C. Merrill Talks Irrigation.

I have been asked to give for the information of your readers a method practiced and in use in the irrigated portion of the state of Washington in the manner of preparing the land for seeding and watering. The land is properly leveled and there are no high places and the alfalfa seed is sown with a hand seeder similar to the one in use here, using ten to twenty pounds to the acre, the amount varying according to the condition of soil—very sandy soil requiring the maximum amount. We scatter broadcast seed about 20 pounds to the acre of wheat or oats as a nurse crop. This protects the small plants of alfalfa from the sun and until well rooted. The seed is dragged in with a spike tooth harrow. Then we use a row marker to make small furrows for water furrows, these are usually three feet apart—sometimes more in land that is sandy than the hard soil. We use cedar fume mostly to carry and distribute the water, an inch or two and a quarter inch holes being bored in side near the bottom and in line with the corrugations in land made with the ditches—to regulate the flow and shut off the water; we use a piece of lath about 4 inches wide outside of fume directly over the auger hole, it being fastened at one end only. The head ditches for carrying and distributing water are made by getting irrigating lath, nail together making a box with the top open. These are "pudged" in ditch bank at right angles to correspond with small furrows through field. A short piece of lath is fastened to end of drop box so that the supply of water can be regulated to required amount. Water is led on through holes in fume on top boxes and kept running until the ground is moist to the depth, no part of it being flooded and turned off and let stand until moisture is again needed.

As there is no flooding, there is no crust to hinder the plants from coming through, the surface of soil remaining loose and warm.

The amount of water required depends on length of run and natural fall of land.

From what I have observed would say that conditions here are ideal for this system and I believe it will prove much more satisfactory than the present system.

For cultivated crops, the furrow system is also used.

Respectfully submitted,
U. G. MERRILL.

Will Consider Change in Plan of Sale.

The city dads will hold open session at the regular council meeting tomorrow night, at which time they will discuss with the interested citizens of the town the feasibility of a change in the plan of the sale of the remainder of the school section. The council has in mind a plan of sale which they think will facilitate and encourage the sale of these lots and blocks and at the same time safeguard and materially increase the revenue for the permanent school fund of the town. As this is a matter of very great importance to all the citizens of the town it will be a matter of pleasure to the council to have as many of the level-headed business men present as possible.

Obituary.

Julia A. Short was born August 18, 1857; was married to Geo. Huffines November 1, 1876; died May 29, 1911 at 7 p. m. at the age of 53 years, 9 months and 19 days. She professed religion at the age of sixteen and joined the Cumberland Presbyterian church and lived a Christian life the rest of her days.

She moved from Kentucky to Texas in '93 and lived there until '97, when she came to New Mexico.

She is the mother of eight children, three of whom have gone on before. Her husband and the five remaining children and many friends mourn their loss.

Faulkner Says He Means Business.

John Faulkner, of Hutchinson, Kansas, appeared before the city council Friday night in response to a message which requested that he either furnish substantial evidence that he yet intended to install an ice plant according to previous arrangement with this body, else release them from further obligation in the matter as other parties were willing and able, yes anxious, to step in and erect an ice plant according to the same proposition under which he had obtained footing.

Mr. Faulkner stated to the council and visitors present at the meeting that he had been unavoidably delayed in his plans, but thought he could be on the ground by June 20th, in fact he was willing to give his word that he would furnish substantial evidence to the town council by that time that he would erect an ice plant according to promise or get out of the running and let the other fellow get busy.

It will be remembered that the retiring council, upon the recommendation of a committee of business men from the Commercial Club, agreed with Mr. Faulkner to vacate what is known as Oregon street just east of the city power plant and deed this property to him for the erection of an ice plant, it being the supposition of at least a majority of the councilmen that Faulkner would use city power, thus creating a permanent asset to the public utility plant. Mr. Faulkner, before the city council Friday night, said that this was his original intention, but in working out his plans he had been compelled to discontinue this idea and now contemplated furnishing his own motive power.

It would seem from the development of the matter thus far that Portales is certain to get an ice factory in the near future for it is found that Mr. Faulkner declines to avail himself of the opportunity, there are several local business men who are at least showing some disposition to get busy on the enterprise.

W. E. Keeter Married.

W. E. Keeter, mechanical engineer at the city power plant, quietly absented himself from his place of duty along about the 30th of the month and went to Olney, Texas, where he was married on the 25th instant to Miss Nell Kyne of that place. Manager T. G. Lomax of the Public Service Co., was served with notice of the marriage this week in approved form and the Herald knows that the native modesty of Mr. Keeter prevented the receipt of the announcement at this office. However this may be, the friends of Mr. Keeter feel sure that he has secured a very deserving young lady as a helpmeet for a man of his mature good judgment very rarely makes a mistake in these matters. The couple will be at home to their friends in Portales about the 15th of June.

A Creditable Exhibit of Alfalfa.

What is destined to become a common sight on the streets of Portales was the display last Saturday of a wagon load of beautiful pea-green alfalfa, by Wm. Battenfield from his farm east of town, which was pronounced by those who saw it as being as good as could be produced in any man's country for a first-cutting. It was some of the crop which he sowed last September and gave four irrigations, the average height of the plants being some 26 inches. The fact that he received one ton per acre on the first cutting is sufficient proof that the Portales Valley will grow this valuable legume to a degree of perfection rarely attained in less favored climates and conditions. The fact that Mr. Battenfield found ready sale for this product at $18 per ton is only another proof that the quality was A1.

It will be remembered from a previous write-up in the Herald as well as the knowledge which many people about the town have of the Battenfield place from having visited it, that conditions are almost ideal on this beautiful farm for the growing of most any crop to which the soil is heir in these parts. With a model private pumping plant which is furnished motive power from a 15-horse power Wittig engine which uses kerosene, some 1000 gallons of water is developed an hour, the average cost per acre foot being about 77c, according to Mr. Battenfield and other authorities. This gentleman is contemplating the installation of another engine of the same type and horse-power to furnish more water for other lands which he will put under the plow before long.

Local Baptists Call Pastor.

The local congregation of Baptists several days ago extended a call to Rev. W. C. Taggart, lately of Merkel, Texas, to the pastorate at Portales and he has signified his intention of coming here with the probability of his acceptance. In a letter from him Monday of this week he stated that he would leave Merkel the first of the coming month (today) for Portales, and he should be here for services next Sunday.

Mr. Taggart is well known to many Portales people as well as being a familiar figure in denominational life of this church throughout the state, having held some of the most important pastorates in New Mexico. He is credited with being a genuine man person, a scholar and a minister of great power.

The people of all faiths are invited to hear the man during his stay in the town beginning next Sunday morning.

W. R. Farris, who has held the position of section foreman on the Santa Fe lines with headquarters at Portales, left the first of the week for Northwest Arkansas, where he will probably locate.

An Unsolicited Boost.

D. B. Carles, now of Farwell, Texas, but who has large interests in the form of irrigated lands at Rocky Ford, Colo., was a visitor in Portales for a few days the latter part of last week. While here he availed himself of an old friendship which was fraternal in our fellow townsmen, W. H. Garrett who showed him the sights around the Valley.

The primary object of Mr. Carles in making the visit was to look over the different types of pumping plants in the Valley, as he contemplates doing some of this development himself over in Texas. He was escorted by Mr. Garrett to the Battenfield place where he observed the manner of installing individual pumps and power and it was his verdict in expressing himself to the Herald man that Mr. Battenfield was fortunate in having his plant installed in a thoroughly workmanlike manner and that he purposed using this plan in the installation of his own equipment.

While Mr. Carles did not pose for a newspaper interview, in fact he was so opposed to being interviewed by the newspaper, that he did not even make these places of business a visit during his stay here, but by one of those arts known to the fraternity we were permitted to get up on his "blind side" and extract a few worth while comments which were given in the nature of his general impression of the Valley and its possibilities. Asked by this artist if he thought sugar beets would grow here: "Sure," said Mr. Carles, "You can grow most anything here that we can grow on our $500 and $1000 acre land in Colorado." Mr. Carles said that we need have no anxiety about the question of whether the sugar refineries would look with favor upon this virgin field which seemed especially designed by nature for the growing of sugar beets, for, said he: "You may rest assured that the American beet sugar manufacturers have not overlooked the opportunity which this Valley presents both to the grower and the refinery interests. In fact," said Mr. Carles, "the people who put in the factory at Rocky Ford have had a representative visit your Valley, perhaps unknown to you, and it will only be a question of time until there will be the keenest kind of competition as to who is to have precedence in the matter of taking care of the industry in this section. Of course, you people should go right on and make your experiment with the crop this year for this is only the forerunner of actual operation." These and other conclusions on the part of this gentleman of course only confirm the judgment of the average native of this section, but it does one good to hear ourselves talked about in this complimentary manner by one who can put a proper estimate upon irrigation possibilities. Come to Portales Valley.

Fountain Taking On Form.

C. Harvey, the contractor and builder, has finished the masonry on the fountain which is to decorate the court house lawn and T. G. Lomax will put the finishing touches to the ornament this week. The masonry consisted of the basin and a network of angles in the bottom which are designed to protect the goldfish with which it will be stocked in the winter months and the other features will be a grotto effect of stone in pyramid or arch form embellished with an electrical effect which will be very attractive when the waterworks is on.

Tuesday, the 30th, being Decoration Day, in honor of the day the United Daughters of the Confederacy postponed their regular meeting until Tuesday, June 13.

Outlook for Statehood.

The joint resolution to admit New Mexico and Arizona to immediate statehood, but withholding the approval of the constitution of both alike until the people have voted on proposed amendments, has passed the house of representatives and has been read twice in the senate and referred to its committee on territories. The resolution in its present form requires New Mexico to vote on an amendment making the constitution of this state more easily amendable, and requires the people of Arizona to vote on an amendment removing the recall provisions as it applies to judges. Whether they are approved or rejected by the proposed referendum, the constitutions of the new states will stand finally approved when the respective votes have been taken.

It is impossible to forecast the action of the senate on this resolution at the present time. It appears that the senate has made up its mind that Arizona has attempted to confer upon its people more power than is good for them, and it is going to rescue the Arizonans from their predicament if the republicans in that body can prevail upon a couple or so of democrats to join them in the work of salvation. It is a little different with New Mexico. In this would-be state, the republicans made the constitution and did it up brown, arranging matters so that the people will have light work to do in the government and the democrats will scarcely be bothered at all in the matter of office-holding and policy-shaping. This is considered by the senate majority as it should be, and New Mexico was welcomed at the senatorial threshold with a glad hand, even one or two so-called "democrats" greeting it with demonstrations of great affection. All of which is highly educative. It would seem from the attitude of the senate that any territory that may aspire to statehood must realize that to succeed it must fix up an organic law that will be agreeable to senators who doubt the ability of the masses to govern themselves.

But the Herald hopes that this resolution will pass this high tribunal in the form in which it was presented for reading. This leads us to make brief comment on the part which the committee of democrats took in their appearance before the house committee and to whom credit must be ascribed, in large part, for the resolution as it appears in its present form. This committee of democrats who appeared before the house committee on territories was composed of Messrs. Ferguson, Jones, Hand and our indomitable McGill, who urged that the people of New Mexico be entitled to vote upon an amendment making its constitution more easily amendable, such referendum to be taken at the same time that the first state election is to be held. So much for the placing of the credit for what has been accomplished in the matter up to the present as far as New Mexico is concerned. Of course the republicans saw to it that Arizona would have ample opportunity to vote upon the recall clause of her constitution as it applied to judges.

This leads the Herald to say that if the joint resolution passes the senate in the form in which it was presented and the people of New Mexico get an opportunity to vote on this amendment as proposed, there is no question of a doubt in our minds that it will carry by an overwhelming majority, notwithstanding the fact that some 18,000 majority was rolled up for the passage of the document in its present form. It is a fact well known to the majority of those who voted for the constitution January 21, 1911, that they did not so vote because they considered it a meritorious document, but distinctly because they considered its passage in its then form the almost necessary thing to do in order to attain statehood speedily. In other words, they were not voting upon the merit of the document which was presented for their approval or rejection, but voted solely for statehood. A knowledge of this fact inspires the Herald to remark, then, that if the people are given an opportunity to grasp statehood and at the same time secure an amendment which will enable them to cut out the rotten features of their enabling act, there is not a shadow of a doubt but that such an amendment would be hailed with glad acclaim.

It is further a matter of opinion with us that the work of this committee of democrats constitutes the boldest and most patriotic piece of statesmanship which has yet been recorded in the making of statehood history for New Mexico, and the faithful in this county certainly have cause for congratulation that our own McGill was one of the courageous instruments which has wrought mightily in the desire to at least turn the torch-light of investigation into the methods by which the document in its present form was drafted and declared passed by the people. It will be a matter of genuine pleasure to those admiring friends to have McGill visit Portales and tell us in his own words of the heroic struggle to save the people of New Mexico from political bondage.

"Statehood Before Congress"
On the above named topic, Hon. W. R. McGill, of La Lande, will address the citizenship of Portales and vicinity, June 6th, 8 p. m., giving a full explanation of the hearings before Congress. As many in these parts know, Judge McGill was one of the Democratic war-horses and one of the ablest of those who went to Washington and were heard before the committee. Everybody invited to attend and hear this address.

May Conduct Series of Experiments

On Monday, Tuesday and Friday of this week we have had with us Frederick L. Bixby, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who is also Territorial engineer.

Mr. Bixby went over the lands in our Valley, acquainting himself with the nature of our soil and the supply of our water with a view of conducting some experimental work here along the lines of irrigation.

His trip here at this time was for the sole purpose of looking over the situation and learning whether or not he would receive the co-operation of the people here, and he expressed himself as very favorably impressed with our possibilities, and having received every assurance that he would receive a hearty co-operation, he left leaving the impression that the work would be taken up here at once.

This will mean a great deal to our farmers, since with no cost to them, they will receive the benefits of experiments carried on right in their midst, under the supervision of an experienced and competent man, and that under every known method of irrigation, and with water measuring devices so that they may learn the most economical use of water for the best production of crops.

Mr. Bixby is located at the Agricultural College of New Mexico and is in charge of the irrigation experiments there and has at hand a great deal of valuable information along that line which he will gladly give to the farmers without cost, and when the work is begun here it will be under his personal supervision.

We consider this an important movement in the right direction and one in which our farmers should take great interest.

Will Boost Portales Valley.

John T. Kelly, staff correspondent of the Albuquerque Evening Herald, spent Tuesday in Portales in the interest of his paper, which was manifested by his selection of Arthur F. Jones as local correspondent. While Jones deplors the fact that New Mexico does not maintain a democratic daily which would be representative of the entire state, yet appreciates the imperative necessity of Portales Valley getting at least a share of statewide publicity, and which by the simple process of elimination resolves itself into the choice of a Republican medium or nothing. He will therefore make regular reports to this paper of the things in Portales and will have a weather eye turned to the opportunity of sandwiching some master dope into its columns about the irrigation possibilities of the Valley. Portales has in the past neglected this source of advertising and it is highly commendable in Alderman Jones to step in the breach and at least supply one paper with such facts.

Rebecca At Lubbock July 4th.

The citizens of Lubbock are arranging for one of the biggest barbecues ever held in that section of the country on July 4th and they extend an invitation to the people of this part of the country to be on hand. A meeting of the citizens last week committees were appointed to take care of the various features of the entertainment and it is an assured thing that it will be a big meeting. The railroad will grant special rates and Lubbock people promise to have an ample amount of good things to eat for all that may attend and also lots of amusement. Keeping with the spirit of the great day it is safe to say that those who go to Lubbock on this day will be well pleased and we hope that the crowds will be up to the expectations of the Lubbock citizens. There are possibly a number of people in this section who have attended a public celebration at Lubbock and they attest to the fact that the Lubbock way of entertaining is O. K. Let our people begin to arrange to be in Lubbock on the 4th of July. It will be a fine time to meet with people you do not know and also renew old ties.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

It is Worth Saving, and Some Portales People Know How to Save It.

Many Portales people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for that amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when most all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly relieved by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. The following statement leaves no room for doubt.

Mrs. J. W. Caraway, Fifth St. Portales, Texas, says: "I had relief from backache and other symptoms of kidney complaint by using Doan's Kidney Pills and my experience warrants me in recommending them. It was two months ago that my husband got Doan's Kidney Pills, after he had heard them highly recommended. I found Doan's Kidney Pills live up to all the claims made for them." For sale by all dealers. Price 25 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other. 27-28

The Cinch On The Homesteaders.

Uncle Sam, you are something of a bunco man and grafter yourself in the homestead fiasco of today. Rockefeller, Pierp Morgan and Andrew Carnegie are not in it with you, for their methods are smoother than yours. You bet 100 or 820 acres of your kin dried land against $10 or $32, as the case may be, of the poor homesteader's money that he or she can not make a living on the land and acquire title to it. And you have a cinch on winning, for you sick one of your million dollar special agents on him as soon as he files on his claim, to see that he is a real prisoner for five years on his own homestead, whether he raises anything there to live on or not.

If he tires of his task, becomes weak in the knees and at heart and steals away for a short time to work for others in order to go back to his claim with something to eat and wear your million dollar special agent through your high salaried United States attorney drags him to some land office to show cause why you have not won your bet. Speaking of cinches, Uncle Sam, when some poor homesteader faces your million dollar land office officials, your million dollar special agent and high-salaried attorneys, he is notified that his witnesses are not to be admitted or have seats in the court room, as it were, during the proceedings of your cinch, chairs being provided in the corridor outside for them.

Of course, Uncle, your witnesses for the prosecution, coached by your million dollar special agent, are the only privileged ones allowed to hear and witness any part of your great cinch game inside. Meanwhile your witnesses inside are listening to one another's testimony in order not to forget the special agent's instruction to them. Our poor homesteader's witnesses are finally brought in out of the cold to be put through the finishing touches of your cinch, whereupon your million dollar judges of the land office decide you win the money and the land too. Why, Uncle Samuel, you are a thug, and a hold-up, as compared to the aforesaid gentlemen and their gentle manner of stealth.—Ed L. Patrick in Denver Field & Farm.

Once The Poet Won.

"I understand that Kipling is paid a dollar a word for his poetry said the soulful poet to the hard-headed editor. Now, you don't pay me any such price for my poetry."

"I can hardly afford to pay you a dollar a word for your poetry," the editor said; but I will pay you a dollar a line for a short poem."

The poet departed, to return next day with the following poem:

Many a Man Owes His Success to the Building of a home because it has served as an anchor and kept him in a straight line and away, possibly from some fake "get rich quick" schemes which are so plentiful today and which so often mean riches only for the smooth tongued promoters thereof. By investing in your home town you are dealing with values and people with whom you are acquainted—people who are interested in your welfare because your success means the success of others about you, and the more successful citizens a town can boast of the better place it will be. All the lumber we have in our yards was purchased with the view of giving our customers honest values, and when you decide to build we want to sell you more about our plan.

His Hard Luck Story

His horse went dead and his mule went lame, and he lost six cows in a poker game; then a hurricane came on a summer's day and blew the house where he lived away; and the earthquake came when that was gone and swallowed the land that the house was on; then the tax collector came around and charged him up with the hole in the ground.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY.

The social event of the week just passed was the entertainment given by the Ladies Aid Society of the Baptist church. The invitations were very clever little affairs and the originator thereof is certainly to be complimented. They were in merry verse form that ran like this:

This birthday party is given to you,
 'Tis something novel, 'tis something new.
 We send to each this little envelope
 Please either send or bring it back,
 With so many cents as you are old—
 We promise the number shall never be told!

Baptist Aid Society with greetings hearty,
 Feels sure you will come to your own birthday party.

This charming little social was given at the Commercial Club rooms last Friday evening. Under the skillful direction of Mrs. M. B. Jones and Miss Jim Dobbs the evening passed off without a dull moment. Music by our Concert Band added to the pleasure of the occasion as no other one thing could have done and served as a powerful impetus to conversation of the lighter vein and flights of wit and laughter. Delicious pineapple punch and cake were served each guest and they all departed wishing the Baptist ladies would soon have another such happy thought and put it into execution.

I. F. S. HAPPENINGS.

Miss Nannie Osborn was hostess for the T. F. C. Club on Tuesday afternoon of last week. The girls report a delightful afternoon and are quite profuse in their highly complimentary remarks concerning the delicious home-made fruit ice cream and cake, which Miss Osborn had prepared her own self.

On Tuesday of this week Miss Cornie Smith entertained the Club, and on this occasion the young ladies improved the shining hours working upon a special piece of handicraft, which promises to be quite a beautiful affair when finished, and will be a fine exponent of their skill with the needle. Miss Smith served fruit punch and cake, which she, too, had made all by herself.

In this connection we beg to correct an error in last week's issue of this paper. We reported T. F. C. as meaning "Take First Chance," but we now have it from unquestionable authority that the true interpretation is, "Twelve Fine Chances." Should the full meaning still be unclear to some, the fact that there are twelve young ladies in this club, is probably sufficient additional explanation.

MRS. AUSTIN ENTERTAINS.

Mrs. A. B. Austin entertained her Sunday school class on last Saturday afternoon from four to six with a lawn party. Mrs. Austin's class consists of some nineteen bright and pretty girls, and as she gave each little miss permission to invite at least one boy friend, it was indeed a bevy of merry young people that gathered on the beautiful Austin lawn to do ample justice to the hospitality of their loved teacher and friend. A dainty salad course and cake and punch were served by the kind hostess and the evening fairly raced away to the accompaniment of old-fashioned outdoor games, loved of children the world over and popular even with the grownups, and the hour for departure came too soon for this jolly young crowd.

Those present were: Misses Leta Smith, Erma Bell Smith, Edith Reagan, Lucy Culbertson, Hallie Mitchell, Dora Smith, Lu-line Sandefer, Vella Prine, Nora Fairly, Thelie Mc Oldham, Willie Stewart, Selma Larson, Willie Ferguson, Leota Merrill, Ione Austin; the invited guests were: Joe Blankenship, Vassar Smith, Rupert Larson, Goodwin Humphrey, Joe and Harry Patterson, Harold and Leland Fiscus, Howard Leach and Archie Williams.

B. K. A. CLUB.

The B. K. A. Club met with Miss Irene Smith on Friday evening of last week. All members, except one, were present, and as there was no special business to be attended to, the entire afternoon was devoted to the gentle art of embroidery. The public may confidently expect these young ladies to soon be wearing dainty lingerie frocks of their own handicraft.

On this occasion Miss Irene served a delicious light luncheon of peanut butter sandwiches, vanilla wafers, tea, olives. The Club will meet Friday with Miss Shug Stewart.

LIGHTS AND SHADOWS OF THE WATER MAN, OR THE METER DID THE WORK!

(DEDICATED TO THE PUBLIC SERVICE CO., OF PORTALES)

In spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to garden hose. It's then the poor old water man begins to feel his woes. When Old Sol is shining brightly, a hundred in the shade, The consumer he gets busy, for his water bill is paid. He sprinkles both the house and lawn till its like an ocean side. Then he turns the lawn right over and he soaks the other side. Says he, "I'll get my money's worth, I'll let it run all night" So he hangs the hose up in a tree, and it runs till broad daylight.

Then he goes out in the stable and he washes all the rigs, He washes all the horses, cows and even to the pigs. He sprinkles all his neighbors' lawns, he sprinkles all the earth; He gets out his hose at midnight just to get his money's worth. If he has a leaky fixture, what cares he? It's naught to him, Isn't the river full of water and the well full to the brim?

In winter time he turns it on, so his water pipes won't freeze; Says he, "I'll save a plumber's bill, I'll do just as I please." For he hasn't got a meter, so he lets the water run, Using water on a flat rate, till the Company's on the bum. The waterman he wonders and he groans in sheer despair, He sighs in deepest agony and wildly tears his hair. Says he, "I'll put a meter on these fellows pretty soon;" "I'll change their music, stop the waste, before another moon." He adopts a meter system, what a bright and happy thought. His slumbers now are peaceful; what a mighty change is wrought.

Now everyone is satisfied, a "square deal" is the aim, No flesh and fish about it, for they're treated all the same. Now his plant's run at a profit, his per capita is low; His meters made him money, as his revenues will show. Put off not till tomorrow what you can do today, Adopt a meter system, and you'll find that it will pay. It's the only decent method, it's the only decent plan; Dealing equity and justice to each and every man. If you lack for testimony, write the Mayor at any time, And he'll supply the information sure as bacon's on the rind.

Mrs. Dudley Hardy will leave in a few days for an extended visit to Ft. Worth, Texas. Ardmore, Okla., New York and other Eastern points.

Mr. L. M. Doerr, of Roswell, arrived last week to assume the duties as bookkeeper for the Joyce-Fruit house at this place.
