WHERE TO GET THE WAR FOOD SCHEDULES

Firms Required to Report on Stocks of Provisions May Obtain Blanks in Phoenix, Arizona

Blanks Have Been Mailed to 350-
000 Firms to be Filled Out and Returned

Washington, D. C.—Since the Federal law requires that all firms having commercial stocks of foods shall make returns of what they have on hand or in transit on August 31, the United States department of agriculture, charged with carrying out the provisions of the law, has designated certain places within each state where the blank food survey schedules may be obtained. These blanks are to be filled in duplicate, one copy to be retained by the reporting firm and the other to be sent to the department at Washington. In this state the survey blanks may be obtained at Bureau of Markets, Water Users' Building, Phoenix, Arizona. Each blank has spaces for recording the stocks of 18 principal commodities including the chief food cereals, meats, lard, oils, fish, sugar and condensed or evaporated milk. Elevators, mills, dealers, canners, bakers, jobbers, packers, grocers, hotels, department and general stores dealing in groceries, and other types of business to the number of about 100, are required to report their stocks not later than September 10, though an extension of time may be granted by the secretary of agriculture on special request if a good reason can be shown.

The survey of August 31, in so far as it concerns the supplies of 18 principal foodstuffs, is a preliminary one, to be followed by a more complete one after the crops are harvested. For the complete schedule the blanks call for returns on 103 items. Blanks giving all information have been mailed to some 350,000 firms, but any firm which has not yet received these blanks should apply at once to the Bureau of Markets, Department of Agriculture, at Washington, or to the nearest state address given above. While the returns are required under the law, with a heavy penalty for noncompliance, it is expected by the department that all firms will consider it their patriotic duty to fill out and return the schedules as requested.

Mrs. A. A. Rogers and son left Sunday morning for Chicago, where they will make their home. Mr. Rogers and children are there now.

How to Can String Beans

String beans for canning should be small, tender, fresh and well sorted. When the beans within the pod have grown to any size, canning is more difficult and the product is poorer quality from a commercial standpoint. String the beans and cut them into two-inch lengths; cutting diagonally or "on the bias" gives a pretty product. In glass they may be canned whole, packed log cabin fashion in square jars. Blanch in boiling water for three to eight minutes or until the pod will bend without breaking, and plunge into cold water for an instant. Drain well, pack quickly, and cover with brine made by adding 2½ ounces of salt to a gallon of water. Put the rubber in place and adjust the cap loosely. When the beans are young and tender allow packed quart containers to remain in water bath at boiling temperature two hours continuously, or, if more mature beans are packed, an hour on each of three successive days. Immediately after sterilizing the filled jar tighten the cap securely and allow jars to cool away from any draft. Store in a cool, dry, dark place.

NEWSPAPER MAN AND STATESMAN IS WILLIAM B. WALTON, NEW MEXICO

Eastern Boy Who Grew Up in the Country and Loves His Home Is One Congressman Whose Style Stands Out in Bold Relief

Practical Man of High Ideals Who Found Best Field in the West and Achieved for Others Proud of the Fact That New Mexico
Was First to Answer the Call to Arms

(MADAME ON DIT IN THE MORNING TELEGRAPH)

There are five states in the union, each of which sends to the national house of representatives one lone member. The habit of Wyoming to elect and re-elect Frank Wheeler Mondell has been unbroken for more than twenty years; for more than six E. E. Roberts has been the gentleman from Nevada, and Carl Hayden has been the gentleman from Arizona. But when the Sixty-Fifth congress convened the seat belonging to Delaware had a new occupant, and a stranger also settled himself complacently in the chair of New Mexico. Albert F. Polk is from Delaware, and William B. Walton is from New Mexico. There is every indication that it will not be many more years until four of these representatives will have company in the house from their own states; but unless Delaware, in some miraculous manner, multiplies her square miles and provides comfortable distances for a still greater population, it is possible that for all time, she can seat but one favorite son in the south wing of the capitol. Perhaps there is a lot of clear space in Delaware's three counties one does not venture to say. But it is true beyond doubt that there is a magnificence of latitude in the other four states that justifies the prediction of more than one representative before congresses are out of the 60's.

As it is New Mexico has only to acquire about 10,000 more population to entitle her to two representatives. From Mr. Walton's point of view it is the great opportunity not only for that specific 10,000, but for ten times 10,000 to come in and inherit the land. Not that Mr. Walton is lonesome in congress, but because the state he represents is irresistible in its lure of wealth and health and happiness.

"It is a great land, New Mexico," he said yesterday, "and it is impossible to live there any length of time, and not feel the inspiration of state and civic pride. One of the oldest parts of the country and most romantic, historically, it is still practically unknown outside its own environments. Really, it is amazing to find how frequently the state of New Mexico is amused with the republic. It is necessary to put it on the map over and over again, for the well, for the careless."

"How long have you lived in New Mexico?"

"Oh," Mr. Walton laughed, "I belong to the ancient territorial days; it is twenty-six years since I went west to seek my fortune, and, to be accurate, I am still seeking it."

"Why did you go out there?"

"Why does any young fellow get restless, crowded, cramped in his surroundings and cut loose? Perhaps it was just the spirit of

Member of Advisory Council

W. O. Oldham is the Roosevelt county member of the new advisory council of the Taxpayers' Association. He was selected, with the other council members, at the recent annual meeting of the association at Santa Fe.

Plans are being made for an early meeting of the advisory council in Albuquerque to discuss general taxation matters and to map out association activities in the various counties. The beneficial results of the association's work during the last two years were set forth by President Hagerman in his address at the annual meeting and the association year now opening will be marked by increased efforts in behalf of all the taxpayers of the state.

HUSTLING TOWN OF EMZY

Celebrating Its First Anniversary With Two-Day Picnic

Emzy is beginning today a two days' celebration of the first anniversary of the opening of the town. One year ago the people were entertained by a two days' barbecue, when the town consisted of one store, a garage, and a windmill. Today you will find one of the most modern hotels to be found in any inland town on the plains, under the efficient management of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Griffin; one of the best retail general merchandise establishments to be found in Roosevelt County, that supplies the demands of the southern half of the county and a large portion of west Texas. This business is founded by Emzy Roberts, the founder of the town, and is managed by F. B. Johnson and Joel J. Garrison, two of the most enterprising merchants of the west, who spare no pains to satisfy their trade.

Then we have an up-to-date hardware store, conducted by genial Geo. M. Pruitt, whose ambition is to supply the wants of the farmers and ranchers in his territory with anything in the way of hardware. There is also a tonsor parlor, owned and managed by the jolly J. Fred Henry. Then you will find the Emzy Garage, under the management of John J. South, one of the most expert machinists in the west, and is prepared to repair anything from a crochet needle to an aeroplane; a grist mill, operated by W. H. Eason, the best miller in Roosevelt county.

Also there is a short order restaurant, where the wayfaring man may satisfy his hunger, and a confectionery, where may be found the cooling beverages to be had in any of the larger towns of the west.

And last but not least, there is the Emzy High School, thanks to the untiring efforts of the progressive people of this, the newest town in eastern New Mexico. This school will be under the supervision of Prof. Swarts, who comes highly recommended as educator; and the Emzy Grammar School, conducted by Mrs. W. F. Greer, whom we know from experience to be one of the most up-to-date teachers in the county, who devotes her entire time and energy to the training of our children in everything that will help them to become manly men and womanly women.

The energetic people of this fair community feel they owe to Emzy Roberts their hearty support and encouragement in the founding and upbuilding of

The News joins these progressive people in wishing him all the success to be had, for he is a man that refuses to meet failure in any proposition that he undertakes. His ranch headquarters are located at Emzy and for eight miles west you travel over his fertile lands and among his white-face cattle. DAIRY WISDOM.

Supply an abundance of pure water for the cows at all times. Whitewash the stables at least twice a year. They should be clean at all times, light, well ventilated, spacious. Bed the cows well with clean material. Be cautious about keeping the stalls clean of manure. About 90 per cent of all sediment found in milk is just plain cow manure. Allow no cleaning of stables while milking is being done. Have all dust settled before milking is commenced. Do not feed your cows anything but pure, wholesome feed. Sour feed should never be used for the dairy cows. It is a good practice to have the cows curried and washed, if they need washing. In no case should they be allowed to have fifth-caked upon their bodies. The udder should always be washed and dried with a clean cloth before milking.

Home Cookery

Scotch Broth.
Three pounds of mutton from fore quarter, two quarts of cold water, one-half tablespoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful of pepper, one small onion, one-half cupful each of carrots and turnips cut in small cubes, two tablespoonfuls of flour, three tablespoonfuls of pearl barley. Wash meat, remove skin and fat and cut meat in small pieces; add water, seasonings, vegetables, barley and flour mixed with a little cold water. Cook slowly from six to eight hours. As water evaporates add enough to make up for that lost by evaporation.

Fine in the Apple Season.
Line the sides only of a baking dish with a rich biscuit crust. Pare and core enough apples to fill to the top of crust when sliced. Season with cinnamon and sugar. Add a little water to make it soggy. Cover with more crust, piercing to allow the steam to escape. The crust when baked should be about half inch thick. If the dough is patted out instead of rolled it is not so apt to be tough.

Stuffed Peppers.
Grind a pound of lean beef and one-half pound of pork or veal, mix with three tablespoonfuls uncooked rice, pepper, salt, a chopped onion and a tablespoonful of fat or butter. Clean the peppers, take out the seeds and fill them with this mixture, then strain a can of tomatoes into a stewpan, add a pinch of sugar and salt and simmer the peppers for two hours in this. When done thicken the sauce with a little flour.

Berry Mold.
Take a stale loaf of bread, cut in thin slices and spread lightly with butter. Stew a scant quart of small sweet berries of any kind and when soft add sugar to taste. In a deep dish put a layer of the bread, pour over a quantity of the boiling mixture, then add more bread and fruit until all has been used. Cool, set on the ice and serve very cold with a little whipped cream.

Getting Juice From Lemons.
If lemons are dried and do not seem to contain much juice just pour boiling water over them and let them stand until the water is cold. You will be surprised at the amount of juice they contain, and the juice is not weakened by the water.

POULTRY PICKINGS.

- * Cracked and fissured perches harbor lice. Have only sound lumber in your perches.
- * Feed your fowls liberally.
- * Give them a variety of wholesome food.
- * Dry feeding of baby chicks is the only way.
- * Bran is as cheap a food as can be used for the mash.
- * Feed the chicks sparingly the first ten days. They are apt to eat more than they have any business to do.
- * Water should be given to the youngsters from the start.
- * Baby chicks soon learn to scratch. There is no better medicine for them.

The Silver Gray Dorking is one of the oldest breeds of fowls. While extensively bred in England, it was not so popular in America until recent years. The Dorking is a fine table fowl, and the hens lay large white eggs. The bird pictured is a Silver Gray Dorking cock.

PROFIT IN POULTRY.

Farm Flocks Can Be Increased Without Much Added Expense.

Increased attention given to the poultry industry will prove one of the country's greatest defenses against food shortage, declare the poultrymen at Iowa State college. Poultry can be kept profitably on practically every farm and on many town and city lots, they say. They can be more quickly increased than any other important class of farm animals without increased use of valuable foodstuffs, for they utilize wastes.

Adding a hundred hens to every farm flock would involve no extra labor and would be a profitable move for every farmer. Then the adoption of better poultry practices with flocks on hand will tremendously increase the country's supply of poultry products and the profits of those who adopt them. Early hatched stock will undoubtedly lay more eggs next winter than late hatched, for well matured pullets make the best layers. These eggs will probably bring the highest price ever realized. But good feed and care will do much to overcome the handicap of late hatching.

Poultry parasites are costly guests. To oust the chicken mite whitewash the poultry house. If necessary, apply crude oil to the roosts or a stream of boiling salt water to nests and other fixtures. To rid hens of lice apply to the abdomen and sides of the body under the wings of each mature fowl a pea sized amount of mixture of equal parts blue ointment and vaseline. To treat scaly leg dip legs and toes of fowls in a mixture of equal parts of sweet oil and kerosene.

A tremendous loss among young chicks can be avoided by following the homely suggestion of keeping them from getting chilled, overheated or crowded and by feeding a palatable, clean, well balanced ration in limited quantities only for the first few days. Infertile eggs must be tested from the incubator or from under hens. Skim-milk and buttermilk are the greatest known preventives of bowel trouble and insure good, healthy growth. Better care of eggs produced on Iowa farms to prevent the present preventable annual loss would mean an increase in the nation's egg crop greater than the average yearly production in each of half the states of the country. "Swat the rooster," provide plenty of clean nests, gather eggs twice each day or oftener during warm weather and once a day at other times, keep them in a cool, dry, clean place and market them often without washing, is all good, common sense advice, which will turn the trick.

Late Hatched Chicks.
Although the hatching season proper should be considered at an end by May 1, it may be feasible in some sections of the northern and northwestern part of this country to continue hatching until July. Chicks hatched at that time, with proper feed and management, will frequently begin laying in January of the following year. The maturity of fowls hatched late can be greatly increased if the mother hens are confined until the chicks are weaned. In this way feed that is furnished the chicks produces growth instead of energy to follow the mother.

Fattening Fowls.
No one who has not tried it can imagine how much better a well fattened fowl is than one that is just picked up in the yard in the ordinary condition. Shut in a pen or coop those that are to be killed and eaten and feed a mash food or cornmeal and tallow for ten days, and the result will be a deliciously tender and juicy flesh, with a flavor that comes of cleanliness.

Onions Good For Chickens.
A bit of sliced onion put in the chick food every day or so has a fine tonic effect and is much relished by the little ones. As they lay no eggs and are not ready for table use, the onion flavor offends no one and helps the chicks.

A Panorama of Telephone Activity

A bird's-eye view of this country today would show a panorama of countless military and industrial activities. Here the smoke of a thousand stacks obscures the view of arsenal, steel and iron works and innumerable factories. There the sun's rays flash upon thousands of glittering bayonets and rise and set on many new and strange looking cities—the mobilization camps of the armies of the Republic, or gild the wings of swift aeroplanes gliding to and fro in bird-like flight over broad aviation fields. The National Capitol would be seen, from which all these vast enterprises are directed and co-ordinated, with hundreds of telephone lines radiating from it to all parts of the country, and linking it to each military and industrial center. A veritable maze of other telephone pole lines, covering the whole country with a net work of wires, would be visible, connecting city, town, camp, fortification, navy yards, military headquarters, coast-guard stations, and light-houses. Everywhere busy groups of telephone workers would be disclosed erecting poles and stringing wires to meet new and extraordinary demands for service. All this telephone activity is but a part of the vast work the Bell System is doing. Join us in this patriotic service, by remembering that the more careful you are to make only telephone calls that are necessary and to confine your talks as much as possible, to the less busy hours of the day, the better we can meet the needs of the Nation.

ALL AROUND THE FARM

MANAGEMENT OF FOALS.

Care of the Young Horses During Their First Winter. (Prepared by United States department of agriculture.)

Colts can be housed satisfactorily either in the stable or in an open shed. The main requirements are that the quarters be dry, sanitary and provide fairly warm protection from winds. Several foals may run together if the weaker ones are not driven away from their feed by the stronger. The quarters should be kept clean and well bedded and occasionally should be disinfected. Lice are to be suspected when the animals get to rubbing and lose patches of hair. Thorough washing with the proper solutions of coal tar disinfectants will kill lice. It costs money to feed lice, consequently efforts should be made to keep them down. The foals should be out in the open every day that is not stormy. It is harmful, however, for them to remain out in a cold rain. The foal should be taught to lead and to stand tied during the first winter.

Feeds that will promote growth should be supplied. Good, clean clover hay is palatable and slightly laxative. Timothy hay commonly is fed. Well cured alfalfa hay free from dust is one of the best roughages for growing, but because of its relatively high protein content it generally is economical to supplement it with other roughage such as timothy, mixed hay or corn fodder. Besides lending variety to the ration such a method of feeding alfalfa would offset any likelihood of kidney or bowel irregularities. Sheep oats can be used to advantage to supplement other roughage. The animals should not be allowed to gorge themselves on dry feed. They should be given only what they will clean up readily, but at the same time enough feed should be supplied. Oats, corn and peas, preferably fed ground, are suitable grains. Bran, oil meal or gluten feed will add protein and lend variety. Cottonseed meal should not be fed to foals. Appropriate grain rations for the first winter are: Two parts corn, five parts oats, three parts bran and one part oil meal, or four parts oats, one part corn and one part bran.

Stilage should not be fed to foals to any considerable extent. Sliced roots, such as carrots and sugar beets, are very palatable and have a cooling effect on the digestive system. The quantity of feed generally should be regulated by the appetite, although occasionally the appetite may be too ravenous to be a good indication. The general condition of the foal and the droppings should be observed daily (usually not over a pound of grain per hundred pounds of live weight should be fed until the animal is two years old. A liberal supply of salt and good water and plenty of fresh air and exercise are essential for the proper development of young horses. Idleness succeeding exercise will cause constipation. It is often said that a horse is made during his first winter. Certainly this is a critical time in the animal's life, and at no other age will proper feed and attention do as much to make of him a good horse. If stunted during the first winter he never will gain proper size and shape.

Change Horse's Diet.

If a work horse loses its appetite it must not be assumed that it has acquired some serious disease. It probably has been kept on a too steady diet of one kind of food. The diet must be changed, and if an improvement is not noted quickly it is evidence that the animal needs both a purgative and a tonic. A tablespoonful of unadvised in the feed is an excellent tonic, as it sweetens the stomach and stimulates the appetite.

Feeding the Calf.

At first the calf is fed whole milk, the quantity being gradually increased. Skim milk is substituted as soon as practicable and, if cheap, is continued until the calf is six months old. Ordinarily the maximum quantity of skim milk that can be fed economically is twenty pounds a day. When the calf is two weeks old grain and bright, clean hay should be offered. The quantity fed should be increased as the calf's appetite demands.

Keep Milk Utensils Clean.

Don't forget to use plenty of boiling water for scalding the vessels used in the care of milk. Keep all chemicals away from the milk. It should never be "preserved." It must not be adulterated.

FIGHTING HOPPERS.

Trapping and the Use of Poisoned Bait Most Effective Methods.

The eggs of grasshoppers are deposited in the ground or in the crowns of plants, such as alfalfa, in the drier regions. Where cultivating implements can be used the ground containing eggs should be thoroughly plowed or disked and harrowed in the fall, as these operations prevent the eggs from hatching the following spring. Digging up the soil by hand is practicable only in gardens, truck farms or ground under intensive cultivation.

The most common method of trapping is by the use of a simple horse propelled implement called a hopper-dozer. This consists of a long shallow pan or trough, with a back and side wings rising at right angles to the pan, and is mounted on runners. The pan is constructed of galvanized sheet iron, the back and side wings may be built of wooden frames covered with stout muslin or light cotton duck, and the runners are made of wood or old wagon tires.

The pan is kept partially filled with water, covered with a film of low grade kerosene. As the hopperdozer is drawn over the field the grasshoppers jump or fly against the back, and most of them are precipitated into the oil covered water in the pan. A slight touch of oil is fatal to the insects.

The most effective method of control is the use of poisoned baits. Poisoned

The hopperdozer cannot be used on uneven, stony or recently cleared land nor in meadows or fields of grain where the crops have reached a considerable height. Even where it is used successfully a good many grasshoppers escape being killed.

bran bait has proved to be a simple, reliable and cheap method of destroying grasshoppers. This bait is prepared as follows:

Wheat bran, twenty five pounds; paris green, one pound, or white arsenic, one pound; six finely chopped lemons or oranges; low grade molasses, such as refuse from sugar factories or cattle molasses, known as "black strap," two quarts; water, three to four gallons. The bran and paris green or other arsenical are mixed thoroughly while dry, then the fruits are chopped finely and added, and lastly the diluted molasses is poured over the bait and the whole thoroughly kneaded. A coarse flaked bran is most desirable, although where this cannot be obtained easily ordinary middlings or alfalfa meal may be substituted. A low grade strong smelling sirup or molasses however, is essential to success.

Better Gains.

It is not claimed by expert stockmen that pure bred cattle will eat less feed than scrubs, but it is claimed that they make much better and quicker gains from what they do eat.

Cows Like Peas.

Cows are very fond of cowpeas or soy beans, and these feeds supply protein.

A Portales Woman's Experience

Can you doubt the experience of this Portales woman? You can verify Portales endorsement. Read this:

Mrs. John P. Pyeatt, box 113, Portales, says: "My back certainly bothered me a great deal. I felt all run down and miserable and never seemed to have ambition enough to do my housework. When I tried to bend over sharp pains caught me in my back. My kidneys bothered me also, and many times I had dizzy spells. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and tried them. I found immediate relief and soon felt like myself again. I still use Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally to regulate my kidneys and they have kept these organs strong and healthy."

"DON'T WORRY," SAYS BISHOP.

An Evil That Shortens Life, Dr. Woodcock Assets.

"Be as the bird, which flies above the wind blown dust and is therefore not sullied." This is Bishop Charles E. Woodcock's advice to those who worry. In his sermon at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York, the bishop, who is the head of a Kentucky diocese, said:

"The people are getting very badly mixed up. They are shortening their lives by ten years through senseless worry. Worry weakens the heart and hardens the arteries. People are carried away by the mistaken idea that one cannot live without worry. Men and women doing anything on God's earth should have no time to weaken their souls by senseless worry.

"Worry is an evil. It destroys more than ruin or vice. Worry wastes life. It is as sinful as drinking or gambling. It is a guilty and cowardly thing. It is always a personal weakness.

"The absolute cure for worry is to be as the bird, which flies above the wind blown dust and is therefore not sullied. So we must fly above the worries of the earth."

Get Out the Goods!

To bring simplicity to a complex situation, we adopt the well known and justly celebrated method of Socrates, introducing as disputants the following characters:

GOVERNMENT REPRESENTATIVE, ECONOMIST, UNCLE SAM

ECONOMIST: In buying supplies for the war, the government should establish minimum prices which will bring about the maximum production necessary for the winning of the war. There should be held in mind also the continuation of our internal trade, and, as far as possible, the maintenance of our export trade with neutral nations. But the main thing is to win the war. If I had been in the position of the government when those Missouri lead producers offered to make a price of 8 cents a pound, I should have said to them: "Eight cents a pound is too low. We are going to pay you 12 cents a pound. Now go back to Missouri and scratch every hill for every ounce of lead you can get your hands on. Hire every man you can find; pay the men whatever wages they ask. Get the lead. Lead will win the war. The quicker we get the lead the quicker we will end the war." (Of course you understand I am consciously exaggerating the figures for the sake of emphasis. And I mention lead as merely typical.) Big production and speedy production of supplies is what will win the war. This is the first principle to be borne in mind. The best stimulant for production is prices high enough to bring into profitable operation industries which can not and will not otherwise be carried on.

GOVERNMENT REPRESENTATIVE: But paying such prices will enormously increase the cost of the war. It will make the war unnecessarily expensive; it will make an enormous burden for this generation to pay in taxes and for future generations to pay as interest on bonds.

ECONOMIST: In the first place, what if it does? In the second place, it won't. The first principle is win the war, regardless of cost. Here is the question you must ask yourself all the time: What will most surely bring the war to a quick and successful end? But, as a matter of fact, high prices for supplies within reason of course will not increase the cost of the war. The war costs about $100,000,000 a day, to say nothing of the lives lost. By every day you shorten the war you save $100,000,000. By every day you prolong the war you increase the burden by $100,000,000. Hagglng for lower prices prolongs the war. Paying good prices shortens the war.

GOVERNMENT REPRESENTATIVE: I grant that. But we want to manage this war so as to preserve democracy and equality. Your method will enormously enrich the seller of raw materials and diminish the resources of those who must buy raw materials.

ECONOMIST: You can't preserve all the usual processes of democracy during war. A democracy may, on occasion, employ mechanisms usually associated with autocracy, but the mechanism remains the servant and not the master of the people. War is one of these occasions. While the momentary effect of high prices for war materials may be to swell the profits of corporations which can do good business at lower prices, the country is amply compensated by two things—the increased production which will win the war, and the fact that the excess profits remain to be disposed of in such manner as the people may desire. We have abandoned some of our democracy already. So far as that goes, the class enriched will be very small. It will be confined chiefly to the owners of raw materials. The manufacturers—at least the great bulk of manufacturers who do not own their raw materials—will suffer with the rest of us. But, as I said, what of it? The first thing to do is to win the war.

GOVERNMENT REPRESENTATIVE: But the spectacle of a small group of men growing rich through the war, of a small group of corporations earning huge dividends, will be a public scandal. It will cause discontent and make the war unpopular.

ECONOMIST: You can get a lot of those dividends back through excess-profits taxes. If the payment of high prices gives 100 per cent profit on capital, adopt a graduated excess-profits tax which will get back 75 per cent of the excess. As to the remaining 25 per cent, you can get back a good deal of that too. When it is paid out in dividends to individuals you can get a large percentage of it back through the income tax. Even if what is left constitutes an unduly large profit to the owner of commodities, let that issue rest until we have won the war. It is a matter of domestic politics and economics. We can handle it after the war. Handle it any way you wish. Get after these people with enormous inheritance taxes. Get after them any way you want to, but first win the war.

UNCLE SAM: I have listened to the arguments of both of you, and ask you now to cease talking and draw a definite distinction between phraseology and action. To win this war, industry must be urged forward. Good psychology and good economics both are back of the policy which establishes the minimum price for the maximum production necessary, and takes, through a graduated excess-profits tax, a large portion of the excess profits of the individual or corporation which, on account of the policy that protects the small producer, automatically makes great excess profits. The economists can settle after the war how much this generation should pay by reducing through taxation the national debt, and how much our children should pay. God knows we are fighting for our children, and it will do them good to pay part of the bill. It is useless to talk about preventing inflation. In war time inflation can't be prevented. Every war in history has been accompanied by inflation. Talk about preventing inflation is water over the dam. Inflation is not a thing of the future; it is a thing of the present. Inflation is here now. The government has accepted it and participated in it. One of the first acts of congress after the war began was to issue two billions of bonds, and just now it is in the way of issuing several billions more. That is one kind of inflation. Another official act was to double the wage of private soldiers thus raising it to Canada's level. A more recent act fixed a minimum price of $2 a bushel for next year's wheat crop. The same thing has happened in many other lines without an edict from Washington, and must happen in still others. But, although inflation can not be prevented, it can be kept within bounds. It can be restrained. That is the business of the War Industries board. The government has abundant power to restrain inflation. It holds all the cards. The government has the power to commandeer. It should not commandeer except as a last resort; but if it must, it can. The government can not operate coal mines as well or as cheaply as private owners, but it can operate them. If Washington can conscript men to work in the trenches with risk of death every minute, it can conscript them for the much less arduous and less dangerous work of mining coal.—Collier's.

An Opportunity

The proposition made to the town of Portales by the State Line Utilities Company presents a real opportunity that should not be overlooked by the people of Portales. This proposition, if put into effect, will enable this town to have continuous service, which will make it possible for us to have lights all night and current all day for cooking, ironing, pumping for gardens and truck patches, and many things that can be run by electricity, which, with the present equipment at the plant is and will always be impossible to furnish, at a price that the public can afford to pay. Every citizen of this town should take it upon himself to familiarize himself with the conditions and terms of this proposition. It may be you have some suggestions to offer that will help to solve the problem. The town council invites you to do so; don't be backward. Do it now or forever keep your peace.

Minister (at the shore) I'm so glad I came. I've met so many of my members who I would never meet at church.

Swat the Carnival

The town council is to be commended for refusing to allow the carnival to exhibit in Portales. As a general rule these carnivals are bum attractions and if any town or community ever derived any real benefit from them we have never heard of it, therefore we feel that the citizenry of this community should congratulate themselves having a town council which would, by unanimous vote, refuse to grant a license to an aggregation of this kind.

BERNHARDT YOUNG
EVEN IN OLD AGE

Perhaps the Most Universally Loved Actress.

SHE CRITICIZES AMERICANS

Reproaches the Women Because They Do Not Care Enough For Children
Says War is Going to Awaken the Religious Spirit of France as Nothing Else Could Do.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, who arrived in this country last October for her farewell tour of leading American cities and who underwent a serious operation in New York, proved that she is the most universally loved actress the stage has ever produced. In a recent interview Mme. Bernhardt sipped a glass of milk as she talked.

"I drink only milk now, and I eat only potatoes," she explained smilingly. "That is the way to keep young."

A recent description of her says: Mme. Bernhardt, although seventy-two years old, is most fitted to give the recipe of eternal youth. Her hair is tawny gold. Her eyes, the color of jade, have kept their translucent fire. The queer quicksilver smile that darts all over her face like a scarlet ribbon has the old vividness. She was gay and charming and indomitable. But for the first time a certain wistfulness showed in her effort to please, and she powdered her face and incriminated those smiling lips as she talked.

"Which do you consider the greater weapon—beauty or charm?" I asked Mme. Bernhardt.

"Charm—enormously," she replied. "Charm is genius, the genius of pleasant. If a woman has it it does not matter whether she is ugly or beautiful, twenty or fifty. But charm, unfortunately, is born in us. It cannot be acquired. A child of three may have charm; so may a woman of eighty. Children, in fact, have charm in its most natural aspect, but not all children."

American Women's Failing.

"Do you know," Mme. Bernhardt added, "there is but one thing with which I reproach the American women. It is that you do not care enough for children. You marry for love, and that is splendid, but so many women do not wish for children. What will they have to love when they are fifty? Not a man surely."

"I was a mother at seventeen and a grandmother at forty-two. I pity women who wait till they are twenty-five to become mothers. They deprive themselves of life's greatest joy. They are old women before their daughters are grown up."

The interviewer asked Mme. Bernhardt about the woman who has lost or rejected the stock answers to the great questions of life—the woman who can find in existence neither plan nor purpose and who hesitates to thrust her own doubts and vacillations upon the generation ahead.

"I have no patience with such people," Mme. Sarah answered, with a dramatic shrug. "They ask why we are here. We are here through love. They say, What are we here for? Why, to love each other. They ask, Where are we going? Why, forward, onward, through our children. You Americans do not love enough. I see your men always together, your women always by themselves. The most important thing in life is to love and be loved. And to be loved when one is young, gloriously, completely, sheds a splendor over all of life. It gives golden memories which one may count over and over. And it keeps one young."

Religious Spirit Awakes.

When asked what she thought would be the effect of the war on life in France Mme. Bernhardt replied: "The religious spirit of France has been awakened. After peace is declared the Catholic church will come into its former power and greatness. War has proved the futility and limitations of human sympathy in a great grief that has touched every breast. Religion only can heal the wounds of the spirit and the soul. France will emerge from the war a purified nation with high ideals, and she will become more and more strongly republic."

When Imprisonment For Debt
Was the Law of the Land.

TORTURE FOR ITS VICTIMS.

Poor Wretches Unable to Pay the Trifles They Owed Were Flung Into Prison to Starve to Death Unless Rescued by Charity or Their Creditors.

In the early part of the last century there was started an earnest effort to entirely abolish or at least to regulate the old colony law of imprisonment for debt. The movers in this abolition felt that no class of the community deserved consideration more.

It had been the inhuman rule that for the smallest debt possible to contract, though it were but a cent in value, the body of the debtor, whether man or woman, would be seized by the creditor and cast into jail.

Each year poor wretches had been dragged to prison by thousands on what were truly called "spite actions." Once behind the prison walls they were consigned to a fate harder than that which awaited worse criminals.

Murderers and thieves, forgers and counterfeiters, real criminals of all kinds, were fed, clothed and cared for at the expense of the state, but for the unhappy man whose only offense was his inability to pay a trifling sum of a few cents no such provision was made. The food he ate, the shreds that covered him, the medicine he took—nay, the very rags he wrapped about his sores—were provided, if provided at all, by his friends, by the public or by some humane society.

The room in which he was confined with scores of other offenders was utterly without furniture of any sort. In it were neither beds, nor tables, nor chairs, nor so much as a bench or stool. He sat on the floor, ate off the floor and at night lay to sleep on it like a dog, and this misery he endured until he died or his debt was paid or his creditor released him.

Against this at length humanity revolted, and in 1794 a change for the better was ordered. It was stipulated that the inspector should provide fuel and blankets for such debtors as, by reason of their dire property, could not get them and should make an allowance of 7 cents a day for food and charge this against the creditors. If any creditor refused to pay after ten days' notice his debtor was to be discharged.

For twenty-two years the community seemed to have thought that this mild concession was all that humanity required, for no further change was made until 1814. Then was passed the "bread act," under which each prisoner whose debt did not exceed $15 was entitled to a discharge after an imprisonment of thirty days.

From documents presented to the senate of New York in 1817 it appears that the keeper of the debtors' jail in New York city certified that during 1816 1,984 debtors were confined and that upward of 600 were always in the prison. The sheriff of the county certified that 1,129 were imprisoned for debt under $50, that of these 729 owed less than $25 and that every one of them would have starved to death but for the assistance of the Humane society.

One man remained, it was noted, in the New York jail for three years, who was only indebted to the extent of $50, before death ended his misery and during the entire time was fed by the Humane society. Another unfortunate had been imprisoned six years and was supported by charity. In the face of such striking evidence the legislature of New York state relented and in 1817 forbade the imprisonment of debtors for sums less than $25. This led the way, and state after state followed.

When the new states in the west framed their constitutions they ordered that no one should be imprisoned for debt. The old statute was finally stricken from the laws of the eastern states until today none of our states has a law requiring that a debt is punishable by imprisonment, unless it has been contracted under some fraudulent misrepresentation.—Philadelphia Press.

Despotism as a Government.

Unlimited power is the ideal thing when it is in safe hands. The despotism of heaven is the one absolutely perfect government. An earthly despotism would be the absolutely perfect earthly government if the conditions were the same—namely, the despot the perfectest individual of the human race and his lease of life perpetual. But as a perishable perfect man must die and leave his despotism in the hands of an imperfect successor an earthly despotism is not merely a bad form of government; it is the worst possible.—Mark Twain.

TO OUR CUSTOMERS:

Never before have we approached a changing season with such a satisfactory stock of new items in our Dry Goods and Men's departments. For six weeks our buyers searched New York City for the new and authentic styles in Ladies' Ready-to-Wear and now they are arriving-- jaunty, youthful suits; smart, original coats; witching, graceful dresses. We are enthusiastic about the values as they are priced, and are anxious for you to come in and talk with us about your autumn apparel.

In shoes, we have all grades for every member of the family. We are especially proud of our offering of J. & K. Shoes for Ladies. They are made by expert ladies specialty shoe makers at Cincinnati. Colors are mahogany, blue-grey, white, field mouse, Newport (dark ivory) and bright black kid. You have a choice between the high trim heel and the medium military box heel. It is common knowledge that the price of shoes has advanced, and we are of the opinion that buying cheap shoes to save money is like stopping the clock to save time, however, our early purchases and large stock gives a price for every purse. The fact that we must sell certain imported kid leathers as high as $15.00 does not mean that you cannot buy a substantial shoe, up-to-the-minute in style, for much less money.

Among our school shoes you will find a strong assortment of heavy soled, Stitch-downs, or Scufflers for red-blooded, active, rough and tumble boys and girls. School Shoes that are neat and dressy and still are built solid and will wear.

NOTICE

To the Citizens of Portales:

There will be a mass meeting at the court house Saturday night, September 8th, at 8:00 o'clock for the purpose of having read and discussed the contract between the State Line Utilities Company, of Texico-Farwell, and the Town of Portales. Said contract provides for the State Line Utilities Company to furnish electricity to the Town of Portales, said contract to run for fifteen years and will provide a Twenty-Four Hour, or Continuous Service.

This is your opportunity to get service that means REAL SERVICE. The council has given the subject careful consideration and is convinced that we have a good proposition but desires that every citizen of the town come to this meeting and hear the contract read, and go over it carefully before it is executed. We feel that this is your town and your business and we, as your servants, want you to express yourselves, at least by your presence.

If you find there is anything objectionable or any improvement could be made on the proposition, speak out in the meeting. We want to do the thing that is best. Come out, without fail.

GEO. M. WILLIAMSON, Acting Mayor.

Attest--W. H. BRALEY, Clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jeffus, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Elliott, Hawk Dillard, Lee Reid and Albin Ball of Paris, Texas, were through here this week boosting for the Lamar County Fair, while on their tour visited with the Terry family.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Knoles and family left Wednesday for Pueblo, Colorado, where they will make their future home. The Knoles have lived here for the past two years and have made many friends, who regret to lose them. The young people especially will miss Burl and Misses Mary Lee and Lucia.

Cooking the Rooster To Make Flesh Tender

Hang the dressed fowl up for several days before cooking to soften the fibers, but be careful it does not spoil. Long, slow cooking in moist heat is best for meat that is likely to be tough. The fireless cooker is the best for this. Add one or two tablespoonsful of vinegar to the water to help soften the fibers. If more rooster meat is on hand than can be used at once and if the supply of cans is not short can the surplus meat by the cold pack method for winter use.

Do not always serve boiled rooster; vary the dish. Mix the meat with crumbs, seasoning and eggs and make "rooster loaf," similar to meat loaf. Make croquettes or chicken pie or jellied chicken. Many good recipes can be found, using either gelatin or the chicken aspic to set the stock for this latter. Make a scalloped dish, using chopped meat, rice and gravy. In case the roosters have not yet been killed it is best to separate them from the flock and feed them on a mash of ground oats, bran, shorts and tankage moistened with sour milk. This will help soften the flesh.

Blanching Early Celery.

Blanching with paper is one of the most satisfactory ways of handling early celery. It gives perfect results with the so called "self blanching" varieties, especially during the warm weather of summer and early fall. It is much cheaper and much easier to handle than are boards, and it permits of much closer planting than is possible when the rows are to be banked with earth. The paper comes in rolls and may be used several times. It is held in place by long wire staples like croquet arches, which reach over the row and are pushed down deep into the soil.

Odwyer Dunaway, leaves this week for Abilene, Texas, where he is going to attend school this year.

Mrs. R. V. Cravens and son, Velier, of Wichita Kansas, are here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shapcott.

A NEW CREATION OF SCIENCE AND NATURE

WHEN we announced Bevo recently, our hopes were high. We knew that we had the most unusual soft drink that had ever been offered: A Leverage combining the nutritive extracts of wholesome cereals, the zest of Saazer Hops, a flavor all its own and absolute purity. We knew this because, true to our own ideals, we had experimented for years before we were satisfied to say, "We offer you Bevo—it is a different soft drink—it is good and it is good for you."

High as were our hopes for its reception, we have realized them far and beyond our expectations.

Bevo today is an established popular success. Everywhere the same question is asked—"Have you tried Bevo?"

Now, one final word. We promise you that, in accord with the known principles of Anheuser-Busch and all its products, Bevo not only will forever maintain its present high standard of quality, but as time goes on our great endeavor shall be to make this soft drink even more perfect in every detail of its goodness.

You will find Bevo at inns, restaurants, groceries, department and drug stores, picnic grounds, baseball parks, soda fountains, dining cars and other places where refreshing beverages are sold.

Guard against substitutes. Have the bottle opened in front of you, first seeing that the seal is unbroken and that the crown top bears the Fox.

Save the Alfalfa Leaves.
Two-thirds of the feeding value of the alfalfa plant is in the leaves. If the leaves are lost in curing only one-third of the feeding value remains. This fact is regarded as important by farmers who advocate that alfalfa hay be cured so as to save the leaves. This means that the alfalfa must be raked into windrows before the leaves dry and fall off. Raking can be done two hours after cutting, thus saving the leaves and preserving the green color and desirable flavor.

Practice Clean Milking.
The person who does the milking should have clean hands. He should be healthy in every respect and should never be permitted to milk cows if he has been exposed to any contagious disease. Neither should he be allowed to work about the dairy in any capacity. The milker should always wash his hands before milking.

Two Feeds Daily.
Two feedings a day are sufficient for the cow. Her large capacity will afford ample room.

SICK WIFE'S STORY SURPRISES PORTALES

The following has surprised Portales: A business man's wife suffered from dyspepsia and constipation for years. Although she dieted she was so bloated her clothes would not fit. Because Adler-i-ka empties both large and small intestine it relieves any case constipation, sour stomach or gas and prevents appendicitis. It has quickest action of anything we ever sold. American Trained Man Heads British Navy

Among the most prominent of the men in England brought to the front by the exigencies of war is Sir Eric Campbell Geddes, the new first lord of the admiralty. It is said of him that he owes his advancement in no small degree to the training he received in the school of American railroading. He was born in India of Scottish parents, forty-one years ago, and at the age of seventeen came to America for practical experience. He put in a year at a large steel works in Pittsburgh and then went to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for three years more.

When the war broke out he was engaged in railroading. Earl Kitchener selected him to take charge of the transfer of troops and supplies to France. Later he straightened out France's railroad problem. Last May he was made controller of the navy, with the rank of vice admiral. He was entrusted with the work of reorganizing and administering the entire civil department of the admiralty. Now, as first lord of the admiralty, he is the head of the British navy.

Directions for Making And Packing Sauerkraut

Remove the outer green leaves of the cabbage, quarter the heads and slice off the core from each quarter, then with a sharp knife cut into thin slices. Use four or five gallon crocks for the containers. Pack the shredded cabbage immediately, using a pound of salt to forty pounds of cabbage. Sprinkle a little over each layer as packed. When the crock is full press down as firm as possible. Cover with a cloth and a round clean board.

The salt soon drains the juice from the cabbage, and a weight should be placed on the board to cause the juice or brine to rise above the cover. Some people add a quart of vinegar to twenty-five pounds of cabbage as a preservative. Tie a cloth over the jar and set aside.

In cool weather or if placed in the cellar it will be ready for the table in from two to five weeks, varying with the temperature. If kept in a warm place fermentation may be completed in from ten days to two weeks. As soon as gas bubbles cease to rise remove the cloth and board. Wash board, return to jar and tie up closely.

Mother's Doll Story

The Long Drive

Once upon a time the nursery animals wanted to go to ride in the new toy cart.

"I'll take you!" cried the dapple gray pony. So the other nursery animals piled into the cart, all but Rover, the fuzzy white puppy.

He took the reins alongside the cart and touched the dapple pony with a little switch that he had broken off the pear tree.

"Giddyap!" cried Rover.

But the dapple gray pony would not move an inch. He stood just as still as a toy doll, and the more Rover touched him with the switch the stiffer he stood.

"Maybe I can make him go," said the rag doll. And she jumped out of the new toy cart and ran to the kitchen for a lump of sugar.

"Nice dapple! Nice dapple!" she coaxed, holding the lump of sugar right under the pony's nose.

Dapple sniffed the sugar, licked it, and around and around the nursery he pranced with the animals in the cart. So you see nearly every time a lump of sugar works better than a switch.

Dr. Frederic Jacobson Says 75 Per Cent of Women Need Phosphates To Give Them Strong, Healthy, Rounded Figure and To Avoid Nervous Break Down

Thousands of Women Grow Strong in Nature's Way

"Consider the Lilies of the Field--How They Grow"

The life of the lily is but a few weeks or months. The life of man is "three score years and ten." But to live one's life in its fullness, women, like the lily, must be nourished by those same vital elements which nature provides for nourishing every living thing, and these include the valuable phosphate so often lacking in the usual food we eat today. Argo-Phosphate is rich in these wonderful elements. It contains them in concentrated tablet form which is easy to take and quickly assimilated and absorbed into the system, and from youth to old age, builds and rebuilds body and brain in beautiful harmony with nature's perfect plan. "That's why" Argo-Phosphate makes good solid flesh and muscles.

SPECIAL NOTICE - Argo-Phosphate contains the natural phosphates which thousands of physicians are prescribing daily to build up thin, pale colorless women to give them rosy cheeks, red lips, and a beautiful complexion. Many cases have been reported where women have increased their weight from 15 to 25 pounds with a few weeks treatment, and any woman who desires a well rounded and developed form should secure from her druggist this new drug which is inexpensive and is dispensed by any reliable druggist with or without a doctor's prescription. If your druggist will not supply you send $1.00 to the Argo Laboratories, 10 Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga., and they will send you a two weeks treatment by return mail.

DECIDES NOT TO ENTER THE ARMY

Pollately Refuses Notice to Appear For Examination.

EXEMPTION BOARD MOVIES

Some Are Fighters and Some Are Slackers—Bald Men, Deaf Men and Men With Dependent Mothers—In-law Rub Elbows With Real Men Who Are Anxious to Do Their Duty.

The examining board of Bangor (Me.) conscription district received the following letter from a man notified to appear:

"Thanking you for your favor asking me to report for examination, I wish to say that after careful consideration I have decided not to enter the national army at this time."

W. W. Astor Is Refused.

William Waldorf Astor of New York, who is only a janitor despite his expensive name, appeared before his draft board for examination. The doctors thumped him and looked at him and then shook their heads.

"We can't take you," they said. "You've got a wooden leg."

"Why should a wooden leg keep me from fighting?" demanded William Waldorf. "I want to shoot Germans, not run from them!"

The doctors, however, insisted there was no precedent for drafting a wooden legged man, and William Waldorf went sadly away, convinced that there was a plot against him.

Like a Noble Fighting Bird.

He was a striking looking chap, with a lion's mane of blond hair. His appearance got him past the clerical guards of his draft headquarters and into Deputy Attorney General Conkling's private office.

He took off his hat.

"Am I exempt?" he asked.

Then he took off his hair.

"This I mean," said he. "They told me a few years ago I was too bald for the Dutch army."

"There's a noble fighting bird that's your double," remarked Conkling. "Don't shame him. Good day."

Mother-in-law Dependent.

"I haven't heard of any other case just like mine," averred another information seeker. "You see, I've left my wife, but I still feel I owe something to my mother-in-law. Suppose I was taking care of her—what then?"

The dutiful son-in-law was invited to try it at his peril.

A Test For Ears.

Local board 142, New York, has a corps of medical specialists conducting its examinations.

The eye, ear, nose and throat specialist stood ten feet away from the new batch of registrants.

"Now for the ears," he breathed.

"Those who can't hear fall out."

Four of the ten men fell out.

"We'll try the ears of the other six now," said the specialist. He didn't even smile. He'd been working it all day.

One Who Will Go.

The same board had been getting a high proportion of exemption claims. And then:

"Will they be all white men in my regiment?" rose a querulous voice.

"And can we quit the army and go back to work as soon as the Dutch are licked? Yep? Will I go? Whoop-ee!"

Won't He Look Grand?

"Oh, Julia, won't he be simply grand in a uniform?" The speaker was a young woman standing by the window at First avenue and Sixty-sixth street, New York, where board 133 meets. Her whisper was plainly audible to the registrant, who promptly waived his claims to exemption.

The first young woman was Eva W. Wagner and the second her sister Julia. They are the daughters of William G. Wagner, head of the board, and have given up their vacations to tell just such patriotic fibs.

Here's One Who Is Mad.

Michael Berto is due for trouble and a niche in a trench unless he recovers soon from the vexation that overcame him when he was told by members of Board 137, New York, that his exemption affidavit had been made out wrong. Michael thrashed out of the place declaring roundly that he had wasted enough time, and things were done better in Austria. He left in such haste that he didn't hear the warning that unless the errors were corrected he would be listed as eligible.

Could Catch Cold.

Ten of 200 men called by board 44 of Brooklyn, declared that their eyes pained them frequently and that their sight was exceedingly poor. The physicians asserted, however, that twenty better eyes couldn't be found in seven counties. Another candidate proffered one physical ailment after another until he had confessed to four, none of which could be verified by the examining physicians.

"Well, anyhow," said he, "I catch cold the easiest of any man you ever saw."

The doctors assured him that otherwise he was physically perfect.

ENDLESS CHAIN LETTERS.

The One That Started the Ball Rolling In This Country.

The first of the "endless chain" schemes that have proved such an annoyance to postal officials in all countries was launched on June 27, 1898, by a young girl, Natalie Schenck, of Babylon, N. Y. Her project was purely benevolent and was animated by a spirit of patriotism. Desiring to raise a fund for the aid of American soldiers then fighting Spain, she originated the endless chain idea as an adaptation of a scheme that had a vogue in England until it was stopped by act of parliament.

The "chain" was started with four letters written by Miss Schenck to as many girl friends. Each was asked to contribute 10 cents and write four similar letters to other friends. A few days later the Babylon postoffice began to get busy, and as the days went by the postal officials got busier and busier until they were fairly buried under the weight of mail which descended upon them like an avalanche.

A hurry call went to Washington for extra help, and mail was delivered to Miss Schenck by the truck load. Now that young lady began to feel the effects of the scheme. Her home was littered from cellar to garret with letters, letters and more letters, all containing dimes. Before the thing died out of its own accord she had received more than a quarter of a million dimes.

Fakers all over the world heard of it, and, as fakers will, they immediately got busy. Hundreds of thousands of people were swindled out of money in this manner until the postal authorities put an end to it. The famous endless chain prayer, which threatens endless punishment to any person who breaks it, has been one of the hardest survivors of all—New York World.

adventure, that is the most general motive that makes a young man leave his native place, but whatever the reason, I struck out when I was twenty, landed in New Mexico, and there I've been ever since."

Mr. Walton is a native of Altoona, Pennsylvania, where he spent his boyhood and attended the public schools.

"You know it often happens that boys reach a point where they know more than schools can teach." Mr. Walton's tone was serious and droll. "Yes? Well, when I arrived at that omniscient age (it is always when a fellow is very young) I considered myself fitted for a career in the world, and engaged myself to a newspaper. I was a cub reporter."

"Are there any particularly vivid recollections of those days?"

"One, Mr. Walton laughed, "one recollection that time does not dim. Time can't. It was that supreme moment when I put on a long rubber coat, and fireman's helmet, and sported a permit to go within the fire lines. That was glory enough in itself, but I was always conscious of a bunch of fellows, friends of mine, who watched me with envious eyes, and would give their heads to go too. I think myself, I was somewhat spoiled, because the firemen often took me up on the engine with them (think of it) or on the hook and ladder truck."

"And you've been a newspaper man ever since?"

"More or less," Mr. Walton was explicit. "I edited a small weekly paper of my own for a year in Altoona. But I was diverted from the newspaper career long enough to graduate from the South Jersey institute at Bridgeton. Then I went to New Mexico, to Deming, where I was editor of the Headlight. I studied law and was admitted to the bar of New Mexico two years later. When I went up to Silver City I was still newspaper man. You know there is a well founded tradition that once a fellow gets a smell of printer's ink he can not live without it. It becomes literally the breath of his nostrils. Perhaps that is true of me. At any rate, whereas I am not actively identified with my papers, I'm still a 'holder.' Long ago, I had to give up editorial work to devote myself to my law practice. You know things grow in the west, expand, and you have to progress consistently, you don't jump and rush and chase in and out with inconsiderate speed."

"Perhaps you are thinking of the mad rush of the east?"

"Yes, I am comparing the two methods. Of course, I prefer the more leisurely process of the west. In the east one gets the impression of the money-mad crowds, pushing, rushing, night and day, year in and year out to accumulate money. They shorten their lives, those people in the mad rush, lose their sense of proportion, their sense of values, and a lot of good solid pleasure beside. In Mexico we like to accumulate money, too, but we do it more by progression, than by wild pursuit."

"Hasn't the climate something to do with the difference?" someone asked.

"Undoubtedly! The climate and the magnificent distances—the great heights, the limitless spaces. Unconsciously one takes on another standard for himself, or the old standard perhaps, clarifies in the wonderful air. Now, at Silver City, where I live, we get warm weather, of course, and we say it's hot, as you do here. The recorded temperature may be the same in both places, but what a difference! Why, I wondered what was going to happen to me during that hot spell we had and discovered it was humidity. At home it's high and dry while here it is low and moist. I like the New Mexico habit of 'high and dry' very much better. And, to my way of thinking, that climate is conducive to better, effort, better judgment. Men are broader, more generous in their estimate of things big and little. There is a frank and fair appreciation of real worth, and an indifference to so-called caste that keeps ambitions fresh and undiscouraged. It the great heights at which men live and the wide spaces in which they travel made for broader souls, perhaps that explains it."
