There is a constitutional amendment coming up for the November 4th vote that would authorize an agency to advertise the State of Texas and all its industry and tourist attractions.

We are amazed that such a proposal could ever be taken seriously. In the first place, if there's anything this state is short on, it's tourist attractions. There's some flat country up here, some scrub oak and pine south of here and a lot of water in the Gulf of Mexico, but all in all, we don't have much to offer in the way of breath-taking scenery. And nobody from Birmingham is going to come this far to see the industrial sights of Texas.

We're not knocking our state, you understand. A Texan, even an unimaginative Texan, can appreciate thousands of beautiful sights through-out the state, because it's his state, he knows the history and he's always looking for something good. But to an easterner, Palo Duro Canyon would be just something to look at one moment and forget about the next; Padre Island would be just a bunch of sand dunes out in the Gulf; Longhorn Caverns would be just a hole in the ground and Big Bend National Park would be just a lot of dirty hills.

Tourists are thrilled today only by grandeur and colors and mountains. Colorado and New Mexico are overrun with tourists. They're good for the cafe, motel and service station business, but for everyone else they're just a pain in the neck. We've always suspected that people in Colorado felt like they were in a show window when the tourist season started. They are prone to get a wistful view of other Americans as just a bunch of gaudily-dressed impatient, and lazy people because that's the way many of us act on vacation.

In short, why is everyone trying to change this state into a tourist and industrial mecca? We like the state the way it is, so far as the tourist and industry situation is concerned at any rate.

Another reason why it is ridiculous to pay out hard-earned money to advertise Texas over the rest of the nation, is that we have a built-in advertising system that is free and unfailing. We're referring to all of us when we leave this state. For some reason there is a strong compulsion to ridicule the state in which we're visiting and build up Texas proportionately. Next time you're returning home from an out-of-state visit, just count up the times you announced loudly where you were from and the times you bragged or said something about your state.

It's funny how people from other states listen when someone starts talking about Texas. This was especially true in the service where men from this state happily propagated the bragging tradition.

We remember one night in Korea, when we were lying on our cot studying the top of the tent. A friend of ours, with the unlikely name of Pavlo K. Perik, came over, sat down on a box and asked, "Whattsamatta, Nelson, thinkin' about Texas?" Whereupon he burst into peals of laughter at his own private interpretation of his monumental joke. "Yeah," we told him, "I'm thinking about what this last break in the cattle prices is goin' to do to my income this year—looks like I'm goin' to lose my shirt on that 50,000 head I had the boys buy last spring!" This was sarcasm and a blatant insult to our friend's slight amount of intelligence. The odd thing was, though, he BELIEVED us! He thought all Texans were rich and when we saw what beautiful virgin territory this guy was, we couldn't help telling about our oil wells, Rolls-Royces, airplanes and assorted ranches. It wasn't five minutes until our bunk was ringed with people from the east listening with wide-open eyes and dumb-founded expressions to our wild tales. Although not particularly adverse to good clean lying, we thought after a bit that the joke had gone far enough and made up a few tales so incredible that no one could possibly believe them, so our friends would know we had been pulling their legs all the time.

But it didn't work. They believed everything we said. The decades of tall Texas tales and bragging had laid the groundwork and this gullible audience for a moment could forget their drab surroundings and live in a never-never land of wealth color and fine things.

Not long ago this same thing happened on a national level. Novelist Edna Ferber wrote a book called "The Giant" and captivated a nation with her fairy tales of rich Texas millionaires.

People want to listen to these stories. They want to believe and Texans are willing to tell. Maybe it's gone too far and we would like to stop and back up but it's too late. Still the state wants to

Election Approves Changes

Castro County voters gave a resounding 6-to-1 approval Tuesday to a proposition levying a special 30-cent tax on $100 evaluations of private property and a 4-to-1 approval of the proposition separating the offices of Tax Assessor-Collector and County Sheriff.

Voting totals were 233 to 39 in favor of the 30-cent tax levy and 205-58 for the separation of the two offices.

Turnout was between 10 and 15 percent of the voters. Approval of the 30-cent levy measure means that the Commissioner's Court will lower property evaluation 17½ percent over the county permitting taxes to drop slightly over this year. This lower evaluation will mean that less money will be sent to the state treasury, since the state is limited to 42 cents per $100 evaluation in property. The difference in what was taken out of the county by the state this year and next will be about the amount gained by the county. The county taxpayers will save about $5,700 and the county will gain about $5,000 in revenue. The new county tax assessor-collector will be elected in the general election on November 4th. Since no way exists for putting candidate's names on the ballots, all voting for this office will be write-in.

The only man so far to make a formal announcement as candidate for the office of Tax Assessor-Collector is Kent Birdwell. Birdwell has operated the office for the past 12 years as deputy tax assessor-collector.

Bobcats vs. Chiefs First District Game

The Dimmitt Bobcats will have a rugged evening Friday when they take on the Friona Chiefs at Friona. This is the belief of all three Dimmitt coaches and past Friona games would appear to bear them out.

Friday night will be a red-letter occasion for the Bobcats because it will mark their first conference 1-AA game of the season. Dimmitt has defeated all but one team in its non-conference schedule. The Bobcats' only loss was to Abernathy, 12-6, a team considered as one of the best in Texas.

At present the Bobcats are suffering from a lack of depth. Coach J. D. Covington is short on experienced reserves—in fact, he could hold all of his really capable reserves in a potato sack. However, his is a chronic condition of football teams from Dimmitt High School, the smallest in the conference.

The Friona game is expected to be tough. Friona was defeated by Tulia, 21-18, last week, but Tulia has an outstanding team, which is considered a strong contender for the conference crown. Both Friona's tie with Muleshoe and Tulia defeat were played without the services of two of Friona's best backs who will be playing against Dimmitt.

Dimmitt is currently rated by Amarillo sportswriters as the number three class AA team in the Panhandle. Their rugged play has held their opposition to 18 points while the Bobcats have been busily grinding out 124 tallies.

Game time is 8 p.m. Friday night at Friona.

Store at Hart Suffers Damage From Explosion

Two separate explosions, only seconds apart, caused some $2,000 damage to Hill's General Store and injured a Mexican youth employed by the store about 3 p.m. Tuesday.

The explosion knocked the youth from his feet while he was trying to stop butane spurring from a container which apparently had been overfilled.

Hoses on a 50-gallon butane tank broke under pressure and spurted the fuel into a small house beside the store. An air compressor running inside the building used for tire repair, apparently triggered the blast.

Homer Hill, owner of the store, said the building, which was joined to the store proper, was demolished. The fuel continued to spurt into the wreckage and a second blast scattered merchandise inside the store and caused the ceiling to collapse, although the roof remained intact.

The youngster was injured while attempting to bring the broken hoses under control.

Following the first explosion, the youth's father ran to aid his son and was knocked sprawling by the second blast. Both were rushed to Olton for treatment and dismissed.

Lt. Fulfer Completes Army Officer Training

Second Lt. Jesse K. Fulfer, whose wife, Peggy, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fulfer, live in Dimmitt, recently completed the officer leader course at the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga. Designed for officers who have not served with troops, the eight-week course instructed Lieutenant Fulfer in the duties and responsibilities of an infantry unit commander. The 21-year-old officer is a 1953 graduate of Dimmitt High School and a 1958 graduate of West Texas State College.

Judge Robert Estes Association Veep

Castro County Judge Robert Estes was named vice president of the Panhandle County Judges Association Wednesday.

Estes' nomination came at the meeting of the Association in Amarillo in which 28 counties were represented. He has been Castro County Judge for the past ten year and was recently re-elected to his post.

Judge W. D. Henson of Dallam County was named president of the Association, and Judge H. R. Slaughter of Ochiltree County, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Bonnie Haberer Uninjured In Accident

An accident in the Easter community at dusk Wednesday evening seriously damaged a 1957 Cadillac automobile and a truck.

The accident occurred when Mrs. Bonnie Haberer of the Easter community attempted to pass a truck which started a left turn before Mrs. Haberer could get around. Neither the truck driver nor Mrs. Haberer was reported injured. Mrs. Haberer, a sister-in-law of Roy Haberer of Dimmitt, is from the Pleasant Valley Community.

Daughter Born to Don Nelsons

Born Wednesday morning, October 22 to Pfc. and Mrs. Don Nelson at Augusta, Georgia, a little daughter. The little lady weighed 5 lbs. 14 ozs. and has been named Connie Lisabeth. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Nelson of Dimmitt and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Oldham of Lubbock.

Deputy Recovers Stolen Auto

A stolen car was recovered Friday night on 25-mile-avenue west of Dimmitt when deputy sheriff Garland Wheeler apprehended Lil Crawford of Lubbock in a 1957 Chevrolet.

Garland was making a routine patrol in that area for bootleggers and had apprehended one man when a car he was following turned off into a field. He drove on past, stopped and turned around as the car emerged again from the field. The car became stuck in an irrigation ditch and when Wheeler pulled up, the driver got out and ran off into the field. Wheeler chased the man down and brought him back to the car. It was then he found it had been stolen by the 50-year-old Crawford. The car had been equipped with New Mexico license plates and had a jumper wire on the ignition. Crawford, along with other members of his family, has a prison record. According to the Sheriff's Department, Crawford had come to Texas from California to see about helping his brother who was in jail at Muleshoe on a similar auto-theft charge.

Wheeler had also apprehended Fidel Fiarguez with 25 cases of beer on the pavement west of Dimmitt Friday night. Fiarguez was fined $127.15 in County Court.

Farmers to Vote On Cotton Plans

Farmers of Castro County will vote December 15 on marketing quotas for the 1959 cotton crop, Charlie Hill, Secretary of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee has announced. At least two-thirds of the farmers who vote nationally must approve the quotas if they are to be effective. All growers engaged in producing upland cotton in 1958 are eligible to cast ballots in the referendum.

The vote will decide more than one question about next year's cotton program, Hill explained. If quotas are approved, farm operators will have their choice between two programs of allotments and price supports—called Choice (A) and Choice (B). If quotas are disapproved only the regular allotment program will be in effect, and price supports to growers who comply with their regular allotments will be at 50 percent of parity.

The Choice (A) program will include the regular farm allotments and price support at not less than 80 percent of parity for 1959. Choice (B) will include farm allotments which are 40 percent larger than the "regular" allotments, and price support which is 15 percent of parity less than under Choice (A).

Every farmer will be informed of both the Choice (A) and Choice (B) allotment farm in advance of the referendum. Sometime later, when price supports have been announced for the 1959 upland cotton crop, a deadline will be set by which farm operators must register their choice at the County ASC Office.

Under a quota program, a farmer who exceeds his chosen allotment will be subject to marketing quota penalties amounting to 50 percent of parity as of June 15, 1959 on the excess production. In addition, none of the upland cotton produced on the farm will be eligible for price support.

Allotments will be in effect whether or not growers approve quotas, but the outcome of the vote will determine the kind of allotment program available.

County Gins Hit 7,733 Bale Mark By Tuesday Night

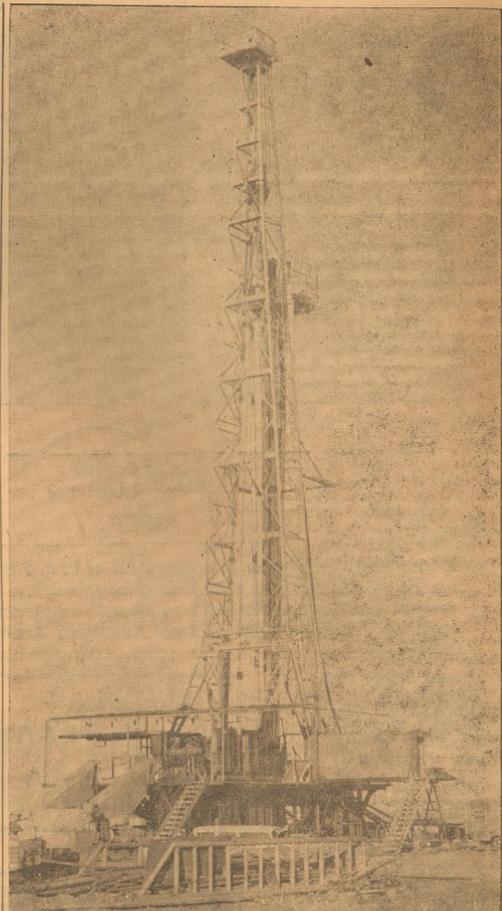

Castro County gins had cranked out 7,733 bales of cotton by late Tuesday evening according to a report received here Wednesday. This means production is climbing and virtually doubling every week. Week before last 1,435 bales were ginned and this week 3,453 bales were cranked out. Main production is expected to come after the first frost, probably sometime next week. There has been considerable difficulty in obtaining field hands to pick cotton but mechanical strippers can be used after the freezing weather starts.

News Begins New Feature

The Castro County News is inaugurating a series of new cartoons this week promoting trading at home. The News is undertaking the publication of these cartoons during the next year in the belief that the best interests of all Castro County citizens will be served in the future if as many buying dollars as possible are left in local stores where they will be recirculated in the county. A case in point: A dollar spent here may help purchase a band uniform, buy a few bricks for a church, buy a few fare, or may be used for many inches of paving, be given to welfare purposes for the community good. A dollar spent in a larger town stays there and will never again benefit the spender in any way. This is one of the many reasons the management of the News decided to incorporate the new feature.

As of Tuesday the well had reached a point about 2,000 feet below the surface. It is being drilled by Skelly Oil Company and will go into pre-Cambrian formations some 10,000 feet down. —Ayers Photo

Local Farm Bureau To Meet Monday

The annual meeting of the local Farm Bureau will be held Monday, October 27, 1958 at 8:00 p.m. in the District Court Room. Purpose of the meeting will be to discuss accomplishments of the past year, the election of 8 directors for the coming year, and for the adoption of resolutions. The Resolutions Committee composed of P. P. Robb, Fred Bruegel, Bruce Fields, Roy Pyeatt and F. Collins have held meetings the past five weeks, working on proposed resolutions to be presented. Other resolutions may be presented at the meeting. All members have been urged to come to the meeting, and all other farmers in the country are welcome.

Church Youth to Stage CROP Drive Sunday

Young peoples organizations of two local churches will spearhead a drive beginning Sunday for Christian Rural Overseas Relief, better known by the initials of CROP. Essentially a religion-sponsored drive, CROP seeks to collect food-stuffs for the destitute and starving in other lands. While grain and other commodities are collected, persons wishing to donate money will be told that their donations will go to purchase grain from government surplus. For every dollar CROP spends buying this surplus grain, the federal government will match it with $36 worth of free surplus grain. In this way, both the needy people are fed overseas and the national grain surplus is whittled down. Chairman of the drive in Dimmitt is Edwin Ramey, vice chairman is Jack Summers; secretary is Bill Birdwell; treasurer is Mrs. Faye Kenmore, and publicity director is Mrs. Myrtle Shetty. The Methodist Youth Fellowship and Baptist Training Union will both knock on Dimmitt doors between 4:30 and 6 p.m. Sunday in an effort to collect dollars for CROP. Since 1947, CROP has sent overseas to some 50 nations food that amounted to $22 million. The drive is endorsed by leading farm organizations and citizens' groups as a community appeal of churches for food relief for hungry people of the world. CROP solicits farm grown staple food supplies which are then distributed by missionaries and church agencies in other lands to hungry and destitute people. Greatest need in 1958 is among Arab refugees in the Near East and among refugees in Hong Kong. It is figured that two-thirds of the population of the world is underfed.

television channels for this purpose, only 56 educational stations are today serving an area of more than 50 million people, from Massachusetts to California, and from Minnesota to Texas.

The failure to use these reserved channels is not the result of lack of interest. Numerous problems must be met in activating the channels, and it has been necessary in most local situations to organize different segments of the community—civic, cultural and educational—to bring about operation of these educational stations. In many cases the problems of fund-raising resulted in long delays.

The big problem facing American educators who would certainly like to utilize television for educational purposes is the lack of funds to pay for the basic installation of the television facilities and stations. Experience has demonstrated that once a television station has been built, state legislatures, local educational systems, and local communities at large have raised funds to produce the programs over these stations. Outstanding program service has been provided in many communities with relatively limited funds. The one main problem, then, is to secure the basic funds to build the station in the first place.

Remarkable progress has been made in establishing the stations now operating and current experimentation reveals unlimited potentialities for the future of educational television. A division of the Ford Foundation—the Fund for Advancement of Education—has instituted a nationwide course on television in conjunction with one of the networks which, as many of you know, is being televised in the Panhandle. This course deals with nuclear physics and has, I understand, the benefit of some of the best teaching talent available on the subject. In Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, educational television commenced last month on the elementary school level and some 30,000 pupils in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades now attend television science class twice a week right in their own classrooms.

Colleges, secondary schools, communities and organizations of every kind all over the United States are realizing, and beginning to take advantage of the great use which can be made of this medium. I believe it is a good new step and one which will bring inestimable benefits to our society.

SCANNING THE NEWS

SPURRED by the need to boost their volume of sales to pay fixed costs and family living expenses with lower farm prices, farmers have succeeded, by working longer hours, increasing use of fertilizer and through other means, in boosting farm production so that 1958 may set an all-time high record. This seems apparent in spite of serious drought in large sections of the west and sharp reductions of acreage for crops under marketing quotas.

Although Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has not at this writing called a meeting of the Annual Outlook Conference in which the nation's leading farm economists gather to predict the year ahead for agriculture, the agricultural picture ahead is not bright. It will be remembered that this annual conference formerly held in October, was postponed by Secretary Benson after the 1954 election when depressing predictions were made.

In spite of this postponement these facts have been revealed by the Department of Agriculture: Farm prices dropped two points, or 1% in the month ending October 15, the fourth month in a row that farm prices have dropped; farm costs set an all-time high record for October; the farmers share of the consumers retail food dollar is down to about 40c as compared to 47c in 1952, and the Department predicts it will drop further in 1957; and the parity ratio is at 82%, or the same as in October 1955.

The Wall Street Journal, in a staff report on price and production trends affecting industry, has this to say of the Agriculture picture ahead:

"Federal experts predict total 1958 farm production will set a record at 113% of the 1947-49 average. That would edge the old high of 112% hit last year. Production of livestock and livestock products is expected to climb to a record 125% of the base period, 2% over last year. Hog slaughter is due to rise 5%, cattle 4%. Livestock bounty will offset a tiny dip in crop volume. While output of cotton, tobacco, hay and peanuts may fall short of last year, corn and wheat prospects are up 4% and soybeans a thumping 27%. This year, under federal curbs, farmers planted only 850 million acres, the smallest since 1941. For drought and other reasons they won't harvest crops on 20-million-plus acres. But fields in non-drought areas are thriving. And fertilizer, irrigation, insecticides and other tools of modern agriculture have helped to bring huge per-acre yields from land that is harvested. This year's average crop yield per acre shapes up to equal the 1948 record and 3% greater than the pre-war 1935-39 average."

The indications are that this year's emergency subsidy on the soil bank program will give way to a flat and non-remunerative effort to reduce farm production in an effort to reduce surpluses. There will be no publicity about it, but the administration, unless Congress rules otherwise, will not continue a subsidy for over-production or inefficient family-type farm operation. The best farmers can expect is farm income not far from the 1954 level. And that is based on the present level of continued prosperity of all other phases of the nation's economy.

EDUCATIONAL TV

All over the country steps are being taken in various forms to implement the medium of television for educational purposes. This is, I believe, a grand significant move forward and is certainly a wonderful use of the medium. Educational television is gaining prominence and growing for two primary reasons—the almost unlimited audience which can utilize a television classroom, and the growing realization of the people of an ever-increasing need for a broader education.

The television industry has advanced to the stature of a giant in a shorter time than any other comparable new facet of our economy on the American scene throughout history. The possibilities of its utilization for disseminating education have been recognized for a long time, but the actual establishment of specific television classrooms has met with considerable obstacles, prime of which have been the financing of construction and maintenance facilities. Unlike commercial television, few were able or willing to foot the bill for educational television.

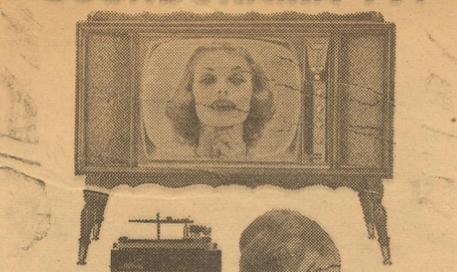

When the Federal Communication Commission issued the original television allocations plan in 1952, it set aside 242 (256 today) television channels for the exclusive use of non-commercial, educational stations. Today 12.7 percent of the VHF channels and 11.3 percent of the UHF channels are reserved for non-commercial, educational purposes. Of these, 18 are reserved for Texas, one of which is for Amarillo, and one for Lubbock. In the six years since FCC reserved approximately 12 percent of all

SALES of pistols and small-caliber rifles indicate that more and more Americans are discovering that shooting is fun!

Rifle clubs, tournaments, and turkey shoots are on the increase in many parts of the nation and hundreds of enthusiasts are talking to the woods and hillsides to "pink" away at homemade targets, tin cans and old bottles.

Shooting is fun, but the plain truth is that many fail to realize that it is also quite dangerous. Novices are seldom aware that a bullet will glance off a hard object and careen away, still full of dangerous power. They are prone to overlook the fact that a rifle bullet will travel much farther than the eye can see through trees and undergrowth.

Outdoor shooting should be carefully supervised and planned. Regardless of the target, it should be placed against a backdrop that is much larger and strong enough to completely stop the flight of the bullet. Firing away at trees, fenceposts and objects on open ground is both foolhardy and dangerous. Quite often a farmer will find that one of his livestock has died for no apparent reason. If he looks long and hard enough, he may find a small hole in the animal's hide undoubtedly caused by some careless "pinkster's" bullet. After this happens once or twice, the sound of a rifle anywhere in the vicinity will cause the farmer to stop whatever he is doing and investigate—and who can blame him?

Target shooting is fun. It's a pleasant spring and summer diversion. But it is a very dangerous pastime. If you like to follow this hobby, do it safely. Arrange a safe target area. Never shoot unless there is a solid object behind your target to stop the bullet and prevent it from going on to kill or injure some unsuspecting animal or human.

What it takes

INSULATION

No matter how your home is heated, good insulation will save you money — give greater heating comfort — provide more efficient summertime cooling. Ceilings should have 6 inches of non-settling insulation. Walls should have 3 1/2 inches—floors, 2 inches. A concrete floor should have 2 inches of insulation between it and the foundation. Windows are great to see through but they're guilty of tremendous heat loss and so they should be small or doubled-glassed — always weather-stripped. Ducts in a forced-air heating system should have a 2 inch coat of insulation.

DESIGN OF HEATING SYSTEM

A properly designed heating system is a must if you are to have enough heating plus the efficiency necessary for low-cost operation. The system must be sized to meet the heating demand of the building and its occupants. A too-small system won't do the job and a too-large system is wasteful of both the cost of the unit and of its operating cost. In a forced-air system the size of the ducts and the blower is important for correct air distribution. The placement and size of the ceiling louvers must be considered in getting enough heat to all areas of the room.

HOME DESIGN

For greater comfort and economy much can be done with the home itself. Cold, windy or hot exposures must be reckoned with. However, since cooling a building is usually more expensive than heating, air conditioning engineers recommend that home design offset hot, sunny exposures. One way of making the home cooler is to have extending roof overhangs to shade the exterior walls and windows. Other ways include designing the garage on the southwest corner of the house. Porches can be used to advantage, as well as adding beauty to the home. Shade trees on the sunny sides of the house are helpful.

QUALITY OF HEATING SYSTEM

You wouldn't build a home today and use wood-fired stoves for heating. You'd ask for the best heating system you can afford because you're looking for comfort and convenience. That's why, all over America, modern-thinking folk — architects, builders, home buyers are delighted with the comfort and convenience offered by electric home heating. There are 4 basic types of electric heating from which to choose: 1. Wall panels, 2. Ceiling cable, 3. Baseboard, and 4. Heat pump. The first three use no ducts and can be individually temperature-controlled in each room. The heat pump is an amazing new appliance that cools as well as heats. It is a forced-air system.

There's a new low electric heating rate now available. Your Public Service manager has the details — talk to him about it.

"The Inside Story of ELECTRIC CLIMATE CONTROL" — a new booklet that tells the facts about modern electric heating. If you're building or remodeling you'll want this booklet. Your Public Service manager has a copy for you.

WINTERTIME PRE-WATERING YIELDS QUALITY COTTON

The value of wintertime watering has long been known. Evaporation is only about 15% compared to a summertime loss of as much as 70%. But, most important, wintertime watering eliminates the dangers that can come from early freezes.

A case in point is the experience of J. T. Pinkston of Slaton, Texas. Mr. Pinkston practices wintertime pre-watering on his cotton land. Many grimly recall the early freeze of 1957 which lowered cotton quality to a price averaging 17c per pound. That year, Mr. Pinkston's cotton brought an average of 32c per pound.

Says Mr. Pinkston, "In that 1957 season, I did my last watering back in the month of May, consequently, when the freeze hit, my cotton was already matured and not loaded with watery sap. Out of my 45 acre cotton allotment, I made 46 bales. Only one bale graded as low as strict low middling; the other 45 graded strict middling."

"While it's not easy to water in the wintertime — sure, it's cold and sometimes nasty — the effort pays off in good cotton, which is really what we're all looking for," Mr. Pinkston concludes.

County agents are ready, willing and able to give additional information on wintertime watering for individual soil conditions. It will pay you to look into wintertime watering for your land.

SALLY KENT, R.N.

By Fran Pachter

"REPORT to third floor north," was Supervisor Cone's brusque order. "You'll be in full charge of the children's wing."

Sally attempted a protest but Miss Cone cut in abruptly saying, "Mrs. Kent, I give the orders here and expect them to be carried out. Your husband may be an important man on the staff, but I run my nurses." Dismissing her she appeared to disregard the stricken look on Sally's face. Upon Sally's leaving the office, Miss Cone picked up the phone and asked for Dr. Kent. Her voice lacked the brusqueness she had exhibited to Sally as she said, "Dr. Kent, I just gave your wife her assignment and it upset her dreadfully. I feel like a dog. Are you sure this is the right thing to do?"

His answer came forth clear and positive. "I've tried everything else. This has got to work."

Sally stood for a moment outside the closed door. Outwardly she appeared calm but her racing thoughts revealed her tension. I can't do it. I just can't. Didn't Miss Cone realize that the loss of her own child here in this very hospital still hurt? Of course no one knew that she had avoided all contact with children since then because she resented their good health and their being alive. Walking down the hall to her assigned ward she re-experienced the same type of gripping fear she had felt as a student nurse when she faced her first operation. She had to get hold of herself. This was much the same kind of test. The childish laughter coming from the ward filtered out to her and she prayed for courage.

The nurse in charge introduced her to the children, then turned and left. For a moment the chorus of little voices in greeting seemed to reach Sally from a far distance as she stood for a moment appraising the scene. Her last visit here had been as a visitor. Her eyes strayed to that far corner bed that had held her Donnie.

A new face looked at her replacing the familiar one she half expected to see. The youngster called to her. "Hi, Mrs. Kent. Remember me? See I've still got the toy you gave me." He held aloft a mechanical monkey and Sally felt her heart gripped in a tight fist as a suffocating feeling came over her. That toy she had brought to Donnie on that last day, but he'd never seen it. Donnie had been gone from the room before she arrived! That had been over three months ago and quickly came the thought: This poor little fellow has been here all that time! She quickly busied herself with the charts wondering as she did, where had she been those three months?

She put off approaching that bed until last hoping by so doing to master cheerfulness she didn't feel. The old bitterness held her fast along with that often asked question: why had Donnie been taken? Finally she found herself at the foot of the bed that had held her son. She stared at the chart with unseeing eyes until the lad's voice penetrated.

"Mrs. Kent, I'm sorry about your boy." The lad's words along with his clear blue eyes penetrated her pre-occupation bringing her back to the present. Suddenly the wording on the chart made sense.

Rheumatic Fever! How odd! The same disease that had struck down Donnie. From somewhere deep within her came a new found courage and a determination that this lad would not die. Somehow she'd spare some mother the agony she had endured. Life in that moment took on meaning for Sally. She rumbled his red curls and teased a smile to the small sober face. The grin she received in return lightened the heavy load she had been carrying. She offered up a silent prayer of thanks for the profession she had chosen. Sally Kent, R. N., had a job to do.

be furnished by the school band and a local quartet.

The evening meal will be served at the school cafeteria from 6:00 to 7:30.

Highlighting the homecoming activities will be the crowning of a queen picked from the ex-students. The candidates include Mrs. Ed Dawson (Norma Cleavinger), Mrs. Pat McCord (Gladys Barton) and Mrs. Robert Riley (Charlene Hamilton). The nominees names will be placed on a ballot and the queen will be elected by the entire association. Also on the ballot will appear the names of those who have been nominated to serve for the next two years as chairman of Publicity, Finance, Hospitality and Program. Ex-students will receive a ballot at the pre-game meal. The queen will be crowned by Association President, Kenneth Parrish during a most colorful half-time ceremony.

Following the game, ex-students are invited to return to the cafeteria for coffee and donuts.

CONTROL JOHNSON GRASS
(AND OTHER GRASSES)
CHEMICALLY . . .
WITH DOWPON

Unwanted grasses are usually the toughest problem where farming is best. They thrive on the very climate and soils that should produce top crops.

Now you can control grasses, without cutting, cultivating, or oiling. Dowpon, is the new chemical way to keep grasses from invading your fields, throttling irrigation and drainage ditches. Hoeing, chopping, cultivating, and oiling only get grass out of sight temporarily. Dowpon gets rid of it.

How DOWPON works

Dowpon is a systemic grass killer—meaning that it kills by working through the plant's system. You simply spray the foliage. Dowpon is absorbed through the leaves and works down through the plant, right into the roots, usually killing the entire plant.

Because it works inside the plant, a Dowpon spray is less likely to be affected by weather conditions. Rain can't wash it off after it has been absorbed.

You can use Dowpon with safety on your farm—foliage sprayed with Dowpon is non-hazardous to grazing livestock.

AFTER MOTHER'S DAY

YOU should be observing Mother's Day this second Sunday in May. The observance of the day should inspire you with new resolves because of the new assurance of Eternal Love over you. If you are today traveling along the road to yesterday, back to the place of your earliest recollections, may you linger in the sacred spot to think of the changeless Love that has blessed you and will through all the years, the love of Mother and the love of the Heavenly Father. Let the love of earth and the love of heaven teach you to love and to live by its power.

With the assurance of God's love around you and the sense of his care over you, face the day and all the days with hope and courage to meet the tasks and the trials to do and overcome. There is great need for faith in the Eternal Goodness in this time of stress and strain. When was the age so full of menace? If the printed page and the newscasters quite appall you, turn to the ancient page that tells you of a love that will bless you with strength for the day and with contentment when the shadows of the night enfold you.
