Only last week he made a very spectacular and quite an important catch. The suspect was a fugitive from Oklahoma and was wanted on some four or five charges, both the federal authorities and the state. The shesiff's office received a notice of his having hopped that country and also his description. This description was handed to our town marshal who, as soon as he had read it, exclaimed that he had the man. He walked out of the office and down the street and, within three minutes after reading the notice, he telephoned the sheriff that the man was under arrest and to come and get fiction by about forty eight hours, the second cutting and was about gion to resort to for the summer to the Pearson Valley group, hanging ferns, pink roses and About seventy-five guests atnotified and came after the gen- ever been put aboard the Santa ice cream. ARRIVE at some understanding of the activities of the Library of Congress as an institution, a brief description of the building. which stands as a fasting monument to American genius in architecture, aculpture and art will be necessary. The grounds adjoin those of the national Capitol, the outer walls having a frontage on four streets. The building is of the Italian renaissance order of architecture, has three stories covers, an area of nearly four acres of ground, with four large inner courts 150 by 75 to 100 feet in size. It is lighted by about 2,000 windows. Its gilded dome, 195 feet high, terminates in a gilded finial representing the ever-burning torch of science. In front of the main entrance and between the great stone stairways leading to the facade is the great semicircular basin representing the Court of Neptune—the classic god of the seawhose huge bronze figure forms the center of a group of tritons, sea nymphs, sea horses, seppents and other marine animals and amphibious country. The exterior of the building is not profusely decorated, but the very simplicity of its classic lines adds to the grandeur of its imposing appearance. The entrance pavilion has sixteen rounded pillars with Corinthian capitals. Four colossal atlantes support the pediment, in which are sculptured American eagles, with supporting figures of children. In the windows are nine great portrait-busts, in granite, of Emerson, Irving, Soethe, Franklin, Macaulay, Hawthorne, Scott, Demosthenes and Dante. The three deep arches of the pavilion terminate in the three massive bronze entrance doors, 14 feet high and 71/6 feet wide, weighing 31/6 tons each, which are beautiful works of art in themselves in their sculptured designs in relief, typifying Tradition, Writing and the art of Printing.

Beyond these oors is the main estibule, separatfrom staircase all by piers of Italmarble, ornamented with pilasters supporting marble arches, over head being a "paneled ceiling finished in white and gold, impressively rich and elegant in design. The gilded beams of the ceiling are supported by white and gold con-

CA MR. HERBERT PUTNAM

From this vestibule is entered the stafrcase hall, an apartment unsurpassed in magnificence and artistic beauty by any entrance ball in the world. It is truly "a vision in polished stone," with its vaulted ceiling 72 feet high. its sides lined throughout with fine Italian marble, highly polished, while on the sides rise pairs of magnificent marble columns with elaborately carved Corinthian capitals. Through the intervening spaces are seen glimpses of the rich coloring of the mural paintings and the glittering gold of the ceiling decorations of the vaulted arches and galleries of the second floor. The grand double staircase with white marble balustrades, one on the north and the other on the south side of the hall, has probably no equal in the western hemisphere. The newel posts, richly decorated with festoons of flowers and leaves, are surmounted by two huge bronze figures of classically draped women holding aloft a cluster of electric lights. The staircases are highly ornamented with miniature marble figures carved in relief representing in emblematic sculpture the various arts and sciences. On the buttress of the south stairway are the sculptured figures representing America and Africa supporting between them a globe showing these continents, while on the north side a similar group represents Europe and Asia.

This spacious and magnificently decorated ball, taken in connection with the grand corridors and the elaborately and artistically embellished reading room, furnish the finest marble interior in America.

From the east corridor a stairway ascends to the balcony of the reading room. On the wall of the landing of this stairway is a beautiful mosaic of Minerya, the goddress of wisdom, by Elihu Vedder. Entering the visitors' gallery an excellent view is afforded of this spacious rotunda or main reading room. Its vastness is but dimly appreciable from the bare statement that it is 100 feet in diameter and 125 feet in height, and that the pillars are 40 feet high and the windows 32 feet wide. One of its chief beauties is the harmonious blending of the rich coloring effected by the dark Tennessee, the red Numidian and the yellow shades of Sienna marbles, accentuated by the old ivory of the stuced ornamentation of the dome. Upon the eight immense piers supporting the dome are placed female figures of colossal stature, above each being a quotation relative to the phase of learning or achievement further represented by the 16 bronze statues standing in the galler; two in each of the great arches which encircle the room. In these statues Religion is represented by Moses and Saint Paul; Commerce by Columbus and Eelton; History by Herodotus and dibbon; Art by Michael Angelo and Beethoven; Philosophy by Plato and Bacon; Poetry by Homer and Shakespeare; Law by Solon Kent; Science by Newton and Henry,

In the collar of the dome, which is 150 feet in circumference, is a symbolism of the twelve nations and epochs which have contributed to the advance of the world, each represented as seated figure bearing the exbiems suggestive a cost of $6,347,000, on a site bought for $585,of its peculiar attribute. The artistic mural decoration of the interior is upon a magnificent scale and the paintings in each of the many pavilions, corridors and galleries are so numerous that no attempt can be made in this article to give a description of them. Every artistic design has purpose and meaning in every stroke of the artist's brush, in every curve and line wrought by the sculptor's chisel. The completed building stands today as the highest expression of American art, the greatest monument yet erected to American genius.

The eight acres of floor space contained in the building are utilized as follows: On the ground floor are the copyright office, reading room for the blind, superintendent's and disbursing office, bookbinding department, printing department, music rooms, mail room, lockers, etc. The first floor contains the main reading room, the librarian's room, periodical reading room, senators' reading room, representatives' reading room, map and chart rooms, administration rooms. The second floor is taken up with the galleries, pavilions and rooms filled with exhibits of rare engravings. manuscripts, prints, rare books, first editions, portraits of the presidents and other celebrated personages. The attic floor contains a kitchen and restaurant, rooms for print repairs, manuscript repairs, photography documents and copyright storage.

In 1814 the library, consisting of about 3,000 volumes, was burned by the British troops. Congress made a fresh start by purchasing the Thomas Jefferson library of about 7,000 volumes, which grew until in 1851 it had about 55,000 volumes. Another fire then destroyed all but 20,000 of these. The country had grown so much in wealth by this time, however, that this was but a temporary check, and the library quarters in the Capitol were promptly restored and many of the books which had been destroyed were replaced. In 1867 the Peter Force collection of Americana, consisting of about 60,000 articles, was purchased for $110,-000, and the acquisition in the same year of the library of the Smithsonian institution, consisting of 40,000 volumes, brought the total up to over 200,000 volumes. The copyright law of 1846 required the deposit of one copy of each book copyrighted in the library, and an act was passed in 1870 which placed the registration of copyrights under the care of the librarian of congress, and required the deposit of two copies of each book or article copyrighted, thus assuring the acquisition of books published in the United States.

The rapid progress of the library dates from 1864, when Dr. A. R. Spofford was appointed librarian. His tireless energy and unflagging zeal increased the acquisitions until in 1897, the date of his retirement, it had grown to more than 1,000,000 books and pamphlets, and the necessity for more spacious quarters had been realized for some years. In 1886 the construction of a new building was authorized and eleven years later this was completed at Written Records; Judes, Religion; Greece, largest library in the world. That the cost of Philosophy: Rome, Adminis- this magnificent building was kept down to tration; Islam, Physics; such a comparatively reasonable figure is explained by the fact that many of the artists and sculptors, in a spirit of patriotic loyalty, gave their genius and their art free of cost to the nation. It is said that twice the sum expended could not duplicate the building under ordinary circumstances.

As to the practical features of the institution, its capacity, facilities for serving the public, and its various activities, only a brief outline can be given. Including the main reading room, the room for periodicals, the senators' and representatives reading rooms, and the special reservations in the alcoves and galleries, the library can comfortably accommodate 1,000 readers at any one time.

The main reading room, which contains the issue desk, has seating capacity and desks for 200 readers and 60 tables in the alcoves and galleries, which are assigned to scholars making extended investigations. The issue desk is connected with the stacks, the Capitol, Smithsonian division and librarian's office by pneumatic tubes, while electric book carriers connect the desk with the stacks and with the Capitol.

When a book is called for at the desk the slip is sent by a pneumatic tube to the clerk in the proper stack. He places the book into a receptacle, from which it is taken by one of the brass book baskets, eighteen of which are mounted on an endless double chain forming the book carrier, which travels continually between the stacks and the issue desk. The basket carries the book down to the reading room and automatically deposits it into a cushioned box at the central desk, whence it is taken out by the attendant and delivered to the desk selected by the reader. The books can also be returned to the stacks in the same manner. If a member of congress desires a book delivered to him in the Capitol, the pneumatic tube carries the slip making the request to the issue desk and another electric book carrier conveys the book through an underground tunnel over a quarter of a mile in length and delivers it to the waiting statesman in about three minutes.

The book stacks, which radiate from the main reading room, consist of a series of castfron frames, supporting tiers and shelves to a height of nine and ten stories to the roof, the largest stack being 65 feet high. The shelves, of cold-rolled steel, are polished smooth, and since the addition of the last stack have a capacity of about 3,000,000 volumes. The ultimate capacity, when other stacks are added, will be over 4,000,000 volumes-a row of books which would extend over 100 miles.

According to the report of Mr. Herbert Putnam, the librarian, just submitted to congress, the contents of the library at present are: Maps and charts (pieces) 123,568 Music (volumes and pieces) 557,010 Manuscripts (a numerical statement not feas-

(ble): The library proper is strongest in bibliography, public documents (especially those of foreign governments), Americana, economics, political science, public law and legislation, genealogy and newspapers. Through the Smithsonian institution extensive files of transactions of foreign learned societies are received. By virtue of the copyright law it has received the most complete collection in existence of the products of the American press. American local history and biography are represented with unusual fullness. The Yudin collection of some 80,000 volumes of Russian works, purchased in 1907, is particularly valuable for the history of Russia and Siberia. A collection of house was full.

Japanese books (9,000 volumes) was bought in 1907, and in 1908 the Huitfeldt-Kaas collection of Scandinavian literature of about 5,000 volumes. Orientalia is further represented by the Weber library of Sanskrit literature (3,018 vol- by druggists and dealers everywhere, umes, 1,002 pamphlets). FIG GATHERING IN ITALY.

The season for gathering the figs in Italy joins hands in October with the vintage; but it really begins in august, owing to a curious system of culture.

MAIN STAIRWAY

Early in August the fig gatherers squirm through the twisting branches from tree top to tree top and "oil the fruit." These fig people are nomadic; they appear and disappear like the wandering barvesters of France. Late in July the masserie are rented to them, a stated sum being paid to the proprietor, a payment that gives to the fig gatherers the right to all the fruit, beginning with the figs and ending with the last cluster of grapes. Rude huts thatched with straw are built by the proprietor of all his orchards, and in these the gypsylike harvesters live with their families. Sometimes they supplement their narrow quarters with a ragged tent. Three sticks placed crosswise and a kettle in the crotch constitute the kitchen.

Shortly after their arrival the work of forcing the fruit is begun. The methods employed are curlous. In one a wad of cotton is dipped in olive oil and gently rubbed on the flower end of the fig. Fig by fig is thus treated, and in eight days the fruit is ready for the market.

Another method consists in gathering in the spring the half formed fruit, which is strung on ropes. These ropes or garlands are thrown over the branches of the tree and are allowed to decay under the burning sun. There is born of this decay an insect that pierces the growing fig and induces rapid maturity.

The fig. when perfectly ripe, exudes a drop of honey sweet juice at the nether end, which never falls but hangs there, a standing temptation to children and to bees. When fresh picked at this stage the fig has a rich flavor entirely lost in the dried fruit.

CUTICURA OINTMENT HEALED BAD SORE ON LIMB

"Some time ago I was coming up some steps when the board crushed under me like an egg shell, and my right limb went through to the knee, and scraped he flesh off the bone just inside and below the knee. I neglected it for a day or two, then it began to hurt me pretty badly. I put balsam fir on to draw out the poison, but when I had used it a week, it hurt so badly that I changed to ment. That made it smart and burn so badly that I couldn't use it any more, and that was the fourth week after I was hurt.

"Then I began to use Cuticura Ointment for the sore. It stopped hurting immediately and began healing right away. It was a bad-looking sore before Cuticura Ointment healed it, and suffered so I couldn't sleep from two tays after I fell until I began using Cuticura Ointment.

The Difference.

"There is such a vast difference between the ideal and the practical in stage art," sighed the intellectual young actor.

"The difference," replied the stolid stage manager, "as lies between this artistic role which leads to Arcady and the fat part which leads to the pork barrel."

Women used to the coquetries of the tollet understand the use of tollet waters and vinegars of all sorts. Where cold cream is much employed, they are indispensable for taking the shine off the skin, and since a liberal use of cream burns the flesh, making it at last darker and rougher than before-remember the point-the toilet vinegar is often required for a thorough cleansing. When using, about a tablespoonful of strong sort is put in a small bowl of water. For astringent treatments of the neck the vinegar or water will be used full strength, after the throat has been washed, massaged and creamed. Sponging down with a solution of toilet vinegar and water is also very refreshing on a hot day and to sick persons, while if a hot plate is sprinkled with one or it is sprayed about the chamber the sick room will be gratefully purified.

When treating sagging muscles of the neck use the vinegar hot.

THE SAFE LAXATIVE FOR ELDERLY PEOPLE

Most elderly people are more or less troubled with a chronic, persistent constipation, due largely to lack of sufficient exercise. They experience difficulty in digesting even light food, with a consequent beiching of stomach gases, drowsiness after cating, headache and a feeling of lassitude and general discomfort.

Doctors advise against cathartics and violent purgatives of every kind, recommending a mild, gentle laxative tonic, like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, to effect relief without disturbing the entire system.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the perfect laxative, easy in action, certain in effect and, withal, pleasant to the taste. It possesses tonle proper-Have found your column of questies that strengthen the stomach, liver tions and answers very much help. Physicians Recommend Castoria

ASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First-The indisputable evidence that it is harmless: Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food: Third-It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information. - Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher. Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ills., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory." Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physiclan who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

The Santa Fe people still keep, up the special coach for the benefit of the Clovis folks who have to come to Portales to get a drink of water.

It now seems that the high moguls of Clovis were, in reality, engaged in the black warfare at that place. Also that some of the officers who vegetate in and around that bailiwick, were parties to the dark conspiracy, in fact, some of them have been bound over to await the action of the grand jury.

And now comes the report from Santa Fe that the governor will not interfere with the nigger slugging match that is scheduled to take place at Las Vegas on July 4th. B. Blankenship, plaintiff, vs.
W. E. Beecham and T. C. Elland, and Eiland and Beecham, defendants.
In the District Court of Roosevelt county, New

In the District Court of Roosevelt county, New Mexico.

The defendant, W. E. Beecham, will take notice that a suit has been filed against him and the above named defendants, in the District Court of the Fifth Judicial District of New Mexico, in and for the County of Roosevelt, numbered and styled on the docket as above.

The nature and objects of said suit is to collect a note of date, February 1st, 1911, for the sum of $1,285.19, with ten per cent per annum interest thereon from date until paid, due Feb. 1st, 1912, and with ten per cent additional on sum due thereon, if placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, upon which note there are credits as follows: January 4th, 1912, $13.00, Jan. 24th, 1912, $40.00, Feb. 7th, $25.00, leaving the whole of the balance of principal, interest and attorneys fees thereon due and unpaid, same having been placed in the hands of T. E. Mears, an attorney of Portales, New Mexico, said note having been executed to plaintiff by said defendants, plaintiff remaining the owner and holder of same.

Said suit being, also, for the purpose of foreclosing a mortgage executed by said defendants to said plaintiff to secure the due payment of said note, dated March 18th, 1911, by which they conveyed to plaintiff the following described property, to-wit: "Seven sod plows, 10 sulky plows, 10 harrows, 4 double shovels, I caltivator, 2 riding cultivators, 2 riding listers, 6 show cases, 1 counter scales. I floor scales, 1 cake rack, 1 oil tank, 1 block machine, 1 typewriter (Smith Premier), and 1 bill case," said mortgage being recorded at page 215 in Book 6 of the records for chattel mortgages in Gaudalupe county, New Mexico.

Said suit being further to enforce the collection

New Mexico.

Said suit being further to enforce the collection of said note by attachment against the property of said de, endant, W. E., Beecham, who is alleged to be a non resident of the State of New Mexico, and he is hereby notified that his property, towit: The S 1.2 of N E 1.4 and the N 1.2 of S E 1.4 of sec. 27, twp. 2 south, range 36 east, N. M.P.M., in Roosevelt county, New Mexico, has been attached in said action and that unless he appears on or by the 17th day of August, 1912, in said action judgment will be rendered against him by default and his property sold to satisfy same, and. Further that said suit is by garnishment and that said defendants, W. E. Beecham's money and effects has been garnished in the sum of fifty dollars in the possession of The First National Bank of Porfales, New Mexico, and that unless he appears in this action on or by the 17th day of August, 1912, judgment will be rendered against him and such garnishee, and his money applied and effects be disposed of as provided by law to pay said judgment, and.

Said defendant is further notified that anless he appears in said cause on or by the 17th day of August, 1912, that the plaintiff will be given the relief demanded in his complaint, and judgment be rendered against him by default.

T. E. Mears is attorney for the plaintiff and his business address is Portales, New Mexico.

Withess the hand of the Hon. John T. McClure, judgs of the fifth judicial district court for the County of Roosevelt, New Mexico, and the undersigned as clerk of said court on this the 27th day of 1 June, 1912.

Notice to Entrymen

There was published in this paper a copy of an act passed by Congress, and signed by the President on June 6, 1912, amending sections 2291 and 2297 of the Revised Statutes of the United States relating to homesteads and homestead entries. I call your particular attention to the last proviso to section 2291, reading as follows:

Provided, That the Secretary of the Interior shall, within sixty days after the passage of this act, send a copy of the same to each homestead entryman of record who may be affected thereby by ordinary mail to his last known address, and any such entryman may, by giving notice within one hundred and twenty days after the passage of this act, by registered letter to the register and receiver of the local land office, elect to make proof upon his entry under the law under which the same was made without regard to the provisions of this act.

_If you wish to elect to make proof upon your entry under the law under which the same was made, you must give notice thereof within 120 days after June 6, 1912, to the register and receiver of the local land office. This notice must be sent by registered mail and may not be sent in any other way. If, in your case, you desire to make proof under the law under which you made your entry, there is, for your convenience, inclosed herewith a printed notice of election, which you may fill out and use for that purpose.

Unless you elect in the manner and form and within the time above stated your entry will, without notice, become subject to the provisions of said act of June 6, 1912; and in reaching a decision as to which course you prefer you should first carefully examine the provisions and requirements of the new act.

wise to irrigate at night. Professor Fitch believes that, under the most adverse conditions, the temperature will be so lowered by midnight that it will be safe to apply the water at that time, and that before the heat of the next day is cast upon the fields this water will have done its work in supplying the plants and will have scaked away into the soil so that the heat will not cause the disease.

Another feature which will prove valuable is the method of preparing the seed bed and pushing the plant to early growth. It is believed that by applying sufficient moisture to the seed bed to dampen it deeply without soaking and pushing the growth of the plants as rapidly as possible early in the season, before the hot weather comes, the plants themselves will furthat she wears a smile which will not nish a shade to the soil which will be in a dry climate the proper preparation of the seed bed has several important advantages. The cultivation of the land after harvest tends to conserve the moisture already stored in the soil. The furrowed land is in good condition to catch and store the rain and the later cultivation clears and leaves a mellow soil mulch to conserve the moisture which has been stored in the subsoil. The early and continued cultivation of the soil favors the action of the bacteria and the development of available plant food.

By practicing this method the farmer may cultivate a larger area early in the season when the soil is in good condition to cultivate, when, if it had been necessary to plow the whole area, some of the land might become too dry to plow well. Likewise the later plowing leaves the soil too lose and not in good seed bed condition.

In preparing land for corn or other intertilled crops the listing may be done late in the fall or during the winter or early spring. The yall plen being to split the ridger with the lister later in the spring, when the corn is planted, or the corn or kaffir corn may be planted by listing in the same furrow. It is advisable to harrow the listed field once or twice before planting to destroy weeds, or prevent soil drifting and to preserve a mellow soil mulch to conserve the water which has been stored in the subsoil. In preparing land for corn, the early listing has proved equal to early plowing and superior to early disking, as shown by the experiments at the Kansas sta-

In the drier portions of the great plains area, where the annual rainfall is not sufficient to produce a crop every year, it becomes necessary to practice a system of summer fallowing every third or fourth season, or in alternate years in localities of least rainfall, in order to store moisture and develop plant food and thus insure the production of a profitable crop each

Another good method where the soil is inclined to blow is to list the ground into furrows in the fall, leveling the ridges early in the spring and plowing about the first of June, giving sufficient cultivation during the balance of the season to destroy the weeds and prepare a good seed bed.

The weeder is better adapted for harrowing wheat and other small grains than the common harrow, but the harfirm. The writer questions whether it been taken in preparing the seed can in any other way.

Without question, the proper preparation of the seed bed is a much more important factor in the growing of small grains, than the cultivation after seeding.

The Cultivation of Intertilled Crops. While it is a disputed point among authorities whether it pays to harrow wheat and other sowed crops, there is no difference of opinion regarding the necessity or value of frequent cultivation of corn and of all other crops usually planted in rows. The main purpose being, as described here, to keep down the weeds and maintain a mellow soil mulch as far as practicable during the growing season of the crop. There is some disagreement regarding ment. the depth and frequency of cultivation desirable. The writer favors rather deep cultivation in our drier, hotter lambs. climate, and after every hard rain if possible or at least sufficient to keep the weeds in check. It is not necessary or practicable to attempt to cultivate after every rain, and there is no virtue in the admonition "Keep the cultivator going in a dry time." But the great problem in western agriculture today is not how to get larger crops out of the soil for a few years, but rather how to produce paying crops every year and at the same time maintain the fertility and productiveness of the land. Simple tillage will not maintain soil fertility. It becomes necesary finally to replace the plant food, exhausted by the continuous growing of crops, with the application of manure, or chemical fertilizers, and by green manuring and the rotation of crops, in which the legume crops, such as alfalfa or clover the land of weeds and volunteer wheat in order to restore again the nitrogen and organic matter, the supply of which has become more rapidly reduced by intensive cultivation.

CHAPTER I.

The Boy at the Barony.

The Quintards had not prospered on the barren lands of the pine woods whither they had emigrated to escape the maiaria of the low coast, but this no longer mattered, for the last Quintard, was dead in the great house his father had built almost a century before and the thin acres of the Barony, where he had made his last to claim him, now that he had given up the struggle in their midst.

Though he had lived continuously a century, there was none among his across his knees, neighbors who could say he had looked on that thin, aquiline face in Crenshaw. all that time. Crenshaw sat before the flat-topped mahogany desk with several accountbooks before him. Bladen stood by the window.

"I suppose you will buy in the property when it comes up for sale?" the latter was saying. Crenshaw nodded. "He lived entirely alone, saw no see me." There was a brief pause, then Crenshaw spoke again. "I reckon, sir, if you know anything about the old gentleman's private affairs you don't feel no call to speak on that point?" he observed.

"All I know is this: General Quintard was a conspicuous man in these parts fifty years ago; he married a

"So he did," said Crenshaw, "and there was one child, a daughter; she married a South Carolinian by the name of Turberville. Great folks, those Turbervilles, rolling rich."

"And what became of the daughter who married Turberville?"

"Died years ago," said Crenshaw. They were interrupted by a knock at the door.

"Come in," said Crenshaw. The door opened and a small boy entered the room dragging after him a long rifle. Suddenly overcome by a shyness, he paused on the threshold to stare with round, wondering eyes at the two men. "Well, sonny, what do you want?" asked Mr Crenshaw indulgently.

"Please, sir, I want this here old spo'tin' rifle," said the child.

"I reckon you may keep it-at least I've no objection." Crenshaw glanced at Bladen

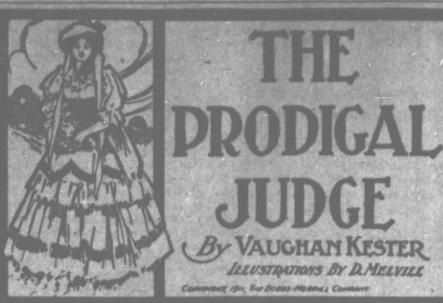

"Oh, by all means," said the latter. Spasms of delight shook the small figure. With a murmur that was meant for thanks he backed from the room, closing the door. Bladen glanced inquiringly at Crenshaw.

"You want to know about him, sir? Well, that's Hannibal Wayne Hazard. But who Hannibai Wayne Hazard is -just wait a minute, sir"-and quitting his chair Mr. Crenshaw hurried from the room to return almost immediately with a tall countryman. "Mr. Bladen, this is Bob Yancy. Bob, the gentleman wants to hear about the woman and the child; that's your story."

CHAPTER III.

Trouble at Scratch Hill, Captain Murrell had established himself at Balaam's Cross Roads. He was supposed to be interested in the purchase of a plantation, and in company with Crenshaw visited the numerous tracts of land which the merchant owned. "The Barony would have suited me," he told Bladen one day. They had just returned from an excursion into the country and were seated in the lawyer's office. "You say your father was a friend of the old general's?" said Bladen. "Years ago, in the north-yes," answered Murrell. Murrell regarded the lawyer in silence for a moment out of his deeply sunk ayes.

"Too bad about the boy," he said at length slowly "How do you mean, Captain?" asked Bladen.

"I mean it's a pity he has no one except Yancy to look after him," said Murrell; but Bladen showed no interest and Murrell went on: "Has Yancy any legal claim on the boy?" "No, certainly not: the boy was merely left with Yancy because Crenshaw didn't know what else to do with him.

"Get possession of him, and if I don't buy land here I'll take him west with me," said Murrell quietly. "I am willing to spend five hundred doilars on this if necessary."

"I'll have to think your proposition over," said Bladen.

The immediate result of this conversation was that within twenty-four hours a man driving two horses bitched to a light buggy arrived at Scratch Hill in quest of Bob Yancy, whom he found at dinner and to whom he delivered a letter. TRADES DAY SPECIALS

Warren Fooshee Company's

Somet hing Doing All Day This Day.

On Saturday, June 29th, and Monday, July 1st, we will offer the public some rare bargains in dry goods. On July 2nd we begin making our semi-annual inventory. Cash is easier counted that goods. So we will sacrifice prices on these two days in the effort of converting as many goods as possible into cash' Don't fail to attend at LEAST one of these two days, but if possible be here both days. Owing to the lack of space we will be able to quote only a few prices' Read them over and it will give you some idea of how far a dollar go for seasonable merchandise. Come, bring some one with you, and tell your neighbors to do likewise. You are welcome to make our store your headquarters when you are in Portales either on these two days or at any other time.
