PORTALES-ROSWELL FOOT BALL GAME

A Hot Contested Game on Local Field Resulted in Victory for Portales

The game was played on the Portales ball park, beginning at 3 o'clock. Roswell chose their goal, while Portales received the kick. Boykin receiving the ball took it to the Portales 40 yard line. Lindsey received a pass on first play, making 30 yards. The same play was tried on opposing side, but failed to work.

Portales made gain after gain, mainly by end plays, till they had crossed Roswell's ten yard line. Portales found they could make gains through Roswell line. Portales had 4 downs to make 9 yards. Johnson was sent through for 5 yards. He followed it with three more on 2nd down and on the 3rd down took the pigskin over for the first touchdown. Johnson showed he could go through the Roswell line and was used throughout the game for that purpose.

Goal was kicked by Fairley. Roswell received the kick. Boone caught Roswell on their 40 yard line. The ball was played in center of field for a time. Portales held Roswell on down. Portales then began to make gains using ends to good advantage.

Portales was held on 25 yard line for three downs. Johnson then kicked goal from 27 yard line, thereby making the score 10 to 0 in the first quarter.

The second quarter opened with Roswell in possession of ball on their 40 yard line. Roswell seemed to find a weak place in Portales line and they were also making some excellent passes. Roswell went over for her first touch down about 4 minutes before the whistle blew for the half. Roswell failed to kick the goal. Portales then received the ball. The ball was played in the center of the field during the rest of the quarter. The score at the end of the first half being 10 to 6 with Portales leading.

The third quarter opened by Portales kicking to Roswell. Roswell went to Portales' 15 yard line where Portales held them on downs. Portales then took the ball to Roswell's 1 yard line, by Johnson, Boykin and Lindsey catching passes. The ends were doing some good work in fake pass and in cutting down men. On the 1 yard line Portales was held for downs. Roswell with the ball in their possession punted to the 40 yard line. Murrell carried the ball back to 30 yard line. The whistle blew for the quarter at this time.

The fourth quarter opened by a long end run with Lindsey carrying ball. Portales was held again for three downs with 4 yards to make. Johnson kicked another goal from about 20 yard line, raising Portales score to 13, where it was to remain. Roswell received the ball again.

They made a number of excellent passes. Johnson intercepted a Roswell pass on Portales 30 yard line. Portales then went down to Roswell 20 yard line, Lindsey catching another pass making 35 yards of the distance covered. Murrell and made Boykin made good gains on end runs. Roswell held Portales for downs. Johnson tried for another goal but failed. Roswell took the kick to their 40 yard line. They began a series of passes which them to Portales 15 yard line again. Portales held them on downs. Portales then made 4 passes each, resulting in ten yards or more. Boykin catching the first, then Johnson, Brown and Lindsey. The whistle blew for the close of the game with Portales on Roswell's 40 yard line.

Portales boys played a good game characterized by excellent team work. Murrell played the position as quarter as it was never played before, until he was knocked out in the last 30 seconds of the game.

Lindsey played a game which any half back should be proud. He was always where the ball was and gave good interference for Murrell and Boykin on end plays.

Boykin was sore and stiff from games before, also having a bad knee. He played an excellent game. His interference was good.

Johnson was noticeable for finding a hole in Roswell line.

The line held as no line ever held before. They weakened at one time slightly, but urged by Boykin and Johnson they were soon fighting again.

The final score being 13 to 6 for Portales.

Letter from Santa Claus

Land of Good Cheer, Nov. 25, 1920.

Portales Journal,
Portales, New Mexico.

Will you kindly assist me in finding out the wants of the children of Roosevelt County? Owing to the uncertainty of the mail service at this time of the year, I will ask the little folks to write their Santa Claus letters and mail them to the Journal and, if you will be so kind as to publish them it will aid me in my Christmas work.

Wishing all little boys and girls a jolly good Christmas

Your pal,

ST. NICHOLAS

In compliance with the above request the Journal will publish letters to Santa Claus in each issue from now till Christmas week, of children under fifteen years of age. Children, write them yourselves and mail or bring them into the Journal office by Tuesday of each week. Letters received later than Tuesday will not be published till the following week. We want them in the language of the little fellows and written by them. By the aid of Old Santa we can read them all. Come on children and let us swamp Old Santa's mail bag.

Mr. Merchant, if you do not have an ad of your holiday goods in these Santa Claus editions, you are missing the opportunity of the year. Come on in, the water is fine. Let's go over the top and make this the greatest Christmas season ever known in Portales.

Sister of Hugh Knox Killed in Auto Accident

Clarendon, Texas, Nov. 22—Mrs. John Anderson, of Wellington, Texas, was instantly killed and her husband, a prominent merchant at Wellington, was badly injured when their automobile turned over in the road about four miles east of here this afternoon.

News of the accident came quickly to Clarendon and an ambulance was rushed to the scene with medical help. Mrs. Anderson was pinned beneath the car when the machine turned over on a rough piece of road. The Wellington man upon extricating himself from underneath the car sent out immediately a summons for medical aid for his wife, but to no avail.

Anderson is a well known merchant of Wellington and had been in Clarendon with his wife visiting relatives here and a daughter at college. The body was taken back to Wellington for interment.

Will Feed Bunch of Two Year Old Steers

J. W. Partin and Frank Beeman of the Richland community are preparing to feed about 140 head of two year old steers.

These gentlemen have a large tonnage of corn and are going to try this method of taking it to market. The steers will be penned and put on full feed consisting of roughage and ear corn which will be chopped on the cob. Hogs will follow the steers in the feed lot. If these gentlemen find this a profitable way to market their corn, it will open up a new line of industry in Roosevelt county. The feed crop is extra heavy this year and disposing of it this way will save the expense of the long hauls to market.

Here's hoping that they will top the Kansas City market on corn fed steers when they ship.

The Industrial Center

The Journal man made a trip around the warehouse section of Portales, Tuesday and found it the busiest part of town. The sweet potato curing plants were under full swing and are shipping out about a car load of potatoes a week to local trade. They expect the car shipments to open up in a short while. The broom corn ware house was a very busy place, and it looked to us as if there was enough straw there to furnish brooms for the entire country.

The Portales Brokerage and Commission Co., are installing an up-to-date Howe Auto Truck scale, which will be the largest and most modern scale in the county.

Family Reunion

An old fashioned family reunion was held at the home of F. T. Burke on Thanksgiving day.

Those being present were Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Dobbs, Carl Turner and family, Ira Taylor and family of Texico, and Mr. and Mrs. U. V. Dobbs of Grant, Nebraska.

Kansas-New Mexico Well Near Artesia Shows 15 Feet of Oil

Artesia, Nov. 20.—The Kansas-New Mexico oil well, 17 miles south of this city, which was pumped a few days a week or two ago, has about fifteen feet of oil standing in the bottom of the hole, according to the drillers. This well is only 608 feet deep and this week when the drillers dropped the baler down they found the oil at the bottom, and the fact that the sand has been barely touched is enough to cause optimism among the oil people. The plan now is to bail the well out during the coming week, drill the hole deeper and then give the oil time to accumulate again to determine the quantity. If the well does not become a real producer after the hole is drilled deeper, the well will be shot. Work at the well of the Illinois Producers company is progressing and plans are now being made to shoot the hole as soon as the materials can be secured. At the Orchard Park well the tools are still lost and at the Lake Arthur the work of rebuilding the derrick which was burned down some time ago, is going on and drilling will soon be resumed.

HAD NERVOUS BREAK-DOWN

But Health Restored to Texas Lady, Who Is Now Well and Strong, Able to Do All Her Housework and More.

Rosebud, Texas.—Mrs. Annie Lange, of R. F. D. No. 4, this place, writes as follows regarding her experience with Cardul: "Some time ago I had a nervous breakdown of some kind . . . I was very weak, and so nervous. It all seemed to come from . . . trouble, for at . . . I had fainting spells and suffered a great deal, but more from the weak, trembly, no-account feeling than anything else. I knew I needed a tonic, and needed it badly.

"I began the use of Cardul, to see if I couldn't get some strength, as I knew of other cases that had been helped by its use. I felt better . . . I soon saw a great improvement, so kept it up.

"I used seven bottles of Cardul, and can say the money was well spent, for I grew well and strong. Now able to do all my housework and a great deal of work besides."

If you are run-down, weak, nervous, and suffer from the ailments peculiar to women, it is very likely that Cardul will help you, in the way it has helped thousands of others, during the past 40 years.

MOST IMPORTANT THAT GREATER USE BE MADE OF CHEAPER FEEDS

Ordinary Wire Fencing Used to Reinforce Concrete Construction of a Silo.

To assist farmers and stockmen in feeding beef cattle economically during the coming winter, specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture point out the need for a liberal use of roughage. The meat situation in the United States requires a maximum of efficiency in feeding if production is to be maintained in the face of high costs for feed and labor. Recommendations of the department follow:

Economy should be the keynote in production. However, discretion must be used so that economy will be consistent with good gains. A ration might be so economical as to merely maintain the animal, but this would not be economy, when gain in weight was the object sought.

Greater Use of Cheaper Feeds. At the present time, when grain and concentrates are so expensive, it is all the more important that a greater use be made of cheaper feeds. The cheaper feeds are those raised on the farm and consist primarily of roughages. Then, greater economy will depend upon a greater use of roughages, properly balanced with some grain or protein concentrate.

It should be borne in mind that a balanced ration is not necessarily the most economical. A ration having a nutritive ration of 1.6 might produce the greatest daily gains on a two-year-old steer, yet, it might show better judgment and more profit to feed a ration with a ratio of 1.8, produced by utilization of a greater amount of cheaper roughages, and a lesser amount of high-priced concentrates.

The practice of feeding high-priced feeds, and not making a full use of roughages, is quite general throughout the corn belt. In some of the middle western states, very little straw is used for feed, but practically all for bedding. Quite often the cattle are allowed to run around the straw stack, resulting in a waste of at least 50 per cent of the straw. Straw, as dry roughage, forms a very prominent place in a ration for cattle, either in the fattening lot or when fed to stockers and feeders.

In some sections of Indiana oat and wheat straw make up the entire dry roughage for the greater part of the feeding period. In certain parts of Nebraska, where alfalfa is produced abundantly, the straw is used only for bedding. Even where alfalfa hay is fed, cattle will eat more or less of good straw, if they have access to it. It is a good idea to keep some straw before them. Let the cattle pick it over and use what is left for bedding.

Waste No Straw. Now is a good time to look at your straw stack. Trim up the stack by raking down the sides and properly topping so as to shed the fall rains. By spending a day on your straw stacks now you will save many a ton of straw which can be used in replacing considerable expensive hay next winter.

In some states most of the corn is cut, shocked, and husked out by hand later in the season. Why not let a shredder do the husking and have a roughage left, the greater part of which will be relished by the cattle? The shredded fodder, which is refused by the cattle, makes one of the very best bedding materials.

Corn fodder, while it is a good roughage, is not an economical one. There is a very large waste in handling. A large percentage of the leaves are lost, and the corn itself is about all the cattle get from the entire corn plant. Run your fodder through a shredder, feed the ear corn separately, and the greater part of the corn plant will be utilized. Corn fodder, however, can be used advantageously at the beginning of the feeding period in the fall or early winter. Range cattle that have never seen corn or grain of any kind can be put on feed more rapidly by starting on green or cured corn fodder. This kind of cattle will begin nibbling at the leaves and gradually get to eating the corn. On the other hand, if ear corn was placed before them it would be days before they would begin to eat it.

The use of legume hays, where grown on the farm, will obviate the use of high-priced protein concentrates. Good hay, however, is high priced and should be fed in such a way as to avoid any waste.

Corn stalks in the field, after the corn has been removed, should be utilized by turning a sufficient number of cattle on them to clear them up completely before severe winter and snows come.

Protect Contents of Silo. The most important roughage, so far as economical beef production is concerned, is yet to be mentioned, and that is silage. Silage is no longer a cheap feed, but in the strictest sense of the word there is no cheap feed. Silage is worth at the present time from $10 to $13 a ton, depending upon local labor conditions and upon the quality and yield of corn. Even at these prices it makes one of the most economical cattle feeds. More cattle can be handled on a given farm area where the silo furnishes the bulk of the roughage. More feed can be stored per cubic foot of space than by any other means. Cattle can be fattened on silage, supplemented with a small amount of a highly concentrated protein feed, such as cottonseed or linseed meal, and a little dry roughage, such as oat straw. Stockers and feeders can be wintered on silage alone.

RIGHT ATTENTION TO HORSES

No Grain is Needed During Idle Months of Winter if Forage is of Good Quality.

Idle work horses may be carried over the winter with no grain whatever, provided the forage is of good quality and abundant. See that the horses have protection from wind and storms, yet are not too closely confined. In the spring a good while before hard work begins start feeding some grain gradually and work the horses a little to harden them for the heavier work later on.

Sudan Grass for Feed. Sudan grass seems to have a feeding value quite similar to timothy, although for cattle it seems to be somewhat superior to timothy.

Cause of Leg Weakness. Leg weakness in growing chickens is often due to confinement in a brooder house on a dry wood or cement floor.

BIG CROP OF POTATOES

- To grow big crop of potatoes—
1. Have well-drained, fertile soil.
 2. Prepare a deep seedbed.
 3. Plant seed free from disease.
 4. Plant seed improved by selection.
 5. Keep seed from sprouting until planted.
 6. Treat all seed for disease.
 7. Cultivate thoroughly.
 8. Spray for bugs and blight.
 9. Rotate crops with legumes.
- Don't plant potatoes after potatoes.

Beginning With Poultry.

The beginner with poultry should not be tempted to buy large numbers of hens or pullets culled from the flock of another poultryman.

Lice, mites and other parasites suck their living from fowls.

BANDITS GET MILLION HAUL

TREASURY SHIPMENT LOST IN CAR LOOTED BY BANDITS

AMOUNT OF LOSS IS UNCERTAIN

Express Car Containing Unknown Amount of Bonds, Currency and Gold from the West Coast and the S. F. Mint.

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—Three men have been arrested in connection with the robbery of the Burlington fast mail train, Omaha to Chicago.

Two of them are mail clerks and are reported by police to have stated that they thought they knew who robbed the car. Police refuse to name the men they suspect.

The other man arrested is said by officers to have confessed but they refuse to state who he is or any of the particulars of his alleged confession.

Omaha.—Efforts were being made to recover between $1,000,000 and $1,200,000 stolen by train bandits when they broke into an express car on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railway between here and Council Bluffs. Scores of secret service men, postoffice inspectors and details of police worked searching for the robbers and their loot.

Government officials refused to hazard a guess to the amount stolen by the bandits. Railroad officials said it might not exceed $20,000, but the Omaha and Council Bluffs police officials made no attempt to minimize the robbery.

Bonds in Loot. A portion of the loot was a treasury shipment of gold from the United States mint in San Francisco to the United States treasury in Washington, it was said. Besides the gold there was a vast quantity of currency, bonds and registered mail.

It was the biggest train robbery in twenty-five years, if not the whole history of the country. Chief of police of Omaha, charged the robbery was committed by persons familiar with the government's method of shipping gold.

Robbery From Inside. "Somebody connected with the department on the inside was in the plot," he said. He had heard unofficially the shipment exceeded $10,000,000.

Government officials working on the case would make no statement. They said the amount of loot secured might not be known for thirty days. The car was made up in San Francisco and contained a shipment of money, stocks and bonds from many California towns and cities. It was consigned to banks in numerous cities on the Atlantic coast. It was understood there was a heavy shipment for Chicago and another for New York in addition to a large gold shipment from the San Francisco mint in the treasury department in Washington.

Until complaints of the shippers or consignees have been received, postal officials said, the department has no way of checking up all the different shipments and the amounts.

The treasury shipment of gold was contained in a number of strong boxes. The treasury car came into Omaha on a Union Pacific train and was transferred to the Burlington at this place. It was cut in the center of the Burlington's fast mail to Chicago. When the car left Omaha it was securely locked and bolted. At the Union Pacific transfer, between Omaha and Council Bluffs the train stopped. At that time the treasure car was still intact.

Car in Disorder.

Half an hour after leaving Omaha the train drew up at the Council Bluffs depot. A postal clerk attempted to pass through the treasure car but found the door locked from the inside. Suspecting robbery he summoned other postal clerks. The door was broken down. The interior of the car was in disorder. Instead of being half filled with registered sacks of mail it was almost empty. Boxes of gold from the mint, that were said to be in the car, could not be found.

A window on one side of the car had been broken. The gold and mail bags were thrown through the window while the train was in motion. The robbers were supposed to have leaped from the window after completing the robbery. Passing between the transfer and the city depot the train runs at not more than five miles an hour.

An hour was required to organize a posse and search the line the train had traveled. There was evidence of the loot having been loaded in waiting automobiles.

Back Given Out?

There's surely some reason for that lame, aching back. Likely it's your kidneys. A cold or strain sometimes congests the kidneys and slows them up. That may be the reason for that nagging headache, those sharp pains, that tired, worn-out feeling. You may have headaches and dizzy spells, too, with annoying bladder irregularity. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands. Ask your neighbor!

LET ALL REJOICE

Taking Courage From the Spirit of the Pilgrims.

Surely the People of Today Have More Causes for Thankfulness Than They Possessed.

To us it certainly seems as though the Pilgrims had little to be thankful for. If the settlers in Plymouth could "sacrifice the sacrifices of thanksgiving" in 1621, what, pray, ought we to do in this year of our Lord? Think of the blessings which we enjoy as the commonplace of the day, of which the Pilgrims never even dreamed! A vast territory mastered, surveyed and thickly settled—abundant treasures of farm, mine, forest and mill poured out for human uses—innumerable inventions harnessed to the service of human efficiency and comfort—a great republic "conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal"—free political, educational and religious institutions, hitherto unknown and unparalleled, successfully established—a higher grade of material well being, a wider diffusion of culture, a nobler ideal of happiness, a finer conception of democracy, achieved for all the people, than the world has ever seen before! It is true, of course, that not all ills have been suppressed, nor all blessings won. But because we have not yet achieved everything is no reason why we should not be glad that we have achieved much! Because we have not yet won the goal of life is no reason why we should not rejoice that we have advanced! The world today is better than it ever has been before. Men have less suffering, greater happiness and nobler opportunity than in any epoch past. Humanity is still fighting the same persistent ills and seeking the same illusive goods, but in new fields and on higher levels. The goal still lies far ahead, but behind is a long road of miseries conquered and battles won.

Thanksgiving.

By T. C. Harbaugh.

In the twilight of November,
With its foliage of gold,
Comes again the glad Thanksgiving
Blest with customs dear and old;
And beneath the starry banner
As it floats from sea to sea,
We a happy people gather,
Fears at rest, for all are free.

Not a hand in all the nation,
In the East or in the West,
Bars the mansion or the cottage
To the glad Thanksgiving guest;
From the balmy, kindly Southland
To the nodding pines of Maine,
Nature, filled with joy and triumph,
Spreads her annual feast again.

We are thankful for the blessings
That have crowned our cherished land—
Fruitful orchards, golden harvests,
Peace and love from strand to strand;
'Neath November's robes of beauty
Hidden lies the warrior's sword,
And the olive-branch is hanging
O'er the nation's festive board.

Aye, from mountain unto mountain
'Tis the Union's starry dome
To the feast we spread this autumn
Bid the absent welcome home;
Round the board where all are merry
Let the brightest sunlight play;
With the love-key of Thanksgiving
Open every heart today.

Hail the hallowed Thanksgiving
Which the Pilgrim Fathers gave;
'Tis their legacy forever
On the land and on the wave;
Then, as Freedom's chosen people,
We our destiny fulfill,
May the Future's sweet Thanksgiving
Find us grander, greater still.
(© 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

Therefore, Give Thanks.
Thanks to the providence of God as It has worked in history and to the work of brave men who believed they were children of God, the petty colonies are now one nation. Of that nation the meanest citizen, the most foolish, the weakest and the poorest, has every right and privilege before the law which belongs to the strongest, the richest and the wisest, though he were born in the purple of luxury.

A Thanksgiving Offering From a Grateful Heart

Lord, who set the furrow deep,
And sow the seeds of industry,
For the rich guerdon that we reap
Give thanks to Thee!

Lord, who make the anvils ring,
Who rive and weld laboriously,
For all the wage our labors bring
Give thanks to Thee!

Lord, who watch the spindles
ply,
The shuttles flying dizzily,
For every boon our efforts buy
Give thanks to Thee!

Lord, who build with busy hand
Of wood or stone unceasingly,
For whatsoever our arts command
Give thanks to Thee!

Lord, who delve in under-earth
Far from Thy sunlight fair and free,
For whatsoever we win of earth
Give thanks to Thee!

Lord, who hoist the straining sail,
And plow the green waves of the sea,
For what our stormy tasks avail
Give thanks to Thee!

Lord, who the toilers of the brain,
Who clutch at dreams that cling or flee,
For whatsoever heights we gain
Give thanks to Thee!

Lord, who Thy children, small and great,
Beneath Thy care, wherever it be,
The while Thy grace we supplicate,
Give thanks to Thee!

PEOPLE MUST HAVE TURKEY

Always Willing to Pay High Prices for the Chief Feature of Thanksgiving Dinner.

New York spends about $3,000,000 on its Thanksgiving dinner, with turkey as its chief feature. The dealers say if it cost a dollar per pound they would sell just about as many. Turkey on Thanksgiving is traditional in America, and the farmer knows it. He fattens his best birds and saves them for this day. Without realizing it the farmer thus corners the market until the price gets high enough. Then he sells. But the people will have their turkey and this year the dealers expect a greater demand than ever, although they are selecting smaller birds in order to meet it.

The great part of the city's turkey supply comes from the Middle West—Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. Maryland and Kentucky send large consignments. This year "turkey specials" are run from St. Louis. A year ago one of these trains brought 82,000 birds for the local market.

A SONG FOR THANKSGIVING

Summer is gone,
Autumn is here;
This is the harvest
For all the year.

Corn in the crib, oats in the bin,
Wheat is thrashed, barley drawn in.
Apples are barreled, nuts laid to dry;
Frost in the garden, winter is nigh.
Father in Heaven, thank Thee for all.
Winter and springtime, summer and fall.
—Selected

Vast numbers of turkeys are raised in Missouri and Texas. The product of the latter state, where the birds feed on sage and sunflower seeds, is highly regarded. According to reports, however, the output of both of these sections has been effectively cornered this year.

GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER

The Remedy With a Record of Fifty-four Years of Surpassing Excellence.

Those who suffer from nervous dyspepsia, constipation, indigestion, torpid liver, dizziness, headaches, coming up of food, wind on stomach, palpitation and other indications of fermentation and indigestion will find Green's August Flower a most effective and efficient assistant in the restoration of nature's functions and a return to health and happiness. There could be no better testimony of the value of this remedy for these troubles than the fact that its use for the last fifty-four years has extended into many thousands of households all over the civilized world and no indication of any failure has been obtained in all that time where medicine could effect relief. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

If a man would only keep his opinions to himself no one would deny his rights to them.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

If you would discover a woman's weakness keep quiet and listen.

WHEN A WOMAN IS NERVOUS—WORRIED

The lives of most women are full of worry. Men's troubles are bad enough, but women's are worse. Worry makes women sick. It pulls them down, and in their weakened condition they are subject to pains, aches, weakness, back-aches, headaches and dizzy spells.

Most women neglect their health, and for this they pay the penalty. Any woman will find that neglect does not pay. A little more attention to health would brighten up her life. If she asks her neighbors she finds that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription benefits a woman's whole system. It not only acts upon the troubles and weaknesses peculiar to women, but is an all-around tonic that braces the entire body, overcoming nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches, dizziness and a run-down condition.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.—"For about three years I have been in a run-down condition. I would be so weak at times I could scarcely get around. I was extremely nervous, could not sleep and I was in a miserable state when I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I have not taken all of one bottle but am feeling better than I have for a long time. I am going to continue its use for I know it is helping me more than any medicine I have taken."

"DROP THAT GUN!"

Synopsis.—Adventurous and reckless, rather than criminal, and excited by liquor, Curly Flandrau and his chum, Mac, both practically mere boys, become involved in a horse-stealing adventure. Disposing of the stolen stock in the town of Saguache, Ariz., the band separates, Curly and his partner staying in town. They are awakened and told a posse is in town in pursuit of them. They elude their pursuers. Overtaken next day, Mac is killed by the posse and Curly taken captive, after he has shot one and himself been wounded. The man shot is Luck Cullison, a former fighting sheriff. Cullison's friends, all cattlemen, determine to lynch Curly as an example to cattle thieves. With the rope around his neck he is saved by the intervention of Kate Cullison, Luck's daughter. His wound dressed, and further violence not apprehended, Curly is sent for by Cullison. He questions the boy concerning a notorious outlaw, Soapy Stone, real leader of the rustlers who had been Curly's undoing. Flandrau learns that Soapy Stone is Cullison's bitter enemy and exercised a baleful influence over the ex-sheriff's son Sam, who has quarreled with his father. Cullison goes ball for Curly. Curly rescues Soapy Stone from a bear trap. At the London ranch he discovers that the outlaw is Sam Cullison's rival for Laura London's hand. She gives Curly a note to deliver to Sam, and Flandrau and Stone set out for the latter's ranch. There Curly meets his companions of the rustling expedition. Young Cullison believes Stone is his friend and says he will stick by him. Flandrau sees some move is being planned and becomes convinced it is train robbery. Sam leaves the ranch for Saguache. Curly accompanies him.

CHAPTER V.—Continued.

Flandrau paid for and pocketed the ticket he did not intend to use. He had found out what he wanted to know. The express did not stop at Tin Cup. Why, then, had Soapy marked the time of its arrival there? He was beginning to guess the reason. But he would have to do more than guess.

Flandrau sauntered back to the hotel on the lookout for Sam. He was not there, but waiting for him was a boy with a note for the gentleman in No. 311.

"Kid looking for you," the clerk called to the cow-puncher.

"Are you Mr. Soapy Stone's friend, the one just down from Dead Cow creek?" asked the boy.

Curly nodded and took the note. This was what he read:

"Sam, come to Chalkey's place soon as you get this. There we will talk over the business.

"YOU KNOW WHO."

Though he did not know who, Curly thought he could give a pretty good guess both as to the author and the business that needed talking over.

Through the open door of the hotel he saw Sam approaching. Quickly he sealed the flap of the envelope again. "A letter for you, Sam."

Cullison tore open the envelope and read the note.

"A friend of mine has come to town and wants to see me," he explained.

To help out his bluff, Curly sprang the feeble-minded jest on him. "Blonde or brunette?"

"I'm no lady's man," Sam protested, content to let the other follow a wrong scent.

"Sure not. It never is a lady," Flandrau called after him as he departed.

But Sam had no more than turned the corner before Curly was out of a side door and cutting through an alley toward Chalkey's place. Reaching the back door of the saloon, he opened it a few inches and peered in. A minute later Sam opened the front screen and asked a question of the man in the apron. The bartender gave a jerk of his thumb. Sam walked toward the rear and turned in at the second private booth.

Curly slipped forward quietly, and passed unobserved into the third stall. The wall which divided one room from another was of pine boarding and did not reach the ceiling. Flattened against the wall, his attention strained to the utmost, Curly began to catch words and phrases of the low-voiced speakers in the next compartment. His position was perilous in the extreme, but he would not leave now until he had found out what he wanted to know.

CHAPTER VI.

Eavesdropping.

Out of the murmur of voices came one that Curly recognized as that of Soapy Stone, alias You Know Who. " . . . then you'll take the 9:57, Sam . . ."

After more whispering, "Yep, soon as you hear the first shot . . . cover the passengers . . ."

The listener lost what followed. Once he thought he heard the name Tin Cup, but he could not be sure. Presently another fragment drifted to him. " . . . make our getaway and cache the plunder . . ."

The phonograph lifted up its voice. This time it was "I Love a Lassie." Before the song was finished there came the sound of shuffling feet. One of the men in the next stall was leaving. Curly could not tell which one, nor did he dare look over the top of the partition to find out. He was playing safe. This adventure had caught him so unexpectedly that he had not found time to run back to his room for his six-gun. What would happen to him if he were caught listening was not a matter of doubt. Soapy would pump lead into him till he quit kicking, slap a saddle on a broncho and light out for the Sonora line.

As the phonograph finished unexpectedly—some one had evidently interrupted the record—the fragment of a sentence seemed to jump at Curly. " . . . so the kid will get his in the row."

It was the voice of Soapy, raised slightly to make itself heard above the music.

"Take care," another voice replied, and Flandrau would have sworn that this belonged to Blackwell.

Stone, who had been sitting on the other side of the table, moved close to the paroled convict. Between him and Curly there was only the thickness of a plank.

" . . . don't like it," Blackwell was objecting sullenly.

"Makes it safe for us. Besides"—Stone's voice grated like steel rasping steel, every word distinct though very low—"I swore to pay off Luck Cullison, and by G— I'm going to do it."

Again they fell to whispers. The next word that came to Curly clearly was his own name.

"Luck Cullison went his ball. I learned it this morn'g."

"The son-of-a-gun. It's a cinch he's a spy. Reckon he knows anything?"

"No. Can't."

"If I thought he did—"

"Keep your shirt on, Lute. He don't know a thing. And you get revenge on him all right. Sam will run with him and his friends while he's here. Consequence is, when they find the kid where we leave him they'll sure guess Curly for one of his pardners. Tell you his ticket is good as bought to Yuma. He's a horse thief. Why shouldn't he be a train robber, too? That's how a jury will argue."

Once more the voices ran together indistinctly. It was not till Blackwell suggested that they go and get a drink that Curly understood anything more of what was being said.

The outlaws passed out of the little room and strolled forward to the bar. Curly had heard more than he had expected to. Moreover, as he congratulated himself, his luck had stood up fine. Nobody in the suburban territory felt happier than he did that minute when he struck the good fresh air of the alley and knew that he had won through his hazardous adventure alive.

The first thing that Flandrau did was to walk toward the outskirts of the town, where he could think it out by himself. Before he reached Avroyo street Curly came plump against his old range-mate, Slat Davs. Flandrau caught him by the arm. "Hello, Slat. You're the man I want."

"I'm pretty busy today," Davis answered stiffly.

"Forget it. This is more important."

"Well?"

"Come along and take a walk. I got something to tell you."

Reluctantly Davis fell in beside him. "All right. Cut it short. I've got to see a man."

"He'll have to wait," Curly could not help chuckling to himself at the evident embarrassment of the other. The impish impulse to "devil" him had its way. "You're a man of experience, Slat. Ever hold up a train? Some of my friends are aiming to hold up one shortly. If you'd like to get in I'll say a good word for you."

Davs threw him a look that drenched like ice water. "I expect you and me are traveling different trails these days, Curly. You don't mean it, of course, but the point is I'm not going to joke with you along that line. Understand?"

"Wrong guess, old boss. I do mean it."

Davs stopped in his tracks. "Then you've said too much to me. We'll part right here. When you choose Soapy Stone's crowd to run with that cuts out me and other decent folks. If they have sent you here to get me mixed up in their devilry you go back and tell them there's nothing doing."

"Won't have a thing to do with them. Is that it?"

"Not till the call comes for citizens to get together and run them out of the country. Or to put them behind bars. Or to string them to a cottonwood. Then I'll be on the job."

He stood there quiet and easy, the look in his steady eyes piercing Curly's ironic smile as a summer sun does mackerel clouds in a clear sky. Not many men would have had the courage to send that message to Soapy and his outfit. For Stone was not only a man-killer, but a mean one, at that.

Curly sloughed his foolishness and came to the point. "You're on, Slat. I'm making that call to you now."

Surprise, doubt, wonder, relief filled in turn the face of the other man. "I'm listening, Curly."

His friend told him the whole story from the beginning, just as he had been used to do in the old days. And Davs heard it without a word, taking the tale in quietly with a grim look settling on his face.

"So he aims to play traitor to young Cullison."

"He means to shut Sam's mouth for good and all. That is what he has been playing for from the start, to get even with Luck. He and his gang will get away with the haul and they will leave Sam dead on the scene of the holdup. There'll be some shooting, and it will be figured the boy was hit by one of the train crew. Nothing could be easier. He aims to put me on the stand and prove by me that Sam and he had a quarrel and parted company a week before the holdup. He'll have an alibi, too, to show he couldn't have been in it. See how slick his scheme is? At one flip of the cards he kills the kid and dauns his reputation. He scores Cullison and he snuffs out Sam, who has had the luck to win the girl Soapy fancies. The boy gets his and the girl is shown she can't love another man than Stone."

"You've got it about right," Slat admitted. "How about warning Luck?"

"The point is, would he be willing to wait and let Soapy play his hand out till we called?"

"You would have to guarantee his boy would be safe meanwhile."

"Two of us would have to watch him day and night without Sam knowing it."

"Count me in."

"There is where we hit heavy traveling. Slat. For we don't know when the thing is going to be pulled off."

"We'll have to be ready. That's all."

"Happen to know whether Dick Maloney is here for the show?"

"Saw him this morn'g. Luck is here too, him and his girl."

"Good. We've got to have a talk with them, and it has to be on the q.t. You go back to town and find Dick. Tell him to meet us at the Del Mar, where Luck always puts up. Find out the number of Cullison's room and make an appointment. I'll be on El Mollino street all morn'g off and on. When you find out pass me without stopping, but tell me when we are to meet and just where."

Curly gave Slat a quarter of an hour before sauntering back to town. As he was passing the Silver Dollar saloon a voice called him. Stone and Blackwell were standing in the door. Flandrau stopped.

Soapy's deep-set eyes blazed at him. "You didn't tell me it was Luck Cullison went ball for you, Curly. So you and him are thick, are you?"

"I've met him once, if that's being thick. That time I shot him up."

"Funny. And then he went ball for you?"

"Yes."

"Now, I wonder why."

The eyes of the man had narrowed to red slits. His head had shot forward on his shoulders as that of a snake does. Curly would have given a good deal just then for the revolver lying on the bed of his room. For it was plain trouble was in sight. The desperado had been drinking heavily and was ready to do murder.

"That's easy to explain, Soapy. I shot him because I was driven to it. He's too much of a man to bear a grudge for what I couldn't help."

"You're a liar. He did it because you promised to sneak up to my ranch and spy on us. That's why he did it."

With the last word his gun jumped into sight. That he was lashing himself into a fury was plain. Presently his rage would end in a tragedy.

Given a chance, Curly would have run for it. But Soapy was a dead shot. Of a sudden the anger in the boy boiled up over the fear. In two jumps he covered the ground and jammed his face close to the cold rim of the blue-steel barrel.

"I'm not heeled. Shoot and be damned, you coward. And with my last breath I'll tell you that you're a liar."

Flandrau had called his bluff, though he had not meant it as one. A dozen men were in sight and were watching. They had heard the young man tell Stone he was not armed. Public opinion would hold him to account if he shot Curly down in cold blood. He hung there undecided, breathing fast, his jaw clamped tightly.

The lad hammered home his defiance. "Drop that gun, you four-flusher, and I'll whale you till you can't stand. Sabe? Call yourself a bad man, do you? Time I'm through with you there will be one tame wolf crawling back to Dead Cow with its tail between its legs."

The taunt diverted his mind, just as Curly had hoped it would. He thrust the revolver back into the holster and reached for his foe.

Then everybody, hitherto paralyzed by the sight of a deadly weapon, woke up and took a hand. They dragged the two men apart. Curly was thrust into a barber shop on the other side of the street and Stone was dragged back into the Silver Dollar.

In two minutes Flandrau had made himself famous, for he was a marked man. The last words of the struggling desperado had been that he would shoot on sight. Now half a dozen talked at once. Some advised Curly one thing, some another. He must get out of town. He must apologize at once to Stone. He must send a friend and explain.

The young man laughed grimly. "Explain nothing. I've done all the explaining I'm going to. And I'll not leave town either. If Soapy wants me he'll sure find me."

"Don't be foolish, kid. He has got four notches on that gun of his. And he's a dead shot."

The tongues of those about him galloped. But Curly was excited, pleased with himself because he had stood up to the bogey man of the Southwest and too full of strength to be afraid.

Maloney came into the barber shop and grinned at him. "I hear you and Soapy are figuring on setting off some fireworks this Fourth."

It did Curly good to see him standing there so easy and deliberate among the excitable town people.

"Soapy is doing the talking."

"I heard him; happened to be at the Silver Dollar when they dragged him in."

Maloney's eyebrows moved the least bit. His friend understood. Together they passed out of the back door of the shop into an alley. The others stood back and let them go.

Back to the hotel the two ran. When Curly buckled on his revolver and felt it resting comfortably against his thigh he felt a good deal better.

"I've seen Slat Davs," Maloney explained. "He has gone to find Luck, who is now at the Del Mar."

"Had any talk with Slat?"

"No. He said you'd do the talking."

"I'm to wait for him on El Mollino street to learn where I'm to meet Cullison."

"That won't do. You'd make too tempting a target. I'll meet him instead."

That suited Curly. He was not hunting trouble just now, even though he would not run away from it. For he had serious business on hand that could not take care of itself if Soapy should kill him.

Nearly an hour later Maloney appeared again.

"We're to go right over to the Del Mar. Second floor, room 217. You are to go down El Mollino to Main, then follow it to the hotel, keeping on the right hand side of the street. Slat will happen along the other side of the street and will keep abreast of you. Luck will walk behind you. Unless I yell your name don't pay any attention to what is behind you. Soon as we reach the hotel Slat will cross the road and go in by the side door. You will follow him a few steps behind, and we'll bring up the rear casually as if we hadn't a thing to do with you."

They moved down the street as arranged. Every time a door opened in front of him, every time a man came out of a store or a saloon, Curly was ready for that lightning lift of the arm followed by a puff of smoke. The news of his coming passed ahead of him, so that windows were crowded with spectators. These were doomed to disappointment. Nothing happened. The procession left behind it the Silver Dollar, the Last Chance, Chalkey's Place and Pete's Palace.

Reaching the hotel first, Davis disappeared according to program into the side door. Curly followed, walked directly up the stairs, along the corridor, and passed without knocking into room 217.

A young woman was sitting there engaged with some fancy work. Slender and straight, Kate Cullison rose and gave Curly her hand. For about two heartbeats her fingers lay cuddled in his big fist. A strange stifling emotion took his arm.

Then her breath fell to her side and she was speaking to him.

"Dad has gone to meet you. We've heard about what happened this morning."

Her father and Maloney entered the room. Cullison wrung his hand.

Curly calls Stone's bluff.

PAINS NEARLY DOUBLED ME UP

Nothing Helped Me Until I Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wyandotte, Mich.—"For the last four years I have doctored off and on without help. I have had pains every month so bad that I would nearly double up. Sometimes I could not sweep a room without stopping to rest, and everything I ate upset my stomach. Three years ago I lost a child and suffered so badly that I was out of my head at times. My bowels did not move for days and I could not eat without suffering. The doctor could not help me and one day I told my husband that I could not stand the pain any longer and sent him to the drug-store to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and threw the doctor's medicine away. After taking three bottles of Vegetable Compound and using two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I could do my own housework. If it had not been for your medicine I don't know where I would be today and I am never without a bottle of it in the house. You may publish this if you like that it may help some other woman."—Mrs. MARY STENDER, 120 Orange St., Wyandotte, Mich.

It represents the best that can be had in merchants of every description.

Why Suffer?

Cardui "Did Wonders for Me," Declares This Lady.

"I suffered for a long time with womanly weakness," says Mrs. J. R. Simpson, of 57 Spruce St., Asheville, N. C. "I finally got to the place where it was an effort for me to go. I would have bearing-down pains in my side and back — especially severe across my back, and down in my side there was a great deal of soreness. I was nervous and easily upset.

TAKE

The Woman's Tonic

"I heard of Cardui and decided to use it," continues Mrs. Simpson. "I saw shortly it was benefiting me, so I kept it up and it did wonders for me. And since then I have been glad to praise Cardui. It is the best woman's tonic made." Weak women need a tonic. Thousands and thousands, like Mrs. Simpson, have found Cardui of benefit to them. Try Cardui for your trouble.

AS THEY CAME ON THE MENU

Little Willie Had His Own Idea as to Dishes That Met With His Particular Favor.

Gooseberry tart and currant pudding reposed in all their luscious temptings on the table in front of him. Willie liked both. He was torn with conflicting emotions.

"Which will you have, Willie?" asked his mother.

"Gooseberry tart," gasped Willie, after a long and patient struggle.

"Tart what?" asked Willie's parent wishing him to add "please."

Willie didn't understand.

"Tart what?" she repeated sharply.

Then Willie had an idea which seemed to solve his difficulties and make the world bright once more.

"Tart, first," he answered happily.

Daddy Was Poor Company.

Little Dot did not like the idea of being left home with her father, who was more interested in reading than entertaining her while her mother went to church.

She was in quite a troubled way when mother and aunt returned this Sunday and said: "Mother, why don't you and aunt take turns going to church, one on Saturday and the other Sunday, because your little girl is lonesome to stay in the house alone with just her daddy?"

Spoke Her Mind.

A friend of mother's asked if I would stay with her children one evening while she and her husband went to a theater.

"Just after I thought they had left, the children began to be noisy, and when I asked them to be more quiet, one of them answered me rudely.

"If you children," said I, "aren't going to act like human beings I shall go right home and leave you here alone. I'm surprised at you, I've heard you were badly trained, and now I know it."

Their mother at that moment entered the room. She said she had decided not to go, and that I need not stay any longer. I departed without delay.—Exchange.

It Was Potent.

"How about the bootleg goods in this town?" asked the stranger.

"In what particular?" said the old inhabitant.

"Is it potent?"

"Potent" is the word. A gentleman of my acquaintance stepped out of a theater one night during an intermission and purchased a few drinks in a near-by alley. Then he returned to the theater.

"Well, what is so remarkable about that?"

"He didn't know, until the doorkeeper kindly told him, that it was the next night."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Ho that hath never warred with misery Nor ever tugged with danger or distress Hath had no occasion nor no field to try The strength and forces of his worthiness.

WHAT TO EAT.

A salad combination that is especially good and not very common, is: Tomato and Pear Salad.—Peel ripe, firm tomatoes and cut in eighths or quarters; cut ripe pears after peeling and coring into the same sized pieces. Alternate a section of pear and tomato, making a flower-shaped design on heart leaves of lettuce. Place a spoonful of mayonnaise in the center and serve.

Scalloped Fish.—Pick any fish left from dinner into bits, carefully removing all the bones. Take a pint of milk, place in a double boiler, add a slice of onion cut fine, a sprig of parsley, minced fine, two tablespoonfuls of butter, salt and pepper to taste; stir in two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, mixed with a little cold milk; let all cook until smooth and thick, then take from the fire. Butter the sides and bottom of ramekins, put in a layer of fish, then a layer of cream sauce, then sprinkle over that buttered crumbs, then a layer of fish again; repeat and finish with buttered crumbs. Bake until well browned.

Braised Salmon.—Select a middle cut of salmon. Sprinkle with bits of salt pork the bottom of a casserole, add three branches of parsley, half an onion, half a carrot, cut in slices, set the fish on the vegetables, add two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and one cupful of boiling water. Lay two or three small strips of fat salt pork above the fish, cover the dish and let cook one-half hour, basting three times with the liquid in the pan. Place the fish on a hot platter, strain off the liquid, melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add the same of flour and a scant half teaspoonful each of salt, paprika, then add the liquid from the fish and one-third of a cupful of cream. Stir until boiling. Serve the sauce in a bowl. Garnish the fish with parsley, slices of lemon and Saratoga potatoes.

"Oh! for a new generation of day dreamers. They will not ask whether life is worth living—they will make it so. They will transform the sordid 'struggle for existence' into glorious effort to become that which they have admired and loved."

THE NUTRITIOUS NUT.

In spite of the literature to read upon the food value of various nuts, we still consider them largely as a relish or confection. They are much richer in food value than most fruits or vegetables and have a sustaining quality which vegetable foods lack.

Nuts may form a basis for soups, sandwiches, salads, dressing for game; fritters and puddings are made with nuts. With vegetables and fruits there are many combinations with nuts which make most palatable dishes. The following are quite worth trying:

Egg Plant With Peanut Stuffing.—Boil the egg plant until partly cooked, scoop out the inside leaving a wall half an inch thick. Chop fine the part taken out, and mix with equal parts of bread and peanuts. Fill the shells and bake half an hour.

Boiled and mashed chestnuts are good used as stuffing for fowl or any game. Cook them, after blanching, in the broth from the game, until tender. Drain, mash, add a spoonful of minced ham, a half-cupful of bread crumbs, a seasoning of salt and pepper and a dash of vinegar. Mix and moisten with melted butter, using four tablespoonfuls; add the beaten yolks of two eggs, and stuff the bird several hours before baking so that the meat will be well seasoned.

Nut sandwiches, using pecans, peanuts, walnuts, hickory nuts, and in fact any sweet nut, minced and mixed with cream, a bit of salt and spread on buttered graham bread, are good enough for anybody.

Brussels sprouts are often served with nuts. Cook a quart of brussels sprouts in salted water, drain and put into a saucepan with two tablespoonfuls of lard; add three-quarters of a pound of chestnuts which have been cooked until soft; simmer for a half hour until well seasoned. Serve with roast pork.

 The Philips family happened to a sad accident in overturning their car, but glad that no one was hurt, not even scratched.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

"THE FORD COUPE"

HERE is one of the most useful of all closed cars. Specifically so when not more than two or three are to be accommodated with reliable car service. The Ford Coupe is a mighty cosy car, in that it is absolutely water-tight, at the same time with its sliding plate glass windows you can have an open car, to all intents and purposes, in a couple of minutes. So it doesn't make any difference what the weather be, rain or shine, summer or winter, in the Ford Coupe you have an enclosed car of comfort and service. What more do you want?

It has proven particularly a valuable car for traveling salesmen, physicians, engineers, architects and others who have much out-of-door work all the year around. We have never been able to fully meet all demands for the Ford Coupe, but with the increased producing capacities of the factory we are now able to make reasonably prompt deliveries. Yet we urge you to leave your order with as little delay as possible, our allotment is limited.

THE UNIVERSAL GARAGE
 FRED N. LUPER, Manager

 Miss Iva Page entertained several of the young folks at her home Sunday afternoon.
 Miss May Watts spent Monday night with Miss Thelma Autry.
 Quite a number of the Rogers folks attended singing at Longs Sunday night and heard some good singing.
Eiland Honor Roll
 This is a lively school and community. A big time is planned for Thanksgiving day.
 The third month of school has ended. There is now an enrollment of twenty pupils. Almost twice as many as were enrolled at the beginning of school. School days are a happy time for both pupils and teacher; days that in the distant future will hold a memory sweet and tender.

 The following are the names of the pupils who were not absent more than twice and who made as much as 90 per cent in every subject:
 Eighth Grade—Melvin Smith, Alice Crabb and Brooks Crabb.
 Fifth Grade—Scott Davis, Ina Rae Murrill and Renford Taylor.
 Fourth Grade—Larry Taylor
 Third Grade—Reed Hill.
 Second Grade—Mildred Murrill
 First Grade—Troy Kennedy.
Cardinal Gibbons on the Red Cross
 Washington, D. C. Nov. 13.—The following signed statement of Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore and spokesman of the Roman Catholic church in America was made public here to night.
 "In the development of its peace-time program so broad as to meet every form of suffering and distress which faces the American people, the American Red Cross has written another chapter in its history perhaps less dramatic than that of war time but none the less glorious in its spirit and its object. Its thought its influence and its splendid organization have been to the interest of the people of America, who by reason of circumstances need just the help which only such an organization as the American Red Cross can bring.

 "Throughout the year the Red Cross has been devoting its attention to the welfare of the people at home as well as that of foreign peoples and is contemplating and daily putting operation projects that can result only in the increased health and happiness of America. In every field of its effort, its record bespeaks enthusiasm and desire to serve. That its work may be continued with the same success, the American Red Cross needs the support and encouragement of every American. It is my earnest desire that all will lend their aid to this magnificent organization during its Fourth Roll Call."
