Our Clearance Sale of Clothing

For the next ten days we propose to reduce our stock of Clothing, Overcoats and Ladies' Long Coats and Jackets. It is only about two weeks until the New Year, the time for our annual inventory and, as it is easier to invoice cash than clothing, and as we need the cash worse than the clothing, we make it worth your while for the next ten days to invest in goods described below.

Our fall business in this department has been good and, as a result, we find lot numbers pretty badly shot up. In order to make a clean sweep here we have cut prices to the quick. Come in and let us fit you up at a great saving to you.

BOYS' CLOTHING

OVERCOATS

Owing to the fact that as yet we have had no bad weather we have on hand a large stock of overcoats and, in order to clear them out we must take our losses. This is your opportunity to get an overcoat at reduced price.

TELEPHONE NO. 83.

Kansas has been trying to play the Texas game on the International Harvester trust, but as the attorney general was depending on the "Texas confession" as evidence, the state failed to make its case win. The judge decided the "Texas confession" was not permissable as evidence.

On the other side of the world a king has died. The venerable monarch, Oscar II, king of Sweden, succumbed to the fate of all common mortals last Sunday. He was a kind and gentle sovereign and beloved by his people. His eldest son has succeeeed to the throne as Gustav V.

The tragedy enacted at Cleburne, Texas, last Sunday evening, in which Rev. Mason, his wife and mother were fiendishly shot by a partially insane brother of the minister, is one of those occurrences which makes the blood turn cold and cause wonder how the mind of human man can be so perverted to commit such deeds.

place and June 16th as the date for holding the national convention. This was the action taken by the national committee, at their meeting held at Washington, D. C., last Saturday. Kansas City thought she had the plum within her grasp, but when the votes were counted was away behind.

The election held in Amarillo and Potter county, Texas, last week resulted in a victory for prohibition with the small majority of only twenty-six. It was a very earnestly contested election. The number of votes cast in the town of Amarillo was eight hundred and seventy-five, with a majority of one for prohibition. In the balance of the county there were forty-nine votes cast, of which thirty-seven were for prohibition and twelve against, making the total majority in the county twenty-six. The county commissioners will issue an order naming the time for putting prohibition into effect. According to statute the time in which prohibition can be put in effect is not less than thirty days after the election nor more than ninety.

What caused the money panic? It has been on for about a month now and has been discussed by everyone that is in the habit of talking to the public and a composite synopsis of the answers of all is: "Just what you prefer to believe." If you are a trust buster, the trusts have caused the panic to chastise the people for daring to suggest their regulation. If you are a conservative, the wholesale and indiscriminate agitation against corporations and investors has driven and compels a general closing in. And now a prominent clergyman comes forward and says the panic is a judgment of God visited upon the nation by reason of the omis sion of the motto, "In God We Trust," from the new coinage. -Sedan (Kansas) Lance.

Clovis Citizen.

Clovis News.

The "Clovis Citizen" is the name of a new paper to be started here soon. We are informed that A. H. Clinton, a veteran newspaper man and formerly of this place, has shipped an outfit from Denver and will publish the Clovis Citizen at a very early date.

The experience of the Clovis Chronicle was a costly one for the management before they abandoned the field, and we fear the same fate for the Citizen. however, we wish the venture much success.

Scalpless Coyote Killed. Clovis News

A coyote was killed a few miles north of Clovis last week and exhibited at the News office, that was scalpless and earless, but had lived through the experience until cut down by the hunter's bullet. The scars upon the head showing where the knife had taken the scalp were plainly in evidence, as also was there a big scar on the leg, as if caused by a trap. The animal had, no doubt, 209,348, an increase of $103,361. at some time previous been Mules, 1906, $32, 415; 1907, $99,- trapped and left for dead, but, like the proverbial cat, couldn't

Eagle Saloon Sold.

G. C. Johnson, who was the first proprietor of the "Palace of Sweets," the confectionery store now owned by A. B. Austin, and who, about two years ago, bought the old "Arc Light" saloon from Ocie Reasonover, changing its name to the "Eagle," has now sold the saloon and will re-engage in the confectionery business. Mr. Johnson has always been a successful business man, is gentlemanly and courteous to his patrons and always conducts a clean and sanitary establishment. His residence in Portales has been a long one, coming here almost with the first, and he has a large circle of friends, both with his patrons and the wholesale house. While not rich, Mr. Johnson has accumulated quite a nice little capital and has sufficient means to put in the very best of everything in whatever line he finally decides to engage in. While proprietor of the "Palace of Sweets" that place was a money maker, even through the very dullest times Portales ever witnessed, and that he will succeed in the contemplated venture, there can be no doubt. STIN SHIP MAN RRIS LLER LAMS DOM TICE SHIP NDEZ MAN

t, h u

HERE is honor among the denizens of Paxton alley, but Mr. Smith's toy-shop stood at the very entrance, and they reckoned him out of bounds.

From time to time evil-looking men muttered to one another about the long stocking that Mr. Smith was supposed to have filled; but he had figured in the prize ring in his younger days, and he was said to sleep with a big knob stick beside him. So the matter ended at mutterings. A big, powerful man was Mr. Smith; and he had a powerful edge to his tongue. Every one in the alley feared him except Jimmy.

Mr. Smith knew him as the extraordinary paper-boy who brought back a dime given him in mistake for a penny, an event which was historical in the alley. At the time it gave rise to doubts as to Jimmy's sanity, but afterward it was held that he was "playing up to the old man."

Anyhow, Mr. Smith took two papers regularly afterward; and the day after his funeral-which was the day before Christmas eve-a sleek man in a shiny top hat invaded Paxton alley, escorted by a policeman, and took evidence as to the identity of "the boy called Jimmy who sold papers" to the public generally, and in particular to the late Mr. Smith. When the sleek man was satisfied upon this point he proclaimed Jimmy the sole legatee of the estate, which comprised the little shop and house and all their contents.

"You'll find a long stocking somewhere, I expect," the lawyer said, "and you'd better bring it to me to looked up to in the alley as a man who did "big jobs," and the Blacks were generally reckoned well-to-do; but Bill's transactions hadn't been very profitable lately, and he had to be careful, because he knew that the police had their eye on him. So they were hard up, like the rest.

"Found the long stockin', Jimmy?" he asked, casually, when he had taken the toys.

"No." said Jimmy. "And If I had it 'u'd be at the lawyer's, Bill, an' don't yer make no mistake."

Bill growled under his breath. "If yer didn't look half dead I'd knock yer head orf, yer young hound," he said, "insinywaitin' ag'inst an honest man. Goin' to offer to do anythink fer yer, the missus was, wot I'll soon ceased. There was a grating noise outside the window-the noise of some one slipping a knife through the frame to press back the catch. Jimmy struggled to move, but his limbs only wriggled a little. He tried to shout, but no sound came The shutters came open with a crash, and Bill Black stepped within Jimmy closed his eyes to escape the sight of the knife, but he, felt Black looking at him. Then, to his surprise, he went away into the shop. Jimmy heard a noise of unparring and unlocking. Then he felt a cool hand on his pulse. "Collapse," a pleasant voice said. 'It's lucky we weren't an hour later.' Jimmy opened his eyes, and saw the doctor and Black bending over him.

Jimmie's Xmas Stocking - Jimmie Opened His Eyes.

take care of; and if I were you should take the name of Smith."

Under ordinary circumstances Jimmy would have been elated by his good fortune, but somehow the world had not interested him lately. He had had a terrible cough for weeks -his business exposing him to the climate-and just now he felt tired, and had nasty pains in his side, and seemed to be burning all over.

He moved in on the morning of Christmas eve, and explored the house with a kind of numb curiosity. He spent most of the morning in the shop parlor in the arm-chair in front of the fire. He did not even go out to the quick-lunch room for the beautiful dinner that he had promised himself. He had taken a lot of milk from the milkman, and he kept drinking that. He did not seem to care about anything but milk, and everything felt strange and uncanny. The figure on the mantelpiece-a whitebearded old gentleman which he believed was called Santa Claus-was the strangest and uncanniest of all. The fire was almost out, so he put on some more coal. He saw that it was nearly four o'clock. "Lumme!" he muttered. "I've let the day go, an' 'aven't done no bus'ness. This won't do. I'll take down the shutters, an' open the shop."

There was a wild chorus of recognition when he appeared between the any one to run your errins, Jimmy?" "Yer might give us somethink, Jimand a dozen more.

in for three little toys. Bill was completely just as the knocking put a stop to now."

He gave Jimmy a ferocious scowl as he went out, and Jimmy resolved that if he found the stocking he would take it to the lawyer at once. He went to the door and faced a crowd of excited faces that ranged in rows from the front of the shop right across the alley. "Jimmy!" they cried. "Give us somethink! Yer might, Jimmy!"

Jimmy always said afterward that he only did it because he thought he was dying, and the toys would be no use to him, and the pains in his heart "drawed him out of himself." He tried to speak, but his voice was only a whisper. So he beckoned to a big boy and whispered to him; and the boy stood up on the doorstep, and shouted to the crowd: "Jimmy's goin' to give yer a toy each. Jimmy-"

The big boy went sprawling before the crowd that swayed and struggled in, and Jimmy was driven back to the counter.

Women came in to plead for their bables at home. Boys and girls came in to remind him of their brothers and sisters. By nine o'clock he had given to every small inhabitant of the alley.

Then Jimmy tried to go to bed, but was so weak and giddy that he could not climb the stairs. So he sat in the arm-chair instead. He felt strange as well as poorly. The chairs, the fire-irons, the coal-scuttle, the table-cover, everything, seemed to turn into fantastic figures, and longtailed demons were running up the blinds. Santa Claus on the mantelpiece was scowling and sneering at him.

Jimmy got into a sudden rage with Santa Claus and struck him with his fist.

Santa Claus tottered on the mantelpiece, but righted himself. He was more solid and weighty than Jimmy had imagined, and there was a clinking sound as he swayed-a sound of clinking money. The truth flashed upon Jimmy as he sank back exhaustdingy green curtains that slid along ed in the arm-chair. The "long a rail. "Jimmy!" "Jimmy!" "Want | stocking" was in Santa Claus, and he could not get to it, and he never would, because he was going to die. my?" He heard all these greetings He saw Santa Claus leering at him when he woke, and in his dreams, He shook his head and returned to and when he dozed. Then he suddenhis seat. He certainly did feel ill, ly looked frightened. Some one was and he seemed to lose things for a knocking loudly at the door. That was few minutes, until Bill Black came what frightened him. Jimmy woke

"I've been playin' at Santa Claus. matey," Black said. "We judged yer was pretty bad not to answer the knockin', so 1 got in. Rare nice toys them was yer gave my young 'uns Judged yer was pretty bad, so fetched 'em."

Bill Black looked at the fire thoughtfully, and repeated to himself; "Rare nice toys." Then he carried Jimmy upstairs and helped the doctor put him to bed." He was wonderfully gentle in handling Jimmy.

Three weeks later Jimmy came downstairs to the shop parlor, and the first thing he noticed was that Santa Claus was gone from the mantelpiece. He was very weak, and he could not help a few tears coming to his eyes; but he had brushed them away before Bill came in.

"Feel all right, boy?"" Bill asked. "Yes, Bill," Jimmy said. "Pretty fair."

"Seems strange down here, don't it?"

"A little strange," Jimmy agreed. Bill cut some hard tobacco in the palm of his hand, and whistled softly and filled his pipe. "Notice anything pertickler strange?" he suggested. His eyes were on the mantelpiece, where Santa Claus wasn't, and so were Jimmy's.

"No," said Jimmy, bravely. "No, Bill."

"Not on the mantelshelf?" Jimmy pressed his finger-nails against his palms. "There was a sort of figure there," he said, "wasn't there's Bill? I-I s'pose it got broke. It doesn't matter, Bill. It-it wasn't worth nothink."

Bill laughed and slapped his leg with his hand. "Yer ain't no judge of figures, matey, I can see. That 'ere was a curious old piece of stuff, an' valerble, or I ain't no judge. I took the notion o' lockin' 'im away upstairs, Jimmy-" Bill put his great hand on the boy's shoulder. "The long stockin' were inside him! Over a thousand dollars. I took the liberty of usin' the odd money in the bus'ness for yer, but the thousand is there. An' it's lucky fer yer, matey, as yer was dealin' with an honest man-wot might have been diffrint if you hadn't given the kids them toys!"

For there is honor among-Paxton alley; and Paxton alley extends to the toy-shop now Jimmy and young Bill are thera!

Learn Telegraphy and Work for the Santa Fe Railroad Thirty Thousand Telegraph Operators Wanted

There has never been such a demand for young men and women in any profession as there is today for Telegraph Operators and Railroad Agents. Thousands of miles of new railroads now being completed and congress having passed a bill requiring railroad companies not to work telegraph operators more than nine hours a day, which will necessitate making three shifts in every twenty-four hours, about THIRTY THOUSAND more telegraph operators will be needed March 4, 1908. Salaries have been increased and the chances for promotion were never better. Therefore, we have equipped a school at Portales and one at Roswell, New Mexico.

We have the main line Dispatcher's wire of the Santa Fe railroad cut into each of these schools. thereby, allowing each student to practice receiving from the main line, hence, when students leave these schools to accept positions they will be thoroughly acquainted with all duties which they have to perform. We guarantee every student a position when proficiency is attained. These positions will pay from $50.00 to $150.00 per month.

Do you wish to profit by this opportunity? If so, call and see us.
