REPORT GOOD SHOWING IN WENDE WELL

First Snow of Several Seasons Falls Here

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

Regardless of the merits or demerits of the criticism that is being heaped upon the head of the governor of New Jersey for his reprieve of Richard Bruno Hauptmann, the man must be credited, for want of any proof of ulterior motives, with considerable courage. To fly in the face of popular sentiment and much indignation to grant Hauptmann the reprieve, when his political life is at stake and when he could readily have dismissed from mind the interests of the immigrant German carpenter, required some bravery of a sort. Richard Bruno Hauptmann's connection with the Lindbergh case has never been convincingly explained, but he undoubtedly was closely involved and probably received what he deserved, although, not being a court, I should not wish to take the responsibility for condemning him. That has been done.

An unfortunate fact about the case is that it has aroused such a storm of public discussion that the essential authority of the legal institutions by which Hauptmann was adjudged guilty and sentenced to death has been somewhat submerged. The governor's reprieve has stirred up a fresh storm.

Cisco's business streets yesterday afternoon reminded of Chicago's Michigan boulevard in a wintry storm as gusts of wind swept the powdered snow into thick clouds. Fourteenth street and D avenue was the "slickest" spot on the map as drivers of cars and trucks fought a sudden tendency of their vehicles to go around in circles. Several collisions occurred there. I was in one of them. Fortunately we emerged with only a bent fender and bumper. The startled expressions on the faces of the drivers when the pavement unexpectedly starts slipping out from under them is a study in the comic. It's not to darn comic when it's your face, though.

Even the ordinarily restrained and sober business man loses dignity in a snow storm. There was Asa Skiles, his bare head full of the snow in which a youngster had rubbed it, chasing the young man in and out among the skidding traffic. From the expression on his face, Skiles would have enjoyed a good murder.

Another contribution of five dollars, credited to "Cash," has swelled the fund the Cisco Daily Press is raising for the Macias family to $25. The family was recently deprived of their home and household goods by a fire which took the life of Francisca, a four-year-old girl.

All of the money raised will be used for the relief of the family.

Three Boys Admit Schaefer Robbery

Three boys of less than 13 years of age have confessed to the robbery of the Schaefer Bros. garage on South D avenue Thursday night, Chief of Police Milton Perdue announced Saturday. The garage was entered through a rear window and a small amount of change was taken from the cash register where it had been left after the business day Thursday.

MAKES BOND

ABILENE, Jan. 18.—Jim Jenkins, Cisco negro, made bond of $500 Thursday before United States Commissioner Ida M. James. He is charged with possession of untax paid whisky and home brew.

Coldest Spell Follows Period of Balm y 'Summer' Weather

Snow, the first in several seasons, blanketed the Cisco country Saturday as the worst storm of the winter swept temperatures from a balmy, "January summer" to a low of 19 degrees Saturday afternoon.

By late afternoon several inches of snow had fallen, swept by a stiff north wind that piled it into drifts or swept the pavements and sidewalks bare of it.

All of north Texas was whitened with snow and sleet, the Associated Press reported to the Cisco Daily Press. The cold, whipped by a 40-mile wind, penetrated to the coast.

Amarillo shivered as the mercury dropped to 12 degrees. At Sherman 26 degrees was recorded while Fort Worth and Dallas reported 28; El Paso, 32; Del Rio 44. A steady snow fell all day in west Texas and in portions of north Texas.

At 6 o'clock Saturday morning the recording thermometer of the West Texas Utilities plant revealed a temperature of 24 degrees here. At 12 noon this had dropped to 19 degrees. A gradual mid-afternoon rise set in at 1:30, reaching 20 degrees at 4 o'clock from which point another decline set in.

The snow brought smiles to the faces of the farmers and stockmen as well as people generally. Hayfever sufferers, their distemper aggravated by the warm weather, were especially grateful for the change.

Small grain crops were badly in need of the moisture that the snow will provide. Pastures, likewise, will materially benefit.

Mrs. Moore, 87, Dies at Home of Nephew

Mrs. Emily Jane Moore, 87, died at 7 o'clock Saturday night at the home of her nephew, Harry Moore, Cottage 2110, Humbletown. She had made her home with Mr. Moore here since he was transferred to Cisco from Iowa Park a year ago. She came to Texas from Iowa in 1925. Funeral arrangements had not been completed Saturday night.

Laughing Around the World

The Limit of Helplessness

By IRVIN S. COBB

ONLY too often does the average after-dinner speaker reach a point where he has nothing to say and yet feels that he must say it. Usually he does, too—at great length. I know, because in my time, before I reformed, I was addicted to the vice of after-dinner speaking myself. To those offenders who still persist in their wicked habits of trying to be humorous to order across the dinner table, without having the proper materials in stock, I respectfully would recommend the following highly illustrative little anecdote. A New England husbandman was driving up a steep hill with a load of provender and gardening implements in his motor truck. In a rough place on the grade the tail-gate slipped from its catches and, item by item, the cargo spilled the crest of the hill, coasted down into one of his losses. He reached the valley, he stuck fast. He climbed the valley, and there, in a miry place, he stuck fast. He climbed the full depth of his misfortune, he exclaimed to himself: "Stuck, got darn it! Stuck in the mud—and nothin' to unload." (American News Features, Inc.)

Sets Stages for G.O.P.

IS MISTAKEN FOR ITALIAN

(By Associated Press) A report from an American source at Addis Ababa today said the American military attaché, Captain John Meade, narrowly escaped with his life in a recent encounter with bandits in the interior of Ethiopia when mistaken for an Italian officer. Later, though, Meade made and won the friendship of the tribesmen.

Also it was reported that a serious rebellion against Emperor Haile Selassie had broken out in Gogjam province.

Italy claimed an advance of 125 miles northward on the southern front, killing 5,000 Ethiopians, which the Ethiopians said was "fantastic."

BURIED FRIDAY

SCRANTON, Jan. 18.—Funeral services for Mrs. Willie Hazlip, 28, who died at her home in Scranton Wednesday evening, were held Friday. Immediate survivors include her husband and a sister, Mrs. Lester Foster of Eastland, Mr. and Mrs. Foster attended the funeral.

EXPECT EARLY DECISION ON BEER APPEAL

Arguments Heard in Appeals Court on Friday

Decision on appeal of W. H. and C. E. Mayhew from a district court refusal to grant a mandamus for a retail beer license in Cisco was expected in 11th court of civil appeals early this week.

The appeals court, after hearing arguments on the appeal Friday, granted a motion Saturday to advance and took the issue under advisement.

The Mayhews sought to mandamus County Judge Clyde Garrett to issue them a license to retail beer in Cisco despite a supreme court ruling in a case from Childress county that a wet area could not legally exist in a dry county. They asserted that the supreme court decision is not now the law in view of the repeal amendment to the state constitution in 1935 and the liquor statute of 1935 passed by the 44th legislature. These, they declared, now give a justice precinct or municipality within a county the right to either legalize the sale of liquor or forbid it.

Agent Kidnaped By Prisoner But Escapes Unhurt

DALLAS, Jan. 18. (AP)—William Morgan, United States secret service agent of the Dallas bureau, was kidnaped last night between Texarkana and Paris by Leonard Johnson, his prisoner accused of counterfeiting, but escaped today by leaping from the automobile at Bokchito, Okla.

Morgan was uninjured. He said Johnson, who was being transferred to the Paris jail from Texarkana, grabbed a pistol from Morgan's clothing, and threatened him all night. A hunt is now on for Johnson.

FOUR KILLED IN TORNADO

FYFE, Ala., Jan. 18. (AP)—Two men, one woman and a small girl were killed, and several injured when a tornado today swept the farming section of the eastern slope of Sand mountain after wrecking a number of houses in the Rainsville section near here.

BARN BURNED AT FEE HOME

Destruction of the barn at the home of George P. Fee, on the Breckenridge highway just north of Cisco, with a loss of feed and farm equipment of an estimated $1,000 value occurred Friday afternoon.

The building was set from a grass fire. Bundle feed, ear corn and harness formed the principal contents of the barn.

The Cisco fire department responded with a truck and wet down the embers of the barn to prevent the fire spreading. Several firemen spent an hour or more with the truck, pumping water from a tank.

Frank Kittrell is spending the week with his mother and sister, Mrs. W. H. Kittrell and Miss Lucy Kittrell.

OIL AND GAS ARE FOUND IN LAKE SAND

Cold Wave Shuts Down Operations at 3,215 Feet

Hopes for an oil strike in the area south of Cisco, where there is much territory unexplored, were brightened considerably Saturday with reports of a good showing of oil in the Wisdom and Parsons No. 1 Wende.

Bad weather caused a shut down Saturday with the drill five feet in Lake Eastland pay where a good showing of oil was encountered. The well had half a million feet of gas, the Daily Press was informed.

The Lake sand was topped at 3,210 feet where the gas was picked up. For ten feet above that point it had drilled in lime. Five feet in, or at a total depth of 3,215, the drill was halted as snow blanketed the lease in a bitter cold wind. Preparations were being made to run six inch. The well is being drilled on a block of 3,000 acres. It is located a mile and a half northwest of the Schoor well of the Humble Oil and Refining company, which has been producing gas for almost 20 years.

It was believed that the showing in the Eastland was somewhat of a surprise to the operators who had expected a showing in the Caddo, from which the Schoor is producing. Prospects for oil production were said Saturday to be good.

A great deal of interest has been stirred up in this test which, if successful, would open up to activity the largest area of potential new development in this section. Comparatively little drilling has been done in that direction from Cisco.

KIPLING TO BE CREMATED

LONDON, Jan. 18. (AP)—Rudyard Kipling died early today, and the body was taken to the Middlesex hospital chapel to await cremation at a time and place to be set later. It is not known whether he will be buried in Westminster Abbey.

His death followed by just a few minutes an announcement that his condition was unchanged.

Hope that he might live had been strengthened as periodic bulletins from Middlesex hospital reported he was no worse throughout the evening, and his death came suddenly.

Although hospital authorities had admitted he was in an extremely critical condition, his surgeon had said his case must not be regarded as hopeless.

The wife of the noted writer of ballads and stories of India, the former Caroline Balestier of New York, had been at the hospital Friday and his wife and daughter had been called to the bedside Thursday night.

The famed author was taken suddenly ill Jan. 13 on the eve of his scheduled departure for Southern France and was taken to Middlesex hospital, where an emergency operation was performed.

Debate Opens on Bond Bonus Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. (AP)—The senate opened debate today on the coalition bill for payment in full of the bonus in cashable bonds.

PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR LOBO BANQUET NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

Hughes Chairman of Birthday Ball

Lloyd Hughes is chairman of the Birthday Ball for the President program in Cisco this year.

The ball, Hughes said, will be held at the Cisco Country club where the Ray Judia Melody Boys orchestra will furnish the music.

Proceeds of the dance will go into the Warm Springs Foundation fund for the aid of crippled children. Seventy per cent will remain in Cisco for the benefit of local children, Mr. Hughes explained.

The ball will be held on the evening of the birthday of President Roosevelt, January 30. Committee members with Hughes are Charles Sandler and H. L. Dyer.

ANXIETY FOR KING GEORGE

SANDRINGHAM, England, Jan. 18. (AP)—King George, aged 70 years, who is ill with a bronchial ailment, suffered further symptoms of heart attack today, increasing the anxiety over his condition. Four physicians, including a heart specialist, are attending the king. It was learned that oxygen had been administered during the night, but it was explained it was used before the king in fighting his catarrhal condition.

Miss Williamson Breaks Hip in Fall

Miss Helen Williamson, daughter of former Mayor and Mrs. J. M. Williamson, was taken to Graham sanitarium Saturday night with a broken hip which she sustained in a fall at her home on West Seventh street at noon. Alone at the house, Miss Williamson lay injured and unable to attract attention until after night when Joe Carothers, passing, heard her cries for help and forced his way into the back door. A Green ambulance was summoned.

Miss Dell Frances Miller is visiting relatives in Cleburne.

New Farm Plan--

It has got to be done at the earliest possible moment, and there won't be time for permanent legislation now.

There were similar expressions from Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) of the house agriculture committee and Chairman Smith (D-SC) of the corresponding senate committee.

Other officials said privately that they hoped to get the program under way in time to affect the 1936 crop by renting land for "soil conservation" which might otherwise be planted in cotton.

Taxation, it was learned authoritatively, was not discussed by the group at the White House, which included, in addition to Byrns, Jones and Smith, Secretary Wallace, Secretary Morgenthau, Attorney General Cummings, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the majority leader; AAA Administrator Chester Davis, and Solicitor General Stanley Reed.

Attorney General Cummings told newsmen he expects to decide "shortly" whether he will ask a review of the Louisiana rice millers case.

$25,000 Paid at Rising Star For Peanuts in Week

RISING STAR, Jan. 17.—A little more than $25,000 worth of peanuts were marketed here during the week closing Saturday night, which is probably the greatest receipts for a single week in the history of local peanut production. Most of the nuts brought from 70 to 75c per bushel, with some selling the latter part of the week as low as 65c.

The ruling of the supreme court on the AAA is given as the cause for the release of the peanuts. Most of the farmers had been holding back with the hope of getting around one dollar per bushel through co-operation of the government.

425 tons, or nearly one million bushels of the peanuts were bought by the Planters Gin here for an oil mill which is to make a test run of some 2,000 tons by crushing for the oil. As pointed out by H. R. House, manager of the gin here, this is entirely experimental, but if it is found to be profitable thousands of tons of peanuts will be diverted each year for this purpose, and will put the oil mills in direct competition with the peanut shellers for the crop.

It is estimated that about half the local crop was sold before the fall rains, most of it bringing above 90c per bushel. All the early part of the crop was bought by shellers and practically all sold was high grade. A great deal of the peanuts held over were damaged by wet weather, and had not the oil mills come into the picture no doubt would have been a drag on the market.

It is hard to estimate just how many peanuts are left in the country, but it is thought that the big majority were disposed of the past week.

Thanks of the family of Jose Macias for the help with which the people of Cisco responded to their need following the fire which destroyed their home and took the life of four-year-old Francisca Macias, was expressed today in a letter from Johnnie Macias, who wrote:

I am writing you these few lines to thank you all for your kindness. We thank you for bringing us clothes. We need a broom, a lamp, a washboard, some tubs, a mattress. We have plenty of food and shoes also.

We never can thank you enough for what you all have done for us and we appreciate it very much. My father was badly burned and we had to send him to Marshall to the hospital. We have not heard from him since he left and we hope he gets well in two or three weeks. I am the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Macias. I am twelve years old and go to school at east ward. I am in the low fifth grade. My teacher is Mr. T. C. Williams. I decided to write these few lines to the paper to thank the people.

Can Be Reduced At Home

Rub Gently Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice for home treatment that anyone in this world can give is to get a prescription known as Moore's Emerald Oil.

Simply ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you should notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are no longer troublesome. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed.

TWO GORMAN WELLS CEMENTED

GORMAN, Jan. 18. — Cement has played a large part this past week in the local oil field work. Two of the wells which will soon be classed as finished either wet or dry, have had cement plugs run in them. The Hampton well of Case and Martin was cemented the first of the week to get it ready for the acid. They had hit a small amount of oil at a higher spot than usual and had to get rid of it before they could go on down. They will drill to the pay level before very long.

On the Huckaby tract, the States Oil Corp. have also cemented their well and will be drilling it out and going on down within a few more days. Reports from this well indicate a nice chance for a producer.

Brewer et al on the Payne are working but have not yet resumed drilling. They have a few repairs to make before the final work is done and they go on down.

12 DRILLIN PERMITS IN ARCHER COUNTY

GRAHAM, Jan. 18. — Archer county reported twelve drilling permits last week as compared with the total of six issued for Young county wells, the majority of which are being drilled in north Young.

The permits include the following: Ben Banner J. K. Jeffery No. 1, T. E. and L. company survey No. 55, location 933 feet from south and 1867 feet from west lines of survey.

Murray R. Hart, Leona Mc-

Cluskey No. 1, J. T. Mullinax survey location 2000 feet from south and 900 feet from east lines of survey. Proposed depth 4500 feet.

Hunt and Thomas R. E. Myers No. 5, T. E. and L. Co. survey No. 160, location 900 feet north of No. 1.

Dave S. Johnson E. Hall No. 6, Assoose Rohus survey, abstract No. 240.

Rathke Oil company A. C. Casey No. 1, T. E. and L. Co. survey No. 1494.

Underwood Drilling company and Campbell, R. Campbell No. 15, T. E. and L. Co. survey No. 3401.

Belgium Hurries Defense With Money Voted for Fortifications

By EDOUARD TRAUSS BRUSSELS, Jan. 18.—With an anxious eye on rapidly re-arming Germany and mindful of her own tragic fate in 1914, Belgium today is building up her frontier defenses post-haste.

By an overwhelming vote of 111 to 4, the Belgian senate approved a 1936 budget for national defense totalling $66,000,000—an increase of $4,000,000 over the previous budget.

In addition, an extraordinary budget for the new year includes $10,500,000 for fortification works (part of a total of $14,000,000) and $5,500,000 for the modernization and re-equipment of the army (part of a total expenditure of some $13,000,000).

The Italian-Ethiopian question, in which King Leopold has been credited with playing an active part here and in England, plus German military strength, are seen as the background for this program.

A direct reference to Germany's intensive re-armament, which is regarded in responsible quarters as a threat to Belgium's independence, was made by Senator Fernand Demets who told the senate:

"Our military state must be developed with regard to the necessities of the international situation. The extraordinary credits of the budget are justified by the present international political situation, which necessarily commands our policy in military matters and entails a supplement of expenses of a permanent character."

A virulent attack on France as dictating Belgium's military policy was launched by Senator F. Lindeken, Flemish extremist, who said:

"The Belgian government arms merely at the request of France. Flanders wants her autonomy. She does not want to go through a second Yser ordeal."

Belgium's lack of defensive measures against air raids drew fire from Senator Catteau, of Brussels, but at the same time counter-fire came from Senator Henri Rolin, the Belgian delegate at Geneva. The latter said:

"Such defensive measures are delusive. In pretending to organize ourselves officially against attacks by air, we reduce the world-wide sentiment, now rapidly increasing, which considers the bombing of civilians as an odious act entailing international sanctions."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

For God giveth to a man that is good in his sight, wisdom, and knowledge, and joy; but to the sinner he giveth travail to gather, and to heap upon, that he may give him that is good before God—Ecc. 2:5.

Are you in earnest? Seize this very minute What you can do, or dream you can, begin it. Only engage, then the mind grows heated; Begin, then the work will be completed.—GOETHE.

Juvenile Crime

SOLUTION of the robbery of the Schaefer Brothers garage Thursday night with confession of the deed by three boys of less than 13 years presents a situation considerably more serious than had the solution revealed the work of adults.

THERE has been apparent, in consequence of the faster tempo of motorized life, a tendency among parents to shirk heartshaking responsibilities in the bringing up of the family and to shift these responsibilities upon the better organized facilities of the schools and the churches and other social and political institutions developed for the meritorious purpose of building good citizenship.

THERE will have to be, if any real solution is provided for adolescent delinquency generally, a strong and conscientious return to family responsibility. It is extremely difficult for any corrective institution to straighten a life badly started.

A New Cotton Plan

SOME confusion has existed with respect to the status of crop control measures since the invalidation of the Agricultural Adjustment act by the United States supreme court. Although measures previously in force under the AAA with respect to wheat control, corn-hog control, peanut control and so forth have been necessarily abandoned, measures with respect to cotton production control are still in force.

PREDICTION that the Bankhead law will be voided has given rise to agitation for substitute control measures, principal among which is the domestic allotment plan. The Daily Press said editorially some months ago that it favors this plan over the present crop restriction method because it preserves the foreign market for American cotton.

No Refund Permissible

SECY WALLACE'S statement that he does not believe the public would "tolerate" the refund of one billion dollars in processing taxes to processors of agricultural products affected is correct if one may judge of the general temper of citizens from those who have spoken on the issue.

THERE only sensible course seems to be to let the tangled tax processing tax situation rest where it is, depending upon public opinion to deal with those who refuse to try to do the right thing, and to go ahead with plans to pay cooperating farmers the benefits promised them under the defunct AAA regime.

Chevrolet Aids in Scrapping Cars

How the Chevrolet Motor company is cooperating in the war for traffic safety by staging a $1,000,000 old car scrapping program was described by A. D. Anderson of the A-G Motor company.

"Chevrolet's old car disposal program," said Anderson, "is by far the most aggressive thing of its kind undertaken to date. For a limited time, under the Chevrolet plan, dealers will be reimbursed at a fair figure for every dangerously old motor vehicle taken in trade and scrapped. Since the program is in effect throughout the whole country, a tremendous reduction in the number of such cars on the highways is certain to result.

Besides providing for the scrapping of outworn automobiles, the Chevrolet plan has a cooperative feature whereby the factory and the dealer set up a fund for salesmen who do an outstanding job on used cars this month. The fact that so many good used models have been taken in trade on new 1936 Chevrolet has boomed dealer's used car business, enabling Chevrolet to break all records for November and December. While new car sales records were also hitting new high marks, the purpose behind the present plan is to maintain this fast movement of used cars, thus keeping the decks cleared for maximum new car selling."

Fall Of Meteors. Monthly on 22nd. Puzzles Scientists

IOWA CITY, Ia., Jan. 11 (AP)—Just why meteors have taken to falling about the twenty-second day of each month is an astronomical puzzle which Prof. C. C. Wylie of the University of Iowa has set himself to solve.

Since last February 22 spectacular displays have been observed in various sections of the midwest on or about that date each month, says the Iowa astronomer.

"We have no idea why this occurs, but the fact that it happens regularly leads us to believe it is not merely a coincidence," he says.

Wylie has enlisted the aid of observers throughout the midwest, and is receiving reports from them whenever the phenomenon occurs on that date.

On October 22 Dr. C. P. Oliver of the University of Pennsylvania reported a bright daylight meteor was seen in Chicago and in Iowa City.

It was estimated 35,000 persons in Florida were engaged in hunting during the season which opened November 20.

NEVER MIND THE LADY by David Garth

SYNOPSIS: Allaire West suddenly has deserted the gay life her parents lead, and George Fox, who wants very much to be Allaire's fiance and hasn't made the grade, Allaire just has landed in South America, has located Terry Willett in a rather dingy hotel, and is giving that astonished and puzzled young engineer something to think about. Allaire has finally admitted to herself that she loves Willett. Bucky Corrigan, Willett's partner, would willingly substitute for Terry.

Chapter 38 DISAGREEMENT

"Sure, I like it, but what are you doing down here?" Willett answered. "Fox with you or something?"

"No," Allaire said, forcing a smile. "George isn't here."

"You didn't come down alone?" "All alone, Terry."

"I don't get it. What made you pick this jumping-off place for a sight-seeing trip?" "It isn't a sight-seeing trip." Her voice was low. "I came down because I—I wanted to be with you, and I was afraid you might not come back for a long time, if ever, and Terry, life didn't seem to mean a thing without you—"

There it was, a girl showing her heart. That same girl whom George Fox had once seen gently probe the splintered leg of a beautiful quivering thoroughbred and sigh as if a loved child were dying. A girl putting all her chips on the turn of a wheel.

Terry could only look at her. Initiative and action—those qualities had always been hers and he'd loved them in her. And she'd followed him down here?

This girl of private cars, and stone mansions, and silver evening gowns; this girl in a town like Propionaire. It was impossible. She didn't know what she was getting into.

Even as he recognized those qualities of initiative and action, something warned him—something whispered—something sat on his shoulder and yelled in his ear—stay hard, the soft stumble. Stay hard, no good can come of this to either.

"Do you mean to tell me—?" He stopped. Why talk about it? But the girl wasn't afraid.

"That I'm in love with you, Terry. I've always been, I guess, but I—well, I had so much to learn."

"You're not in love with me," said Willett.

"Terry!"

"You're in love with George Fox," he repeated. "It was almost an order. 'You've had a row, maybe.'"

"Terry, I haven't had a row with anybody but myself. I haven't come to you on the rebound. I came because I knew you wouldn't come to me and we shouldn't be kept apart. And nothing will—if you love me—"

Obviously, he was expected to answer. There was a sudden uncertain, apprehensive note in her voice. Did that hard brown figure love her, that fighter and builder and descendant of the Cavaliers? Oh, why didn't he say so?

Willett turned suddenly and went over to the window. There were little beads of sweat upon his brow.

He could see the streets of Propionaire, smell the stale sea-foam and coffee beans. There was a man sitting on the curb across the street. He was a cripple and a beggar and there were lots like him in this town. What a place for Allaire West when Fox could offer the Court of St. James!

A million miles between her world and his and did she think she could cover it by mechanical distance? Or by love? Women can't stand some things; they have to be prepared. And she had no preparation for this life, and it wasn't fair to her.

Besides, and his mouth grew grim, there was nothing either could offer the other. Love? Sure, fever cared about love, didn't it? Love had saved his mother when she followed Lawrence Willett, hadn't it?

Love! For heaven's sake, what was it? She had to go back, it was only right and sensible and decent, and some day she'd thank him.

Women have to be prepared for some things. He hoped his silence and his back would prepare her. He took a long deep breath and tried to make his voice steady.

Stay hard, you fool, or you'll both stumble. Stay hard; you have a job to do and nothing on heaven or earth is going to stop you.

"You've got to go back, Allaire. Take a room here for the night and tomorrow I'll put you on the northbound steamer. This is no place for you."

"Terry, look at me."

He swung around slowly. Her eyes swept eagerly over his face. It was set like stone, even though his hands clenched behind his back. She knew the answer to her question was there, that it was useless to ask, yet she had to anyhow.

"Don't you love me, Terry?" she said quietly.

"Have I ever done anything to make you think I did? Allaire, you don't love me—"

"Stop telling me what I do or don't," she said spiritedly. "Answer me."

"I try to keep my path clear of women," said Terry tensely. "They get in the way. They should stay out of a man's way—when he has work to do."

She stared at him, white to the lips. And because he didn't know how long he could stand there looking at her without going soft as a sponge, he turned back to the window.

Her lips trembled. He was hard, and somewhere along the course of his battling life he'd lost the capacity to love. Or, anyhow, he didn't love her.

And she could crawl back to the states defeated and ashamed and lost, the spirited youthful Odyssey ended.

It was pride that came to her aid then, a flash of pride that wouldn't let him see how hurt she was. She turned impulsively and left the room quickly and silently, a step ahead of hot angry tears.

He didn't want her. He didn't love her. And he was going on without her.

She went downstairs through the smelly lobby and out on to the verandah, her reaction here the same as it was everywhere else when she was disappointed, angry, hurt—to get out into the air, the fresh open air.

"Hey!" It was Corrigan's voice, that "big lug's" partner. He was striding across to her from the bar. She wished he'd go away, but Corrigan wasn't wired for mental telepathy.

"Where are you bound?" he inquired. "If you're bent on wasting an evening, I know all the best ways to waste 'em."

"Thanks, Mr. Corrigan, but really I'd like to be alone."

Corrigan was scrutinizing her thoughtfully.

"Say," he said abruptly, "you're not that polo baby Terry met in the capital?"

"Polo babe"—heavens, how far away that seemed.

"I probably am," she said with a slight smile.

Corrigan looked at her with awe. "I've often wondered what you were like. Only I'd imagined you with wings. Let's have a beer."

She didn't want a beer, but this husky, enthusiastic specimen with the jaw like the front of a locomotive seemed to know her. She looked at him curiously.

"What gave you that idea?" "Wasn't I in jail the same time Terry was? Didn't I see him stall off the police until you'd left town? Say, there aren't many women Willett would have done that for. In fact, I would have bet my shirt there weren't any."

"Mr. Corrigan—" she said breathlessly, "what do you mean?"

"Mean?" said Corrigan. "Why aren't you the girl who took a pot shot at a Spig on the docks one night? Oh, don't look startled—I've seen a lot of Spigs popped off. There ought to be a bounty."

"Why shouldn't I be startled? He was in jail—?"

"Listen," said Corrigan, "do you mean to say you didn't know it?"

"Know it?" She suddenly felt as though the earth was shaking gently. She sat down with widening eyes.

"Please," she begged, "tell me all about it. Mr. Corrigan. Oh, it's so important. I didn't know, I didn't dream—"

So you never knew he walked into a pinch for you?" Corrigan rubbed his jaw. "Well, if he didn't tell you, why should I?"

"Because it's my right to know," she said fiercely. "Come on, Corrigan, spill it."

Come on, Corrigan spill it. Bucky grinned suddenly. She wasn't fooling around; she wanted to know something.

"Sure, it's your right," he agreed. "You wondered why I thought you had wings? Because that man ditched his father and his job to go to jail for keeping his mouth shut. With every hour worth its weight in gold, he stalled along until you left and then he took twenty lashes to square his sentence so he could get out and get moving again."

Pioneer Eastland County Woman Celebrates 95th Birthday Today

Mrs. Susan Elizabeth Steele, grandmother of Deputy Sheriff Steele Hill of Eastland, a pioneer Eastland county woman, will celebrate her 95th birthday today.

This pioneer woman, despite her advanced age, is still in the best physical condition, and moves about her daily tasks and recreation without assistance.

In reply to the query as to what she attributed her longevity, she replied, "hard work and plenty to eat."

"I was born in Cherokee county, Ga., January 19, 1841, but we lived a while in Alabama, and came from that state to Texas, landing in Eastland about 50 years ago, where I have lived continuously ever since."

"When I came to Eastland there were no churches or school houses in the county, and we worshipped under a brush arbor, down on the banks of Leon creek.

Church Services In Cisco Today

tion attended religious services to worship God, and not for display.

"My husband, John L. Steele, was a captain in the Confederate army, and took a company of Georgia volunteers into the Confederate service.

Her living children are Mrs. Alice Huddleston, Fayetteville, Ark.; Mrs. R. F. Jones, Mrs. M. Westbrook, Mrs. Sallie Hill, mother of Steele Hill, and David Steele, all of Eastland, and J. B. Steele, of Ringland, Okla., all living.

It is planned for all of her children to be present at her birthday celebration today, which will be at the David Steele home, but some may not be able to reach Eastland on account of the distance.

Mrs. Steele took considerable interest in helping to raise funds to build the splendid First Methodist church of Eastland, which was erected a few years ago.

State Candidate

W. H. "BILL" McDONALD

'Bill' McDonald Seeks State Land Comm'r Office

W. H. (Bill) McDonald, attorney and former public official of Eastland county, has announced that he will be a candidate for state land commissioner.

He is a native Texan, having been born on a farm in Eastland county 36 years ago.

Another delayed report is that of "James Edward Hunter, son of J. A. Hunter and wife, Eastland, born Dec. 13, 1881."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?"

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Life is without beginning and without end. Eternity, not time, expresses the thought of Life, and time is no part of eternity."

First Presbyterian Church Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Young peoples meeting at 6 p. m. Musical program begins at 7:15 p. m. Evening worship at 7:30 p. m. The young peoples choir will furnish the music at the evening hour.—Rev. J. Stuart Pearce, Pastor.

Calvary Baptist Church Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. Preaching at 11 o'clock. Public invited, City Hall.—Fred L. Chunn, Pastor.

First Methodist Church Sunday school, 9:40. Morning worship, 10:50. Sermon subject, "A Challenge." Evening worship at 6 o'clock. Sermon subject: "The Church." Stewards meeting Monday evening at 7:30.—Wm. H. Cole, Pastor.

NEGLIGENCE IN VITAL STATISTICS AMUSING

The negligence of physicians and mid-wives in reporting vital statistics, especially births, has its amusing side as well as being the probable cause of much inconvenience and worry to those whom the negligence affects.

I have previously called attention to this neglect. In the reports filed with the county clerk, which are published in another part of the Daily Press, many of the births should have been filed by December 10.

One of these is that described as "Ruby Barker, daughter of Wm. T. Barker and wife, Ranger, born April 6, 1904."

Another delayed report is that of "James Edward Hunter, son of J. A. Hunter and wife, Eastland, born Dec. 13, 1881."

While this negligence could mean material loss to the people in the matter of inheritance, life insurance, etc., in the event of death, still there is an amusing side.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Happence I were a scribbler of fiction I would make use of this episode in a tale:

In the Cervantian atmosphere of the Sert room, in the Waldorf, where Xavier Cugat's tango band is playing, sat Wesley Ruggles, the Hollywood director, dining on pheasant and chatting with his friend, John Dos Passos.

As the orchestra strayed into the barbaric rhythms of a Cuban dance an olive-skinned fellow in a shirt of a thousand ruffles came forward with an instrument that looked like a dual drum. He held it between his knees and beat expertly upon it with his fingers.

Presently he produced a silver container in which burned a blue flame. He used the flame to dry the heads of his drum, so that they became more taut and gave off a sound more to his liking.

"That must be canned heat," observed Dos Passos.

"Canned heat!" he ejaculated. "don't say canned heat—that's too prosaic!"

"Then what do you call it?" Dos Passos wanted to know.

"Why, what else," replied the director, "but a Cuban campfire?"

The pheasant over which Mr. Ruggles was smacking his lips so vociferously for the week, Wild game has made its appearance on the menus of Manhattan. In the more exclusive dinner rooms pheasant, wild baby turkey, venison, quail, mallard duck, brook trout, and dail are available, but the something that should be considered.

An order of wild baby (a whole one) is $7. Marz fittingly served with dressings, is $4. Pheasant in at $6. Venison trout seldom exceed $14. tell what quail bring blurred as I came to. As usual, however, my game continues to be

Out-of-state automobiles entered in Oregon in 1935, increased 13 per cent from 1934.

A 53 per cent increase in travel for the first 10 months of 1935 was reported by the California department of highways.

Imagine yourself preparing an entire meal, placing it in the oven of the electric range, snapping a switch and returning later in the day to a perfectly cooked, delicious meal. That's electric cookery, 1936. You can buy a Hotpoint Electric Range on the most convenient terms. Electric cookery rates are most reasonable and you will marvel at the full, rich flavor of electrically prepared meals. Let this modern method of cookery give you more ease in your home during this new year.
