DR. QUISENBERRY WORKING ON NEW COTTON FOR WT

Dr. J. E. Quisenberry, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Quisenberry of Robert Lee, is one of the scientists who is working on a new strain of cotton that hopefully will be adaptable to West Texas.

Dr. Quisenberry works at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock.

Dr. Quisenberry and his colleagues at the Lubbock station, are trying to develop a cotton plant with certain characteristics of Mexican cotton, which can withstand periods of drought. However, this type of Mexican cotton may grow to be 10 feet tall, and that's one of the problems of the experimenters. They don't want cotton 10 feet tall, but they would like to have some of the characteristics of this type cotton, mostly for its drought resistant abilities.

The scientists explain that if their goals are reached, cotton producers may not have to crank up their irrigation wells as soon when they enter a prolonged dry period during the growing season.

Quisenberry said most of the varieties of Texas High Plains cotton were derived from varieties primarily bred for humid areas of the Southeast.

Characteristics useful for drought tolerance were probably, Quisenberry said, during this development period. But with these wild cotton varieties, it's a different story.

But with these wild cotton varieties, it's a different story, the scientists say, as their enzyme systems are able to adapt to conditions so that all phases of the plant's growth are carried out on without interruption gives them their ability to withstand moisture stress.

The decline in the water table of the South Plains, which is one of the biggest cotton producing areas in the world, make development of a drought resistant plant a must and the scientists at the Lubbock Experiment Station are working on it.

Annual Sanco Homecoming Held

By Ulmer Bird

"There will always be a Sanco" sounded forth under the big tabernacle at the 22nd Annual Homecoming, a two day gathering of Coke County's north highland clans, amidst the incense of country barbecue, not to the music of bagpipes but to that of familiar Christian hymns.

Through the 22 years it has become traditional for Mrs. Evelyn Bird McKinley and Mrs. Mary Jo Pentecost, daughters of the late Maud Bird, in her memory to provide floral awards, a custom started by Mrs. Bird at the first homecoming and continued after her death.

James Melvin and Betty Scarborough who drove 1700 miles from Sacramento, Calif., received the boutonniere and corsage for traveling the greatest distance to attend.

Oldest man born at Sanco was T. C. Creighton, Christoval rancher, and oldest woman born at Sanco was Mrs. Bertha Breedlove King of Robert Lee.

A boutonniere to the man who had traveled the farthest of those who had never missed a homecoming went to Jim L. Reid of Grand Prairie. Corsage to the one traveling farthest of the women who had never missed a homecoming went to Mrs. Lurena Reid Frizzell of Sweetwater.

Roof lifting singing of hymns featured both the Saturday night and the Sunday morning gatherings, with Harvey L. Reid of Sanco leading. Mrs. Eva (McCutcheon) Fowler was at the piano.

The four daughters of Charles and Mrs. Fowler in a special quartet were Chira, Evana, Thana and Twyla Fowler.

With Robert Lowrance, who was born at Sanco was R. L. Morgan, violinist and maker of violins; Mrs. R. L. Morgan and Mrs. Belle Henderson, singer and pianist, all of Abilene. This group, with instruments sang specials and joined with the crowd in singing old hymns.

Wilson Carwell, Sanco native, led the devotional.

Roll call of founders of families brought "Here" from their descendants.

In a look forward, Ulmer Bird, president of the sponsoring Sanco Community Association, invited the descendants of William Scarborough and M. B. Ulmer to join in co-sponsoring the homecoming for 1977.

"The homecoming is a time and place where youth and age belong together," Bird said. "and I can see on the faces of the young folk here today that they know they belong. I hope that next year we may have of these five young men to be junior hosts and five young women to be junior hostesses.

"Here is a place to band closer the ties of family and of home. It is more than a place of rich memories. It is fast becoming a land of story and of song. We have several writers among us already. You heard the singers here today. "There will always be a Sanco."

We were still paying off the Revolutionary War. Then we were faced with yet another war, this time on the seas.

How could we afford to build up our Navy?

Well, Congress called for help through the issuance of government securities. And the citizens came through to the tune of $711,700. Enough to make the down payment on 10 new ships.

Their investment paid off. And you can follow their example today.

When you buy U.S. Savings Bonds at your bank or through the Payroll Savings Plan at work, you're investing in your country.

And as if that weren't enough, you're helping yourself to a safe and generous return.

What better way to stay ahead?

INSUR-MATION

THURSTON McCUTCHEN
FARM BUREAU INSURANCE, 453-2812

How can I give a gift of a life insurance policy to my children without losing my annual gift tax exclusion?

You lose your $3,000 annual gift tax exclusion when a policy is written where restrictions are placed upon the donee's right to receive benefits or to exercise ownership... making the policy a gift of future interest. If a parent disposed of all rights to a policy by making it a gift to his three children: Minnie, Mary and Joe (all adults), "Share and Share Alike... Survivors or Survivor," he has given a gift of future interest. Joe can't borrow on his one-third of the policy without the written consent of his sisters... restricting his right to receive benefits and to exercise ownership. This problem can be avoided by writing three equal and separate policies... one for each of the children. An existing policy can be re-written, using the original date of issue... applying the same solution.

CHERRY CAPTURES RECORD STRIPER AT LAKE SPENCE

Cecil Cherry of Odessa broke the record recently for a big striped bass from Lake Spence. Cherry caught a 23 pound striper, exceeding the record catch set April 17, 1975, by Bill Matthews of Andrews when he landed a 20¾ pounder.

A striper larger than the one caught by Matthews was taken at Lake Spence, weighing 22½ pounds, but it was netted by biologists of the Texas Park and Wildlife Commission while making a fish census check of the lake last year.

Increasing numbers of yellow cat showed up in the fishing reports at Lake Spence this week, along with a good run of channel cat and crappie.

What you don't know about the cost of natural gas can hurt us all.

You know you're paying a lot more for natural gas, but you may not know why. The reason is basically simple:

The average price Lone Star has had to pay its 500 independent suppliers for gas we supply you has risen (about $166,000,000 more in 1975 than in 1974*). So we have to charge more.

If Lone Star were not able to recover these increased costs, we could run into some major problems.

First, we wouldn't be able to buy the gas this area needs. Short supplies of natural gas could handcuff industry.

When industry runs short, jobs begin to disappear. Production falls off. The tax base our cities, counties and school districts depend on begins to shrink.

That's why you need to understand how our industry works, why gas bills have to go up, and what Lone Star is doing to keep the increases as small as humanly possible.

Some important questions.

Here are some important questions and answers about our service.

1. How do our gas bills compare to other cities? Our customers pay less for natural gas than most cities, including other cities in Texas.  We feel we're doing a pretty good job of selling natural gas at the most reasonable price possible.

2. Does gas cost adjustment guarantee profits for Lone Star? Not at all. In fact, the company has been forced to initially absorb 15 per cent of higher adjustments. This is a serious loss that must eventually be recovered if our cities are to have adequate gas supplies in the future, and if Lone Star is to have a fair return, to which it is entitled by law.

3. Who checks on Lone Star Gas? The Texas Railroad Commission, after a thorough investigation, sets our base (or wholesale) cost of gas. They set the rate of return on the pipeline system that brings the gas from the well to your city. They also monitor changes in the monthly gas costs of Lone Star, and this monthly gas cost information is filed with each city we serve in Texas.

4. How high will gas bills go? Today, your bill is based on the average cost of gas to Lone Star of a little over one dollar per thousand cubic feet. Gas bills will continue to rise in the years ahead, but probably at a much slower rate than recently. It appears that the field price of gas is leveling out so that increases will be much more gradual.

It's not all bad news.

Basically, all of those answers say that gas costs more than it used to, and it will continue to cost more.

But there is good news: As long as Lone Star is able to recover its costs, and as long as there is sufficient incentive for producers to drill for new gas supplies, we'll have the gas we need to keep this area moving.

All we ask is your understanding, and your cooperation, to make sure that happens.

If you have a question you'd like answered in an advertisement, write Consumer Information, Lone Star Gas, 301 S. Harwood, Dallas, Texas 75201.
