BEER SALE INJUNCTION IS DENIED

First Contract Let on Highway Relocation

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

The hideous and the beautiful in nature's catalogue of creatures is on display in the window of the Collins Hardware company where C. C. Duff, co-principal of the high school and science teacher, has placed his zoology collection. A collection of butterflies captured about Cisco by Miss Marie Tune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tune, is included in the display. There are 116 of the beautiful creatures in the collection.

Mr. Duff also has a number of these butterflies, among them a rare creature whose gorgeous wings change with the light from a brilliant blue to a dark azure. Then there are specimens of the luna moth, a creature obviously of the night, whose luminous grey wings and body suggest the moon, giving it its name.

A Dobson fly, a creature about the size of a mosquito hawk, with curved scimitar-like pinchers that come to a point beyond its head, is another exhibit. It was caught by O. J. Russell. Then there is a vinegroom, a Mexican whip scorpion, whose hideous shape and wickedly curved tail suggests the poisonous character it is supposed to have.

Of interest is a common horned frog, petrified. The tragedy of petrification captured the creature in a moment of alertness, lifted and attentive upon its front legs, its tail raised as if to run. As a result it is startlingly life-like and unafraid.

An enormous scorpion of the same sort that we call a stinging lizard and common here, is another interesting feature. The size of this individual is the astonishing thing. It looks as if one large would paralyze a man, so large it is.

There is a basket of armadillo hide, a usable and not unattractive product, suggesting an industry for the extermination of these creatures. The silken home of the clever trap-door spider, trap-door and all, just as it was removed from the hole in the ground is shown. There are scores of rattlesnake rattles, three exhibits of them and a handful or two placed about among the other specimens. A gila monster preserved in alcohol is there, and in another bottle is what resembles, if it is not a squid, looking like a devil fish in the first stages of development. There are pinchers of some enormous prehistoric lobster, long ago turned to stone, and many other mysterious and queer items for whose explanation one must turn to people of more zoological knowledge than us average newspapermen.

ABILENE FIRM HAS LOW BID ON PAVEMENT

Setting Back Fences Starts as Work On Project Speeded

AUSTIN, April 30 (AP)—The state highway commission today announced the low bid for paving of the first section of the rerouting of Highway One through Cisco was that of the Womack-Henning Construction Company of Abilene. Womack-Henning's bid was $83,334 for the project.

The project called for 1.8 miles of grading and drainage structure, of the road, with caliche base and triple asphalt surfacing from 9 miles west of Cisco to F avenue in Cisco.

The commission said low bids on emergency construction yesterday totaled $1,466,700.

Included also in the list was Nolan county, 6.7 miles of grading and drainage structures on lateral road from Highway 13 from 13 miles south of Sweetwater, southeast, E. T. Prater, Memphis, $30,646.

Warning Sounded As Record Naval Funds Approved

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—A record peace-time naval bill, appropriating $531,068,707 for adding ships, air fighters and men to the nation's sea forces, was approved today by the house appropriations committee. Authority to build two new battle-ships was granted.

Meanwhile, a sub-committee revealed the report in which congress was advised "subversive activities" are threatening "the security of our fleet." The warning was attributed to Captain William S. Puleston, chief of the naval intelligence department, during the hearings on appropriations. He said the necessity for protection against subversive "activities" are clearly evident.

COURT HOLDS LICENSE MAY BE GRANTED

Davenport Bases His Ruling on Spirit of Legislators

The temporary injunction restraining County Judge Clyde L. Garrett from issuing licenses to beer dealers in Eastland county following the election of April 18 which legalized sale of beer and wine of not more than 14 per cent alcoholic content was vacated by Judge George L. Davenport of 91st district court this morning. Judge Davenport rendered an oral decision at the conclusion of arguments on the petition of a group seeking to have the election set aside as illegal.

"You are asking the court to construe a statute," Judge Davenport said. "In doing so, it is necessary to consider what was in the minds of the legislature in enacting the statute."

Laws Statutory
The court pointed out that all of the laws governing local option elections are statutory.

"In this case," the court said, "the problem is the more difficult because we must proceed without the benefit of the opinions of the appellate courts upon the issue." He remarked that Eastland county courts have been called upon to a greater extent, perhaps, than most other courts, to construe new

LOSS DENIED BY SELASSIE

Italians Reported On Edge of Capital

(By Associated Press)
Emperor Haile Selassie returned to his capital today, and two hours later entered into consultation with Cornelius Van H. Engert, minister resident and consul-general of the United States. The Emperor's whereabouts were a mystery until his sudden return today.

The emperor told the Associated Press correspondent: "Ethiopia is not defeated. It will carry on its fight to the last man."

Unconfirmed reports to Rome said the fascist advance guards were at the city limits of Addis Ababa. Other dispatches said that 30,000 men were within artillery short distance of the capital.

Sasa Baneh Taken
Marshal Pietro Badoglio, commander of the Italian armies in Ethiopia, today reported that Sasa Baneh, gateway to Harar, had been taken by a storm charge yesterday, which followed days of bitter battling.

From Addis Ababa a British ambulance unit reported that the Italians were only five miles northeast of the capital, and panic-stricken natives began fleeing. Simultaneously Italian planes flew over the airfield on the outskirts of Addis Ababa and machine-gunned the empty Ethiopian hangars.

The main body of the Italian troops were reported to be 75 miles from the capital, whose fall appeared to be imminent.

Foreigners took refuge in the lagnations as the invaders advanced unopposed.

Thompson Conferring Upon Rodessa Field

AUSTIN, April 30 (AP)—Chairman Ernest O. Thompson, of the Texas railroad commission, today announced that he was conferring with Louisiana authorities for a hearing on the bi-state Rodessa oil field. The time and place for the proposed joint session had not yet been determined, he said.

SCHOOLS PLAN PARENTS DAY

Exhibits and Picnics To Be Featured

Exhibits and picnics will mark "Parents and Visitors Day" at the ward schools May 15, it was announced today by Superintendent R. N. Cluck.

Each of the ward schools will present some form of exhibit in the building, on the walls of each room or in the halls, Cluck said. Plans are being left to individual schools.

The East Ward will have a picnic at Lake Cisco, with patrons and pupils attending. The West Ward and Grammar school will have luncheon on the school grounds.

Principal Bradley of the West Ward was reported to be working on a centennial program.

Former Ciscoan Dean of Religion For Vanderbilt

DALLAS, April 30 (AP)—Dr. Umphrey Lee, 43, today was notified of his appointment as dean of the school of religion at Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Lee occupied his first pulpit in Cisco in 1918 and 1919. He has been in Dallas since 1923, where he was regarded as a liberal minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

APPOINTMENT PLEASES CISCOANS

The numerous friends of Dr. Lee in Cisco today were pleased to learn of his advancement in the service of the church. While pastor of the First Methodist church here he was held in high church esteem by all with whom he came in contact, irrespective of church affiliation. Even during his first pastorate he was regarded as one of the promising young ministers of Methodism, and a brilliant future was even then predicted for him.

Leaving here in the latter part of 1919 Doctor Lee was appointed to the Bible chair at the University of Texas at Austin, which he held until 1923 when he went to Dallas.

11 Bills Returned By Grand Jury Today In Its Report

Fate Campbell was indicted for the murder of Buford Tarver near Cisco on the night of April 2 by the 88th district grand jury which completed its work and adjourned shortly after 3 p. m. today.

Tarver was fatally shot as the result of what officers said was an argument over a still.

Eleven indictments were returned by the grand jurors, one of them a misdemeanor. Felony indictments included true bills against Chester White, Jack C. Gilliland and Cora Vire Woods as a result of the robbery of Cleve Spicer, Abilene man, at Ranger on April 17. White and the woman were indicted for the robbery and Gilliland as an accomplice.

Roosevelt Invited To Texas Centennial

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—One hundred Texans, accompanied by Senator Sheppard and Connally, called on President Roosevelt at the White House today to renew the invitation to the chief executive to visit the centennial in Dallas June 6. The visitors shook the hand of the president, who is quoted as saying he still hoped to attend the celebration, but that it depended on congressional adjournment.

CLAIMS PLAN RACKET

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., April 30 (AP)—Representative Hoffman, R-Mich., said his congressional investigation of the Townsend old-age pension plan in Michigan, and the hearings in Washington, have convinced him that the plan is "a racket." He said there is no doubt whatever "that it is a racket."

POOL OPENS NEXT SUNDAY

No Program Announced By Manager

The Lake Cisco swimming pool will hold its formal opening Sunday, it was announced today by P. G. Berry, manager of the Lake Cisco Amusement company.

Berry said that no special program is planned for the opening day. "Just come on and hit the water," he said. "That's the main thing."

The amusement company will be making its bid for both the usual summer resort business and the additional prestige as "the Playground of West Texas" to centennial tourists.

Morgenthau Urges Full Tax Program

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau today forecast the biggest peace-time deficit in the history of the country—$5,966,000,000—for the current fiscal year, in urging congressional enactment of President Roosevelt's full tax program.

He said the repayment of the veterans' bonus was partly responsible for the huge figure. He recommended that the senate add the temporary processing taxes asked by the president to the $803,000,000 approved by the house yesterday.

J. C. McAfee Elected Rotary Head Today; Ponsler Is Vice President

Not a single ballot was cast at the Cisco Rotary club today noon, but the club elected an entire slate of officers to serve for one year beginning July 1, next.

J. C. McAfee was chosen president; R. L. Ponsler, vice president; J. E. Spencer, secretary; J. B. Cate, treasurer, and P. R. Warwick and Garland Nance directors.

The election was set off with the finally successful effort of R. N. Cluck to withdraw as a candidate for president and to move McAfee's election by acclamation. In the midst of his speech, for which he was not recognized by the chair, McAfee took the floor with a forceful speech demanding that the club elect Cluck.

He had no sooner begun, Cluck's attempted eloquence being smothered, than in came two small girls, Joan Scott and Raynell Godfrey, carrying between them a miniature McAfee Sign company bill board plastered with a flaming red background against which was a snapshot record of Cluck's life from the time he attended the Osage log cabin until the present.

Across the top was written: "Cluck for President." Prominent among the snapshots was one of a long-legged blade of the days when trousers ended a correct inch above the shoe tops. There were sundry other pictures, some ridiculous and some of a more sentimental character, the general effect being to throw the club into shouts of laughter.

Cluck finally prevailed against this boom, however, and with the consent of the club, withdrew, McAfee being elected by unanimous vote.

The precedent established, it ran through the entire procedure. Dr. E. L. Graham withdrew in favor of Ponsler who was similarly elected. Spencer and Cate were un-

Police Dogs on Guard at Reformatory

Convicts at U. S. Reformatory Know Dog Watch Always "Gets Its Man"

By WILLIAM M. PINKERTON, CHILLICOTHE, Ohio, April 29. (AP)—The federal industrial reformatory slows down to a walk at 4:30 p. m. each day. Pietro and Darius start their guard tours at that hour.

The two pioneer guard dogs of the federal prison service, who came here as an experiment two years ago, have convinced guards and inmates alike it is not safe to run across the wide prison yard while they're on duty.

Trained in Switzerland to bring down a running man and to disarm a man carrying gun or club, Pietro and Darius patrol the fields of the reformatory reservation at the heels of their guards each night.

No Man Gets Past

So successful have they been that eight other dogs have joined the federal prison guard staffs at institutions where large tracts of outside territory must be patrolled. No man ever has slipped past them.

If the guard sees a prowler, a word speeds the dog after him, if the man stops dead in his tracks, he dog will not attack. If he brandishes a weapon, the dog will grab his wrist.

To guards and others at rest, the big, muscular police dogs are friendly and affectionate. But a man on the run is their enemy.

Doubter Convinced

Guards here tell the story of a doubter who scoffed at Pietro and Darius when they first arrived.

"You can't tell me those dogs will attack a running man," he said. Guards who had trained with the dogs in the east offered to let him experiment.

The doubter set off for a garage a short distance away. Giving him a head-start, the guard loosed his charge. The man slammed the door behind him just as the dog leaped at his leg. He didn't scoff after that.

Another time, an inmate chasing a long fly on the baseball field during the late afternoon "rest" period, ran directly into the path of one of the dogs. Guards had cautioned inmates repeatedly to stop when the dog gave chase. The inmate-fighter was intent on the ball, however, and the dog was after the man before the guard could stop him. A sharp command from the guard stopped the attack just in time.

Ounce of Prevention

At the heels of their guards, the two dogs are quick to obey the slightest command. A slight motion of the guard's hand, and the dog will sit down. Another, and he will lie down, arise, heel, move forward or backward.

Unlike the old-time prison bloodhound, the police dogs are best known, not for tracking a lost prisoner, but for stopping a man before he can make his escape.

Then there is the J. F. Alsup improvements that are a certainty. The Gables hotel, which he recently purchased, will be razed and moved out to the Bob Key farm, near the T. & P. overpass, which he purchased a few days ago. The main building which will be constructed of this material will be the Alsup residence. I understand that besides the family residence one or more other buildings, sheds, barns, etc., will be erected from the residue of the building material.

"Another job that I am told will be done right away and that is the remodeling of the Cozy cafe, in the Heyser building, corner East Seventh street and D avenue, purchased this week by E. A. Snowden.

"Work, I learn, has been resumed on the Cisco Gas corporation's pipe line to the Grover Cleveland well. This job will probably give employment to about 30 men, and as the line will be laid over pretty rough territory, it will be some time before it is completed, which will mean considerable work for the unemployed.

"Ed Dolligener, who has the Ed Huestis service station contract, on D avenue and East Eighth street, is nearing the completion of this job. Contractor Kilgore is doing the concrete work, and pouring cement is almost finished on the driveway, which started Tuesday. Then I am sure there are other improvements that will get under way before the summer is over. Most of these are private jobs, of greater or less importance, but every little improvement goes for the making of a better town, and a better looking town," he said.

Another improvement is the repainting of the F. D. Pierce home, 303 West Sixth street. This home has recently been adorned in a handsome coat of white, which adds much to its appearance.

These improvement projects are in addition to the Highway One cut-off down Eighth street. It is probable this contract will be let today, and work will start as soon as possible on the west end of the project. Then there is the east end of the project and the viaduct to be built, which means plenty work for those not employed.

Organization of Cisco Townsend Club Announced

Organization of a Cisco Townsend club was announced today by E. G. Kemper, chairman of the 17th district for the Townsend revolving pension plan, with headquarters at the Daniels hotel. Kemper said that more than 250 had been registered as honorary members and that there were 52 charter members of the group.

Th group will finance the bringing of national speakers to Cisco to assist in promoting interest and knowledge of the pension and recovery program in Cisco.

"I find that the movement is gaining ground fast in Cisco as well as all over the 17th district," said Kemper. "Some of the smaller places in the district have gone solid for the Townsend plan. All the propaganda that has been put out against the Townsend plan by the money interests is reacting in favor of the program. The multitude of the people are tired of being choked and starved by the money if the country who control our lawmakers. They see the result that condition in the presence of 13,000,000 unemployed, and they are learning fast that the Townsend plan will give everyone work at a good, living wage so that they can support their families and educate their children."

Officers of the Cisco club were announced as George W. Daniels, president; Miss Mable Daniels, secretary, and J. C. Cobleigh, treasurer.

More than 50,000 tung trees have been planted in the Beaumont, Tex., area during the past year and more than 100,000 seedlings were started.

American Supplies Held Inadequate For U. S. in Event of War Blockade

By LLOYD LEHRBAS
WASHINGTON, April 30. (AP)—Does the United States produce the raw "munitions" it would need if an enemy power got control of the sea lanes?

This question, vital to national defense, is answered in a report on raw materials and their relation to a conflict of any magnitude just compiled by Col. John A. Wagner, procurement expert of the war department's quartermaster corps.

"America's great power," Colonel Wagner reports, "is due not so much to victories on the battlefields, as to the possession of essential raw materials and the ability of her citizens to properly change these raw materials into articles of commerce."

Two Years Without Imports
No other nation, Colonel Wagner finds, has the natural resources and industrial organization to carry on a war for two years without importing huge amounts of war supplies.

A detailed survey of strategic raw materials, essential to warfare, made by Wagner, has convinced him that this country either has or could produce in an extreme emergency, the things it needs for victory.

Where Materials Produced
The list of materials, including their chief sources and the percentage produced in the United States, in The Quartermaster Review, shows:

MANGANESE (Indispensable in steel manufacture): U. S. 29 per cent; Soviet Russia 33 per cent; Brazil 25 per cent; India 9.7 per cent; Gold Coast 8 per cent; Canada 5 per cent. Wagner recommends that, in view of American utilization being much greater than production here, a war supply should be built up.

CHROMIUM (needed as an alloy, in chemical manufacture, and for armor plate, projectiles and gun carriages): U. S. none; Rhodesia 56 per cent; Cuba 15 per cent. Wagner recommends building up a war stock for emergency purposes, although it is expected this country would be able to secure Cuban supplies even in wartime.

NICKEL (for nickel steels, heavy machinery and guns, armor plate): U. S. 2 per cent; Canada 90 per cent. Chief world's supply is only few miles across American border in a friendly country, with no expectation of difficulty securing supplies.

TUNGSTEN (necessary in toughening alloys and high speed cutting tools): U. S. 24 per cent; China 44.7 per cent; Great Britain 14 per cent. Production here, plus substitution of molybdenum, sufficient.

TIN (for tetrachloride, important as a producer of glazes and concealing smoke in explosives): U. S. none; British Malaya 65 per cent; Great Britain 21 per cent. Wagner recommends building up a small war stock, chiefly for industrial convenience, pending sufficient production of substitutes.

ANTIMONY (for hardening lead in shrapnel shells, percussion caps of shells and charges, in bearing metals): U. S. none; China 70 per cent; Mexico 10 per cent. Substitutes, plus small deposits of low grade ores here which could be worked, sufficient.

MERCURY (for ammunition and important manufacturing purposes): U. S. 40 per cent; Spain 30 per cent; Italy 22 per cent; American production, plus use of substitutes, sufficient.

PLATINUM (electrical and chemical industries, including manufacture of sulphuric acid and nitric acid, necessary in manufacture of explosives of all kinds): U. S. 5 per cent; Colombia 42.5 per cent; Great Britain 42 per cent; Germany 12.5 per cent. Substitutes, secondary recovery and possible import from Colombia, sufficient.

MICA (insulation purposes): U. S. 26 per cent; India 50 per cent; Canada 10 per cent.

NITRATES (essential for explosives): U. S. 67.4 per cent; Chile 21.9 per cent.

RUBBER (tires, insulation, rubber goods): U. S. none; Malay states 66 per cent; East India 18.5 per cent. Large stocks and substitutes sufficient, but small war stock recommended when purchasable at low price.

SILK (parachutes and powder bags): U. S. none; Japan 83 per cent; China 16.2 per cent. Artificial substitutes, plus normal stock, sufficient.

JUTE, MANILA FIBRE and SISAL (rope, sandbags, wrapping purposes): U. S. none, all being produced in the Philippines, India, East Indies and Mexico. Numerous substitutes, including wire, cotton and flax, available.

WOOL (uniforms): U. S. 55 per cent; Great Britain 10 per cent; China 8 per cent. Stocks and substitutes sufficient.

COFFEE: U. S. none; Brazil 68.9 per cent; Colombia 18.7 per cent. If stocks are cut off from Brazil and Colombia the nation must use substitutes or go without.

SUGAR: U. S. 17.5 per cent; Cuba 56.4 per cent; Hawaii 11.8 per cent; Puerto Rico 8.5 per cent; Philippines 7.9 per cent. Production, plus substitutes including corn sugar, sufficient.

The United States produces no iodine, but yucca (source of strychnine), opium or quinine, necessary medical supplies, which come from Indo-China, India, Chile, Great Britain, Turkey, Greece, the Netherlands and Japan. Small war stocks are recommended, since the only possible supply would be production of iodine from California brines and kelp.

The United States is also dependent on imports, chiefly from Japan and tropical countries, for coconut shells (charcoal for gas masks) and camphor (manufacture of smokeless powder and photographic film) but acceptable synthetic substitutes would be available in an emergency.

Soil Committee Aiding Farmers On Work Sheets

The Cisco community soil conservation committee held its first session here Tuesday to assist farmers of the "community" in preparing the work sheets upon which to base compliance with the soil conservation program of the AAA. Meeting with the committee was R. R. Bradshaw of the county committee.

The Cisco community group consists of Lee Boland, Oscar Schaefer and Joe Dunoway. These were elected at a recent meeting of farmers of the community. For the administration of the program the county has been divided into five such communities of 500 farmers each.

There is nothing compulsory about the new AAA program. Farmers first prepare "work sheets" as a basis from which to determine the extent of their compliance with the new soil conservation program under which they will be paid benefits on land removed from production and devoted to soil-saving crops. The next step will be application for the benefits which are to be paid after the extent of the farmer's compliance with the program is determined from actual plantings. The group, working at the chamber of commerce, will complete its work on May 15.

and Murphy, are making a survey of BB&BY survey. The duty of these field men is to make a general survey of all lands in the various surveys to ascertain the physical condition of the lands and to note the improvements. When this survey is complete it will be the basis on which the real property of the state will be assessed for taxation.

Every year, the Humble Company receives thousands of voluntary comments on Humble Service Check Cards from Texas motorists and out-of-state visitors. These cards tell their own story of courteous, helpful service, of clean stations, of spotless restrooms. Humble Station men take a justifiable pride in these comments from their customers.

Restrooms at Humble Service Stations are as carefully kept as your bathroom at home. Many of them are tiled—all of them are spotlessly clean and sanitary. They are equipped with every modern convenience for your comfort.

In a recent study of Humble Service Check Cards mailed to the Company by Humble customers, nearly half the comments complimented Humble Service Station men on their friendly courtesy. These trained men render the kind of service which motorists find helpful.

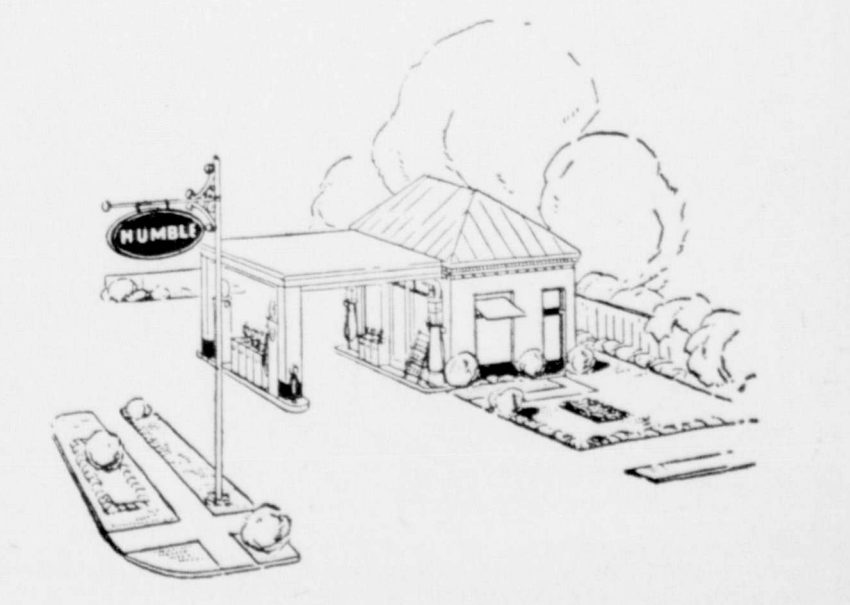

We make no exaggerated advertising claims for Humble products, but we do say, you'll find them definitely second to none. We ask you to try them in your own automobile; to test Humble Motor oils and Humble motor fuels under your own driving conditions. When you do, we're confident you'll come back for more.

at a HUMBLE STATION"

"The stations we man are specially designed and equipped to make driving an automobile in Texas pleasant, comfortable and carefree, and to give your car the expert care which it needs and to which you are entitled. We feel, too, that a Humble Service Station owes something to the neighborhood in which it is located: that's why our stations are so carefully maintained and why we go to such pains to keep grass, flowers and shrubs neat and attractive . . . Frankly, we're proud of our stations, proud of their scrubbed driveways, their shining brass, their equipment for servicing your car. We believe that a Humble Service Station is the kind of place in which motorists—both men and women—like to do business . . . So we invite you to stop some day and have a good look around, to poke into corners and look behind doors. We're confident you'll be so pleased that you'll make it a regular practice to stop for service—and for products of tested quality—where you see the Humble sign."

THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH DISTRICT COURT

(Judge Patterson, Presiding)
There were no orders in the 88th court this week, as Judge Patterson was absent from the county, presiding over Judge McCallum's court at Dallas.

The only new cause of action that was filed in the court was that of Cisco Mortgage and Loan Co. vs. S. E. Hittson, suit on note.

Grand Jury Reconvenes Monday

The grand jury of the 88th district court will reconvene Monday in recess session, when the Tarver murder case, and the robbery with firearms of J. E. Spicer will come before the inquisitorial body for investigation.

Transcript of Henry Trial

The State of Texas vs. Raymond Henry, on appeal from the 50-year sentence verdict after conviction in connection with the murder of H. L. McBee, the "hanging skeleton" case, was granted his application for transcript of the trial. Henry having filed an affidavit that he was unable to pay, and could not furnish security for cost of the transcript, it was the order of the court that the court reporter compile a complete transcript of the evidence given at the trial, free of cost, in accordance with the law where an affidavit of inability to pay is made.

THE NINETY-FIRST DISTRICT COURT

(Judge Davenport, Presiding)

New Cases Pending

The following new causes of action have been filed in the 91st court for litigation during the past week:

J. H. Roby vs. Jessie Earl Roby, divorce. B. T. Anderson vs. Phillips Petroleum Co. et al. damages. Wilson Harrison vs. Ruby Harrison, divorce.

Judgments and Orders

The plaintiff, J. N. Pittman, was granted a complete divorce in an action for annulment of his marriage with the defendant, Carrie Pittman.

The case of Mattie D. Stockard et vir vs. the Farm and Home and Saving association, action to cancel deed of trust, is pending. Testimony in the case was completed Friday, and the court will hear arguments of counsel Wednesday, and render his decision, as a jury in the case having been waived and all matters left to the decision of the court.

Jury for Sixth Week

Following is the personnel of the petit jury for the sixth week of the April term, who have been summoned to report for service for the week beginning May 11:

Harland Phillips, D. N. Waggoner, D. C. Weeks, R. C. Wilson, Joe Thompson, T. D. Martin, Cull Moorman, J. W. Weaver, Ranger; W. H. Ware, L. O. Watson, J. W. Weatherman, J. S. Welty, Frank White, W. P. Whitlock, C. S. Davis, Rising Star; W. W. Walters, B. F. Wilcox, G. L. Wingate, G. B. Lanier, James Horton, Eastland; E. R. Watson, L. A. Warren, Dan Wende, E. J. Wende, L. D. Wilson, E. K. Wenge, Edgar Altom, Cisco; J. O. Warren, W. H. White, Gorman; J. F. Warren, Olden; R. W. White, Desdemona; W. C. Wilkinson, A. M. Wolf, B. C. Thompson, Carbon; V. M. Williams, R. E. Townsend, D. L. Allen, W. E. Lusk, Nimrod; I. L. Gattis, Scranton; J. W. Claborn, Okra.

THE DEPARTMENT OF THE COUNTY CLERK

Marriage Licenses

The following have been issued license to marry during the past week:

Earl Free and Miss Hattie Mae Stephens, Cisco.
Leon Murray and Miss Bonnie Reed Driver.

Everett Ligon and Miss Thelma G. Harris, Eastland.

Orders in Probate

Application of W. H. McDonald, guardian of Melvin B. Montgomery, N. C. M., to effect a compromise settlement of a case pending in the district court of Jones county for compensation for damages by injuries alleged to have been sustained by his ward while in the employ of the Humble Pipe Line Co. The terms of the compromise are that the defendant in the suit, the Petroleum Casualty Co., agrees to settle by the payment to the guardian the sum of $1,000. The application was approved and the compromise settlement authorized by the court.

Application of Florence Scott for letters of guardianship of the estate of Joe L. Scott, N. C. M., approved and letters ordered issued. The guardian's bond was set at $2,500, which was filed with the court, with Fred R. Scott, Henry C. Scott and Mrs. Nora Harris as sureties, which was approved. W. E. Tyler, W. M. Wood and George Brogdon, were named as appraisers.

Application of Mrs. Emma C. Lawson for letters of guardianship of the person and estate of Chester Lawrence Lawson and Sammie Lawson, minors, was approved by the court, and letters ordered issued when Mrs. Lawson shall file her bond in the sum of $400.

In the matter of the guardianship of Carrie E. Tipton. Application to close guardianship. A jury being waived all matters were left to the court, who, after hearing the evidence, was of the opinion that the application should be approved. Therefore it was the decree of the court that the guardianship proceedings against the estate of Carrie E. Tipton be closed, and that the guardian, J. R. Burnett, shall immediately settle his accounts and deliver all properties remaining in his hands to the said Carrie E. Tipton, and that after the guardian shall have filed his final report as such, and the same is approved by the court as provided by law, said guardian and his bondsmen shall be discharged of any further and all liability.

In the matter of the administration of the estate of Joe Young, deceased, the application of W. S. Adams, administrator, to file a disclaimer to certain lands alleged to be a part of the estate, on which R. W. Mayo claims to hold a lien, was approved. The court finds that the title to the land in question was faulty, and that the said Joe Young never acquired a legal deed, and that it is to the best interest of the estate that the administrator be authorized to disclaim any interest in said property, and the said Mayo be permitted to foreclose his deed of trust in satisfaction of the alleged claim of $2,000 against the estate.

Annual report of Ida Inez Short, guardian of Ben Elroy Short, minor, showing the properties of the estate to consist of cash, United States and Federal Land bank bonds to the value of $7,195.25. The report was approved.

Good Neighbor League to Fight Liberty League

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—The newly-formed "Good Neighbor League," bearing the endorsement of President Roosevelt, entered the national picture today. One of its leaders said it would fight for ideals "opposite" to those of the American Liberty League, the bitter new deal critic. The announcement said that "human values come before property values"—a thought the president has used in replying to his critics. Directors of the Good Neighbor League include a long list of prominent men and women of the nation.

"For the art of loyally enjoying our being we must substitute the experiences—the art of loving completely and living aright. And why should that be difficult to obtain?"

The Broken Glass Criminal PRESENCE of broken glass about the swimming pools, parks and other places where people gather for outings and recreation forms a serious menace.

THE worst offender is the nighttime liquor drinker. He and his gang drive up in the darkness, "kill" a pint or quart or whatever amount they have and then hurl the bottles against a tree or post or the ground, shattering them and spreading the menace of broken glass for unsuspecting feet.

It is difficult to catch this offender. But any person who wantonly scattered glass about a resort or any other place where people gather is criminal enough to merit the most severe penalties for that type of offense.

The condition is called to the attention of the city with the suggestion that some method of dealing firmly and severely with this menace should be adopted.

The Pools Are Open THE Lake Cisco Amusement company will formally open its swimming pools Sunday.

THE Lake Cisco Amusement company will formally open its swimming pools Sunday. These pools, among the largest artificial swimming resorts in the world, are an asset peculiarly Cisco's own.

IN these pools and in the parks and grounds about them there exists one of the most healthful influences that any town possesses.

THE resort is undoubtedly a civic asset of great value purely from the standpoint of the publicity and attraction to Cisco that it means.

Chapter 41 MYSTERY'S END

"Good Lord!" said Allan, jumping out of his wicker chair. He stared at Morgan's tall, broad-shouldered, loose-jointed, lounging behind the older man.

"Good afternoon, Allan," said Morgan placidly. "How is Granny?"

"So that's the answer," Allan said with his little amused laugh. It sounded harmless enough except for the amazing fact that Morgan and Allan knew each other. But Morgan's face was at its blackest.

"How dare you go on misjudging Iris?" Then he got hold of his temper with an effort and spoke gravely. "After all, suspicion's a family trait. We'd neither of us got hardened to honesty."

Allan still looked blankly shocked and a little pale; but he snatched with fair success at his usual manner.

"Behold," said he, "the long-lost heir. My Lord, Jim, I may have fallen below the romantic ideal, but at least I never let an old woman break her heart because I pretended to be drowned."

"Granny knows I'm alive," Morgan said. "She has ever since the night you went back on Iris." Iris stood struck, gaping and silent. She held to the wicker table to steady herself. Jim . . . Morgan, her Morgan was the dead grandson Jim she had heard of from Camilla and Allan and everyone. What a fool she'd been, not to put two and two together, not to see.

"I wrote Granny I was going round the world, going to stay away a couple of years; it's no more than you've done a half dozen times."

"And then you were found in the Hudson, all nice and dead, complete with identification."

And Morgan, explaining crossly, "I gave a poor devil some clothes and cash—left things in the pockets, never was a neat little boy like you."

And Allan: "Don't apologize. You wanted to be loved for yourself alone. I hope you keep your illusions this time!"

And then Uncle Will, forgotten in the background, quieting the two men on the edge of a new quarrel. There was a moment of polite conversation, and then Allan, poised and amiable, made his polite departure. He got hold of himself—he made a gallant exit. "I'm glad you're alive, old boy—you know that," he said as he went.

"I do know it, Al," Morgan said, and the two shook hands.

"Granny's waiting inside there," Allan added over his shoulder as he passed out of the garden. "Tell her her surprise party was a wonderful success, and that I'm going back to New York. You'll find her in the living room, probably with a fatted calf in her handbag."

But Granny was outside. She had stepped out of the French window, Aunt Ella behind her.

"I was getting a little impatient, Jim," she said. "I'm sorry not to have said more to you the night of the concert, Iris, but— for a consideration—I gave Jim my word." She beckoned Iris closer, and Iris ran into her arms and kissed her. "I'm getting what I wanted, you're marrying my grandson," she said. "We needed sound stock in the strain. You're a good child, Iris."

Iris clung to her a moment. Then she said, a little shyly, "And— and Aunt Phina?"

"You're a loyal little soul. Well, she's ridden into glory (or what's glory for her) on your skirts. Nobody's going to stop her, and she'll have enough trouble," said Granny dryly, "getting into the ultimate social Holy of Holies to keep her amused for some years yet. People like her aren't happy unless they're storming redoubts."

"She is a wonderful woman, Phina," said Uncle Will gently.

"You are wonderful people, you Lannings," said Granny, smiling, yet as if she meant it too. "Well, Mr. James Morgan Jameson, I know you have a good deal to discuss with Iris, and as I'm staying the night I'll see you children again."

The sunset was like a doorway opening into Paradise. But Iris, slim and ivory-colored and flashing-eyed in her rosy ruffled dress, turned on Morgan Jameson, angry with him as she had never been in her life. "I suppose you've been having a wonderful time with your pretty romance, haven't you? As your cousin would say, toying with the village maid?"

"Iris!"

"I think I've had enough to do with your family. Why didn't you tell me then that you loved me, that you were you, instead of driving over to Long Island and back, the Mysterious Stranger? You've behaved horribly. You talk so much about honesty—you haven't any. I never want to see you again."

It was Morgan, the quick-tempered, who remained quiet this time.

He stood quite still. He even smiled a little.

"I'm not completely intelligent," he said simply, "anymore than anybody else. But as for willfully deceiving you, I hadn't an idea of it. I couldn't foresee that you were going to be dropped into a nest of my friends and relatives."

"When you knew, you could have told me."

"When I knew, you seemed just one more girl like the rest, like Georgia. A girl who wanted Phina Weatherley's sort of thing. I do owe you apologies there, Iris. But there's one thing there's no apology coming on. I've never stopped loving you, the very best way I knew how. And I thought you loved Allan. There wasn't anything to do but take it and like it. I never meant to leave this place."

"And if I marry you, what will everybody think now? That I tried to marry Allan for what he could give me. And then when I found out you could give me as much—"

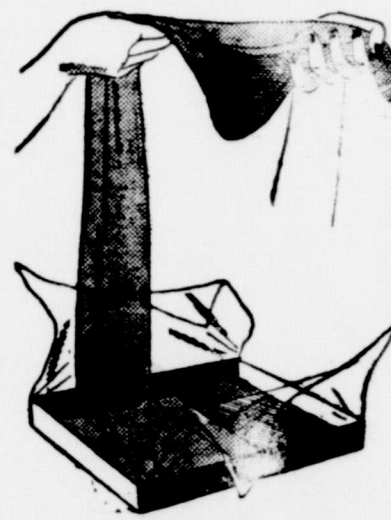

"It happens to be more," said Morgan quietly.

"I turn—just like Georgia—and snatch for you. How do

Mr. and Mrs. Ham Await November To Celebrate Their Golden Wedding

By R. W. H. KENNON

Rounding out a marital life of 50 years of felicity, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh W. Ham, are quietly resting and awaiting the idea of November 7, 1936, when they are planning to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary simply but happily.

"But the golden weddings are not being celebrated now as they were in the yester-years of the early eighties, for then the fiftieth wedding anniversaries were not as common as they are today," Mr. Ham told a Daily Press man Sunday. "I guess people are living longer now than when I was young, as we hear of more people reaching the fiftieth milestone in their married lives. Golden weddings would be more numerous than they were in not for the divorce courts. I know of several acquaintances who have been married—the first time—even longer, than I have been married to Mrs. Ham. Unfortunately the matrimonial chain in their cases has been broken, and with their present mates will hardly be eligible for their crystal wedding celebration.

"But Mrs. Ham and I will have lived together in marital happiness for 50 years, ere the idea of next November shall have rolled around, for during that time I have had but one wife and she but one husband. We have directed our matrimonial ship over some rough seas but will always make Hymen's port without serious shipwreck," Mr. Ham reminisced.

But we are not discussing matrimonial anniversaries. Rather we have selected Mr. Ham as the subject of the "old timers" story of the Daily Press for today. But Mrs. Ham must necessarily be a part of his story, for she has been his companion and helpmeet through his entire life in West Texas.

Maybe Oldest Native Texan

Hugh W. Ham, who came to west Texas 36 years ago, may truly claim to be one of the oldest living native Texans. Until his death in 1932 the late Martin Parmer, who is listed as one of the signers of the Texas declaration of independence, held that record unchallenged.

Mr. Ham was born on the bank of the Big Brazos river, in Bosque county, February 24, 1857, and will have reached his eightieth birthday anniversary if he lives until next February. (And he isn't sickly.) He is the medical member of a quintet of boys of the family—two older and two younger than he—all living. He said there were two sisters, but neither now survives.

The eldest of these five Ham boys is M. F. Ham, of Woodson, aged 85; next is Charles Ham, of Canton, Van Zandt county, aged 82. Then the subject of this sketch, who will have reached his 80th year next February. Following him the two younger brothers are Thomas Ham, of Lancaster, Dallas county, aged 78 years, James E. Ham, Floresville, aged 75 years.

Father Near Alamo Victim

The parents of Mr. Ham were natives of Tennessee, like many others, came to Texas and helped the Lone Star state to gain its freedom from Mexico, thereby giving Tennessee the distinction of being called the Volunteer state. The sire of Hugh Ham fought with the Texans, and was in San Antonio when the alamo fell, but, fortunately for him, he was wounded in the fight preceding the massacre and at the time when those immortals fought to the death he was in another part of San Antonio, lying wounded in a tent, and thus escaped the fate of Crockett, Bowie and others. He was Needham L. Ham, who lived for many years after the Alamo massacre, and died in Dallas county, after having served in the Confederate army when Texas cast her lot with the Southern cause.

"I have often heard my father relate how much he suffered with the wound while lying in the tent that really saved his life. But he finally recovered, and was able to serve the Confederacy under Albert Sydney Johnson. He later congratulated himself for getting that wound, which kept him from sharing the fate of the Alamo martyrs."

Married in Hill County

Hugh W. Ham and Miss Sallie Ledbetter were married in Hill county November 7, 1886, and will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on that date next November. They came to west Texas 36 years ago, first stopping in Albany for a few months, and then settling in Lueders, where Mr. Ham engaged in the grocery business, building the first house in that place. Later they moved to Stamford where they remained for about 16 years until they moved to Cisco about 18 years ago.

Since coming here he has engaged in the grocery business and for the last few years was located at 1306 D avenue until he sold his stock of merchandise to Mrs. Lillie Perdue, who took over the business last Saturday. He and Mrs. Ham are occupying property they own at 506 East Eighth street, where they are quietly resting on the western horizon of life, rounding out their 50 years of matrimonial felicity, with only the one regret that there were no children to glorify their marital life.

Among The Derricks

BELOW STAR TO TEST

RANGER, April 30.—The Lone Star Gas company and the Lone Star Gasoline company are deepening the Taylor No. 2, located about two miles west of Ranger. This well produced for 17 years from the Ranger sand and is now being deepened to test the Duffer producing horizon and several possible producing points between the Ranger and the Duffer.

Phil G. Russell, geologist for Lone Star, expects to encounter the top of the Duffer at a depth of 3,660 feet. The present depth of the well is 3,476 feet.

The company intends to drill another Taylor lease well to the Duffer, regardless of the outcome of this test.

The Lone Star Gas company and the Lone Star Gasoline company are vitally interested in the Ranger area and are undertaking these tests in the hope of calling attention to possible oil and gas below the Ranger sand.

The companies hope other owners of unplugged wells in the Ranger area will consider the possibilities of production below the Ranger sand and also the good chance of developing production in the black lime, above the Ranger sand, by shooting.

Numerous wells in the Ranger area have had a good showing and in some instances good natural production from the black lime of Marble Falls, but passed up these showings in the rush for gusher production during the boom.

This hard, black lime, as a rule, responds excellently to a shot. It is hoped that before plugging any wells that had a showing of oil in the black lime the owners will shoot them before abandoning them.

As is generally known, wells are being plugged in this area almost weekly and unless something is done, and done promptly the interests of this area will greatly suffer, company officials have pointed out.

The Lone Star Gas company, through its geological department, will furnish any information and advise relative to conditions around any of these wells, it was stated Saturday.

J. P. MORRIS WELL IS PRODUCER

ALBANY, April 30.—Reliance Oil & Royalty Corporation—Jones & Stasney No. 1, J. P. Morris started flowing at a rate of 12 barrels hourly when drilled into the Bluff Creek sand at 1583 to 1601 feet to make a slight southwest extension for the pool. The well is the west center location of the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 190, ETRY and opening new territory for drilling.

The same operators staked location for No. 2 J. P. Morris 440 feet east of the producer and their No. 3 a like distance south of the producer.

Putnam Supply Co. No. 1-B, J. P. Morris has staked a new test 220 feet from the south and 508 feet from the east lines of section 200, ETRY in the northeast side of the Bluff Creek area.

Baker & Pardue No. 4, J. P. Morris is drilling at 1,200 feet in the northeast corner of south center 40 acres of the southeast quarter of section 200, ETRY.

White & Duncan No. 1, G. R. Davis is a new wildcat location southeast of Bluff Creek pool in the center of section 221, ETRY.

Western Shackelford is credited with having 20 active tests this week with the play extending north and south from the Bluff Creek pool and eastward toward Albany into the W. P. Newell ranch.

Truckers Must Get Chauffeur's License

EASTLAND, April 30.—Works Progress Administration employees must have chauffeur's licenses if they drive trucks, E. D. Baker, traveling inspector for the Department of Public Safety, of Ft. Worth, informed Tax Assessor-Collector T. J. Haley at Eastland Monday.

Baker also conferred with the sheriff's department on work of the safety commission in investigation of the H. L. McBe case.

GRAZING RETURNS PROFIT

SAN ANGELO, (AP)—Grazing on winter grain fields of west Texas compounds profit for ranchmen. Louis Williams and Bill Mason, Jr., of Eden bought 2,500 lambs at $4 a head last fall, paid 10 cents a month each for 90 days' pasturage and sold them, wool included, at $8 a head.

Miss Jean Johnson, businesswoman, scored 100 per cent to best all competitors at a spelling bee at the San Diego exposition.

Sidney Clare, lyric writer, was born in a house afire. Among the films he has tuned is the fiery "Dante's Inferno."

Derby Eve Bout Is Due to Match Welterweight Champ With Woods

LOUISVILLE, April 30. (AP)—At a sideshow to the main attraction provided by the Kentucky Derby, sport fans next month will be offered the Derby eve fight.

The Derby will be run May 2. On the night before, Welterweight Champion Barney Ross of Chicago, will battle Cruck Woods of Detroit, in the Derby's annual fistie prelude. Jack Dempsey will referee.

Boxing was legalized in Kentucky in 1921, and since then the Derby eve fights have become a fixture on the Louisville sports program. The large crowds attracted by the $40,000 horse race have been tempting to promoters, who do their best to get their hands on some of the plentiful spending money.

Ten world champions have appeared on previous cards, including the top men of every class except flyweight and heavyweight.

Title-holders who strutted their stuff here before Derby crowds include Joe Lynch and Bud Taylor, bantamweights; Freddie Miller, featherweight; Jack Bernstein, junior lightweight; Sammy Mandell, lightweight; Pinkie Mitchell, junior welterweight; Jackie Fields, welterweight; Mickey Walker, welterweight and middleweight, and Tommy Loughran, light-heavyweight.

The record gate of the Derby eve fights was taken in 1921, when a crowd paid $21,600 to see EASTLAND, April 30.—Judgment of $15,000 for asserted injuries allegedly sustained in an automobile accident May 29, 1934, was asked in a suit filed in district court this week by B. T. Anderson of Tom Green county against Phillips Petroleum Co.

The plaintiff's petition sets forth that his wife, Dorothy, is unable to work because of the accident which assertedly resulted in 60 day's confinement in a hospital.

The petition charges negligence of Joe Wood, who is named as driver of the automobile, as the cause of the accident.

According to the petition, Mrs. Anderson was riding from Rising Star to Cross Plains and the purported accident occurred near Pioneer. A Mr. Cribbs is named as the driver of the automobile in which Mrs. Anderson was riding.

Turner, Seaberry and Springer of Eastland and Anderson & Jones of San Angelo are plaintiff's counsel.

British Viceroy Of India Facing Difficult Task

NEW DELHI, India, April 30. (AP)—The Marquess of Linlithgow, succeeding Lord Willingdon as viceroy of India, is in the opinion of many, shouldering the most difficult task any subject of the British crown has had to face within the empire for 50 years.

The great Indian sub-continent will have to be changed by him from an autocratically governed British possession under a viceroy into an autonomous federation in which the empire will be represented by a governor general. No man, Britishers here think, could do the job better. Lord Linlithgow was chairman of the parliamentary committee that shaped the autonomy-giving constitution for India in 1933.

In Father's Footsteps

Previous wide experience of India's intricate problems came to him through travel, and as chairman of the royal commission on Indian agriculture, 1926-28.

Actually, inaugurating constitutions is becoming a Linlithgow family job. The marquess' father, John Adrian Louis Hope, set the present Australian constitution working as governor general of the commonwealth, 1900-02.

Born 48 years ago, Victor Alexander John Hope, of Hopetoun House, Linlithgowshire, is head of the Scots clan of the Hopes.

There are many of them. The Hopetoun parson once droned in his sermon, "The world is full of blasted hopes," just as the marquess, his wife, their twin sons and three daughters filed into the family pew under the pulpit.

Expects Thrilling Experience. Tall, debonair and commanding, he is a "strong man," and his policy is always one of action.

His appointment has been widely welcomed in India. The Indian congress organ, the "National Call," recognized Linlithgow was responsible for the report of the Indian agriculture commission "which won for him the admiration of the Indian people." He had travelled 18,000 miles on a personal tour of inspection before he sighted it.

He expects a thrilling time during his term of office. "Make no mistake about it," he said recently, "the rural masses of India, for so many centuries unchanging, are at last on the move."

Linlithgow has been described as one of Britain's "most solemn peers," but his looks belie him. In the World war he delighted several privates serving under him by performing an impromptu apache dance.

On another occasion in the officers' mess, he impersonated a maiden aunt at a children's party, and often could be heard all over divisional headquarters doing full justice to tenor arias from Gilbert and Sullivan operas.

Five Millions Paid In Cotton Adjustment

WASHINGTON, April 30. (AP)—The AAA said today that a total of $5,372,706 in price adjustment payments had been mailed to cotton producers in ten states. The official said that approximately 7,000 checks are being mailed daily. He predicted that most of the payments would be made by June 1.

Turtle Trap Construction Urged By Warden for Fish Conservation

EASTLAND, April 30.—Interest in the conservation of fish in this section and action by municipal bodies was urged Monday by J. H. Wood of Brownwood, game warden for the State Game and Oyster commission.

"These lakes are being terribly neglected. We could have wonderful lakes if they were only taken care of," Wood declared.

In reference to the Eastland lake, Wood predicted that buffalo and carp fish will ruin fishing in 20 years unless some method to rid them is taken. Wood said he was to have a conference with City Manager J. F. Little or Mayor C. W. Hoffmann and might possibly attend a meeting of the city commission.

Turtles are destructive to fishing because they eat spawn, he said. Building of inexpensive traps was recommended by Wood. He stated 656 were caught by the traps recently at a Coleman lake.

"You ought to have a rearing pond for these small fish," Wood stated. The hatchery at Cisco could furnish as many as desired.

"We are building a rearing pond at Brownwood and we believe all lakes ought to have them."

Wood exhibited a turtle trap constructed of wood, and 16 penny nails. The nails are placed inside a square and bait is strung across the top of the trap which is placed in water.

A net is placed under the trap and frequently 15 or 16 turtles are caught in one of the devices, Wood stated.

Counties in Wood's district are Eastland, Comanche, Coleman, Brown and Callahan.

The Judge's Corner

By R. W. H. KENNON

EDITOR'S NOTE—Opinions expressed in this column are the personal ones of the "Judge" and do not necessarily reflect the editorial policy of the Cisco Daily Press. The writer is a member of the staff of the Press and the column is published because of its interesting and incisive comments on issues and news of the day by a journalist of the "old school."

THE MATTER OF BIG BAIL OR NO BOND

I am somewhat at a loss to understand at times why the excessive bonds assessed by justices and other magistrates in the preliminary hearing of those accused of crime. I hold, and I believe, the highest courts will confirm my opinion, that there is no justice or reason to assess a defendant's bond at $10,000 or $20,000 when accused of an offense when the physical circumstances are manifest that he could not make a bail bond of more than $500 or $1,000.

If Bailable, Must Be Reasonable

A magistrate has the authority to inquire into the evidence in all cases of violations of the criminal code, and the law expressly says that if a case is found to be bailable, it is the duty of the magistrate to assess the amount of such bail, in such a sum that will guarantee his presence at the term of court to which he is bound over, but the magistrate must inquire into his ability to make a bond. When so determined it is his duty to make such a bond that will hold the defendant, and guarantee his appearance at the term of court in which the bond is returnable.

Of course this does not mean that a man who is charged with some heinous crime should be given a nominal bond, for no other reason than he could not make a bond commensurate with the offense with which he is charged.

But it does mean that the magistrate has no right to prejudice the case against the defendant by assessing his bail at such a sum that is manifest to the magistrate that the defendant cannot make.

Bailable or Non-Bailable
Whenever a person is charged with a crime and the evidence points to his probable guilt, the state has the right to develop so much of the evidence that will establish his probable guilt or innocence. Should this evidence be such that a grand jury will find a bill of indictment, even though the accused should waive a preliminary hearing, and if in the opinion of the magistrate the case is bailable, it is the duty of such magistrate to place the bond in such a sum that will hold the defendant, but in accordance with his ability to make the bond.

If the magistrate finds, after a preliminary hearing, or the manifest evidence warrants, that the case is one in which the accused is not entitled to bail, it is the duty of the magistrate to exhibit that "intestinal fortitude" to come out boldly and say "held without bail."

But the latter-day policy seems to be to place the accused under such bond that the magistrate knows he cannot make. The only difference in excessive and non-bail decisions is the lack of guts on the part of the magistrate.

Every criminal case is either bailable or non-bailable. If bailable, the accused should be given a bond that he can make—but sufficient to hold him. To ascertain the ability of the accused to make such bond commensurate with the crime, the magistrate has the legal authority to inquire into the financial resources of the accused. A person may be charged with a crime, who, personally, could not make a bond of $100, yet, by reason of certain connections, he would be able to furnish bail in five figures.

surate with the crime and the evidence adduced establishing his connection. If not bailable, there is no excuse for an excessive bail that the magistrate knows the accused cannot make, rather, the court should have the guts to decree: "Committed to the sheriff without bail."

Cases in Point
I have in my past experience as magistrate two cases in point. One person was shot and killed by another. The friends and relatives of the slain man were wealthy, and employed private prosecution—an attorney with state-wide reputation—who made a strong plea for commitment without bail. The case looked dark. But a part of the evidence of one of the state's witnesses, convinced me that the case was not a premeditated murder, but an act of "beating the dead man to the draw."

That determined in my mind that the case was bailable. Then it developed upon the magistrate to determine what bail the defendant could make. He was without means, or friends able to make the bond. In casting about in my mind who would sign his bail, I thought of two men who were worth the bond, and who fawned not at the feet of pelt, and cared not a darn for public opinion. I decided these two men would sign his bail bond for $1,500. This was the amount I placed his bond, and in verification of my mental perspective the two identical men made his bond. Later, after the grand jury had indicted the accused, the able private prosecutor agreed to a bond of $2,000 in the habeas corpus proceedings, and as they did so the same men refused to make the increased bond. The accused was convicted, but while his case was on appeal he died in jail.

I had forecast the belief that $1,500 would be as high as they would go, and when the district court raised the bond, they went no further.

Another Case
A young white man wantonly shot a Mexican to death. The attorneys for the defense and the state both recommended to me that his bond be placed at $500. I rejected their suggestions and placed his bond at $1,500. His attorney introduced evidence that he had no property, which was known to the magistrate, but the magistrate also knew that he was a friend and companion of another young man whose name on a bond was good for $100,000, and I knew that he would make a reasonable bond for his friend, the accused. Had I placed his bond at $25,000, this wealthy friend would not have signed, which the magistrate also anticipated.

His attorney sued out a writ of habeas corpus, but the trial court sustained the magistrate and let his bail remain at the original sum.

So, if a case is bailable, the accused should be allowed such bond as he can make, commensurate with the crime and the evidence adduced establishing his connection. If not bailable, there is no excuse for an excessive bail that the magistrate knows the accused cannot make, rather, the court should have the guts to decree: "Committed to the sheriff without bail."

legislation, pointing to the volume of litigation affecting contracts and so forth which passed through these courts as a result of the oil boom.

The action was brought by a group of plaintiffs which included Joe J. Mickle, Omar J. Mickle, J. Mayes, P. L. Parker and "more than 250 other qualified Eastland county voters," represented by L. H. Welch of Breckenridge.

These argued that the election of 14 per cent beer and wine of necessity caused the voters to vote on four per cent wine and beer contrary to a provision of the local option statute which prohibits submission of the same issue to the same voters within a year from a previous election.

The defendants maintained that the law governing such elections itself sets up three separate issues, and that an election upon one such would not interfere with an election on another. The issues are defined in the statute as liquors of varying alcoholic strength.

One such "issue" is defined as malt and vinous liquors of not more than four per cent alcohol; the second is defined as malt and vinous liquors of not more than 14 per cent, and the third issue is defined as all liquors.

In vacating the temporary injunction, the court construed the statute to mean that the legislature had set up three distinct issues for submitting the question of local option to the voters, and that an election upon one prohibited its submission again within a year but did not prohibit the submission of another of the three not voted upon.

The plaintiffs gave notice of appeal.

know you wouldn't think I was Georgia, any time at all, all over again? And even if you didn't, to have everyone in the world think it of me?"

"Does that matter to you," asked Morgan, "more than my love?"

She was silent. She realized, suddenly, that she was still tangled in her fears and terrors. What people thought, what they said, had no right to matter. "No, Morgan. Beside the fact that you and I love and believe in each other, it doesn't matter at all," she said.

She felt something suddenly dropping from her like a heavy cloak. What the world said would never be the principal thing to her again.

He took her in his arms. After a little while:

"I had your promise, anyway," he said. "No matter what happened, you wouldn't break your engagement. I'm glad your promise is as unbreakable as I know it to be; because there's a little more to come."

She sat down with him, his arm still around her. "Go on," she said lazily.

"When I came over, night before last, before I could get Gran-ny's promise to let me go back and say nothing, I had to give mine to come back and live where she is part of the time. After all, it was a pretty cowardly thing to walk out on an old lady, when I was about all she had left."

Uncle Will's made me see that this afternoon driving back from work. I should have stood up to the whole thing, Georgia and all, instead of running away and being the Young Misanthrope. Well, I'm going to. Only I've got to ask you to take your share too."

All the things she had turned her back on—and Morgan's love. "Most people would say it was the gold at the end of the rainbow you were offering me, instead of the burden your voice makes it out to be," she said thoughtfully.

"Don't you know where the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow really is, Iris?" he asked. He drew her to her feet. The two young figures stood close in each other's arms, in the sunset-light. "My mother told me," he said in her ear. "She said that after the adventurers were all tired with seeking it all over the world, they found it, buried under the hearthstone of their home."

"It is that—for me," she said. "And for me—always—so long as we are together."

Uncle Will came pottering out, looking for his children. "Supper's ready," he said, smiling at them. He was happy, more or less, always, but at what he saw in their faces he was especially happy, just now. They followed him hand-in-hand.

The body of the New Firestone High Speed Tire is made from selected low-impurity cotton linters in liquid rubber, absorbing eight pounds of rubber in every hundred pounds of cotton. This patented process insulates every fiber of cotton cord, preventing internal friction which causes the heat so destructive to the life and pliability of the tire added weight.

This heavy, broad, traction and non-skid tread is held to the cord body of the tire with Two Extra Layers of Gum-Dipped Cords, a patented construction, making the cord body and tread an inseparable unit.

A leading university in 2350 tire tests has found that the new, scientifically designed Firestone High Speed tread stops a car up to 25% quicker. Its super-traction and non-skid efficiency have also been proved in the famous Pike's Peak Race where for eight consecutive years it has been used on the winning cars.
