A NEW TABERNAACLE CHURCH FOR PORTALES

We are now raising funds to build a 40x40 building on the "summer and winter" style ad hope to have it completed by the last of June. Our regular state camp meeting will commence on August 3rd and run until the 24th. Those who attended the big tent meeting last August have an idea of the kind it will be. We expect some of our leading preachers and plenty of good singers and music. Everyone is urged to make plans now to attend.

N. R. NICHOLS,
District Presbyter.

Miss Letha Anderson entertained a number of her young friends Wednesday evening of this week. All report a fine time.

Entertains Senior Class

Last Wednesday evening Prof. S. E. Livingston entertained the Seniors of '20 very delightfully at his home with a delicious six o'clock dinner, which he himself prepared.

The class colors, purple and gold, were used with delightfully artistic effects in decorating the dining table, making an appropriate setting for the momentous occasion. The color scheme was also carried throughout the dinner.

The evening was happily spent and it is hoped that the host may always meet with as good success when he entertains. But this we know, that he will not be able to entertain a class that will be more appreciative and grateful of his kindness than were the Seniors of 1920.

Mrs. E. G. Sandefur arrived Tuesday from Albuquerque and will visit for several days with her daughter, Miss Lurline.

Spend Your Vacation on a Farm

Washington, D. C. May 25.—With a shortage of farm labor threatening to be as acute as in 1918, Secretary of Agriculture Meredith has issued an appeal to city men, college students and others who can do so to spend their vacations working on farms, particularly as helpers in the harvest fields.

Reports to the Department from practically every state indicate that the supply of hired farm labor is only about 72 per cent of normal, compared with 84 per cent normal a year ago. Secretary Meredith feels that the situation must be relieved if food production is to be brought to near normal.

J. B. Priddy returned Wednesday from a business trip through north Texas and Oklahoma.

Government To Sell Barb Wire

The War Department has ordered the sale of several thousand tons of barb wire, which is part of the surplus war material. Intended for use on the western front, the early termination of the war found the army with a large surplus supply, which will now be sold at a low price. It may be ordered in lots of one ton or more. A price of $40 per ton has been fixed on it, a price sufficiently low to permit it to be repainted and substituted for galvanized wire, which it is practically impossible to obtain on the market at this time.

Nice Rains Lately

General showers have occurred over the county during the past week and in some parts have received good rains. The farmers are busy planting their various crops and some have quite a little stuff up, which is looking fine. Reports from almost every community in the county are to the effect that everything is doing nicely and a big harvest is expected this fall.

MARION E. DUNLAP

Again the grim monster death has visited our community and taken away one of our most respected and loved citizens, Grandpa Marion E. Dunlap, who died Wednesday, May 19, 1920, at Dunlap, New Mexico, where he was visiting his son, W. O. Dunlap.

Grandpa Dunlap was born near Fayetteville, Georgia, May 7, 1841, and while a child he moved with his parents to Kusa county, Alabama, where he grew up to manhood. He served four years in the Civil war and at the close of the war he returned home and was married September 28, 1865, to Miss Flora Adeline Ingram, who was a devoted Christian wife and who preceded him to the "great beyond" by only four months and four days. To this union there was born six sons and three daughters. The six sons have grown into stalwart men and good citizens and survive him; one daughter, Mrs. Uxor Fugit, survives him.

In January, 1876, he moved to Smith county, Texas, where early in that year he was converted and joined the Methodist Church, of which he was a devoted, consistent member until death. On the day before he was stricken down he said he felt well and wanted to talk continuously of the glorious life of a Christian.

In the latter part of the year 1876 he moved with his family to Western Texas and since that time he has lived in Western Texas and Eastern New Mexico, always commanding the respect and confidence of the community in which he lived.

The writer has known Grandpa Dunlap for forty years and anyone had but to know him to honor and respect him. He was one of the most honorable men. Living as he did in the west and dealing with all classes of men he never had a law-suit in his life. He was a man of the highest character and a lovable Christian citizen.

His Friends

F. T. Burke this week opened up his meat market in the rear of his new building and invites the public to give him a trial when in need of fresh or cured meats. Mr. Burke called the News man by one evening this week and gave him a nice roast for which he has our thanks, and if all his meat is as good as what we got, his patrons will have no "holler" coming.

Raise Salaries of Curry County Teachers

Santa Fe, May 27.—Curry County has pioneered the way in the payment of adequate salaries for school teachers and has taken steps to meet the grave crisis in shortage of teachers which threatens efficient school work in New Mexico next year. The county commissioners, upon the recommendation of the county board of education, has levied the maximum 18 mills for school purposes for the coming year, thus making possible the payment of salaries that will hold efficient men and women in the schools of that county.

From reports reaching the state department of education, other county commissioners are contemplating similar steps as the only way to meet the situation and insure efficient schools throughout the state next year.

E. P. Kuhl remembered the News man with some nice asparagus this week, for which he has our thanks. Donations of this character are always welcome. Mr. Kuhl stated that he sent his brother-in-law in Illinois a few bunches the other day and received a letter from him stating that he enjoyed the candelsticks very much. One bunch he sent contained eleven six-inch tips which weighed one pound and four ounces.

YOUR LIBERTY BOND

The United States Government borrowed money from you to finance the war. You hold the Government's promise to pay you back. This promise is called a Liberty Bond or Victory Note. On this bond is stated the conditions under which the Government borrowed the money from you.

For instance: If you hold a bond of the Third Liberty Loan, it states that on April 15th and October 15th of each year until maturity, you will receive interest on the amount you paid for the bond. Other issues bear other rates of interest and other maturity dates, all of which are clearly stated on the bond.

Now, if you keep your bond until the date when the Government pays you in full for it, you do not need to worry if, in the meantime, the price is low one day or high the next. You and Uncle Sam are living up to your agreement with each other, and neither will lose by it.

On the other hand, if you sell your Liberty Bond now, you will find that the man you sell it to will not give you a dollar for every dollar you paid for it. The price has been brought down because so many people are offering to sell their bonds. If the market is flooded with tomatoes, you can buy them cheap, but if everyone is clamoring for tomatoes and there are few to be had, the price goes up. The same is true of Liberty Bonds. Short-sighted people are dumping them on the market, and wise ones are buying them.

The best advice that can be given to the owner of a Liberty Bond is this: Hold the bond you bought during the war; it is as safe and sound as the United States Government itself.

Buy as many more at the present low rate as you can afford. If you hold them to maturity, you are bound to make the difference between what they sell at now and their face value. You will also receive good interest on your investment.

Hold on to your Liberty Bonds and buy more.

I. R. Greathouse returned Wednesday from a trip through Texas, Alabama, Tennessee, and Arkansas. He will visit with his sons C. H. and C. S. for about two weeks, then go over to Mountainair to spend the early part of the summer.

The Paper Famine

Paper famine is forcing newspapers and periodicals all over the country to reduce size, raise advertising and subscription rates or in many cases quit business altogether. Numerous Sunday papers now sell at ten cents or more. The Ladies' Home Journal sends us its new advertising rate card and you may be interested in seeing what that high-toned monthly charges for its advertising space. The rate is $12 a line or $168 an inch. A full page in colors costs $11,000, and if it is the back cover page it runs up to $15,000. These rates are for one insertion. The Saturday Evening Post is $10 a line, and $10,000 for the last cover page. How many pages would you like at these rates?—The Pathfinder.

Heck Harris returned the first of the week from Clarendon, Texas, where he has been attending college the past term. Mrs. Harris went down for the commencement exercises and returned with him.

Baptist Church Sunday, May 30th

Sunday School at 9:45 A. M.; Preaching at 11:00 A. M. and 7:45 P. M. by pastor. Subject for the morning hour, "The Glory of the Cross in Its Dynamics." Subject at night, "Does God Hear a Sinner's Prayer?" Come out and see and hear for yourself.

J. F. NIX, Pastor.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Last Sunday was a fine day at church. Large crowds were present at both hours. At the morning service Dr. Owens and Pastor Nix gave reports on the convention and their trips to the capital city. Pastor Nix told of stopping off in Arkansas and visiting the place of his birth and the graves of his parents. He had not been there since the death of his parents, which occurred when he was a very small child.

At the evening service Rev. Nix preached to a crowded house on "How Long Halt Ye Between Two Opinions?" At the close of the service one of the most impressive baptismal services was witnessed by the large audience, when nine were baptized.

Rev. J. F. Nix returned from Washington Saturday, where he attended the Southern Baptist Convention. He reports a great meeting and a very profitable trip. Dr. Owens, Rev. Slaughter, and Miss Fonnille attended the convention.

A Profitable Cow

J. M. Teague, who lives northeast of Clovis, visited at the home of his uncle, A. V. Lyles of Fort Sumner, last week. Mr. Teague showed the News man a picture of four calves that were recently born to one cow on the Lyles ranch near Fort Sumner. Mr. Teague says these are all four well formed, healthy calves, and in all his experience in the cattle business this is the first time he has ever known of four calves to be born to a cow at one time and all of them live.—Clovis News.

Elmer Baker, wife and son, of Tulia, Texas, are in the city this week spending a few days in the home of Mr. Baker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Baker. They will leave the first of the week for Hot Springs, this state, where they will spend a few days and then on to California for the summer. These are old timers of Portales and have many friends here who are glad to meet with them again.

J. W. Hays, of Ada, Oklahoma, is in the city this week visiting with his old time friend, W. H. Braley and family. Mr. Hays is a prominent man of Ada, having been in the banking business in that city for a number of years, and we hear it hinted that he is looking for a location and we hope that he will decide to make this his home in the future.

Lonnie Bilberry received a telegram Wednesday of this week from Mrs. John Kidd stating that Mr. Kidd had his leg amputated at a hospital in Dallas, Texas, on that day. It will be remembered that Mr. Kidd received a bad wire cut about six months ago, which was the cause of the trouble.

George Reese, Jr. returned home from Roswell the first of the week, where he had been attending the Military Institute during the past term. This was George's second year at this institute and he won second honors in his class over a large number.

The Boys' Sunday School class of the Methodist Church entertained the Girls' class Monday evening of this week with a moonlight hay ride to the H— Ranch. A most enjoyable evening was spent.

Wesley Morgan came down from Amarillo Sunday to spend the week with his wife, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Mattie J. Baker. They will return to Amarillo Sunday.

Rob Taylor, Clyde Doyal and Frank Murrell returned Saturday from an outing to El Paso and incidentally visited the famous "Auraz, Mexico, while there. They report a fine time.

THE BAND CONCERT

The Portales Band will give their second concert at the Cozy Theater on Thursday evening, June 3rd, and the entire citizenship of Portales and surrounding country should attend if possible and help the boys out. Stopped in Time

Little Willie, who for some months had always ended his evening prayer with "Please send me a baby brother," announced to his mother that he was tired of praying for what he did not get and that he did not believe god had any more little boys to send.

Not long afterwards he was carried into his mother's room very early in the morning to see his twin brothers, who had arrived during the night. Willie looked at the two babies critically and then remarked: "It's a good thing I stopped praying when I did."—Plow and Tractor.

Coming, Going and Gone

We learn that the midwives' union of Chicago has advanced their fee to $20. The pill peddlers of Aurora have boosted their price to $5 a call. The grave diggers at Kewanee have announced a raise from $8 to $10, and not so deep, either. The undertakers of Galesburg advanced their prices 199½ per cent January 1, 1920, with a sliding scale with a monthly "skin." The purgatorial fee has advanced somewhat, and now they get us "coming, going and gone."—Yates City (Ill.) Banner.

Would Be a Joke

Thirty-two undertakers attended a county meeting of undertakers at Streator one day last week. What a joke it would have been for a lot of us to have died off on that day and spoiled their holiday.—Earlville (Ill.) Leader.

Miss Martha Grissom of Kentucky, who has been attending the high school here, is spending a week in Elida before going to Silver City to attend the summer term at the Normal University.

Mrs. N. E. McClasky expects to leave for Denver, Colorado, next Tuesday, the first, to spend the summer, returning September 1st. She has rented her house to Rev. Nichols for three months.

Clyde Wright, of Seattle, Washington, was a visitor in Portales last Sunday, spending a couple of days in the home of his aunt, Mrs. C. L. Carter.

Mrs. Katie Kenady and sister, Miss Sprague, left Monday for a visit with relatives in Illinois and Missouri.

Do you have hail insurance on the crop you are just planting? If not see Helen Lindsey about it.

POOR OUTLOOK FOR NEW BROOM CORN

The following, from an exchange, should be of interest and may be of considerable benefit to our readers, especially the dry farmers:

"As all farmers and growers of broom corn know, a large acreage of wheat has been blown out and the land will necessarily be planted to some other crop, which crop lies to his own choice. We feel obliged to place certain facts before the farmer before he attempts to entertain the thought of broom corn. A farmer isolated on his farm miles from town and hundreds of miles from the great broom corn concentrating points has no way of knowing the true conditions that prevail and which without doubt will govern the price of broom corn for the coming season.

"First we will ask him to consider the fact that there are some 30,000 to 35,000 bales of last year's crop of broom corn left over in Wichita, Kansas, warehouses, where there are some fifteen large broom corn warehouses. This amount of corn is yet unsold and unused by the manufacturers at this late date on account of the large crops during the past few years. In addition to this fact, the new crop of broom corn in south Texas, along the Rio Grande Valley, will be ready for market again in something like 30 to 45 days. Have you stopped to even consider these conditions? Have you considered that in addition to Wichita, Kansas, warehouses there are in Chicago warehouses something like another 20,000 to 30,000 bales of broom corn, unsold, the bulk of this being consigned corn and our farmers now paying the taxes, insurance and storage. Besides these two towns there are the large warehouses in St. Louis, Cincinnati, Boston, Baltimore, and New York, where more large stocks are as yet unsold and unused. As stated, another new crop of broom corn is now about ready in southern Texas. Now, what will be the probable price the grower will be offered in these late broom corn growing districts? We will say that we have it on good authority that Wichita dealers are already talking of prices for corn in our districts next fall around the old ruinous prices of $30 a ton—possibly somewhat upward. But, if they are talking such prices now, when they come out to buy, if there is no demand, it may not reach these figures and we may see a repetition of the old $20 a ton broom corn. We all remember these same conditions. So, it apparently behooves the farmer to absolutely lay off broom corn this season and plant most anything else."

Mrs. Mary E. Palmer of Thomas, New Mexico, is visiting her brother, J. L. Williams. It is the first time they have met in twenty-six years.

To the Public, Friends and Patrons—

I wish to announce that I have recently sold my shoe repairing business to Mr. J. W. Spear, who is well known in and around Portales. Mr. Spear takes charge immediately and will appreciate your business. Mr. Harve Baker, who is a high grade workman, will continue in the service of Mr. Spear and the same good work turned out to you. Retiring from the business now after nine years, I wish to thank the good people of Portales and country for their confidence and patronage, and to also advise that I expect to continue my profession, giving special attention to my Veterinary, Medical and Surgery work. I will office at the same old stand and am at your service. Call me day or night and the very best attention will be given. Office phone 199; residence phone 120.

CITY MARKETS HELP LOWER FOOD COSTS

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

High food prices likely would receive a severe jolt if every city with a population of 100,000 or more would establish a city food terminal for its wholesale trade, the bureau of markets of the United States department of agriculture believes.

All large European cities have such markets and they have proved very helpful in keeping down the cost of food distribution. The cities of this country have been slow in adopting any kind of a unified terminal system. Most of them are getting along as best they can with no plan. All but those of the smallest size usually have several scattered terminals at which food products are unloaded from train, boat or truck. Frequently the wholesale houses are located at some distance from the freight depots. This necessitates loading the products into a truck or wagon, carting them across the city, and unloading them again at the wholesale house.

All these expenses add to the price the consumer eventually pays for his food. A city terminal market eliminates this unnecessary handling and cartage, for under such an arrangement the wholesale district and the terminal are brought together, and the contents of cars or boats are unloaded directly into the wholesale houses.

Delayed Planning Costly.

In recent years both New York and Chicago have worked on the problem of establishing a central terminal market, but the size of those cities makes it a difficult problem and as yet no practical solution has been found. The situation in these cities has awakened some of the smaller municipalities—now growing at an amazing rate—to the value of a unified terminal system, and the necessity of installing one before congestion increases. Los Angeles and Atlanta, through private capital, have been provided with unified terminal markets, and Seattle has a wholesale municipal market. Other cities, in addition to Chicago and New York, which are working on this problem are Indianapolis, Memphis, Tenn., and Washington, D. C.

The idea of a terminal food market is simple. Under the plan which it involves all wholesale houses are built in a locality which is convenient to all transportation lines. It is not necessary or even desirable to have them in the heart of the city, where land values are high. The incoming cargo of food is unloaded directly from the car or boat into a wholesale house and is taken away by retail truck or wagon from the other side of the house. There is no intermediate handling or cartage. Cold-storage plants and auction rooms are also a part of a good terminal food market.

Buying Simplified for Retailer.

This system of food distribution expedites the unloading of cars. Under present terminal conditions unloading is often slow and every week in the year many cars of perishable products spoil before they reach the wholesaler or even get inside the railroad yards. A well-planned city terminal food market has adequate trackage, switches and platforms, which facilitate the unloading of the cars and prevent congestion inside and outside the yards. Quick release of cars is important if crops are to be moved before they perish. Furthermore, the retailer finds his buying simplified when all the food products are concentrated in one place, and the work of the food inspector, too, becomes easier.

The biggest saving in money, however, comes in lessened cartage and less handling and deterioration of the food. Where the wholesale district of a city is remote from transportation lines, the cartage of the food products from the freight house to the wholesaler amounts into hundreds of thousands of dollars every year, all of which is added to the bill the consumer pays. This includes the cost and upkeep of the trucks and wagons and the wages paid the men who load and unload them and drive.

Food Spoilage Costly.

To cartage cost must also be added the loss caused by the deterioration of the food products during the trip. Extremes of temperature can do considerable damage to perishable products in a short trip. The cost of the food which spoils in transportation is added to the cost of the food that is salable when it reaches the retailer and the price the consumer pays goes up another notch.

Farmers who ship on a consignment basis are able to get their remittances quicker under a terminal system than they can where the wholesale district is scattered.

In some cities the food terminals are owned by the municipality, in others they are built by the railroads or by private individuals, but in every instance central food terminals have proved their worth.

The bureau of markets in the United States department of agriculture, has made a study of terminal food markets and is prepared to advise any municipality on the right ways of conducting one.

COUGHING, WEAK AND RUN-DOWN AFTER FLU

Regained flesh and strength quickly, and tells how.

"I nearly died from 'flu' last October, and it left me with a terrible cough. The doctor gave me one bottle of medicine after another, but it did me no good. Went to Charlotte, N. C., and took treatment of a specialist without any permanent benefit.

"I saw Milks Emulsion advertised and started using it. It helped me right from the start. I had no appetite and my stomach was in bad shape. But 12 bottles have straightened me out entirely. I eat anything without distress, my cough is gone, and I have gained back my strength and flesh."—Emma Withers, Box 50, Belmont, N. C.

Don't trifle with a weak, run-down condition. It leaves you open to serious diseases. Get your strength back. Milks Emulsion costs nothing to try. Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whom sickness has weakened, and is a powerful aid in resisting and repairing the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions, and if not satisfied with the results your money will be promptly refunded. Price 50c and $1.50 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Frezzone costs only a few cents.

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin calluses from bottom of feet.

A tiny bottle of "Frezzone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callous. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callous right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!—Adv.

DOUBTFUL WORTH OF PROLIFIC JACK BEAN

Scientists Find Little to Favor West Indian Plant.

In Southern Sections It Has Some Value as Green Manure Crop—Cattle Do Not Make Profitable Gains on Ground Seed.

Savage disciples of Voodoo worship in the American tropics ascribe supernatural powers to the jack bean. These tribesmen plant a row of the seed around their rude gardens in the belief that the plant will punish trespassers. This custom was doubtless brought by negro slaves from Africa, where the very similar sword or fitch bean is thus worshiped. But the bureau of plant industry, United States department of agriculture, fails to support this weird belief concerning the bean. Nor do these scientists find much else to recommend this plant stranger from the West Indies.

The jack bean, it appears from abundant experiments, is a prolific plant. It is not unusual for the seeds in the 14-inch pods of a jack-bean plant to outweigh its own herbage; and the herbage, if cut green, frequently crops at the rate of 16 to 20 tons per acre. This wonderful productivity makes the bean a favorite of the get-rich-quick gentry who seek to introduce a new and marvelous commercial plant. This popularity among unscrupulous promoters accounts in part, at least, for the numerous aliases under which the jack bean is known. "Pearson bean," "wonder bean," "Wataka bean," "Gotani bean," "South American coffee bean," etc., are only a few of the names in which the jack bean has been christened.

It has some value in the south as a green-manure crop, and there is evidence to show that it may be a good silage crop when cut green.

Cattle do not relish the jack bean hay, nor do they make gains upon the ground seed, which product they must be taught to eat.

The bean is eaten by natives of Mexico, but most experimenters describe it as flat and coarse in flavor.

The seed contains a large proportion of a material known as urease, and used in medicines, but the demand for this product is extremely limited. After all, the scientists warn the prospective buyer of "wonder beans" to have a specimen identified, or else confine the first plantings to small areas until the doubtful values of the bean are better established and a better market provided than seems to exist at present.

Easily Passed Examination Although Previously Told Condition Was Hopeless

"I was so bad off with kidney trouble I had to give up my work as engineer," says J. B. Ragless, 210 West 60th Street, Chicago, Ill. "My back gave out completely. It was as weak as if it were broken. Often I tossed and turned the whole night long. I became dizzy and would have to grab the nearest object to keep from falling. At times the kidney secretions hardly passed at all, while again they would be profuse and obliging me to arise times and time again. The urine burned cruelly. I lost twenty-five pounds in weight; and I had taken so many things without relief I became discouraged; in fact, I was told there was no help for me."

"At last I began with Doan's Kidney Pills, and they made a new man of me. It wasn't any time before I was back to normal weight and had passed a life insurance examination without any trouble. Over twelve years have since gone by and my cure is still permanent."

Prayed for Cure Finds it After 10 Years

Food Would Sour and Boil

Teeth Like Chalk

Mr. Herbert M. Gessner writes from his home in Berlin, N. H.:

I had stomach trouble over ten years; kept getting worse. I tried everything for relief but it came back worse than ever. Last fall I got awfully bad; could only eat light loaf bread and tea. In January I got so bad that what I would eat would sour and boil; my teeth would be like chalk. I suffered terribly. I prayed every day for something to cure me. One day I read about EATONIC and told my wife to get me a box at the drug store as I was going to work at 4 p. m. I took one-third of it and began to feel relief; when it was three-fourths gone, I felt fine and when it was used up I had no pains. Wife got me another box but I have felt the pain but twice. I used five tablets out of the new box and I have no more stomach trouble. Now I write to tell you how thankful I am that I heard of EATONIC. I feel like a new man; I eat what I like, drink plenty of water, and it never hurts me at all.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR MAY 30

JONATHAN AND HIS ARMOR-BEARER.

LESSON TEXT—1 Sam. 17:3-8.
GOLDEN TEXT—For the promise is unto you and your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call.—Acts 2:39.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—1 Sam. 17:1-2.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Story of a Brave Prince.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How Two Men Fought an Army to Flight.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Foes and How to Overcome Them.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Value of Initiative in Christian Work.

I. Israel's Reduced Condition (vv. 1-3).

The Philistine oppression had become so terrible that the king had only about 600 men, and they were completely disarmed, except that Saul and Jonathan had each a sword and spear. Least the Israelites should make unto themselves swords and spears the Philistines took from them their smiths; they only left them a file to sharpen their instruments of husbandry. This left them under the necessity of going to the Philistines to have their tools sharpened. Saul himself was in hiding. Because he had presumptuously intruded into the priest's office God rejected him. While in this desperate condition God moved Jonathan to go against the Philistines.

II. Description of the Passageway Between Israel and the Philistines (vv. 4, 5).

Over against the way which Jonathan and his armorbearer had to traverse, on either side lay sharp rocks called Boses and Seneh. The opposing camps were probably three miles apart. It required great effort to scale the cliff. The feat of Jonathan and his armorbearer was one of the most daring ever attempted.

III. Jonathan's Resolution to Go Against the Philistines (vv. 6-10).

1. Jonathan's summons to the young man (v. 6). Here the thought of verse one is resumed, verses two to five being parenthetical. Jonathan did not doubt but that the Lord was leading him. He recognized his covenant relationship with God, and therefore his claim upon him as against the uncircumcised Philistines, asserting that "there is no restraint to the Lord to save by many or by few." God is all-powerful, so with him numbers cut no figure. Whatever he wills for us he can do. One with God is a majority. (Deut. 32:30).

2. The noble response of his armorbearer (v. 7). He was actuated by the same faith and courage as Jonathan and entered heartily into the undertaking. When two agree together as touching anything in the name of Christ it shall be done (Matt. 18:19, 20).

3. Watching for the will of God (vv. 8-10). Doubtless the same Spirit who had moved Jonathan to go had instructed him to watch for the Divine leading. The sign that God would deliver the Philistines into their hands was the invitation for Jonathan and his companion to come up to the Philistines. They did not go forward until the sign of divine leading was given.

IV. Jonathan's Marvelous Victory (vv. 11-16).

Being assured of the divine leading, Jonathan with his armorbearer sprang forward saying that the Lord had delivered the enemy into the hands of Israel. He did not say "into our hands," but "into the hands of Israel." This is a fine touch of humility; it shows that it was zeal for God, not selfish ambition that impelled him to go forth. God interposed by a great earthquake, causing consternation among the Philistines, moving them to destroy each other.

V. Saul's Foolish Behavior (vv. 17-46).

1. His carnal zeal (vv. 17-23). After the Lord had given the victory at the hands of Jonathan, Saul called for the ark of God to be brought, after which he went forth in pursuit of the enemy who had already been routed.

2. His foolish obligation imposed (vv. 24-30). It was that a curse would be upon any one of his soldiers who should stop to eat on that day. Fasting is proper at times, but it was the height of folly to demand strenuous service of his soldiers without the necessary nourishment.

3. His determination to kill Jonathan. Jonathan not having heard this rash oath, partook of the honey as he passed through the woods and was greatly refreshed. When this was reported to Saul he was about to take the life of his own son, who had so gloriously wrought in the deliverance of his people.

Evidence of Things Unseen.

No pure and simple life, true to itself, true to its maker, was ever lived on this earth that was not a voice on God's behalf, however still and small, that did not, in its sincere and real way, declare a hope and a faith which might well be the things unseen.—Alexander

IN BUYING ASPIRIN ALWAYS SAY "BAYER"

Look for the name "Bayer" on tablets, then you need never worry.

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" can be taken safely for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Joint Pains, Neuritis, and Pain generally.

To get quick relief follow carefully the safe and proper directions in each unbroken package of "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin." This package is plainly stamped with the safety "Bayer Cross."

The "Bayer Cross" means the genuine, world-famous Aspirin prescribed by physicians for over eighteen years. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost but a few cents. Drugists also sell larger "Bayer" packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monaceticacidester of Salicylic acid.—Adv.

ACTOR ALSO A PHILOSOPHER

Sir Herbert Tree Put on Record as Author of Two Really Witty Observations.

Appropos of two funny imitations, Sir Herbert Tree once said: "A man never knows what a big fool he is until he sees himself imitated by one." He disliked flattery, and said so in these words: "Flattery makes the great little, and the little great."

In presenting his portrait to a critic, he wrote on the margin: "To the worst of critics and the best of friends." His friend the critic was rather surprised with this curious inscription, and asked Sir Herbert for a little explanation. Tree quickly replied: "When you put more butter into your criticisms, I'll say you are the best of critics and the worst of friends."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to see a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

Strength in Faith.

It is the man or the woman of faith, and hence of courage, who is the master of circumstances, and who makes his or her power felt in the world. It is the man or the woman who lacks faith and who as a consequence is weakened and crippled by fears and forebodings, who is the creature of all passing occurrences.—Exchange.

Genuine Compliment.

"No," said the appreciative listener to the book agent; "I don't want the books. But I'll tell you what I will do. If you'll come around with some phonograph records of your fine talk about 'em, I'll purchase a full set."

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of Those Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Without exception the most exasperating sort of man on earth is he who says: "Oh, yes! I am strongly in favor of a League of Nations, it has always been my dream for the nations to come together into some sort of an association which would prevent wars and promote internal cooperation; it is only the particular League of Nations devised at Paris which I oppose." Anyone would think to hear him that there were an infinitude of equally available Leagues of Nations to choose from and that all one had to do was to ask the shopkeeper to reach down another one of different cut from his shelves since the Paris style didn't suit. But the League is not a paper project; it is a going concern in which four-fifths of the population of the world is already included and whatever amendments may be made in its constitution there is no possibility that the nations will consent to scrap it altogether and build up a new League merely as a stop to factions Senators or cap-tious radical journalists. To oppose the existing League of Nations is to oppose the whole idea of international association so far at least, as the present generation is concerned.—The Independent.

WORLD WAITS ON AMERICA

As has been sharply called to the attention of the Senate by Bernard M. Baruch, former chairman of the War Industries Board, there can be no normality in production and no substantial reduction in living cost until peace is restored to the world, and peace awaits the action of the United States Senate. Hundreds of thousands of Europeans are still under arms, each country fearful and watchful of its neighbor; so long as they are under arms, they may not be employed in productive pursuits, and they will continue under arms until the United States ratifies the peace treaty and lends its guarantee to a status of peace. America will be at peace when a recalcitrant and politics playing Senate forgets partisanship long enough to ratify a constitutional peace, and the passage of no makeshift resolution like the Knox-Porter resolution will suffice.

A wise old farmer says the reason of the present labor shortage is that the men who are now getting too old to work sent their sons to school saying: "Go to school and study hard and get an education, so you won't have to work for a living like I do." And too many of the boys heeded.

"The Bank Where You Feel at Home"

SAYS IT KEPT HIM ON THE PAY ROLL

G. C. James Was Remarkably Built Up After Taking Tanlac

"Nothing kept me on the payroll of the Illinois Meter Co. but Tanlac, for I had already made arrangements to give up my position when I began taking it," says G. C. James, who lives at 1419 Franklin Ave., Springfield, Ill.

"I had suffered from rheumatism and stomach trouble for fifteen years," he continued, "and got in such bad shape I could hardly get about. The rheumatism was especially bad in my legs and sometimes my left leg would swell to twice its normal size. My kidneys were also in such a condition I could seldom get a good night's rest, and so far as eating was concerned—well, before I began taking Tanlac I had not enjoyed a meal in years. I suffered so from indigestion, and I had such dizzy spells I would have to lie down. I became so weak I often gave out completely while at work and they would have to take me home in a car, so it is a wonder I held up at all.

"One day one of the men I work with suggested that I try Tanlac and as long as I live I will praise the day I bought it, for I haven't a trace of rheumatism now and I eat everything set before me without any bad after effects. The dizzy spells are things of the past and my kidneys never bother me any more; every night I sleep like a log and I weigh just thirty-eight pounds more than I did when I began taking Tanlac. I feel twenty years younger and am in perfect health, and there is nothing in the world I would take for the good Tanlac has done me."

Tanlac is sold in Portales by Ed J. Neer.

Mary Fischer, Plaintiff, vs.
T. J. Wilcoxon, May B. Wilcoxon, his wife, and B. Frank Jones, Defendants. No. 1519.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE
Whereas, on the 11th day of March, 1920, in case number 1519, pending in the District Court of the Fifth Judicial District of the State of New Mexico, and in and for the County of Roosevelt, wherein Mary Fischer is plaintiff and T. J. Wilcoxon, May B. Wilcoxon, his wife, and B. Frank Jones are the defendants, plaintiff recovered a judgment on one promissory note and interest coupon notes, and mortgage executed by T. J. Wilcoxon and his wife, May B. Wilcoxon, to the Oklahoma Farm Mortgage Company on the 9th day of July, 1917, and which was assigned by the Oklahoma Farm Mortgage Company on July 14th, 1917, to Mary Fischer, the plaintiff herein the said promissory note with the coupon notes being in the principal sum of $500.00, coupon note in the principal sum of $40.00, with interest thereon at the rate of 10 per cent per annum, and an additional sum of $73.33 as taxes paid by plaintiff on said mortgage premises, together with the mortgage securing said note and coupon notes, also the further sum of $50.00, attorney fees, with 6 per cent interest until paid from date of judgment, together with all cost of suit, and a decree foreclosing said mortgage given for the security of said notes, said mortgage being upon the Northwest Quarter, Section Fifteen, Township One South, Range Thirty-Four East, N. M. P. M., containing 160 acres, with all improvements thereon, decreeing said amounts for which judgment was rendered to be a prior and superior lien on said land and premises in favor of plaintiff and against all of said defendants; that said judgment will amount to the date of sale herein fixed to the total sum of $706.40, besides cost of suit and cost of sale; and

Whereas, Bascom Howard was appointed by the Court in said decree, Special Master, to advertise and sell said property according to law and apply the proceeds in satisfaction of said judgment and costs;

Now therefore, by virtue of said decree as aforesaid and the authority in me vested as such Special Master, I will on the 17th day of June, 1920, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day at the northeast front door of the Court House in the town of Portales, New Mexico, sell said described property at public auction for cash to the highest bidder for the purpose of satisfying said judgment, interest, costs and accruing costs. Witness my hand this 12th day of May, 1920.

The "Z" Has More Than Rated Power

The work delivered by the "Z" Engine goes beyond the horse power rating we place on it. This gives greater value for your money—increased service—longer life.

The "Z" has large inlet and exhaust valves—easily accessible—insure smooth, steady running—complete fuel combustion.

Tight compression in the accurately machined and polished cylinder increases "Z" Engine power—reduces fuel and power losses to minimum. Positive, dependable, Bosch ignition adds to power output—provides hot, powerful sparks—insures quick starting. Complete combustion gives greatest power from each gallon of fuel—prevents formation of carbon—means more power at lower cost.

Other "Z" features are: Runs on kerosene, coal oil, top, as well as gasoline; built in Bosch high tension oscillating magnet; every part interchangeable; clean-cut, efficient design; long-lived endurance. Come in and see this celebrated engine today.

REBELS EXTEND THEIR LINES
CITIES OF MONTEREY, VICTORIA AND ZACATECAS ARE CAPTURED

General Gonzales Not a Candidate For President in the Coming Election.

General Gonzales Not a Candidate For President in the Coming Election. Carranza Still Holding Out Against a Large Rebel Force.

Mexico City.—Occupation of Monterey, Victoria and Zacatecas by the Liberal revolutionary forces is reported at headquarters of General Gonzales.

General Riecent, Davilla, Santosoy, Corona, who have been holding the Monterey region for the Carranza government are believed to be fleeing toward Matamoros with the intention of entering the United States.

A telegram from Alopfe de la Huerza, supreme chief of the revolutionary forces to General Obregon reported that 25,000 men in Sonora, Chihuahua and Sinaloa had joined the movement.

Military forces in Torreon have recognized the Agua Prieta plan, according to General Cesarso Castro.

Gen. Pablo Gonzales

General Gonzales has announced that he will not be a candidate for the presidency.

Pablo Gonzales withdrawal from the contest for the presidency of Mexico was regarded as the best indication that leaders of the de facto government desired to eliminate the danger arising from political rivalry.

The offer by the revolutionists of safe conduct for President Carranza and his official family to Mexico City or a foreign country by way of Vera Cruz, still holds good, leaders of the new military movement declared.

Embodiment Admitted. Topoka.—Confession to the embodiment of $50,000 funds of the Aulne, Kansas State Bank, was made by V. D. Johnson, cashier, according to a statement made by Walter E. Wilson, state bank commissioner.

Pilot Sailors' Bodies Returned. New York.—The navy brought back to the home land the first of its dead. The naval transport Newark, docked at Boston, carried below decks more than 100 sea-dogged sailors.

GERMANY TO PAY 30 MILLION ALLIES MAY ACCEPT BOND ISSUE TO COVER DEBT

French Leave Ruhr Zone—Troops Begin Evacuation of German Cities.

Paris.—It is understood in official circles here that the Anglo-French conference at Hythe decided that the sum which Germany should pay as a reparation would be fixed at 120,000,000 marks gold, (approximately) $30,000,000,000.

It is also understood that it was decided Germany would be permitted to issue bonds covering her indebtedness to the allies, payable in annual installments.

The decisions thus reported have been favorably received in French circles. While the total amount to be paid as a reparation is much lower than the figure France desired, and is still further short of the actual sum declared to be required to restore the devastated regions and pay for other damage, it is pointed out that 66,000,000,000 marks in gold, which is figured as France's share, would be equivalent at the present rate of exchange, to nearly 240,000,000,000 francs in French paper, as this, it is felt, could hardly fall to satisfy French public opinion.

Mayence.—Evacuation of Frankfurt and other German cities of French and Belgian troops has begun. The French and Belgians were protected with machine guns as they withdrew to prevent hostile demonstrations by the Germans.

Both Germans and French officers posted proclamations urging the people to remain calm and refrain from violence.

RELIEVE CAR CONGESTION

Freight Cars Now Moving into the Wheat Country.

Washington.—Efforts to relieve freight congestion are making progress, according to an announcement by the interstate commerce commission.

Simultaneously, a counter movement of cars for loading has been instituted from the middle west to the coal producing areas of the east.

The commission announced that the order of handling equipment would be continued "until a more proper balance of these classes of equipment is obtained," and predicted considerable relief both by providing foods and fuel where needed and by easing the financial strain resulting from the long continued tie-up.

Senate Authorizes Probe of Campaign. Washington.—The senate authorized an investigation of pre-convention campaign expenses and pledges of presidential candidates in the republican and democratic parties.

Dozen Churches Made 14 Bishops. Des Moines.—Fourteen new Methodist Episcopal bishops were voted by the general conference of that church, which with the addition of three missionary bishops will make a total of seventeen, the largest number voted at any of the general conferences.

Imported Meat on Market in Chicago. Chicago.—Chicago, meat center of the world, is eating meat imported from Australia and New Zealand. The price of lamb has been forced down two cents in the Chicago market, packers say, by large importations of frozen lamb from the Antipodes.

126 G. O. P. Contests. Chicago.—The G. O. P. national committee is confronted with 118 contests for seats in the Chicago convention.

Storage Bill Passed. Washington.—The cold storage bill requiring that the date of entry of goods into cold storage be marked on them when they are offered for sale and limiting the period of such storage passed the senate without division and with little debate.

Fort Bliss Losses $800,000 in Fire. El Paso.—Fire in the motor transport corps warehouse at Fort Bliss destroyed two-thirds of the building, causing damage which will reach $800,000.

PROFITEERS GET FINGERS BURNED AND WAVE OF PRICE CUTTING SWEEPS THROUGH CLOTHING TRADE

BANKS APPLY THUMBSCREWS Cuts on Clothing Range From Twenty to Fifty Per Cent in Various Stores—Hidden Stocks Coming To Light.

Chicago.—The wave of price cutting in wearing apparel continues to sweep the country, merchants in many cities and towns announcing reductions in men's and women's clothing, shoes, hats and other articles.

The wave of price cutting is sweeping the country, merchants in many cities and towns announcing reductions in men's and women's clothing, shoes, hats and other articles.

Banking interests in New York also extended their campaign of deflation of credits and high commodity prices, carrying out their pledge to the federal reserve board.

Major General Leonard Wood is leading the field with 145 delegates instructed for him. The credentials committee which meets here May 31 to decide contests and prepare the temporary roll of the convention may make some changes in the list of instructed delegates however, as there are 104 contests pending.

Senator Hiram Johnson of California has an even one hundred instructed delegates and Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, 74. Senator Warren O. Harding of Ohio has 39 votes and Judge Pritchard of North Carolina, 17. Senator Miles Poindexter is expected to get the 14 votes cast by Washington.

GET CARRANZA IS ORDER

Mexican President To Have Personal Guarantees.

Mexico City.—Col. Gabriel Barrios, an Indian chieftain, who is in control of the difficult mountain state of Pueblo, into which President Carranza and his companions are reported to be fleeing for refuge, has offered adherence to the revolutionary plan of Agua Prieta, according to information received from unofficial but reliable sources.

Barrios, it is said, has been ordered to capture Carranza but to give him full personal guarantees.

Dispatches from Tampico say that Gen. Manuel Paez, military governor of Tamaulipas, is organizing a column for pursuit of Carranza.

General Obregon returned to Mexico City after a visit to San Luis Potosi.

A parade in which 30,000 soldiers will take part is being planned for May 24, when the extraordinary session of congress will be opened.

Famous Veteran Ill. Little Rock.—Jonathan Kellogg, 78 years old, adjutant general of the trans-Mississippi department U. C. V., widely known in confederate veteran circles, is ill at a local hospital.

Ranger Bank Closes Doors. Ranger, Texas.—The bank of Ranger, a private, unincorporated bank, owned by Thomas E. Rowland and C. H. Butler of Ardmore, Okla., closed its doors. It has deposits of $206,000.

Soda Fountain Men Arrested. Kansas City, Mo.—Charged with having in their possession five quarts of a beverage material containing 18 1/2 per cent alcohol, William Mathis, tea room manager and Reuben Hadnot, a soda fountain employe, both in the service of a leading department store here were arraigned before United States Commissioner Harry L. Arnold.

Turks Clash With Greeks. Constantinople.—Greek and Turkish troops have clashed about twenty-five miles east of Hhyra, where the Turks are taking the offensive and are apparently massing reinforcements preparatory to further advances against the Greeks.

Woolworth Stores Declare Dividend. Watertown, N. Y.—Stockholders of the F. W. Woolworth Company, which operates a nation-wide chain of five and ten cent stores, have approved a thirty per cent stock dividend and a capital stock increase from $85,000,000 to $112,000,000.

Nine in Arkansas Race For Governor. Ft. Smith, Ark.—Henry Stroup of Paris, while in Ft. Smith announced his candidacy for governor on the democratic ticket. He is the ninth candidate to announce.

MAJORITY IS UNINSTRUCTED G. O. P. CONVENTION MAY RUN "DEJICES WILD"

WOOD LEADS WITH INSTRUCTED DELEGATES BUT HAS ONLY 145 TO JOHNSON'S 100.

Chicago.—Uninstructed delegations and the delegates who will cast their ballot for "favorite sons" will be in the majority at the republican national convention opening here June 8.

The primary system, although in effect, in many states, has failed to develop any outstanding candidate for the party's presidential nomination, for of 913 delegates, already chosen, less than 400 have been instructed and their vote is divided among several candidates.

In the republican convention rules which require a majority to nominate, the successful candidate must obtain at least 493 votes.

Forty-three states and five districts and territories have elected the 913 delegates already chosen.

The remaining 71 of the 984 who will sit in the convention are to be chosen by Oregon, Texas, Vermont, Washington and West Virginia.

Major General Leonard Wood is leading the field with 145 delegates instructed for him. The credentials committee which meets here May 31 to decide contests and prepare the temporary roll of the convention may make some changes in the list of instructed delegates however, as there are 104 contests pending.

SWAMI RAM'S REINCARNATION

By FRANK BLIGHTON

Williams seized the ringed key from the guard's inert fingers and thrust it into the lock. The last barrier swung inward, the soft breeze of the refulgent night kissed his feverish face, and he was blotted out by its protecting curtain.

Jalindra squatted in the corner of the cell from which the American had so miraculously been released, and bent over the prostrate figure of the Mexican who had been on guard in the corridor.

Back and forth on the breast of the soldier, who lay rigidly upon his back, swayed two sinister, menacing points of crimson, and in perfect unison swayed also two others upon the head of the Hindu.

"Wouldst thou have life?" sternly demanded the little brown man of the prostrate figure.

"Si, senior!"

"Then heed well what I shall say," went on the other in cold, precise accents. "If they wake to find Sahib Buck gone, thou, instead of he, will die. So, thou too must depart."

He leaned closer to the man, whose face was distorted with a hideous terror. As the Mexican comprehended the half-friendly attitude of the Hindu, hope struggled with despair in his eyes.

"Tell me, is it true that I, too, am to die with the coming of the sun?"

The Mexican nodded. "But that, senior, is not of my doing, nor is it in my power to save you—unless you flee with El Americano."

"We shall see," crisply returned the Oriental. "Where is it that the killers of men will work their evil powers upon me if I remain?"

"In the yard of the carcel, senior. They will tell you to go, that you are free, and then as you near the gate to pass through it they will fire at your back."

Jitendra pondered a moment, his head inclined a little forward. He was debating what course to pursue. If he attempted to flee now out into the night in this unknown country, his swollen feet would be a terrible handicap. Even with a horse he would almost certainly be seen, overtaken and shot by the soldiers who swarmed through the province of Sinaloa.

Beside, Sahib Buck must have ample time to reach his friends, else what he had done for his preserver would count for nothing.

"Where will the men stand to slay one who bears them no malice?" he queried.

"Does the senior remember how the carcel yard looks?"

"Somewhat."

"The passage through which you were brought to this cell leads to the carcel yard. Directly across on the other side is the gate to the street. The soldiers—"

"How many?"

"Six, senior, and a corporal, make up the firing squad. These will take you to the yard. You will be told that any reasonable request of yours will be granted. It may also be made to appear that you are free to depart. But, if so, be not deceived. You will never pass the gate alive."

"Behind, near the edge of the yard, close to the building and directly over an old drain, the six will stand with rifles ready. As you near the gate you will die by their shots. I have spoken truth, senior, I swear it by the saints."

"What is this drain?—I do not understand."

"A very old, large, round pipe, senior, once used to carry off waste, but now abandoned. You may see the end above the ground on the way to the gate. It is not far from the carcel itself where it comes up through the ground, from there it runs along the yard beneath where the soldiers stand. Senior, I swear I have told you all—will you now not take from me this strange, hideous monster with the flaming eyes, ere I die?"

"One more thing must I know," icily replied the Hindu. "If I should ask of the corporal a cigarette—what then?"

"The officer in command would give it to you."

"Now, listen with care to my words—for on them hang life or death for thee," venomously hissed Jitendra, bending so low that his lips almost touched those of the other man. "I shall ask for that cigarette when I start for the gate. And, if I am given it—not well, it were better for thee that thou wert never born. If I receive it, and thou also obey me in what I shall now require of thee—it shall be life and joy to thee in the years to come. Heed well, therefore, and fail not to obey me in all I shall command of thee."

He whispered a few words in the ear of the prostrate figure.

"That is all," he observed.

"I understand, senior. By the blessed saints, I swear to do as you have asked. Now, may I depart?"

Slowly Jitendra arose and stood before the door. The angry, crimson arms above the breast of the soldier vanished, to reappear near the other two, above the Hindu's turban.

"All men are brothers and their art mine," resumed Jitendra. "To kill is sin. Therefore, and because thou hast promised to do as I have commanded, I bind upon thee the sacred symbols of Vishnu and Siva—that no harm may hereafter come to thee. Loose thy shirt."

The quivering Mexican obeyed. Something cold, clammy, and unexpectably repugnant wrapped itself around him.

"Thus does Siva enfold thee," went on the Oriental. "Never again canst thou offend the gods by causing the death of any living thing." His lithe arm swung itself out in the darkness, and again the shuddering Mexican experienced the sublimity of horror as his hot blood raced through his icy body.

"With Vishnu, too, do I crown thee, brother. Now, if thou do but keep thy promise all will be well with thee. But"—Jitendra paused significantly—"of this also be assured. If I die at sunrise because thou hast lied, the gods Vishnu and Siva die not with me, but live on forever. Whether thou goest, even if it were to the ends of the earth, there Vishnu will pursue thee—and Siva, too, will seek thee out!"

CHAPTER VII.

Jitendra Disappears.

His excellency, Governor General Juan Moreno, scowled blackly into the sleep-heavy countenance of Herbert Hardinge. The two sat in the temporary official headquarters of the provisional government of Sinaloa. It was a little before dawn.

"Your bird has flown, senior," he tersely observed.

"What do you mean?" Hardinge's dismayed face grew gray beneath its reddish tan.

Moreno shrugged his shoulders.

"I have the honor to inform you," punctiliously sneered the irreverent, "that Senor Williams escaped from his cell some time tonight and is still at large. I have given orders that he shall be brought in, dead or alive. My men are searching everywhere for him. We learned of it an hour ago, when the officer of the night changed the guards at the prison."

"Why—it's impossible!" gasped Hardinge. "How did he manage to do it?"

"We do not know. The sentry at the gate was found with his skull crushed and the gate open. Williams was gone. The guard who was on duty in the corridor, and who was personally responsible for the security of the prisoners, is under suspicion, but he cannot be found."

"Did the other prisoner escape also—the one claiming to be a British subject?"

"No. I do not understand why. We found him asleep in the cell. He answers no questions. He will be executed at sunrise, and Williams will be shot wherever found—those are my orders."

Hardinge nodded uneasily.

The escape was a thing he had not counted upon. With El Tigre's owner at large, his plans for seizing the mine might not be so easily carried out. The American government might make representations to Great Britain or Mexico, through diplomatic channels.

Hardinge's position, in that event, would be far from enviable. The little brown man who had been in the cell during his interview with Williams a few hours before might also prove to be an awkward stumbling block. With him gone, there would at least be no confirmatory witness to his threats.

Hardinge rose from his chair.

The first faint shimmer of the dawn was glinting the tops of the hills in the east. The time for the execution was near, and the Englishman determined to observe the removal of, at least, one possible impediment to his future schemes.

"Five million dollars is too big a stake to take any more chances of losing," he muttered as he reached the jail gate. "I might have known that a resolute fighter like Williams would be up to some trick—probably he promised that guard enough pesos to make him rich. If I'd been at all clever I would have seen this thing through myself, even if I had to walk that foul-smelling corridor all night to make sure."

He slipped into the jail yard, heedless of the glorious beauty of the new day, just in time to see the frail figure of the Hindu as he emerged from the building.

Jitendra was curiously calm—the face of Buddha himself could not have been more inscrutable, nor unmoved by fear. He chanted something in a low, clear tone as he passed Hardinge without a look of recognition.

The agent for the United Kingdom Exploration company shivered.

There was a quality in the timbre of that voice suggesting a mysterious, malign presence—a sense of something hovering over and around the place of death, invisible but, nevertheless, very real. The words, too, were disquieting.

If the red slayer think he slays,
Or if the slain think he is slain,
They little know the subtle ways
I keep, and pass, and turn again.

Jitendra paused, waiting meekly for directions. The corporal in command of the squad pointed toward the wall.

"Your sentence has been set aside, senior. There is the path to the street." The prisoner had not been bound.

As the gate of the jail yard swung invitingly open the leering soldiers parted their ranks, resting their rifles on the ground—assuming an air of careless indifference, but, nevertheless, covertly watching the man.

"They're going to give him a key forego," shivered Hardinge. "I guess Moreno's got cold feet on his court-martial sentence—don't want to take chances officially. I wish I hadn't told him yesterday that this fellow claimed to be a British subject. If he should prove a good sprinter and they should miss—"

He chilled and broke off.

Jitendra stepped lightly and without emotion toward the gate, flinging back over his shoulder the innocent smile of a pleased child. Hardinge heard the loud command and saw a soldier start to raise his rifle. He turned away.

A formal execution, with a man defiantly facing the firing squad, was not so unusual as to excite horror when the condemned was a native. But this was the epitome of betrayal—the deliberate, cowardly assassination of a man who has been told that he is free to depart, only to fall, bullet-shattered from behind, at the very verge of his coveted freedom.

La ley fuega is truly Mexican.

"Will you give me a cigarette, sar?" Hardinge whirled.

Jitendra was retracing his steps toward the corporal in command. Murder is murder—but, even in Mexico, it is hard for a murderer to shoot down a pitiful, gaunt, soft-eyed, unsuspecting atom of humanity while appealing to him for a last solace.

The officer sheepishly passed over the materials. Jitendra dexterously rolled the golden-brown tobacco in the wrapper, and, still smiling, reached for the match which was tendered him.

He bowed his thanks and again walked firmly toward the gate. A few feet further on he stooped to ignite the match on the end of the old drain which it projected above the ground. Crouching low, he sheltered the flame with his cupped hands.

The blazing remnant he dropped into the hole. He rose, facing the impatient soldiers, puffing vigorously, then turned and walked a step or two further in the direction of the entrance, still some distance away, which it was never intended he should reach alive.

This time Hardinge knew there would be no delay in the death-dealing volley.

A sound, curiously resembling a hiss, swept along beneath the surface of the ground, almost at the Englishman's feet. It was not unlike the subdued "swish" of a rocket as it hurtles through the air, or the whisper of a serpent beneath a tuft of grass.

The corporal had no time to recover from his surprise. Beneath his feet the earth suddenly upheaved, followed by a roar that mingled with the volley of the firing squad.

ANIMAL OF LOW MENTALITY

Writer Asserts That Stories Crediting Elephant With High Intelligence Are Pure Fiction.

The elephant is a mental pygmy, and his reputation for intelligence is mere fiction, writes Richard L. Garner in the Forum. His sensibilities are dull and all his mental faculties slow and irresolute. Almost every detail of the elephant's conduct indicates an intelligence inferior to that of monkeys, baboons and carnivores.

Native hunters usually use little dogs, wearing wooden bells, while hunting elephants. The dogs can chase the huge beasts wherever they will without even barking at them, and the tinkling of the bell advises the hunter as to the beast's location. A metal bell would alarm and stampede a whole herd of elephants, hence the wooden bell. Hunters track an elephant until they find the elephant dozing, or else surprise him when he passes a certain section, driven by the dog. Sometimes they pour a lot of broken metal at him from an old firelock gun, or else spear him. A single shot is rarely ever fatal, and hunters sometimes trail the beast for a week before finally killing him. No one man would ever think of taking such liberties with a wounded gorilla, chimpanzee or leopard.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

THE HEART OF MIDLOTHIAN

By SIR WALTER SCOTT

Condensation by T. L. Hood of Harvard University

Walter Scott was born in Edinburgh on Aug. 15, 1771. His father was a lawyer, the first of the Scott line to leave the open country for the town.

For a man who wrote such a prodigious amount, Scott was surprisingly late in getting started. He was 34 years old when his first original work appeared. "The Lay of the Last Minstrel." From that moment until his death, on Sept. 21, 1832, he was, with the possible exception of Byron, the most popular writer in English.

When the public seemed to be tiring of his long romances in verse, he turned to novel writing, and in 1814, when he was 43, he came into his career of greatness with "Waverley." For 18 years novel after novel followed in rapid succession, stirring romances of history or colorful tales of Scottish life. They were all published anonymously until the financial disaster of 1825 made it seem wise to reveal the author's name.

Fully a dozen of the Waverley Novels, if not more, might be included in any list of 100 novels, and many loyal lovers of Scott would even then think that one or two more might be added. He was, as Stevenson remarked, "the king of the romances."

"Waverley," "Ivanhoe," "The Heart of Midlothian," and "Kenilworth" are representative of Scott at his best. But "Old Mortality," "Quentin Durward," "The Talisman," "Guy Raffles," "The Fortunes of Nigel," "The Antiquary," "St. Rollox's Well," "Rob Roy," and indeed others have all been ranked as favorites among the innumerable admirers of the romances written by "the Wizard of the North."

The Heart of Midlothian, by many called the finest of the Waverley Novels, was published anonymously in 1818. It takes its name from the Tolbooth, or old city jail, in Edinburgh (pulled down in 1815), the "stone heart" of Midlothian, which reared its ancient front in the very middle of the High street of the city.

On the afternoon of September 8, 1796, Reuben Butler, assistant-master of the school at Libberton, and licensed minister of the gospel, found himself in unexpected trouble. First of all, he had become entangled with the crowd of good citizens of Edinburgh in the Grassmarket, murmuring at the postponement of the execution of Captain John Porteous of the City Guard. They were still in the heat of anger from the events of the preceding day, when Porteous had ordered his men to fire, and had fired himself upon the crowd, some of whom were attempting to cut down the body of "Scotch" Wilson, the famous smuggler. Several innocent citizens had been killed. Now that the chief offender seemed likely to escape, there was no knowing what the mob might do. The quiet young pedagogue would gladly have returned to Libberton. Then, to his consternation, he learned that Effie Deans, the younger and more charming sister of his sweetheart Jeanie Deans, was imprisoned in the Tolbooth.

When he had last seen Effie, more than a year before, she had been a beautiful and blooming girl, the lily of Saint Leonard's. Many a traveler past her father's cottage had stopped his horse on the eve of entering Edinburgh, to gaze at her as she straddled by him, with her milk-pail slung on her head, bearing herself so erect, and stepping so light and free under her burden that it seemed rather an ornament than an encumbrance. Now the poor girl, scarce eighteen years of age, lay in the Tolbooth, charged with child-murder.

The facts were that after working for a time in a shop in Edinburgh, the unhappy prisoner had disappeared for the space of a week, and then made her appearance before her sister at Saint Leonard's in a state that had rendered Jeanie only too certain of her misfortune. But to all questions she had remained mute as the grave, until the officers of justice had come to apprehend her.

Before Reuben Butler could see her, the Tolbooth was closed; and before he could escape from the city a crowd of rioters compelled him to return with them to the jail and administer the last rites to Porteous, whom they dragged forth to death.

The leader of the mob, a young man disguised in woman's clothes, seized a moment in the midst of the turmoil in the jail to beg Effie to escape. "For God's sake—for your own sake—for my sake—flee, or they'll take your life," was all that he had time to say.

The girl gazed after him for a moment, and then, faintly muttering, "Better tyme life, since tint is gude fame," she sunk her head upon her hand, and remained, seemingly, as unconscious as a statue, of the noise and tumult which passed around her.

In the morning, on his way to see Jeanie and her father at Saint Leonard's, Butler encountered in the King's park a young man of noble bearing, but strangely agitated, who bade him

"tell Jeanie Deans that, when the moon rises, I shall expect to meet her at Nicol Muschat's Cairn, beneath Saint Anthony's chapel."

After attempting in vain to induce Jeanie to explain the message, he returned to visit Effie again, in the Tolbooth, only to be compelled, on his arrival there, to tell the whole story, lest he be convicted of guilt in the Porteous affair. And then he was sent home, under bail not to leave Libberton, nor to communicate with any member of the family of Effie Deans.

But if his experiences were to him incomprehensible they were by no means so to the authorities. By piecing together his testimony with those of others, they rightly determined that the stranger in the King's park, the leader of the Porteous mob, and the father of Effie's child were one and the same person; namely, Geordie Robertson, comrade of Wilson the smuggler, and but lately escaped from the very prison in which Effie Deans was now confined. Accordingly, they planned to capture him that night at Muschat's Cairn. But before they could reach that place, Robertson had time to beg Jeanie to save her sister at the trial by testifying that Effie had disclosed to her her condition. Then he escaped.

Merely that slight falsehood would have removed the case of Effie Deans from under the letter of the cruel Scotch statute. But Jeanie, steadfastly, devoutly truthful, was utterly unable to placate her conscience in bearing false witness. Nor could the disappointment of Effie herself, whom she was at last permitted to visit in the strong-room of the prison, alter her resolution. "He wanted that I should be mansworn," she said. "I told him that I daurna swear to an untruth."

At the trial, when Jeanie was brought in to testify, Effie, in human weakness, cried, "O Jeanie, Jeanie, save me!" But when the solemn oath—"the truth to tell, and no truth to conceal, as far as she knew or was asked," was administered "in the name of God, and as the witness should answer to God at the great day of judgment," Jeanie, educated in deep reverence for the name of the deity, was elevated above all considerations save those which she could, with a clear conscience, call Him to witness. And when the advocate came at length to the point of asking her, "what your sister said alled her when you inquired?" Jeanie could only answer, "nothing." When the sentence was pronounced by the doomsman, Effie's own eyes were the only dry ones in the court. "God forgive ye, my lords," she said, "and dinna be angry wi' me for wishin' it—we a' need forgiveness."

The next morning found Jeanie Deans travelling alone and afoot on the long road to London "to see the Queen's face that gives grace," and beg for her sister's pardon. Her tartan screen served all the purposes of a riding habit, and of an umbrella; a small bundle contained such changes of linen as were absolutely necessary. She had a few guineas, and a letter from Reuben Butler to the Duke of Argyle, whose grandfather had been under obligations of the deepest to the famous Bible Butler, grandfather of the poor assistant-schoolmaster, now sick at Libberton.

She passed luckily, on the whole, through so weary and dangerous a journey, and at length, through the intercession of the duke, secured the pardon which she sought.

Before she reached Scotland again, Effie had eloped with her lover, who was in reality George Stanton, son of an English nobleman. The sisters, who had last met when Effie was sitting on the bench of the condemned, did not meet again for many years, though Lady Stanton wrote sometimes to Jeanie—now Mrs. Butler, wife of Mr. Reuben Butler, pastor of Knockartie.

Finally, by chance, Sir George learned that Meg Murdockson, who had attended Effie in her illness, had not murdered the child, as they had always supposed. He traced the boy to a certain troop of vagabonds, of which Black Donald was the chief. In an affray with Black Donald's men, Sir George was shot by a young lad called "the Whistler," who proved to be the lost son. The lad disappeared, and escaped to America. Lady Stanton, overcome by the tragedy, after vain efforts to drown her grief in society, retired to a convent in France. Although she took no vows, she remained there until her death. But her influence at court accomplished much for the children of her sister Jeanie, who lived happily on in the good parish with which the bounty of the Duke of Argyle had provided her husband.

The Heart of Midlothian is notable for having rather fewer important characters, a smaller variety of incidents, and less description of scenery than most of Scott's novels. One of the most remarkable scenes in all fiction is the meeting of the two sisters in prison under the eyes of the jailer Ratcliffe. The interview of Jeanie with Queen Caroline is also most noteworthy. There is much humor at the expense of the Cameronian wing of the Presbyterian faith in Scotland. In this work also appears the strange character of Midge Wildfire, daughter of the old croon, Meg Murdockson. Into her mouth is put the famous song, "Proud Malsie is in the wood."

CALOMEL HORROR TOLD BY DODSON

You Don't Need to Sicken, Grip or Salivate Yourself to Start Liver.

You're bilious, sluggish, constipated. You feel headachy, your stomach may be sour, your breath bad, your skin sallow and you believe you need vile, dangerous calomel to start liver and bowels.

Here's my guarantee! Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic and take a spoonful tonight. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel and without griping or making you sick I want you to go back to the store and get your money.

Take calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak and sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day. Take a spoonful of harmless, vegetable Dodson's Liver Tonic tonight and wake up feeling splendid. It is perfectly harmless, so give it to your children any time. It can't salivate.—Adv.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY

Extraordinary Curative Power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I want to let you know what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I had organic troubles and am going through the Change of Life. I was taken with a pain in my side and a bad headache. I could not lie down, could not eat or sleep. I suffered something terrible and the doctor's medicine did me no good at all—my pains got worse instead of better. I began taking the Vegetable Compound and felt a change from the first. Now I feel fine and advise any one going through the Change of Life to try it, for it cured me after I had given up all hopes of getting better. You can publish this and I will tell any one who writes to me the good it has done me."—Mrs. MARGARET DAVIS, 743 N. 25th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who will continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

Meeting the Demand

Meeting the demand for more efficient telephone service is just as difficult as meeting the demand on any other public concern--whether it be an over-crowded grocery store, a popular ticket window, a bargain counter or anything else where supply is running short.

Conditions are unusual throughout the entire manufacturing, mercantile and domestic world. Deficiencies in telephone service which have been quite obvious for some time are directly due to these abnormal conditions.

Materials are scarce--manufacturers are not able to meet the demand--telephone supplies cannot be had--the war diverted all activities in other directions, and they are just beginning to come back. Until the normal level is struck, there is bound to be shortage of supplies and this means unavoidable deficiencies.

The telephone service is probably no better or no worse than the general average of the business and domestic routine.

The telephone management is in a vigorous campaign to get its service back to the old standard of speed and accuracy. Patience and co-operation on the part of the public will greatly aid in bringing about mutual satisfaction.

Charles W. Carroll, Box No. 175, says: "My kidneys got out of order about three years ago and caused me a heap of trouble. My back was so lame and weak, I could hardly bend over. My kidneys were in bad shape and caused me much annoyance. I felt tired out and had no ambition. Mornings, I felt unrefreshed. A friend recommended Doan's Kidney Pills and I got some at Neer's Drug Store. About four boxes of Doan's cured me, fixing me up in A-1 shape."
