A KNOCKER'S PRAYER

Lord, please don't let this town grow. I've lived here for thirty years and during that time I have fought every public improvement; I've knocked everything and everybody; no firm or individual has established a business, without my doing all I could to put them out of business; I've used every underhand method known to the knocking fraternity to injure their business; I've lied about them and would have stolen from them if I had had the courage; I have done all I could to keep the town from growing; never have I spoken a good word for it, but instead I have knocked it hard and often.

It pains me, O Lord, to see that in spite of my knocking this town is beginning to grow. Some day, I fear, I will be called upon to put down sidewalks in the front part of my property, and who knows but what I will have to help keep up the streets that run by my premises! This, Lord, would be more than I could bear. It would cost me money and I could not afford to pay out any money, though all I have made right here in this town.

Then, too, more people might come if the town begins to grow which would cause me to lose some of my pull. I ask, therefore, to keep this town at a standstill, that I may continue to be chief knocker.

Amen, amen.

NU-MEX OIL CO.
H. B. GUTCHES, General Manager

WHY, WHEN AND WHERE IS AN OIL WELL, ANSWERED

(From Santa Fe New Mexican)
"An oil well," says Mr. Fitch, the western humorist, "is a hole in the ground about a quarter of a mile deep, into which a man may put a small fortune or out of which he may take a big one. And he never knows until the hole is finished. Nothing is as non-committal as an oil well that isn't finished. A sphinx is garrulous beside it. But when it is finished it either goes on being quicker than ever or it begins spouting automobiles, trips to Europe and large nobby mansions in New York. It takes several thousand dollars, some months and a couple of non-committal men in mud-plastered overalls to dig an oil well. They begin by going up about eighty feet. When they have finished their derrick, they hang a drill on it weighing about a half ton. Then the men hitch the drill to an engine and punch a 42 centimeter hole in the earth's crust.

"Sometimes, after they have been punching away for several weeks, the hole blows the derrick into the sky, utterly ruining it. Then the owner shrieks with glee and employs 500 men to catch the spouting oil in barrels. But sometimes the derrick is as good as new when the hole is finished. Then the owner curses and takes the derrick away to some other place which smells oily.

"An oil well with its fancy work on top clutters up the landscape a good deal, but nobody seems to mind. In Bradford, Pa., some of the finest residences in the city are defaced by well derricks in their back yard, but the owner of the house does not tear his hair and mourn because his cucumber vines are getting trampled on. He merely sings a low sweet song on the first of each month and goes down to the safe deposit vault to cut coupons. We would enjoy being a rich man and having an oil well invade our own back yard. We would even consent to be a very poor man and fill our cellar full of petroleum and our pockets full of Liberty Bonds. An industrious oil well is one of the pleasantest companions on earth, even if it does gum up the surroundings a little. It is one of the few things on earth which finds a warm welcome anywhere."

EASY HOW TO SAW LOGS AND CUT DOWN TREES

Only one man, or even a boy, with the improved Ottawa Engine Log Saw can easily cut twenty-five to forty cords a day, and at a cost of less than 2c per cord. This machine, which outdoes all others, has a heavy, cross cut saw driven by a powerful especially designed 4-cycle gasoline engine. It's a fast money-maker for those using it, and does more than ten men could do, either cutting down trees, sawing logs, or burning branches while you rest. When not sawing, the engine can be used for other work requiring power.

The entire machine is mounted on truck wheels to make it easy to move to the trees or logs, and from cut to cut on a log without stopping the engine. For moving on the road, the truck wheels are placed parallel with the skids and the rig hauled straight ahead. The wheels turn on a two-way spindle. You do not have to take them off, but can change direction of wheel travel by merely taking out a pin. The Ottawa can be fitted for sawing down trees. It cuts level with surface of ground, thereby getting all the timber and leaving no stumps sticking up. An automatic friction clutch stops the saw in case of undue resistance. Two men can fall forty to fifty trees a day in ordinary timber. The whole outfit is compact, simple, durable against a lifetime of hard wear. It sells for a low price and is fully guaranteed for reliable operation in the hands of every one who has tried to cut down and logs to work up. Full information and low factory price to you can be had simply by addressing the Ottawa Mfg. Company, 2724 Wood St., Ottawa, Kansas.

PARKER'S HAIR BALM

SEN. MARTIN, VIRGINIA, DEAD

Washington.—The death of Senator Martin of Virginia was announced to the senate by his colleague, Senator Swanson, and the senate as a mark of respect, adjourned immediately, after adopting a resolution providing for a committee of eighteen senators to arrange funeral services.

RESERVATION ON ART. 10

Gore and Reed Still Alone With the Republicans.

Washington.—Squarely joining the issue with President Wilson, the senate adopted a reservation qualifying the obligations of the United States under article ten of the league of nations covenant.

A solid republican line-up, reinforced by four democratic votes, put the reservation across exactly as it came from the foreign relations committee and in virtually the same language which the president declared on his western tour would cut the heart out of the covenant and mean the rejection of the treaty. The vote by which the reservation won was 46 to 32.

The democrats voting with the republicans were Gore and Reed.

Gore Still Votes With G. O. P.

Washington.—The first of the foreign relation committee's foreign reservations to the peace treaty relating to withdrawal from the league of nations, was adopted by the senate.

The vote stood 50 to 35, five democrats joining the republicans who lined up solidly for the proposal. The democrats voting in the affirmative were Gore, Oklahoma; Reed, Missouri; Walsh, Massachusetts; Smith, Georgia, and Chamberlain, Oregon.

If the United States enters the league of nations as proposed by the peace treaty the people of the United States will have the right, through their representatives in congress to give notice of withdrawal. The president of the United States will have nothing whatever to do with it. This is the meaning of the second reservation of the treaty, which the senate adopted.

By a vote of 48 to 40, the senate approved, after all efforts to amend it had failed, the committee's preamble to the reservation group, requiring that to make the treaty binding at least three of the four great powers must accept the senate qualifications. The only republican who did not swing into line for the proposal was Senator McCumber of North Dakota, while three democrats, Senator Reed of Missouri, Gore of Oklahoma, and Walsh of Massachusetts, voted with the majority.

ARMISTICE DAY YEAR AGO

Perahing, Wilson and Baker Issue Statements On Peace.

Washington.—President Wilson General Perahing and Secretary Baker issued statements to the American people on the occasion of the first anniversary of the signing of the armistice.

The president said to Americans the reflections of Armistice day would be filled with solemn pride in the heroism of those who died in the country's service and with gratitude for the victory, both because of "the thing from which it has freed us and because of the opportunity it has given America to show her sympathy with peace and justice in the councils of the nations."

The exercise by the American people of practical patriotism during the war, General Perahing said, was an avowal of their firm adherence to the principles of free government that will continue to have great influence upon the progressive thought throughout the world.

Secretary Baker said that while mourning its dead, the nation was grateful for their achievement and for that of their living brothers and that "in the name of both we may hope for an early accomplishment of the terms of peace that shall complete their work upon the battlefields of France."

Washington.—Mexico will pay no ransom for foreigners kidnapped by Mexican bandits. This position of the Carranza government was announced in a note from Hilario Medina, sub-secretary of state for foreign affairs, to the American charge at Mexico City. In reply to the recent demand of the state department that Mexico omit no effort to effect the release of William O. Jenkins, even though it be necessary for the Mexican government to pay the ransom to the bandits who captured the American consular agent. The text of Medina's note, as published in Mexico City has been received in Washington. It was under date of November 1.

PALMER WARNS UNIONS

That the Government Always Comes First in the Country.

Washington.—Warning was given the United Miners of America by Attorney General Palmer that resolutions of conventions and orders of floors or organizations are not above the law.

Final declaration of the government's policy of dealing with the coal strike was announced by the attorney general while officers of the miners' organization at Indianapolis were struggling with the question of how to answer the court's command to rescind the strike order.

Describing the strike as a violation of a federal statute, Mr. Palmer, speaking with full authority of the government, announced that all the power of the United States would be exerted to enforce the mandate of the court.

Although no reference was made in the attorney general's statement to the pronouncement of organized labor, supporting the miners and demanding withdrawal of injunction proceedings, it was evident that Mr. Palmer had that document in mind, and official Washington accepted his declaration to mean that refusal of the miners to cancel their strike order would mean a fight to the end.

There was no attempt in official or labor circles to conceal the feeling that the situation was grave and getting beyond the question of a coal strike.

HOUSE UNSEATS BERGER

Holds He Is Ineligible On Account of His War Record.

Washington.—Victor L. Berger, Milwaukee socialist, was denied his seat in the house by an overwhelming vote the house holding he was ineligible for membership because of his open opposition to war.

The vote was 309 to 7. Representative Voght, republican, Wisconsin, being the only member to support the Wisconsin socialist either in the debate or on the roll call.

After denying the seat to Berger the house declared that the seat was vacant holding that Joseph P. Carney democrat, who contested Berger's election did not receive a plurality in the election last year. Without a record vote, the house also elected Speaker Gillett to notify the Wisconsin governor of the vacancy in the state delegation so that a special election may be called to choose a new member.

Special Election Will Be Called. Milwaukee.—Gov. E. L. Philip of Wisconsin, when notified of Victor L. Berger's expulsion from congress, announced he would call a special election within a few days to fill the vacancy.

Washington.—The condition of the twelve federal reserve banks at the close of business November 7, was as follows, according to the weekly statement of the federal reserve board: Resources—Total gold held by banks, $801,430,000; Total gold reserves, $2,119,656,000; Total bills on hand, $2,623,075,000; Total earnings assets, $2,923,204,000; Total resources, $6,081,606,000. Liabilities—Total gross deposits, $2,807,688,000; Total liabilities, $6,081,606,000.

COAL STRIKE IS CALLED OFF

MINERS BOW TO THE MANDATE OF FEDERAL JUDGE

WAGE NEGOTIATIONS OPENED

Operators and Union Officials in Conference at Washington with Secretary Wilson, Framing a New Scale.

Washington.—The coal strike has been called off. With the approval by Judge A. B. Anderson in the United States district court at Indianapolis of the text of the recall orders submitted by the United Mine Workers, the tie-up of mines which began November 1, was officially ended.

Having forced the miners to call off the strike, the government set out to help them negotiate a new wage agreement.

On the heels of the announcement that Federal Judge Anderson at Indianapolis had approved the order promulgated by the United Mine Workers of America, rescinding the strike notice, Secretary Wilson invited representatives of the miners and operators from all the fields involved in the walk-out to meet here Friday "for the purpose of negotiating a basis of settlement."

The miners accepted. Mr. Wilson was unofficially advised that the operators would comply with his request. The secretary was assured by operators and miners that they would endeavor faithfully to frame a pay scale that would send the 425,000 strikers back to work willingly and at once.

The secretary of labor will take up his work exactly as it was laid aside two weeks ago, except that no strike threat will hang over the conference. Instead of there being present in the conference representatives of miners and operators only from the central competitive fields embracing the states of Indiana and Illinois, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania, the conference will include miners from all fields involved in the strike, stretching over more than twenty states. Mr. Wilson's action in broadening the scope of the wage negotiations was a surprise to operators but the larger plan of representation was adopted because of the desire of men from other fields to have a voice in the deliberations.

The Local Situation.

McAlester.—News of the decision of the United Mine Workers to abide by the court order restraining the strike, was received unofficially here in the midst of an armistice day celebration and caused little comment or excitement among either operators or miners.

Operators have been expecting this decision, but they said that it would be a week or ten days before any considerable number of the miners will return to work. Many individual miners are aggrieved at the action of their committee, it was said, and the official order calling off the strike is not expected to be followed by a general return of the men to the mines.

It is believed by the operators that the men will begin returning immediately, a few each day, and that it may be two weeks or more before the normal production of the mines is resumed.

The remaining six convicted men, Albert Giles, Joe Fox, John Martin, Alf Banks, Jr., Will Wordlow and Frank Hicks, were sentenced to die on January 2, 1920.

Legion Would Deport Berger.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Deportation of Victor Berger, recently denied a seat in congress, and unseating of Representative Vogt of Wisconsin, who cast the only vote in Berger's favor was recommended to the American Legion convention and was received with tremendous cheering. On motion of the entire Wisconsin delegation the resolution demanding cancellation of Berger's citizenship was unanimously adopted. The resolution was written by Theodore Roosevelt.

LYNCHING FOLLOWS MURDER

ANOTHER I. W. W. OUT BREAK ON WEST COAST

Four Overseas Veterans Murdered and I. W. W. Officer Strung Up By a Mob.

Centralia, Wash.—Four former American soldiers, all overseas veterans, were killed and half a dozen other service men were wounded when Industrial Workers of the World fired on an armistice parade of former soldiers, sailors and marines.

The Industrial Workers of the World fired from roofs of buildings near their hall. After the shooting a mob ransacked the I. W. W. hall, tore down the front of the building and threw furniture into the streets where it was burned.

Following the shooting the outraged soldiers and citizens raided the I. W. W. meeting place and surrounding buildings, seizing several members of the I. W. W. and a quantity of arms and ammunition.

The mob surrounding the Centralia jail succeeded in getting one of the I. W. W.'s arrested, out of the jail and into an automobile, rushing him away before guards could prevent.

The mob took the I. W. W. from jail, escorted him to a point just outside the city limits and hanged him on a bridge on what is known as the old Centralia military road.

The man hanged by the mob was Britt Smith, secretary of the I. W. W. local.

Twenty-two men and one woman were placed in jail here and later four of the prisoners, including the woman, were removed to the Lewis county jail at Chehalis by national guardsmen.

GREAT DAY FOR THE BEARS

Wild Wave of Speculation On Stock Market About Over.

New York.—The bears raided the stock market amidst scenes of indescribable confusion on the floor of the stock exchange last week.

General Motors sold down to 296, a decline of 88 points. Money was tight, the rate jumping from 20 to 25 per cent, and later went to 30 per cent for call loans during the scramble. Great blocks of stock were thrown upon the market but they did not come from any particular quarter. The selling was general throughout the country.

The slump was attributed to the money situation. The federal reserve board issued a statement saying that the situation was serious but not alarming.

The accounts of many speculators who had bought stocks on margins were quickly wiped out. The trading was extremely heavy.

Mexican Petroleum sold at 200, a decline of 37 points. Pierce-Arrow was off 25 points. All issues were carried down in the rush of selling.

The advance in the call money rate to 30 per cent was accompanied by panicky selling of all the high priced securities. The declines ranged from 5 to 60 points. This range has never been exceeded in a day's trading on the exchange before except at the time of the Northern Pacific corner.

The injunction was issued upon the petition of the Narragansett Brewing Company. The sale of four percent beer was immediately resumed by Providence liquor dealers.

THIS WEAK, NERVOUS MOTHER

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sickly most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which added to my weak condition kept me worrying most of the time—and he said if I could not stop that, I could not get well. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my husband wanted me to try it. I took it for a week and felt a little better. I kept it up for three months, and I feel fine and can eat anything now without distress or nervousness."—Mrs. J. WORTHING, 2342 North Taylor St., Philadelphia Pa.

The majority of mothers nowadays overdo, there are so many demands upon their time and strength; the result is invariably a weakened, run-down, nervous condition with headaches, back-ache, irritability and depression—and soon more serious ailments develop. It is at such periods in life that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will restore a normal healthy condition, as it did to Mrs. Worthing.

Music.

The music supervisor was trying to get the children to sing with expression. They were singing an ocean song and she told them that in certain places only the boys would sing. "Their voices are deep like the waters in the ocean," she explained. "Men's voices make you think of oceans—don't they?"

The children agreed that they did. "And now," she smiled encouragingly, "what do women's voices make you think of?"

Silence and then a little hand in the back of the room went up. "Why, of the swimming pool at the Y. M. C. A." a shrill treble piped out.—Exchange.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Adv.

BLACK-DRAUGHT A FAMILY MEDICINE

Some Kind of Stomach Trouble With Cramps and Terrible Pains Made This Oklahoma Man's Life Miserable Until Black-Draught Relieved Him.

Chickasha, Okla.—Mrs. J. W. Walker recently said this: "We use Black-Draught as a family medicine and think it is the only liver medicine made. My husband makes it up and uses it as a tonic as well as a laxative. I use it for headache, sour stomach, a full heavy feeling after meals, which I suppose is indigestion, and it certainly does me a lot of good."

My husband had some kind of stomach trouble—we don't know just what. It would strike him just any time in the day and cramp or pain him just terribly bad. Someone told him how to make a tea of the Black-Draught, which he did. It did him so much good, it removed the cause and cured him. Since then we have praised the Black-Draught to our friends, and gladly do so."

Seventy years of successful use has made Theodor's Black-Draught a standard, household remedy. Every member of the family at times needs the help that Black-Draught can give in cleansing the system and preventing or relieving the troubles that come from constipation, indigestion, lazy liver, etc.

Try Black-Draught. Sold by all druggists.—Adv.

WOLVES OF THE SEA

By RANDALL PARRISH

Haines was evidently reluctant, but rather enough to follow as I lowered myself to the deck, clinging hard to keep my footing on the wet incline. A light spar had lodged here, and by making this a species of bridge, we crept as far as the companion, the door of which was open, and gained a view of the scene below. It was a dismal hole in the dim light, but presented no obstacle to our entrance, and I led the way down the stairs, gripping the rail to keep from falling.

The door of the captain's room gave, but it required our combined efforts to press it open against the volume of water, rushing about within. For a moment my eyes could scarcely recognize the various objects as I clung to the frame of the door and stared blindly about in the gloom. Then slowly they assumed shape and substance. Screwed to the deck, the furniture retained its place, but everything else was jammed in a mass of wreckage, or else floating about in a foot of water, deepening toward the stern. There were two chests in the room, one of which I instantly recognized as that of Roger Fairfax. The sight of this made me oblivious to all else.

"There's the chest we want, Haines," I cried, pointing it out. "Have the lads back the boat up to this port; then come down and help me handle it."

"Yes, sir," his voice trembling, "but— but isn't that a man over there—in the bunk? Good God, sir; look at him!"

The white, ghastly face stared at us, looking like nothing human in that awful twilight. I actually thought it a ghost, until with desperate effort the man lifted himself, clinging with gaunt fingers to the edge of the bunk. Then I knew.

"Sanchez! You! those cowards left you here to die!"

"No one came for me," he answered, choking so the words were scarcely intelligible. "Who are you, and what brought you here?"

"I'll tell you frankly, Captain Sanchez," and I stepped closer. "We risked coming aboard to save that chest—Roger Fairfax's chest—before it went down. This vessel has its back broken, and may slide off into deep water at any minute. We must get you out of here first."

"Get me out?" he laughed hideously. "To hell with your help. I want none of it. I am a dead man now, and the easiest way to end all will be to go down with the ship—'twill be a fit coffin for Black Sanchez. By God! I know you now—Geoffrey Carlyle!"

"Yes, but an enemy no longer." "That is for me to say. I hate your race, your breed. The very sound of your name drives me mad. I accept no rescue from you! Damn you, take your gold and go!"

"But why?" I insisted, shocked at the man's violence. "Is it because I interfered between you and Dorothy Fairfax?"

"That chit; bah, what do I care for her but as a plaything. No, my hate runs deeper than that. How came you here—in the boat stolen from the Namur?"

"No, Captain Sanchez. The day after we left the ship we boarded a schooner found adrift, the crew stricken with cholera, with not a man left alive on deck, or below. She lies yonder now, the Santa Marie—a slaver."

"Merciful God!" and his eyes fairly blazed into mine as he suddenly forced his body upward in the bunk. "The Santa Marie adrift! the crew dead from cholera? And the captain—Paradilla, Francis Paradilla—what of him?"

"He lay alone on a divan in the cabin—dead also."

He tried to speak, but failed, his fingers clawing at his throat. When he finally gained utterance once more it was but a whisper.

"Tell me," he begged, "there was no woman with him?"

"There was no woman," I said gravely, "on deck or in the cabin."

"What mean you by saying that? There was one on board! Don't lie to me! In an hour I am dead—but first tell me the truth. Does the woman live?"

"No, she died before. We found her body in a chest, preserved by some devilish Indian art, richly dressed and decked with jewels."

"English?"

"I judged her so, but with dark hair and eyes. You knew her?"

"In the name of all the fends, yes. And I know her end. He killed her—Paradilla killed her—because she was as false to him as she had been to me. Hell! but it is strange you should be the one to find her—to bring me this tale, Geoffrey Carlyle!"

"Why? What is it to me?"

"You go back to England and tell the duke of Buccleugh how his precious sister died."

"His sister! Good God, you cannot mean that woman was Lady Sara Carlyle!"

"Who should know better than I?" meaningly. "Once I was called in England by Sir John Collinswood."

hatred. I knew it all now, the dimly remembered story coming vividly back to memory. Here then was the ending of the one black stain on the family honor of our race. On this strange coast, three thousand miles from its beginning, the final curtain was being rung down, the drama finished. The story had come to me in whispers from others, never even spoken about by those of our race—a wild, headstrong girl, a secret marriage, a duel in the park, her brother desperately wounded, and then the disappearance of the pair. Ten days later it was known that Sir John Collinswood had defaunted in a large sum—but from that hour England knew him no more. As though the sea had swallowed them both, man and woman disappeared, leaving no trace behind.

The face I gazed dumbly into was drawn and white with pain, yet the thin lips grinned back at me in savage derision.

"You remember, I see," he snarled. "Then out of here, Geoffrey Carlyle. Leave me to die in peace. The gold is there; take it, and my curse upon it. Hurry now—do you hear the bark grate on the rocks; it's near the end."

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Before the Governor.

The sound startled me; I imagined I heard the keel slipping, yet before we had reached the door opening on deck the slight movement ceased. My hand gripped the frightened Haines.

"Tell them in the boat to do as I said; then come back here."

"My God, sir, she's a goin' down." "Not for some minutes yet. There are thousands of pounds in that chest; you've risked life for less many a time. Jump, my man!"

The boat lay in close, bobbing up and down dangerously, yet held firmly beneath the opened port. The box was heavy enough to tax the strength of two men to handle it, but of a size and shape permitting its passage. Sanchez had raised himself again, and clung there to the edge of the bunk watching us.

"Now let down easy, lads," I called. "No, place it amidships; get it even, or you go over. Fix it to ride steady, and stand by—we'll pass a wounded man out to you!"

I stepped across to Sanchez. He saw me coming, and drew back, his ghastly face like a mask.

"No you don't, Carlyle!" he snapped angrily. "Keep your hands off me. So you want me to die with my neck in a noose, do you? I was born a gentleman, and, by God! I'll die like one—and go down with my ship. Get out of here now! You won't? You will, or else die here with me! I'll give you a minute to make your choice."

He left no doubt as to his meaning. From beneath the blanket, the black muzzle of a pistol looked straight into my eyes. The hand holding it was firm, the face fronting me savagely sardonic.

"I'd like to kill you, Carlyle," he hissed hatefully. "By God, I don't know why I shouldn't. Every time I look at you I see her face. If you take a step nearer I pull the trigger—go!"

It was a hard pull back to the Santa Marie. Dorothy greeted me first, and we stood close together at the rail as the men hoisted the chest on deck. She said nothing, asked nothing, but her hands clung to my arm, and whenever I turned toward her our eyes met.

There was a sudden cry forward, and a voice shouted:

"There she goes, buckles! That's the last of the Namur!"

I turned swiftly, my hand grasping her fingers as they clung to the rail. The battered hull slid downward, the deck breaking amidships as the stern splashed into the depths; then that also toppled over, leaving nothing above water except the blunt end of a broken bowsprit, and a tangle of wreckage tossed about on the crest of the waves. I watched breathlessly, unable to utter a sound; I could only think of that stricken man in the cabin, those wild eyes which had threatened me. He was gone now—gone!

I yet held Dorothy's hand tightly clasped in my own, and the depths of her uplifted eyes questioned me.

"We will go aft, dear, and I will tell you the whole story," I said gently. "For now we are homeward bound."

I write these few closing lines a year later in the cabin of the Ocean Spray, a three masted, full to the hatches with a cargo of tobacco, bound for London, and a market. Dorothy is on deck, eagerly watching for the first glimpse of the chalk cliffs of old England. I must join her presently, yet linger below to add these final sentences.

There is, after all, little which needs to be said. The voyage of the Santa Marie north proved uneventful, and, after that first night of storm, the weather held pleasant and the sea fairly smooth. I had some trouble with the men, but nothing serious, as Watkins and Haines held as I did, and the pledge of Dorothy's influence brought courage. I refused to open the chest, believing our safety, and chance of pardon, would depend largely on our handing this over in good faith to the authorities. Watkins and I guarded it night and day until the schooner rounded the cape and came into the Chesapeake. No attempt was made to find quarters below, the entire crew sleeping on deck, Dorothy comfortable on the flag locker.

It was scarcely sunrise, on the fifth day, when we dropped anchor against the current of the James, our sails furled and the red English colors flying from the peak. Two hours later the entire company were in the presence of the governor, where I told my story, gravely listened to, supplemented by the earnest plea of the young woman. I shall never forget that scene, or how breathlessly we awaited the decision of the great man, who so closely watched our faces. They were surely a strange, rough group as they stood thus, hats in hand, waiting to learn their fate, shaggy-haired, unshaven, largely scum of the sea, never before in such presence, shuffling uneasily before his glance, feeling to the full the peril of their position. Their eyes turned to me questioningly.

Opposite us, behind a long table, sat the governor, dignified, austere, his hair powdered and face smoothly shaven; while on either side of him were those of his council, many of the faces stern and unforgiving. But for their gracious reception of Dorothy and their careful attention to her words I should have lost heart. They questioned me shrewdly, although the governor spoke but seldom, and then in a kindly tone of sympathy and understanding. One by one the men were called forward, each in turn compelled to tell briefly the story of his life; and when all was done the eyes of the governor sought those of the council.

"You have all alike heard the tale, gentlemen," he said. "Nothing like it hath ever before been brought before this colony. Would you leave decision to me?"

There was a murmur of assent, as though they were thus gladly relieved of responsibility in so serious a matter. The governor smiled, his kindly eyes surveying us once more; then, with extended hand he bade Dorothy be seated.

"The story is seemingly an honest one," he said slowly, "and these seem have done a great service to the colony. They deserve reward rather than punishment. The fair lady who pleads for them is known to us all and to even question her word is impossible. Unfortunately I have not the power of pardon in cases of piracy, nor authority to free bond slaves, without the approval of the home government; yet will exercise in this case whatsoever of power I possess. For gallant services rendered to the colony, and unselfish devotion to Mistress Dorothy Fairfax, I release Geoffrey Carlyle from servitude pending advice from England; I also grant parole to these seamen, on condition they remain within our jurisdiction until this judgment can be confirmed and full pardons issued. Is this judgment satisfactory, gentlemen?"

The members of the council bowed gravely, without speaking.

"The chest of treasure recovered from the sunken pirate ship," he went on soberly, "will remain unopened until final decision is made. As I understand, Master Carlyle, no one among you has yet seen its contents, or estimated its value?"

"No, your excellency. Beyond doubt it contains the gold stolen from Roger Fairfax; and possibly the result of other robberies at sea."

"The law of England is that a certain percentage of such recovered treasure belongs to the crown, the remainder, its true ownership undetermined, to be fairly divided among those recovering it."

"Yet," spoke up Dorothy quickly, "it must surely be possible to waive all claim in such cases?"

"Certainly; as private property it can be disposed of in any way desired. Was that your thought?"

"A Fairfax always pays his debt," she said proudly, "and this is mine."

There was a moment's silence as though each one present hesitated to speak. She had risen, and yet stood, but with eyes lowered to the floor. Then they were lifted and met mine in all frank honesty.

"There is another debt I owe," she said clearly, "and would pay, your excellency."

"What is that, fair mistress?" She crossed to me, her hand upon my arm.

"To become the wife of Geoffrey Carlyle."

THE END.

Oracles.

As for myself I am turned contractor of hammock netting for the oracles, taking my pay in notes. I throw strings out of the window and they snap them up at once. They sit in the cherry trees hard by and warble. "Hurry up! hurry up!" I never found out before just what they said. But if you will listen you will find that this is what they first say. DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

THE ANGRY RAIN.

"Well," said the King of the Clouds, "my children, the army of raindrops, are very angry."

They're as mad as they can be. Just listen to them!"

Old Nurse Fog listened to them as she rocked the Mist grandchildren to sleep.

"Sleep, my darling little mist ones," she said, "and after you've had a good rest your old nurse will let you play. You can play all day tomorrow."

So she sang the Mist grandchildren to sleep, and they liked her singing, though it was hoarse and sounded as though she had a bad cold and a sore throat.

"Ah," she said, "my little charges are now asleep, so I can talk to you, King of the Clouds. What is it you asked me to do?"

"I asked you to listen to the army of raindrops," said the King of the Clouds. "They're so very angry. They're just tumbling all over each other in anger."

"What is the trouble?" asked Nurse Fog.

"Didn't you hear?" asked the King of the Clouds.

"No," said Nurse Fog. "I was busy singing the children to sleep, or, I should say, the grandchildren."

"The children," began the King of the Clouds, "or, in other words the army of raindrops, or in other words the rain, began to pour down. Some of it went sideways, all of it went partly sideways."

"But a great deal of it went into windows and scattered about on the floors and played with the curtains and had a great deal of fun."

"There was a little girl in bed whose name was Melly. Her window was right by the side of her bed, and the rain began to jump in and play on her head."

"A number of the drops landed on her forehead and they laughed and ran races right over it."

"Well, she woke up and this is the point where the trouble began."

"She felt her head and it was quite damp, and her forehead was wet. Then she noticed that the floor was soaking wet and that the curtains were hanging limp by the windows."

"Gracious," she said, "isn't this the limit? This is too much. Why, it has rained right into my room and right on me and my curtains, and everything."

"Well, that made my children mad. They began to pour harder than ever and to pounce and get in as many windows as they could."

"Of course there were many people who woke up and closed their windows and shut them out. Melly shut them out, too, and opened her window just a little bit of a way at the top so they hadn't room to get in and do any harm."

"She was quite cross, they said, for they watched her, and she scolded hard as she mopped her floor with an old sponge."

"They liked the good sleepers that night, for they could have all the fun they wanted and be just as naughty as could be without being shut out of the rooms."

"But Melly made them mad. It was because of the way she talked. They could hear her from the tiny opening at the top of the window."

"The idea," she said, "the very idea. What do they mean, what does that old rain mean coming in my room and in my window?"

"That was what made my children mad," they said to me.

"Of all the cancelled creatures, she is the most so. We didn't pick out her room alone or her floor or her curtains. But she, the cancelled little thing, spoke about what we had done to her and her room."

"Yes, it made my children angry, my dear angry rain children," said the King of the Clouds.

"I think it was very conceited myself," said old Nurse Fog, "for they weren't paying her any special attention, as she seemed to think."

"Not a bit of it," said the King of the Clouds, "but we often find that sort of conceit, we rain creatures. We often find that each person thinks we're raining just for them or just because they don't like it! There is a lot of conceit in the world, and I don't wonder it made my children angry," ended the King of the Clouds.

We are having some fine weather for saving the fine crops which we have raised.

Quite a number in the county have sowed wheat and rye. John T. Swoope sowed about 40 acres of rye between the rows of his Kaffir corn and it is sure looking fine.

J. H. Johnson is selling his mules and buying mares. That's right Mr. Johnson.

School began on November 10 at Roebuck with much interest. J. W. Slone is teaching.

Brother Wilson, our Christian preacher, is working on his place near Portales. We are afraid we will have to give him up soon.

Roebuck has Sunday School every Sunday and church three times a month. Brother Wilson preaches the 2nd, Brother Quaid the 3rd and Brother Wagon the 4th.

The Roebuck school girls have a new croquet set and are very proud of it.

The little Boggs boy who has tuberculosis of the bone is reported a little better. He has received some nice presents from the Ozark Trails folks.

J. W. Slone sold 3000 bundles of cane to the Wilson ranch for 5c per bundle.

People in this part are talking of not threshing their grain on account of the very low prices quoted.

Mrs. J. W. Slone has been offered $50.00 per ton for her broom corn.

Potato diggers are in demand in these parts. Mrs. J. T. Swoope raised 12 bushels in their little garden spot.

Arch Merriek has his big Kaffir crop hauled in and we are expecting him to fill his place in the Sunday School again. Come on Arch, we miss you folks.

Sister Bertha Little will preach at our school house the 5th Sunday inst.

IN THREE WEEKS GAINS 14 POUNDS

"I Always Bless the Day I Began Taking Tanlac," Says Mrs. Whitney.

"It's the actual truth, I've gained fourteen pounds since I began taking Tanlac three weeks ago, and it's simply wonderful the way this medicine has completely restored me to health in so short a time," was the statement made to a Tanlac representative the other day by Mrs. Lucy Whitney who lives at 945 East 48th St., Los Angeles, Cal. "I was in a miserable run-down condition, and what little strength I had was dwindling away. My appetite left me and the little I ate didn't agree with me. My nerves were all upset. Any little thing out of the ordinary that happened irritated me and at night I would have awful nightmares. For days and weeks at a time I have gone on half the sleep I ought to have had. My housework was a drudge. I could not half do it and several times I thought of giving up entirely. I tried so many different medicines and treatments without relief, and all the time my health was getting worse. Finally I kept running down and getting so weak that I actually weighed only eighty two pounds, and I became alarmed at my condition. "One of my friends, a neighbor, suggested that I try Tanlac, as it had helped her so wonderfully. I was willing to give it a trial—so I told my husband to get me a bottle. To my dying day I'll bless the day I first got this medicine, for it's the finest thing I ever saw and the only medicine that ever did me any good. I began to improve from the very start and have taken only two bottles, but I've actually gained fourteen pounds, and I'm glad to be able to tell you the wonderful good this Tanlac has done for me. I've gotten completely over my nervousness and I can sleep like a child every night. My appetite has come back, and I can eat just anything I want and am gaining in weight every day. My constitution and whole system have been built up and I had no idea such a great change could come over me in so short a while. I just feel so much better that my housework is a pleasure to me."

Tanlac is sold in Portales by Ed J. Neer. adv.

Get the Banking Habit --IT IS WISE

Modern methods of banking are typical of America's democratic way of doing business. Rich and poor alike keep their money in the same bank and the dollar check drawn by the girl clerk in a department store on her small account is honored just as quickly and with as little question as a check drawn by John D. on his own account.

A deposit in a bank is the basis of credit for any man or woman. It establishes a personal relation between the depositor and the bank, which may be of value in many ways to the depositor. If he will ask his banker's advice before investing his savings in numerous schemes which are afloat today seeking to get his money, he will in many instances be saved severe losses.

The banking habit is a good one to cultivate. It raises you in your own estimation and sense of confidence in your ability to do things.

A bank depositor and a home owner are not good material for the Bolshevist and socialistic agitators and herein lies America's safety today.

NO ACCOUNT TOO LARGE FOR SAFETY; NONE TOO SMALL FOR COURTESY.

Long Life and Health Offered to All Who Will Obey a Few Simple But Imperative Rules.

When one has been overworking, under-sleeping, overdrinking, overeating, and under-exercising, germs multiply rapidly because the "white wings" of the human system are too tired to clean them out.

A long illness follows. Some day we will tell the truth in death certificates and reports will be made like this:

"Died after thirty years of over-eating."

"Smothered himself to death. Worked and slept in unventilated rooms."

"Burned out. Slept only six hours a night."

Good health is a luxury we all can enjoy if we are willing to play the game on the long law of averages.

Eat lightly, drink lots of water, breathe fresh air every night and day, get plenty of sleep, keep clean inside and outside, and Father Time will pass you by.—The Fortuna Magazine.

Beyond Description.

What can you do in a case like this? A Newton man took his wife to the ball game and watched the Red Sox win.

During the game he became rather excited and shouted in his wife's ear "Hooray, their pitcher is a hole."

"Your eyes must deceive you, Fred," said his wife. "Only a few minutes ago you told me he was on the mound, and he's still there."—Boston Post.

Author Could Not Help but Be Proud of Compliment Which Was So Palpably Sincere.

A young woman who had spent a few years in the bookkeeping line and who wished a different kind of work, found employment in the book store of a downtown concern.

At the start she naturally was not well acquainted with the usual customers in the magazine department.

But she was there to please, and what she lacked in acquaintanceship she tried to make up in boosting wares.

"Looking for something good to read?" she queried of a man who was "looking around." He replied rather indifferently that he might find something that would interest him.

"Well," she pursued, "there are some good stories in — Monthly this month. At least they interested me. There is one particularly good story by Meredith Nicholson."

"I am glad to hear you say that," replied the customer, with a smile, "because I am Meredith Nicholson."—Indianapolis News.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 23

JESUS CORRECTS JOHN'S NARROWNESS.

LESSON TEXT—Luke 9:46-48. GOLDEN TEXT—Grace be with all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity.—Eph. 6:24. ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Mat. 18:1-25; Mark 9:33-42; 10:13-14. PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus and the Children. JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus the Friend of Children. INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—Hasty and Narrow Judgments. SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—True and False Liberty.

I. Jesus Teaches True Greatness (vv. 46-48).

1. The occasion (v. 46). A contention among the disciples as to who should be the greatest. Jesus had just announced his coming death on the cross, admonishing them to let his sayings sink down into their ears (v. 44). They were disputing among themselves as to who would be the biggest man in the kingdom. The imagination cannot depict a condition where rebuke and teaching were more needed.

2. The method (v. 47). He "took a child and set him by him." Teaching by object is one of the best of methods. In this Jesus showed himself to be the master teacher. Christ was qualified to meet the supreme need of all teaching, namely to know the pupil and to translate knowledge into terms adapted to the comprehension of the pupil. He perceived even the thoughts of the disciples and met their need. When they were conscious of his knowledge of them they were ashamed (Mark 9:34).

3. The teaching (v. 48). (1) "Whoever receiveth this child in my name receiveth me." So completely is Christ identified with those who are childlike in spirit that he regards treatment of them as treatment of himself. (2) "Whoever receiveth me receiveth him that sent me." Christ and the Father are one, therefore whatsoever attitude one has toward Christ he has toward God. Rejection of Christ is rejection of God. (3) "He that is least among you all, the same shall be great." The one who in self-forgetfulness serves takes the lowest place is truly the greatest one. This is the supreme law of Christian discipleship. In Jesus we see the one who was incomparably great identifying himself with humanity.

II. Religious Intolerance—Rebuked (vv. 49, 50).

1. The case cited (v. 50). The disciples saw one casting out devils in Christ's name, but because he refused to follow them they forbade him. This spirit is liable to seize those who are really zealous for Christ. It often expresses itself against those who do not belong to one's particular church or sect. In determining whom we should admit to fellowship two questions only need be asked: (1) Are devils really being cast out? (2) Are they being cast out in the name of Christ? The plain implication of Christ's words in Matthew 7:22, 23 is that one may even cast out devils and be a stranger to the Lord. There is a supernatural work which is not divine, so unless the mighty works are done "in the name" of Christ a Christian should not fellowship the miracle worker.

2. The principle declared (v. 51). "He that is not against us is for us." This truth is positively stated in Luke 11:23. "He that is not with me is against me." When it comes to man's attitude toward Christ there is no neutrality.

III. Resentment Rebuked (vv. 51-56).

1. Farewell to Galilee (v. 51). As the time had come for him to be received up he set his face to go to Jerusalem. The time of his sacrifice was come and Jerusalem was the place where it was to be accomplished.

2. The Samaritans refused to receive him (vv. 52, 53). This refusal was due to the impression that he was going to Jerusalem. Their national prejudices were so strong that they regarded his action as a national insult, therefore refused hospitality to him.

3. James and John vehemently resent this action of the Samaritans (v. 54). They regarded it as an insult to their Lord. Their love was so vital that an affront to the object of their affection was most bitterly resented.

4. The Lord's rebuke (vv. 55, 56). (1) "Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of." He did not minimize the insult or question their motive. He who knew their hearts was aware that they were moved by love for him. He told them, however, that such insults were not to be met by violence. Religious persecutions are always wrong. The spread of truth is not to be by means of material weapons. (2) "For the Son of Man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them."

A Fiction.

That God being good is the author of evil to anyone, that is to be strenuously denied, and not allowed to be sung or said in any well-ordered commonwealth by old or young. Such a fiction is suicidal, ruinous, impious.—Socrates, in Plato's "Republic."

The Law of God.

Wealth is a weak anchor, and glory cannot support a man; this is the law of God, that virtue only is firm, and cannot be shaken by a tempest.—Pythagoras.

A movement set on foot in Cananea recently has as its motive the repairing of the automobile road from Cananea, Mexico, to Naco, Arizona, where it joins the Naco-Bisbee highway. To raise a fund of $3,000 for this purpose the larger companies, business interests and automobile men have been assessed a stated monthly sum by the Cananea chamber of commerce. According to the present proposal, $500 per month is to be raised to be expended upon the highway.

Criticism and Citizenship

It is the plain, public duty of every citizen to criticize proposed government measures believed to be harmful.

Swift & Company is in a better position perhaps, than others, to understand the meat packing business in all its relations to public and private interests, even though the others may have been giving the subject a great deal of sincere attention.

Swift & Company is convinced that interference with its legitimate business function by governmental agencies, however well intentioned, would be an injury to every man, woman and child who wants meat to eat, as well as to those who raise the meat and to those who dress and distribute it.

Maximum service that cannot monopolize because of keen competition and lack of control over sources of supply is furnished at a minimum of profit—a fraction of a cent per pound from all sources.

Therefore Swift & Company is taking every legitimate step of citizenship to prevent such interference.

These advertisements are intended to help you, and to help Congress decide what is best to be done. Mistakes are costly and apt to be harmful in these trying times.

Let us send you a Swift "Dollar."

Another "Bridge of Sighs."

When the American troops invaded the Rhine valley they discovered a bridge that had never been shown on the old maps. It was a huge steel structure which spanned the Rhine not far from the spot where Julius Caesar placed his famous bridge. It was built during the war by the labor of British, French and Russian prisoners.—Boston Post.

KIDNEYS WEAKENING? BETTER LOOK OUT!

Kidney and bladder troubles don't disappear of themselves. They grow upon you, slowly but steadily, undermining your health with deadly certainty, until you fall a victim to incurable disease.

Stop your troubles while there is time. Don't wait until little pains become big aches. Don't trifle with disease. To avoid future suffering begin treatment with GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules now. Take three or four every day until you feel that you are entirely free from pain.

This well-known preparation has been one of the national remedies of Holland for centuries. In 1696 the government of the Netherlands granted a special charter authorizing its sale.

The good housewife of Holland would almost as soon go without food as without her "Real Dutch Drops," as she quaintly calls GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Their use restores strength and is responsible in a great measure for the sturdy, robust health of the Hollanders.

Do not delay. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Take them as directed, and if you are not satisfied with results your druggist will gladly refund your money. Look for the name GOLD MEDAL on the box and accept no other. In sealed boxes, three sizes.

PERFECT HEALTH IS EVERY WOMAN'S BIRTHRIGHT

Houston, Texas.—"I was in a terribly run-down condition of health after a case of ptomaine poisoning, and then the influenza. I could not seem to regain my strength and was really not able to do my household work. I knew I needed a good tonic and builder and remembered how my folks used to regard Dr. Pierce's remedies in my girlhood days, and then I decided to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I am now taking the second bottle and it is doing me a world of good. My strength is returning rapidly and I feel better in every way.

"I am glad indeed to recommend the medicine that is doing me so much good and do not hesitate to give this statement."—Mrs. Gertrude Sell, 2117 Common St.

Beaumont, Texas.—"One of my sisters became quite a sufferer periodically and would have fainting spells. She doctor, but did not improve. Then, three years ago, a friend advised her to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It helped her right away, and she has been in a healthier condition ever since that time.

"I would never hesitate a moment in recommending Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to all young girls who suffer. I have such great confidence in it, seeing how it helped her."—Mrs. Mary E. Brammer, 1970 Harrison Ave.

When a girl becomes a woman, when a woman becomes a mother, when a woman passes through the changes of middle life, are the three periods of life when health and strength are most needed to withstand the pain and distress often caused by severe organic disturbances.

At these critical times women are best fortified by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, an old remedy of proved worth.

The Care of Clothes

Government Home Economics Specialists Give Advice.

Summer Garments Should Be Carefully Packed and Record Made for Ready Reference.

The organdies, palm beach suits, the straw hats and the low shoes have now disappeared from the day-to-day wardrobe. The wise housewife does not let them stay in the overcrowded closet to take up valuable space and brush against the velvets, serges and broadcloths. Neither does she lay them away in any condition they happen to be in after their last appearance. Instead, she puts them away carefully cleaned and treated so the least change possible will come to them, keeping record of what supplies there are and where she puts them in order that she may find them when the occasion arises by simply looking at her desk records. If packed in boxes, a label on each box telling the contents makes the finding of each article an easy matter. Her outline of treatment would be very nearly like the following, according to home economics department of agriculture:

Washable White Clothing.—Washed carefully, no starch added, blued more than usual to avoid a yellow appearance when spring unpacking comes. Hung in a closet reserved for this particular use or folded so that the creases will correspond as far as possible with the folds into which the garment falls in use and laid in a trunk or box.

Washable Colored Clothes.—Washed, unstarched, turned wrong side out and hung in the closet or packed away as were the white garments.

Palm Beach Suits.—Cleaned and put in separate box, carefully folded.

Hats.—How to treat the summer hat depends much upon the material. If of straw, brushing off all dust and packing in a hat box is good treatment. The georgettes and lace hats, if soiled, should be dry cleaned and allowed to air thoroughly before wrapping in tissue paper and storing away in a hat box. Avoid weight which will crush the trimming.

Shoes.—The pumps and oxfords should be cleaned and put away with shoe trees in each one.

Inventory should be simple, of course, but definite, giving a list and storage place of the clothes for each member of the family. This will prove of definite service when next spring's clothing budget requires thought and time.

CORDUROY MAY BE CLEANED

Fabric May Be Washed With Soap Providing It Is Not Rubbed, Squeezed or Ironed.

If you have a corduroy garment on hand you will be interested to know that it is quite possible to have it renovated without having to send it to the dry cleaner or even having to dip it in gasoline yourself. For, according to one of the thrifty leaflets issued by the department of agriculture jointly with the treasury department, "corduroy is a kind of cotton velvet, which may be washed providing it is not rubbed, squeezed or ironed."

Further instruction is given to use a solution of mild soap or, for colors that may streak or fade, a solution of soap bark, which is somewhat milder than any soap. When the garment has been thoroughly washed and rinsed, it should be hung up wet and, if possible, in a way that it will dry in the shape you wish it to remain. For instance a skirt should be dried on a skirt hanger. The brisker the wind in which the garment is dried the better. When thoroughly dry take a clean clothes brush and brush vigorously to raise the nap.

Once you realize that corduroy may be washed you will not be so reticent to make use of a corduroy skirt for your household tasks at which you would usually choose only a tub frock. And in planning your winter wardrobe arrange to have some washable smocks or long pleated blouses of colored cotton to wear with your restored corduroy skirt.

CHIC BLUE TINSELTONE SUIT

The flare peplum on this blue tinseltone suit is edged with a wide band of opossum. The high collar is of the same fur. It is an extremely smart suit for the young school girl.

SHOULD WEAR OWN COLORS

Proper Shades Are Selected by Women Who Study Themselves; Cultivate Artistic Taste.

Finding the colors best suited to you and then adhering to them is an artistic as well as an economic measure. It is economic in that the hues that become you are usually different shades of one color or blended colors. For instance, if blue is your color a blue hat may sometimes be worn with dresses of different shades of the same color.

Time spent in studying color cultivates an artistic sense, and the woman who has found her colors is the one who, when shopping, passes by the most alluring bargain if it is not in the colors that she employs in her clothes. In this way she saves much time and money.

Some very well dressed women have very limited incomes. These women are well dressed because they have studied themselves and have planned their clothes carefully. They know exactly what lines and colors are suitable for them and have been able to employ these essentials in the most effective manner.

Kerchiefs in Pretty Box

Acceptable Present for Most Any Occasion May Be Prepared at Slight Expense.

Half-a-dozen daintily-embroidered, lace-trimmed handkerchiefs, in a pretty box, make a very acceptable present for almost any occasion, and they can be prepared without much trouble and at no great expense.

The handkerchief shown in our sketch is trimmed at the edges with narrow lace, and in one corner initials are worked with pale pink silk, enclosed in a horseshoe composed of tiny pale green leaves.

For the handkerchief box any well-made cardboard box of a suitable size and shape can be utilized. The surface of the lid is all'thly padded with a thin layer of cotton-wool, and then covered with thin white silk, upon which a similar initial to that worked upon the handkerchiefs has been embroidered. The silk should be turned over at the edges and fastened on just inside the lid with a strong adhesive. The inner side of the lid is afterwards lined with silk, and the edges finished off with a pale pink silk cord, which is arranged in three little loops at each of the front corners.

The sides of the box are also covered with white silk, and the interior loosely lined with the same material. Pale pink ribbon strings are sewn in on either side at the bottom of the box to tie over the handkerchiefs and hold them in place.

Parrot Millinery. Every sort of feathered creature save, of course, the bird of paradise and other sorts of plumage that are not permitted in this country, have supplied their plumage abundantly for our hats this season. Parrot feathers in their natural green are seen mingled with butts of black monkey fur on a toque that is strongly suggestive of African jungles. Peacock feathers are likewise used for toques and are, like the parrot feathers, left in their natural colors.

Satin Goes With Gabardine. Satin is smart in combination with gabardine, usually of a like shade rather than a contrasting color, though tones of beige and tan with black satin are rather chic.

HEALTH CRUSADERS FIGHT OFF ILLNESS

Twenty-Five Thousand School Children Just in Modern Tournament for Better Health—Seal Sale Finances Crusade.

The days of chivalry have returned in New Mexico. Through out the schools of the state, there are 25,000 Crusaders who are combating the demons of ill health and preventable disease. They are enrolled in the Modern Health Crusade, conducted by the New Mexico Public Health Association in most of the public and many of the private schools of the state.

The Modern Health Crusade is a system of practical health instruction depending for its success upon the formation of health habits rather than the memorization of mere rules. The child is regularly enrolled as a Crusader and is assigned eleven health chores which must be done daily. If seventy-five per cent are done for two weeks, the child becomes a page in health chivalry; at five weeks, a squire; at ten weeks, a knight; and at fifteen weeks, a knight banneret. Pins and buttons symbolic of success are awarded at the end of the various periods.

Endorsed by the National Educational Association and the state department of education, the Crusade has been widely-adopted in New Mexico. All of the counties except Taos, McKinley and Sierra have pupils enrolled. San Miguel county leads in the point of numbers with 3,678 in rural schools only. Union is second with 2,876 in the rural schools, 500 in Clayton and 250 in Des Moines. In Colfax, there are 820 Crusaders in the rural schools, 764 in Dawson and 766 in Raton; making a total of 2,350 for the county. The city schools of Deming, Clovis, Carlsbad, Artesa, Roswell, Santa Fe, Clayton, Silver City, Lordsburg, Carrizozo, Portales, Socorro, Magdalena, Raton, Dawson, Des Moines and Belen in a special contest.

Chore charts printed in Spanish have been ordered for districts principally Spanish-speaking. The blind children at the New Mexico school for the blind at Alamogordo are also enrolled. The Crusade is financed entirely by the New Mexico Public Health Association from funds received by the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals.

ATHLETES VICTIMS OF TUBERCULOSIS

Many Shining Lights of Ring, Track, Diamond and Air Succumb to Dread Disease Which is No Respector of Persons.

The recent deaths from tuberculosis of a number of athletes, each celebrated for his startling prowess in his chosen field in the world of sport, give proof that the disease is no respecter of persons and are regarded by the medical fraternity as conclusive evidence that eternal vigilance must be exercised if perfect health is to be enjoyed.

Rodnan Law, dare-devil aviator whose death-defying stunts have thrilled hundreds of thousands during the past few years, is among the latest victims of tuberculosis. For years he defied death in every form, yet a few days ago he died after a wasting illness at a hospital in Greenville, S. C.

The list of athletic champions who have recently died of tuberculosis includes "Terry" McGovern, who once wore the crown as a lightweight prize-fighter, "Mike" Murphy, for years trainer of the track and field teams of the University of Pennsylvania and "Cy" Seymour, once the star of the New York National League baseball team, the Giants. Even those who were once physically fit fall victims of the Great White Plague when they permit their resisting power to be lowered.

The New Mexico Public Health Association, engaged in stamping out tuberculosis in the "Sunshine State", must have $80,000 if the work now outlined for 1920 is to be done. It can get that amount only through the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals and public health bonds in the drive between December 1 and 10. As every county and practically every school district is thoroughly organized for the drive, the officials of the association believe the desired goal will be reached.

IN NEW MEXICO RED CROSS SEALS WILL—

Equip forty thousand Modern Health Crusaders. Employ six trained public health nurses. Secure two lecturers for health instruction. Finance campaigns for open air schools, preventorium, clinics and dispensaries, and Build a better citizenship in New Mexico.
