Fresh Air

Toung Catterburt groaned. Then he shuddered as he regarded the frost on the windows. For he was about to plunge out into the biting cold.

It is usually a girl who rouses a young man to deeds heroic or foolish and it was a particularly pretty, fluffy girl named Ethel who was responsible for young Catterburt's risking his peace of mind, to say nothing of his life, out among the pneumonia germs in the freezing air.

If Ethel had been the sort of girl who is content to make magazine cover pictures of herself before a blazing log fire, or if she had loved to preside over steamy chafing dishes young Catterburt would have been extremely chappy in her company. But Ethel had a mania for outdoor exercise. Appar ently she never remained in the house if she could create an excuse to get out, and young Catterburt, being her constant shadow, had to go along. He didn't dare not to go, for fear some of his rivals would spring in and usurp his place. This winter Ethel had led him merry pace. He had not dreamed when he became acquainted with her in the summer than she was going to turn out to be that kind, for she had seemed particularly fragile and clinging. The things she could not invent now to do out of doors could have been recited in half a minute. Sunday afternoons when young Catterburt would drop in for a comfortable call Ethel would greet him with energy. "I'm so glad you've come." she would say. 'Isn't it the most perfect day for a walk! I'm simply dy-y-ing to get out. Don't take off your coat, for I'l have my things on in a jiffy!

Then she would make young Catter burt tramp nine or eleven miles with a thousand stinging needles of cold fabbing into his agonized countenance and his feet growing so numb that he knew he would have to excuse himse!f the instant he got back to her door and say, "Beg pardon-I'll be back just as soon as I get my toes amputated." She would lead him to the arctic shores of the lake and ask him if it didnt' look lovely, while gallons of icy breeze sneaked down his collar If he asked her to go to the theater The would beg him to take her skat ing instead. Skating as an amusement appealed to young Catterburt as a very special kind of progressive insanity.

This particular evening another skating expedition was on the carpet Young Catterburt's face was so cold when he reached Ethel's that he couldn't talk. He didn't want to talk.

couldn't talk. He didn't want to talk, anyhow, for he was feeling consider ably abused and harried by fate Ethel, so bundled in furs that she looked like an Eskimo, was full of gay chatter. It added to his resentment.

Finally even she bent her head to the bitter night wind and plodded on in silence, which was broken only by the clang of their swinging skates.

Suddenly Ethel halted. She got around back of young Catterburt, much as though he were an inanimate windbreak, and made queer little noises. They sounded like frozen Whas zhu matter?" Chatterburt got out. He couldn't force hds numb lips open far enough really to talk.

"O-o-oh!" Ethel wept. "It's simply horrid of you! It's all your fault! It's no way to treat a girl! It's brutal—making me go outdoors-in w-w-weather like th-th-this!"

"I—make you!" Catterburt stattered, aghast. "You were d-d-dying to go!"
"I'll prob-prob'ly die, all right," Ethel told him indignantly, "but it's your fault! You said once you l-l-liked athletic, outdoor girls—and I've been one all winter, and I hate it, and I simply won't any more, and I don't care if I never sessee you again!
O-o-oh! My eye-lashes are all fr-fr-frozen togeth-gether!"

"Ethel," young Catterburt chattered wildly, "I f-f-feel now that I can love you madly. After we get somewhere and drink about two quarts of hot coffee apiece I'm g-g-going to t-t-tell you ab-b-bout it!"—Chicago Daily

Santa Fe, Oct, 18.-A raise of $19. 277,147 in the total assessed valuation of the state for 1913 over 1912 is the net result of the work of the assessor and the state board of equalization according to figures made public this week at the office of the traveling auditor. The board completed its work about a week ago, but it was not until this week that the corrections were all made on the tax rolls, and the totals again figured up.

The tax valuation of New Mexico for 1913, according to the corrected figures is $91,734,601. It is figured on a basis of one-third of full value. The totals are taken from the assessment rolls of the various counties before the state board of equalization had passed on them was $84,086,518 for 1913. The 1912 assessment after the appeals had all been decided by the state board was $72,457,454,

The total raises by the state board equalization amounted to $9-233,-673, while the reductions made by the board totalled $1,585,590, or a net raise on the taxable valuation of the state of $7,648,083.

Considered by counties, Colfax, sustains the greatest increase with Chaves second. Sierra county's as sessment was tampered with the least, with but comparatively small raises being made also in Otero, Dona Ana and Torrance counties.

The Colfax county assessment as returned by the assessor totalled $6,-271,620. The state board increased this by $3,359,183; and made decreases totaling $47,333, making the final taxable valuation of the county $9,583,-470, or more than $1,800,000 more than Chaves county, which has the second highest assessed valuation.

Most of the raise in Colfax county is borne by the undeveloped coal land Eleven big holders of unimproved coal land returned a total of 757,872 acres as grazing land, assessed at sixty cents an acre, full value $1 80 an acre. As grazing land this gave these acres a full value of $1,334,070, and at one third of full value a taxable value of $454,090. The board held that this land was unimproved coal land and fixed its value at $12.00 an acre full value, or $4.00 an acre for assessment purposes. This raised the full value of the 757,872 acres to $9,114,-550. Deducting the full value returned by the owners, this made a raise in full valuation of $7,750,479, or a value in taxable values of $2,583,493. Adding this raise in taxable value to the values at which the land was originally returned for taxation, the owners of these 700,000 acres and more are asked to pay taxes on a valuation of $3,038,183, instead of $454. 690, the figures fixed by the Colfax county assessor. The members of the board claim to have figures of government geologists giving the value of the coal lands of Colfax county as over $250,000,000, in poor crops, they said, had put them comparison with which figures set by the state board of equalization ap pear very mild and reasonable. However, in comparison with what has always been paid in this county, the raise is stupendous. It is freely predicted that the taxes on this valuation will never be collected without a long legal fight, the contention being made that there is a vast difference between a deposit of commercial coal and a deposit of low grade coal that for various reasons may not be marketable. It is further contested that the only real test of this land as coal land would be extensive tests by a diamond

The owners of the 757,872 acres of land returned as grazing land by the owners, and raised to unimproved coal land by the board are as follows, according to the Colfax county rolls: The Yankee Fuel company; the Wooten Land and Fuel company; W. H. Bartlett; Cherokee & Pittsburg Coal and Mining company; Maxwell and Grant company; Northeastern Coal company; New Mexico-Colorado Coal and Mining company; Dawson Fuel company; Stage Canyon Fuel company; St. Louis, Rocky Mountain

The other principal raise was made in Chaves county, where the assessor's figures of $6,611,079 are raised to $7,-733,700, with increase totaling but

In explaining the raise in the as sessed valuation of the state from $84,000,000 to $91,000,000, as a result of the meetings of the state board of equalization, the former figure being the total taken from the tax rolls of the various counties, and the latter being the total after the state board had completed its work, the detailed increases in the various classes may be interest of the taxpayers of the

In some ten classes the raise was uniform in all counties and in four classes raises ranging from 10 to 30 per cent were made in the different counties. In the following classes of property as listed for taxation the board made a uniform raise in every county, with a few exceptions which are noted in the minutes of the board, the raise being figured on the assessment made by the county assessor, and expresse as a percentage of that figure: Carriages, 20 per cent. Automobiles, 50 per cent. All other property, 50 per cent. Saddles and harness, 20 per cent. Merchandise stocks, 10 per cent. Saloons and fixtures, 20 per cent. Watches and clocks, 50 per cent.

THE WATER-SUPPLY OF

The responsibility for diseases due to polluted water is so often put on the water-supplies of our large cities that the conditions in American rural districts are usually thought of, if not actually pictured in the public mind, as almost ideal. Naturally enough, farms which are remote from areas of congested population seem to be ideally situated for obtaining wholesome water. In reality, however, deplorably insanitary conditions as regards the farm water-supplies prevail widely, if we may believe state and national government reports.

A large proportion of farm watersupply in the less hilly portions of the country where springs are not abundant comes from shallow wells, which are particularly subject to contamination. Deep wells are safer, but are not entirely free from danger of pollution. The chemist of the Canada Experiment Farms, Dr. Frank T. Shutt, concludes from an examination of several thousand samples of water used on farm homesteads in Canada that "probably not more than onethird of them are pure and wholesome." Investigations made by the Bureau of Plant Industry, in coopera tion with the Minesota State Board of Health, showed that of seventy-nine carefully selected and typical farm water-supplies in Minnesota, mainly well waters, twenty were good and fifty-nine were polluted, usually because of careless or ignorant management, and generally as a result of poor location or lack of protection mate here in Eastern New Mexico of against surface wash or inflitration. any place in the world." Up to and inclusive of August 31, 1913, the cash receipts of the Panama-Pacific Internation Exposition Company amounted to more than $6,000, 000,00. The expenses to that date amounted to less than $5,000,000, and investment expenditures to $467,581,16 leaving a cash balance on hand of $1,279,234.64. The actual present available assets of the exposition company aggregate $11,978,811.50. More than 6,000 applications have been received for amusement and other concessions at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915. One hundred accepted to date involve a total expenditure of about $7,000,000.00. More than 7,000 people will be employed in the concessions district, and the total amount to be invested in amusements in 1915 will probably aggregate $12,000,000. Among the most important concessions will be "The Grand Canyon of the Colorado," working model of the Panama Canal; naval sub-marines in operation; "Creation." based on the first chapter of Genesis; "Toyland;" a reproduction of the famous city of Nuremburg, Germany; "Fire and Sword" or the fall of Adrianople; an ice palace; "Forty-Niners' Camp;" "Mohammed's Mountain," a Chinese City, and others . . .

More organizations and societies have decided to hold congresses and conventions at San Francisco in 1915 than at any other exposition at a corresponding time before its opening. Up to October 13, 1913, 175 such conventions and congresses had been ar-

Exhibits at the Panama-Pacific International may have their exhibits delivered right on the grounds from car or ship. The exposition has its own freight ferry slip, which may be entered by car floats, bearing the cars with exhibits. The cars may then be taken to the desired building over the rails of the exposition's standard gauge railway system. The exposition has also its own harbor and docks, where vessels from all parts of the world may moor and discharge cargoes. No trans-shipment will be necessary from time of first loading on car or ship,

Some idea of the immensity of the Palace of Machinery at the Panama Pacific International Exposition may be gathered from the fact that while it is a wooden building, the largest in the world, it will require 1,500 tons of hardware in its construction, such as nails, boits, joint plates, and the On October 1st the building was eighty per cent completed.

The yacht harbor on the waterfront the Panam-Pacific International Exposition is about five acres in area and has such ample and convenient docking facilities that constwire steamers and other craft, sometimes six or seven at a time, use it daily, discharging building material.

The work of transplanting trees from the nurseries to the Panama Pacific International Exposition ground has been commenced. The first to be planted were some acacias, pines and sypress, which were put in the large grassy park on the esplanade of the Marina, abreast of the Palace of Mines and Metallurgy. The work of trans-planting will be prosecuted actively The Panama-Pacific Exposition fire apparatus, to be installed soon in the nearly completed fire houses, will be of the latest motor driven pattern. The personnel will be composed of trained, experienced firemen,

A army of laborers is working transformation in the grounds of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition and in view of the progress that is being made in the construction of the exhibition palaces, it is certain that the buildings will be completed several months in advance of the opening of the great fair. One of the most interesting pieces of construc tion work now going on is in Machinery Hall. The huge structure is cross ed each way by a series of lofty naves 125 feet high while the height of the 126 feet high while the neight of the building from the boor to the roof is building from the boor to the roof is look feet. Hostesses now wear their hats at leacheons, calling is out of the leacheons. An Indiana girl a few days ago went up in a balloon and gave a plano recital 3,000 feet above the earth. And this, in our opinion, is a good place to hold all plano recitals.

The ornamentation is being placed on the exterior of Machinery Hall. It consists in a cement like their own luncheons, calling is out of date, letter writting is obsciete, spelling is different, reading is different, and Republican parties. Wrong, Tedital plano recitals.

CINDERS.

"I've got a cinder in my eye!" How frequently we hear this expression in the street, especially when the air is filled with dust and smoke, or anywhere beneath the network of elevated tracks. While this may seem a trival mishap, and often is if the foreign substance is immediately removed from the eye, yet it is often a most serious thing, and the public at large little realizes that a seemingly unimportant accident of this sort may result in serious and permanent impairment of vision. The membrane covering the eyeball is a very delicate structure, and when even a tiny speck of any foreign matter lodges on it it quickly becomes imbedded. The irritation thus set up causes the person to wink the eye frequently, and each time the lid closes, rubbing against the particle, it tends to imbed it still farther into the membrane. The efforts of sympathizing triends to remove the offending speck with a handkerchief or a wooden toothpick, instead of helping the situation, usually results in making a bad matter worse, from the damage thus done to the tissue. Infection is then easily carried deeper into the tissue. Infection is then easily carwill require about $12,000,000 more to ried deeper into the tissue. Infection is then easily carried deeper into the tissue, and an ulcer results. If the process reaches this stage, even if the cause should be completely removed, it would perhaps be too late to prevent a scar after the ulcer heals. It might be so faint as to hardly distinguishable, yet if it is sit-uated just in front of the pupil, as very frequently happens, the vision of that eye would be seriously and perhaps permanently impaired.

The public should understand the seriousness of such occurrences, and public spirit should be aroused to the point of insisting on municipal regulation, eliminating smoke and dust as far as possible from city streets. Having the streets washed every night, as is done in many of the European cities, instead of having them swept during the day, and prohibiting the burning of soft coal within the city limits, would go along way toward remedying this evil.

"Is the paper read?" No doubt each editor asks himself this question There is one sure way to find out Just publish semething that some one doesn't like and you will find out that it is read. An editor may use columns of his paper in boosting his city or country; he may say nice com plimentary things about every citizen and nine times out of ten he will hear nothing from it. GOOD ROADS PREVENT DISEASE.

Few persons, on first thought, would see any possible connection be tween good roads and good health. Yet the State Board of Health of Kansas says that good roads can and will prevent disease. How? By the removal of weeds and trash. Weeds and trash prevent the prompt evaporation of moisture and promote retention of ground water. This makes ideal breeding spots for mosquitoes, flies and other insects, which are known as disease carriers, not to mention chinch bugs, hoppers and other insects which are crop damagers. Furthermore, and undergrowth of weeds invites the dumping of garbage and manure by offering concealment, of which fact careless and thoughtless people are prone to take advantage, thus increasing the facility of insect breeding and providing these insect carriers with proper maerial for disease transmission. Good oads also prevent disease by providng good drainage. Many farms have no means of drainage by ditches along roadways. Open ditches, clear of brush and debris, with hardened surface and proper fall, afford these farms the opportunity of ridding themselves of many a stagnat pool. The removal of weeds, proper road grading, surface hardening and oiling, insures prompt drainage of all pool, ditch and surface water, removing the possibility of insect breeders, for none can multiply without moisture. Road oiling in itself is destructrive of insect larvae, especially mosquitoes—a well known fact. Dry roads offer pedistrians, and notably children who are compelled to walk to and from scho l, dry shoes and feet. While colds are due to specific germs, yet it is a wellknown fact that cold, wet and chilled limbs lower the resistance of individuals and make them more favorabel subjects for infections of the respiratory passages including pneumonia and tuberculosis Good roads prevent disease by setting an example to adjoining farm prem ises. Good roads promote travel and set an example to the farmer whose premises are bordered by them. The comparison of a well-graded, clean highway with an unkempt and trashy barnyard adjoining is sufficient to stimulate every land owner to a clean up. Pride compels him to offer to passers-by a neat-appearing and at tractive house and barnyard. Results re only too obvious. Good roads are active disease prevention agencies. aside from their financial and com mercial value.

Ever since we reached the age of inderstanding we have been was very necessary if human beings wished to conserve their health. But ow a couple of Chicago scientists me along and say that this is all a yth, and that we have been harbor ng a delusion for many years. Fresh ir is not necessary. Yes, Percy, you're ight; they are connected with the niversity of Chicago, from which in stitution of learning more fool ideas are pr fullgated than any other place on earth. We would suggest to the professors, however, that if they want to obtain some reliable data as to the effects of pure against impure air they should live for a few months on he banks of the Chicago river and reathe the unsay ry fumes from that stream. DEMONSTRATION TRAIN COMING

That the lectures, demonstrations and general work of the Santa Fe's Educational Special," which is to be in Portales from 8 to 9:45 o'clock in the forenoon Thursday, November 13, will be of special worth to the people of this city and section, there cannot be a question of doubt.

The equipment of the train consisting primarily of nine cars, will be loaded with special regard to their vorth of their contents. Nothing has been placed in the train for the sake of simply making up the cargo, but each and every piece of the furniture and demostrational apparatus has a meaning all its own." Standing in a class distictive and al ne, this "Educational Special" comes to Portales with a showing of of seasonable lectures never equalled in this section of the state. It is prob able that nothing of exactly the same character, has been offered by a railread in the southwest. The chief charm of this train is that everything brought the people of Portales and surrounding country has the elements of treshness and at the same time of absolute dependability.

To miss this train at its stop in Portales is to deny ourselves some thing of exceptional value. Both men and women will find an especial appeal in work to be shown. The home is to be given the same expert consideration as the farm operations, and this will prove quite attractive to the ladies of this country and community.

It is to be hoped that the people of the community as a whole will turn out and show appreciation of the ef forte that the Santa Fe is putting forth to bring to us without money and with out price One of the strongest possible ways in which this interest may be evidenced, is by attendance at the meeting.

WHERE DUTY CALLS. BE NEVER WANTING

Willard Holmes was the only son of one of those old aristocratic famllies in the State of Virginia. During his early boyhood life, he possessed no higher merits than his fellow associates. But, as he grow older, the influence of his political father and the earnest teachings of a fond Christian mother, planted in his young life the seeds of a noble character. These early influences were to have a strong power over his later life.

At the age of nineteen he was graduated with high honors from High School in his native town. Then, after having completed a four years university course in which his principal study was law, he was admitted to the bar. He proved an able lawyer became prominent in his practice.
