GOVERNOR WILLIAM C. M'DONALD SURE LOOKED GOOD TO US

He Looked His Audience Squarely in the Face While He Discussed the Real Issues of the Campaign.

The Republican Bosses Fear Most of All the Investigations That Will Follow Democratic Victory and are Mortally Afraid of the Exposure.

The court house here was more than packed to welcome Governor McDonald and party Tuesday of this week. The party had been met at Elida by a committee consisting of Judge T. E. Mears, County Clerk, C. P. Mitchell, County Treasurer-elect, Moses B. Jones, J. O. Woods, Joe Beasley, L. W. Fiscus and H. B. Ryther and brought to Portales for the meeting here. Also J. R. Darnell brought from there in his car A. A. Reeman, Senator Arthur J. Evans and Commissioner S. E. Jobason, also J. A. Hall and wife accompanied the distinguished visitors here. The party was met about a mile out of town by several cars, handsomely decorated, and loaded with ladies, which preceded the procession to the court house, where the largest political assembly ever gathered together in Roosevelt county had been waiting for more than an hour to get a glimpse of the next governor of New Mexico.

Governor McDonald was accompanied by the Hon. Alvin N. White, progressive Republican nominee for corporation commissioner, and William C. Liller, press correspondent.

Mr. White was the first speaker and made a brief but timely talk about the progressive movement among the Republicans. He told how the party came into existence purely in the interest of good government and honest officials. He told how the Las Vegas ticket was nominated and the tactics employed by the Republican bosses in forcing these nominations upon the delegates in attendance. Mr. White is an honest, conscientious and capable gentleman, and made a decidedly good impression upon his hearers.

Governor McDonald was next introduced and made a telling speech for the whole Democratic ticket. He certainly looked his hearers in the face while he talked and made a lasting impression upon that vast assemblage. He is just a plain, honest, intelligent, forceful and courageous business man; one whose record of over thirty years dealing with the people of this territory stands out unsullied and unspotted by any questionable act, either of omission or commission, in fact, he is most loved where he is best known. Mr. McDonald is not a politician, in any sense of the word, but just a plain, ordinary, everyday gentleman, and by everyday is meant that there is nothing of the chameleon in his character, he is not a Democrat in Roosevelt county where Republicans are scarce, and a Republican in Valencia county where Sol Luna's sheep all vote the Republican ticket just as it is handed to them by their boss. He made a strong, earnest appeal to all the people who are honest in their efforts to secure good government for the new state to help to elect men of character to office, men who will not be controlled by any clique or clan, and men whose chief ambition shall be to give to the people an administration so clean and free from corruption that their memory will be cherished by a grateful public long after they shall have ceased to be and time for political chicanery and trickery in our new state shall be no more. He produced documentary proof in refutation of the lying, libelous charges preferred by the most disreputable papers in the territory, the Santa Fe New Mexican and the Albuquerque Herald, but it is almost a libel on the general public to even insinuate that they could ever be taken seriously or that any credence could be given to them by an intelligent people. He compared the two tickets, excepting the head, giving a little of the personal history of each, and the Democratic lost nothing by the comparison, though he dealt with the Las Vegas nominees much more leniently than their just deserts warranted.

He flatly refuted that old stock assertion that the committee which went to Washington in the interest of and to facilitate statehood, went there on their own initiative and without any authority for so doing, and paid a high tribute to their sturdy American manhood and their unselfish patriotism in this, our hour of great need. He also begged the people not to support George Curry for congress because in Eastern New Mexico he solicited votes as a Democrat and in Western New Mexico he represented himself as a standpat Republican, that in no particular could he be relied upon to be either for any considerable length of time.

The party was taken from here to Clovis by J. R. Darnell, where a monster meeting was held at 8 o'clock. Messrs. J. P. Stone, Hones & Beasley and R. G. Bryant furnished their cars for this occasion free of cost to the committee and the thanks of the committee and the Democrats of this section of the county are extended to these gentlemen for this service, also to Mr. L. W. Fiscus, who acted as chauffeur for the governor.

The Blue Ballot.

The Democrats gave the voters of New Mexico the opportunity of voting the blue ballot. Through it the constitution can be made possible of amendment. Its importance has been thoroughly explained and it is now for the voters to decide as to whether they want a constitution under which the government of the state of New Mexico will be by the corporations, of the corpora-

To the Voters of Roosevelt County, New Mexico

Voters, see to it that your next superintendent of schools holds a first grade certificate and also has had experience in school matters. None other can successfully and satisfactorily perform the duties of this office. Remember that on your own children will fall the burden, should you make a mistake in this matter. Vote for your children's welfare. Demand efficiency as a first requisite for your suffrage.

I am writing to thank you for past favors; also to ask you to lend aid and support by your vote and influence, to my election for county superintendent of schools at your voting box on the 7th day of November, 1911.

We will all agree that politics should not enter into the school affairs of New Mexico, but since the office of county superintendent is elective, it is necessary that political parties nominate candidates. Having been nominated for this office on the Democratic ticket of Roosevelt county; I am writing you, calling your attention to my qualifications for its responsible duties. I have already had the honor of serving you as county superintendent, and my record for efficiency and ability in school affairs has never been successfully called in question.

Notwithstanding the drouth conditions of Roosevelt county, it has led all other counties in New Mexico, in the number of its rural schools in the scholastic year of 1909 and 1910 there was 100 school rooms with schools in sessions, employing in all 108 teachers. Each year I have watched with pride and enthusiasm the educational spirit of teachers, pupils and patrons, building by its influence for better school conditions in the county.

Before my election to the office of county superintendent I taught in the public schools of Portales, holding a first grade New Mexico certificate. I have never held nor taught in any schools nor any where except with a first grade certificate.

Voters, it is my opinion that scholarship and experience combined are requisite qualifications for the person asking for the office of county superintendent by the suffrage of an intelligent citizenship. As in either case scholarship without experience is liable to be unsatisfactory still more, is experience without scholarship to be condemned.

It is the duty of the voters to demand a full educational equipment of any candidate for the office of county superintendent of schools of Roosevelt county. No candidate not holding at least a first grade certificate, should offer or ask the suffrage of the people for this office.

I have worked faithfully to elevate educational standards and to administer the law with equal justice to all, and as an evidence of my success, fully 60 percent of the teachers of Roosevelt county enthusiastically endorse my administration.

I hereby submit my cause to the fair minded, progressive voters of Roosevelt county, believing that I shall be elected your next county superintendent, at the general election, on November 7th, 1911.

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. S. F. CULBERSON.

Republicans of Roosevelt County Will Not Support Bursum.

The Republicans of this county have nominated an entire ticket, and some of those candidates are now out in the field actively engaged in campaigning. Some of these candidates have spent several days this last week in and about Elida, and the situation is, indeed quite humorous. It has been publicly proclaimed by some of these candidates that the Republican party of this county is strictly opposed to the election of Bursum and his bunch of henchmen, and one candidate declared on Wednesday, after Bursum had spoken in Portales on Monday, that there was but one man in Portales who would support Bursum, and that man was the one who had the "extreme pleasure" of introducing the Republican nominee to his fellows at the Portales frost. —Elida News.

C. H. Rittenhouse arrived this week from Wichita, Kansas, and will be with us a few days. Mr. Rittenhouse has not yet disclosed the exact nature of his business, but it is a certainty that it means something good to Portales Valley. Mr. Rittenhouse is one of those substantial boosters who talks but little but performs much, he makes his talk good with his money and his influence

HARVEY B. FERGUSON MAKES A HIT WITH PORTALES PEOPLE

He Addressed an Enthusiastic Audience at the Court House Last Monday Morning, October 31.

Honorable Alvin N. White, Candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Made a Short but Very Interesting School Talk.

Hon. Harvey B. Ferguson and Hon. Alvin H. White, candidates respectively for the offices of member of congress and superintendent of public instruction, arrived Monday morning from Clovis, on the local, and each made an address to the voters of Roosevelt county. The court house was well filled, considering the fact that, practically, no notice was given of the proposed visit of these distinguished gentlemen. Judge T. E. Mears was chairman of the meeting and introduced Mr. White as the first speaker. Mr. White made a brief address on school matters, paying particular attention to that provision of the state Democratic platform which pledges that party to a uniform system of text books for the public schools, also that the Democratic party is pledged for laws providing that these uniform text books shall be furnished free to all pupils up to and including the Eighth grade. He pledged himself, that if elected, he would eliminate politics from the school system and bend his efforts to the betterment of school conditions exclusively, and not to the building up of party machinery. Mr. White is a gentleman of high moral character and unquestioned ability as a school man and is entitled to the suffrage of every voter in the county who has the welfare of our public schools at heart.

Hon. Wm. A. Dunn of Roswell, candidate for justice of the supreme court, was next introduced and made a few remarks, urging the voters to get out on election day and help cast the entire vote of Roosevelt county, as a duty they owed to their party and to the state. Mr. Dunn also stated that he had refrained from taking part in the campaign further than to urge the people to do their duty on election day, and that regardless of which party they voted with.

Judge Mears, in a few well chosen words, next introduced the Hon. Harvey B. Ferguson, candidate for congress. Mr. Ferguson was, some years ago, elected delegate to congress from this territory, and it can be truthfully said that he did more real good for the people who elected him than any delegate who has ever been sent from the "Sunshine" territory. Mr. Ferguson is a fluent and a forceful talker, and he did himself proud on this occasion. He began with the history of our forefathers, taking them at the time they were living in foreign countries, under monarchies, of more or less absolute character, bringing that history down through the different epochs to the earlier and present history of New Mexico. He showed how present conditions had been forecast many years ago by some of the mental giants of that age, depicting, graphically, the difference between the public officials of a century ago and those of the present. He stated that in the early days of America such a thing as a public officer being recreant to the trust reposed in him was an unheard of thing, and one that would have been handled and dealt with summarily, had such a thing occurred. Also he went into the deliberations of the constitutional convention, graphically depicting the gang methods which controlled that body of alleged statesmen, showing the futility of the Democratic minority, trying to get any legislation through in the interest of the average white man, or that would inure to the benefit of the ordinary individual. He told how many so-called Progressive Republicans had been elected to that assembly on platforms declaring for the initiative, the referendum and for the recall, but how they had, almost immediately upon their arrival in the capital city, gone into caucus with the "standpat" Republicans and hog tied themselves irrevocably to the bosses and to the special interests that have so long controlled the destinies of New Mexico. How the efforts of the Democratic minority to engraft some really meritorious provisions into the constitution were abortive. Mr. Ferguson told a great many truths about the Republican bosses of the territory that were calculated to make many honest Republicans sit up and take notice. He referred briefly to the Bursums, the Malquis Martinez, and the Solomon Luna's, to the Spiess' and to the Fall's, all model types of standpat Republicanism, as the dominating characters of that august body that attempted to foist that iniquitous and villainous document upon the honest people of New Mexico. In conclusion he also urged upon the good people of Roosevelt county to get out on election day and help to place honest men in the places of trust and responsibility of the new state, that in this way only could they hope to reap any reward from statehood. That their first duty was to their country and to their fireside, and that no good citizen could afford to shirk this responsibility. The party left Portales at about 11 o'clock for Elida, where they were scheduled to make addresses at about noon, taking the southbound passenger from there to Roswell, where they will be met with a monster demonstration given by the liberty loving citizens of the lower Becos Valley. When you buy American Black you know you have the best $3.50 per ton. Pecos & Company Coal Company.

The state election is but three days away. A majority of the voters of the state have decided to vote for the Flood substitute for the article on the amendment of the constitution and for the candidates on the democratic ticket. If the votes are counted as they are cast, there is absolutely no doubt as to the result of the election. The people of New Mexico are tired of the rule of the Plunderbund. They are going to wipe off the slate and commence a new regime.

We wonder why the republican press of New Mexico is so discreetly silent about the deficit of between $200,000 and $250,000 that the penitentiary is carrying? Let's have an explanation. The time before election is short and the voters are anxious to know all about it.

PIONEER PAYS TRIBUTE TO McDONALD.

Roswell Morning News.

Roswell, N. M. Oct. 26, '11
Editor Morning News.

Roswell, New Mexico.
Will you kindly allow me space in your valuable paper for a few words in reference to W. C. McDonald, Democratic nominee for governor of the new state. I am proud to say that I am not a politician neither am I a writer of newspaper articles, as you will observe by reading this, but I am a strong advocate of good government and that by and for all the people.

I think we have been dominated by an unscrupulous political gang long enough and now the opportunity presents itself to us to step out from under that corrupt gang, if we will only avail ourselves of it.

I am a life long Democrat. I formed the acquaintance of W. C. McDonald in March 1888 at White Oaks, New Mexico, where we both then lived. He at that time was engaged in real estate and mining, later was elected and served as chairman of the board of county commissioners of Lincoln county in which he acquitted himself with such credit that he was elected to the legislature. He there also acquitted himself with honor. In the latter part of the 80s he was chosen as general manager for the Carrizozo Cattle Company which position he has held up to date. He made such a great success in handling the interests of that company that he was a few years ago elected as general manager of El Capitan Land and Cattle company known as the Block ranch.

I am personally acquainted with a number of men who today hold positions of trust under him that have been with him over twenty years. Mr. McDonald is strictly the poor man's friend. I have loafed on the streets of White Oaks with him when we were idle, have spent many pleasant hours with him in his office, have punched cattle with him on the range, have shared his hospitality at his Carrizozo ranch. When or wherever you approach a cow outfit controlled by McDonald you will find something to eat and someone to divide blankets with you for the night.

He is a fearless, unflinching Democrat of the old Jeffersonian type. When he thinks he is right he goes ahead and you will generally find him right and I will vouch for the fact that he will never jump the fence to get up to the pie counter, as many others have done to their shame.

Now allow me to say in conclusion that I have no ax to grind, am not offering a word in hope of reward. Mr. McDonald is not aware that I am going to say one word in his behalf. I am simply interested and deeply interested in good clean government for our great new state and desire to say to all political parties that if you will cast your vote for W. C. McDonald to head the ticket, good, clean government is assured. He is one of the men of this state, that does not have to send out circulars all over the state to clear up charges of fraud and corruption as others have done.

He has lived such a clean life that he has no apology to make, even if he does have the name of being a corporation lawyer.

Shame, shame on the poor deluded individual that would hatch up such a lie as that and put it in print with the hope of drawing a few votes away from an honest man.

Last, but not least, don't forget the Blue Ballot when casting your vote.

In closing I desire to say that if this letter should be the means of influencing one vote for McDonald and clean government I shall be fully repaid for the part I have taken in the matter.

Most respectfully,
ALE. C. WATSON.

The Portales Times last week threw a few fits over the truths that have been told about H. O. (Hold Out) Bursum during the present campaign. It stated, among other things, that the Democratic press of the territory had waged a campaign of vilification and abuse. "Holy Smoke," what do you think of that! The Republican Santa Fe New Mexican has not been fit, during the past three or four weeks, to make a bed for the hogs to sleep in, not even fit for toilet paper for Bursum, and this bunch hollers about a campaign of abuse and vilification. If there has been one word of truth in the average Republican newspaper of the territory since that aggregation of boodlers and grafters met in Las Vegas and nominated the chief grafter of the whole boodling outfit for governor, and all the minor and lesser grafters and boodlers for other and less prominent positions, according to their ability to graft successfully and boodle unceasingly, then such truth as might have inadvertently slipped in, has never been visible to the naked eye, and such inadvertent truth should not be held against the said Republican press to their disadvantage.

The Standpat Republican papers of the territory are endeavoring to discredit Mr. Hagerman because he was compelled to resign by Roosevelt. Now let us see what Mr. Roosevelt required of his appointees. Bat Master-son, one of his appointees for New York, was formerly the king of the red light district in Dodge City, Kansas, and it is common knowledge among the early settlers of that town that he was the most notorious of that particular brand of cattle. Mr. France, one of his appointees as governor of Oklahoma, had nothing to recommend him except that at some time or other he had knocked "Teddy the Freak" down in a prize fight. Now, of course Mr. Hagerman could not be expected to measure up to the standard required by the former erratic and mercurial president and it is scarcely to the credit of those who followed Mr. Hagerman that they were more successful in meeting the requirements of Roosevelt.

Sandoval county Republicans have at last nominated their ticket, and to prove, at least one of the Democratic assertions that one family runs the Republican party in Sandoval county, the first three nominees of that party are here given: viz. For representative, E. M. Sandoval; for sheriff, Corelio Sandoval; for treasurer, Alejandro Sandoval. These candidates' names are taken from the Albuquerque Herald and, certainly, good Republican authority.

When the Flood resolution was up in the senate the Plunderbund press of New Mexico boasted that the blue ballot was beaten but the blue ballot was not beaten, it was in no danger of being beaten. Now the same newspapers are saying that the blue ballot is beaten. Their prediction is just as accurate now as it was last summer.

Speaking of deficits, we would like to have the Republicans explain that deficit of more than $200,000 that the penitentiary is carrying. Is this a sample of the "splendid financial management of the Republican administration of the territory?"

Let us have a look at the books. We do not mean the books that Bursum couldn't find, for it is not to be expected that anybody ever will find them, but we mean the books of accounts of some of the counties and the accounts of the territory. Some of the institutions seem to be in a bad way.

All supplies, such as oils, gas, repairs, and livery business, will be SPOT CASH on and after November 1, 1911. We will redouble our efforts to serve you, but must have the money in order to do so, as all supply houses have changed to a strictly cash basis, consequently we can't get the goods without the money. We will, in future, as in the past, carry everything necessary to care for your troubles, and the price will remain the same—and one price to all.

The Vaughan Auto Transportation Company

No, Mabel, the cause of the present deficit of the territorial penitentiary is not on account of the territory having paid the New Mexican $5.30 a copy for the report of the governor in Spanish, handsomely bound in paper covers, some years ago, but it was on account of such bills as this that the tax rate was raised from $7.75 to $15.51. The New Mexican is desirous of a return of the good old days.

Republican vote drivers are going to have the time of their lives next Tuesday trying to drive voters to the polls. Some thousands of them are likely to prove unruly and other thousands will balk.

The books of some of the counties in New Mexico have been in the hands of persons who have succeeded themselves for years and there are people who have misgivings about conditions in these counties.

If you have any misgivings about the Republican administrations of the various counties or of that of the territory, vote the Democratic ticket and let us have a look at the books.

Next Tuesday a landslide is due which will bury the Plunderbund beyond resurrection and the mourners will be few.

Forsakes the Gang
Benigno Romero, brother of Don Eugenio Romero, the boss of San Miguel county, has come out openly for the state Democratic and county ticket. Mr. Romero says, in substance that he is heartsick of Republican corruption in New Mexico, and that Republicanism, as administered by the Bursum-Hubbell-Luna-Safford-Fall-Spiess-New Mexican Herald bunch is a little too nauseating a dose for his rather delicate constitution. Mr. Romero is probably the most popular and best beloved citizen of Las Vegas and his defection just on the eve of the election has spread consternation in the camp of the grafters. He is president of the Romero Drug company and, it is said never in his life refused an appeal for aid. He will, from now to election day devote all his time to the overthrow of the political highbinders nominated at Las Vegas. It is understood that the defection of Romero at this time means Democratic victory in San Miguel county.

Mr. H. B. Rytter,
Portales, N. M.

Dear Sir:
Would like to know who the standard bearers of the Democratic party are in Roosevelt. You are aware that this is the home of Boss Bursum. Well all the votes he gets here he has bought or will buy. He has registered 30 sheep herders at Water Canyon precinct that haven't been in the precinct this year and not in the county long enough to vote. I have been all over this country, the Rio Grande valley, from El Paso to Trinidad and as there are a great many votes for sale urge every Democrat in your county to come out and vote. If it had not been for giving the ring one more black mark I would now have been in Arizona but as I have been here long enough to vote I am staying two weeks longer than I would have to give H. O. a good solid black mark. He has got one of his chums nominated for sheriff who during Hagerman's time tore down and trampled our flag and emblem. I think this county will go Democratic by 50 to 75 votes if they can keep Bursum's and Sol Luna's 60,000 sheep from voting.

Yours truly,
W. F. TALLANT.

T. F. C.'s Halloween.

One of the most elaborate informal receptions ever given to the young people of Portales was given by the T. F. C. girls on Tuesday, October 31st, the night of ghosts and goblins and was attended by the most select and jolly crowd imaginable.

Along about seven o'clock many varied and ghost-like forms began to appear in the west part of town and finally gathered together at the home of Sara Monroe. Here they were met at the door by Mrs. Monroe, who sent the boys into the dining room, appropriately dressed for the occasion and the girls to another room.

After all had arrived the boys were startled by a procession of ghosts all dressed alike, in flowing white robes and white pointed caps. After surveying the crowd and seeming to be disgusted with them, the ghosts marched silently out, one by one, and by the time the last one was out back came the first one with little red riding hood taking her to the hunter and placing her hand in his she immediately disappeared without saying a word. At once another appeared leading an Indian who was given to Miles Stanish and so on until the Goddess of Liberty was given to Uncle Sam, the witch to the hobgoblin, the farmer girl to the farmer boy, little Bo-Peep to little boy Blue, the tennis girl to the tennis boy, the nurse to the doctor, Maud Muller to the judge, Bridget to Pat, and the Gypsy to the cowboy.

As soon as mated the twelve ghosts silently started them out on a silent moonlight stroll. The ghosts were predominant and not a word was spoken on the march which ended at the home of one of the T. F. C.'s, Miss Martin. Here, immediately upon entrance each couple was led into the Witch's den and here given a compound of what was called Witch's brew but what the writer would term vinegar and salt with a little coloring in it. From here each couple was silently led through the spacious reception rooms into a side room where by signs they were told to take off their wraps. From here they were led back into the front reception room and seated upon pumpkins. Never a word had been said and after all had been seated a startling noise was heard and to the strains of low, weird music on the piano the twelve ghosts gave a ghost's dance and serenade. Immediately a light was produced and all were commanded to unmask. Many were the surprises and many were the remarks made, since no one had spoken before. After the surprise of partners was over and time was taken to glance around every one commented favorably upon the decorations. Never before has there been seen in Portales, such a profusely decorated reception hall. All the decorations, from the time you entered the door where you met a jack-o-lantern with T. F. C. staring you in the face until you passed through all the rooms were all significant and appropriate of the night. Cats, witches, hobgoblins, corn, maize, autumn leaves, peanuts, pumpkins, melons and everything else which pertained to this great festival were profusely and artistically placed all over the house.

As soon as all were unmasked part were marched into the witch's den, where their fortunes were told, part went to diving in a tub of water for apples while others went in and kneeling before a coffin asked the spirit within the coffin any question they wanted to and it was answered.

All being satisfied with their fortunes and some having been successful in diving for apples, peanuts were passed to satisfy the rest and a pleasant twenty or thirty minutes were passed singing, eating and playing. During this time the ghosts were busy and as soon as they finished their work sent all the girls into one room and the boys into another, the two being separated by a sheet with three sets of holes in it. The girls looked through these holes and the boys picked out the eyes they cared for. As soon as all were coupled a march was instituted and the march led first to a table where each person was served with pumpkin pie and doughnuts by two of the fairest T. F. C.'s Misses Smith and Martin. From here the march led to another table where coffee was appropriately served in tin cups, and handed out by the T. F. C. president, Miss Osborne. The march then led back into the front room where all talked and ate especially the latter. Oh that pumpkin pie, doughnuts and coffee, finished up by home made affinity and other candies as only the T. F. C.s make them. If anyone did not get enough or lacked anything there were twelve fair TFCs immediately ready to serve her or she and particularly he. After the refreshments ghost stories were given for thirty or forty minutes after which the prizes, consisting of two beautiful boxes of candy were given to those wearing the best costumes. Miss Pearl Stone, the Indian, was awarded first prize for the girls, and Lwight Reynolds, Uncle Sam, was awarded first prize for the boys. Many costumes showing much time spent on them were worn and it was difficult for the judges to decide the best one.

Those present, besides the T. F. C. girls were Misses Stone, Cooper, Carter, Cheshier, Woobs, Leahy, Seece, Foglesong and Anderson. Messrs. Blankenship, Smith, Lee Carter, Bramblett, Connally, Monroe, Chapman, Cunningham, Reynolds, Edwards, and Seagan Connally. Mr. and Mrs. Monroe, Mrs. Bartod and Mrs. Martin were the chaperons.

Some Sugar Beets.

Mr. G. W. Wood, the gardner and horticulturist, brings a pretty good story to the Herald office of his success with sugar beets. But only put in a very small patch as a sort of an experiment. The patch was one hundred feet long and twenty-four feet wide and he gathered 2236 pounds of beets from it. It must also be remembered that this was his first attempt at sugar beet raising, consequently, he could not be expected to do better than a fair average this year, further, he had to depend exclu-

The Fuel Supply Needs Attention Only Three Times Each Day

The makers of Cole's Hot Blast Heater guarantee this stove to hold fire with soft coal 36 hours without attention. Your old stove and imitation stoves leak air and waste fuel because they are not air-tight, because they have putty joints.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

—by means of the patented Hot Blast Draft and other patented features which make it tight, doing away with the use of stove putty—requires less attention than any other heater made.

All fuel—Soft Coal, Hard Coal, Lignite, Wood or Corn Cobs—contains a large amount of gas. Fully one-half of the heating power (carbon) in soft coal is gas. This is the part of the fuel this wonderful heater saves, by burning it with the Top Hot Blast Draft. This makes Cole's Hot Blast Heater the most satisfactory, the most economical, the most convenient heater you can buy. Imitations and other styles of stoves allow this gas-half of the coal to pass up the chimney with the smoke, unburned. Thousands of these stoves are in use and the sale continues to increase year after year.

This heater will give you more comfort than you ever thought possible by using any kind of a stove which uses soft coal for fuel.

Right now is the time to decide and select the size you should have. Come in and see complete line of styles and sizes.

It has ceased to be a question of doubt as to whether or not they are adapted to this soil and this climate, we all know that there is no better country in the world for this crop than the Portales Valley, yet these unusually good showings cannot help but make us feel more sure of ourselves and of our country.

What is Osteopathy?

Interesting Story of the Development of a New System of Treating Disease and an Explanation of Its Principles. What It Can and Does Accomplish.

By Belle Case Harrington.

OSTEOPATHY DEFINED.

Osteopathy is a method of removing the cause of disease by adjustment, its purpose being to restore the structural condition of the body to its normal state, thereby enabling nature through normal activity to restore health." According to the osteopathic belief, nearly all disease is due to the malworking of some organ or set of organs, and this in turn is caused by interference with the blood or nerve or lymph supply brought about by some structural derangement. In other words, healthy bodily function is always dependent upon the normal condition of the bodily structure.

Osteopathy holds that the human body contains all the remedial agents necessary for the maintenance of health, and that these curative fluids are distributed when and where needed, except when such distribution is interfered with by structural disorder. The province of the osteopath is, therefore, to restore structural harmony, so that the inherent healing power of nature itself may regain control, making the administration of drugs unnecessary.

From its name it might be inferred that osteopathy deals only with the adjustment of the bones. This idea is erroneous. Muscles, ligaments and the various organs of the body are included in the term structure, and in seeking to restore function the practitioner endeavors to secure the proper adjustment of any or all of these parts to each other in regard to position, relation and size.

According to this new science, perverted structural conditions are a double menace to the well being of the body; they interfere with normal functions, and thus disease is manifest, and at the same time the natural curative properties found in the body are held in abeyance by this structural irregularity, and nature is prevented from administering her own medicine. A structural derangement, maintaining functional disorder, in the language of osteopathy, is termed a lesion. Thus a partial dislocation of the hip would be called a lesion, and, by pressure upon the nerve and its adjacent tissues, would produce the functional disorder known as sciatica. A muscular lesion may be formed by the contraction of the muscles at the back of the neck. These contracted muscles press upon the veins which carry the blood from the brain, congestion results, and we call the functional disorder a congestive headache.

Lesion may produce disease in various ways by direct pressure upon a nerve, as in the case of sciatica just referred to; by pressure upon an artery, rendering the supply of blood carried by the artery insufficient properly to nourish the organ which it supplies; by pressure upon a vein, which prevents the removal of all waste material in the system, thereby inducing tumors, goiter, etc.; and by pressure upon those lymph glands which gather up the nutrient elements and convey them to the blood, causing impoverishment of the organs which they supply.

METHODS OF DIAGNOSIS.

In diagnosis, the osteopath uses all the methods common to the regular physician, but in the determination of spinal lesions he pays particular attention to the palpation, i. e., examination by touch. The experienced osteopath possesses in his finger tips a power of diagnosis which is almost marvelous. While by no means ignoring symptoms, he more often finds his clue to the real trouble in some irregularity of bone or ligament or muscle-causes which are commonly considered unimportant by the regular physician.

During treatment the patient is placed upon a treating table or stool. Only superfluous accessories of dress are removed, and the practitioner, by his intimate knowledge of the human structure, notes any departure from normal conditions, and, by an intelligent adjusting process based upon mechanical and physiological laws, attempts to overcome the perversion. To the osteopath, disease means "mechanical interference with vital forces," and the reestablishment of health is simply the removal of that interference.

The spine is one of the principal points of examination because the great system of nerves and also the blood-vessels of the spine pass through the small openings between the vertebrae and any disarrangement here is likely to affect seriously the vital functions of the body. Doctor Still asserts that ninety-five per cent of all the diseases of the body have their origin in derangement of the spine. In substantiation of this statement he shows that each opening between the vertebrae is exactly large enough to allow the passage of the nerve or blood vessel designed to fill that opening; if the bones be displaced even slightly, the space which before was just large enough to admit one of these structures will have been made smaller, and its walls will be compressed, resulting in nerve irritation or diminished blood flow, as the case may be. If, for instance, the vertebrae between the fourth and eighth dorsals become slightly displaced, disturbance of the vaso motor nerves controlling the blood supply to the stomach will result, and some form of stomach trouble be inevitable.

It is unfair, however, to conclude that the examination of the spinal system is regarded as the whole basis of operation in the process of treatment. The competent osteopath gives careful attention to every part of the body and is particular not to overlook any symptom, however slight, that may have a bearing upon the case.

OSTEOPATHY AND SURGERY

The necessity of surgery in extreme cases is recognized by osteopaths, and both major and minor surgery are taught in all osteopathic schools as a part of the regular course. They do not believe, however, that the use of the knife should be resorted to indiscriminately or hastily, but only after all other means have been exhausted. There is no question but that the osteopathic method of treatment is of immense advantage both preparatory to and following an operation, recovery being facilitated because the forces of nature are materially assisted in bringing about the reparative process. A regular osteopathic nurses' training course has been instituted at Kirksville, and it will doubtless be only a few years until anyone can have an osteopathic nurse if he so desires.

Many kinds of mechanical treatment have been known and practiced for centuries, but the osteopathic theory both as to the cause and the treatment of disease differs widely from that of the older thinkers and practitioners. Instead of working blindly for results, the osteopath seeks to find an intelligent reason for the disorder, and much of his treatment is based upon well known principles of mechanics. "Common sense applied in a mechanical way is the fundamental principle underlying all successful treatment" is the way Doctor Still expresses it, in talking to his students. Probably no two osteopaths treat exactly alike, though both have the same theory and produce the same results. Each must possess a technique that is original and adaptable to each individual case.

While recognizing the body as a machine, osteopathy goes farther and avers that it is a self lubricating, self regulating, and self restoring machine—one that is tending always toward normal, whose functions become seriously perverted only through abuse or violence or the presence of micro-organisms. "Every living organism," says Doctor Still, "has within it the power to manufacture and prepare all chemicals, materials, and forces needed to build and rebuild itself, together with all the machinery and apparatus required to do this work in the most perfect manner, producing the only substance that can be utilized in the economy of the individual.

C. W. White.

The above is a copy of an original letter now in the possession of the Democratic State Committee at Santa Fe. It ought to be apparent to the voters of New Mexico that this and other letters of similar character which said committee has knowledge of having been written from the Penitentiary at Santa Fe, must be prompted by someone in authority, and it ought to be further apparent to the voters of New Mexico that the Republican party of New Mexico must be in desperate straits when resorting to such methods to secure a majority of the electors at the coming election. We believe it sufficient to submit it to the honest men of New Mexico and will leave it to their judgement to be exercised on the 7th day of November at the ballot box, as to whether they want such methods continued in the new state.

McDonald's Affidavit

In view of the fact that the honorable H. O. Bursum, through the Santa Fe press bureau, has been sending out matter accusing W. C. McDonald of "lying about his leasing of public lands," Mr. McDonald has made an affidavit which brands the statement of the Honorable H. O. Bursum as absolutely false. The affidavit is as follows:

Territory of New Mexico, County of San Miguel—ss.
Wm. C. McDonald, being first duly sworn upon his oath states, that the press report of a speech which he made at Albuquerque, on October 14th, 1911, is incorrect and that affiant has been misquoted in reference to what he said in the speech about leased lands.

Affiant further states that he did not at that meeting state and never has, during the campaign, stated anywhere, that he had no land leased from the Territory of New Mexico, for himself nor for any company.

That what affiant did state in the meeting at Albuquerque, on October 14, 1911, in regard to leased lands was that the foreign corporation which he managed and represented had not an acre of land leased in New Mexico at that time; that said company formerly had a lease for some land, but that such lease expired on October 1st, (not April 1st.) 1911, and had not been renewed and affiant did not intend to renew it, though he could have done so if he so desired, and could also have leased fifty thousand acres in the same locality, but that he did not want it.
