Your attention is called to the deposits of The First National Bank of Portales, which shows its popularity; its loans, which show it is accommodating; its large cash reserve, which shows its ability to take care of its friends and customers.

Special attention is called to the fact that no "bills payable" are shown, which indicates that no money is borrowed by this bank.

SAVE FUEL

DON'T you think a range that cuts your fuel bill in half is worth more than other ranges?

THE GREAT MAJESTIC RANGE only uses half the fuel used in other ranges, and gives better satisfaction all around. There is a reason for everything. If you will stop and consider the fact that the MAJESTIC RANGE, being made of non-breakable Malleable Iron, permits the manufacturers to cold rivet all the parts together perfectly air-tight; that it is not made of cast-iron and bolted together as other ranges; that the heat cannot escape through cracks or cold air enter range; that the flues are lined with pure asbestos board (not paper), and are constructed in such a manner as to utilize every particle of heat—you will very readily see why the Majestic Range uses so little fuel.

Every user of THE GREAT MAJESTIC RANGE will confirm this statement.

Not a Comfortable Home.

"Even in a palace life may be lived well," declared the great and good emperor, Marcus Aurelius. Even in a palace, too, it may be lived happily—but that significant little even belongs as truly to one statement as to the other; for to live either well or happily in a palace is to do so in the face of special obstacles, and is indeed a rare achievement. By just so much as a palace is palatial is it unhome-like—a place where only the most careful and persistent cherishing can preserve those home virtues that often flourish so sweetly and readily in the simplicity and coziness of a common home. Little wonder is it, then, that palace-dwellers are often glad, after a brief trial, to escape as soon as they may. Millionaire after millionaire builds his palace, only to weary of it. One great mansion after another is closed, leased or sold; especially city mansions, where there is not, as in the great country estates, any refreshing adjunct of natural beauty to offset the smother of artificial luxury. Few, indeed, of such houses remain long enough in one family to gather traditions and associations; few are in the same ownership even enough brief years to enchain the affections of a single generation. Besides, however artistic, however truly magnificent a private palace may be, does such a setting befit the private life? For public purposes, doubtless, beauty cannot be upon too majestic a scale; for libraries, museums, colleges, halls of justice and assembly let artist and architect compass their utmost. But people of the best taste and finest wisdom, in building a home, will desire the beauty of homeliness first, and all other beauty, whether of rich or simple detail, afterward and subordinate. Not long ago, relates the Youth's Companion, a vast marble palace was pointed out to a young girl as the place to which the multimillionaire owner was about to bring his bride, whom she had known at college. She viewed it with sincere dismay. "Oh, poor Marjorie!" she cried. "Must she really live there? What a pity she didn't marry a husband who could provide her a comfortable home!"

Athletics in English Colleges.

The first number of the new Oxford and Cambridge Review has its inevitable article on athletics in the universities. One gets from it, however, a new impression of how far behind the procession the English really are. The writer objects to the time spent in preparation for the university boat race as "excessive." But what is his idea of excess? "It has become customary for both the Oxford and Cambridge crew to spend at least a week on the upper reaches of the Thames at Henley or Coocham." Tell it not in New London! But the English are coming on. They are waking up to the truth that athletics is the keystone of the undergraduate, and must dominate even his hours of supposed study, declares the New York Post. To talk athletic "shop" all the time is becoming as common in the universities of England as in our own; and the danger of allowing any intellectual interest to crowd out absorbing attention to "the record" and to competitions in games and sports, is now thoroughly understood. The true attitude was neatly expressed by one university coach, when he said: "You can't row, because you aren't always thinking about it. Now, when you're in lecture, press your heels against the floor and think of bringing your body back with the feet firm on the stretcher."

Gov. Floyd of New Hampshire doubts whether the summer boarder business has added to the profits of the majority of New Hampshire farmers, because, he says, it has helped create the unrest and discontent which are fatal to good farming by spreading the idea that the summer boarder business is an easier and more genteel way to get a living than by having crops or cattle. "When a farmer gets that into his head," he adds, "and mortgages his farm to fit his home for boarders and neglects to plant and hoe because he expects he will be busy waiting upon boarders, in nine cases out of ten the mortgage will sooner or later eat him up." But isn't it the usual New Hampshire idea that the women can take care of the summer boarders while the farmer runs the farm?

Tourists are reported to have spent $5,000,000 in New Hampshire this summer. "Uncle Joe" will probably find it easy to convince the hotelkeepers down there that the only way to be happy is by standing pat.

Mr. Webb of Chicago has discovered hardship and discontent among the workmen of Scotland. They are sorry now that they did not all come to this country and become Carriers.

NEW MEXICO NEWS SUMMARY

Gov. Curry Has Gruesome History.

A dispatch from Trinidad, Colorado, gives the following story: Once pronounced dead by a coroner's jury in Las Animas county, his supposed body being buried on the plains, having lived to read his own obituary and being reported killed twice afterward, once in the Philippines, only to turn up alive and later become governor of two territories, are remarkable incidents in the life of George Curry, recently appointed governor of New Mexico.

The facts regarding these incidents, especially the first, put all fiction in the shade. If the story were not vouched for by Mr. Curry himself and by George Titworth, marshal at Segundo, who was justice of the peace and acting coroner at the inquest, the story would be almost unbelievable.

In the early '60s the body of a man was found on the plains fifty miles east of Trinidad. George Titworth was the nearest justice of the peace and he secured a jury of cow punchers. In the inside vest pocket of the corpse was found an honorable discharge from the United States army issued to George Curry. There were also two baggage checks from a Trinidad hotel. The jury declared the dead man to be George Curry.

Several months afterward Titworth came to Trinidad, went to the hotel, and showing the documents to the clerk, asked him if he knew anything of the man. After glancing at the discharge papers, the clerk exclaimed: "That's me."

"What do you mean," said the justice.

"Why that is my name. I am George Curry."

"Then you are a dead one, for the jury said you were," said the startled Titworth.

The coroner, whose name was Frankel, and who conducted a jewelry store here, decided that if George Curry was alive another inquest should be held. A jury was impaneled and the coroner went out and dug up the corpse.

At the second inquest Curry was the star witness. Curry positively stated that the corpse was not George Curry, but a man named Lynn of Cleveland, Ohio. The body was then buried in the same grave and the verdict of the jury was that Lynn came to his death as the result of sunstroke.

Several years afterward Titworth heard that Curry had been killed in the Red river district of New Mexico, and wrote the following letter of inquiry to Governor Curry:

"Dear Sir—Back in the '80s I held an inquest over a corpse supposed to have been one George Curry. In the pocket of his vest were found letters of recommendation, also papers showing honorable discharge from the United States service. This happened in Las Animas, Colorado, fifty miles east of Trinidad. We afterward found that the name of the victim was John Lynn of Cleveland, Ohio. I am writing to ask if you are the George Curry we have reference to. If you are the man, allow me to congratulate you upon becoming governor of two territories since the inquest was held. It seems that the report of your death, if you are the man, was greatly exaggerated. If you can spare the time, it would be a great favor if you would answer this letter at your earliest convenience."

Governor Curry promptly answered the letter as follows:

"Dear Sir—The dead man you refer to was undoubtedly supposed to be myself, as at that time I lived in Raton and went to Trinidad to play baseball. My recollection is that a man named Lynn and myself occupied the same room and that when we got up in the morning Lynn put on my vest, which contained some letters and valuable papers in the inside pocket. Therefore I had the pleasure of reading an account of my own death after my return home."

"An incident of this nature happened in the Philippines when I was governor of one of the provinces there. While in a fight I was cut off from my men, was missing for several days and it was reported that I had been killed, but I turned up all right. Will be pleased to hear from you at any time."

Minister Becomes Stockman.

Las Vegas, N. M.—Rev. W. A. Morley, who owns an extensive ranch near Watrous, Mora county, intends to enter the breeding and raising of blooded horses on an extensive scale. He purchased R. E. Sturgeon, a horse dealer of Kansas City, one of the most celebrated English studs in the United States. The consideration ran into the thousands.

Recently Mr. Morley purchased the stock that was on the Hadley ranch near Watrous, consisting of ninety-five horses and the best of the finest registered Herford cattle in New Mexico. At the present time he is the owner of the largest herd of brood mares in the Southwest.

Invests in New Mexico.

Santa Fe, N. M.—W. Trammell Watson, president of the Nevada-Goldfield Mining, Milling and Smelting Company, who came here recently from Los Angeles, has purchased the residence of former Governor Hagerman and also a number of copper claims in the Santa Fe mountains.

Will Attend Convention.

Santa Fe, N. M.—Governor George Curry has accepted an invitation to attend the deep waterways convention at Memphis and will accompany President Roosevelt on a steamboat trip to Memphis from St. Louis.

Governor Curry has issued a labor day proclamation.

Took Gun From Hunter.

Albuquerque, N. M.—Fred Anaya, a baker of this city, while returning from a hunting excursion into the country near this city, was held up by two hoboes and relieved of a valuable shotgun and $1. Two suspects giving their names as A. B. Calkins and Jack Franklin were arrested some hours later at Hahn station, by Special Officer Snowden of Santa Fe railway and brought to this city.

Widow to Investigate.

Albuquerque, N. M.—Attorney Eliego Baca has been employed by Mrs. Maranilla Quintana de Ortiz, of Gallup, widow of Jose Felis Ortiz, the aged man who lost his life last week as the result of falling off a Santa Fe train a mile south of Domingo, to investigate the cause of her husband's death in view of bringing a suit for damages against the railroad company. Considerable mystery surrounds the death of Mr. Ortiz and the matter will receive the most careful attention of Attorney Baca, who will leave no stone unturned to determine the rights of the widow as to her claim against the railroad. Mr. Ortiz, it will be remembered, is said to have stepped from the moving train, but as far as is known, no one saw him fall.

He was picked up after the fall in an unconscious condition and brought to this city and died as a result of his injuries without regaining consciousness. There is considerable mystery about the case and an investigation of it will be watched with interest.

The deceased was a stone mason and was well known throughout the territory. He was on his way to Santa Fe to visit relatives when he met his death.

Title to Townsite Is Clouded.

Albuquerque, N. M.—The new town of Willard, on the Belen cut-off, is in a state of confusion following the discovery of the fact that the townsite company has had no clear title to the land which it has been selling to homeseekers. The Willard Townsite Company, of which John Becker of Belen is the head, acquired the site five years ago, but has not received a scrip from the latter. The territorial authorities have finally refused to allow the scrip to be recorded and as a consequence all money received for land by the company will have to be refunded. The matter of having the scrip recorded will be taken up as a last resort to the Supreme Court.

The news that the scrip had been turned down has brought in a large number of squatters, who have forcibly taken possession of all the lots they could secure, and as a consequence there is considerable excitement in Willard, which has grown to be a thriving commercial center.

Official Matters.

The following articles of incorporation have been filed in the office of Territorial Secretary J. W. Reynolds: Sacramento Power Company. Principal place of business at Alamogordo, Otero county. Territorial agent F. Corp. at Alamogordo. Capital stock $1,000,000 divided into 10,000 shares of the par value of $1 each, commencing business with $2,000. Object, primarily, operating electric plant for furnishing power and light. Period of existence, fifty years. Incorporators, U. S. Houghland and John A. Gilchrist of Kansas City, Missouri, and A. T. Payne of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

Vernon E. Small has been appointed messenger at the local U. S. Weather Bureau station. Although the appointment was effective three weeks ago, he did not take the oath of office until this morning, as he has been confined to his home by sickness for several weeks. He has now recovered and is again at work.

Nothing New, Says Torrance.

Santa Fe.—"There isn't anything to give out yet for publication. I came out here with these gentlemen with a view to the completion of the line but nothing will be done about it until we get back to Pittsburg."

The foregoing statement was made by Gen. Francis J. Torrance, when seen at the general offices of the Santa Fe Central Railway in this city by a newspaper representative in answer to a direct question as to the building of the Albuquerque Eastern Railway. General Torrance stated that he expected to return to this city some next month and would then be in a position to furnish definite information regarding the proposed railroad from Moriarty to Albuquerque, which if constructed will give the latter city another eastern outlet and a direct connection with the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway.

Father Pajot Injured.

Father Joseph Pajot, Catholic parish priest at Taos, who went to Santa Fe to attend the annual retreat of priests at St. Michael's college, was the victim of a peculiar and exceedingly painful accident. He ran a large silver of wood through his right foot. The splinter entered the sole of his foot and came out at the instep. He was hastened to Dr. Diaz's Sanitarium where it was found necessary to put him under the influence of chloroform to remove the silver. The operation was successful and while it will be several weeks before the injured member will heal, it is not believed he will suffer any permanent injury.

Bar Association Election.

Santa Fe, N. M.—The New Mexico Bar Association convention at Roswell elected the following officers: President, A. B. McMillen of Albuquerque; vice president, First district, Paul A. F. Walter of Santa Fe; Second district, M. E. Hekey of Albuquerque; Third district, E. C. Wadsworth of Las Cruces; Fourth district, Charles A. Spinks of Las Vegas; Fifth district, C. R. Bryan of Carlsbad; Sixth district, George B. Barber of Lincoln; secretary and treasurer, Kenneth Scott of Roswell. Santa Fe was selected as the place of the next annual summer convention of the association.

Appropriation of Fees.

Santa Fe, N. M.—A hearing was had before Referee Charles L. Bishop in the matter of Territorial Auditor W. G. Sargent vs. The Territory of New Mexico, to determine Sargent's right to appropriate several thousand dollars of contingency fees to his own use. The principal witness was Malaguas Martinez of Taos, member of the finance committee of the house of the last legislative assembly, which made a report adverse to Sargent.

A HINT ON ENTERTAINING.

How One Woman Has Done Away with Much Labor.

A woman who does her own work and yet likes to entertain a good deal has brought order out of chaos and made the work lighter for herself by limiting her dinner to three hot dishes. She serves first iced canteloupe, grape fruit or oysters, according to the season; then meat, potatoes and one vegetable. Salad and dessert are prepared before hand, and so is the coffee. She serves all but the three hot dishes—which, of course, must be brought from the kitchen—from a small serving table at her side, which has two shelves beneath it and an outstanding bracket-shelf for the clean and used dishes. The coffee, in a French coffee pot, stands on one of the brackets of the serving table and boils merrily until required.

PLUMS SERVED IN BATTER.

Dessert That Is Especially Popular with Masculine Palates.

Make a batter with two beaten eggs, five tablespoonfuls of flour, rather more than a pint of milk, and a pinch of salt. Remove the stones from a quart of large, ripe plums, crack them, put the kernels inside of the plums again, mix the fruit with two heaping tablespoonfuls of moist sugar and stir it lightly into the batter. Turn it into a buttered pudding dish, and bake in a hot oven until done, about 40 minutes. Sprinkle powdered sugar over the top and serve hot with half a cupful of butter, one cupful of sugar and one well-beaten egg stirred to a cream and flavored with half a teaspoonful of sec-tarine. This dessert is especially popular with masculine palates.

Belt for Old Gloves.

Every girl finds in her possession one or more pairs of discarded long gloves. Pretty and durable suede belts can be made from the same by simply ripping up the seam and cutting off the hand. The glove is then the right shape for the belt when opened out and two pieces joined in the center. Line the glove with silk cut on the bias, turn over the edges, and stitch on the machine. Also stitch the back and finish with three gold bosses or flat buttons covered with kid cut from the hands of the gloves. Another way of finishing is to tie the kid in three or four small bows. For the front use a pearl buckle or a small steel one covered with the leather.

To Clean Trimmings.

Among the new embroideries are those in raised silver and gold work. These are handsome and expensive, and one who knows says they should never be brushed in the ordinary way of cleaning trimmings, but that a piece of crimson velvet should be taken and rubbed very slowly and gently over them. Of course, we are all familiar with the use of black velvet as a dust cloth for hats and fine black materials, the fine nap penetrating and carrying away dust without injury where nothing else could, but what virtue there is in crimson velvet, aside from its texture, is hard to guess, but it is possible, of course, that there may be some effect in the dye used.

Cold-Water Process of Canning.

Wash the fruit thoroughly, and in case of rhubarb cut into small pieces, as for pies. If gooseberries are used, top and tail them. Pack into glass jars that have been sterilized and then fill the jars to overflowing with freshly drawn water. Put on the covers and let them stand overnight. By the next morning you will find that the fruit has taken up more or less of the water, and that there is quite a vacuum to be filled. Drain off the water and fill again with fresh cold water to overflowing, letting the water come with sufficient force to drive out any air. Then seal closely and put away for winter use.

Gooseberry Preserves.

For every quart of rough red gooseberries which have been stemmed and ended, take one pound of white sugar, dissolve it in the preserving kettle with enough water to make a thick sirup. Let boil 20 minutes, skimming well; then put in the gooseberries and boil five minutes; then set by until the next day, when boil again until they have a clear look and the sirup is thick. Pour into hot jelly glasses and cover when cool.

Milk-Stewed Potatoes.

Into double boiler put three cups of milk, one quart of sliced raw potatoes (measure after slicing), salt and pepper to taste. Keep covered and cook till tender—about an hour. Then beat two eggs, add one cup milk, and taking the boiler from the fire, mix with potatoes, stirring quickly, then set boiler back for few minutes to cook the eggs.

Mint Punch of Ginger Ale.

Make a rich lemonade by boiling one quart of water and one cupful of sugar together for five minutes and adding the juice of five lemons, the grated rind of one, when the sirup is cool. Put into the punch bowl with a lump of ice in the center and add one quart of ginger ale. Bruise the leaves and stems of half a dozen sprigs of mint and add to the punch a quarter of an hour before serving.

Iron Rust on White Goods.

To remove iron rust from white goods which have been spotted by the wash kettle rub a cut lemon over the spots to wet them fully with the juice. Then rub on salt and hang them out in the sun to dry. If the spot is not removed by the first application repeat the process.

GIFTS THAT ARE WELCOME.

Lavender in Bulk Is One and Hop Pillow Another.

If one wants to be generous and give a city friend a supply of lavender for her linen closet, give it in bulk rather than in made sachets. The lavender is so delightful sprinkled directly on sheets and pillow cases. So make a bag of crepe tissue paper and fill it with lavender, tying it loosely at the top with a ribbon.

For a sleepless friend or one afflicted with that unromantic but distressing affliction, toothache, a pillow filled with hops will prove to be both "grateful and comforting." The hops should be gathered when quite green and dried quite slowly, so that none of their soothing virtue be lost. Such a pillow should be quite small, not more than eight inches long by six broad, as it is intended only to be slipped under the cheek. A fine handkerchief lawn makes the best covering for such a pillow.—Farmer's Bazar.

One Way to Clean Silver.

Silver spoons as well as other small trinkets may be brightened easily, without the addition of silver powder, by placing them in an aluminum receptacle and pouring boiling water, over them. Polishing should be effected by means of a piece of clean chamois leather, but in adopting this treatment it must be remembered that the silver never should be allowed to become tarnished.

Tutti Frutti Cream Cake.

Three-quarters cup butter, two cups sugar, one-half cup milk, 2½ cups pastry flour, one-half teaspoon soda, 1½ teaspoon cream of tartar, whites eight eggs, one-half teaspoon each lemon, rose and almond.

Filling—One-quarter cup figs, chopped, one-quarter cup grated cocoanut, one-half cup raisins, chopped, one-half cup walnut meats, chopped, one cup sugar, one-quarter cup water, white of one egg.

Mix the cake in the order given, divide into three parts, and flavor each differently. Bake in three long shallow pans. For the filling, simmer the sugar and water until it threads. Pour it into the white (beaten till foamy), beat well, and stir in quickly the chopped mixture. Put this between the layers, then frost on top and sides.

TO WRITE WAR HISTORY

Rear Admiral French E. Chadwick who, since his retirement from the United States navy 18 months ago, has been collecting material in Spain for a history of the Spanish-American war and the causes that led up to it, has returned to the United States to begin his work. He was captain of the armored cruiser New York, Admiral Sampson's flagship at the battle of Santiago, the only occasion in which the Atlantic squadron engaged in battle, and he was unfortunate enough to be miles away at the time. Admiral Sampson had gone down the coast on official business when he received the signal that the bottled up Spanish fleet was coming out. The New York put about and raced back to the scene of action with dense volumes of smoke pouring from her funnels, anxious to take part in the engagement. But the Spanish ships were headed the other way, and before the New York could get into line the last of the Spanish ships was on the rocks, a battered mass of metal.

Admiral Chadwick has been officially thanked for his services, once for "extraordinary ability and judgment" during six years of service as naval attache in Europe, and again for his conduct at Tangier, where he went with an American squadron in 1904 to secure the release of Pericardis from Brandit Ralsuil, the same, who afterwards captured Caldwell McLean.

Admiral Chadwick entered the navy in 1851, when he was only 17 years of age, and has since served in every rank, retiring as admiral last year. He is the auditor of several works on naval subjects.

LEADS WAR ON MOORS

Gen. Georges Picquart, minister of war for France, is one of the busiest men in public life today. Besides the ordinary duties of his department, he had a good deal to do with the enforcement of the laws against the Catholic church, an enforcement which has on many occasions necessitated the use of the military, and now he has charge of the campaign against Morocco, for unless the Moors make a complete surrender it is likely to be as big a campaign as that of Lord Wolsey in Egypt. But if there is any man in France who knows the difficulty of the task it is Picquart, for he was at the head of the secret intelligence department of the French army for years, and has spent much time in Africa. It was to Africa he was sent to get him out of the way when he was preparing the evidence to show that Capt. Dreyfus was being made a scapegoat for the corrupt military ring that was running the French army at the time. Picquart was 11 years secured the acquittal of Dreyfus and his reinstatement in the army, while the leaders of the conspiracy fled or committed suicide. Picquart is a man of considerable determination and pertinacity, and his conduct of the Dreyfus case shows him to be a natural-born detective. But for him the men who were trafficking in the honor of their country might have been at the head of the French army to-day.

 To men out of tea wisely, and succeed, where one charging around at the tail all the time. If you miss forelock seize the tail. It is hanging on more than the icular hold that counts. You can go just as fast and by as far who has hold of all as the one hanging to the back besides he can hold on to, and is in less danger. A man don't be too anxious to the front but hang on to what you have and you will ahead in the world just as you can and deserve to.

In another column on this page will be found a crop story from Texas that is a corker. Texas and Portales are only twenty miles apart and whatever can be grown there can be grown here. The tale therefore has a bearing on the productiveness of our soil as well as theirs. Read it.

Roosevelt County Growing.
 County Superintendent J. A. Fairly reports that the school census for Roosevelt county shows that there are forty-seven hundred and twenty people of school age in the county. By this it is indicated that the population of the county is running up well towards twenty thousand.

Lightning Strikes in Farwell.
 Lightning struck the house of W. J. Webb Saturday night at about eleven o'clock. It came down a galvanic rod from the interior, where it knocked a large hole out of a partition wall and then struck the iron frame of a bed occupied by Mr. Webb and his son, melting the frame where it struck.
 The shock to the occupants of the bed was severe, but they recovered in time to quench the fire started in the wall where the bolt passed through.

Arch Items.
 The sound of the banjo is heard these days.
 Rev. Trammell returned last week from Texas.
 Eva Nichols is reported sick with fever.

The singing convention was a grand success. There was a class from Dona, Carter, Adobe and other places. The next convention will be at Dona the first Sunday in November.
 Mrs. T. E. Wash's father from Nolan county is visiting her.
 Mr. Meredith Burke and wife left last Monday for Texas to work for awhile.
 Mr. Hand Douglas and Miss Vaughan from Texas attended the singing convention last Sunday.
 George Byers was in from the ranch last week looking for hands.
 Miss Maye Nichols who has been sick with typhoid fever is reported better.
 Harvey Stovall and wife who has been visiting home folks returned to McKinney last Monday.

Quinsy, Sprains and Swellings Cured.
 In November, 1911, I caught cold and had the quinsy. My throat was swollen so I could hardly breathe. I applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and in two days I was all right, says Mrs. E. Condit, Oterburn, Mich. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is a salve and is especially valuable for sprains and swellings. For sale by Jones & Dubbs.

Market Gardening.
 W. F. Wagoner last spring planted 25 acres of his claim, about two miles northwest of Texico to garden truck.
 He has no means of irrigation other than the natural rainfall, not even a well on his place. In spite of this he has kept two truck wagons daily calling on the trade in Texico and Farwell.
 He has four acres planted to onions and will gather 1200 bushels from this patch.
 He has two acres of sweet potatoes that will produce 400 bushels.
 He has three acres in cantaloupes that will yield 600 crates.
 He has two acres in tomatoes that will produce 300 bushels.
 His fruit and vegetables are without blemishes, of large size and fine flavor.
 He has two acres in cabbage which are good yield and quality. Turnips and beets he will have in carload quantities.
 Now some of you mathematicians take your pencil and figure out the probable selling price of the products we have mentioned and then figure cost of land near Texico and compare with cost of irrigated land in the Pecos Valley. Interest on money invested, etc., and let us know which is the more profitable. —Trumpey.

Grand STREET PARADE 10:30 DAILY

IN A SAILBOAT

By M. A. Keeler

(Copyright by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Shelter Island is a feast for the eyes at all seasons of the year, but in the month of May it is the fairest spot on Long Island; then it is in the first glory of its brilliant verdure, and the soft blue sky above and its blue reflection in the water below presents a picture of such exquisite beauty and repose that few brushes could do it justice on canvas. At Prospect, facing the bay, stands a Queen Anne cottage with many hanging balconies, and standing on the most serene one are two young women, of the nineteenth century ultra-fashionable type; the smart cut of their cloth frocks suggests Redfern, and their fine bearing and conscious worth the thoroughbred. It is about ten o'clock.

"It's all very lovely and peaceful and serene, Lily," says the younger of the two girls, with a little weary sigh. "But I like it better in August, when the bay is thick with yachts and rowboats; in fact, to be sincere with you, it has about as festive an appearance now as the Desert of Sahara, and I think we were downright daft to leave town so early this season."

"I am really sorry for you, Bertha," replies the other, with an amused look in her fine eyes. "Let us give the 'Pixie' her first sail this season; she will help to liven up the bay for you."

The grieved look in Bertha's eyes gives way to radiant delight at her sister's proposition, and in gay spirits they leave the balcony and are soon on the pier in their white flannel yachting suits and tarpaulin hats of the jaunty sailor cut.

Lily is the skipper, and Bertha the deck hand—as her sister calls her—her duty aboard ship being to tend the center-board, hold the sheet rope when occasion demands, shift the ballast, and make herself generally useful.

There is scarcely a ripple on the bay, and the half dozen filmy clouds have now lost themselves in the blue ether.

The breeze is steady and gentle; the girls keep up a rattling chatter at first, but the utter peace and quiet seems to have a subdued effect, and soon the only sound heard is that of the water as the "Pixie's" sharp bow softly cuts through it.

They sail on, but it is not long before the sail trembles and the eddy that closes behind the boat is hardly perceptible. "Bertha," says Lily, at last, "we are going to be becalmed; there is scarcely a breath of air."

"Don't mention anything so monstrous!" cried Bertha, dropping the book she had been reading and now fully alive to the situation. "We shall simply broil standing still in this hot sun. Why, there's Robins Island; cannot we make it before the wind goes altogether?"

"Not unless we row, and even then I am sure you will not care to land there."

"We may as well row to the island, after all," says Lily, presently, looking wistfully at the trees. "There are probably no men there as early as this, and we can rest in the shade until the wind comes up."

So they took the brass-tipped oars and rowed toward the shore. It looks very cool and inviting.

Robins Island is owned by a club of New York men, and is a hunting ground, there being on it fine preserves of quail, etc.

"This is almost an adventure," pants Bertha, as she removes her hat and brushes her damp bang off her forehead.

"Hush!" suddenly cries Bertha, holding up a warning finger to her sister, who sits some distance from her, with her head leaning against the trunk of a tree. She listens intently, turning her head partly on one side like a bird, and then says, in a stage whisper: "Would not it be too utterly terrible, if there should be any men here, Lily? I am sure I heard something like footsteps way back in the woods."

"Your imagination is too active for comfort, Bertha; if you did hear anything, it was probably a rabbit; these tall bushes are an effective screen for us, even if any genus homo should be abroad, which is unlikely. Now please do not speak to me for ten minutes; I am too tired to even think," she closes her eyes and Bertha creeps over to her and rests her head in her lap.

There is a crashing in the bushes not far from the girls, who have been rudely startled from their short nap, and they look with blanched faces in the direction of the sound. Then a deep voice suddenly calls out:

"Hello! Effingham; oh, I say, come here!"

There is another crash in the bushes, then another voice exclaims in tones of astonishment:

"By Jove! It's the 'Pixie'; it must have drifted down. It belongs to the Berkeley girls, you know; they have a place at Shelter Island; tip-top, swaggar people; but how in the name of all that's—why, it's anchored!" he concludes, with a long whistle, and starts down the bank on a run to the boat.

At the sound of the first voice the girls had seemed paralyzed, and could only stare hopelessly at each other. At this instant there is a sharp report and the shot rattles through the bushes like hail. Without a cry Lily sinks to the ground and Bertha lies at her side in a dead faint.

A tall, broad-shouldered, florid-faced young man dashes through the underbrush with an eager, huntman-like look on his handsome face, but his expression changes in a flash to one of horror when he sees the kind of game he has brought down. He takes in the situation at a glance, and with a now ashes face he rushes down the embankment.

"Effingham!" he calls, in a husky voice, as he nears the boat. "The Berkleys," he stops short and chokes. "For heaven's sake, my lord, what has happened? You are shaking like a leaf."

"The Berkleys; your friend, Effingham, God help me! I have killed them both!"

He buried his face in his hands, while Mr. Effingham gazes in bewilderment at the Pixie and then at him.

"You see," he continued, raising his head, "they were on the other side of the brush; I heard a rustling, thought it a rabbit, you know, and fired. When I saw what I had done I lost my head. I never was so knocked out before in my life; instead of waiting to see what damage I had caused I rushed to you; but they are badly hit; they got the whole charge at short range."

"They may not be dead; cheer up, the first thing to do is to go back and see. Get some water in your hat."

Bertha had recovered consciousness, and as the two men dash up the bank she is sobbing over Lily's prostrate form.

It will take the doctor many hours to pick the shot out of Bertha's shoulder, but she does not heed the sting and smart; her agony at Lily's badly wounded hand and wrist makes her oblivious to her own pain. The shot, fortunately, did not touch either of the girls' faces, but it will be many weeks before Lily can again sail the Pixie.

When Bertha sees Mr. Effingham she jumps up and runs to him, trying hysterically to explain their presence on the island.

Lord Bertie Dudley kneels beside the unconscious Lily, and with trembling hand nervously spatters her sweet face with salt water. He binds her wrist with his handkerchief, he is deft and gentle, and it is pathetic to watch his quivering lip and the great effort he puts forth to appear calm.

"I feel as if I could shoot myself for this, Effingham," he says, bitterly, "when Lily has been taken to the boat and made as comfortable as possible. The south wind has sprung up, and the Pixie is once more under sail, but Mr. Effingham is the skipper, and Bertha supports Lily's drooping head on her shoulder. Poor Lord Dudley watches the boat out of sight from the shore, and then flings his gun as far out into Peconic bay as his strong arm can send it. With downcast head he walks moodily back to the club house.

About three weeks after the foregoing episode there are half a dozen or so people sitting on the veranda of the Berkeley cottage at Shelter Island. Among them are Lord Bertie Dudley and Mr. Effingham, and Lily is as beautiful and dainty as ever; to be sure her wrist is still bandaged.

It is now two months later, and the bay is as thick with yachts and row boats as Bertha likes to see it, and Lord Bertie Dudley's steam yacht is a fixture in the inlet between Manhasset and Prospect. Lily has lately promised to be Lady Dudley in October, and they are going to England on the yacht.

She has told Bertha many times that she had a presentiment when she stepped on board the Pixie that fate had something in store for her on that May morning.

SALAD WITH THE MEAT.

Combination That Will Be Pronounced Excellent.

Shred finely half a small head of crisp, tender cabbage and a crisp cucumber, an onion, two sweet peppers; exclude the seeds and compartments where seeds rest; a stalk of celery, all shredded and mixed. Use the accompanying mayonnaise: One cup sweet milk, one teaspoon granulated sugar, a dash of cayenne and white pepper; thicken when at boiling point with a heaped tablespoon of corn starch; when cooked, remove from the fire. Add one tablespoon olive oil, one tablespoon good butter, one tablespoon any favorite salad dressing, and two tablespoons lemon juice or best elder vinegar. Salt to taste. Keep on ice until served. Place a slice of tomato on top of each plate and your mayonnaise over all.

COFFEE FRAPPE IS GOOD.

Necessitates Only a Little Work with the Freezer.

Prepare a pint of strong, black coffee; boil granulated sugar with enough water to dissolve it until it almost strings, add this to the coffee and place the mixture in a freezer. The amount of sugar must vary according to your taste; it should be sweetened to about the same point that you like breakfast coffee; no more. Turn the dasher of the freezer first to right then to the left, alternating the movement and scraping down the mixture from the side of the freezer as it begins to harden. When it looks like rock crystal, that is, semi-transparent and showing little sharp points, heap in glasses and serve immediately with very thin wafers that are not too sweet.

For a Back Porch Shade.

A simple and inexpensive shade for the summer porch, or for a window, may be made by using Japanese matting, cut in the required length and bound at each end with a piece of strong cotton goods. To roll the screen up take two pieces of heavy string or cord about three times as long as the matting; tack the end of each string about two inches above the shade and about a foot from the edge; let the string come down behind the matting and up in front of it, and draw through an ordinary matting tack placed just beside the first one. This simple device will keep the porch cool and serve to darken any specially sunny window in the house. Good matting for this purpose may be bought for 10 to 12 cents a yard.

Rochester Pudding.

Set to boil one cup of canned, shredded pineapple, one cup of water, one-half cup of sugar. Wet three tablespoonfuls of cornstarch with three tablespoonfuls of cold water. Stir this into the boiling pineapple syrup and boil five minutes. Take from the fire and cool one minute. Beat the whites of three eggs, fairly stiff, and then beat into the boiling mixture for two or three minutes. Pour into a mold and set to cool. Serve cold with boiled custard sauce made as follows: Pour two cups of boiling milk on the beaten yolks of three eggs and three tablespoonfuls of sugar. Cook in a double boiler, until as thick and smooth as cream. Cool and flavor with one teaspoonful of vanilla.

To Wash Greasy Flannels.

The best way to wash greasy flannels is to soak them for half an hour in soapy water. The water should cover the garment and should not be allowed to get cold while the flannels are soaking. Add a good quantity of ammonia to the soapy water and place a cover over the tub or receptacle where the flannels are soaking. Wash in a second fresh lather and then rinse thoroughly.

Spice Cookies.

To one cup of sugar add one-half cup of butter, one egg, beaten; one-half cup of sour milk; one-half teaspoon baking soda; one-half teaspoon baking powder; one-half teaspoon cinnamon; one-half cup chopped raisins; a little nutmeg; one-half cup chopped English walnuts, and two and one-half cups of flour. Roll out thin. Bake slowly.

Cheese Wafers.

One cup sugar, three tablespoonfuls shortening, two-thirds cup milk, three-fourths cup grated cheese, one egg. Flour to roll (about two cups, but flour differs); one teaspoon baking powder. Roll very thin and bake in quite a quick oven. Watch carefully as they burn easily. Nice for luncheons.

Delicious Junket.

To make junket, heat half a pint of new milk to 100 degrees Fahrenheit. Add a grating of nutmeg and a quarter of a junket tablet dissolved in a tablespoonful of water. Mix and turn at once into a little cup. Allow it to "set" and then place in a cold place. Serve with a little cream.

Grape Juice Punch.

Make a pint of strong lemonade, sweetening with boiled sugar-and-water syrup. When cold add a quart of bottled grape juice and pour over a block of ice in a bowl; add bits of sliced orange, lemon and pineapple—Harper's Bazar.

Bacon Rarebit.

Take one pound of good American cheese, wet it with a cupful of ale, put it in the pan over the fire, melt and work smooth and creamy by constant stirring. Add a generous dash of cayenne and pour over hot toast and on the top of each place lay a thin crisp slice of bacon.

Time to Fly.

The trust magnate leaped up from the banquet table and made a dive for his 100-mile-an-hour automobile. "Hold on!" cried the astonished locomotive. "Won't you wait for us to serve the dessert?"

"No," replied the nervous magnate; "I just saw a suspicious face loom up at the window. The next thing served will be a process."

And telling his chauffeur to put on full speed the wealthy fugitive headed for the next state.

Laundry work at home would be much more satisfactory if the right starch were used. In order to get the desired stiffness, it is usually necessary to use so much starch that the beauty and fineness of the fabric is hidden behind a paste of varying thickness, which not only destroys the appearance, but also affects the wearing quality of the goods. This trouble can be entirely overcome by using Defiance Starch, as it can be applied much more thinly because of its great strength than other makes.

Colleges Undesirable Fire Risks.

Colleges are now regarded as rather undesirable insurance risks, and it is probable that the rate will be generally increased. In 18 years 734 fires have occurred in college buildings, entailing a loss of $10,500,000 in money and a heavy loss of life. This makes the average money loss over $13,000.

Not "Just as Good"—It's the Best.

One box of Hunt's Cure is unflinching, unqualified, and absolutely guaranteed to cure any form of Skin Disease. It is particularly active in promptly relieving and permanently curing all forms of itching skin.

Eczema, Tetter, Ringworm and all similar troubles are relieved by one application; cured by one box.

Negro's Valuable Head.

A Kentucky negro earns double wages as a hodcarrier, because he is able to do the work of two men. He carries from 40 to 50 bricks at a time. He places the bricks upon a board which he balances upon his head as he climbs to the tops of high buildings.

With a smooth iron and Defiance Starch, you can launder your shirtwaist just as well at home as the steam laundry can; it will have the proper stiffness and finish, there will be less wear and tear of the goods, and it will be a positive pleasure to use a Starch that does not stick to the iron.

Arithmetic.

Tommy—Pop, a man's wife is his better half, isn't she?

Tommy's Pop—So we are told, my son.

"Then if a man marries twice there isn't anything left of him, is there?"

MOTHERHOOD

The first requisite of a good mother is good health, and the experience of maternity should not be approached without careful physical preparation, as a woman who is in good physical condition transmits to her children the blessings of a good constitution.

Preparations for healthy maternity is accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from native roots and herbs, more successfully than by any other medicine because it gives tone and strength to the entire feminine organism, curing displacements, ulceration and inflammation, and the result is less suffering and more children healthy at birth. For more than thirty years has been the standby of American mothers in preparing for childbirth. Note what Mrs. James Chester, of 427 W. 25th St., New York says in this letter:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I wish every expectant mother knew about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A neighbor who had learned of its great value at this trying period of a woman's life urged me to try it and I did so, and I cannot say enough in regard to the good it did me. I recovered quickly and am in the best of health now.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certainly a successful remedy for the peculiar weaknesses and ailments of women. It has cured almost every form of Female Complaints, Dragging Sensations, Weak Back, Falling and Displacements, Inflammation, Ulcerations and Organic Diseases of Women and is invaluable in preparing for Childbirth and during the Change of Life.

"It's due to the vanity of the sex," answered Miss Cayenne. "They want to be noticed even when they can't think of anything of real importance to say."

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless; Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food; Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J. McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

POULTRY BEES

WORK FOR SECTION HONEY.

Money Can Be Made by Handling It in This Form.

While honey cut out of large frames is quite popular in some regions, and sold under the name of bulk honey, and while larger quantities of comb honey can thus be produced than in any other way, the greater part of comb honey is produced in small boxes called sections, holding about one pound each, as shown in cut. The kind most in use is 4 1/4 x 4 1/4 x 1 1/2 inches, outside measure. My preference, says Farn and Home, is for the T-super, although it is not most generally in use.

The grade of comb honey foundation used in sections is called thin super, although some use extra thin super, and the amount used varies all the way from a triangular piece measuring one inch on each side up to enough to fill the section practically full. I consider it economy to use the larger amount, a bottom started five-eighths of an inch deep, and a top starter coming down within one-eighth inch of this, the starting coming within about one-sixteenth of an inch of the wood at each side. When the sections are thus filled with foundation there is no need of an excluder to keep the queen out of the super.

Bees do not so readily begin work in section supers as in extracting supers with combs that have been previously used. In order to start work more promptly, it is advisable to use in the first super of the season one or more bait sections. These are sections that had been partly filled at the close of the previous season, and the honey then emptied out by the bees after the sections were taken from the hives. A single bait in the middle of a super will answer, and in a poor season I have had 100 or more of these baits filled and sealed and not another section touched.

If only when supers are thus given, the bees would start to work in them, and keep at work in them, what a blessing! But alas, just about the time work is fairly started in the surplus apartments, some colony will take a notion to swarm, stopping all surplus work, and if left to its own devices sends out a second swarm some eight days after the first, and then at intervals of a day or two other swarms, sometimes five or six in all, the last of them being mere handfles, and only vexation. Other colonies will take the same notion, and the season will end with a large proportion of worthless colonies and little or no surplus honey.

Although it is not an easy thing to prevent each colony from swarming at least once, it is well to know some of the things that tend to prevent excessive swarming. First of all comes abundance of room, and here extracting honey has the advantage. C. F. Candan, one of the heaviest producers of extracted honey in the country, uses very large hives, with no excluders, and not more than one colony in his swarms.

Keeping down the temperature is important. Place the hives in shade where there is a free circulation of air, as under shade trees. Also let there be plenty of ventilation of the hive itself by means of large entrances, or by raising the hive on blocks. When working for extracted honey, an opening of one-quarter in the entire width of the hive may be allowed to each story.

Make Chicken House snug. Cracks in the chicken house are not good things to have in the winter, when a cold wind drives snow through them, and there can be better things in the summer, when the festive mites that have a place of shelter. However, it is next to impossible to build with red pine lumber and not have cracks. The best thing to do is to stop them from the outside, with battens, to keep out the cold, and stop them with crude oil or coal tar from the inside, to keep out the mites.

Sell the Old Roosters. Again let us say it—sell the old roosters. The very next time you go to town, crate the old fellows up and take them along. They are only boarding with you now and giving nothing for their board. They rush in and gobble all the chickens' feed they can get, are often mean to the smaller chickens and are not even an ornament to the flock. Of course this does not refer to the pure breeds of high breeding class, but to the lot usually found on the farms. The trouble is, so many of this kind are still found on the farms.

DOES YOUR BACK ACHE?

Profit by the Experience of One Who Has Found Relief.

James H. Keeler, retired farmer, of Fenner St., Casenovia, N. Y., says: "About fifteen years ago I suffered with my back and kidneys. I doctored and used many remedies without getting relief. Beginning with Doan's Kidney Pills, I found relief from the first box, and two boxes restored me to good, sound condition. My wife and many of my friends have used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results and I can earnestly recommend them."

If so you will find Hunt's Lightning Oil

A friend which will aid in the strife.

To those who earn their own way by their own labor, accidents occur with painful frequency. Burns, bruises, cuts and sprains are not strangers to the man who wears corns on his hands. A better remedy for these troubles does not exist than Hunt's Lightning Oil.

Not Entire. The aeronaut, after painfully extricating himself from the wrecked balloon, limped to the nearest farmhouse.

"Madam," he said to the woman who answered his knock, "can you accommodate with a night's lodging a balloonist who has come to grief?"

"I'd be glad to," she hesitated, "but you are an entire stranger to—"

"Not an entire one," he interrupted, with some acerbity. "For I have left my left ear, three teeth, and certain portions of my nose back there with the ruined car."

Great Discovery Announced. Sir William Crookes, as a result of his own researches and the experiments of Professors Krowalski and Moscieli, of Freiburg university, has discovered a process of extracting nitric acid from the atmosphere. The process is available for commercial, industrial and agricultural purposes, and is expected to revolutionize the nitrate industry and the world's food problem.

"The Carthaginian mercenaries," he said, "encased their prisoners in a cement that, as it hardened, contracted. You can't imagine how uncomfortable this was."

"Oh, yes, I can," she answered. "I once had on a tight bathing suit when it began to shrink."

Not What She Wanted. Lawyer—Yes, my dear young lady, you have a perfect case. If you wish, I can secure you a divorce without publicity in six months.

Young Lady—But, my dear sir, you don't understand at all. I am an actress.

Where Russia is Behind. England has 144 churches for every 100,000 people. In Russia there are only 55 churches for a similar number.

FEET OUT. She Had Curious Habits.

When a person has to keep the feet out from under cover during the coldest nights in winter because of the heat and prickly sensation, it is time that coffee, which causes the trouble, be left off.

There is no end to the nervous conditions that coffee will produce. It shows in one way in one person and in another way in another. In this case the lady lived in S. Dak. She says:

"I have had to lie awake half the night with my feet and limbs out of the bed on the coldest nights, and felt afraid to sleep for fear of catching cold. I had been troubled for years with twitching and jerking of the lower limbs, and for most of the time I have been unable to go to church or to lectures because of that awful feeling that I must keep on the move."

"When it was brought to my attention that coffee caused so many nervous diseases, I concluded to drop coffee and take Postum Food Coffee to see if my trouble was caused by coffee drinking."

"I only drank one cup of coffee for breakfast but that was enough to do the business for me. When I quit it my troubles disappeared in an almost miraculous way. Now I have no more of the jerking and twitching and can sleep with any amount of bedding over me and sleep all night, in sound, peaceful rest."

"Postum Food Coffee is absolutely worth its weight in gold to me."

To Farmers Everywhere

Why Work Yourself to Death Trying to Make a Living.

Go to Southwest Texas Where the Land is Fertile and Grows Enormously Profitable Crops With Little Labor.

Read This Carefully.

Enid, Oklahoma, April 13, 1907.

Dr. C. F. Simmons, San Antonio, Texas: My Dear Sir—I was down on your Atascosa County ranch, and spent four days in looking it over. It is a great tract of land; the finest large body of land I was ever on. In the four days I spent on it I am sure I did not see forty acres that could not be cultivated.

The soil is dark and chocolate sandy loam, and some black, waxy with a little sand, but no blow sand. I took soil from different pastures, and found the land all underlaid with a good clay foundation.

In my opinion, this land, with proper cultivation, will produce everything that can be grown from Maine to California. I never saw a more fertile body of land anywhere.

Such land as this, if located in Oklahoma, would sell for $50 an acre. The entire tract is within the arterial belt. The water from these wells that I saw and drank, was good for all purposes.

I carried one of your "New Home Sweet Home" books with me and compared the views shown by you in it with what I saw, and found everything just as represented. I have read your description of this property, and you have not overdrawn it in any way. No one can realize what a splendid opportunity this is to get a good home for a very little money in the finest climate and on the richest land in the world, until he sees it.

I will be very glad to answer any one who wants to know what I know about your land. With best wishes, I remain, Yours very truly, J. S. LIGHTFOOT.

Dr. C. F. Simmons has divided his ranch and is selling from 10 to 640 acres and 2 town lots for $210.00 payable $10.00 a month without interest. Write today for booklet and set of views of the ranch and name of nearest agent.

Cleans Out Bile

Yellow complexion is a sign there is bile in your blood. Bile in your blood is poison. It should never have got there. The proper place for it, is your bowels. Bile poison makes you feel drowsy, listless, tired, gives you headache, nervousness, indigestion, constipation, etc. For treatment, take

For Twenty Years. Other chill remedies have sprung up, flourished for a brief season, then passed away—even from memory—but for twenty years Cheatham's Chill Tonic has been in the field of action. The reason is simple. It has the merit. It actually cures chills and fever, while the majority of others merely promise to. One bottle guaranteed to cure any one case.

For Womanly Pains

To Obtain Relief from the pains, that assail women, try Wine of Cardui, the well-known, successful remedy, for womanly ills.

Everybody knows that Cardui is a pure, harmless, vegetable extract, containing ingredients of special curative powers over the womanly organs. In popular use, for over 50 years, it has benefited over a million sick women, and has proven itself indeed "Woman's Relief."

Mrs. Minnie Lamb, of Lebanon Junction, Ky., writes: "Cardui has done me more good than all the doctors' medicines ever did for me. I had pains in my head, shoulders, arms, sides, back, joints, bad cramping spells in my stomach, and bearing-down pains, at my periods, till I just almost died."

"I wrote you for advice, although I thought there was no medicine that could help me. On your advice I began to take Cardui, and it has done wonders for me. Now all those pains are relieved and I am much better."

"I feel that I owe my life to Cardui, and I have advised all my suffering lady friends to use it. The mothers around here are giving it to their daughters, and my friends say it helps them so much."

Thomas A. Edison, the great American inventor, says "Fully eighty percent of the illness of mankind comes from eating improper food or too much food; people are inclined to overindulge themselves." This is where indigestion finds its beginning in nearly every case. The stomach can do just so much work and no more, and when you overload it, or when you eat the wrong kind of food, the digestive organs cannot possibly do the work demanded of them. It is at such times that the stomach needs help. It demands help, and warns you by headaches, belching, sour stomach, nausea and indigestion. You should attend to this at once by taking something that will actually do the work for the stomach. Kodol will do this. It is a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. It is pleasant to take. It digests what you eat. Sold by Pearce & Dobbs.
