CLIFFORD DOGGETT GETS NEW TRIAL

Nations Open Conference on European War

FIRST OPINION IS WITHDRAWN IN HIGH COURT

Sentenced to Death By Eastland Court For Slaying of Threet

AUSTIN, April 15 (AP)—The court of criminal appeals today granted a new trial for Clifford Doggett, sentenced to death in the 91st district court in Eastland county in the slaying of Levi F. Threet, in a pasture west of Cisco on August 15, 1934. The court withdrew its former opinion in which the death sentence was affirmed.

Doggett also is under life sentence for robbery with firearms in the same transaction, having been convicted on that charge in Callahan county.

Doggett was convicted of killing Threet in the latter's pasture between Cisco and Baird, after the state had charged that Threet, Cisco stockman, had been lured there.

Doggett was convicted largely on testimony of Elmer Van Cleave, accomplice, who recently was sentenced to five years imprisonment for his part in the crime.

Mary Lou Howell was sentenced to 20 years by a Callahan county jury but the court of criminal appeals recently reversed and remanded the case. Her conviction also came upon testimony by Van Cleave.

Van Cleave's testimony in each of the cases was to the effect that he had been approached by Doggett and asked if he wanted to make some money. When he replied that he did, he testified, Doggett told him that his "girl friend" was going to take an "old fellow out to a pasture and that they would follow and rob him."

He testified that on the next day they followed Threet and the woman to the spot where they turned into a pasture and that Doggett ordered them both to put up their hands. The woman, he said, did so but Threet did not and Doggett shot him.

Threet later was found shot through the head and brought to Cisco, where he died without regaining consciousness.

Word School House Sold to Kent Word

The old Word school house, located on the Word farm a few miles south of Cisco, was sold at public auction Tuesday, Kent Word being the successful bidder, when the property was knocked down to him for $75, that being the highest bid. The sale had been advertised in the Daily Press.

This school house was located on the Word farm, which will obviate the necessity of its removal. John McKinney said that the building will be used as a hay barn.

Russ and Miller New Albany Aldermen

ALBANY, April 15.—With four candidates in the race for election of two aldermen, a heavy vote—190 ballots—was cast in Albany's city election here Tuesday. A. M. Russ, 123 votes, and J. C. Miller, 108, were elected.

The two other candidates were Claude Withers and Jay Davis, receiving 69 and 68, respectively.

WEST TEXAS—Fair tonight and Thursday, cooler in the panhandle tonight. EAST TEXAS—Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday.

City to Aid Cleanup; To Furnish Inspector

The city commission last night agreed to cooperate with the Junior chamber of commerce cleanup campaign move and to furnish a sanitation inspector, after the organization had presented its request at last night's commission meeting.

At the same meeting the commission took over maintenance of Fee-Esta park, canvassed returns of the recent municipal election, and announced that speed limit signs will be placed on roads entering the city.

The city commission, while agreeing to cooperate with the junior chamber of commerce for a cleaner city, declined to take any action upon the request for an increase in the water minimum for the summer, to allow irrigation for gardens and beautification purposes.

Dallas Wales, president of the organization, presented the junior chamber of commerce's view of the cleanup campaign and its request for aid from the city. More than 20 members of the organization attended the commission meeting.

Following discussion of the matter, the city commission agreed to furnish a man for a house-to-house canvass to have citizens place their garbage in cans where it can be reached by the regular collector.

It was announced that five speed limit signs will be placed at the city limits in the near future.

Election returns were canvassed and Commissioners J. R. Burnett, W. R. Winston, and H. C. Henderson were declared re-elected.

Crops of Nation Facing Serious Threat From Drouths and Floods

NEW ORLEANS, April 15. (AP)—Drought in Texas, and Oklahoma, and excessive rains in the East is hampering planting and threatening to become the major factor in the federal government's 1936 cotton crop curtailment program.

Six of the 10 chief cotton growing states reported planting to be from one to four weeks behind schedule.

Texas and Oklahoma, afflicted with persistent drought, is retarding planting as much as a month, while in the central and southwest portions are about three weeks behind. Planting time in the north portion is starting, but little is being done. The area from San Antonio northward, comprising three quarters of the cotton land in the biggest staple of the state, is 50 to 65 percent deficient in moisture.

The Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee is harassed by rains, which is retarding planting three weeks in some cases. Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi conditions are reported normal.

DALLAS GROUP HERE FRIDAY

Carrying almost the entire personnel of the popular "Early Birds" radio group from WFAA, including Announcer Jimmy Jefferies, among other entertainment features, the 35th annual business tour of the Dallas chamber of commerce and Wholesale Merchants association will stop in Cisco at 2:05 Friday afternoon for an hour and 15 minutes program.

The group will be greeted by Cisco business men under the leadership of the Cisco chamber of commerce.

The C. J. Kleiner, et al, semi-wildcat located about 10 miles north of Baird in Callahan county, was being drilled into the Hope sand at about 1170 feet today, after striking 3,500,000 feet of gas on top of this pay. Elevation is 1615 feet.

Unlicensed Driving Charge Filed Here

A man giving his name as Faste today was charged with operating a motor vehicle without proper license. Justice of Peace Joe Wilson said the man had gone to Eastland to secure a license.

Texan Says Photos of First Lady With Negroes Circulated in South

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—Vance Muse of Houston, Texas, testified today before the senate lobby committee that he had circulated pictures in the south of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in company with two negro escorts.

Muse is general manager of the Southern committee to uphold the constitution, and the anti-new deal group, including Governor Eugene Talmadge, of Georgia. He said he received the pictures from Allen Sheppard, of Houston. In Houston, Sheppard said the testimony was correct, and added: "I am fighting any step which is toward social equality for the negroes."

RECORD VOTE DUE SATURDAY ON BEER, WINE

4,539 Poll Taxes Held In Three Cities As Total Set at 7,000

With Eastland, Ranger and Cisco having votes estimated at 4,539 and other towns and communities with poll strengths believed highest in several years, indications today pointed to a record vote in the county-wide election Saturday to ban or legalize 14 per cent malt and vinous beverages. It is estimated there are 7,000 votes in the county.

Eastland county allowed sale of 3.2 beer previous to the Jan. 3 election in which it was banned by a vote of 1,235 to 1,038.

Beer proponents took the controversy to court unsuccessfully. The January 3 election was called after the supreme court held a wet precinct could not legally exist in a county dry prior to prohibition.

The Saturday election was called by commissioners' court after it had been petitioned by a sufficient number of citizens.

Eastland, it is estimated, has 1,705 votes, including 105 exemptions. Cisco is conceded having 1,632 votes, of which 75 are exemptions. Ranger is believed to have 1,202 votes, 52 of which are exemptions. The tax assessor-collector office has not completed tabulation of poll tax payments.

Drys have reorganized and it is understood proponents for the legalization of the 14 per cent beverages have done likewise. Election judges appointed by commissioners' court Feb. 11 to

Committeemen of County's Farmers Listed by Agent

EASTLAND, April 15. (AP)—County and community agriculture committeemen today were listed by County Agent Elmo V. Cook.

The list showed a few vacancies in each community, the vacancy usually occurring in the place listed for alternates.

The county committee is composed of Dick Weeks, Ranger, route 1, Cheaney, alternate; R. R. Bradshaw, Cisco, route 4, Scranton; R. F. Cox, Rising Star, route 1, Okra; and J. D. Guy Carbon, box 244.

Following are the various community committees, with the home community listed with each member:

F. S. Boland, Scranton; Oscar Schaefer, Cook; Joe Dunaway, Dohan; Edgar Altom, Pleasant Hill.

A. L. McDonald, Rising Star; W. A. Williams, Hodnett Grove; J. E. Smith, Okra, O. D. Carver, Crocker.

J. D. Guy, Carbon; H. W. Gilbert, Bear Springs; H. A. Lovell, Center Point; C. D. Craighead, Bear Springs.

L. A. Bennett, New Hope, W. J. Jones, Alameda; Ben F. Wood, Kokomo; Clyde Willis; J. J. Brown, Gorman.

T. E. Castlebury, Yellow Mound; E. E. Blackwell, Cheaney; W. J. Davis, Ranger.

TO ATTEND MEET

Dallas Wales, manager of the Laguna hotel, today said that he would attend the state hotel men's convention in Wichita Falls Saturday.

Officers Fail To Identify Suspect As Cisco Slayer

Cisco officers seeking to identify a suspect held at Colorado, Texas, as Bob Mohlar, escaped slayer of Hugh Maples, yesterday were unable to do so, Constable Grant Daniels said this morning.

Although the man resembled Mohlar in many respects, Daniels said, the fingerprints did not tally and he was neither as old nor as tall as the escaped convict.

Daniels, M. H. French, former Sheriff Doug Barton, and Elzo Been made the trip to see the suspect.

Randolph Seniors to Sponsor Style Show

The senior class of Randolph college will present a style show at the Palace theater Thursday evening at 9 p. m., it was announced today.

Various merchants of the city will display their summer fashions at the style show. Janet Gaynor and Robert Taylor will be featured on the screen. Only the regular admission prices will be charged.

SAFE DRIVING TALK IS GIVEN

P. W. Campbell of Abilene, formerly of Cisco, today urged greater driving safety when he addressed the Cisco Lions club at its regular weekly luncheon.

"There are tragedies in the floods and other great disasters but the greatest tragedy of all is the loss from the everyday driving accidents. We talking about it a lot but don't do much about it."

Miss Martha Jo Pass was presented in three piano solos, Jac Anderson had charge of the program for the day.

A report on the Easter egg hunt was made by Charles Sandler. Flowers were sent to W. J. Leach, who is ill. President S. H. Nance presided at the meeting.

"Grandmother" Harris Buried Here Tuesday

Funeral services were held for the late Mrs. Nancy E. Harris at her residence four miles west of Lake Cisco Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Luther Pryor, pastor of the Cisco Church of the Nazarene. Burial was in Oakwood cemetery beside the grave of her husband who died at the Harris home in 1929.

Mrs. Harris will be remembered as "Grandmother" Harris, whose illness was frequently mentioned by the Daily Press correspondent from Cottonwood. She had been an invalid for the past five or six years, most of which time she had been confined to her home and bed.

Hers was a native Texas family, she being born in Ellis county, near Palmer, August 23, 1857. She and family came to Eastland county in 1918, and located at the place where she passed away.

Col. Frank Knox Victor Over Borah In Illinois for GOP Nomination

CHICAGO, April 15. (AP)—Col. Frank Knox today stood apparently victorious over Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, for the republican presidential nominee in one of the state's most dramatic primaries. Knox led Borah by 77,000 votes. The count was from 4,437 of the state's 7,426 precincts, his vote being 281,022 against 204,860 for Borah.

Borah, however, was stronger in the 101 down-state counties, while the Knox vote predominated in Chicago (Cook county.) Governor Horner, in a sweeping down state vote, led Dr. Herman Bundesen, supported by Chicago's mayor, Edward Kelly, by 12,000 votes.

The democrats were jubilant as the party gathered a million and one-half votes, the greatest in the state's history—representing 28 percent of the gain since 1934. Party leaders contended that this meant the people were wishing to show a preference for Roosevelt.

LEAGUE NOT CERTAIN UPON NEXT ACTION

Ethiopia Wants Peace But Italy Making No Offers Yet

(By Associated Press)

The British, French and Belgian army general staffs today were to begin conferences in London to decide on measures of mutual protection in the event of an European war.

The Fascist delegation were due to arrive in Geneva uninvited for parleys on the African war, leaving the League of Nations in its efforts for peace. Ethiopia authorized an immediate armistice, but Mussolini made no move in that direction.

FALL OF ETHIOPIA BELIEVED IMMINENT

ROME, April 15. (AP)—The "days of the Ethiopian empire are numbered," an Italian News Agency commented today as the government officially announced: "Our troops entered Dessye this morning."

From Dessye, the former stronghold of Emperor Haile Selassie's northern forces, good automobile roads run into Addis, Ababa, 170 miles northeast, opening up the heart of Ethiopia to the fascist invaders.

Mussolini's army captured large quantities of war materials in the 125 miles drive to Dessye.

District Meet To Be This Week At Breckenridge

Cisco public schools today were looking forward to the annual district interscholastic League meet at Breckenridge Friday and Saturday of this week, according to Superintendent R. N. Cluck. Cluck said that Cisco has entries in several events, particularly tennis and the various track and field contests. He would not hazard a prediction as to the outcome of the meet, however.

Ciscoans Attending Baptist Convention

Several cars of Ciscoans today left for Mineral Wells where the state Baptist Sunday school convention is being held. The convention will close tomorrow.

Those from Cisco who attended yesterday's session included A. S. Skiles, Frank Walker, J. E. Spenser, Rev. E. S. James, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Langston, Mrs. Otis Skiles, Mrs. C. A. Farquhar and Miss Helen Stokes.

The population of Savannah, Georgia's second-largest city, and its environs is 107,860.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

With becoming modesty I am going to acknowledge thus publicly and with sincere appreciation a letter from the chairman of the Texas Public Safety commission, Albert Sidney Johnson, written with reference to an editorial appearing recently in the Cisco Daily Press.

Mr. Johnson writes: "Managing Editor, "Cisco Daily Press, "Cisco, Texas. "Dear Sir:

"Your editorial of April 9th, under the heading, "Organizational Problems," in which you discuss in a concise but clear-cut manner the Department of Public Safety setup, has been brought to my attention and I frankly believe that it is one of the best that I have seen.

"Editorial discussion of any problem, issue or subject is invaluable from an educational viewpoint. It also enables one to keep his finger on the pulsebeat of the public and the public, as a whole, is never wrong.

"The points you made were well chosen and I believe the keynote was sounded wherein you state that "one cannot force an old shape into a new mold without violating former ideals."

"Your praise of Chief Phares and the progress that is being made by the department, is fully appreciated. I am confident that the majority of Texans will concur with you in every point made in your editorial."

Such expressions of appreciation are of course much appreciated by the staff of the Cisco Daily Press. It has been and will continue to be the endeavor of this paper to present a live and vital policy and to write honestly and plainly, because only by writing honestly and clearly can it be of service to Cisco. We may not write as some would wish us to write, but we feel that those who differ with us will respect us and will be stimulated to present their own views, to the ultimate end that a true public expression or action is attained.

The republicans are stirring around under the chips right actively now. Percy Warwick and great, big "Sheenie" Jamison, chief baiters of the local democrats, are being seen together in public places, joining forces in the lancing of some hapless, unattended member of the top party. Moreover, only yesterday there came via express an impressive looking volume written by a noted author and dealing with the history and presidential potentialities of Alfred M. Landon, governor of Kansas. We are grateful for the book, shall read it, but, being a democrat we aren't, just yet, open to conviction on a republican candidate.

I am thinking seriously of turning the book over to the two wags aforementioned. But knowing "Sheenie" to be such a Hooverite that he starts a rump convention of one every time the GOP has a precinct meeting, I hesitate to entrust this new republican indoctrination to his sympathies. Percy may be allowed to read the book, since he is understood to have had political ambitions.

The Daily Press has received many complimentary responses to the announcement yesterday that Frank Langston had been secured as editor of this paper. Frank has a host of friends and his coming with the Press has been welcomed by the well wishes of this newspaper. His work will enable the Press to become a much better newspaper and to serve Cisco, in result, much better.

was always an inspiration from General Forrest for his men to do their best. He never said 'go in and fight, boys.' He was always in front, and his commands were always to 'come on, boys.' He led and we followed. I have known Forrest to swim his horse down a river until he found a place where the soldiers could land, and then tell them to come on. He never asked his men to go where he would not go first.

"My horse was kept in good flesh at all times, thanks to wheat and corn fields encountered while on the march or in camp. "I was a member of a detail ordered to charge the federal breastworks at Lawrenceburg, and the officer gave us instructions to charge with a yell, which we did, and for the next two days there was a running fight.

"Yes, next Friday is my nineteenth birthday. I will spend this birthday in a wheeled chair, as I fell and broke my leg late last year, and have been unable to walk since that time, though I am gradually improving. Since that accident I have remained with my daughter, Mrs. Aycock. She and my son, Jack, are the only children that were born in my family.

"I was united in marriage to Miss Eliza Josephine Coleburn, in Mt. Pleasant, Tenn., in December, 1866. Mrs. Orton died in October, 1914, and since her death I have lived alone, doing my own cooking and housekeeping.

"After the surrender I went back to Tennessee and located in Murray county, and from there came to Texas about 50 years ago, first locating in Gainsville, but later moved to Brown county, where I have made my home ever since.

Was in Several Battles

"During the time I was a soldier I took part in several other historical battles, besides those mentioned. I was in the battle of Shiloh, and the battle of Nashville. I was rather sorry that battle came on just when it did, for I had 'foraged' a nice fat shoat, and had saved the hams for my own use. The battle came on and I had to leave those hams behind.

"Of course I never knew who owned that hog. A hungry soldier had very little scruples about property rights. But I had killed the porker the day before the battle, dressed it nicely and hung the hams up to take salt, after giving the rest of the meat to other comrades. But I reckon some Yankee soldier feasted on the meat I left behind.

"I was well acquainted with Henry Ford, the Brownwood banker, who died several years ago. Yes, I have heard the story that Ford was really Jesse James, but of course no one knew whether there was any truth to the story. He had three sons, and I have heard one of his sons say that no one ever came into the Ford home without his father being the first to know it, and always personally investigated who it was.

"Ford was liberal in accommodating the people with cash loans.

most anyone could get a reasonable loan, and he did much good in relieving distress."

Cleveland Anticipates Fireworks as G. O. P. Prepares Convention

CLEVELAND, April 15. (AP)—Public Hall, in recent years the setting for colorful pageants, noisy circuses and the splendor of grand opera, will echo beginning June 23 with what may be the most interesting republican political show in many years.

of its 1936 presidential candidate, selected a city and state where political contests are bitterly fought and widely appreciated. The hall itself has political background. Calvin Coolidge was nominated there in 1924 amid cries of "Keep cool with Coolidge." The economy platform which Coolidge took into the White House was approved there. Expectations of national G. O. P. leaders who hope the convention will generate power for a sweeping concerted drive against the "new deal," are matched by those of Ohio republican leaders. They expect the convention to provide the stimulus for a successful attack on the democratic regime in Ohio government.

A spirited, boisterous gathering generally is expected. Lafayette B. Gleason, temporary secretary of the republican national convention, expects the convention will be a "fighting one for the first time since 1912."

The 1924 convention was a moderately quiet affair. Coolidge was nominated on the first ballot, 1065 to 44.

Republicans who attended that convention will find changes when they come to Cleveland this year. Arriving by train they will find a new Union Station. There are more hotel accommodations. If they arrive by plane, they will see a larger airport.

The hall itself has been enlarged so that it will now seat 14,200 persons. The lack of smaller halls where delegates might hold private conferences has been corrected. There are now 15 such rooms.

The main arena, 120 feet wide and 248 feet long, affords an unobstructed view from any part of the hall. A glass ceiling, 110 feet high, conceals the lighting system.

Ohio's Political History

In 1928, one of the crucial battles in the pre-convention campaign was fought in Ohio with Col. Carmi A. Thompson of Cleveland aligned with the then secretary of commerce, Herbert Hoover, against a "favorite son," Senator Frank B. Willis. In the background, directing the primary was another Ohioan, Walter F. Brown of Toledo, who became postmaster general.

Former Senator Simeon D. Fess, another Ohioan and former national republican chairman, cooperated with Thompson and Brown in obtaining the 1924 convention for Cleveland.

Five major party conventions have been held in Ohio. The democratic convention of 1856 was held in Cincinnati as were the republican convention of 1876 and the democratic convention of 1880. The Liberal republican convention of 1872 was held in Columbus. The last was the 1924 convention here.

Six Ohioans have been elected to the presidency, William H. Harrison, Rutherford B. Hayes, James A. Garfield, William Mc-Kinley, William Howard Taft and Warren G. Harding.

Three Ohio nominees were defeated: Harrison, in 1836; Taft, in 1912, when a split occurred in the republican party, and James M. Cox, in 1920, when as democratic nominee he was defeated by a fellow Ohioan, Harding.

Abstract Made 100 Years Ago Is Sent to Client

EASTLAND, April 15.—An abstract to title of land in Wise county 100 years ago—prepared in Texas centennial year—will be sent by R. L. Rust, Eastland attorney, to a client, J. H. Hughes, at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Rust had the abstract prepared by a Decatur firm.

The title is to "80 acres of the J. M. Wade survey in Wise county, northeast one-half subdivision of Lot No. 9 of the said survey."

The land is part of an original grant by the republic to John Wade, who received 4,605 acres—a league and labor—because he did not aid the enemy and stayed in what was Texas during the war with Mexico.

The land was originally in Shelby county, before its division and is now in Wise county.

The Eastland attorney stated he believed a person who desired land from the republic had to institute suit, as papers in the abstract indicate.

In an affidavit, Wade swore: "I do solemnly swear that I was a resident citizen at the date of Declaration of Independence. That I did not leave the country during the campaign of the spring of 1835 to evade participation in the great struggle. That I did not refuse to participate in the war and that I did not aid nor assist the enemy; that I have not previously received a title for my quantum of land, and that I consider myself entitled under the constitution and laws to one league and labor of land, for which I now apply."

TROOP 6 WINS RALLY

About 200 scouts and scouters were in attendance at the scout rally that was held at the city park in Eastland Saturday night. This north section rally, for Scouts from Troops in Eastland, Breckenridge Ranger, Cisco, Carbon, Gorman, Olden, Parks and Colony, was one of the most successful meetings of its kind that has been held in many months. Those present showed much enthusiasm in all of the contests. Troop 6 of Eastland won first place with a total of 208 points. Troop 17 and Troop 18, both of Breckenridge, tied for second place with 152 points each. Troop 20 of Breckenridge took third place with 150 points.

The Radio patrol of Troop 4 in Cisco was on hand with a loud speaker system, which was very beneficial; and their bringing it to the rally was greatly appreciated. These scouts are to be congratulated on their good workmanship.

The next rally for the North section will be held in Breckenridge Friday night, June 19.

Ranger Hotel Man Buried at Decatur

RANGER, April 15.—J. C. Shaw, 33, manager of the Paramount hotel of Ranger, died in a Ranger hospital at 1:30 Tuesday morning as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident near Strawn early Monday morning.

The body was shipped early

Tuesday to Decatur, his former home, where funeral services were to be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A number of Ranger friends and members of the Ranger Lions club, of which Shaw was an active member, are to attend the services at Decatur. Burial will be in the Decatur cemetery.

The accident victim is survived by his mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Buck, two brothers and an uncle, all of whom live in Decatur, and one sister living in Decatur, and one sister living in Fort Worth. All were present at the time of his death.

Shaw came to Ranger several months ago to accept the position as manager of the Paramount hotel after the death of Bill Dorsey, former manager. Since moving to Ranger he had been actively engaged in all activities of the town and had acquired many friends.

The accident in which he was killed occurred as he was returning from Mineral Wells, where he had been visiting friends. Between Strawn and Ranger the car he was driving struck a guard rail. Three other occupants of the car were uninjured in the accident.

"Voluntary comments from satisfied customers tell their own story of HUMBLE products and HUMBLE service"

Humble Service Stations are carefully designed and landscaped to make them attractive features of the neighborhoods in which they are located. They are fully equipped for your comfort and the expert care your car requires. Humble men are proud of the Stations which they man, and this Centennial year, they're putting their best foot forward.

Restrooms at Humble Service Stations are as carefully kept as your bathroom at home. Many of them are tiled—all of them are spotlessly clean and sanitary. They are equipped with every modern convenience for your comfort.

In a recent study of Humble Service Check Cards mailed to the Company by Humble customers, nearly half the comments complimented Humble Service Station men on their friendly courtesy. These trained men render the kind of service which motorists find helpful.

We make no exaggerated advertising claims for Humble products, but we do say, you'll find them definitely second to none. We ask you to try them in your own automobile; to test Humble Motor oils and Humble motor fuels under your own driving conditions. When you do, we're confident you'll come back for more.

we've some right to be proud of the fact that over 99% of the comments are complimentary . . . They come from homefolks—from Texans, that is—and from out-of-state visitors alike. They tell us that motorists like the courteous, helpful service they find at Humble Service Stations, that they like the spotless cleanliness of Humble restrooms, that they appreciate the care with which Humble stations are maintained, that they like the products they get at the Humble sign . . . We invite you, too, to stop for service, for products of tested quality, where you see that sign. We are confident that both will please you—that you'll come back for more."

HUMBLE SERVICE STATION SALESMEN

"ALL our stations are furnished with Service Check cards. These cards are provided for the convenience of customers who wish to comment on our service and our products. Their comments are voluntary; in fact, we rarely see them. But the Company gets literally thousands of them every year, and we think Chicken dinner to starboard!

"Here comes a rooster, floating by on a chicken coop! The repairman is rowin' out to catch him—we'll have chicken stew for supper!"

In the flood-swept little river town, only the telephone operators remained, keeping the lines open for levee workers fighting the angry torrent. And at sundown, by long distance, the marooned office reported all well—and a chicken dinner in sight!

Good times and bad, it takes people to give you telephone service—men and women with the ability to do a good job in fair weather, and the courage to stay at their posts when emergencies threaten.

The entire specialized organization of the telephone system—this company, the expert staff of American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Bell Laboratories, Western Electric—exists for one purpose only:

To help the men who patrol the lines, and the women who work at the switchboard, do a better job of giving you good, economical telephone service.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

God is our God forever and ever; he will be our guide unto death, for he is our peace.—PS. 88: 41, 42.

"The many, many mansions, Far above the sunset skies; So remote from mortal loving, So far from mortal eyes. Pass on, ye days of waiting! Few more to me remain, And let me in those peaceful homes Find friends and youth again."

"If we feel assured of the grace of God through the mediation of Christ, we have just reason to hope that futurity will unfold to us with joy and peace."

Cultivating Trade Territory

A GROUP of Dallas business men, turning west Texas to advertise the Texas Centennial exposition at Dallas, will be in Cisco Friday afternoon. Previously a group of Houston men spent an hour here on a route that took them through similar territory.

WHY these tours? They are costly in the time of the men who make them and in the direct expense of the trip. Are they worth the expense? Do they result in more business for the cities that sponsor them?

Evidently, they are profitable, for these cities or the hard-headed business men who make them would refuse to be bothered. No appreciable increase in trade volume or value is realized, but the effect of the trip is to encourage a closer relationship between city and the desired trade territory which will result in the future cultivation of more and better business.

Politics

At Random

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

For reasons well hidden under the surface, the launching of the pro-Roosevelt "labor's non-partisan league" has aspects and possibilities usually lacking in similar ventures.

It always has been a disputed point whether the "labor vote" can be lined up with any semblance of solidarity for any democratic or republican presidential candidate at any time.

Some labor leaders have felt, however, that if ever such a thing were possible, it would be in a year like 1936, when class distinctions are much emphasized and party lines badly tangled.

Therefore the advent of the new league was certain to attract wide attention. Is it the beginning of a cohesive political action, at last, on the part of labor? The question cannot be answered at this writing, but one generally-overlooked fact presents itself:

While outwardly the league is dedicated to harmonizing labor support behind the president, certain elements exist which hint, instead, at a possible transference to the political theater of organized labor's big family feud. — Strife Is Acute

For years, two factions within the American Federation of Labor have been at odds. Recently the quarrel has become acute.

One faction wants all workers in each big industry organized into one big union. The other wants individual unions based on occupation.

Those who want to organize by industry alone include George L. Berry, head of the printing pressmen; John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers; and Sidney Hillman, president of the clothing workers. A principal in the other group is Daniel J. Tobin, head of the teamsters.

Berry was chairman of the democratic national committee's labor division in 1928. Tobin held the same position in 1932. For some months now it has appeared that Tobin, not Berry, would have the job in 1936.

In this situation, Hillman came to Berry with a problem. Hillman is a member of the socialist party, and so are many members of his union. How could these socialists be lined up for Roosevelt without the necessity of joining the democratic party?

The two of them put their heads together. The league resulted. They called Lewis, a republican, by telephone. He approved the idea.

Foiled William Green So far as appears, the league was formed without consultation large centers are important to them. Cisco should adopt a similar policy of cultivating that trade territory, a policy that will effect a closer and more mutually-minded relationship between it and the people and rural communities who live about it.

Congratulations, Choral Club

CONGRATULATIONS to Miss Ella Andres and her high school choral club which took second place in the state contest at Mary Hardin-Baylor college at Belton last week. The Cisco choral club has participated in this contest three times. It has established a record of one first place and two seconds, a truly enviable record, considering the fact that it was made by a school of small student body in competition with schools of the caliber of Waco high, whose enrollment is among the largest in the state.

THE Cisco schools have stood high in extra-curricula activities of this character. Student talent and abilities have been well used and developed. It is in such competitive activities that these talents and these abilities are the best developed and the student prepared for the unrelenting demands of later life.

The Magnanimous Thing

GOVERNOR Jimmy Allred did the handsome thing in extending clemency to the driver of the truck which was responsible for the death of the governor's sister. J. R. Johnson, the trucker, pleaded guilty to homicide in connection with Mrs. Stokes' death, and was sentenced in a Wood county district court to 60 days in jail, and given a fine of $500. Both of these penalties the governor remitted. His act will likely be commended by every fair-minded person. In remitting Johnson's penalty the governor did not fail to condemn the system under which the truck driver was working, as being more responsible than the man who committed the act.

THIS also meets the approval of the vast majority of Texans, Johnson said he was being paid $3 for each trip he made, and being desirous of making as many trips as possible, did so at the expense of needed rest and sleep. The day his truck was in the fatal crash he admitted that he nodded. "While I cannot condone the driving of a truck by a man who falls asleep and thus loses possession of his faculties," Allred said in his proclamation, "I am of the opinion that the system whereby he was compelled to work such long hours for such a miserably low pay is really at fault and primarily responsible for this lamentable tragedy."

IN THIS case the governor exercised the pardoning power with becoming leniency. Had the victim been other than his own kin probably he would have hesitated in granting clemency. As it is, his act is big and done with true Christian inspiration. The husband of the dead woman seems to have been an advocate of the trucker, as it is recorded that Mr. Stokes told the governor that Johnson rendered every aid possible in extricating the body from the wreckage, massaged her wrists and cried like a baby.

with President Roosevelt or the democratic national committee. Nor is there any indication that William Green, head of the A. F. of L., knew anything about it until he read the newspapers.

Now where does this leave everyone concerned? If Roosevelt is re-elected, will credit for his labor support go to Berry, Lewis and Hillman, instead of Tobin? And if so, will that faction have first say at the White House about labor policy and labor legislation?

Will the league tail wag the A. F. of L. dog, not only in matters of politics, but with respect to the internal affairs of organized labor as well?

Berry's friends deny that the league was formed as a nucleus for a labor party in 1940. Yet in these troubled times, it is impossible for anyone to be sure what may come of such group movements as this.

Certainly it is interesting to consider the three possibilities—that the league actually will succeed in harmonizing labor support behind the president, that it will succeed in nothing and will go the way of many another "non-partisan" political ventures, or finally that it will lead to one grand and costly political row in the ranks of organized labor.

Nanking Pays For "Loyalty" To Bar Japanese In North

NANKING, April 15. (AP)—It is costing the Chinese government Mex. $2,000 (U. S. $600) monthly, in addition to upkeep of bodyguards and motorcars, to keep the erstwhile "Christian general," Feng Yu-Hsiang, reasonably loyal.

But officials believe they are getting full value received. General Feng, it is conceded, could be a source of embarrassment to the regime should he oppose Nanking. The son of a coolie, he wields far-reaching influence.

"The 'Christian general' recently came to Nanking from Tai-Shan, the holy mountain of Shantung province where he had lived in retirement for several years. He has accepted a post as vice-chairman of the military affairs commission, under Premier Chiang Kai-Shek, once his bitter enemy.

Overlords Flirt With Japan The government also has to pay heavily to hold the allegiance of Marshal Yen Hsi-Shan, veteran overlord of Shanxi and Suiyuan provinces, and General Han Fu-Shu, chairman of Shantung province. Both have come within the orbit of Japanese influence in North China and for months have been toying with the idea of joining an autonomous federation of North China provinces.

Grant of a $50,000 loan by three government banks to the Yellow River conservation commission for repairing dikes in Shantung is interpreted in semi-official quarters as an effort on the part of Nanking to "do something" for Han.

'Last Ditch' In Japan's Path Breaks in the Shantung dikes led to disastrous floods last autumn, but Han persistently maintained he had no funds for the urgently necessary engineering work.

Government officials frequently refer to the Yellow River as the "last ditch," beyond which the Japanese will not be allowed to pass unopposed. Nanking, it is claimed, would back Han in opposing the Japanese should they attempt to extend their authority south of the Hopei border.

Han, meanwhile, is straddling his political fences with difficulty. From Nanking he is receiving economic and financial assistance and promises of more when needed. At the same time, he is showing polite hospitality to Japanese emissaries, but promising nothing.

Chamberlain Gets Tory Backing As Next Cabinet Head

By CHARLES P. NUTTER
LONDON April 15. (AP)—Growing belief exists in England that the political days of Stanley Baldwin, the prime minister and No. 1 man in the British government, are numbered.

Responsible political circles are convinced that Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, is being groomed as his successor.

Any actual move to restore Baldwin to private life is, however, believed six months or a year away.

But when it comes, competent observers believe, the upheaval is certain to bring Sir Samuel Hoare, scapegoat of the Hoare-Laval episode, back to the cabinet with more prestige than ever.

Baldwin recently has been the target of developing political attacks which claim a wide backing in the House of Commons, including factions which hitherto frequently have supported the prime minister.

Critics Call Him 'Unsafe'

Not only is it being charged that Baldwin failed to realize the need for national defense, taking refuge in procrastination, but also his appointment of Sir Thomas Inskip as minister for coordination of national defense, prompted an outburst of open criticism.

In a bitterly-worded editorial the independent Observer wrote that "there can be no safety in dependence upon him. To his habit of procrastination, especially in supposed matters of urgency, a thousand years are but a day."

Tory criticism of the Inskip appointment was especially marked.

Most challenging was the attack by Sir Austen Chamberlain, ultra-conservative former foreign secretary and brother of Neville.

In the defense debate, Sir Austen rebuked Baldwin for his "errors of judgment" while the Inskip appointment brought further stinging remarks from the powerful conservative who thought Winston Churchill should have had the new ministerial job.

Baldwin Apologizes Cited

British, stated Sir Austen, was justified in "demanding great changes, and evidence that everything is being done to prevent the continuance or recurrence of such errors as those for which the prime minister has twice within the last two years asked the pardon of the house."

He referred to Baldwin's apologies for misjudging the speed and danger of German rearmament and the abortive Hoare-Laval plan for ending the Italian-Ethiopian war.

Young conservatives, to whom Baldwin long has been a hero, are understood to be losing confidence in him, and feel that he should make way for a younger man with a better grasp on foreign affairs.

Members of parliament recently have noticed an amazing change in the stocky prime minister who took over his office from the aging hand of Ramsay MacDonald less than a year ago. It was his third time in the post, he having served previously from 1923 to 1924 and from 1924 to 1929.

Veteran's Nerves Gone?

Baldwin, they say, appears a victim of nerves in the rising clash and importance of international relations, of which he admittedly is no master. His forte is domestic relations, in keeping with his role as an English squire and farmer, a fact of which he repeatedly boasts.

Baldwin has been in politics 40 years, almost 30 of them as member of parliament for the Bewdley division of Worcestershire. He has held most of the high cabinet posts leading to the premiership, and has spared enough time from politics to accumulate a fortune in the steel industry.

It has been rumored that he plans to retire after the coronation of King Edward next year, but the direct political opposition may cause him to retreat to private life before that time.

: For The Bridge : Player

Double Exit

Possessing combinations of honors which are unlikely to take tricks unless leads are up to them, a defender must be on the alert against being forced into the lead.

An example of an exit play to defeat an end play comes from George Hamilton Gardner of Orange, N. J. He played a king and a jack on an ace and a queen respectively in order to avoid being forced to lead up to a declarer's ace-queen in another suit. This double exit defeated a slam contract. Here was the hand:

NORTH		WEST
S-7 6	H-A Q 8	S-K J 10	H-K J 4
D-J 7 5 2	C-J 6 5 2	D-6 4	D-A K Q 10 9 8 3
		C-7	C-None

EAST

S-9 8 5 4 3 2	H-10 9 6 5	D-6 4	C-7
---------------	------------	-------	-----

SOUTH

S-A Q	H-7 3 2	D-None	C-A K Q 10 9 8 4 3
-------	---------	--------	--------------------

Having, in all probability, only four losers at the most, South opened the auction with a bid of two clubs, a quite justifiable bid notwithstanding his low count of high-card tricks.

Gardner, sitting West, leaped to five diamonds, hoping to hamper communication between the South and North hands and also to pave the way for a sacrifice if not too costly.

North, however, bid five hearts, having a good fit with clubs. East passed and South went to six clubs, the contract. West wisely refrained from doubling.

The diamond king was trumped South with the nine of clubs, the declarer needing three entries to the North hand. He led the eight of clubs to North's jack and trumped a diamond with the ten of clubs. The four of clubs was led to the six-spot and another diamond was trumped with the club queen. The three of clubs, led to the five-spot, provided a third entry in order to trump North's last diamond.

At this stage there were no diamonds in either the North or South hand, the declarer having paved the way for an end play on West.

A low heart was led. West hopped up with the king. The ace won the trick. The queen was played. West threw his jack on it. As a result the declarer could not avoid losing a heart and a spade, for East won the third heart trick and led a spade through South's ace-queen.

Consider what would have happened had not Gardner been astute enough to realize what was going on.

After elimination of the diamonds from the North hand, if West had played low on South's lead of a heart, the queen would have been finessed, the ace would have been played and West would have been put into the lead with the king. If he led a spade South would take two tricks, with the queen and the ace. If West led a diamond it would have been trumped North with the two of clubs and the queen of spades would have been discarded South. The declarer's only lost trick then would have been a heart.

ceeded those of the corresponding period last year by 13.9 per cent.

It is again regarded as noteworthy that the gains over last year were confined to the intermediate and highest price brackets, the Bureau's report shows. Sales in the lowest price group showed a slight decline.

Texas recorded 1,823 deaths from automobile accidents in 1935, compared to 1,579 in 1934.

There is no mystery about PALATABLE COOKING

HOW would you like to see your next big company dinner emerge from the range done to a queen's taste? Get one of these ultra-modern gas ranges and let your ideal of a grand dinner be transformed into glorious realization!

Gas, you know, is recognized as having no equal as a clean, uniform, dependable and precisely regulated fuel for cooking. And in a thoroughly modern range like the one pictured, it will enable you to achieve cooking results scarcely dreamed of a few years ago. Perfect control of heat makes possible waterless cooking that preserves vitamins and minerals. Extra-heavy, heat-retaining oven insulation and heat control give oven dishes almost unbelievable success. Improved broiler, burners, automatic lighting, scientific design and other features contribute further in making the modern gas range a revelation in cooking appliances. Centennial year is travel year in Texas.

An opportunity for every Texan to know his own state; its scenic beauties, historical background and amazing resources!

The month of April is especially eventful. Houston, San Antonio, El Paso, Fort Worth, Victoria and other communities invite you to interesting historical celebrations; observances that will be cherished and long remembered by patriotic Texans.

Make your plans to attend these celebrations and other observances to be held throughout the year. Pack the family into the car, go by train or bus—really SEE Texas. You'll find Texas offers every vacation pleasure—and it's all right here in your own state.

See the calendar at the right. Write the Chamber of Commerce at the various cities for detailed information on events you are interested in.

TEXAS CENTENNIAL 1936

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

AUSTIN, April 15.—The Texas Safety commission, appointed by Gov. Allred in accordance with the year-old law creating the department of public safety, is running the department, and has the final say on the appointment of its director, and other matters of policy.

This was made clear here when the governor gave his full support to the two majority members of the commission, Albert Sidney Johnson, Dallas lawyer, chairman, and George Cottingham, editor of the Houston Chronicle; accepted the resignation of D. D. Baker, Seguin; and appointed in his place W. H. Richardson, Austin hardware merchant. Baker resigned after a disagreement with the other two members over appointment of L. G. Phares, who has been serving as acting director, as permanent director of the department. Sheriff Albert West, Jr., of San Antonio, was completely routed in his effort to dictate the appointment of J. B. Arnold, former sheriff of Bee-co, as director of the state police. Senior Ranger Captain J. W. McCormick, who threatened to resign also because he didn't like the appointment of Phares as director, changed his mind after a conference with the governor.

Politics Out

The incident was one of several which have occurred, and others are expected from time to time, in connection with the commission's task of moulding the Texas Rangers and the state highway patrol into an efficient, disciplined non-political state police organization. There is a fundamental difference between the commission and certain old-time peace officers in Texas as to how the job is to be done. Modern crime detection methods, involving technical knowledge of ballistics, chemistry, fingerprints, and other weapons of twentieth century police operatives, the commission thinks, are more effective today than the ten-gallon hats, hair-trigger pistols, and quick-drawing ability that made Texas peace officers of a past generation effective. The commission also feels strongly that no member or official of the state police should owe his job to political influence of local sheriffs or other politicians, since there are times when the state police may have to differ with the local sheriff—as was the case in San Antonio where the state police have carried on the war against bigtime gamblers with no encouragement from Sheriff West.

Motorists Get Break

Motorists of Texas got two advantageous rulings from the state highway commission here following a conference of the commissioners with directors of the Associated General Contractors' Texas chapter.

First, the commission promised that competitive bidding will be sought on all state road work in future, except in cases of extreme emergency on small construction jobs. The commission within recent weeks has ordered a considerable volume of work on roads leading to Centennial centers by the force amount, or day labor method, classifying this work as "emergency." Because experience has proved the contract system is cheaper and gets the work done more quickly, the commission announced it would issue a memorandum to all its district engineers, specifying competitive bidding on all but the most extreme emergency jobs in the future.

At the same time, the commission announced contractors have agreed, in cases where funds are not immediately available for complete financing of certain road projects, to accept an "installment" payment method on such contracts, accepting the contract at once for the entire job, and completing it immediately. This means that in a county where funds are available, for example, at the rate of $5,000 a month, on a road job costing $100,000, that the work will be done within two or three months, and paid for over a period of 20 months, instead of dragging out the job and leaving the road torn up for the entire 20-month period to the extreme inconvenience of the public or delaying start of the work until the entire necessary fund is accumulated.

Road Tax Policy

Of tremendous interest to communities in Texas that want more and better roads—which includes virtually every community in the state—was this clear declaration of highway tax policy voiced by Gov. Allred here in welcoming visiting members of the Oklahoma state highway commission, who came to Austin to observe methods of their Texas colleagues.

"The highway department of a state should be free of executive interference, and this administration has maintained a hands-off policy," said Gov. Allred. "The highway department should not be a political organization, and every person connected with it should be free to think, speak and vote as he pleases.

"When we get good highways into every rural section, then will be the time to talk about reduction or cessation of taxes for highway purposes. I was opposed to diverting highway revenues for purposes other than highway building two years ago, and I still stand on that statement. The use of gasoline taxes to retire bonds voted to pay for roads now in the state system has brought untold relief to taxpayers. I have no patience, however, with any scheme to divert any further funds for any purpose from the revenues now collected from motorists to pay for highways; nor with taking any random chances to substitute other forms of tax revenue for what we now have."

Allred's Answer

The governor's speech was interpreted by observers here as an answer, both to one candidate for governor who would summarily wreck the present well-tested method of financing road-building in Texas, and to certain wealthy bond brokers who bought up millions of county road bonds at depression prices, and now seek to have the state use its available road-building money to pay off these "dead horses," at an enormous profit to the holders of such bonds.

IT took more than just good performance to win over 2,500,000 Ford V-8 fans in less than four years. It's an entirely different kind of performance that did it!

It's the V-8 engine, first and foremost. The smoother flow of its 85 horsepower. Its pick-up in traffic. Its effortless pull in the open and on hills. For you can't expect any less modern engine to feel like a V-8.

Then there's riding comfort—on a springbase of 123"—almost a foot longer than wheelbase. There's the way a Ford "keeps its feet" on turns and rough roads—thanks to a type of chassis not found anywhere else in the world.

Why not try these advantages for yourself today? Before you decide on any new car—get the "V-8 feel" that put the Ford first in sales among all cars last year.

"We're Home Folks"

Golden Rain

by Margaret Widdemer

SYNOPSIS: Iris Lanning has been taken out of her restricted but aristocratic surroundings in Persia, Pa., and flung into her Aunt's glassy and artificial set in New York. Iris loves the gaiety and nonsense; now, quite surprisingly, she finds herself in the home of Mrs. Morgan, Allan Berkeley's grandmother. It is a center of old and very important New York—and to Iris' surprise, it resembles Persia, Pa., more than it resembles Aunt Phina's set. But there are signs that the party is to warm up later.

Chapter 28 ROWDY GUESTS

"Please talk to me," said Allan at that moment, abandoning Georgia to her treasure-trove. Iris laughed at him. "About what, my lord? Art, literature, big-game hunting, or what a darling grandmother you have? I could be particularly enthusiastic about that. Your grandmother's so like people at home she makes me want to spend the evening with her holding her hand."

He smiled. "Granny—Granny's a survival of a past age. Everything she ever cared for is gone, except my mother and me, and I wasn't even the favorite grandson or my mother the favorite daughter, and mother's usually in Europe. Granny doesn't like my ideas of life, you know. She likes 'em earnest-minded and civic."

They laughed together. "I do know, Uncle Will is awfully civic. If they elected a man out of an idiot asylum to be president or even governor, Uncle Will would be respectful and loyal till his term was up. They're rather wonderful, don't you think?"

"Yes—but it can't be an amusing life," said Allan. "Your brother, there, looks like the same sort of person. I hear he's a sort of American Captain Molyneux." Iris hoped it wasn't indiscreet to tell him; he was so gentle and sympathetic. "Yes, that's part of the loyalty. He hates designing, thinks it's effeminate. He's made himself an architect, studying nights, but he does this because Phina did so much for him, so many years. I think he's too loyal. I think people should practice the professions they want and marry the people they like, don't you?"

She leaned to him, unconsciously glowing and sparkling over the simple words. He looked at her as if he were warming himself in her shining personality.

"I wonder if you know what an incredible zest for life you have, Iris or how unusual it is. Promise me you won't let anybody turn it into synthetic pep and jazz. I need it too much the way it is." He laughed as he finished. "Be nice to Granny. If you pass (I am betraying Granny, but never mind), your aunt can have the Woodlands; if not, not. And as it's the only place to be leased in the whole of our rather water-tight community—" He shrugged his shoulders.

Iris was agast. "Why does it depend on me?"

"Granny has stern ideas about the class of tenants—sterner yet as to the manners of the young. The place is also rather sacred to her because it belonged to Aunt Louise and her son, my cousin, whom she shamelessly preferred to my mother and me, and who are both dead. Madame Phina is taking it only for your sake, as I understand."

"No, that's a mistake, I think," Iris shook her head.

He smiled. "I suppose you know the house's story. It belonged to my mother's sister's husband, an old style captain of industry out of a story book, dynamo in tweeds, that sort. He came to a violent end—so, later, did his son, my cousin Jim, it was said, because blighted by a lady."

His voice was mocking, and intentionally clear. Iris remembered something Dicky had said. Georgia was the girl who had been engaged to Allan's cousin.

"You would be nasty," said Georgia sharply.

"No, not nasty," he murmured, smiling under half-closed lids as he sipped his wine. "I was a little sorry for poor old Jimmy, he was always expecting everybody to be so incredibly high-minded."

"Allan, you're a beast," Georgia jerked an angry shoulder.

"That isn't true. If you love anybody you see them through anything!" Iris followed, as Mrs. Morgan gave the signal and they rose.

He looked at her, smiling. "I love the way you talk, little Iris. Yes, I'm sure you'd be like that." He bent his head, and his voice was caressing. "Do you know that you are something I have always looked for but didn't hope existed any more?"

Georgia, from the other side, thrust her arm through his.

"Angel," she said, "listen—this place is going to be full of the gang in about two minutes. Tell the butler to hunt up all the cushions in the house. And the table has to be cleared for the punch and stuff. You ought to have a movable bar, everybody else has." She kissed him.

"Sell it to Granny," said Allan amiably, "if you can."

"Here," clamored Dicky as the group streamed back into the front room, "Georgia has to kiss me." He was as usual a little lit, he grabbed for Georgia, got Sigrid and Camilla instead, one in each arm; kissed them both indiscriminately. "London Bridge is falling down!" he shouted.

Nobody minded particularly; it was like boisterous children's play for a moment, everyone shrieking with laughter and snatching at everything else; Owen, who had left his wine-glass nearly full, drew Sigrid from the melee, seized his opportunity to kiss her quietly and closely, and kept her in his arm thereafter till the din died down.

Iris herself had instinctively taken shelter by Mrs. Morgan and the white-haired lawyer. The old gentleman smiled at her, as old gentlemen always did. The three of them returned to Mrs. Morgan's corner.

Mrs. Morgan frowned. "John, how does one manage to acquire broad-mindedness about vulgarity?" she said to him in a tone which made it clear she had no intention of trying.

"Did you plan this?" demanded Mrs. Morgan of Allan.

He shrugged. "I planned the dinner for eight that you knew of. This Tartar horde is Georgia's doing."

"I wish I could depend on you once in a while, Allan."

The cowboy singer, gentle, friendly and a little excited, was already bending over the guitar on his fringed knee at the shout- ed demands of the group, and beginning to tune it to Camilla's eager finger on the Steinway grand.

"You're here, you can do your stunt next," Georgia called shrilly to Iris. "What you're going to hear, folks!"

Henry Stroebel Endorses Soil Saving Program

The Daily Press had a visit from Henry Stroebel Saturday, from the Lutheran community. He reported that he was having his lands terraced under the new soil conservation program.

"I am now having about 20 acres terraced on my tenant farm. I regret that I put off terracing my lands as long as I have, as I can now appreciate what it does in conserving the soil. Some of my land that I terraced eight and ten years ago is just as fertile as it was when first put into cultivation. I really believe it is more productive."

Sold on Conservation

"I am thoroughly sold on the soil conservation program that President Roosevelt has promulgated. I believe it is the most beneficent program for the farmers that has yet been offered, and I certainly hope every land owner will give the federal administration their thorough cooperation. It is to be regretted that some farmers are holding back, and not lending as complete cooperation as they should. This program prescribes a means of retaining the fertility of our lands and offers the owners federal grants for so doing. This program, if it gets the support it should, will preserve our lands for our children who will come after us, and instead of the farmers bleeding the soil white, there will be fertile lands for future generations, instead of the barren clay, on which they will have to build a new soil. There is not a great deal of new lands to be put into cultivation, and farmers will have to use that which we have. If they take all the soil, they must build more, and that requires much time and labor.

"The federal program is much easier and better, as we are building soil each year and making the land richer."

Cold Hurt Fruit
Mr. Stroebel said the cold weather and high winds did considerable damage to farm crops and fruits. The cold nights have kept young crops from growing, and nothing will do much good until the weather warms up.

"But we hardly know how fortunate we are, as compared to some of the northwestern states. I had a letter recently from my brother, who lives in Minnesota. He said the past winter was the hardest he had experienced in the 47 years he had lived in that state. He said the farmers were housed in for two months, and could not reach the towns. The coal dealers ran out of fuel, and farmers burned their fences and old out buildings to keep warm."
