Passing of John R. Joyce
The passing of John R. Joyce brings a distinct loss to the great southwest and more especially to eastern New Mexico and western Texas. A pioneer merchant in the Pecos Valley John R. Joyce saw far beyond the immediate wilderness of those early days as it appeared in valley and ever grassy plains when he and George Pennybaker opened their modest store in Eddy in 1889. He lived to see the marvelous upgrowth of the one time desert and the building of a vast merchant and banking business that has more than kept pace with the development of this locality and the staked plains. John R. Joyce was a far seeing, careful, and hard working business man from the start. He gave the closest attention to every detail of the business. But this attention to detail, so necessary to success in every walk of life, in no way diminished his ability to appreciate the revelation of the business as a whole. John R. Joyce had a business ability of a very high order. He was an organizer and had the ability to choose capable associates and keep them.

Here in the valley people associate John R. Joyce with the mercantile house of Joyce-Pruitt alone. But he had large interests all over the southwest and was connected with at least twenty of the most prosperous and useful banks in this section. In other words, John R. Joyce was an important factor in the development that has taken place in eastern New Mexico and other adjacent parts of the southwest the past twenty-five years. He was still vigorous in mind and body and his untimely death down there in South Carolina removes one of the powerful men in the business world of New Mexico and northwest Texas.

More Steers Bought
W. F. Faggard and Dick Carroll this week bought one hundred and fifty steer yearlings about forty miles southwest of Fort Sumner, for which they paid a fancy price. Dick says that it takes as much money to buy a calf under this Democratic administration as it did to buy a half dozen cows when Republicanism and high tariff had the country grabbed and Teddy assumed credit for the rainfall and everything else, except the panic. But, he said, they're worth it and we had the money.

Blanton Makes a Trip
R. L. Blanton, of the Highway garage, has just returned from a trip over the plains country. He says that everything looked good for that country, but was not in it with the Portales Valley. On his return he missed four Fords and was informed that they had been sold this week as follows: One to Henry Townsend, a cow man of Archa; one to Henry Rankin, one to L. M. Carmichael, both of Elida, and one to S. F. Lane, of Floyd.

Poultry Meeting Saturday
There will be a meeting of the poultry raisers and all those interested in any way in this important industry, at the court house Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, for the purpose of perfecting an organization to better look after the poultry interests of this and neighboring communities. The hen occupies a high place in these days of thirty cent beef and is entitled to some attention. There should be a large attendance.

W. B. Vaughan, of Scurry county, Texas, has engaged in stock farming in the Fairfield community, this county.

MORE LAURELS FOR ROOSEVELT COUNTY HOGS FOLLOW SHIPMENT TO EASTERN MARKETS

Carl Turner, J. B. Priddy and W. F. Faggard Are All Spending Good Money Grabbed at Fort Worth From Packers Who Know Good Hogs and Pay the Kale for Them

Returns From Four Cars Recently Shipped Show That Roosevelt County Has Again Pulled Down the Big Prize and Topped the Grunt Market, Toting Home Nine Dollars and Forty-Five Cents, Texas Money, for Each Hundred Pounds of Hog

Again has the Roosevelt county hog thrown its lass rope on the big money and come romping home with a bundle of kale large enough to swamp a Mississippi river steam boat. He went to the Fort Worth stock yards and made former records look as little as a Clovis bootlegger in a prohibition rally. Here is a well authenticated story from Redland. Last February, Carl Turner and his brother-in-law, Mr. Cox, bought a car of shoats that averaged ninety-nine pounds each. Two weeks ago they shipped part of them to Fort Worth, where they topped the market, bringing $9.45 per hundred pounds. After deducting the first cost of the shoats and the feed consumed, they had left $475.00 and seventy-eight hogs. From February first to April 8 is two months and eight days, the time these shoats were fed. At the time of purchase they weighed ninety-nine pounds, at the time of sale, they weighed two hundred and eight pounds at Fort Worth; a gain in weight of one hundred and nine pounds in two months and eight days. With such, or similar results, occurring almost weekly, it would appear that every farmer in the county would be getting some hogs.

At the same time the above car was shipped, J. B. Priddy and Joe Moody shipped two cars of mixed hogs that brought within two or three cents of the top figures and the first below those above. Mr. Priddy realized that this shipment was not up to his usual standard, but he wanted to cull his bunch, and so shipped out these mixed cars of all sized hogs. He had no thought of occupying a place but one rung removed from the top of the ladder, and is, of course, well pleased with his returns.

W. F. Faggard also shipped a car that he had bought up from various farmers. Of course this car was composed of hogs of all sizes, yet they attained a position but two places removed from the top, and the difference in price was only nominal.

Thus it may well be said that Roosevelt county hogs topped the Fort Worth market three times in one day. Is not that a stunt well calculated to stampede the angora of hog raisers of other sections? Is not that a practical demonstration of making the foreigner pay the tax? All this is real good Texas money, legal tender anywhere, that has come into our community as velvet, to help build up our institutions, a transfusion of new blood into the arteries of commerce. Every industry in the county will be benefitted more or less by reason of this new money coming into the community. Another consideration is that it is the easiest money made on the farm. The amount of actual labor expended is much less for the profit returned than any other farm pursuit. The element of risk here is less and the return is more rapid. In the case of the Carl Turner shipment, there was no alfalfa pasture to run on, the hogs not being in the irrigated district. They were fed crushed maize and kafir. The other shipments were from irrigated farms where the same kind of grain was fed in connection with alfalfa pasturage.

If all the farmers of Roosevelt county would get a few hogs, some cows and a bunch of chickens and turkeys it would not be long before this would be the richest community in the southwest, and the day is not far distant when such will be the case. Already there is a marked tendency toward registered stuff in both cattle and hogs, and there is also a distinct improvement in the work stock now and that of a few years ago, all of which has a tendency to show that our cattle and hogs have had their effect and improvement is noticeable all along the line.

Baptist Church

Last Sunday was a very interesting day at the Baptist church. Evangelist Vermillion delivered two good sermons, to the delight of the congregation. We will be glad to have him come again. Next Sunday we will have a special service to celebrate the "Resurrection," in which the Masons will take part. The ladies will arrange for them to have a special section in the church. The Masons will march from the hall to the church in a body.

What About a Base Ball Team?

Is it not about time that our base ball fans were making preparation for the organization of another pennant winning base ball team? Last year we covered ourselves with glory and our opponents with chagrin and we should not this year do any less. We have all the necessary elements for this laudable enterprise and it only remains to organize and get busy. Let's start something.

Christian Church

Those who have been attending the meetings at the Christian church have been enjoying a rare treat in straight gospel preaching. Barnett is making the truth plain. His preaching is refined and above all firmly tied to the word of God. His reading of the Word is wonderful. The question in our mind is how one head holds so much. There seems to be no limit and we're wondering how Portales ever landed him.

Show Your Appreciation

Jim May, rural mail carrier, has put a new car into the mail service at his own expense and feels that the people along his route should appreciate the better service sufficiently to make some badly needed repairs on the road. Jim has put something like $500 in this service betterment and has some right to ask for a little co-operation.

Signs of Prosperity

This week Inda Humphrey sold in one day seven lists and one farm wagon. J. B. Sledge and the Joyce Pruitt people also report business in farming implements as being much better than ever before. These are all sure indications that our farmers are not in any money cramp and that they are expecting another big harvest this year.

New Corporation

Articles of incorporation were filed Saturday by the Carr Lumber company, of Fort Sumner, with an authorized capital of $10,000.00. The incorporators are M. P. Carr, of Fort Sumner; G. W. Carr and W. O. Oldham, of Portales. M. P. Carr is president and G. W. Carr and W. O. Oldham are secretary and treasurer, respectively.

WILLIAMSON-OLDHAM COMPANY BUY BUNCH OF GOOD HEIFERS

Get 1250 Full Blood Herefords of the Famous Slaughter Herd to Distribute to Farmers

Also Shipped in 37 Head of Thoroughbred Bulls That Are Extra Fine Individuals

This week the Williamson-Oldham Cattle and Loan company bought twelve hundred and fifty head of extra fine white faced heifers. They are a part of the famous Slaughter herd and are much above the average in all particulars. They also bought and brought here thirty-seven head of full blood Hereford bulls. Mr. Williamson says that the past three or four years has demonstrated that the farmers who have bought a few cows and a few brood sows have, in every instance, made good and are, today, among our most thrifty and well to do people. He believes that those who buy only such numbers as they can care for and feed through the short winter months here run no risk of failure. He called the News man's attention to numerous of our farmers who have taken advantage of their opportunities and who had bought a little bunch of cattle and a few hogs, that are now much better than well fixed. He mentioned some, in particular, who had, for a number of years, worked hard and industriously, trying to get by via the grain market, and who, each succeeding year, was just a little worse off than the year before, but who have, in the last three years, not worked so hard, but have gone into the cow and hog business and, at this time, have about everything they want or need. Mit Price was one man mentioned. Mr. Price came to this country with but little more than a team of broom tails and a determination to win. He is now counted as one of the rich men of the county, and the cow made his money for him. There are many others who have done just as well but there are none of them that are of the timid variety of genus homo, or who are afflicted with that tired feeling. They are men who had the courage to try, to get in the game before the blue checks were all off the board. The day of the big cow man is gone, never to return, consequently, the world must depend upon the little stock farmer for its meat, butter and milk and there is no country under the sun that is better prepared to furnish these things than is Roosevelt county, New Mexico.

Mart Servis Buys Heifers

The fellow who spread the report that those Roswell doctors separated Mart Servis from his gall, told one that he could have gotten out of. This week he went over southwest of Fort Sumner and divorced some man from four hundred high grade yearling heifers for which he left $40.00 each, good American money. Mart is an able cow man and it's a pipe that these heifers are good.

Judge G. L. Reese made a business trip to Roswell the latter part of this week.

Mexico Under Mexican Rule Is Hopeless

There is a growing sentiment among Americans, generally, and "gringos" specifically, that quiet and order in Mexico will come only when the United States government, at Washington, rules that land of lassitude and broken promises. For the past four years the only recognized industry has been brigandage and rape. The de facto guerillos are, in no appreciable manner, any more fit or capable of governing and controlling that horde of Mexicans, Indians and niggers, than is Pancho Villa with his little bunch of vaudeville cut throats. Carranza is just crafty enough to attempt to play both sides of the game against the middle, in order to keep peace and quiet from crossing the border and sending him back to the only occupation he can, satisfactorily, measure up to, that of toting a lambing sack and making love to the helpless mama goats. Nor is there, apparently, another sheepherder on yon side of the Rio Grande who could, with any hopes of success, attempt to rob the peons and foreigners any more successfully, or avoid the truth more systematically than has Carranza and his whiskers. Pancho Villa is dissimilar from this ragamuffin chieftain with the Peffer adornment, only in that he is more crude and bestial in his methods. Just what advantage would be derived from the killing or capture of this particular outlaw is not apparent to the average layman. There would still remain Salazaar and numerous other little thieves to keep the pot simmering and to ward off any prospect of creating a stable and capable government. Mexico is a land wonderfully rich in minerals, timber and agricultural advantages, yet terribly poverty stricken in morals and citizenship. Its only redemption and its only hope lies in the white man. Mexico, today, is the same as it will be one hundred years hence, if left to itself and its own devices. It is utterly futile and useless for any government or any nation to go into Mexico for the pacification of that people unless that nation intends to stay and promulgate its own laws and enforce them, and unless this government is willing to assume this burden and this responsibility, it had better withdraw and keep hands off.

Clovis is seriously contemplating putting in a telephone system of its own and has refused to grant a franchise to the corporation now operating there. They own their water and light plant and could operate a telephone exchange with but little expense, aside from the cost of installation. Portales might consider something of this kind, to, with profit to herself.

The Hog and the Farmer

What is, probably, of more importance to the people of Roosevelt county than Pershing's expedition into Mexico, or who sank the Sussex, is the extension of the hog industry. Given a half a dozen high grade, or registered, brood sows, the average farmer will not concern himself, much, over whether Pancho Villa was killed in battle, or whether death ensued from some cause less honorable. It's immaterial to him whether the Sussex was sent to the bottom by a German submarine or by some other agency. There is something real, something tangible in a lot full of growing porkers, and the farmer who owns them knows that he has solved the problem of "How to stay on the Farm?" There has been a great increase, during the past year, in the number of our farmers who have put hogs to helping make the living, as well as a great improvement in the grade of hogs raised. Four years ago, it is doubtful if there was a registered hog in the county, today, there are registered representatives of all the standard breeds. Roosevelt county is now shipping out ten cars of hogs a month, while four years ago the sales of imported hog meat, lard and its substitutes, constituted about one fourth of the grocery business. The hog has come to stay. He has proved his ability to make good here; he has demonstrated his power to pay your debts and buy you an automobile; he has raised our farmers from a condition of genteel poverty to a position that makes them worth something to themselves and to the community. This industry is but in the embryo, but is a lusty infant, and gives promise of great things within a few years. We could easily care for ten times as many hogs as we do, and we would be ten times richer if we did.

There is a growing suspicion in the mind of the common geezer that Pancho Villa is seeking death under false pretenses. It is safe to assume that in the event of his actual demise, there would be more skeptics than mourners; more relief than sorrow. In the meantime the game of hide and seek goes merrily on.

BETTING ON GOLF

Enthusiast Gives Up a Little Dissertation.

Effect of Lecture, However, is Somewhat Spoiled by Admission Which is Made in the Concluding Paragraph.

By WALTER PRICHARD EATON.

Man is a betting animal. Apparently betting is a deep-rooted instinct, for many men have been known to bet who were never taught that it is wrong. When a New Englander bets, of course, it is easy to understand, for he has been taught from childhood that gambling is the eighth deadly sin, which naturally makes it attractive. (It is a high tribute to the ethical ingenuity of the Puritan mind that the grab bag at the church fair has always been exempt.) We can well remember our own thrill of wickedness when, at the age of twelve, we wagered a dollar on the Harvard football team. Our satisfaction was somewhat diminished after the game, for that was before the days of Charlie Brickley.

Many men bet, however, without even the incentive of committing a sin. They bet when they haven't the slightest pleasant twinge of conscience. They bet not even to make money, but just for the sake of betting. They bet on a ball game, a horse race, the day's run of a steamer—on anything which has the element of chance about it. We once knew of an automobile party who made a pool on the number of Ford cars they would meet in a day—and they missed all the scenery they were touring to enjoy.

But nowhere is betting carried to such an extreme at the present time as on the golf links. Serious writers (and most golf writers are very serious) have called it "the menace of the game." A certain well-known club near New York, which has many members from Wall street, has been forced to adopt a rule against it, whether from ethical grounds or because the four-somes delayed play by reckoning up their complicated accounts on the greens, we cannot say. It has been stated that sums as high as $6,000 used to be wagered on a single game, even a single shot. Fancy facing a water carry of 160 yards with $6,000 depending on your stroke! Would you press, or wouldn't you? It is bad enough for some of us to know that the price of the ball depends on that stroke!

We were playing the other day in a foursome, which deserved the name the old judge used in Barrie's play, "a fearsome." Two of the players were brokers. Between holes they talked stocks. On the tees, they laid bets. "Give me a stroke on this hole, for five balls?" one would say to the other. "You're on."

If one or the other got into trouble and saw he had no chance, he picked up without more to-do, and began to plan how he could win something back on the next hole. The pair ended the match with one owing the other a ginger ale, and their scores were so bad that we will not mention them.

The funny part of it all was that both of them really fancied they had been playing golf, and they actually had enjoyed themselves. Now of course they hadn't been playing golf any more than the man who pokes around "because it keeps him out in the open air" or "gives him exercise." There is only one valid reason for playing golf, or any other real game—and that is, a desire to solve as far as possible the problems of that game, and match your muscular control and skill against the control and skill of another. The man who picks up in a bunker because he sees he can't win a bet by playing out hasn't the first faint spark of golf understanding in his soul. He is not a golfer, he is a gambler. The real golfer plays out, not because he has any chance of winning that hole, but because every shot is practice, and the game demands of its true disciples a completed card. The more betters you have in your club, the fewer first-class players will you have.

We had intended here to add something about the bad effect betting has on the caddies, but we haven't time. We've got to hurry down to the links and play off a match with an old adversary, for a ball a hole.

A Diplomat.
"Do I have to pay fare for the little fellow?" asks the mother of the driver of the jitney bus.
"Is he over five?" asks the driver.
"Yes."
"Then he has to be paid for."
The mother pays and goes on her way contented. A remaining passenger asks:
"What would you have done if the child had been under five?"
"Oh, I would have collected the fare just the same. But you see I sent her away thinking of her child's age instead of his fare."—Judge.

Hegemony.
Hi Finance—What about the financial hegemony?
D. Vorsay—It's twice what I ought to pay her and I told the judge so.—Judge.

IMPORTANT REQUISITES OF GOOD DRIVER

Excellent Specimens for Farm Work.

The first requisites of a good driver are a cool head and a watchful eye, with ready fingers and the quick understanding of the needs and requirements of his horse.

He must also be ready to detect any object by the roadside which would be likely to annoy the horse and grasp at a glance the character of the road that lies ahead of him.

No quick-tempered, loud-voiced man can expect to have a quiet, obedient horse; and the undue haste of the quick-tempered driver to correct what seems to him misbehavior is one of the reasons why so many horses are dangerous to drive.

Much of this abuse, however, to which the horse is subjected, arises more from sheer ignorance and carelessness than from wanton cruelty.

Before starting on a long drive you should examine the horse, the harness and the vehicle—the bit should be as easy a one as possible, the harness must be comfortable and well-fitting.

Do not use a check rein if the road is long and hilly, but should one be necessary then loosen the head of the horse before ascending a hill, when going over muddy roads, and also whenever you stop, as it is natural for a horse to lower his head when he makes an extra exertion, and also to droop it when he is resting.

A horse should not only be allowed to walk slowly along steep and muddy parts of the road, but also occasionally on level ground, the change from one set of muscles to another rests him. When your horse begins to feel fatigued he will strike one of his hoofs against the ankle opposite, often bruising and cutting it.

As it is generally one of the hind ankles, an ankle boot should be worn during a long drive, even if it is unnecessary on other occasions.

Two other indispensable articles on a long drive are a wooden scraper for removing foam and a hoofpick for dislodging stones. For one who is often on the road it is also useful to have a few pieces of rope and some brass wire, as with these in his possession anyone with ingenuity can quickly repair ordinary damages to the harness or carriage.

Horses, when traveling, should have water given to them frequently in reasonable quantities. If you drive slowly for a while after watering your horse, no injurious results will follow, and they may be refreshed by a few mouthfuls of grain, hay or grass.

Should you chance to stop where there is a strong breeze blowing, put a light blanket on your horse, even if the weather is warm.

Do not, at any part of a long trip, yield to the temptation of racing with passing vehicles, for the quickening of a horse's steady "road pace" to a racing gait heats him unnecessarily, and if done frequently is very fatiguing.

Good horses are in such demand now that it will pay any farmer with good horse sense to sit up and take notice.

DISTEMPER A MOST PECULIAR DISEASE

Veterinary of Oklahoma Agricultural College Tells How Horse Should Be Treated.

(By W. F. SHULER, Department of Veterinary Medicine, Oklahoma A. and M. College, Stillwater.)

For the treatment of distemper in horses, I would recommend the following:

Have prepared this prescription and administer it in tablespoonful doses three times daily to the full-grown animals and in teaspoonful doses (twice daily) to the colts. Powdered nux vomica, one part; powdered belladonna leaves, one part; powdered chlorate of potash, two parts; powdered calcicum root, one part; pine tar sufficient to make a pasty mass. It may best be given by means of a little wooden paddle, with which the material can be placed on the back of the tongue and it will there go directly to the spine.

In cases where abscesses have formed and broken they should be syringed out with an antiseptic solution and painted with tincture of iodine. Be sure that the animal's bowels are in good condition. If there is any tendency to constipation, administer a suitable purgative, such as oil, salts or aloes. In cases where the nose and throat seem to be especially affected, place the animal in a small stall, taking a gallon or two of boiling water, add to it half a pint of carbolic acid, and tie the animal so that its head be directly over this bucket. This will give relief by the inhalation of carbolic acid vapors.

FALL CLEANING OF THE TRUCK GARDEN

Sanitation Is Important in Control and Prevention of Various Plant Diseases.

(By W. W. ROBBINS, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.)

In the control and prevention of plant diseases sanitation of the garden is important. There is a number of our fungous diseases which rest over the winter on or in decayed stalks, leaves, or fruit. The resting stage of the fungus is resistant to winter conditions. Among such diseases which rest over in the above manner are:

Club root cabbage, onion mildew, leaf spot of strawberry, leaf spot of beets, early blight of celery, late blights of celery, and asparagus rust.

If a disease is not destructive one season, it is no sign it will not be another season. Rake up and burn the old stalks, leaves, and fruit left in the garden patch.

VERY SOUR SILAGE IS NOT PALATABLE

It Is Not Rich Food and Animals Are Therefore Compelled to Eat Much of It.

Silage is palatable because it is green forage preserved with the exception that the sugar has been converted into agreeable acids that stimulate appetite and give a good flavor. It is possible to have too much acid in the silage. A very sour silage is not palatable. If the plant silage contains too much sugar, too much acid will be produced. If it does not contain much sugar, not enough acid will be produced to give the desired flavor and aroma to the silage.

Silage is not a magic foodstuff. There is not quite as much food value in it as there was in the plant from which it came. It is not a rich food and stock is therefore compelled to eat a rather good quantity of it. A good-sized cow may safely eat 40 pounds of it in a day. Combined with some feeds rich in protein, it meets the needs of the animal. Too great things must not be expected of it. It is fair to expect that an acre of corn put through the silo will have a greater feeding value than the same acre handled in the usual way. But the added feeding value will usually not be more than a third or a fourth.

TO TELL A SHEEP'S AGE BY THE TEETH

Animal With One Pair of Permanent Molars Is Yearling, Says Minnesota Expert.

(By T. G. PATTERSON, Animal Husbandry Division, University Farm, St. Paul, Minn.)

A lamb has eight small first-teeth on the lower jaw. When the animal reaches the age of about one year, the middle pair are replaced by two permanent teeth; at the age of about two, the teeth on either side of these permanent teeth are also replaced with a permanent pair; at the age of three, the next tooth on either side gives way to a permanent tooth; and at about the age of four, the last or back teeth are replaced in like manner.

Briefly then, a sheep with one pair of permanent teeth is a yearling; a sheep with two pairs is a two-year old; with three pairs, a three-year old; and with four pairs, a four-year old.

After a sheep is four years old, one cannot tell by the teeth about the age. However, one who is purchasing a sheep should see to it that it has not lost any teeth, or that the teeth have not become long and shoe-peggy in appearance.

It doesn't pay to own things you owe for.

SUDDEN DEATH

Caused by Disease of the Kidneys

The close connection which exists between the heart and the kidneys is well known nowadays. As soon as the kidneys are diseased, arterial tension is increased and the heart functions are attacked. When the kidneys no longer pour forth waste, uric acid poisoning occurs, and the person dies and the cause is often given as heart disease, or disease of brain or lungs.

In the erection of modern buildings the primary thought is for endurance. The same thought should be given to building our own body and brain—but few give it. This building process requires certain essential food elements which, within the body, are converted into the kind of brain, bone, nerve and muscle capable of enduring the severe tests of work and time.

State School Athletics

Ninety New Mexico High school athletes will gather at the University of New Mexico, April 26, 28, and 29 for the most important track and field meet in the history of school athletics in the far southwest. The meeting held under the auspices of the New Mexico Interscholastic association, will take place on the university campus where the visiting athletes will be entertained as guests of the university.

Artesia, Roswell, Tucumcari, Deming, Albuquerque, Alamogordo, Santa Fe, Dexter, Gallup, Portales, Raton, Socorro and Belen high schools have entered full teams in the meeting, while several other high schools have entries in a part of the events.

An extra day, April 27, has been added to this meeting this year to accommodate the interscholastic championship basketball contest which will occupy the evenings of the three days, and which will determine the championship high school basketball team of the state. Nine teams are entered in the basketball contest. Preliminaries will take place Thursday night, Friday morning and Friday night and the finals will occur on Saturday night in the national guard armory. Basketball has gained a great ascendancy in New Mexico during the past year and there is lively interest in this contest all over the state.

Special railroad rates of one and one third fare for the round trip have been made for the meeting and a large number of rooters and spectators are expected to accompany the visiting teams. Among the special attractions will be several high school orchestras and bands will come to cheer the respective teams.

Hard work has been done in preparation for the meeting and it is confidently expected that a number of new state records will be established during the meeting. Roswell has won the governor's cup twice and will make a desperate effort to win it the third time, this year, in which event that school will retain the trophy. An equally determined effort will be made to break down Roswell's lead.

When it is recalled that at the first of these inter-scholastic meetings, four years ago, only sixteen visitors were to be counted among the competing athletes, it will be seen how notable has been the growing interest in this meeting and clean school sport in New Mexico.

The school children are taking liberally to the Christmas saving deposit department of the First National Bank. To those who have not yet availed themselves of this opportunity, the News would suggest that you investigate the proposition a little. You don't have to spend these savings for baubles, you know, and it might be the beginning of a nice little bunch of cattle for those farsighted youngsters who commence to save now. "Big trees from little acorns grow," you know, and from little savings in youth large fortunes have been builded. It is no bad idea to cultivate the thrifty spirit in tee young.

See what Deen-Neer

have to say about cream separators this week

Don't delay buying a De Laval Cream Separator a single day longer.

If you are selling cream or making butter and have no separator, or an inferior one, you are wasting cream every day you delay the purchase of a De Laval.

There can be only two real reasons for putting off buying a De Laval. Either you don't really appreciate how great your loss in dollars and cents actually is, or else you don't believe the De Laval Separator will make the savings we claim for it.

In either case, there is one sensible way to settle this matter. Let us set up a machine for you on your place and then you can see for yourself what the De Laval will do.

You have nothing to risk, and nearly two million other cow owners who have made this test have found they had much to gain. You can't afford to wait. Let the De Laval Separator start saving cream for you RIGHT NOW.

If you would really like to know just how much more cream you can get with a De Laval let us set up a machine for you on your place and have you try it out for yourself. Isn't this as fair a proposition as you ever heard of?

Just phone or drop us a postal and we will be glad to bring a machine out to your place any time you say.

Sooner or later you will buy a DE LAVAL

The post-office is now located at C. M. Horton's, two miles east and one-half mile south of its former stand. Mrs. Eva Horton is assistant official, and is in charge. This move is very satisfactory to many of us that are out toward the Texas line. In connection with the post-office, Mr. Horton intends to put in a store, which will get a good patronage.

The auction sale of the school houses last Saturday afternoon was well attended, and the bidding was good. Both of the buildings go to W. G. Holley, as he was the highest bidder. He consents for them to remain on the school grounds until school is out. The energetic school board have bought and paid for another school building over in the neighborhood of Virginia City, Texas. All patrons will take their teams across next Monday, and pull the Texas building to its new location. Those who have seen it think a good purchase has been made, and that present needs will be well filled.

The singing at A. A. Boulter's on Sunday afternoon, and the prayer meeting at the school house on Sunday night, were both well attended.

The rain last week braced up the new-comers considerably, for they had commenced to get somewhat weak in the knees. So fine a rain at so convenient a time also helped the old nesters some, too. In fact' everything is lovely and the goose hangs high. Prospects are actually good.

He bought $20 worth of fine white Wyandotte eggs from Joe Pinson, and he has a pen of games that will make you sit up and take notice. The preachers all have an invitation to come to see him this summer.

School closes on April 28th, and on the 29th there will be a school picnic at the old D. Z. Ranch headquarters. Several contests of different kinds will occur. Come, and we will try to entertain you. We expect to see our candidate friends, of course, and will listen to their pleas.
