

Methodists Save Belgian and Serbian Orphans

Southern Church Buys Homes in Brussels and Belgrade and Supports Serbian Refugees in England.

Nashville, Tenn.—The Centenary Commission of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will specialize in caring for the children of Belgium, Serbia and other stricken countries of Europe, according to an announcement made by Dr. W. B. Beauchamp, the director-general. Dr. Beauchamp and a Church Commission have just returned from Europe.

For this purpose a large home, formerly a famous boys' school, has been purchased at Uccle, a suburb of Brussels. Several hundred children can be accommodated in this building, and the Methodists will assume entire responsibility for them and their future.

Another home has been bought at Belgrade, Servia, and here the underfed orphans of the Southern Slavs will be given medical attention and cared for. A staff of women physicians, secured from Scotland, will be in charge of this home.

Still another orphanage has been taken over at Faversham, England. This home already contains more than a hundred Serbian children, orphaned refugees who were taken from their homes during the Austrian invasion.

Plight of Children Deplorable.

"One can scarcely imagine the plight of the Belgian and Serbian children," declared Dr. Beauchamp. "The mines of Northern France have been flooded or filled with concrete by the Germans, and thousands of children will literally freeze to death this winter."

"I have seen them living in the old trenches and dug-outs left by the enemy, with little to eat save what is gathered from the passers-by."

Relief stations will be established as quickly as workers can be obtained and supplies sent. These will be at Brussels, Ypres, St. Quentin, Montdidier, Belgrade and other centers.

The Centenary Commission is seeking for two young physicians, eight nurses, a dozen women social workers, and a number of superintendents and directors to reinforce the relief staff. These will be sent abroad at once.

The Church has a fund of $5,000,000 for this purpose. It is a part of the $53,000,000 fund which was raised in the recent Centenary Drive.

Christians Invade The Holy Land

Southern Methodists Send First Workers to Palestine for Bible and Literature Distribution.

(Special Correspondence)

Nashville, Tenn.—The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has the distinction of being the first Christian denomination to send workers to Palestine since the free regime inaugurated under the occupancy of General Allenby.

The Centenary European Commission of the Church, headed by Bishop James Atkins and Dr. W. B. Beauchamp, have already dispatched five colporteurs to the Holy Land. These will be followed by five more in the next few weeks.

These workers will establish no stations, but will follow the early Methodist custom of itinerating over the country distributing Bibles, tracts and Christian literature.

This literature will be printed in the native dialects, and will be secured through an arrangement with the Nile Press in Egypt.

Under the rule of the Turk such a movement would have been prohibited, but under Allenby there is perfect freedom of religions. The action of the Southern Methodists is the beginning of a vast scheme of missionary activity which will be carried on in the Holy Land.

SEAL SALE MONEY SPENT IN STATE BY RELIABLE MEN

MONEY SPENT IN STATE BY DIRECTORS OF NEW MEXICO PUBLIC HEALTH ASSOCIATION.

Contrary to the general belief, the money received from the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals and Health Bonds does not go to some organization outside New Mexico, but 91 per cent of it is spent within the state under the supervision of the officers and directors of the New Mexico Public Health Association. In the list of seventy directors and officers are included prominent citizens from all parts of the state whose honesty and ability are universally recognized.

Governor O. A. Larrazolo is an honorary vice president of the association. Lieutenant Governor Benj. F. Pankey, "Honest Uncle Ben," is chairman of the state committee. Holm O. Bursum, Socorro stockman, is president of the association. Nathan Jaffa, president of the board of regents of the state university and prominent business man of Roswell, is treasurer. These men have signed the health bonds as their endorsement of the campaign of December 1st to 10th.

The three active vice presidents are W. D. Murray, Silver City banker; Col. Bronson M. Cutting, owner of the Santa Fe New Mexican and donor of the new gymnasium at the Roswell Military Institute, and Dr. O. T. Hyde, medical director of St. Joseph's Hospital at Albuquerque. Dr. F. N. Carrier of Santa Rita is secretary of the association, with Mrs. T. G. Rogers of Las Vegas as assistant.

On the board of directors are such men as Dr. David Ross Boyd, former president of the state university; Dr. Frank H. H. Roberts of the Las Vegas Normal; Jonathan H. Wagner, state superintendent of public instruction; H. J. Hagerman of the State Taxpayers' Association; W. E. Lindsey of Portales, Eduardo M. Otero, Paul G. Redington, Chas. Springer, Albert Callisch, President A. D. Crile, C. N. Cotton, Felix Garcia, Gherson Gusdorf, Antonio Lucero, Dr. C. E. Waller, Hugh H. Williams, Archbishop Daege, Geo. L. Ulrick and Powhatan Carter.

PANKEY WOULD HAVE HEALTH CHRISTMAS

Chairman of State Seal Sale Committee Would Give Humans as Much Protection as Cattle.

"Let's make this a health Christmas," says Lieutenant Governor B. F. Pankey, state chairman of the Red Cross Christmas Seal Sale Committee. Here is the way the chairman looks at it:

"In 1917, we had a war Christmas; in 1918, we had a peace Christmas. Isn't it time now to begin considering health? The war taught us how important health is in the life of any nation. It showed us also that one-third of our young men in the prime of their life were unfit for military service. The same percentage probably applies to health among women and girls. Let's change this and give every boy and girl a fair start in life.

Sheep Levy Five Mills.

"In the cattle business I have found that it is economy to spend 50 cents a head looking after the health of my steers. I don't see why we shouldn't spend as much for ourselves. They tell me a human life is worth $2,000. I think it's worth much more, but even at that low figure a mill levy on 400,000 people would produce $800,000 annually. That isn't a big levy. The levy on cattle is one mill; on sheep and goats, five mills, and on hogs, three and a half mills. Surely one mill isn't too much for human beings.

"The Christmas seal sale isn't for $800,000. It's way below one mill. It's only $60,000 in New Mexico. Paint your town red with Red Cross Christmas seals. Each one is a penny's worth of prevention and cure. Buy seals liberally. Make this a health Christmas."

Have you seen that nifty Christmas line at Portales Drug Store? Say boy, it is the keenest line of holiday goods ever been brought to Portales.

LIFE OF DOG IN BELGIUM

Does Not Loaf as They Do in America, but is Put to Pulling Carts.

The expression, "a dog's life," must have originated in this part of Europe. In Belgium and Holland the dogs do not loaf about as they do in America. In Holland I saw one dog pulling a cart in which three men were sitting, and on the roads we passed many dogs pulling carts, writes a Belgian correspondent in the Kansas City Star. Even more dogs are used to pull carts in Belgium, as the Germans left very few horses in this country. To judge by appearances, virtually all the husky able-bodied dogs in Belgium are "broke to harness." But the roads are good and the carts not heavy, usually, and the dogs seem to like it. The drivers were holding back rather than driving many of the dogs we passed, and in one village we saw a dog bark and beg to be hitched up when a woman started out on a short trip with a push cart. When she yielded and hitched up the dog we saw why she had hesitated. The dog was a big, strong fellow, and so eager to pull that she had a hard time holding him back.

MONKEY BRIDGES ARE MYTH

Famous Scientist Attempts to Explain the Origin of the Story.

From our school geographies we used to learn that South American monkeys cross alligator-infested streams by linking their tails and legs to form a living bridge. In school "readers" published as late as 1897 there are pictures of this extraordinary feat of monkey acrobatics. Prof. E. W. Gudger, in an article quoted by the Scientific American, attempts to explain the origin of this story, but is not believed by any recent explorers.

So far as it can be traced it was first told by Padre Jose Acosta in 1539. The first person to dispute its veracity was Baron Humboldt. Finally Messrs. Leo E. Miller and George K. Cherrie of the American Museum of Natural History, who have done so much traveling and collecting in South America, suggest to Professor Gudger that the story of the "monkey bridge" has come about through observation of a procession of monkeys crossing a ravine or stream on a pendant liana.

POULTRY FACTS

MAKE PROFITABLE SIDE LINE

Success May Be Attained With Pigeons by Careful Attention to Many Little Details.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many people can keep pigeons successfully as a side issue, although this requires constant oversight and careful attention to details. The greatest difficulties confronting the successful raiser of pigeons seem to be in securing good breeding stock, and finding a market for the produce of a small flock. Pigeons are a profitable source of income on general farms where they may secure much of their feed from the fields, provided they are not a nuisance and the loss by shooting and by hawks, owls and cats is not large. They can also be raised successfully on farms where they are closely confined.

Of the squab-raising varieties the Homer is considered the most popular variety. The habit of this bird of returning home if allowed freedom makes it necessary to confine pigeons purchased from other lofts. The Carneau pigeon has recently become popular as a squab producer. This variety is somewhat larger than the Homer and it is stated to be about as prolific. Several other varieties of pigeons larger than the Homer are used on a small scale in squab raising, especially in crossing with the Homer and Carneau, to increase the size of squabs. The Bunt is one of the largest, but is not as prolific or as good a breeder or feeder as the Homer.

Some of the other varieties reported used as squab breeders are the Dragon, White Maltese, or hen pigeon, the White King, and the common pigeon.

BIG RETURNS FROM POULTRY

Arizona Farmer Made Profit of Nearly $300 From Small Flock in Short Space of Time.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A net return of nearly $300 in two and one-half months from a side line on the farm is the record made by a Glendale, Ariz., farmer who is carrying on his operations under the direction of a poultry extension expert of the United States department of agriculture. In connection with his general farm work he kept a flock of 210 hens, which produced an average of ten dozen eggs during the four winter months. During February the eggs brought an average of 55 cents a dozen, or approximately $150, while the feed bill, including the feed for the young chicks, amounted to $50. The following month the flock showed a profit of a little over $100. During the first half of April the gross receipts were $97.50. In April the extension specialist conducted a culling demonstration on this farm and weeded 56 hens from the flock. The culled hens were kept in a separate pen for a week following the demonstration, and made practically no returns in egg yields. This indicates, the specialist says, that the remaining 154 hens probably made the record with which the entire 210 had been credited.

What Every Town Has.

"No town is so small," says E. E. Kelley of Toronto, Kan., "but that it has a knocker, a tightwad, a gossip—male and female—a leading citizen, a man who gives generously, a man who takes the lead in boosting, a barber equal to the city kind, a beautiful girl, an old maid who would have made the right kind of a man a good wife, a tough boy, more widows than widowers, at least two boys who are known as 'good sports,' and a girl that does such a good job of canning that she is frequently without a bean."

Changed the Subject.

The city girl was looking at the wild creatures in the natural history display of the state reservation department at the state fair. She paused by a cage where two skunks of the adolescent age were confined. "Oh, look at the cute kittens, Vic," she said. "They're not kittens, they're skunks," he said. "But they won't hurt you, will they?" "Come on over here," he suggested. "Here's three wild geese."

STRONG LINE-UP FOR SALE OF XMAS SEALS

$60,000 IS GOAL OF CAMPAIGN
FROM DECEMBER 1 TO 10

Ninety-one Per Cent of Money to Stay in State for Public Health Work
—Pankey is State Chairman.

With the coming of December 1, one of the most complete sets of machinery ever erected in the state of New Mexico will be set into motion to raise $60,000 for public health work within this state. Headed by Lieut.-Gov. B. F. Pankey, state chairman of the drive, there is a force of twenty-nine county chairmen, 1,500 precinct chairmen and several thousand workers ready to make a thorough canvas to secure the money necessary to carry out a broad program of health protection during the year of 1920.

The chief medium for raising the money will be the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals. These tiny emblems of holiday cheer have been sold in New Mexico for the past eight years. This year, the New Mexico Public Health Association, state agent for the seals, hopes to achieve a sale which is greater than all the other years combined. Seven million seals are being prepared at state headquarters in Albuquerque for distribution over New Mexico. These are to be sold at a cent apiece, "a penny's worth of prevention and cure."

Money Stays in State.

In addition to being the greatest sale in the history of the state, the 1919 campaign is notable in that 91 per cent of the money raised will remain within the state, the remainder going to defray administrative purposes and to assist the National Tuberculosis Association in its vigorous warfare against tuberculosis in all parts of the country.

The health program which the association has outlined consists first of the employment of six public health nurses who would be available for demonstrations of home care of the sick and would be able to direct all nursing work during an epidemic, such as the influenza outbreak of last winter. They would also direct surveys to find the health assets of the state. They could be mobilized at any point to meet a localized epidemic. One would be a specialist in school work and would be in charge of the Modern Health Crusade which is financed entirely by the association. Another would be detailed to follow up New Mexico soldiers, sailors and marines who were discharged or rejected from the service for physical defects.

Lecturers On Broad Program.

The employment of two full-time lecturers is included in the broad program. One would work principally in Spanish-speaking communities and would give lectures in Spanish with illustrations to show methods of safeguarding health. The other would lecture only in English. Provision is made for educational work, for the distribution of suitable literature in all necessary languages and for financing the Modern Health Crusade. The portion of money which will be spent for administrative salaries is eight per cent of the total, much below the usual figure in work of this kind.

The drive is to open December 1 and continue ten days. Special services in a number of churches on Sunday, November 30, will signalize the launching of the campaign. Slides in motion picture theaters throughout the state will show the progress of the Christmas seal sale over New Mexico.

THE STAND FOR HEALTH

The desultory fighting against tuberculosis and other preventable diseases must give way to concentrated effort. The story of the ants who carried away a mountain is too familiar to need repetition. We know the wisdom of a united stand.

War records show that out of every 1,000 men of draft age examined, 24 were rejected because of tuberculosis. New Mexico had its share of rejections from this cause. Nearly three hundred boys from this state were sent home from camp because of a tubercular condition. Not a county in the state escaped. Those rejected were not mainly descendants of men or women who came to the state already infected. Many were born and raised here. Their names were Jones and Armijo and Smith and Lucero. Tuberculosis is no respecter of ancestry.

There is little sentiment in the call of the New Mexico Public Health Association for $60,000 with which to fight preventable disease, teach health in the schools, and lay a basis for a stronger, more vigorous citizenship. Good business sense demands better health.

Money has been given for bankrupt Europe, for bleeding Belgium, for starving Serbia. Is it not time to realize that charity best begins at home? Ninety-one per cent of the money raised between December 1 and 10 remains within New Mexico for this task: to prevent tuberculosis. It does double

Fill with a custard mixture, using two beaten eggs, one-third of a cupful of sugar, a pinch of salt and two cupfuls of milk. Finish with a grating of nutmeg and bake at first in a hot oven to set and brown the pastry, then lower the heat to cook the custard. An orange filling may be made by using the juice of an orange with the grated rind, adding milk enough to make the two cupfuls of liquid and proceed as in custard pie. A meringue on a pie always adds to its appearance as well as making it more nourishing.

Lemon and Apple Pie.—Add a cupful of sugar to half a cupful of chopped apple, one beaten egg, one-fourth of a cupful of rolled crackers, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, the grated rind of a lemon and one tablespoonful of butter. Bake with two crusts.

Prune Pie.—Soak three-fourths of a pound of prunes in cold water, stew until tender, cool and stone. Arrange them in a lined pie plate, add half a cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter and the juice of half a lemon, salt, two tablespoonfuls of flour and the juice from the prunes. Bake, cover with a meringue and brown.

Rhubarb and raisins make a good combination for a pie filling. Use a half a cupful of raisins to two cupfuls of rhubarb, sugar, salt and flavoring with two tablespoonfuls of flour to thicken the juice to keep the pie from boiling over. Cover with a crust and bake in a slow oven.

Do the work you have to do With a purpose strong and true. Every day.

FOODS WHICH APPEAL TO A VARIETY OF TASTES.

For those who are fond of coconut the following drop cakes will be enjoyed:

Rice Drop Cakes.—Mix two cupfuls of boiled rice with half a cupful of milk and one beaten egg; add two tablespoonfuls of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of baking powder with half a cupful of shredded coconut (the unsweetened kind). Beat well and drop on a lightly greased griddle. Cook brown on both sides and serve hot with syrup or honey.

Rich Golden Frozen Pudding.—Scald a pint of rich milk. Beat the yolks of six eggs, add one cupful of sugar and half a teaspoonful of salt and beat again. Cook the two mixtures until smooth and thick; cool and add a tablespoonful of vanilla and one and one-half cupfuls of cream. Freeze. Have ready one and one-half cupfuls of sultana raisins and candied cherries, pineapple and citron cut in pieces and covered with lemon juice and allowed to stand overnight. Stir this mixture into the frozen custard and let stand to ripen two hours. Serve alone or with whipped cream or with the following sauce:

Beat the yolks of three eggs until thick; add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of mace or nutmeg, one-half cupful of sugar; stir and cook over hot water until thick. Cut and fold in the beaten whites of the eggs; stand over hot water to cook. When cold add one-fourth of a cup of lemon juice and one cupful of cream beaten stiff. Serve very cold or pack in ice and partly freeze.

Chestnut Bavarian Cream.—Soak half a package of gelatin in half a cupful of cold water. Press one cupful of preserved chestnuts through a sieve. To this puree and the gelatin add one-fourth of a cupful of sugar and three tablespoonfuls of fruit juice or a tablespoonful of vanilla. Set the dish in ice water, stir constantly until the mixture begins to thicken, then fold in two cupfuls of cream, one cupful thin, the other whipping cream, both beaten thick. Mix the two mixtures until the mass will hold its shape, then dispose in small molds decorated with candied fruit. Rinse the bottom of the molds with some of the gelatin mixture, then chill before placing the fruit, which will keep them in place.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE COW'S QUESTION.

"A number of cows were sitting down after the afternoon milking was over," said Daddy. "They were feeling comfortably lazy and were chewing their cuds happily."

"A cunning little indigo bird was sitting not far away singing such lovely little songs. But the cows didn't pay any attention."

"That dog did hurry us up," said Mrs. Bossy Cow. "He just made us hurry so fast. Of course it was milking time and we wanted to be milked, but my, what an impatient, quick sort of a creature is that dog."

"Still I do like milking time, if only he would not hurry us quite so fast."

"Some cows must be quite wild," said Miss Bossy Cow, "when some have to have their horns taken from them."

"And some cows are very lovely and dainty," said a black and white cow.

"We have a nice barn for the winter," said Mrs. Bossy Cow. "I do believe our barn is as nice as any to be found."

"What would a cow do with a house and with a bed-room with a little narrow bed in it? That would be most awkward and uncomfortable, most."

"What Would a Cow Do?"

"Speaking of a house," said Miss Bossy Cow, "reminds me of such a funny thing I saw and thought yesterday."

"Dear me, you were pretty smart to be thinking and seeing at the same time. Just walking around is almost enough for me to do at a time without thinking too. Of course I can chew all the time," Mrs. Bossy said, "but thinking and seeing at the same time does sound rather smart."

"I don't know what made me feel so smart," said Miss Bossy. "Well, I must tell you what I saw and what I thought."

"I was around by the back of the barn when I thought I would take a little walk. The gate into the field was open from the barnyard. That was nothing more than I expected, but I saw that the gate leading up to the farmer's house was open."

"So I thought to myself that I would take a little stroll, or in other words a little walk."

"I wandered up and the house looked quite deserted."

"I looked in one of the windows, and gracious me, wasn't I disappointed at what I saw. One time Mrs. Bossy saw a bed airing and she has been thinking how absurd little beds were ever since. But I just saw an ordinary room. It had a carpet and some chairs, chairs such as a cow couldn't put her front feet in without upsetting."

"There were some books around, silly little cushions and a table in the center with a lamp on it."

"There was a stove in one corner of the room which I suppose they have kept over since last winter. And there were some foot-stools I believe they would be called, which would do for one foot of a cow!"

"But as I was seeing everything that is inside I thought to myself, 'Gracious, imagine living where there is no grass.' No there wasn't a scrap of grass in that house! and no hay either."

"Oh, it was a wretched looking house, wretched, all curtains and rugs and chairs! Dear me, wasn't I glad then that I was a cow and so didn't have to live in there."

"I should think you would have been glad," said Mrs. Bossy Cow.

"Then," continued Miss Bossy, "one of the children came along and persuaded me to come back to the barnyard which I did and very willingly. The child asked me if I liked their house and I looked away as though I hadn't heard, for I didn't want to be rude. But oh, I have a question I don't believe anyone could answer, why, oh, why, don't they have grass in their houses? And no one could answer Miss Bossy's question."

"No," Mr. Wilson replied, smiling. "I'm afraid I can't. The Highbrow Monthly, you see, gives its contributors cachet, but not enough cash."

No Worms in a Healthy Child
All children troubled with worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. Groves' tasteless chill tonic given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a General Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispel the worms, and the child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 60c per bottle.

Ships deteriorate with age—with the exceptions of hardships.

You Do More Work,

You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness.

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply IRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic properties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood.

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic. The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store. 60c per bottle.

HOW TO AVOID BACKACHE AND NERVOUSNESS

Told by Mrs. Lynch From Own Experience.

Providence, R. I.—"I was all run down in health, was nervous, had headaches, my back ached all the time. I was tired and had no ambition for anything. I had taken a number of medicines which did me no good. One day I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for women, so I tried it. My nervousness and backache and headaches disappeared. I gained in weight and feel fine, so I can honestly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any woman who is suffering as I was."

Mrs. ADRIANE R. LYNCH, 100 Plain St., Providence, R. I. Backache and nervousness are symptoms or nature's warnings, which indicate a functional disturbance or an unhealthy condition which often develops into a more serious ailment.

Women in this condition should not continue to drag along without help, but profit by Mrs. Lynch's experience, and try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and for special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

A Ticklish Bit of Tunneling.

A very interesting bit of tunneling was recently done on the Fourteenth street tube under the East river, New York. The heading was being run in rock and at one point test holes showed a thickness of only eight inches of sound dry rock above the line along which the top of the tunnel was to run. As the tunnel was being driven without the use of compressed air it was decided to drop the upper heading four feet until this thin cover of rock was passed. The cast iron lining was set in place at each side of this section and the rock was removed very carefully by using a great many holes, each loaded with about one-eighth of a stick of dynamite. As each bit of rock was removed the arch of the tunnel lining was set in place. By this means the dangerous section was tunneled without breaking through the thin shell.

GOOD ROADS

KEEP EARTH ROADS IN SHAPE

Engineer of Wisconsin Highway Commission Tells Benefits of Patrol System of Maintenance.

Earth roads will be in existence over wide areas for many years to come, notwithstanding the rapid extension of "permanent" road beds of different materials.

Mr. F. Sergeant, a division engineer of the Wisconsin highway commission writes:

"After a season's experience with the patrol system of maintenance in division No. 7, where we have practically all earth roads, I am more than ever convinced that this type of road can be fairly well maintained by this system, even where subject to considerable heavy motor traffic."

"A patrol section should not be more than six or seven miles in length and should be taken care of by one man with team. This man should be held responsible for the condition of his section at all times and should be required to devote all of his time to the work."

"The patrolman must have a good team, and the wagon box equipped with a dump bottom. The county should furnish a light two-horse blade grader, road plane, plow, scraper and necessary small tools, such as shovel, pick, bar, brush scythe, rake, etc."

"In spite of all the claims made for the road drag as a maintenance tool, we find the light blade grader or the road plane far superior to it, and we advocate the use of these tools entirely for road maintenance. We find that a road drag having no bearing except on the blade, has a tendency to gouge out the material in soft spots making them still deeper, and giving the road a bad, wavy surface, while the blade grader or the road plane, having a long wheel base or bearing surface, cuts only on the high spots and distributes the material in low places, building them up and giving the road a nice, smooth, driving surface. A blade grader should be so constructed that one man can drive the team and make all adjustments necessary while the machine is moving, as only one man is required on this work."

"An earth road with low crown and badly sodded shoulders cannot be properly maintained by the patrolman, but should be first trimmed up with a heavier outfit, cutting off and removing heavy sods, properly heaping up the crown, filling low places and opening up drainage."

"The blade grader should not be used on earth roads when they are sloppy, but should be used as soon as the material is dry enough to roll nicely on the blade, and pack into the ruts and depressions. And no great amount of material should be moved at one time; a quarter or half inch cut is sufficient for the best results, furnishing all the material that the blade can distribute evenly. Under ordinary weather conditions the material is in a fair condition to work with the grader for about three days after a rain, giving ample time for three full rounds of the section which should leave even a badly rutted road in fairly good condition. Be sure to always make the first round trip on the center of the road."

"Six inches of crown to a 24-foot driving surface is sufficient. Care should be taken that the roadbed is nicely rounded, and not dragged to a peak in the center or a large ridge of loose earth left there."

Patrolman Cutting Weeds Along Side of Road.

er conditions the material is in a fair condition to work with the grader for about three days after a rain, giving ample time for three full rounds of the section which should leave even a badly rutted road in fairly good condition. ROADS AID RURAL STUDENTS

Much Larger Percentage of Attendance Noted in Sections Where Highways Are Improved.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) While it is true that various factors contribute to increase or reduce the attendance at schools in given sections of the country, it is worthy of comment that in the states having a high percentage of improved roads a much larger percentage of rural students enrolled regularly attend the schools than in the states having a small percentage of improved roads.

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Freezezone costs only a few cents.

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin calluses from bottom of feet.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!—Adv.

To Bridge the Golden Gate. Steps for the realization of one of the greatest projects ever contemplated in California—the Golden Gate bridge—were taken at a mass meeting of citizens in San Rafael early in August.

The surveys show that the bridge could be constructed directly over the Golden Gate from Fort Baker to Fort Macon. The Gate has a total width at that point of 5,500 feet, and soundings show a rock formation in the center, which would support the central span.

A San Francisco banker has offered to finance the project with a loan of $10,000,000, the estimated cost. The only condition is that the government grant the backers a franchise and regulate the toll charges.

Industry is the key to success.

I FEEL GRAND! I'LL NEVER TAKE NASTY CALOMEL AGAIN!

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Doesn't Sicken or Upset You Next Day—Best when Bilious, Constipated!

Don't take sickening, salivating Calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for Calomel. It is a pleasant vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as Calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can not sallowate. Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfectly harmless. Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty Calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up without any biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible Calomel your money is waiting for you.—Adv.

Special Care of Baby. That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases. Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food. A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived. Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. Dice of Destiny

"THAT I LOVE YOU—"

Synopsis—Senor Antonio de la Guerra, a fine old Spaniard living on his ancestral estate on the American side of the Mexican border, is informed by his American lawyer, Dempton, that there is a technical error in his will. He thereupon signs a new will, without reading it. "Los Americanos on the one hand, Mexicanos on the other," said the old Spaniard to himself, "Sangre de Dios! I must take Teresa away from them."

"Make me some pretty speeches, Stanway Billy," she laughed softly. "They float up to me here through the moonlight like the perfume from red roses!" She had drawn her mantilla closely about her for no other reason in the world but to tantalize the man below her by hiding herself from him, and there was only her voice and the vague outline of her young body through the vines to tell him that she was there. But to her his face, uplifted in the moonlight, flushed and eager, was unhidden.

"You are a flirt!" he cried, seeking to make his voice savage and angry, and succeeding admirably in filling it with adoration.

"But no," she answered him from the dusk about her. "That is to be cruel. And I—I am so soft-hearted that to make one suffer would distress me."

"If you roll your r's at me like that again," Stanway told her very positively, "I am going right in and tell the old gentleman that I am going to marry you!"

She laughed gayly at his impetuous declaration.

"It would be like a play," she said after a little as though she were thinking seriously of what he had said he would do. "It would interest me to see. Papa grande would be very polite and would ask Senor Billy to have a glass of wine and a cigarita."

"And then"—the laughter welling up again in the eyes he could not see, trilling in the voice which dropped down to him—"he would call Pedro and old Juan to take you outside and shoot you with their guns!"

"And you find that funny?" demanded Stanway.

"Is it not? It is like the opera!"

"You are dying for an operatic scene?" His voice still rang with the eagerness within him, his hand was upon the vines which clambered about her balcony. "Let me climb up to you—"

"You must not!" she cried quickly. And then, seeing that he hesitated, she added lightly, again settling herself comfortably upon her cushioned seat. "That would be only musical comedy. And I should have to go inside and shut my window and run downstairs to papa grande. And—Sh!"

He could make out the gesture as she laid her fingers across her red lips, could see that she turned toward the open window behind her.

"Quien es?" she called carelessly.

"Yo, Pedro," came Pedro's answering voice. "Senor Dempton has gone. The magter says that in half an hour he will be glad to see the Senorita Teresa."

"Bueno," she answered lightly. "I hear, Pedro." And then she also heard Pedro's light tread on the stairway, descending, she turned again toward the man below her. "I must go," she said softly. "Papa grande wishes me."

"Not for half an hour," he said quickly. "I heard that."

"But," as though she were hesitating, "I should go now. It is very unkindly of me to be here with you. If I had known that you were coming I should certainly not have come out to look at my stars."

"You are a little humbug, Teresita," he laughed at her. "You did know that I would be here, and you were glad of it, and you came out just to see me."

"To see you?" And he could imagine the arching of the brows above her great eyes.

"And to tease me. But look here—" "I am looking, senor. Mama mia, but you are handsome in the moonlight. More so than by day!"

"I did not come here tonight to make you pretty speeches," said Stanway stubbornly after his way. "I came to tell you—"

"Yes?" expectantly. She clasped her hands and leaned a little farther out over him, allowing him a glimpse of her laughing face, of white arms and throat from which the mantilla was slipping.

"That I love you—" "Oh!" She seemed to lose interest, but again her face was hidden.

"And that I actually and positively mean what I say when I tell you that I am going to marry you."

He could not see the flush which crept into her cheeks, nor the light in her eyes, but went on swiftly, unguardedly, his voice almost stern with the emotion upon him:

"The border is unsafe. Mexico is going to be torn to pieces this time before temporary truce comes again. You need someone to take care of you."

"You forget papa grande," she reminded him gayly. "You seem to have a habit of forgetting him."

"Your grandfather," he said in the same quiet tone, "is not the man to protect you now, for three very good reasons: He is too near the border and too rich to go unmolested by the rebel bands, who have already made more than one raid into American territory under cover of night.

"And he is too Spanish. He was born in Spain—his father kept him there until he was of age. He is a Spanish and not an American citizen."

"How kind and thoughtful you are, Senor Stanway," she mocked him. "Do you find it necessary, every time you come across a young woman who needs protection, to marry her?"

"I Must Go," She Said Softly.

His mood did not soften with hers this time. In Billy Stanway's own words, "he meant business."

"Your grandfather has already lost cattle to the raiders," he told her. "It is known all over this end of the state that he is his own banker—that he always has a large amount of gold and silver in the house."

"Some night he is going to be called upon for something more than just cows to feed the hungry rebels. And then—"

"Then I should be protected?" she murmured demurely. "I should be married to an American whose mighty nation is feared by the Mexicans? That is it, no? Bueno. Does Senor Stanway know my kinsman, Eduardo Ramon Torre? He is a Spaniard, of blue-blood old of Castile, senor. And he is a naturalized American citizen. He—"

"Is a d—d young puppy!" snapped Stanway irritably.

"With us," said Miss Teresa stiffly, "one does not swear in the presence of a lady. Nor does he insult her through her kinsmen."

"I beg pardon—honestly I do, Teresita," Stanway hastened to say. "But you shouldn't mention the young reprobate's name if you don't want me to swear, and you know it. Now I'm coming up—"

His hand was again among the vines seeking a hold somewhere and being mocked by the smooth adobe wall. Teresa de la Guerra, alarmed, was upon her feet protesting. And then: "Sh!" she called down to him. "It is papa grande. I heard him call. Another time, Senor Billy. Some other night—maybe tomorrow, who knows—and I shall steal out for a little walk with you. I must go now. Buenas noches, Senor Billy."

It was softly said, and there was the caress of the soft southern speech. "I am coming, too," he called up to her. And she knew that he meant what he said. "I shall come around to the patio and so to the front door. I am going to talk with your grandfather tonight, Teresa mine!"

A laugh floated out and down to him, a rose fell, striking against his cheek, there was the glimmer and flutter of a mantilla among the vines, and the girl had stepped back through the window, closing it behind her.

She stood a moment, hesitant, her cheek a little pale. Then the thought that even now Stanway was on his way around the great house to the patio drove her in haste first to her mirror and the rearranging of her hair, the rose vine had disturbed, then to a quick descent of the broad stairway to the main floor.

The utter stillness of the drawing room smote her as she entered. The candles were like shimmering ghosts. De la Guerra was not in the room. Immediately she was dimly conscious of an unreasonable sense of uneasiness, even before she had the vaguest reason for it.

And then the reason asserted itself. A chair laid overthrown, a little way from the chair a rug was crumpled and thrown back, the ink bottle which had been upon the table lay upon the floor.

As her eyes say, her brain understood. And as she stared, before her voice had found its way to her lips, she heard a sharp knocking at the front door.

She ran to it swiftly, threw it wide and whispered fearfully: "Senor Billy, I am frightened. Look!"

He looked the way her pointing finger went, a moment in frowning failure to comprehend, then in sudden black anger.

"You mean—" he cried sharply. "Yes," she whispered, clinging to his arm. "A moment ago I heard him call out. I—I was talking with you and did not heed, but there was anger in his voice. I came down and—look, he is gone! There was a struggle—see the chair thrown down, the rug, the ink spilled there!"

Stanway left her side, striding abruptly to where the bottle lay.

There was a dark smear on the carpet near it. He leaned over it, stooping, seeing the candles reflected from the dark surface.

And his face, too, was very white as he straightened up, drawing a deep breath between his teeth.

He managed to stand between the girl and the dark smear.

"Get Pedro," he commanded sharply. "Have him call the servants, the vaqueros, every man of them. Have them come armed."

The girl turned and ran swiftly through the great rooms, down the long hallway to do his bidding, a sharp fear clutching her heart. Stanway, when she had gone, stepped quickly across the room, snatched up a rug there and threw it down upon the carpet, covering the dark spot near the bottle.

Then he stood still, waiting.

As he waited there came to him from the silence without a faint drumming sound, the noise of horses' hoofs in a mad tattoo of flight through the night.

"The rebels," he muttered angrily. "They are taking what is left of him back across the border."

He ran to the window. The curtain there was torn. Moonlight and candle light showed him where wood and plaster were scratched as in a hurried exit.

Then Teresa had come back to him, her great eyes wide with alarm, and the servants were already trooping in, sleepy-eyed and mystified.

CHAPTER III.

Eduardo Ramon Torre.

Their master was not here; their young mistress' eyes were turned with latent eagerness upon the young American owner of the Painted Rock ranch, and so the servants, each of them, turned to Stanway expectantly.

Stanway waited in silence a moment until a new set of faces in the doorway, darker, sun-kissed, bearded faces, told him that the vaqueros had risen to Pedro's clamorous call.

Then he spoke to them all, swiftly, with rising emphasis, calling upon them by name, addressing them in mixed Spanish and English, taking the word which came first to him that they would grasp.

"Gaucho," he called as a very tall, sinewy, Arab-looking man pushed his way through the cluttered door. "Tus vaqueros have work to do tonight. Are they all here—todos?"

"No, senor," he answered simply. "Los otros comin' muy queek."

"Listen, then, while they come," ran on Stanway. "It is the Mexicans, I think, who have taken your master. There was the noise of caballos running back toward the border. They are not ten minutes ahead. How many? Quien sabe, Gaucho? Probably just a band of raiders, not many. How many men, with rifles, can you get to horse pronto?"

Enter Eduardo Ramon Torre, who adds new complications to an alarming situation.

FARMER SUPREME IN CHINA

Tiller of the Soil Lives Circumscribed Life, and is Satisfied With a Bare Existence.

In recognition of the importance of Chinese agriculture the emperor himself, in the days of the empire, followed the wise custom of turning a furrow of ground, once a year in the sacred precincts of the Temple of Heaven at Peking. It is the farmer still who is the true representative of Chinese society and the farmer's baby who carries on the tradition in its soundest aspects. His life as he grows up may be narrowly circumscribed by the mud walls of his humble thatched home, which he shares indiscriminately with the pigs and live stock; the rise and fall of dynasties or republics trouble him not at all. If the year passes with no devastating floods, wrecking the results of many months' labor, food will be sufficient; no more can be asked. Now and then strolling actors come through the village and set up their grass-mat theaters; a story-teller makes his appearance at the temple festival, recounting the strangely living deeds of miraculous beings in centuries long since harvested; itinerant traders, their wares on their backs, pass down the deep-sunken road, bringing the gossip of the outer world. If life is lived according to the irrefutable denominator it is not wholly barren. There is the vast accumulated thought of the past, the immeasurable world of the countless dead, toward which the present reaches out like a ring ever widening toward eternity.—Asia Magazine.

Need for Both Law and Sword.
In all government there must of necessity be both the law and the sword; laws without arms would give us not liberty but licentiousness, and arms without laws would produce not subjection but slavery.—Coitton.

Optimistic Thought.
Any fool knows how to resist, but it is the province of a wise man to know how and when to submit.

SMALL CHURCH HAS HISTORY

Many Reasons Why Little North Devonshire Edifice Appeals to the Tourist of Leisure.

It has an odd sound, "Brent Tor," hasn't it? And it is just as odd as its sounds. Brent Tor is a little bit of a stone church built high on the frowning cliffs of the wild North Devonshire coast in England. The church is so little that a Devonshire yokel with a keen sense of humor is said to have inscribed this cryptic warning, which puzzled many a simple-minded Devonshire farmer: "If you get into the second aisle of Brent Tor, you will never get out again." There is no second aisle in the wee church at all.

Brent Tor was built centuries ago by a man who was lost among the steep cliffs and rushing waters of the wild North Devon coast. The fog mists enveloped him. In his anguish as the roar and spray of the cold Atlantic assailed him he vowed solemnly that if he ever came safely out of the fog without pitching into the growling ocean he would build a church where he landed. Brent Tor was the result.

The good folk 'round about Devonshire tell how the devil tried to hamper the building of the little church. At last St. Michael de la Rupe, to whom it was dedicated, grew weary of having the devil interfere with the proceedings and heaved a great mass of cliff at his satanic majesty. There was no further trouble.

A peculiarity of Brent Tor is the fact that it can be seen from all directions—it is a veritable landmark. Before it toss the restless waves of the Atlantic ocean and behind it slope the undulating Devonshire moors.
