Addition to Fourth of July Program.

An effort is being made to have a band of Indians in full war dress, with a chase and capture of a white man, the attempt to burn the white man at the stake, the cow boys to the rescue, the battle royal, the victory of the cow boys and the subsequent burning at the stake of the captured Indian chief.

This feature in addition to the baloon ascension, parachute leap, big barbecue and fireworks at night, will do much to bring the people to Portales on July 4 and keep our own people at home.

A committee has been appointed to secure excursion rates to Portales from all the outlying railroad points and there is scarcely any doubt but what the committee will be successful, thus making it convenient for every citizen of Roosevelt county to come to Portales and partake of the hospitality provided for them.

KIDNEY TROUBLE

Suffered Two Years—Relieved in Three Months.

M. C. H. FIZER, M.D. Sterling, Ky.

Writes: "I have suffered with kidney and bladder trouble for ten years past."

"Last March I commenced using Peruna and continued for three months. I have not used it since, nor have I felt a pain."

"I believe that I am well and I therefore give my highest commendation to the curative qualities of Peruna."

Peruna for Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Geo. H. Simser, Grant, Ontario, Can., writes:

"I had not been well for about four years. I had kidney trouble, and, in fact, felt badly nearly all the time."

"This summer I got so very bad I thought I would try Peruna, so I wrote to you and began at once to take Peruna and Manalin."

"I took only two bottles of Peruna and one of Manalin, and now I feel better than I have for some time."

"I feel that Peruna and Manalin cured me and made a different woman of me altogether. I bless the day I picked up the little book and read of your Peruna."

It is the business of the kidneys to remove from the blood all poisonous materials. They must be active all the time, else the system suffers. There are times when they need a little assistance.

Peruna is exactly this sort of a remedy. It has saved many people from disaster by rendering the kidneys service at a time when they were not able to bear their own burdens.

HOUSEHOLD POINTERS.

When blowing out a candle hold it high and blow upward to keep the grease from running about.

A couple of little red peppers boiled with the cabbage will keep the odor from going all over the house.

A piece of dried orange peel burnt on a shovel or tin plate in a close, stuffy room will sweeten the air immediately and leave a pleasant odor.

Carrots should be cut in slices instead of cubes, because the outside darker part is richer and better, and if cut in slices is more equally distributed.

Rusty steel ornaments may be cleaned by being rubbed well with sweet oil, enough of the oil being allowed to remain on the article to soak in and loosen the rust.

To open windows easily after sticking with paint, wet weather, etc., brush over the inside of the frames with ordinary blacklead, when they will slide without the least difficulty.

A teaspoonful of salt and desert-spoonful of lemon juice answer the same purpose as "salts of lemon" for removing iron mould from linen, and is not a poison, nor will it prove injurious to the linen.

To keep cake from sticking to baking pans—after greasing pans well sift in some flour, shake the pan so that the flour will get all over grease, and then turn out what does not stick to the pan and put in your batter.

New flannel should be put into clean cold water and kept there for a day or so, changing the water frequently. Wash well in warm water, using a little soap to remove the oil. Flannel thus washed does not harden or shrink.

As soon as the tin containing any kind of food has been opened, and is not rendered air tight, the food should be immediately emptied out. Foods such as salmon, etc., should not even be carried from a shop in a tin after it has been opened.

Using Cold Potatoes.

Cold mashed potato is often wasted, yet it need not be. It may be used with hot milk and celery seasoning for soup. Add salt, pepper, a little chopped parsley and a bit of thickening and some butter. It comes in very handy if anyone returns home tired and wants a bowl of something hot quickly.

Again, cold mashed potato may be made into a cake and browned in butter. Season well with red pepper and salt.

Another way is to press the potato in a sheet an inch thick, cut it into strips an inch wide and about three inches long. Have ready one saucer with melted butter in it and another with a beaten egg. Also have ready a greased pan or two. Lift the potato strips, one at a time, and dip in the melted butter and then into the egg and lay in the pans. Shake on salt and pepper. Put in the oven for from ten to 12 minutes. If wished, have some minced parsley scattered over the top. Serve at once.

One-Egg Layer Cake.

One egg, one cup powdered sugar, one cup milk, three cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt; flavor; mix the sugar and egg well together, add the milk; have flour, baking powder and salt well sifted together; combine and flavor.

For a dark layer take a part of the dough already prepared and add one or two teaspoons cocoa and one of powdered sugar. Dissolve in little boiling water. Bake 20 or 25 minutes, put together with frosting, jam or jelly.

Frosting—One and one-half cups powdered sugar, wet with four teaspoons boiling water, and one of milk. Flavor; spread with knife dipped in hot water.

Copied from a recipe I have.

Laying the Silver.

For a formal dinner place the silver as follows: On the left of the plates place the forks, laid in the order in which the dishes requiring them will be served, starting from the outside. The knives and oyster fork if the latter are served, are placed on the right of the plate, the soup spoons in front of the plate or with the knives at the right. The bowls of forks and spoons should be right side up, the edges of the knives turned toward the plate. Large spoons are not laid on the table, the maid placing one when necessary in the dish. Salt and pepper boxes are placed at the corners, within easy reach of every two people.

Large Gems From Little Ones.

A jeweler in Paris has discovered a process by which he is able to melt down small rubies and sapphires of little value so as to produce large stones, which when cut can hardly be distinguished from the natural gems. The only difference between the artificial and the natural stones is that the "silk" or grain is cloudy in the "constructed" gem. Pawn brokers have been deceived by the new artificial gems and have advanced sums upon them far in excess of their value. —London Standard.

COLORED BATISTE FROCKS.

They Will Be Among the Popular Garments This Summer.

The modistes, ever busily engaged in creating new styles which will make those of former seasons look stupid and undesirable, have now succeeded to their no little joy in turning out a fabric which will make the lingerie frock of last season look rather commonplace, no matter what its elaboration of embroidery and lace trimming. Last season's lingerie waist, with all its charm, will have to give place before the new white fabrics embroidered delicately in colors. The pink and blue slips which lent color to last season's frock will now be more or less recognized as passe unless worn under a frock embroidered in colors. These gowns are the most charming summery creations it is possible to imagine. They come in robes with skirts having several founces all edged in colored scallops and decorated with embroidered dots in pale pink, pale blue, lavender, yellow and green.

The material is the finest white French nainsook or batiste and the embroidery, whether done by hand or machine, is of the most delicate and perfect workmanship. Some of the skirts are made to be suffed up to the waist, others have three or four founces so deep as to give the appearance of a cut skirt. The robes also come with paneled skirts, the panel going down the front and bordered on either side by a shallow founce which extends around the bottom of the skirt. There are also skirts without ruffles, these being so large in quantity as to make a very full skirt possible. The colored embroidery on these extends two-thirds of the way up the skirt.

These materials are all of French manufacture, and the embroidery is solid, no eyelet work appearing on the robes so far shown. The designs are almost all dots of different sizes and so grouped as to work out a design. Many of the skirts are trimmed with the buttonholed scallops and then with dots, which are large and close together at the bottom and gradually decrease both in size and number toward the upper part of the founce.

The material for the waists of these robe frocks usually comes in plain batiste, and there is a generous quantity of colored openwork insertion for the bodice. The openwork is intended for the upper part of the bodice and the sleeves. No lingerie frock or waist is now considered possible which does not have openwork for gumpes and sleeves.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

A pretty insertion can be made for any linen frock by embroidered large dots or French knots in the color of the gown on tulle lace, the linen tulle being preferable.

Little jackets of tinted lace or some light texture are to be worn with the most fascinating of the lingerie frocks, the lace matching the color of the material, with which it is strapped.

Far prettier than anything else in the bon line are the shaded tulle ruffles in neutral tone, layer upon layer of the gossamer material lying on the shoulders to a depth of six or eight inches, and holding in their wide plaitings a score of blended tones.

Buckles of oxidized silver play a part in the drapery of the veil and the new safety pins must here be mentioned. They are not so large as the willow golf cap pin, are made of bright silver with a repoussé pattern of frosted silver upon them, of gold of two colors or of gold and silver mixed. Bronzed pins are also very smart.

Cotton voiles make charmingly fresh-looking gowns, both in all white and in the striped patterns of delicate colors. Blue and white, pink and white and green and white are so decorative that they almost trim themselves. White frocks, with touches of delicate coloring in their finishes, are most used, but any becoming color is suitable for graduation gowns.

Baked Potatoes with Cheese.

Take six large potatoes and slice in moderately thin slices, place a layer in a baking dish, season with salt and pepper and dot with butter, cover with a layer of American cheese. Continue with potatoes, butter, cheese, etc., alternately. Then over all pour half cup of rich milk and place in brisk oven and bake until potatoes are soft. Serve hot in baking dish.

Might Have Been Worse.

Green—The measly cur called me all the names he could think of. Brown—Well, that wasn't so bad. Green—Oh, it wasn't, eh? Brown—No. It showed that his remarks were not the result of the thoughtlessness. —Chicago Daily News.

To Clean Straw Hats.

To clean straw hats make a solution of five per cent. citric acid and wash the hat with it. Use clear water for rinsing. The hat should be dried in the sun.

PAUL HAD HIS OWN IDEA.

Father's Explanation of Lightning Not Satisfactory to Him.

Little Paul was four years old when the western city in which he lived was swept one night by a terrible storm. Wind, thunder and lightning played havoc, and, while other members of the family were huddled in dark corners, Paul watched the illumination of the sky with great delight. The next morning at breakfast he asked his father what caused the streaks of fire across the sky, and his father, with great pains, essayed to explain. Paul listened attentively and apparently accepted what was told him, but when he found attention diverted from himself, he leaned over to his aunt, who sat beside him, and whispered: "It wasn't that, auntie. It was God scratching matches on the sky."

BABY'S ECZEMA GREW WORSE.

Hospitals and Doctors Could Not Relieve Him—But Cuticura Remedies a Speedy, Permanent Cure.

"Eczema appeared when our baby was three months old. We applied to several doctors and hospitals, each of which gave us something different every time, but nothing brought relief. At last, one of our friends recommended to us Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. A few days afterwards improvement could be noted. Since then we have used nothing but Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and now the baby is six months old and is quite cured. All that we used was one cake of Cuticura Soap and two boxes Cuticura Ointment, costing in all $1.25. C. F. Kara, 343 East 65th Street, New York, March 30, 1904."

And He Was Not German.

One of our third grade teachers noticed a little fellow the other day during a penmanship lesson who was evidently absorbed in his work and putting his whole soul into his efforts to make his results look like the teacher's copy upon the blackboard.

Thinking such devotion worthy of special reward she passed up the aisle to give him an encouraging pat upon the head and the regulation smile of approval. As she drew near she noticed that his lips were moving, and that with the completion of each letter he compared it with his copy and muttered audibly, "damit," "damit;" then screwed up his courage and his lips for a new attempt. The teacher passed on without distracting his mind from his work.—Journal of Education.

Czar as Composer of Music.

For the last 18 months the czar has been virtually a prisoner in one of his own palaces and in the intervals of state work he has sojourned himself with composing music and writing verse. His poetry is melodious and carefully polished and his music is melancholy and inspired by a spirit of fatalism. Some three years ago some of the czar's poems were published under the pseudonym of Olaf, with music by his cousin, the Grand Duke D'Assia, but he has himself set some of his verses to music with a considerable amount of taste and a real knowledge of harmony. Nicholas II. has a fine collection of violins, of which he is very proud.

Cannon May Break Record.

Of the congressmen who have served since the foundation of this government, more than 12,000 individuals, only 34 have served 20 years or more. The longest service was that of John H. Ketcham, of New York, who served 23 years, and was a member when he died. Mr. Cannon, who comes next, has served 22 years. Since he is elected to the next congress he will, if he lives to the end of his term, take the first place in the list of veterans.—Youth's Companion.

CHANGE IN FOOD

Works Wonders in Health.

It is worth knowing that a change in food can cure dyspepsia. "I deem it my duty to let you know how Grape-Nuts food has cured me of indigestion."

"I had been troubled with it for years, until last year my doctor recommended Grape-Nuts food to be used every morning. I followed instructions and now I am entirely well."

"The whole family like Grape-Nuts. We use four packages a week. You are welcome to use this testimonial as you see fit."

The reason this food was helped by the use of Grape-Nuts food, is that it is predigested by natural processes and therefore does not tax the stomach as the food she had been using; it also contains the elements required for building up the nervous system. If that part of the human body is in perfect working order, there can be no dyspepsia, for nervous energy represents the steam that drives the engine.

When the nervous system is run down, the machinery of the body works badly. Grape-Nuts food can be used by small children as well as adults. It is perfectly cooked, and ready for instant use.

DOES YOUR BACK ACHE?

Profit by the Experience of One Who Has Found Relief.

James R. Keeler, retired farmer, of Fenner St., Casenovia, N. Y., says: "About fifteen years ago I suffered with my back and kidneys. I doctored and used many remedies without getting relief. Beginning with Doan's Kidney Pills I found relief from the first box, and two boxes restored me to good, sound condition. My wife and many of my friends have used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results and I can earnestly recommend them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cured This Woman and Have Cured Many Hundreds of Other Cases of Common Ailments

Loss of appetite, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, heavy dull headache and a dull, sluggish feeling—these are the symptoms of stomach trouble. They indicate that the stomach is on a strike; that it is no longer furnishing to the blood the full quota of nourishment that the body demands, hence every organ suffers.

There are two methods of treatment, the old one by which the stomach is humored by the use of predigested foods and artificial ferments, and the new one by which the stomach is toned up to do the work which nature intended of it. A recent cure by the tonic treatment is that of Mrs. Mary Stackpole, of 81 Liberty street, Lowell, Mass. She says:

"I suffered constantly for years from stomach trouble and terrible backaches and was confined to my bed the greater part of three years. I was under the care of our family physician most of the time, but did not seem to get better."

"I was completely run-down and was not able to do my work about the house. My blood was impure and my complexion pale. I suffered from flashes of heat, followed suddenly by chills. I had awful headaches, which lasted from three to four days. I could get but little rest at night, as my sleep was broken and fitful. As a result I lost several pounds in weight and became very nervous."

"I was in a wretched condition when I heard about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I started to take the pills at once and began to gain in weight and health. I was encouraged by this to keep on until I was cured. My friends and neighbors often remark what a changed woman I am and I owe it all to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

These wonderful pills are useful in a wide range of diseases such as anæmia, rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, nervous headaches, and even locomotor ataxia and partial paralysis. The great value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills lies in the fact that they actually make new blood and this carries health and strength to every portion of the body. The stomach is toned up, the nerves are strengthened, every organ stimulated to do its work.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Influence of the Politician's Wife.

It has often been asked how much influence the wife of a public man bears on his political career. This is hard to estimate; but this much is certain: The man who comes to Washington, either as a member of Congress or of some other branch of the government where his position is one of prominence, is very unfortunate if his wife is not one whom he can trust in making her way socially. Not necessarily being a great social success, but capable of mingling with the average woman at the national capital. For, in spite of the fact that a small percentage of society looks leniently upon the married couple who are seldom seen in public together, the average sound American believes in the comradeship of man and wife. But when we sum up this question of the influence of women in statecraft we pass the judgment that, on the whole, the influence of woman in statecraft is for good, says a writer in Home Magazine. Being impulsive, she is apt to make mistakes now and then which cause the more logical males to laugh at her; but as a rule she is pretty sure of her footing before she attempts to make the jump across the political stream that divides womankind from mankind.

Germs in Books.

The authorities of the city libraries in Berlin have been making some interesting experiments with the purpose of determining the hygienic conditions of books that have been used a great deal by the people. With the dirt gathered from such books, some of which was known to include tuberculous bacilli, experiments were made on guinea pigs. In the case of books used but two years, no result could be noticed, but the refuse collected from particularly soiled books, that had been in circulation from three to six years, did produce an effect. Attempts to destroy the bacilli by sterilization through formalin vapors failed; but the books themselves suffered to such an extent that many were practically spoiled. In view of this fact, the city authorities have decided to abstain from further disinfecting experiments. In conjunction with the city medical society and the police department, it has now been decided periodically to examine the public libraries and to destroy those books which have been used so much as to make them a danger to public health. Such books must be destroyed, not sold for old paper.

Alonzo H. Evans, Boston's oldest bank president, at 87, is robust and hearty, and shows by his own example the result of living the kind of life that he prescribes for the youth of today. Mr. Evans has the greatest confidence in the generation of the present and thinks if they follow his advice they will succeed. He says: "Apply yourself, young man, if you would succeed. Work hard, be honest, be truthful, be loyal to your employer, save something out of each week's pay, even if it is little, but above all, apply yourself."

At Krupp's, in Essen, an army of 10,000, fed with coal and iron from vast private mines, turn out engines of destruction by the thousand. There are another 12,000 men at Lord Armstrong's works in the north of England, besides an aggregate of 40,000 more in the titanic government forges of Great Britain, France, Germany, Austria, Italy, Japan and Russia, and these thousands are quite apart from armor plate makers and builders of battleships.

Twenty years ago the population of Oklahoma could be enumerated in Indians and a few thousand squaw men, cowboys and cattle kings. In 1890, one year after the first opening of Oklahoma territory, there were more than 60,000 people living on 2,000,000 acres of land. To-day the white population may conservatively be estimated at over 1,500,000.

In the newly organized province of Alberta, western Canada, bordering the foothills of the Rocky mountains, is the latest state of Zion. There 5,000 trokkers from Utah are farming and ranching, and incidentally building up a strong cause of Latter Day Saints in the dominion, as an integral part of the army of 200,000 that constitutes the sect the world over.

One of the favorite postal cards offered for sale to tourists by shopkeepers of Rouen, Normandy, shows a modern feminine compatriot of Joan of Arc dressed and posed to represent the great French heroine spinning in her thatched roofed cottage at Domremy.

Perfect Womanhood

The greatest menace to woman's permanent happiness in life is the suffering that comes from some derangement of the feminine organs. Many thousands of women have realized this too late to save their health, barely in time to save their lives.

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, should be a woman's constant study.

If a woman finds that her energies flagging, that she gets easily tired, dark shadows appear under her eyes, she has headache, headache, bearing-down sensations, nervousness, irregularities or the "blues," she should start at once to build-up her system by a tonic with specific powers, such as the great woman's remedy for woman's ills, made only of roots and herbs. It cures Female Complaints, such as Dragging Sensations, Weak Back, Falling and Displacements, Inflammation and Ulceration, and all Organic Diseases, and is invaluable in the Change of Life. It dissolves and Expels Tumors at an early stage. Subdues Faintness, Nervous Prostration, Exhaustion, and strengthens and tones the Stomach. Cures Headache, General Debility, Indigestion, and invigorates the whole female system. It is an excellent remedy for derangements of the Kidneys in either sex.

SUBSCRIPTION $100 PER YEAR.
IN ADVANCE.

Entered at the Postoffice at Portales, New Mexico, as second-class mail matter.

Conservative business men know, either through experience or hearsay or their sound judgment will tell them that competition (if not carried into price cutting), is the life of trade. They know it is not good for a community to be at the mercy of any one merchant or bank or newspaper office, lest any man, knowing he has no competitor may become indifferent to the interests of the town, may advance prices beyond reason and devote his time mainly to keeping out other men in the same line of business that he may continue in his monopoly. Therefore it is the plain duty of the merchants and others, for business reasons, if for no other, to divide their patronage among the old and new comer alike, for the new comer of to-day makes the old resident of to-morrow. In this respect the new proprietor of the Portales Herald is to be given a living share of your patronage in exchange for a good and enterprising newspaper, that he may settle among you and become a permanent resident.

An erroneous report, (or was it a misprint) has been going the rounds of the state press to the effect that the salary of the Portales postmaster, instead of being increased with the other masters of growing offices, had been reduced. This is a gross injustice to our city, for by the postoffice receipts the salary of the postmaster is fixed, and by these receipts also can one generally form a pretty correct idea of the financial condition of a town. Now the truth of the matter is that the Portales postoffice has done the largest business in its history this year, the salary of the postmaster has been increased from $1400 to $1600 and only missed being raised to $1700 by nineteen dollars and some odd cents in the matter of sales.

We are sorry to see the Times casting slurs on the Herald and its past managers, for it savors slightly of the policy of kicking the under dog. It is admitted that the Herald in the past has labored under a various load of indifferent, drunken and petticoat managers, but whatever else can be said of her no one can say the Herald has ever wavered in its support of the Grand Old Democratic Party, and never will so long as there is a type to set and a press to run. Some day a "newspaper man" will take hold of the Herald, will enlist the support of all true Democrats and get out such a paper as will make the Times, (which would like to drive out all competition and have the town at its mercy), sit up and take notice. Whether the writer is the one to do this, time alone will tell.

The frequency with which the President calls somebody a liar only proves his singular taste for spectacular vulgarity. Such exhibitions only show that he lacks self control which marks the truly great. One can hardly fancy "Old Hickory" calling a man a liar unless he "was in reach of his good right arm," as Gen. Thomas Harrison was wont to say. Some of these days one of these "liars" will forget the exalted office in the ordinary clay of the man and will give the President what the everyday man gives to another when he is called that unpleasant name without due provocation.

 At the next meeting of the Territorial Board of Education text book for public schools of New Mexico for a period of four years will be selected. That New Mexico is increasing in importance in educational affairs and is attracting attention throughout the country is well known and certain facts connected with the selection of school books point strongly in that direction. A large number of school book publishing firms will compete for the contract to furnish the text books. Indeed the number is larger and much larger than ever before in the history of the territory. The educational law passed by the recent Legislative assembly is being examined by educators and professional teachers throughout the country and many complimentary letters concerning it are being received by persons interested. Entered at the Postoffice at Portales, New Mexico, as second-class mail matter.

Conservative business men know, either through experience or hearsay or their sound judgment will tell them that competition (if not carried into price cutting), is the life of trade. They know it is not good for a community to be at the mercy of any one merchant or bank or newspaper office, lest any man, knowing he has no competitor may become indifferent to the interests of the town, may advance prices beyond reason and devote his time mainly to keeping out other men in the same line of business that he may continue in his monopoly. Therefore it is the plain duty of the merchants and others, for business reasons, if for no other, to divide their patronage among the old and new comer alike, for the new comer of to-day makes the old resident of to-morrow. In this respect the new proprietor of the Portales Herald, that he be given a living share of your patronage in exchange for a good and enterprising newspaper, that he may settle among you and become a permanent resident.

An erroneous report, (or was it a misprint) has been going the rounds of the state press to the effect that the salary of the Portales postmaster, instead of being increased with the other masters of growing offices, had been reduced. This is a gross injustice to our city, for by the postoffice receipts the salary of the postmaster is fixed, and by these receipts also can one generally form a pretty correct idea of the financial condition of a town. Now the truth of the matter is that the Portales postoffice has done the largest business in its history this year; the salary of the postmaster has been increased from $1400 to $1600 and only missed being raised to $1700 by nineteen dollars and some odd cents in the matter of sales.

We are sorry to see the Times casting slurs on the Herald and its past managers, for it savors slightly of the policy of kicking the under dog. It is admitted that the Herald in the past has labored under a various load of indifferent, drunken and petticoat managers, but whatever else can be said of her no one can say the Herald has ever wavered in its support of the Grand Old Democratic Party, and never will so long as there is a type to set and a press to run. Some day a "newspaper man" will take hold of the Herald, will enlist the support of all true Democrats and get out such a paper as will make the Times, (which would like to drive out all competition and have the town at its mercy), sit up and take notice. Whether the writer is the one to do this, time alone will tell.

The frequency with which the President calls somebody a liar only proves his singular taste for spectacular vulgarity. Such exhibitions only show that he lacks self control which marks the truly great. One can hardly fancy "Old Hickory" calling a man a liar unless he "was in reach of his good right arm," as Gen. Thomas Harrison was wont to say. Some of these days one of these "liars" will forget the exalted office in the ordinary clay of the man and will give the President what the everyday man gives to another when he is called that unpleasant name without due provocation.

At the next meeting of the Territorial Board of Education text book for public schools of New Mexico for a period of four years will be selected. That New Mexico is increasing in importance in educational affairs and is attracting attention thruout the country is well known and certain facts connected with the selection of school books point strongly in that direction. A large number of school book publishing firms will compete for the contract to furnish the text books. Indeed the number is larger and much larger than ever before in the history of the territory. The educational law passed by the recent Legislative assembly is being examined by educators and professional teachers thruout the country and many complimentary letters concerning it are being received by persons interested. New Mexico is pushing ahead in every possible direction and no mistake about it.—McKinley County Republican.

Handles President's Mail.

From stereograph, copyright, by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.
 William Loeb, secretary to the President, is one of the busiest men in the national capitol, having charge of the enormous correspondence of Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Loeb was a New York newspaper man before his appointment as the president's assistant. According to a recent rumor he will retire to accept the presidency of a large railway and electric concern.

A SEA OF ELECTRICITY.

MEANS BEING SOUGHT TO CURB STRAY WIRELESS VOLTS.

Fearing That Telegraph Station at Brooklyn Navy Yard Will Make Trouble in a Variety of Ways for Neighbors.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—A vast electrical sea will be formed in the environs of the new wireless telegraph station at the Brooklyn navy yard, when the apparatus is put into operation, receiving and transmitting messages. Anywhere from half a million to a million volts of electrical fluid will be let loose in the atmosphere and everything in the vicinity of the new augmented station that has any electrical affinity whatever for electricity will be recharged. When the old station was in operation, M. L. Newman, in charge of the electrical department of the local bureau of yards and docks, had a hard time keeping the electric lighting system in the neighborhood of the station in working order. The caprices of the electrical fluid often baffled his plans and many of the arc lights near the Sands street gates were burned out by the energy from the telegraph station.

Now that this energy is being doubled, Mr. Newman, and, in fact, the electricians of the department at Washington, are racking their brains in search of some means of curbing and confining the great refractory sea of electrical waves that will be formed when the new station is put into operation.

The Flushing avenue trolley line of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company skirts that corner of the navy yard in which is located the wireless station and Mr. Newman fears that unless some method of proper insula-

GETS WATCH AFTER YEARS.

Civil War Veteran Recovers Timepiece Left with Woman in 1862.

Denver, Col.—Seeking the aid of two representatives to find the owner of a watch which was lost in the civil war, A. C. Kogle, of Denver, has at last been successful, and Capt. Charles Alfred Edmonds, a veteran of the war, will soon get back the precious timepiece.

At the battle of South Battle mountain in Maryland in 1862 Capt. Edmonds was wounded. He was taken to the home of Mr. Kogle's sister in Middletown, Md. Capt. Edmonds gave his watch to the woman to keep for him, and after recovering enough to travel was sent home. He forgot his watch and long ago gave up any hope of ever seeing it.

When Mr. Kogle wrote to the Michigan congressman, asking for aid in finding the captain, they had the letter published in the newspapers of Michigan, and Capt. Edmonds soon got a clipping sent by an old friend in Coldwater, Mich. Mr. Kogle is expected to return to Denver soon, and then the treasured old timepiece will be returned to its owner.

Harmless Duels Fad in Paris.

Paris.—Pistol duelling clubs are the latest fad of French sporting clubs. When Dr. Devillers last year introduced the harmless bullet to Parisians it immediately "caught on." Now there are several clubs, and a tournament is being arranged this month in the Tuilleries Gardens. Madrid and Berlin seem likely to follow suit. The Devillers bullet can be used in any pistol. It carries wonderfully well. The duellists wear masks and gauntlets, but otherwise the conditions are those of the real duel.

Baden's Physique on Wane.

Berlin.—Curious statistics were gleaned in southern Baden in the recent enrollment of recruits. In the Lindau and Allgan districts out of 604 young men liable to service only 20 were found to be up to the physical standard of the military authorities. The peasantry of those districts were at one time among the most robust in the empire, but owing to the dearth of meat and milk their physique has sunk to a dangerously low level.

tion is devised, the energy from the station will seriously affect the operation of trolley cars. When the thousands of volts are released upon the wings of the air, many of them are expected to rush straightway to the trolley wires and trolley poles, to the old cannon decorations of the gate, and even to the bayonets and metallic insignia on the hats of the marine guard stationed at the gate. These volts will hover about these attractive cents like bees in a swarm. Each and every minute electron will be striving to reach the earth and to return to the generators in the power house by the path of least resistance, such as a metallic gas pipe, or a conduit or a trolley wire.

Last summer at times when atmosphere was surcharged with natural electricity, as well as with manufactured energy from the wireless station, the marine guard at the Sands street gate were perceptibly affected by the fluid. They absorbed it into their systems so that their hair stood out on end. The metallic insignia on their caps was tarnished and whenever they came in contact with or even near an old cannon or a trolley pole there was a snapping sound as of electricity rushing from their sheathed bayonets to the trolley pole or cannon.

The trolley wire on Navy street will be freighted with the electrical fluid this summer. And when a trolley car comes along there may be brilliant displays of electrical flame. The switch in the top of the forward platform of the car may slam back; there may be disturbances in the car motors. It is to ward off contingencies of this kind that Newman and the other electricians of the department are adding their pates for ideas.

MAKES COPPER IN LABORATORY.

English Chemist Discovers New Method of Producing the Metal.

Baltimore.—Dr. Ira Remsen, president of Johns Hopkins university, is authority for the statement that Sir William Ramsay, a famous chemist of Cambridge university, has discovered the method of making artificial copper, and the great discovery will be made known to science when Sir William will read a paper on the subject before the Royal Chemical society of Great Britain.

Prof. Remsen, who is prominent as a chemist, has a private letter from the famous Englishman stating that Sir William has succeeded in accomplishing the production of copper by the synthetic or combining process from the elements, sodium, lithium and potassium.

A combination of these elements treated with radium vapor, gives as a product copper sulphate, which is readily broken down into copper.

The Salmon Industry.

The salmon industry is easily the largest in the north Pacific coast country; thousands of persons are annually employed in catching and preparing the fish for market. The product is sent over the entire world. The accompanying picture shows a portion of the salmon fishing fleet at Steveston, British Columbia.

Has Only One Bricklayer.

Lone Student in School Founded by Andrew Carnegie.

Pittsburg, Pa.—The School of Bricklaying, intended to be one of the most important departments of the great $10,000,000 technical schools which Andrew Carnegie founded here, has one scholar. The daily routine which the future knight of the trowel goes through and the staff of instructors maintained solely for him is causing much comment.

When Mr. Carnegie founded the technical schools he insisted that the departments first opened must be those for the purpose of teaching young men to become expert artisans. Bricklaying looked as if it might be popular here, and the school of bricklaying was the first in commission. While other departments were quickly filled up with scholars the bricklaying game didn't seem to appeal to Pittsburg's young men, but finally one student applied.

After passing the necessary examination Daniel Chisholm was enrolled and began his studies at the school after paying his fee of $20 a year. To teach prospective bricklayers there had been engaged by the school a professor at a salary of $15 a day and an expert bricklayer, who receives six dollars, or the union wage.

When Lieut. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, who already has been virtually placed on the inactive list, shall be retired by the operation of law within the next 18 months, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood will be the ranking officer of the army for 16 years, barring accidents. He is now the senior major general and will not reach the age of retirement until 1924.

DUELS IN GERMANY.

MORE THAN 3,000 CONTESTS DURING YEAR OF 1906.

Nuisance Knows No Bounds in Universities in That Country—Students Slightly Injured About Face Try to Retain Scars.

Berlin.—Baroness Von Eschlinger, young and romantic, was courted by a student in the University of Luebingen, but before consenting to be his wife she exacted as a condition that prior to the wedding day he must fight a duel and get a scarred face.

Among the students in the German universities the duelling nuisance knows no bounds and is increasing at such a rate that alarm has begun to be felt by the university authorities, but the difficulty of distinguishing between duels carried out as sport and those in satisfaction of honor is very great. It is computed that in 1906 more than 3,000 duels were fought. Students only slightly wounded in the face take care to rub vinegar or some other irritant into the wound that the scar may retain a fine, bright red color. There is nothing the ordinary student is prouder of than these facial adornments.

A number of German aristocrats, with Prince Lowenstein and Count Erbach at their head, have resolved to begin a systematic agitation against duelling among university students and in the army. They are promised the support of two of the most influential of the rulers of Germany, the king of Saxony and the grand duke of South Germany.

Although recent edicts of Emperor William have done much to stop duelling in the army, it is well known that the practice still flourishes and that the newspapers mention only a very small proportion of the duels which actually are fought. The emperor's real opinion of duelling has often been discussed. Officially he is opposed to it and more than once has issued a decree against it, but the impression prevails that in his heart he approves of it as a manly and knightly way of settling points of honor among soldiers, especially where the honor of an officer's wife or daughter is concerned. With a word the emperor could stop the practice, but this word he has not yet uttered.

The empress is a stern opponent of duelling from the point of view of religion, and her hatred of it is shared by every Roman Catholic ruler in Germany.

ODD DROUGHT FOR A TOWN.

Grant, Mich., Will Go Dry Till Some One Builds Hotel.

Grant, Mich.—At a special meeting of the Grant village council the following resolution was adopted by a vote of 5 to 1:

"Resolved, That we, the council of the village of Grant, Newaygo county, Mich., do declare that we will hereafter approve of no saloon bonds within the corporate limits of said village of Grant, except when the proposed saloon business is to be connected with a hotel, as hotel bar, such hotel to be constructed of brick, stone or other substantial material, other than a frame building, and steam heated.

"Provided, that whenever any responsible party or person shall own, in fee simple, a suitable location within said village, and shall contract for the erection thereon of a suitable hotel building, to be erected within three months of the date of said contract, of sufficient proportions, then we, the said village council, will immediately grant a license for a saloon, to be conducted in connection with a hotel.

"Provided, further, that a copy of the contract, giving specifications for the building proposed to be erected, shall be filed with the clerk of said village council."

Grant has long ago outgrown her hotel service, every day from one to ten persons being unable to obtain accommodations. This condition has so interfered with the welfare of the town that the council has said "to the first man who contracts to give us ample care for our growing hotel business we will immediately grant a liquor license. Until such time, we go dry."

As Grant, with her numerous little industries and a genuine building boom now on, is a splendid location for a first-class hotel, it is probable that the field will not be open ten days.

Make Clothes from Paper.

Washington.—Correspondence between Consul W. J. Pike, of Zittau, and the president of the chamber of commerce of that German city reveals that there is a firm in South Germany which makes paper clothing. Just who wears these garments is not divulged. Following is an extract from the letter to Consul Pike.

"In our district, so far as we are informed, yarns of woolen and cotton, mixed with paper, are not produced. If such is the case in other parts of Saxony we are not aware of the fact. From parties versed in this matter we learn that a material is spun, outside of Saxony, from a paper stuff obtained from wood and known as silvaine. The spinning of this silvaine yarn has up to the present only been done by a firm in South Germany. In Saxony the manufacture of such materials has never passed the trial stages.

The Mystery of Carneycroft

BY JOSEPH BROWN COOKE COPYRIGHT 1907 BY STORY-PRESS CORPORATION

"I told him of my experiences in the morning, taking care not to omit a single detail of what I had observed in my interview with either Carney or Bobbs. When I had finished he responded, with equal brevity:

"Well, what of it?"

"That's the way with MacArdel! He can be, and usually is, the most operating fellow that ever lived."

"What of it?" I exclaimed. "There's a good deal of it, I tell you! I want to know what this fellow is doing and what he is up to. If you had seen his sister and could understand, as I do, the desolation of her life, you'd be as anxious as I am to reform him."

"Woman in the case, of course," murmured MacArdel softly, taking a puff of smoke which he held in his mouth for a moment and then blew out slowly in a long thin cloud. "This is one of the most insulting things that a man can do, and MacArdel knows it perfectly well. I was inclined to knock him down, but I think much of him for that, so I merely

"No, Mac, don't be a fool, but try to listen to reason, if you can!"

"Impossible when you're talking," he observed softly.

"I ignored this and continued: "My interest in Miss Carney is that of a lover to client and I'm not in love with her or thinking of marrying her. In the first place, I've only seen her once or twice in my life, and in the second, the difference in our financial positions, to speak of nothing else, is quite enough to put out of the question any such idea on my part."

"Cat-look-king," said MacArdel, between puffs.

"I suppose you mean by that to indicate that a dog may look at a queen?" I replied testily, "but I tell you, man, it's all nonsense—utter nonsense."

"Looks bad, though!" said MacArdel, especially when a fellow compares himself to a dog, and the lady queen, and he touched the bell of the little table between us.

"What's that for?" I asked. "I've twenty of cigars here in my pocket."

"How chattrous," he replied. "I don't need it."

"Now, seriously, Mac!" I resumed. "Do you think of this man Carney as a virtual denial of any excesses?"

"I said MacArdel.

"Well," I went on, "what do you think of the servant's behavior in daily admitting the whole business and then turning about as he did at the last moment?"

"Other lie," he replied. "Do you think they are a pair of scoundrels?" I asked.

"I think they are unless the scoundrels can be explained in another way. But I'm not at all sure of it. It's merely the way things look

"I said, "you don't know as much as I do."

"That," he replied, "is the most unkind thing you ever said to me. I know things, my boy, that your philosophy never dreamed of. I have been thinking, while you have been talking, and, in spite of you, I have come to some purpose."

"In the first place, as I said a minute ago, I think the man is an ordinary drunkard and that this servant is in league with him to keep the facts from you and his family. I only think this because it is the most plausible explanation that offers itself to me. I am not sure of it by any means, and I want that distinctly understood."

"In the second place, you don't know anything about it at all, and yet, in your monumental assurance, you have the whole thing with the exception of one detail, and you have me, as a physician, to supply the link that necessary link in your chain of evidence. You think he is a victim of some drug habit and you want me to tell you, from his symptoms, what drug he is using. Isn't that what he blew out another of his smoking streamers of smoke?"

"I don't intend to admit sheepishly that I am wrong, and my good opinion of you is not to be blown away like the smoke of a pipe."

"Well," he continued, "the symptoms he presents could not be caused by opium, nor by cocaine, nor by hashish."

"Whisky is the most likely cause of all, and you have nothing but a couple of vague expressions of astonishment from him and his servant to go on. You search for any other solution of the problem."

"There is, however, one other thing that might be at the bottom of it all, but he could not get it here, and it would be pretty hard for him to get it anywhere. Moreover, I am not at all sure myself about it, and would have to look it up before I would venture to say anything definite on the subject."

"What is it?" I asked impatiently.

"Never mind what it is, for the present," he replied. "If I am wrong in my surmise you can safely put it down to whisky, and if I am right, you are no better off, though perhaps no worse. Now, I am not going to say anything more about it to-night."

"But in the meantime what am I to do with him?" I persisted. "I may see him again or be asked for advice concerning him at any time, you know."

"Leave him to Bobbs, Ware; leave him entirely to Bobbs and let him go his own way as he will," said MacArdel earnestly. "If it's whisky, the sooner he drinks himself to death the better, and if it's the only other thing it can be, Bobbs is a veritable God-send to him and to all of you, too. Whatever you do, leave him alone yourself, for you can't do him any good and you may get into a lot of trouble if you bother with him. Let's go down and play a game of billiards."

CHAPTER VI.

An Anonymous Letter.

The first lot of bills that I paid for the Carney establishment contained one for two dozen bottles of Scotch whisky which had been ordered by Mr. Carney and shipped by express to Carney-Croft on the day that he and Bobbs were in my office. I made no mention of this item to Miss Carney when I was going over the accounts with her, but paid it on the chance that it was correct. In this I was not mistaken, for, although I never saw John Carney again except for an instant, I did see the identical 24 bottles, empty, of course, in the cellar at Carney-Croft.

It was more than three years after the death of the old gentleman and the stable boy, and I had gone back to the place to arrange for its opening after it had been closed for the greater part of that time.

John Carney had remained at Carney-Croft only long enough to have a short visit with his sister and put to rights his own personal effects, and then, accompanied by Bobbs he had departed for a tour of the world or goodness knows where. I heard from either him or Bobbs at varying intervals, and on strictly business matters, and the only way I had of addressing him was through a banking house in London which was kept fairly well informed as to his whereabouts.

Miss Weston's health improved sufficiently to permit her traveling, and she continued to reside with Miss Carney, who took a furnished apartment in town, as her brother and I had advised her to do. Later they traveled considerably abroad, and finally settled down for a protracted stay at a little village on the Mediterranean coast, in the hope of benefiting the health of Miss Weston, who, as I afterward learned, was suffering from consumption.

As I have said, more than three years had passed when I received a most unexpected communication from Miss Carney saying that she had decided to return home at once, bringing Miss Weston with her. She asked me to have Carney-Croft made ready for occupancy with as little delay as possible.

I had had no vacation that summer,

"Want teh go daown teh th' place, I s'pose," he grumbled.

We rode along in silence until we reached the gates, when, as I was unlocking them with a key from the big bunch that I had brought with me, he unbent enough to say: "Don't look much like it aster, here!"

He was quite right. The grass stood knee high on the lawns, the road-beds and paths were choked with weeds, and the asphalted walks, leading from the front and sides of the mansion, and winding gracefully down under the trees to the river, were blanketed under the leaves and other accumulations of three long years.

The man waited until I had unlocked the front door, which swung inward with the stiffl creaking of disuse, and then asked: "D'ya want me teh wait?"

"Oh, no!" I replied. "Not at all."

"All right," he returned, clucking to his horse, "I'll tell Hoskins teh save a room fur ye, an' it hain't much of a walk frum here, anyhow."

"Hold on!" I shouted, as he was turning the corner. "Don't do anything of the sort! I'm going to sleep here to-night, if I can find any lights and manage to turn on the water. I don't want to sleep at Hoskins', unless I have to, but I'll be over there for breakfast in the morning."

His expression of amazement was wonderful to behold, as he pulled his horse down on its haunches to hear me through. Then, with a grin, he chuckled: "Wal, it's god-damned little sleepin' ye'll do, I'll warrant!" and he drove on up the road."

I wandered over the house, raising windows and opening shutters to let in the light and air and then, making a frugal lunch of some things I had purchased on the train for this purpose, I lighted a cigar and, drawing a chair out on the veranda, I watched the sunset far away over the river and waited for bed-time.

I had no doubt that my rustic friend's astonishment at my determination to sleep in the house was founded upon the twaddle over ghosts that was begun in the village three years before, and I rather welcomed this idea, for I felt that the more prevalent it became the less likelihood would there be of undestorable prowlers about the place.

The room I chose for the night was the one I had occupied on the occasion of my former visit and, after making up my bed in true bachelor fashion, with bedding which I had no trouble in finding, I locked the house securely and slept the sleep of the just.

I awoke suddenly, startled no doubt by a ray of sunlight gleaming fairly in my face, and, finding the day so far advanced, I sprang out of bed thoroughly refreshed by my sleep and exhilarated by the crisp morning air that was blowing in through the window. As I threw back the sheet something fell to the floor; picking it up, I found a small, square envelope addressed in a cramped and totally unfamiliar hand:

Frederick Ware, Esq.,
Carney-Croft.

I tore it open, and my astonishment at its discovery was increased ten fold by its contents. The note read:

"As you love Florence Carney and hope to make her your wife, keep her away from this place at any cost."

I read it over and over again until the letters fairly danced before my eyes, and then I suddenly awoke to the importance of finding, if possible, how it had been placed in my bed.

The window was open, to be sure, and had been open all night, but it was too far from the ground to have been reached without a ladder, and a later inspection of the ground beneath showed conclusively that no ladder had been placed under it. Moreover, the little tendrils of ivy that waved in the breeze all around the ash were absolutely uninjured, which could not have been the case if an entrance to the room had been effected in this way.

Something Wrong With Man

Scientist Points Out How His Life Is Much Too Short.

What is the matter with man? March Phillips points out that there is this peculiarity in the condition of man, as compared with the other mammalia, that his life is shorter now than by analogy it ought to be. In other animals the period of growth is about one-tenth to one-fifteenth of the whole life. The lion, which is full grown at five, lives for 70 or 80 years. The dog, full grown at 18 months, is as old at 15 as a man at 80. Man, living as long as the lion, is not full grown till 30. The same proportion would give man from 320 to 400 years. Thus his physical life is not in this respect the normal life. It is cut exceedingly short, and its brevity points to some primal failure of vigor—to the presence of some nonnatural—that is, some diseased—condition sapping his vitality. Prof. Virchow notes that if we gather together the whole sum of the fossil men hitherto known and put them parallel with those of the present time we decidedly can pronounce there are among living men a much greater number of individuals who show relatively inferior type than among the fossils known of to this time.

SELF-FEEDER FOR HOGS.

Arrangement by Which the Work is Much Simplified.

I have a plan for making a self-feeder for hogs which I think is different from anything that has as yet appeared, says a correspondent of Prairie Farmer. It has a capacity of 250 bushels of shelled corn, 70 bushels of oats, and is just right to feed one car load of hogs. I think that this self-feeder is one of the most profitable conveniences on my farm.

As shown in fig. 1 there are two divisions, one being for shelled corn and the other for oats. Twelve spaces on each side are made for the corn and four on each side for the oats. Each The Back-Board, spaces whether for corn or oats is 11 inches wide in the clear, 22 inches high and 18 inches deep.

At the end of each one of these stalls is a space exactly three inches high, for pouring grain, to feed down into the stall. As shown in fig. 2, a six-inch board is placed a few inches back of the opening so as to prevent the corn and oats from getting out and under the feet of the hogs.

In fig. 3 there is shown a front view of this self-feeder with the stalls arranged for the hogs. As already suggested, similar stalls are made on the rear side.

By this method I wish to say most emphatically that hogs cannot and do not waste any feed. They feed quietly and profitably, but I do not recommend that any feeder attempt to use a self-feeder of this kind with mixed grade hogs. Arrange to feed an even car load and I believe that it is more important that they should be even in size.

I have found that hogs fed in this way will make money fast and easy. It is important, however, to keep good oats at one end and good shelled corn

Fig. 2.—One Side of Self-Feeder.

At the other and you can safely count on getting one pound of pork for every five pounds of grain fed. Providing you put this little building up properly any intelligent farmer can make a structure of this kind for $40, and will save him a great deal of labor to feed.

Here is another strong advantage in a feeder of this kind. If you have some of that corned-to-death land, plant to clover and then pull this self-feeder when empty to the place where you want the land built up. Next fall when the corn is gathered from this land you will find, if your experience agrees with mine, that where you had your feeder you have your best corn.

I do not have any hogs get sick when starting them on feed. We prefer starting pigs to feed when they weigh about 150 pounds.

SHEEP NOTES.

Do not hurry sheep through doors and gates so that they will crowd and get hurt.

Sheep should not be caught by clutching handfuls of their wool, as this injures the fleece, to say nothing of giving pain to the sheep. Catch them always as if they had no wool.

This is the time of year when you will need the best feed, for as the warmer weather comes the appetite is not so keen, and they will also need a more succulent feed at this time.

When a lamb stands with its back bent up in the shape of a rainbow, you had better look after it. It is not doing well, for some reason. Perhaps the mother does not have enough to eat; or it may be the food of the ewe is not nourishing enough.

A little more attention would not hurt the streets here in time of heavy rains. When the town is incorporated some kind of drainage should be inaugurated which would do away with the unsightly puddles that at present form in Main Street and impede traffic, both pedestrian and equestrian. The absence of the puddles would help greatly the looks of the town.
