytes of memory in its "hard drive." Our three newest ones carry spiffy numbers like 486DX66, 340 MB of hard-drive memory, and have compact disc readers for the really complex stuff.

Last week we ran our first test print of an electronically processed news photo. It was a picture of Tye Baca with his steer in the Deaf Smith County Stock Show. We borrowed it from the Hereford Brand to see how our printing process (which is different than theirs) would reproduce it. It looked fine.

He told commissioners the county could only charge the cities for Class C Misdemeanor cases like public intoxication, disorderly conduct, etc., and added that Nazareth and Hart have very few of those.

Fitzgearld said the county must pay expenses of prisoners charged with anything above a Class C Misdemeanor.

Rhoads Memorial Librarian Cindy Pottorff met with commissioners about appointing three individuals to the library board.

She said terms of three board members had expired and presented a list of possible board candidates to commissioners.

LEGAL NOTICE NOTICE TO RECEIVE BIDS

ON COUNTY DEPOSITORY

Notice is hereby given as provided in Article 2544 and 1664f (V.T.C.S.) that the Castro County Commissioners Court at its regular meeting on Feb. 27, 1995, will receive bids from banking institutions in Castro County that may desire to be selected as the depository of the County funds. Bids will be received until 10 a.m. on Feb. 24, 1995. Bidders should indicate specifically the method and frequency of calculation of interest rates payable on County accounts and investments during the term of the contract. The bid must detail all proposed costs for printed checks and deposit slips, service charges, stop payment charges and any other contemplated charges. Bidders are notified that most County funds are in the form of trust accounts with service charges prohibited. Release of government securities during the term of contract will be transacted as formal agenda items in regular meetings of the Commissioners Court. Successful bidder will be required to enter into a written contract with Castro County and approved by the Commissioners Court within 15 days of the date of the award of the contract. All bids must state the amount of the bank's paid-up capital stock and permanent surplus and must include a statement of financial condition of the bank on the date of application together with a certified check for $10,000 to guarantee that if accepted as county depository it will execute the required bond. Castro County reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

opted, in a split vote Monday, to spend about $26,000 to make Bobcat Stadium handicap-accessible and another $7,000 to improve the sound system at the stadium. Board member Earl Behrends voted against improvements which could allow handicapped persons to sit in the bleachers with other fans. There are currently no provisions for persons who are confined to wheelcahirs who want to watch a football game or graduation at the stadium. The other five board members approved the work, which will be done by Dimmitt Ready Mix. The sound system will be enhanced by two huge speakers which will be mounted on the scoreboard at the stadium. Balco Sound of Lubbock was the low bidder for the system.

The improvements, which will be paid out of the maintenance budget, should be finished before graduation in May. The board gave preliminary approval to a plan which would award academic letter jackets to Dimmitt High School students. Students would have to earn eight points a year to get a letter, according to the plan presented by DHS football coach Danny Chisum and teacher Danna Beck. The points would come from involvement in various activities, with the system academic meets and campus organizations, good grades and perfect attendance. Final details will be ironed out and presented to the board for final approval at the March 6 meeting. The program would be retroactive to

N.F. Johnson

N.F. "Shorty" Johnson, 80, of Amarillo, died Saturday.

Services were Tuesday in Bell Avenue Chapel of Schooler-Gordon Blackburn-Shaw Funeral Directors with the Rev. Buddy Payne, pastor of First United Methodist Church in Claude and Chaplain Mike Perry of High Plains Baptist Hospital officiating. Burial was in Happy Cemetery.

Mr. Johnson was born in Callahan County. He married Mary Neves in 1946 at Dallas. He was a veteran of the US Army in World War II and a mechanic in Cisco. He moved to Dimmitt in 1949 and to Happy in 1951. He farmed until his retirement in 1974 when he moved to Amarillo. He was a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 1475 and a Methodist.

He was preceded in death by a son, Royce L. Johnson, in 1970.

Survivors include his wife; two daughters, Sharon Johnson of Houston and Carol Mitchell of Amarillo; a brother, John H. Johnson of Dallas; two sisters, Amy Wagley of Cisco and Frances Bisbee of Clyde; four grandchildren; and a great-grandchild.

The family requests memorials be to the American Heart Association or to The Lord's Acre at the First United Methodist Church in Happy.

Florene Totty

Florene Totty, 75, of Plainview, died Feb. 7.

Services were Thursday in Lemons Funeral Home Memorial Chapel with Perry Hunsaker, chaplain at Hospice of the Plains in Plainview, officiating. Burial was in Parklawn Memorial Cemetery.

Mrs. Totty was born and reared in Detroit, Texas. She married J.D. Totty in 1933 at Detroit. He died in Monroe in 1968 and Betty Jay in March.

Hart before moving to Plainview in 1947. She later lived in Sunray, Copperas Cove and Atoka, Okla., before moving back to Plainview in 1980. She had been a member of Pentecostal Church of God for more than 60 years.

Chamber adopts policy changes

The Dimmitt Chamber of Commerce adopted policy changes for its Dimmitt Dollars program during a board meeting last week.

In the past, Dimmitt Dollars could be redeemed at any business willing to honor the currency. The Dimmitt Dollars then were redeemed at the Chamber office, dollar for dollar.

The program, which is designed to promote shopping at home, received good participation, especially from those schools, groups and others who used the Dimmitt Dollars for gifts, awards and other programs, according to Delores Heller, Chamber Executive Director.

But the board voted last week to amend the policy of purchasing, using and cashing in the Dimmitt Dollars.

Now, the Dimmitt Dollars may only be redeemed at the Chamber by members of the Chamber of Com-

When someone buys Dimmitt Dollars at the Chamber, he or she will pay only 91¢ for each dollar purchased. A business accepting the Dimmitt Dollars has two choices. The business could spend the notes at another business or cash the Dimmitt Dollars in at the Chamber office. The Chamber will make out a check to the business for 90% of the total value of the Dimmitt Dollars a business has received.

Dimmitt Dollars may not be redeemed for cash. For example, if your purchase is $24.50, you can pay with $25 in Dimmitt Dollars or you could pay $20 in Dimmitt Dollars and $4.50 in cash. You will receive no change from Dimmitt Dol-

The Chamber board also amended its policy about giving referrals. The Chamber handles many calls each day about where a business is located, telephone number of a business, services a business provides and more. The board agreed to change this policy, and "as an added benefit to our members, we will give information about Chamber members only," said Heller.

Waldo earns tennis honor

Nazareth tennis coach Joey Waldo was honored as the area's top tennis coach in 1994 at the annual Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame ceremony Sunday in Amarillo.

Waldo was honored for leading Nazareth players to 12 spots at the regional tournament and five players to the state tournament.

Waldo directed his boys doubles team of Alston Farris and Scott Brockman to the state championship. Melinda Schmucker reached the state semifinals, while the girls doubles team of Lena Durbin and Kristin Brockman was downed in the state quarterfinals in Austin.

Waldo has led players to titles in Austin each of his three years as Naz tennis coach.

Waldo congratulated all of his players for their efforts.

"I really want to thank the parents who work to make this program what it is," Waldo added.

Waldo is the fifth Nazareth coach to earn the honor from the PSHOF.

JOEY WALDO Others honored include Joe King, Brenda Durrett Schulte, Bud Birks and Sandy Oliver Heiman.

New doctor signs to practice here

An Arizona doctor with family ties here has signed a contract to practice medicine with the Castro County Community Clinics and Plains Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Jobey D. Claborn, an osteopath with 21 years' experience as a family physician, dermatologist and cosmetic surgeon, signed contracts last week to work in the CCCC's two rural health clinics and Plains Memorial, and to serve as medical director of the Hawkins Memorial Clinic at Hart.

He will begin his practice here "as soon as he can get his Texas license," Hospital Administrator 1977. She also was preceded in Steve Goode said, "We're hoping death by two daughters, Lois he can be here about the first of

Dr. Claborn, 52, a Friona native Mrs. Totty lived in Idalou and who lives in Glendale, Ariz., has owned his own clinic—the Claborn Center for Cosmetic Medicineand also has served the last several years as an urgent-care physician and as a dermatology fellow in the Phoenix area.

> His wife, Janet, is the sister of Steve and Darrell Buckley of Dim-

> "He was first referred to us by his sister-in-law, Vicki Buckley, our director of nurses," Goode said. "She had been trying to talk him into coming back to this area for a long time.

"He and his wife have family in Dimmitt, Hereford and Friona," Goode added. "One of his sons is attending A&M, and the other, I think, plans to go to either A&M or UT, so this move will get their family all in the same state."

The Claborns' two sons are Jackie, 21, a junior at A&M, and Jason, 18, a senior at Sunnyslope High School.

Dr. Riley graduated from Friona High School in 1961 and attended West Texas A&M and Southwestern (Oklahoma) State College, earning a degree in biology and chemistry. He's a graduate of the Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine in Fort Worth, and served as chief intern in Phoenix General Hospital, receiving his medical license in 1974.

He is certified by the American College of Osteopathic Family Practice and serves in the House of Delegates of the American Osteopathic Association. He has been an instructor at both the clinical and college levels.

guard; Mindi Bozeman, a 5-6 junior post-forward; Kendra Isom, a 5-5 junior forward LeAnne Cooke, a 5-7 post-forward; Heather Stephens, a 5-4 junior forward; and Jennifer Kristinek, a 5-11senior post.

Cooke, Soto and Heinrich are the team leaders for coach Stephen Fancher.

The Hart girls should enjoy a height advantage over the Lady 'Cats, and last year's post-season experience should help, too.

A win Friday would push Hart into the area round where the Lady 'Horns will play Gruver or Wellington. The Gruver girls have been ranked in the top 10 all season and are favored to beat the Skyrockets.

The Bobbies will face a Lady Bobcats team that finished 18-7 to reach the playoffs after going 14-20 in 1993-94.

The top players include Cara Steed, a 5-7 sophomore who was District 1-3A's player of the year as a freshman. Other veterans include wings Jodi Lindley and Casey Moore, 5-11 posts Susie Jones and Cari Jouett and 5-5 guard Wendy Haseloff. "They have a bunch of great athletes and they like to press," Dimmitt coach Richard Wood said. "We can play with them, and if we can play as well as we're capable of playing we can win this game."

Waiting down the road for the Bobbies, if they win the bi-district game, is probably Bowie. Bowie is 29-1, ranked No. 1 in the state and is favored to drop Decatur (21-7) in a bi-district game Friday at Keller.

The boys teams are planning warmup games before their playoffs next week.

The Dimmitt boys are firming up a game with Class A's top-ranked Sudan, probably Saturday, but the exact day, time and site had not been settled at press time.

The Nazareth boys will face Knox City on Saturday at 2 p.m. at Idalou. Knox City has just three losses and is No. 17 in the state.

The boys teams will try to get another warmup game before the playoffs begin.

The Swifts will face an Amherst team in the bi-district round which has tremendous athletes.

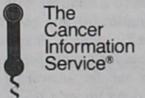

"They won the state championship in six-man football," said Nazareth coach Mark Makeever. "They like a slower-paced game."

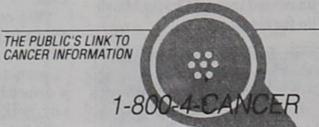

The Dimmitt boys will face the blue-and-white Bobcats who went undefeated through District 1-3A. Childress is led by 6-1 senior guard James Sparkman, who is averaging over 20 points per game. David Seal is a 6-8 post player who could give Dimmitt fits underneath.

Has your Mom had a mammogram?

The risk of breast cancer increases with age. It is one of the leading causes of death among women 65 and older. Early detection through regular mammograms could prevent many of these deaths. Yet as women get older, they are less likely to get mammograms. Has your Mom had a mammogram? If not, encourage her to get one. It might be your chance to give her good advice.

More about

Cleveland induction...

They moved to Dimmitt from Sonora in 1961 to take a job the Clevelands thought would be permanent. They found out a few years later that the hiring was a little more tentative, only until a more experienced coach could be found.

Instead, roots were laid, legends were made and friendships were forged for a lifetime cut too short.

She thanked dozens of people from the media to fellow coaches to Coach Cleveland's golfing buddies.

Specific thanks went to "a loyal corps of special coaching friends, especially Alan Steinle and George Rasor," Cleveland said. She also thanked Ewell Kelley and Stanley Schaeffer, who spent much of their time together with the coach.

She recognized Kenneth's golfing cadre, including Mickey Bishop, Stan Byrnes, John Lantz and Cary Jackson. She explained that golf "was Kenneth's passion."

Cleveland talked about how proud her husband was of their three children, Beth, Vicki and Kevin. She said that Kenneth participated in almost every sport that his children were involved in with the exception of Vicki's world-class prowess in the hurdles.

"We never could get him out there on the hurdles," she said.

She talked about how proud he was of his children as they were dedicated athletes, outstanding teachers and coaches, and loving parents.

And then, there was his other family: "His basketball boys," Libby said. "They will always be his basketball boys." She talked of how Kenneth never thought of retiring and was looking forward to coaching another generation of players.

She brought up what Dwight McDonald, who went to the state tournament as a backup in 1983 and as the player who fired the shot that beat Abernathy for a state berth in 1984, said:

"Dimmitt basketball means there is never a job too big or a game you couldn't win. Anything can be accomplished."

Accomplish is what Cleveland did, with 27 playoff teams in 32 years. He did it with teams that were great a couple years and teams that had to work extremely hard in others.

One of those players, Darrell Buckley, was first a player for Kenneth Cleveland, then a friend, then a member of the family when he married the Clevelands' oldest daughter, Beth.

"At first Kenneth was very jealous because he loved basketball, golf and Beth," Libby said. "Darrell was one of Kenneth's staunchest supporters." Buckley was part of Dimmitt's infamous "Front Row Gang" which has encouraged Dimmitt players, cowed a few others and were part of the Dimmitt basketball tradition. The group, led by Buckley, was also first in the door after a game, to commend or console as needed.

One of those players was Cleveland's son, Kevin, who is now the coach at Wayland Baptist University. Kevin was a four-year letter-winner and played on state championship teams in 1982 and going to have their third girl and weren't prepared with a boy's name. young people should try to emulate.

"We didn't want Kenneth Jr., but we thought Kevin Cleveland would look good in the paper," she said. She talked about Kevin's limited more about that man," McKittrick baseball experience and how she said.

went to see him play one day. Kevin had the baseball helmet turned crown-down on the ground, shooting baseballs into it as if it were a basket. "Kevin was one of 10 sons we had on the 1983 team," she said. "We knew that would be the team of a lifetime. After the first game Kenneth and I cried because we knew it would go too fast." As did Coach Cleveland's life. On the first anniversary of his death, Libby said the family gathered in the early dusk to release balloons. "All of a sudden there was the most beautiful falling star going across the sky," she said. "We laughed and cried and jumped up and down. Kenneth is still a part of us and always will be."

Bob McKittrick, offensive line coach of the world champion San Francisco 49ers, was called on to say a few words after one of his players, John Ayers, was inducted as the hall's 101st member.

Looking at the young people, including the 1994 state champion volleyball team from Amarillo High, this year's Bobcats and others, The Clevelands thought they were McKittrick said that Coach Cleveland was the type of person CHAMPAIGN. Ill. (AP) — Maybe you think of soybean farmers as the meat-and-potatoes type, but more and more are becoming seafood lovers.

It's an economic thing. Fish and shellfish from the sea are becoming harder to find, and the aquaculture industry has expanded to fill the void.

Where does the soybean farmer fit in? He feeds the fish that feed the world.

Soybean meal is rapidly replacing fish byproducts as a source of quality protein for these underwater herds. And the aquaculture expands, industry demand for soybean meal will expand with it.

"I think everyone's going to win on this one, said LaDon

Swann, an aquaculture extension specialist for the University of Illinois and Purdue.

"Most wild fish are carnivores, as opposed to herbivores, so that's going to require a good feedstuff that is high ir proteins," Swann said In most cases, soybear fits the bill nicely.

Dan Selock of Mid-Continental Fisheries in Johnston City said the substitution of soybear pellets for other feeds can actually improve the flavor of some fish.

Foreign markets are where U.S. soybear farmers stand to gair the most.

China, for instance produces nearly half the fish harvested worldwide in its ponds, but uses crude, inefficient farming methods.

Cotton market looking for direction

The cotton market "bulls" may be tiring and the "bears" could wake up early this year. The strong market rally since October 1994, is based on prospects for 1994 crop exports to exceed 9 million bales. Developments, such as a possible breakdown in trade negotiations with China, that threaten to reduce export shipments can weaken the cotton market. Likewise, developments that could increase U.S. exports add market

Cotton prices volatile

The cotton market stands on tight stocks and prospects for the largest exports since 9.2 million from the 1979-80 crop. As a result, the market faces uncertainties that stem from the movement and amount of 1994-95 exports, the expected size of 1995-96 crop, worldwide policy developments, weather conditions and the level of expected 1995-96 exports. These unpredictable developments suggest

Dr. Carl Anderson

December 95 futures may swing up or down from the mid-seventy cent level by some 10 to 15 cents per pound.

Texas cotton acreage could increase to 6.3 million in 1995 from 5.5 million last year. The southeast states are also expected to expand acreage substantially. The mid-south and the western states will increase cotton acreage as well. Therefore, all cotton acreage may total around 16 million, up from 13.7 million acres last season. Thus, a 20 to 22 million bale harvest could result against a likely 18 to 19 million bale usage. If realized, a sizable increase in stocks and a lower price would be likely.

The National Cotton Council's survey indicated an expected acreage of 15.6 million, up 13.6 percent from last year. This was slightly below some trade estimates. The market will now turn toward the USDA planting intentions report on March 31 to signal an update on 1995 acreage for a guideline to estimate cotton production for the New Year.

Foreign production may increase substantially and reduce the need for U.S. exports. Thus, producers worldwide have a strong price incentive to plant more cotton. History indicates strong prices lead to more cotton production, especially in the second year of higher prices. Unfortunately for producers, the economic cure for high prices is high prices.

Exports drive market

Final 1994-95 U.S. export shipments could be different than the sales commitments. For various reasons, some commitments may be canceled or pushed forward into the next season. Cotton shipments during the first three months of this year need to be better than average for strong market support to continue. Export commitments for the 1994-95 crop as of January 26 stood at a substantial 10.1 million running bales which equals 10.5 million 480 pound bales.

Shipments totaled 3.75 million, leaving 5.45 million to be exported by August 1 to reach the January USDA estimate of 9.2 million bales.

Manage price risk

Price risk management strategies for producers to insure against a price decrease include put options and minimum price contracts. With these strategies, you can still benefit from higher prices if they occur. If you wait for the highest price before taking any pricing action, you will only know by looking back and seeing that it happened. Forward contracts, where available, are a common way to "lock-in" a desirable price. This is a sensitive market because of tight stocks. Between now and harvest, market forces can turn in several directions that are unpredictable. You can't control price, but you can control when and how to price.

Ranch supply got start with single pair of spurs

By STEVE O'NEIL

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal

MATADOR — It all started with a pair of spurs made for a friend in 1985. Now almost 10 years later, Moore Maker Inc., located in Matador, has blossomed into a farm-tool and knife distributor with annual sales reaching hundreds of thousands of dollars.

If it seems unlikely that a pair of brothers living in this panoramic town of about 800 could launch a company that sells its products in about 1,800 stores nationwide, think again.

"We have grown up around ranching and farming people, so we know the kind of things they want," said Wayland Moore, 61, who coowns the company with his brother Glynard, 59. "People are after things that work and last."

After making their first set of spurs, word spread about the brothers' metal working skills. Soon they had more belt buckle and spur orders than they could handle. Then in 1988, some ranchers asked the Moores if they could design a better dehorner, a scissor-like device used for cutting off cattle

"The ones out on the market would break all the time," Wayland said. "Plus, they were harder to

A few months later, after testing models on different ranches, the brothers came up with a breakthrough. They found that when they curved the dehorner blade edges slightly inward, the device would slice immediately into the horn instead of crushing it slightly like other models.

"We got a call from a rancher one day and he said, 'They are fine. Don't do anything more to them,' Wayland said with a chuckle.

The Moores patented the dehorner design and soon were making four sizes in a machine shop in Wayland's back yard. The brothers now hold a total of four patents on a handful of farm tools, including specially sized bullnose saddle pliers and a pair of horn tippers, a device used to clip ends off cow horns.

Meteor crater a popular oddity near Odessa

Combest legislation to take aim at future 'unwarranted' federal interest in river shiner

U.S. Rep. Larry Combest (R-Texas) has announced he will focus congressional action to stop the unwarranted attention of the federal government on the small minnow known as the Arkansas River Shiner.

Combest said he is authoring his own measure curbing the immediate flow of new federal regulations.

Combest's provision will be considered as an amendment to strengthen the "Regulatory Transition Act," H.R. 450, expected on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives within the next few weeks. The congressman ut the U.S. Fish and Wildlife service on notice regarding his legislation in written testimony submitted during public hearings held recent-

This shy little minnow has so much attention from the federal government focused right down on it, I wouldn't be surprised if it swam away and hid from everyone — but the truth is, the Arkansas River Shiner is abundant in our part of the country," said Combest.

"My provision stops the federal government from continuing all this unwarranted attention to the Shiner or any other fuzzy or slimy creature," he said. "The facts is, the Endangered Species Act itself expired in 1992, but like most federal bureaucracies, it continues to grow. Until Congress rewrites a new Act containing common sense, it makes no sense to fund a rpogram that does not even have congressional authoriyt to exist."

Combest is concerned about the profound effect that an unnecessary habitat designtion for the Shiner would have in severely limiting the use of water from the Canadian River.

Ranch delicacy not for delicate appetites

By HOLLACE WEINER

c.'95 Fort Worth Star-Telegram

FORT WORTH - The restaurant that most likely moved mountain oysters from the open range to cafe menus was an old Stockyards institution - Theo's Saddle and Sirloin Inn, an eatery that got its start down the block from the packing houses in the 1920s.

Theo Yordanoff, an immigrant from Macedonia, received a bag of the raw delicacy from a rancher who asked him to cook up the organs whose removal makes steers out of bulls.

The rest is culinary history, according to Theo's heirs, whose father often recounted how he served calf fries and eggs for breakfast, calf fry sandwiches for lunch and calf fry hors d'oeurves at dinner.

Today, the delicacy that Theo Yordanoff put into 15-cent sandwiches is a staple at ranch-style steakhouses throughout Southwest, gourmet commodity that sells for $3.59 to $3.89 a pound.

And it's a hit at the 99th Southwestern Exposition and Livestock Show and Rodeo, where 700 pounds of raw calf fries have been delivered to the Backstage Club, the membership-only restaurant above the rodeo arena, according to Garry Anderson, purchaser and sales manager at

Taylor Dressed Beef Co. The chef who first put calf fries on a menu got the main ingredient from his ranching customers. As demand grew for the unusual item, he purchased the fries from Armour and Swift.
