If we are to bring order out of chaos, peace out of conflict, brotherhood out of clash of class and group, we must return in humble spirit to the Bethlehem manger, to the Nazareth shop, to the market place, the seashore or the mountainside, where the message of Jesus was spoken to the hearts of men.

Jesus believed in man. It is well to emphasize this fact in an age of cynicism. There was no room for despair in His philosophy. He came into a world where force and fraud and oppression prevailed, and to the hour of His triumphant death He never doubted that love and justice and freedom were possible in human re-

Jesus believed in man as a potential Son of God. His ideal for society contemplated the emancipation of man from the control of material things. Mammon should not rule; there should be no occasion for anxious thought concerning any need of the body; the spiritual nature of man should be free to realize its highest destiny.

In the program that He worked out as He toiled at the bench He planned that service should be the motive and cooperation the method in human industry. We have substituted self-advantage for service, and mutual exploitation for cooperation. While these rule in motive and method we shall never realize the happiness He desired for us—the happiness

Jesus set small store by charity. The philanthropy of almsgiving was to Him a mere cloak for the imperfections and inequities of human relations. He put all the emphasis of His teaching and example upon justice and love. In a world where these prevailed charity would be unnecessary.

We have traveled so far from the ideals of Jesus it is not easy to restore them. But there is no other way to find a permanent solution for the troubles that disturb us. His road is the only road. It involves sacrifice. We cannot avoid the cross. But beyond Calvary lies the realization of our hopes.

It is not enough that the spirit of Jesus should be worshiped in our temples or revered in our homes. It is not enough that His sympathy and help should be expressed in our hospitals, our orphanages, our institutions for the poor and the afflicted. To be satisfied with this is to evade the real challenge of His message and to lose the real meaning of His promise.

The spirit of Jesus must be brought into factory and mine and bank and railroad system; into store and office. It must reveal to us that man is more than the machine with which he works; that material wealth was meant to be the servant, not the master, of the human soul; that the making of a life is the supreme thing, for which the making of a livelihood is merely incidental.

Until we get this vision, we will approach the solution of our problems without true understanding.

It is time that men who believe in Jesus should make their faith count—not merely in religious observance, but in human relations; in civic duty; in business; in industrial management; in the tasks of office and workshop.

The hope of the world rests upon the leadership of Jesus.

headquarters of every agency that dispenses American mercy overseas has come one steady cry for months past; the children, most helpless and blameless sufferers in the track of war, will perish by the thousands before next harvest unless America saves them!

When Dr. Livingston Farrand, chairman of the Central Committee of the American Red Cross, returned from a recent trip abroad, his report throbbed with the need of the children. From The most spontaneous as well as the the feeding-stations of the American largest consolidation of effort in the Relief Administration throughout easthistory of American relief and charita- ern and central Europe came letters, ble organizations has grown out of the cables, pleas of every sort. heartrending misery.
The European Relief Council, with Herbert Hoover as chairman and the whole power of American charitable thought and effort behind ft, has been formed. It consists of Edgar Rickard, representing the American Relief Administration; Dr. Livingston Farrand, representing the American Red Cross; Felix Warburg, representing the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee; Wilbur K. Thomas, representing the American Friends' Service Committee; James A. Flaherty, representing the Knights of Columbus; Dr. C. V. Hibbard, representing the Young Men's Christian Association; Miss Sarah S. Lyon, representing the Young Women's Christian Association; Dr. Arthur Brown, representing the Federal Council of Churches.

It is the purpose of the Council to raise $33,000,000, in an appeal centering at the Christmas holidays, to the end that the situation regarding child life may be met. In every town and community of the nation, it is hoped, local committees, representing all the co-operating agencies will be formed to secure the vitally necessary funds. Of the amount sought, $23,000,000 will be used for basic food. For every one of these American dollars the local governments and communities aided will furnish two dollars, in the form of transportation, labor, guards, clerical help, cash contributions and such food supplies as are locally obtainable. No children receive the free food except after medical tests showing them to be seriously under-nourished. The remaining $10,000,000 of the fund is just as urgently needed for medical service to the children. The European Relief Council will do much more than effect economies in the raising of the childsaving fund. It will, with the inspecting forces of eight great agencies, keep a constant eye on the administration of America's merciful gift, in order that there shall be no wastage and no tendency toward pauperization.

Dumb Animals Remembered.

The noblest observances of Christmas are its charities. In all ages and among all peoples the poor have always been bountifully remembered on land and Scotland even the lower animals are given an extra feeding that ing when all mankind are glad. Many readers will remember Burns' address of the auld farmer to his mare when presenting her with an extra feed of corn on New Year's day. "A guid New Year I wish thee, Maggie. Hae, there's a ripp to thy auld baggie."

CHRISTMAS WEEK IN ENGLAND

Time When Scattered Families Are United and Tender Memories Are Revived.

MANY and great are the changes which have occurred in England since Dickens wrote "A Christmas Carol," but they have not affected the national love for the festival and the determination to preserve unimpaired the traditional warmth and heartiness of its celebration. Christmas week is still the great week of the year for the English people. It is the one week when scattered families are reunited, when tender memories and old associations are revived, when friend greets friend with a cheery expansiveness in striking contrast with the characteristic reserve of the English nature, so, undemonstrative to those who do not know it well, apparently so distant and unsympathetic.

From Wednesday all business will be suspended, not to be resumed till Monday morning. The whole nation will give itself up to good cheer and good fellowship, and for a brief season, all strife and controversy are hushed, and peace, charity and concord reign

Best of All Holidays

T AKING it all in all, it may be safely asserted that Christmas is the merriest and the best of all holidays, and one which is likely to be observed for ages yet to come. Nations may rise and fall, new beliefs and religions may sweep away the old, but that would seem, indeed, a dreary and empty year which brought no merry Christmas in its annual round. May old Father Time long spare his holiday to mankind to gladden the hearts of all with its coming, and may each Christmas be still merrier than the last.

Here is the recipe for making the dish according to a faithfal old chronicler: "Take clean wheat and bray it in a mortar until the hulls be all gone off, and seethe it until it burst, and take it up and let it cool; and take clean, fresh broth and sweet milk of almonds or sweet milk of kine and temper it all; and take the yolks of eggs. Six Barrels of Potatoes for 99c.

On September 14, Mrs. Sarah. S. Hancock, of Bridgeton, New Jersey, sold six barrels of No. 2 potatoes through a New York commission house for $1.50 a barrel—a total of $9.00. After deducting $2.10 for barrels, $3.51 for freight, $1.50 for cartage and $.90 for commission, the firm sent Mrs. Hancock what was left—99c.

Tire Prices

Some False Ideas About Them

Should an extra price buy an extra grade tire?

It should not. Any first-grade tire should be built as well as a tire of that type can be built.

Cord Tires cost more than Fabrics, and are worth the extra price. Men who figure cost per mile are coming to Cord Tires.

But any tire, Cord or Fabric, should be built for the utmost service which that type can give.

Some Men Over-Pay

Some men pay extra prices, expecting extra mileage. Some pay under prices for an under-grade, and hope to save in that way.

Both are wrong. There may be exceptions — there are always freak tires. But countless tests have proved that Miller Tires at Miller prices, on the average, give the lowest cost per mile. And Miller

Tires, both Cord and Fabric, cost about the standard prices.

TreadPatented

Center tread smooth with suction cup, for firm hold on wetesphait. Geared-to-theroad side treads

We Insist on This

There are three requirements which Miller Tires must meet.

First, they must average greater mileage, type for type, than any rival tire.

We constantly prove this. Eight machines in our factory run two tires each under rear-tire conditions. Each tire is run 650 miles daily by running extra-fast.

Won Over 21 Makes

The Eldorado Stage Co. of Los Angeles tested 21 other makes against Millers on 12-passenger Packard Buses, weighing 8,600 pounds loaded. In this supreme test Millers won by long odds, on long-distance uniformity.

Here we constantly compare the best other tires with Millers. Also in ceaseless road tests. Thus, day by day and week by week, we are guarding the Miller supremacy.

We insist that Millers must be uniform. Each tire is signed. A record is kept of the maker, the inspector and the process.

Every Tire Signed

If a tire comes back for adjust+ ment we learn the reason. If the workman is at fault he is penalized. If the inspector overlooked a flaw he is held responsible. If any process or material is at fault, we cor-

After years of this checking we've attained uniform tires. There are whole large cities from which not a Miller Tire came back last year.

Treads Must Endure

Miller Treads, by our standard, must outwear the balance of the tire.

We have attained a tread which outwears rivals by 25 per cent.

Every day our tread stock is vulcanized, then tested, in our laboratory. We permit no variation. Not a single Miller Tire with , these new-grade treads has ever come back with the tread gone.

Not 20,000 Miles

Countless reports come to us on Miller Cord Tires showing 20,000 to 28,000 miles of service. And tales of that kind are told everywhere, we

But mileage depends on conditions - on size, care, load and road. Millers are uniform, but they are not used under uniform conditions.

In our factory tests we average 15,000 miles on Cords.

But a Miller Tire will outlastalmost always - any tire that you place opposite, no matter what it costs. Compare them under like conditions, and see what mileage modern tires can give.

You will gain a new criterion.

When you buy a new car insist on Miller Tires. Twenty car makers now supply them and there is no extra charge.

HOME SERVICE FOR EVERYBODY IN NEED

Do you know what the present day Home Service of the American Red Cross is?

Many people do not know that, besides completing the work for ex-service men, especially the disabled, it provides the same neighborly service to families in general that it formerly gave families of soldiers, sailors and marines,

"Home Service covers a wide and varied field," says Frederick C. Munroe, general manager of the American Red Cross. "It gives aid to families that it might be their privilege in solving such problems as budget to again be the recepents of planning, marketing, tiding over times of financial stress, keeping children in school, helping crippled children, widowed and deserted mothers, children backward in school and children in conflict with the laws. It renders service to the homeless and transient, to the illiterate, to tenement dwellers, to the unemployed, and gives friendly assistance and advice to foreign speaking groups."

In addition to helping families in the solution of their own problems, Home Service helps in strengthening the weak spots in the social life of communities. It joins hands with others to make communities safer, healthier and happier.

Organizing action along lines in which the community is already interested is one of the objects of Home Service. It has established community meetings, patriotic celebrations, pageants and picnics. Rest rooms, recreation facilities, play supervisors and moving pictures have been provided. Through Home Service other agencies are influenced to bring about improved commercial amusements and better school facilities and to promote traveling libraries as well as to secure county agricultural and home demonstra-

Strict and Harsh Rules were Imposed Upon Virginians When a British Colony

(Woodstock (Va.) Times) Many local people had an opportunity to read a most interesting article in the Washington Star, on the "Blue Laws of Virginia," written by Mr. H. O. in Virginia between 1660 and 1680. The following are some of

The most unpardonable crime The punishment for the first shote stolen was a fine of 1,000 pounds of tobacco imposed upon the thief. A similar amount was awarded the informer. In case the thief had no tobacco he was oblidged to work a year without wages for the owner of the porker and another year for the chap who "peached" on him.

Upon second conviction of hog stealing the offender was put in the pillory for two hours and had both of his ears cut off. The third offence put him beyond the pale—so far beyond as to preclude any possible return to Virginia or any other state.

The law on that subject was: "No licensed attorney shall demand or receive for bringing any cause to judgement in the general court more than 500 pounds of tobacco and cask, and in the county court 150 pounds of tobacco and cask, which fees are allowed him without any prearrangement.

"If any attorney shall refuse to plead any cause for aforesaid fees he shall forfeit as much as his fees should have been. It is almost certain that Capt. John Smith inaugurated the first blue law in Virginia. Smith was strongly opposed to the use of profane language. He sought to stamp it out by lining up the offenders in a row each evening with their arms held high above their heads and pouring a big dipper of water down their sleeves. History is silent as to whether this lessened or incresed cussing in Jamestown.

At one time, it is said squirrels were so numerous in Virginia that they often destroyed much corn; frequently the outside rows were entirely consumed. In order to remedy this great economic loss, the general court. of

People Cannot Take More Out or a Community Than They Put In.

COLLARSE IS INEVITABLE

Town Will Not Survive Long If He Commercial Structure le Torn Down Faster Than it Can Be Built Up.

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.) He who dances must pay the fiddler. That is an old saying which is full of ing, of course, is that one cannot have any pleasure without paying for it in some way, but this is not the only sense in which it may be construed. It means that we cannot pursue any foolish policy indefinitely without pay breath. "We are parted by her will ing for it in the end.

No man can overtax his physical strength indefinitely without risking ultimate disaster. Dissipation or overwork may be continued for a time without any noticeable results, but if continued for a sufficiently long He had met Ada Wilton at her mothtime the inevitable comes to pass. The laws of nature cannot be violated with impunity. If one takes out of life more than he puts in, if he tears down his physical strength faster than he builds it up, he must eventually pay the fid-

What is true of the laws of nature is equally true of economic laws. The people of a community may for a time tear down the commercial structure of a town faster than they build it up without meeting disaster, but it cannot be continued indefinitely. In the end they must pay the fiddler.

Exhaust Resources of Community. The person who makes his living in a community, receiving the money of the community for his labor or the products of his labor, and then spends his income outside of his community is helping to exhaust the resources of the community just as the man who expends his enegy through dissipation or overexertion faster than he builds it up is exhausting his physical resources. One man may do this, of course, without noticeably affecting the economic strength of the community, senses discerned its ownership. He but when a dozen men or women do left the car at the first stop. Like it the effect becomes noticeable and some miser greedy of a treasure inwhen a hundred do it the resources of estimable Randall Petrie hurried into the community become exhausted to a public restaurant and sought its rethe point where collapse is inevitable. motest corner. He held something Those who are responsible for this sit- that had belonged to Ada! A fitting that they have profited individually by their actions, but they have not realized that in the end they must pay the fiddler.

There are some persons who seem to be able to get through 'Ir without much effort. There are some, who proceed on the theory that the world owes them a living and they proceed to collect it. They take what they can get and give nothing in return. Such persons, however, are not very numerous. Most of us must pay for everything that we get. Some may have to pay more than their share and these are carrying the burden of those who get more than they pay for. The fact remains that, as a general rule, one cannot have much worth while without paying for it. The merchants of any community are the backbone of that community, so far as its prosperity and progress are concerned. Individually there may be some of them who do not exert themselves to boost their community, but collectively they are the men upon whom the living of every person in the community depends. The success or failure of an individual merchant may not be of particular concern to the people of a community, but the success or failure of the merchants as a whole is a matter of the very greatest concern. Provide Market for Farmers.

The merchants of a town, in the first place, provide a market for a large part of the products of the farmers in the territory surrounding the town. They buy the produce of the farmers in small quantities, in accordance with their need, and some of them buy in larger quantities for shipment to foreign markets. If the merchants could not do this there would be no market at least for the small quantities except at ruinous prices. If the farmers could not realize a reasonable profit from their products, there would be no money for them to spend and there could be no money to pay for your products or to pay for your labor. It is there fore, of the greatest importance to ev ery member of the community, whether a resident of the town or a farmer in the country surrounding the town, that the merchants be enabled to provide this market for at least a part of the farmer's products.

Every dollar sent away from a town to a mail order house helps to diminish the ability of the local merchants to provide a market for the farmer's products or to do any of the many other things which the merchants of every own do for their community.

Business th a community cannot be ected on a one-sided basis. A mar cannot take out of his community s od living for bimself and family and ive nothing in return. He may de e for a short time and get away with t in the end he must pay the

As she alighted Randall Petrie started, stared, made a movement as if to hasten after her. but the door clanged close and he saw truth. The primary idea in this say the figure of the only woman he had ever loved swallowed up in the fast receding waves of alternate light and darkness.

"Of what avail—she would scarcely welcome me," he spoke under his -she must have meant it to be final."

He entered the car and sat down in the seat the girl had just vacated. It was an old story to his weary soul, the one love romance of his life.

of Brocton, had all but confessed his love. A decisive understanding to his proposal was stayed by an interruption. The next morning Petrie was suddenly summoned by a relative in another town. He had expected to be gone only a few days but his sojourn ran into months. Twice he wrote Ada. There came no reply. A third letter was returned to him marked, "Refused." He had later made inquiries regarding her to learn that she and her mother had removed to the city, and he gave her up as lost to him. As the car stopped for new passengers Petrie moved to make room for one of them. He fostled something in the seat. A small hand bag. His quick Its contents would surely give some clew to her place of work, her residence. He opened the hand bag. A purse showed the edge of a card in a little pocket. Petrie drew it out. "She remembered-she has kept that all this time!" he exulted. "Then-" Words failed him. His heart beat mightily. He had brought to light a photograph of himself he had once given to Ada. He fingered over several little packages and Christmas cards, then an envelope, unstamped and unsealed, addressed to "Miss Laura Deane, Brocton." Instantly Petrie recalled a close friend of Ada. It was no prying instinct that caused him to withdraw the enclosure. One line perused, his dazzled eyes refused to leave the written pages. "Your discovery that it was not Randall Petrie, but a relative of his name who led such a wild, evil he, the report of which caused me to strive to forget, comes too late to bridge the mistaken past, but, oh! Laura! how of my fateful error, for I love him more than ever, because of the cruel wrong I have done him."

"I had boped to be able to save up enough to make mamma a present of a victrola this Christmas," ran one paragraph, "but I find I must wait until her birthday. You know how she loves the old songs,"

Randall Petrie pressed his lips to the signature, to him the dearest name on earth, memorized the address written below it and left the restaurant in a glow of hopeful purpose and faith.

"Two twenty-three Rossiter street" -he covered the distance as if borne on wings. A new meaning to Christmas Eve had come to him.

"I have brought a lost hand bag." he spoke as his summons at the door of the house he sought) was opened. And then he paused. There stood before him Ada. She wavered, overcome by the unexpected encounter. Impulsively his hand steadled her. She did not draw from its protecting touch,

In a torrent of words he could not control, without evasion or attempted apology, Randall Petrie told of the contents in the handbag that had led him back to her. Was he welcome? With a low, tender cry like to that of a tired child finding a sure haven of rest at last, Ada's head sank to his

"And the surprise for mother!" whispered Randall ardently. "It shall be here the first thing Christmas morning, all the sweet old songs she oves, and oh, my treasure, may I include the Wedding March?"

Production of Sound American Citizenship the First Aim, Says Dr. Farrand.

On the badge of every member of the Junior Red Cross are the words "I Serve." That tells the story of the school children's branch of the American Red Cross and its efforts to bring happiness to children throughout the world

Realizing that the time never was so propitious as right now for teaching the highest ideals of citizenship, the entire present program of the Junfor Red Cross has been framed under the very inclusive phrase, "Training for Citizenship Through Service" for others. Since the Junior Red Cross is the agency through which the American Red Cross reaches the schoolboys and the schoolgirls, all its activities are designed to come within the regular school program, and without creating new courses or increasing the number of studies to lend its aid in vitalizing the work of the schools.

"The thing that is needed," says Dr. Livingston Farrand, Chairman of the American Red Cross Central Committee, "is not a perpetuation of the Junior Red Cross, but the training and breeding of sound American citizenship inspired by the true, fundamental ideals of sound democracy. One of the great conceptions in making the Red Cross a contributor to better citizenship in our American democracy is the realization that after all the sole hope of any nation is with the children of the country."

The plan of organization of the Junior Red Cross makes the school-public, parochial and private—the unit, not the individual pupils. Mutual service, helpful community work such as clean-up campaigns, care of the sick, promotion of health regulations, participation in civic and patriotic movements-all these creative agencies designed to translate into life and action the regular school program are parts of the machinery which the Junior Red Cross places at the disposal of the school authorities.

Graded study courses giving practical methods of civic training, supplemented by pamphlets and helpful suggestions, are supplied to the local schools by the Junior Red Cross. An elaborate plan for promoting an interchange of correspondence between children in different sections of the United States as well as with children in foreign lands is being devised and will take a prominent place in the established classroom program.

The ideals and the objective of the Junior Red Cross are embodied in the pledge of service which the pupil takes when he signs the membership roll and pins on his coat the Junior's badge. The pledge which binds together service and citizenship reads:

RED CROSS ACTIVE IN DISASTER RELIEF

When disaster hits a communityfire, flood, earthquake, explosion, bad wreck or tornado—the American Red Cross can be depended upon to follow right at its heels with help for the stricken people. Red Cross relief is almost immediately forthcoming-food. clothing, shelter and funds; doctors, nurses and special workers with long experience in handling similar trouble elsewhere.

During the last year, ending June 30, there was an average of four disasters month in the United States. One hundred and fifty communities in twenty-seven states suffered. The largest and most destructive of these were the tidal wave at Corpus Christi, Texas, and tornadoes in Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

In these events of horror 850 perions were killed, 1,500 were injured, 13,000 were made homeless, about 30,-000 families needed help, the property loss was nearly $100,000,000 and almost $1,000,000 in relief funds, not including emergency supplies was ex-

To the sufferers from all disasters during the year, the American Red Cross sent $129,000 worth of supplies, 110 Red Cross nurses and seven special relief trains. To meet the needs of the stricken, the organization set up ten relief stations, operated thirty food canteens and as many emergency hospitals. One hundred and twenty-five Red Cross chapters gave disaster relief service. If disaster ever strikes this town or county, the citizens can be absolutely sure the Red Cross will be right on hand to help them in every way.
