The Dimmitt Independent School District Food Service Department announces the sponsorship of the Summer Food Service program.

Meals will be provided at Richardson Elementary School, 708 W. Stinson, Dimmitt, from June 2 through June 30. Breakfast will be served from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. and lunch will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

People who are eligible to participate in the program must not be discriminated against because of race, color, national origin, sex, age, disability, religion or political belief.

With summer on the way, students will need a Verification of Enrollment (VOE) from high school in order to renew their permits or licenses. Students can get it before school is out and it will be good for the summer. Bring the VOE to the Dimmitt Drivers License Office in the court house Thursday or Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Those are the hours for the drivers' license bureau until further notice. If a student is turning 18 years old, he or she will not need the VOE.

Saturday, June 7, is the date that's been set for Dimmitt's 16th annual City-Wide Garage Sale, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Each year since its inception, more than 100 families have participated in the sale day by holding garage sales at the homes, or joining with friends or family members in multi-family sales. The charge for participating in the event and being listed on the directory is $10 per resident. Booth spaces are available for rent downtown for $35 each. Business card sized ads around the outer edges of the sale directory are available for $25. Contact the Dimmitt Chamber of Commerce, 115 W. Bedford St., or by calling 647-2524 for more information.

Honoring those who served

REMEMBERING OUR HEROES: VFW Post No. 8056 held a free breakfast on Memorial Day. After a patriotic program presented by County Judge Bill Sava, remembering "those who fought and those who didn't return," Ted Stubblefield and Jay Lee Touchstone raised the American Flag, while those in attendance saluted and finished with the National Anthem. Afterward, members went to the two cemeteries to put flags on graves of veterans, as Carl King, a World War II veteran of the Pacific Campaign, does above.

Young tells Court about OMNI system Would help raise revenue

By DAVIE A. BROWDER
Managing Editor

The Commissioners Court heard from Justice of the Peace Tana Young on Tuesday about a method of collecting outstanding warrants.

She told commissioners that the company, OMNI Base, would contract with the county to put all outstanding warrants on DPS records.

"We'd send in the names of those who didn't take care of their tickets and then they couldn't get their drivers license renewed," Young said. "With this system, New Mexico wouldn't issue licenses to anyone whose named is flagged."

The fee would be $30 per warrant collected, she said. The commissioners asked that they be given a copy of the contract to examine before deciding whether to enter into a contract with OMNI.

In other business, commissioners:

* Accepted an on-going Victim's Assistance Grant for $12,572.

* Unanimously agreed to allow Sheriff C.D. Fitzgerald to purchase new office chairs.

* Agreed that Precinct 4 Commissioner Dan Schmucker could purchase a 1973 Mack dump truck for $2,800.

* Set the first budget workshop for June 2.

Historical book set for publication

Castro County News will publish a hard-bound pictorial history book of the county.

The book, planned for release by Christmas 2003, will be a library-quality hard-bound collectors edition, featuring 96 pages of old photos and text depicting the history of Castro County.

"We feel Castro County is such a charming place, so rich in history, that people would love a historical keepsake like this," said editor and publisher Chris Bradford.

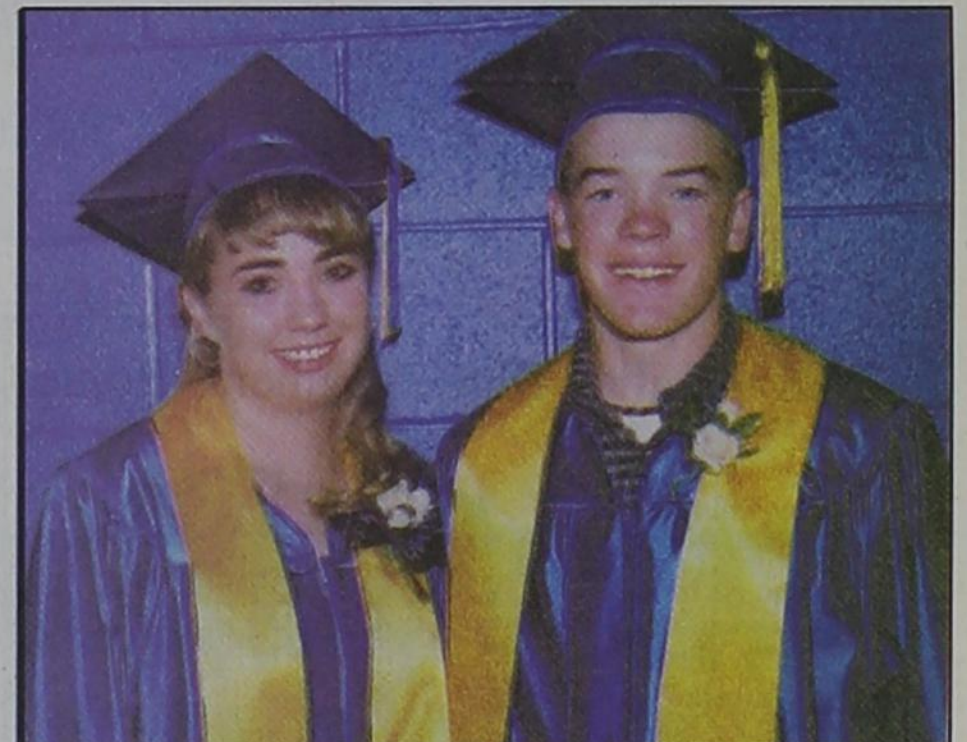

In addition to the standard hard-bound version, a limited edition, leather-bound, collectors version will be available. No more than 50 numbered copies of this leather-bound edition will be published. It will include a custom bookplate affixed to the inside cover, which will be hand numbered.

To reserve a copy of "A Pictorial History of Castro County," you may do so by sending or bringing in your order now. The standard version is $34.95 plus $2.88 tax per copy. The first 500 to order will receive a $10 discount, making your copy cost only $24.95 plus $2.06 tax. The limited edition will be $75 plus $6.19 tax.

viewed the resignation of Judith Hauf and Sandra Nelson.

In other action, the board: * Unanimously approved the offer to extend a one-year probationary teacher contract to Heather Birkenfeld.

* Unanimously approved awarding three $100 scholarships out of the NISD General Scholarship Fund.

Britni Williams, 13-year-old granddaughter of Billie and Emma Jean King of Sunnyside was a part of the cast of the Maciolek School of Dance recital "On Broadway Tonight." Emma Jean and Billie drove to Hobbs, N.M., to see her perform in this great production.

Britni was a part of two dance routines. The first was "Luck Be a Lady," from the production of "Guys and Dolls" and the second was "Boogie Shoes" from "Saturday Night Fever."

Some 21 cast members from this group have been selected to be a part of the Macy's Thanksgiving 2003 Parade. Britni is one of those who was chosen to go to New York City.

Won't it be fun to watch someone with Castro County roots dance down Broadway? Britni is the daughter of James and Margaret Francoeur and Otis and Pam Williams. She has studied tap and jazz dance for nine years and ballet for one.

Billie and Emma Jean visited in the home of Jim and Jo Ann King, their son and daughter-in-law, while they were in Hobbs. They have also been to their daughter-in-law, Kay King's graduation from the paramedic school at Texas Tech in Lubbock. Kay and her husband Marshall live in Littlefield.

Doris Flynt and her daughter Kim Lindsey Holland of Rockwall attended the graduation of Andrew Acker. He is the son of Arnold and Sharron Flynt Acker of Lake Kiowa. His bachelor of science degree is from the University of North Texas in Denton. He was in the School of Community Service. Prior to the graduation ceremonies, he was presented the UNT Community Award. This is usually a faculty member, not a student who receives this award. This recognition was for all of the services he has rendered during his pursuit of the degree. His dad Arnold is a 1965 DHS graduate and his mom Sharron graduated in 1969.

Other family members that attended the graduation ceremony and festivities are Jack and Elaine (Davis) Flynt of Lubbock; Karron and Steve Smith, who met their son Taron there. Taron, who graduated from Tech in 2002 with a degree in petroleum engineering is employed by Merit Energy in Dallas; and Linda (Davis), DHS class of 1965, and Glenn Johnson of Fort Worth.

After graduation, the group was invited out to Arnold and Sharron's new home on Lake Kiowa near Gainesville. There the guests were treated to a cookout, skiing, boating and other water sports.

Others who enjoyed the fun were church friends from Lewisville and Billy Holland, Kim's husband from Rockwall. Dimmitt's beloved Rosa Acker (Andrew's grandmother) was unable to attend. She is recuperating from surgery. Rosa, we wish you well. She now lives in Huntsville.

Jeff and Susan Lindsey and son Samuel also were a part of the graduation festivities. Susan was the vice-chairman of the score-keeping committee for the Byron Nelson Classic Golf Tournament in Dallas this year. Next year, she will be the chairman. Jeff didn't get to participate much this year because he was chief babysitter for Samuel, age 3 months. His relief sitter, Susan's boss, Lloyd Wolf, sat while Jeff escorted Susan to the Byron Nelson Classic benefit dinner and dance, which traditionally is held before the tournament to raise money for their charities.

Mickey and Darlene Waggoner of Cincinnati, Ohio, were here to be with his mother, Gertie Waggoner. (Mickey is a 1962 DHS graduate). They spent Mother's Day with Gertie's son Jim (DHS 1969) and his wife Judy in Lubbock. Patti Powers, a niece from Canyon, came over for a visit while they were here.

My roving reporter Sara Hill left these news tidbits in my door:

* Jane Vaughan celebrated her 49th birthday for the fourth time.

* Tommy Sue Nisbett's brother from Washington has been here for a visit with her recently.

* Becky Schroeder was here to help her mother Carol Lust at the flower shop with Mother's Day bouquets and deliveries.

* The Alan Steinles hosted a party after the prom Saturday night. I heard there was a pre-prom party at Sherri Kenworthy's home.

* Chip and Allie Thrasher have moved to Dimmitt. Chip was raised here and he and his wife have a baby boy, named Scout.

* Bobby and Wanda Murdock had a lovely cruise around the Mexico coast. This was from Mary Edna Hendrix's kid, because they have been the world's greatest next door neighbors to Mary Edna for many years.

* George Rasor represented Dimmitt at the State Track Meet in Austin, 2003.

* Jean and Larry Morris' daughter-in-law Courtney, wife of Scott Morris, graduated law school at Texas Tech in Lubbock.

* Mark and Elly Rogers had their moms over for Mother's Day. Elly cooked.

* Valery Gonzales, daughter of Ray and Robin, is a May college graduate. She's received several job offers! Good for her.

* David and Sherry Schaeffer took Ashley on a college tour recently. She's planning to go to Dallas Baptist at this point.

Hispanic Voice with Mary Lou Lumbrera 647-4266

Belle Lumbrera is a very strong little baby girl. Last Friday, she went to the doctor in Lubbock and got four baby shots, two in each leg. She did extremely well and only went "eh." You could tell it startled her. She didn't get feverish or anything so just for that, her Aunt Jane bought her a new outfit and a mobile for her crib!

The Aleman family had out-of-town family come to visit them on the 16th. They are Richard and Noemi Aleman Stanley and their brand new twins! The twins entered this world on the March 28. Their names are Mandy and Mindy. They have one older sister, Mallory and one brother Mason. They were given a big dinner (carne quisada) and Richard's favorite food, tamales. The had a great weekend and spent quality time with all the kids. It was a very special time, especially because Richard and Noemi are moving to Columbia, Ala., and they probably won't get to come as often. Their former residence was Cleburne.

Every now and then, we like to take time out and say thank you. A very special thank you goes out this week to Vera Prieto for all she's done to help a friend. Anonymous.

My little friend J'uane Triana plays T-ball for the Cardinals. He hit a home run last week! He sometimes plays third base, last week he played center field because of his strong arm! He is 6 years old and has two more brothers. They are J.J. and Mazie Triana. They play in the minor league for the Padres. J'uane has a birthday coming pretty soon and he will be a whole 7 years old. The Cardinals are coached by Rudy Monreal Jr. and Carlos Triana. J'uane, keep up the good work!

Gerald Barrios also played baseball this weekend here in Dimmitt. He is playing with the Braves too, only he plays on the Outsiders team. The Outsiders teams consist of area towns who form a team and play on their own. Some of the area teams in his league are: Turkey, Dumas, Plainview, Friona, Tulia, Amarillo, Lubbock. When they play in town, it's usually a doubleheader. Even though the Braves didn't win, the turnout they get is great. They usually have a lot of family, friends, fans that follow the team wherever it plays. Two years ago the Braves won the league finals. Pretty awesome guys.

Prayers are needed for

Texas Tech sets annual field tour

Texas Tech University is hosting its annual Sustainable Forage/Livestock/Crop Systems Research field tour and dinner at 5:30 p.m., June 17.

This is at the New Deal research center northeast of Lubbock. Most of the work featured on the program is Dr. Vivien Allen's group.

This includes comparisons of cotton vs. forages, work with old world bluestems (often under drip irrigation) such as WWB Dahl, water-use efficiency among forages (in spite of some of their conclusions it appears that sorghum/sudans or forage sorghums can produce much more tonnage per 1-inch of water), Bermuda grass variety trials, livestock grazing programs, etc.

Driving instructions: north of Lubbock take exit 14 and go east 6.4 miles on FM 1729, then turn south into the TTU research Center. Follow the signs.

Finishing the race is what really counts

A few weeks ago, I had the privilege of attending the kindergarten track meet at the football field. Each student competed in a number of different events that afternoon, but the one that really took hold of my attention was the 50-yard dash. As you can imagine, it was hot and the kids were getting tired and beginning to wear down by the time my son's class reached the 50-yard dash event.

One particular boy in one particular group got my attention during this event. This young kindergarten student was running just as hard as his little legs would allow him and yet that was obviously not fast enough as his competitors seemed to leave him behind. I watched the facial expression of this young boy change from being excited to being upset because it was clear that he wasn't going to win the race. I then found myself cheering for this boy in hopes that he would continue on until he crossed the finish line. I'm so proud of that boy because even though he didn't win the race, or even come in a close second, he still finished the race.

If you happen to win the race, that's great, but the main thing is that you finish the race.

When one gives his life to Christ by obeying the gospel (I Cor. 15:1-4) at baptism (Rom. 6:1-4) he begins the race to heaven. I don't know about you, but I truly believe that there is not another race on earth of this caliber.

There is not one award or check big enough to outweigh the reward of heaven. In our spiritual race to heaven, every faithful Christian runner who finishes the race will be awarded eternal life in heaven. There is no comparison - the spiritual race to heaven is the race to run.

Notice the words of the apostle Paul in his last letter just before his death. "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith. Now there is in store for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, will award me on that day - and not only to me, but also to all who have longed for his appearing." (II Tim. 4:7-8).

The key is not when and where you finish, but that you simply finish the race having remained faithful to the Lord. I must admit that I'm not the fastest runner, but I will finish the race, will you?

a thing, or if the purpose was noble or problematic.

The fact remains it was done.

By most accounts, it was also done well. Internet connections are now abundant, and where still lacking the fund has monies to make good on the original intent.

In the real world, the tax would go away.

But in the world of politics, it is a truism that taxes never die, government just finds new ways to spend the money.

But this goes beyond extending the reach of a tax; it is a violation of both legislative trust and existing law.

A commitment was made, in law, that the tax would be assessed until the certain amount had been collected. The commitment was further made, in law, that funds would be used for a particular purpose.

The telecommunications industry agreed to the tax and upheld its end of the bargain.

And it will be paid, in full. The rules of the game were clearly understood.

Too bad legislators now want to change those rules. When kids change the rules of their games, we call them poor sports.

When businesses change the rules on customers, we call it criminal.

Not always so with government.

Let the TIF tax be seen to its legal conclusion.

If legislators want a new source of revenue for a new program or initiative, then let them go back to the drawing board and begin again.

However, that may not be done here, probably because it is easier to extend an old tax than to get approval for a new one.

If the TIF tax is extended, the legislature will only prove again that politicians cannot be trusted to keep their word - even when set in law.

This TIF tax debate should be a reminder to us all: if old Texas taxes won't die, we must be exceedingly careful about implementing them in the first place.

Another reminder: unfortunately, when dealing with government, a deal isn't always a deal.

Persisting in praying

By The Rev. Doris Huckert

Then Jesus told His disciples ... that they should pray and not give up. Luke 18:1 In facing perseverance (steadfastness) or defeat, a great conqueror once told his friends. "Observe the ant. I once was forced to take shelter from my enemies in a dilapidated building, where I sat alone for many hours. Wishing to divert my mind from my hopeless situation, I fixed my eyes on an ant carrying a kernel of corn larger than itself up a high wall. I counted its attempts to accomplish this feat. The corn fell 69 times to the ground, but the insect persevered. The 70th time it reached the top. The ant's accomplishment gave me courage for the moment, and I never forgot the lesson."

The failure to persevere is the most common problem in prayer and intercession. It is like people who get into the habit of starting without ever finishing and who form the habit of failure. Those who begin praying about something without ever praying it through to a successful conclusion form the same habit in prayer. Giving up is admitting failure and defeat.

Colossians 4:2 "Continue earnestly in prayer, being vigilant in it with thanksgiving." Our vigilance in prayer brings answers for us to express our thanksgiving. A delay may be God's way of working His will in our lives. Always know that God is present, always listening, always answering - but it may not be in ways you had hoped, but in ways He knows are best.

As Jesus told His disciples, "Don't give up." As we persist in prayer we grow in character, faith and hope.

The Rev. Doris Huckert is the Hospice Chaplain Castro County Hospital District as well as at Dimmitt Nursing and Rehab.

North Gin Progress Report

North Gin is on it's way to becoming the most modern gin plant in the state of Texas. You can see that we are in the process of stacking the stick machines. The stick machines are the Consolidated Rescuer 5000. The stick machines are 10 foot wide and have five large 20 inch diameter saw cylinders. They are ideal for removal of large volumes of all types of trash with minimum fiber damage. Especially useful for removal of sticks which cause price discounts due to bark.

We are on schedule to complete the Gin well before the start of harvest this fall. Please come by to visit or to ask any questions.

D.R.E.A.M.S. presents checks to schools from box tops

The DREAMS Parent-Teachers Organization in Dimmitt received a check from General Mills Box Tops For Education in the amount of $316.25. The money was donated to each of the three DISD Campuses in the amount of $105.41. On Monday, DREAMS' officers, Vice Presidents Keith Smith and Donna Reinart, Treasurer Carla Schilling and Reporter Tami Cluck, presented a check to each of the three school principals during awards ceremonies.

Throughout the year, DREAMS collected, with help from the students, their families and the community, a total of 3,050 Boxtops. Each Box Top has a value of $0.10, which gave the Dimmitt schools a total of $305.00.

The PTO also received $3.25 from The Box Tops For Education Marketplace and $8.00 in Bonus Box Tops Earnings.

Lowes grocery receipts, totaling 275,861 points have also been collected throughout the year. Each campus chose equipment and supplies from a catalog provided by Lowes.

Richardson Elementary turned in a total 116,798 points and have has chose a Video Collection, a Wall Map, 11 die cuts for the die cut machine and a book.

Dimmitt Middle School chose a binding machine system, binding combs, binding workstation, paper shredder and a Laminator cabinet with their 133,169 points.

DREAMS is still and will be collecting Box Tops For Education and Campbells Soup Labels throughout the summer.

There are several boxes at local businesses around town serving as drop-off locations for these items.

However, Lowes receipts are no longer being collected.

DREAMS would like to thank everyone who helped us collect Box Tops, Lowes receipts and Campbells Soup Labels. Many teachers gave points for each receipt, label or boxtop collected. It is extremely satisfying when we work together to achieve our goals.

DREAMS did lose its president this year, however plans are being made to continue next year. This summer DREAMS will meet to elect new officers. The date on the meeting is still pending, so be sure to watch for an announcement in the Castro County News. DREAMS would like to continue to grow in Dimmitt one can be a member.

USDA extends conservation reserve program signup

Sign-up period for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) has been extended from May 30, June 13, announced Patricia A. Elliott, County Executive Director for the Castro County Farm Service Agency.

"Interest in the general CRP sign-up has been strong. This extension gives busy producers more time to enroll in this highly successful, environmentally beneficial program," said Elliott.

CRP is the nation's largest private lands environmental improvement program-it protects millions of acres of topsoil from erosion, provides valuable wildlife habitat and safeguards America's ground and surface water quality.

The 2002 Farm Bill authorized CRP enrollment up to 39.2 million acres. For fiscal year 2003, Castro County CRP participants have received $3,900,351 in rental payments as of May 2003, and approximately 103,567 acres are currently enrolled in the program.

CRP participants voluntarily remove environmentally sensitive land from agricultural production by entering into long-term contracts for 10 to 15 years. In exchange, they receive annual rental payments and a payment of up to 50 percent of the cost of establishing conservation practices.

Current participants with contracts expiring this fall-covering about 1.5 million acres-can make new contract offers, which, if accepted, will become effective on Oct. 1, 2003. All other contracts awarded under this sign-up will become effective either at the beginning of the next fiscal year, Oct. 1, 2003, or the following year, Oct. 1, 2004, whichever the producer chooses.

FSA will evaluate and rank eligible CRP offers using the Environmental Benefits Index (EBI), a ranking of environmental benefits to be gained from enrolling the land in CRP. Decisions on the EBI thresholds will be made by the Secretary after the sign-up ends and after FSA analyzes the EBI numbers of all the offers.

Those who would have met previous sign-up EBI thresholds are not guaranteed a contract under this sign-up.

"Producers who enroll acreage in CRP promote conservation and stewardship by protecting sensitive land for future generations and reduce production of surplus commodities.

"In return, producers receive needed income support through program payments and use of the land for recreational purposes," said Elliott.

Aside from the general sign-up, the CRP continuous sign-up program is available on an ongoing basis for private lands currently in production. FSA has reserved 2 million acres for the continuous sign-up program, which protects the most environmentally desirable and sensitive land.

FSA is making a special effort to help enhance wildlife habitats and air quality by earmarking 500,000 of these acres for hardwood tree planting.

Continuous sign-up for hardwood planting will start after the general sign-up. For more information on CRP, visit FSA's Web site at: <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/dafp/cepd/default.htm>

Swifts fall in regionals

Nazareth took one game from the Hamlin Pied Pipers on Saturday, but it wasn't enough to win the best-of-three regional semifinal series.

After losing the first game last Thursday, 3-9, the Swifts rallied to claim the win in Game #2 on Saturday, 3-2, in eight innings. Hamlin, which advanced deep into the playoffs in Class AA a year ago, capped the series with a 10-3 decision in the third game.

Errors plagued the Swifts in the series opener. Five of Hamlin's runs were unearned, and Nazareth had seven errors in the game. Nazareth hurler Adam Acker suffered his first loss of the season (4-1) as Hamlin hitters connected on a pair of home runs and doubles and a triple.

In the second game, Eric Schilling (5-3) limited Hamlin to four hits and two runs, and he struck out seven en route to his fifth win of the season.

Chase Schulte got the start in the third game and kept the Swifts within striking distance through six innings before Hamlin put the game away in the top of the seventh. Schulte dropped to 2-2 with the loss.

Hamlin's ace pitcher, John Barrera, picked up the victory in Games 1 and 3, and he suffered the loss in the second game after relieving his brother, Adrian, in the seventh inning. He was also the Pied Pipers' top hitter in the series, scoring a pair of triples and a home run while driving in six runs on his four hits.

Nazareth ended its season with a 12-7 mark while Hamlin advanced to the regional finals against Miles.

Nazareth 3, Hamlin 9

John Barrera allowed just one Swift base runner in the first four innings of last Thursday's series opener, and the Pied Piper offense supported him with eight runs during those innings. Nazareth managed just five hits in the game as Hamlin won, 9-3.

Two of Hamlin's runs came in the first inning when lead-off hitter Austin Steele and Adrian Barrera each singled, then scored on Josh Lain single and a Nazareth error.

In the bottom of the second inning, Nazareth retired the first two Hamlin hitters before Angel Montanez took an 0-2 pitch over the left field fence for a solo home run and a 3-0 Pied Piper lead.

With one out in the bottom of the fourth, Montanez doubled, then Taylor Johnson flied out to center fielder Chase Schulte, a single by Steel gave Hamlin a pair of base runners, then Nazareth intentionally walked Adrian Barrera to load the bases. A two-out error allowed a pair of runs to score, then three more runners would cross the plate before Nazareth shut down the threat. Hamlin scored five runs on four hits and a pair of errors in the inning.

Nazareth found an offensive spark in the top of the fifth, picking up its first hit of the game when Koty Huseman singled to left field. Acker followed with a single to right field. Jordy Rowland reached on a fielder's choice, then Nathan Huseman singled to right field, scoring his brother and Rowland. The freshman designated hitter crossed the plate when Schulte singled. Those three runs would be all Nazareth would get.

Game 2

Hamlin 2, Nazareth 3

Three runs would be enough for Nazareth to claim the victory in Game 2.

Schilling hurled a four-hitter and struck out seven batters as he tossed the eight-inning complete game for a 3-2 victory.

Nazareth never trailed in the game, taking a 1-0 lead in the second, then extending it to 2-1 in the third. Hamlin was able to tie the game in the top of the sixth, and that's the way the score stayed until Nathan Huseman drove in Acker with a single up the middle in the bottom of the eighth.

The Swifts got on the board first, and they did it with a two-out rally in the bottom of the second.

After Tyson Schulte and Koty Huseman each grounded out, Acker connected for a single, then scored when Rowland duplicated the hit.

Hamlin tied the score in the top of the third when John Barrera tripled to right center field, scoring his brother who had reached on a base on balls.

Nazareth got that run back in the bottom of the inning when pitcher Adrian Barrera ran into control problems. He struck out Evan Huseman, then walked Tyler Ehly and gave up a single to Schilling. An error on Hamlin short stop Steele loaded the bases for Nazareth with one out. Adrian Barrera walked Koty Huseman, scoring Ehly. One run was all the Swifts would get. Acker was out on an infield pop-up to second base and Rowland grounded out to end the inning.

Adrian Barrera scored his second run of the game in the top of the sixth after he singled, then advanced on an error. He scored on a sacrifice fly by Lain.

The score remained knotted at 2 until the bottom of the eighth.

Acker led off the inning with a walk, then Rowland reached when Hamlin first baseman Angel Montanez couldn't handle a throw. Nathan Huseman was up next and he delivered a bullet to center field. Acker scored from second to give Nazareth the win.

Nathan Huseman was 2-of-2 in the game, along with a pair of walks. Chase Schulte finished 2-for-4.

Game 3

Hamlin 10, Nazareth 3

Nazareth remained stuck on three, and it wasn't enough in the third game.

Hamlin jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning on hits by John Barrera and Terrell.

John Barrera sent the first eight Nazareth batters to the dugout before Nazareth got its offense on track with a Nathan Huseman single in the bottom of the third. Chase Schulte followed with an RBI single to put Nazareth on the board, but Hamlin held a 4-1 lead headed into the fourth.

A pair of hits and another Swift error in the top of the fifth resulted in two more Hamlin runs for a 6-1 lead.

In the bottom of the fifth the Swifts were able to plate two runs. A left-field single by Acker and a walk by Rowland turned into those two runs when Chase Schulte hit a fly ball to left field and Hamlin's Johnson dropped the ball.

Hamlin was able to bat around in the top of the seventh, although the only hit of the inning was a single by Steele.

Four walks and a couple of errors helped the Pied Pipers build the lead and the victory.

John Barrera allowed one hit and one base runner in the sixth and seventh innings as he picked up his second win of the series.

Obesity boosts medical expenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Obesity is costing not only American lives, but dollars too. A study tallies that $93 billion per year goes to treat health problems of people who are overweight.

About half that tab is picked up by the government through Medicare, which provides care to the elderly, and Medicaid, which serves the poor.

Overall, spending attributed to excessive weight made up 9 percent of all medical spending in 1998, researchers reported Wednesday on the Web site of the journal Health Affairs.

They arrived at the figure by comparing the medical expenses of adults who are not overweight with the expenses of those similar in most ways but who were overweight or obese.

The difference in spending on people who are overweight and those of normal weight were, for the most part, not statistically significant by themselves. But major differences appeared for those who were obese: The average increase in spending over a person of normal weight was $732 per year — 37.4 percent more.

Altogether, medical spending attributable to extra weight totaled $78.5 billion in 1998, or $92.6 billion in 2002, inflation-adjusted.

The study examined a representative sample of 9,867 adults ages 19 and older, with data from the 1998 Medical Expenditure Panel Survey and the 1996 and 1997 National Health Interview Surveys. The research was paid for by the CDC.

Weight was assessed using body-mass index, a height-to-weight ratio. People with a BMI of 30 or above are considered obese; those between 25 and 30 are considered overweight.

Someone who is 5 feet, 5 inches tall who weighs 150 pounds would have a BMI of 25. At a weight of 180 pounds, this person's BMI would be 30.

The financial burden now rivals that attributable to smoking, the authors say, arguing that government and health insurance companies should offer incentives to help people lose weight.

"Although some insurers subsidize memberships to health clubs to promote physical activity, most do not include incentives to encourage weight loss," wrote authors Eric Finkelstein and Ian Fiebelkorn of RTI International in North Carolina and Guijing Wang of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta.

Historians try to preserve stories about the CCC

FAIRMONT, W.Va. (AP)— They planted 3 billion trees, forged roads across the nation and laid the foundations for new communities by raising bridges, dams and telephone poles.

In the Great Depression, when work was hard to find, 4.5 million young men joined President Franklin D. Roosevelt's Civilian Conservation Corps, including some 55,000 in West Virginia.

Though the product of their labor continue to survive, the men whose sweat helped preserve and strengthen much of the nation's natural beauty are slowly vanishing. Many are now in their 80s and 90s.

Now, 70 years after the birth of the corps, historians in West Virginia and other states are trying to collect oral histories and personal artifacts of the workers to protect their legacy.

At the state's first New Deal Era conference Wednesday, the West Virginia CCC Museum Association encouraged teachers to offer living history lessons, introducing them to people like 89-year-old Francis Austin.

The corps was "the best thing that ever happened to the boys in West Virginia," said Austin, who worked in three camps over 28 months.

In the corps, many men learned to read, write and type. They also picked up basic carpentry and engineering skills along with self-confidence.

"I'm proud I was in a CCC camp and did so many things. A lot of the things we did will be here 1,000 years from now," Austin said. "I made a lot of friends, I done a lot of good, and I was happy."

Today, West Virginia makes more than $100 million a year on the state parks the corps helped build, a state official said. Its 1.8 million residents travel roads that Austin and his co-workers helped build.

"People use the CCC facilities the CCC built every day, but have no idea where they came from," said historian and author Michael Schultz.

Many families have overlooked the significance of old photographs and documents, tossing them in the trash instead of offering them to corps museums like the one that opened a year ago in nearby Quiet Dell.

The CCC, one of about 80 New Deal programs and agencies that Roosevelt created, survived from 1933 to 1942, when Congress decided to stop funding it. Some 2,800 corps men lost their lives during those years.

Historians credit the workers with developing 800 state parks, stocking billions of fish, stopping soil erosion, developing thousands of miles of wildlife steams and beaches, and rescuing a land once laid bare by a century of logging, mining and quarrying.

Until the corps got involved, Pennsylvania was dubbed "the great American desert" in 1930 because it had been subjected to nearly 100 years of clear cutting, Schultz said. West Virginia's situation was much the same, with old-growth forests hacked down, then hauled away on rail lines.

"There was no thought then of it being a renewable resource," Schultz said. "FDR's greatest legacy was the CCC because it saved the environment."

Within 90 days of its creation, the CCC had 300,000 men in 1,500 camps. By its end, 4,500 CCC camps were in every state including Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Robert Anderson, who compiled the West Virginia pictorial history "Written on the Land," said the corps' benefits ran both ways: Men who were in marginal health got medical treatment and three meals a day. They earned $30 a month and sent much of it to their struggling families.

"The pressure was on them to learn a profession," said Anderson, who organized the conference. "The CCC had twofold accomplishments — to help the country get back on its feet and to help the men help themselves."

Many New Deal programs thrived in West Virginia, including the construction of the Preston County town of Arthurdale, a pet project of former first lady Eleanor Roosevelt. Now a national historic district, Arthurdale became the prototype for 200 homestead and farmstead communities across the country, including Eleanor Roosevelt in Putnam County.

Despite the legacy, Anderson said museums and historic districts aren't quite as compelling as the real-life stories of the people who defined the New Deal.

"There's still time to invite these guys into the classroom," he said.

Modern Latin
best seller

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Some may consider Latin a dead language, but a dictionary of modern Latin published by the Vatican has become a "liber venditissimus" — a best seller.

It is a project to keep the language updated, even if they didn't have dishwashers, discos and miniature golf in Roman times.

The Vatican's publishing house has just come out with a combined edition of the Latin-Italian dictionary after two earlier volumes, one covering the letters A-L and the second M-Z, sold out.

"There's still life out there," said the Rev. Claudio Rossini, director of the Libreria Editrice Vaticana. The two volumes contain some 15,000 modernized Latin words — many of them compounds of existing Latin words.

Dishwasher is "escarium lavator" and disco is "orbium phonographicorum theca." A committee is now working on a new volume, adding mainly words from the computer and information fields. Publication is expected in two or three years. Behind the project is the Vatican's Latin Foundation, set up by Pope Paul VI in the 1970s to help keep Latin alive in the Roman Catholic Church. Latin's use had started to wane seriously after the Vatican decreed that Mass could be celebrated in local languages.

Pope John Paul II has often lamented his own clerics no longer speak Latin, which is offered as an optional course in many seminaries around the world.

The dictionary is more than a scholarly exercise. The Vatican needs it for encyclicals and other documents on the sciences in what is still the official language, although Italian is the working language at the Vatican. "It's useful," said the Rev. Reginald Foster, the pope's Latin expert. "We need it around here. The question is, 'Does anyone out there understand it?'"

Even the Vatican has not been immune from slip-ups. The misspelling of the Latin for Sweden on a Vatican stamp commemorating the pope's trip to Scandinavia raised eyebrows among the hard core of Latin experts.

Italians at the Vatican noted the dictionary keeps up with the times in Italy, with entries for soccer, organized crime and politics.

A debate is swirling in Italy over whether lawmakers, including the premier, should be protected from prosecution. The dictionary notes that "immunitas" was spoken about by Julius Caesar.

Refugees study American life before move

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ali Abdi Omar had a question: at the airport, would he have to go through the same X-ray machine as his luggage? A few fellow students giggled, but most eagerly awaited the teacher's answer — they genuinely didn't know.

In a cramped classroom at the Nairobi offices of the International Organization of Migration, a group of Somali Bantu refugees spent Thursday learning how to get through an airport and on to the plane that in a few days will take them from a desperate life in Africa to a fresh start in the United States.

They are also studying the skills they need for American life: how to use a toilet and an alarm clock. How to navigate a grocery store. And how to survive the phenomenon called winter.

The 74 Bantu scheduled to leave Nairobi on Tuesday and Wednesday are the first of more than 12,000 the United States pledged to resettle in 1999. The resettlement process was delayed by new U.S. security measures implemented following the Sept. 11 attacks but is now back on track, said Pindie Stephen an IOM official.

For the Bantu, the promise of a new life means an escape from a future of destitution and discrimination.

The Bantu's ancestors were brought to Somalia in the 19th century as slaves. Slavery no longer exists but routine discrimination is common.

The largely rural Bantu were forced by the Italian colonial government to abandon their farms and work as forced labor. The forced labor didn't end with independence — other Somalis simply replaced the Europeans as taskmasters.

When former dictator Siad Barre was ousted in 1991 the despised Bantu were attacked, raped and murdered.

As the country descended into chaos and heavily armed militias drawn along clan lines turned Somalia into a patchwork of battling fiefdoms, thousands of the Bantu fled, most making their way on foot to the border with neighboring Kenya.

Nearly all have spent most of the last decade in sprawling refugee camps, dependent on meager food rations and living in wooden huts.

Some non-Bantu Somali refugees — there are more than 100,000 in Kenya's camps — have been repatriated; but it is too dangerous for the Bantu to return.

So far the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service has approved 1,400 for the move America. The remaining Bantu are expected to be approved in the next year or two.

Preparations for the move began in the Kakuma refugee camp in northwestern Kenya with literacy classes and lessons about how to find a job, shop for food and use modern appliances like stoves, toilets and alarm clocks.

IOM officials say the Bantu have responded well to the classes. Still, it is a lot of information to digest.

At the center in Nairobi where the 74 Bantu are staying until they leave, stories circulate of the group that got stumped by a doorknob and stuck in a room, and of the woman startled by the flick of a light switch.

Nearly all are relatively ignorant of life in the United States — and none had ever heard of Disney World.

Asked if they knew about discrimination in America against black people and Muslims — the Bantu are both — all appeared confused.

The Bantu are all going to different U.S. cities. A caseworker will be assigned to each family and help them make the transition.

Job prospects are a serious concern. Omar said he had worked on American cars before and hoped to be a mechanic when he gets to Springfield, Ma., the town where he will live.

The emigrants received their final briefing Thursday from IOM trainers, who explained the airport, the plane and what to do when they arrive in the United States. There was a lecture on how to eat airplane food; some oohing and ahhing at the image of an airplane projected on the wall and a demonstration on how to use a seat belt and life jacket.

The talk of airplane safety features prompted one female student to ask "is the plane going to drop into the ocean?"

Lily Sanya, the teacher, assured her it wouldn't. The students seemed most concerned about the weather — "I hear the cold in America can stop a man's heart from beating," Omar said.

Again, Sanya assured them they had nothing to worry about. "You are arriving in the hot part of the year ... it will give you time to get used to the seasons," she said.

Alcohol advertising popular with teens

CHICAGO (AP) — Magazines popular with teenagers, such as Rolling Stone, Sports Illustrated and People, tend to have more liquor and beer ads than other titles, suggesting the alcohol industry may be indirectly targeting underage drinkers, according to a study.

"Kids also read these magazines, and if this is truly a public health concern, then we need to find ways to talk about decreasing adolescent exposure to advertising," said one of the researchers, Dr. Craig Garfield of the Evanston Northwestern Healthcare Research Institute in the Chicago suburb of Evanston, Ill.

The researchers compared 35 magazines and found that for every 1 million more readers ages 12 to 19, a magazine had about 60 percent more beer and distilled liquor ads.

"We're not in any way trying to suggest that they are doing this intentionally. It simply may be worth it for them to look a little more closely at their advertising strategies," said another one of the researchers, Dr. Paul Chung of the medical school at the University of California at Los Angeles.

The study was published in Wednesday's Journal of the American Medical Association and was funded by the Robert Wood Johnson Clinical Scholars Program.

The Distilled Spirits Council of the United States, a major trade association, ridiculed the study as "typical of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation-funded advocacy efforts: rife with flagrant technical errors bordering on junk science."

The council said its member companies "are strongly committed to responsible marketing and advertising policies directed to adults."

The researchers said major alcoholic beverage trade associations have codes of conduct pledging to avoid marketing to teens. The researchers said that if self-regulation by the industry is not enough, then maybe the government or an independent auditor needs to monitor the situation.

"We always consider that stuff to be the last resort," Chung said.

The Beer Institute, a trade association for the malt beverage industry, said more regulation won't reduce underage drinking.

"The strongest influences on young people are parents and peers," the group said in a statement.

"Providing materials to parents — that the beer industry does in abundance — that allows them to talk about drinking with their kids, is the sort of effective solution that this industry's critics should embrace."
