SAYS GOVERNOR WILSON IS NOT A DEMOCRAT

Former Princeton Scholar Says Wilson Believed in an Aristocracy; Government by the Few

Two of Wilson's Contradictory Letters as Clipped from The Los Angeles Tribune

Two weeks ago the Tribune printed a letter written by Mr. J. W. Park of this city declining to contribute to the Wilson campaign fund. As a Princeton alumnus he felt kindly toward Doctor Wilson personally, but knowing that Wilson was neither a Democrat nor Progressive, he refused to subscribe.

His knowledge was personal. When Wilson was professor of jurisprudence at Princeton Park was fellow in social science. They were in daily association.

In his letter explaining his refusal to contribute Park says that Wilson once told him:

"I do not believe in democracy—the rule of the many. I believe in aristocracy—the rule of the few."

J. W. Park says that Doctor Wilson on another occasion declared:

"I am opposed to the higher education for the common people; somebody must do the dirty work of the world; why shouldn't the children of the working classes be brought up to do the work their parents are now doing?"

These declarations occur in a letter written last Tuesday by Governor Wilson to Acting Chairman McAdoo of the Democratic national committee:

"My dear Mr. McAdoo: I have looked over the material you handed me containing the statement of one J. W. Park about opinions he says I expressed to him and am very much surprised to learn that Senator Dixon has been a party to their use in circulation.

"I did not at first recollect Park at all, but I have looked him up in the records of the university, and recall him now very clearly. I remember having been obliged to reject certain written work which he submitted for a degree, because of its utter confusion of thought.

"It showed that he could neither think nor comprehend. His mind was of the sort that gets nothing correctly.

"As for his statements, they are of course entirely false. I never expressed the opinions he ascribes to me, for the very good reason that I never entertained them. I should not like to believe the man deliberately false. It is only, I dare say, another instance of his entire inability either to understand or interpret anything.

"Faithfully yours,
WOODROW WILSON."

Following is the letter to Park, printed from photograph in the Los Angeles Tribune:

Princeton, New Jersey,
18 May, 1897.

President Thomas E. Will,
Kansas State Agricultural College

My dear Sir:

I understand that Mr. Joseph

W. Park is a candidate for a position in your faculty and I take pleasure in testifying to his ability and promise as a scholar. He won unusual distinction here as a student and has held our Fellowship in Social Science during the present year. I think him a man of unusual gifts and cordially commend him to your favorable notice.

Very sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

It so chanced that Doctor Wilson has been compelled in the present campaign to devote a large proportion of his energies to lessening the effect of his former writings and teachings. The conditions of the printed word prevent him denying that he formerly opposed the initiative, the referendum and, in fact, nearly everything which is now included under the term progressivism. The printed word prevents his denying that three years ago he bitterly denounced, in an address to Princeton students, working men's organizations.

"But," says Candidate Wilson, "these were in my professional days. I am wholly different today. Like St. Paul, I have seen a vision. I have put off the old man and become a new creature. The things I once loved I now hate, and, vice versa, I once hated the things that pertain to democracy; but now I love them. I once hated working men's organizations; but now I love them. I am no longer Wilson, the professor; I am Wilson, the candidate. Like Paul, too, I can say I am all things to all men; if not to gain souls, at least to gain votes."

In so far as this transformation—of a lightning like character which would put to shame the remedial wonders of some medical compounds depicted in advertisements as "before and after taking"—has caused to grow in Doctor Wilson a spirit of democracy and progressivism, where only aristocracy and toryism flourished before, the change from professor to candidate might be welcomed. In so far, however, as the exigencies of politics have transformed the candid and sincere professor into the insincere and uncandid candidate the change is to be deprecated.

Doctor Wilson admits, perforce the aristocratic and undemocratic nature of his past writings; but when confronted with quotations expressing similar sentiments from his words spoken in private conversation, he seems to consider it good politics to make absolute denial and to hurl back charges of falsehood. But, as has sometimes happened in the case of other able men before him, his each succeeding word of misrepresentation entangles him more and more hopelessly in the mesh of his own weaving.

When shown at Indianapolis the letter of J. W. Park explaining his refusal to contribute to a Woodrow Wilson fund being raised by Princeton men, because of undemocratic utterances, which Mr. Park stated had been made to him in conversation by Doctor Wilson, he angrily and sweepingly denied the truth of the statement. On the following day in Chicago, when presented with an open letter from Mr. Park calling attention to the circumstances under which the statements were made, Doctor Wilson again made denial, and added: "I think I remember one Park; but am not certain of my recollection."

This seemed to be shrewd method for casting the objectionable statement into contempt.

But one thing was overlooked—the fact that Princeton publications of that period still on file bear indubitable record that Wilson knew Park intimately and well, showing, among many other things, that Professor Wilson was one of the judges who selected Mr. Park for the annual commencement debate; coached him as one of the Princeton representatives for the Harvard debate; delivered to him a substantial prize awarded Mr. Park in a contest in which Doctor Wilson had selected the judges, one of them being Theodore Roosevelt.

In the face of these recorded facts Mr. Wilson has found it impossible to pretend longer not to remember Mr. Park. He has made another quick transformation and has tried a new tack. He now says he remembers Mr.

Park very well and that in his experience with him he found him to be a man characterized by "utter confusion of thought." He says "he could neither think nor comprehend. His mind was of the sort that gets nothing correctly."

Anderson-Hensley Wedding

Saturday morning at the Baptist church in Portales, Mr. W. L. Anderson, of Rogers, and Miss Florence C. Hensley, of Arch, were united in marriage, Baptist Pastor E. P. Alldredge officiating. The father of the groom and the mother of the bride were the only witnesses. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left immediately for St. Joseph, Missouri, Kansas City, and other points in the east. They will be gone for some four to six weeks, after which they will return and make their home at Rogers, where both are well known and have many friends who join the Times in wishing them well.

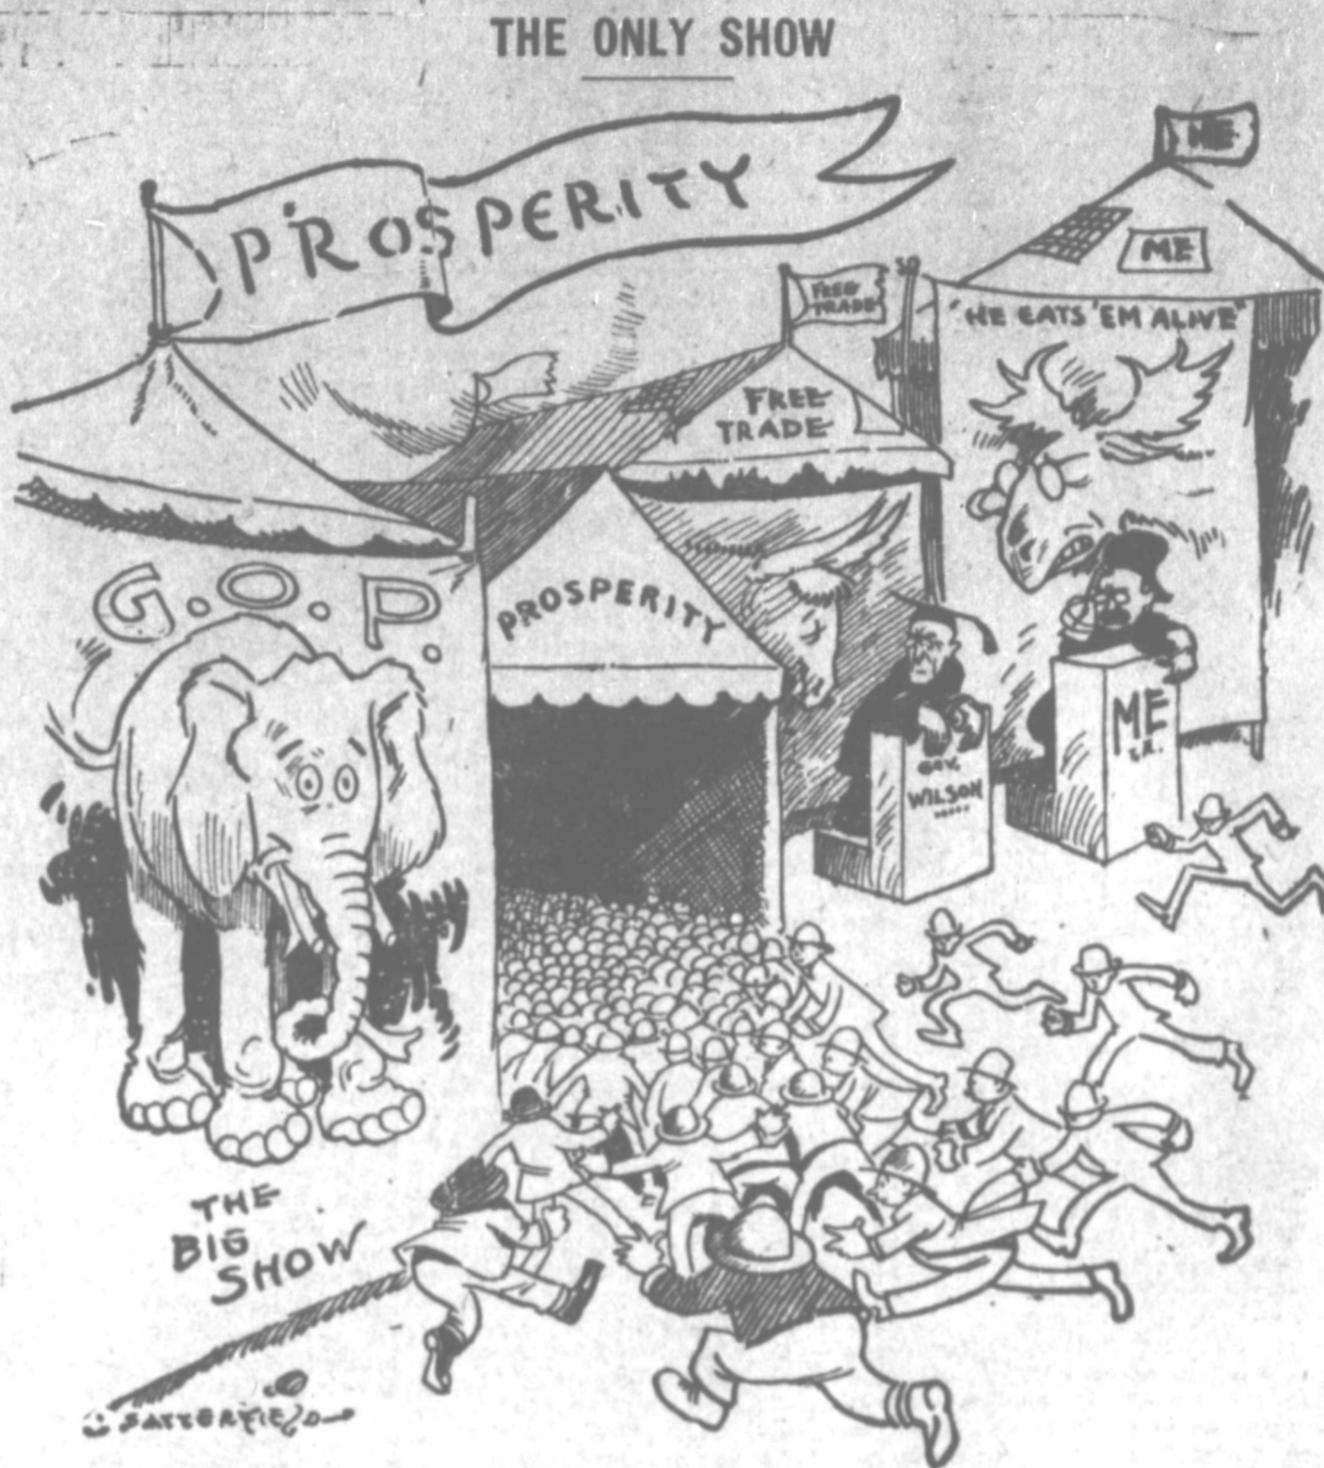

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Rice, of Clovis, New Mexico, were in Portales Thursday of this week the guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Cassidy. They were taken out to the country home of Mr. Cassidy, two miles east of town, where they were entertained to a most appetizing dinner, after which Mr. Cassidy started up his irrigation outfit and gave the visitors their first introduction to a really first-class well. They were very frank to say that the demonstration there witnessed was the surprise of their life; that they had heard and read about the wells in the Portales Valley, but that they had always believed it was largely hot air and newspaper talk, but that they had been shown and from here out they were believers.

They are also frank to confess that they are in the market for some of our shallow water land provided they can put their holdings in their present home in as part payment. The Times man has met many Portales Valley enthusiasts but Mr. and Mrs. Rice appear to be more honestly taken with our valley and more capable of giving good, business reasons for their faith than most anyone who has heretofore visited this vicinity. This is a very estimable family and would make an addition to our citizenship very much worth while.

Dan W. Vinson, the real estate man, has a show window that is quite a novelty in its way. Among a large variety of farm and garden produce, he has some thirty or forty of the blue ribbons that were won at the state fair framed and occupying the place of honor. Dan is a hustler and you will have to go some if you beat his time.

L. M. Cassidy, who owns one of the very excellent irrigated farms in the Portales Valley, has made an order from Stark Bros. nurseries for a large shipment of fruit trees for fall planting. Mr. Cassidy is one of our people who is thoroughly convinced that fruit and alfalfa are the revenue producers and intends to see to it that his place is not surpassed in this particular by the best.

Miss Myrtle Wood, one of our most highly esteemed and popular young ladies, has entered the "El Paso Morning Times" contest, and we feel assured of her winning one of the first prizes, for her winning and congenial ways are most noticeable to everyone. Now the thing for us to do is boost and help Miss Wood in every available way.

VOTE FOR BOND ISSUE

For We Need Better Roads in the New State

Taxes Not Increased by Issue of Road Bonds

Voters who go to the polls on November 5th will be asked to vote for or against the proposed state bond issue of $500,000 for good roads. This bond issue does not increase the taxes one dollar as it is supported from the present state road tax. New Mexico is very much behind in the good roads movement. The states around us are giving far more to their roads than we are, taxable wealth considered. Colorado, with a taxable valuation of only six times that of New Mexico, votes on November 5th on a $10,000,000 road bond issue, which is twenty times our proposed sum. Arizona gives each year for its good roads over $300,000 cash, and the next legislature will authorize a bond issue for good roads of between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000. This New Mexico state bond issue is in the interest of the common citizens of our state, especially the farmers and those who haul crops over the roads. It is the duty of every progressive citizen to tell his fellow voters the facts concerning this bond issue so that it will not fail of approval on election day.

George Welton Broocke.

George Welton Broocke was born 24 years ago last July at Nut Bush, Tenn., and died at Portales, N. M., October 23d, 1912, at the home of his father, Peter Broocke.

The Broocke family moved from Haywood county, Tenn., when young George was but two years old and came to Nocona, Texas, where the family lived for about ten years, when they moved to Portales and settled where they now live. This was something near eleven years ago; young George was therefore only a boy of 13 when they came to Portales and has grown up here. He is one of five brothers and four sisters, two of the brothers in the family died when they were young, so that the going of George leaves the father and mother, two brothers and four sisters in the family.

For some time, almost three years, George has lived at Nocona, the old home in Texas, and in Donley county. Last February he came home a very sick and broken man, but did not take his bed for some time. He suffered from a dead liver and some kind of internal abscesses. The abscess trouble grew gradually worse until two weeks ago the doctor performed a drainage operation, but this seemed to weaken him and only afford temporary relief. The end came suddenly and unexpectedly and while he was sitting up talking to his doctor. He appeared to strangle suddenly and choked and passed away without warning.

He was buried in the Portales cemetery after appropriate exercises at the home. A FRIEND.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater
The cleanest, the easiest to care for. Users of coal must remember that the ordinary heater is a big care to operate. That its smoke and ashes entail dusting, curtain washing and carpet sweeping. Think then of the easy operation and the cleanliness of Cole's Hot Blast. This heater has a guaranteed smoke-proof feed door through which a current of air draws the smoke directly across the top of the stove to the stove pipe—away from the opening. Contrast this simple, clearly fed with the side door in an ordinary heater. Side doors used on other stoves permit the escape of dirty smoke, unpleasant odors and accumulated soot drops from it. If you over-fill a side door stove, coal falls to the floor. The air-tight feature embodied in Cole's Hot Blast Heater is an everlasting advantage in its favor. Allow us to show you this perfect heater before you buy. (R-17)

The Racket Store

Contributors to the Campaign Fund Who Believe in President Taft.
One of the most encouraging factors in the campaign is the enthusiasm expressed by the many contributors to the Republican campaign fund.
"It is my deliberate judgment," writes a Chicago merchant, "that Mr. Taft has been one of the best presidents that the United States has had in the last forty years and I believe that he deserves re-election."
"We do not need any change in the presidency," writes a Wisconsin contributor, "and in my opinion we are not going to have any change. President Taft is an honest, able and conscientious man and he deserves and will receive re-election. In this locality the sentiment is coming his way."
Hundreds of letters contain similar expressions of opinion. They show in every section a strong feeling that President Taft's splendid administration has made a deep impression and that people do not want a change.
President Taft's Dignified Attitude.
From the Quincy (Ill.) Whig:
President Taft has old-fashioned, but nevertheless admirable ideas, regarding the dignity of his official station. He believes that it ill befits the incumbent of the high office he occupies to take the stump and argue with the people that they should reelect him. The record of his administration is an open book, and if that record does not commend him to the favor of the country he will not go forth and importune voters to give him another term. The president's attitude is an admirable one.
No Trickery in Taft.
From the Wilmington (Del.) Daily News:
We don't expect Mr. Taft to resort to trickery, no matter to what lengths Mr. Roosevelt may feel impelled to go in that direction.

WHY HE SHIFTED POSITION
Although reciprocity is now a dead issue, it is worth while, for the enlightenment of those who oppose President Taft for his endorsement of reciprocity, to recall the position taken by Colonel Roosevelt upon that question. Mr. Roosevelt favors free trade with Canada and was an ardent advocate and supporter of reciprocity until he found that its endorsement would not help him in his third term race.
President Taft, while he was considering the question of reciprocity, naturally consulted with ex-President Roosevelt. He knew that Mr. Roosevelt had been president, that he was familiar with the subject and that he was, at that time, a good and loyal Republican. When, in the course of a lengthy letter, he asked Mr. Roosevelt's advice, he reviewed both sides of the matter in impartial fashion. Mr. Roosevelt's reply was not only a full endorsement but he went so far as to advocate absolute free trade with Canada. Mr. Roosevelt wrote as follows:
Roosevelt for Free Trade with Canada.
New York, Jan. 12, 1911.
Dear Mr. President:
It seems to me that what you propose to do with Canada is admirable from every standpoint. I firmly believe in free trade with Canada for both economic and political reasons. As you say, labor cost is substantially the same in the two countries, so that you are amply justified by the platform. Whether Canada will accept such reciprocity I do not know, but it is greatly to your credit to make the effort.
Ever yours,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.
Not only in his letter to President Taft, but also in speeches Mr. Roosevelt endorsed reciprocity. At Grand Rapids, Mich., on February 12, 1911, he said:
"Here, friends, in Michigan, right on the northern frontier, I have the peculiar right to say a word of congratulation to you and to all of us upon the likelihood that we shall soon have closer reciprocal tariff and trade relations with the great nation to the north of us."
And in a speech before the Republican club of New York city, delivered on February 13, 1911, Mr. Roosevelt gave emphatic endorsement of President Taft and reciprocity in the following words:
"I want to say how glad I am at the way in which the members of the club here tonight responded to the two appeals made to them to uphold the hands of President Taft, both in his effort to secure reciprocity with Canada and in his effort to secure the fortification of the Panama canal." Explanation Does Not Explain.

In the face of this record Mr. Roosevelt now explains his antagonism to reciprocity by saying that he did not fully understand the proposition and endorsed it under a misrepresentation of its details.
Mr. Roosevelt's explanation is unworthy of consideration for two reasons. In the first place, a man in his position from whom advice and suggestion had been sought by the president of the United States ought not to admit having hastily endorsed reciprocity without knowing what he was doing. As a matter of fact, Mr. Roosevelt's letters and speeches above quoted are exactly in line with his record.
More than this, Mr. Roosevelt's explanation is an insult to the intelligent voter because in his letter to President Taft he says, "I firmly believe in free trade with Canada." This is going farther than President Taft ever went, because Mr. Taft's idea of reciprocity was to obtain valuable consideration in return for concessions granted. Roosevelt's free trade proposition if enacted into law would break down all the barriers between Canada and the United States and would cause tremendous financial loss to American farmers.
The fact is that Mr. Roosevelt was heartily in favor of reciprocity and of free trade with Canada until he made his tour of the west before the Republican national convention, when he found that reciprocity was unpopular. Then he shifted. His present attitude demonstrates his utter insincerity and shows that he is ready to do anything to catch votes. He is ready to endorse anything that he believes is popular and to condemn that which he thinks is unpopular without regard to his own convictions or wise governmental policies. The manner in which he has suddenly reversed himself in the hope that by so doing he would gain a few votes is an example of demagogism thoroughly typical of his character.
It is also important to remember that if a Democratic president should be elected reciprocity with Canada would soon be an accomplished fact, inasmuch as the Democrats in the house of representatives voted for it and also voted against repealing the law which had been passed. Democratic reciprocity is the kind that the Canadian newspapers are hoping Canada will secure, because it will mean that Canada will get everything from the United States and give nothing in return.
