M. H. (Uncle Mike) Fleming, who fell at El Paso July 2 fracturing his left hip and sustaining a severe scalp wound, was reported in a letter from Mrs. Charles Fleming, his daughter-in-law, to Mr. and Mrs. Connie Davis, to be getting along nicely, sleeping well and feeling no pain. He and his son, Francis, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fleming at the time of the accident. Starting for a drive in the evening, Uncle Mike slipped on the concrete. He was taken to the hospital and placed in a plaster cast. The head wound required several stitches to close.

The intricacies of "coring" a formation in an oil well drew a curious number to the city of Cisco No. 2 being drilled by the Hickok company on the city airport property yesterday afternoon. The process is the taking of a sample of the sand or lime in order to study it for oil bearing properties or what-have-you. The most interesting sight to a novice, uninitiated in the mysteries of geology, etc., is to see a bunch of studious men hunkered about a make-shift table, running their fingers around in an oily mess of mud-pipe and peering at grains of it through microscopes. This scientific conference on the appearances, feel and smell of the aforementioned mud pie is, however, no child's play, but a serious consideration of the possibilities of getting an investment of several thousands of dollars out of the hole from which the pie came and earning a profit on it, too boot.

The Hickok, Lone Star, and other scouts whose companies are interested in the area immediately north of Cisco, were clustered about the samples yesterday afternoon much as flies are clustered about a spoonful of sugar. It was the first time, I was told, that the Lake sand in that area has been cored. The coring is done with a hollow bit, which is pressed of a number of ingenious devices to secure and preserve the sample desired. Basically, it seemed to consist of a hollow tube within a hollow bit, the tube end, which runs freely up and down within the bit after the fashion of a telescope, being equipped with reversed fingers to retain the core after the bit has chewed it out of the rock and forced its passage up the tube.

Next week is "Railroad Week." I heard of that institution for the first time last year, but it seems destined to become one of the most emphasized of industrial promotional and educational institutions. It is the mobilizing of the manpower of the railroads to advertise rail services and promote its greater use among the public.

TRUSTEES TO MEET MONDAY SAYS SARTAIN

Carr - Burdett Pledge Given to Randolph To Help Contacts

The date for the opening of Randolph Junior college has been set for September 8. The summer school will close in a few days and work will begin to put the buildings in order for the fall opening.

President McKissick and professor H. E. Steele returned this week from a visit to Coleman, San Antonio, Brady, Austin and Temple. While they were in Temple an agreement was reached with the Temple Trust company as to use of the property for two years.

Judge B. D. Sartain has asked the trustees to meet Monday at noon in order to settle on the price set on the property. The old pledges of Carr-Burdett college of Sherman have been given to Randolph and will be helpful in making contacts for the school. These pledges total approximately $40,000.

Faculty

Dr. Lee Clark, who ranks among the first of Texas educators will be dean. Professor R. W. Garrett will head the history department, Miss King heads the science department, Dr. D. F. Tyndall teaches Bible, and Professor W. F. Bruce is the newly elected registrar. Professor H. E. Steele will likely join the staff as promotional director. He is a graduate of Vanderbilt university.

The management of the college expressed its appreciation for the help of the people in Cisco and this community. Indications are that the student body will be a real asset to the city, it was said.

Need for Modern Government Seen Says President

NEW YORK, July 11. (AP)—The $64,000,000 Triborough bridge, financed by a federal grant and loan as a part of the PWA program, was opened today by President Roosevelt, who dedicated it as a symbol of the changing human needs which call for "up-to-date government in the place of antiquated government."

He declared: "There are few among us who, consciously or unconsciously, live in a state of constant protest against the daily processes meeting the modern needs. Most of us are willing to recognize change and to give it reasonable, constant help."

Grass Greens Used First Time Saturday

Play was allowed on the new grass greens of the Cisco Country club golf course for the first time Saturday when groups of golfers played 18 holes. Proud of the new greens, which replace sand greens, the golfers enthused over the quality of playing.

No practicing will be allowed on the new greens for a while and they will be used altogether sparingly until the turf develops the essential toughness, it was explained.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bob Winston are leaving for Taft today. Mr. Winston will be employed as an electrician there.

SOVEREIGNTY FOR AUSTRIA RECOGNIZED

Austria German State Under Pact; Peace For Europe Seen

BERLIN, July 11. (AP)—The German government announced tonight that it had recognized the independence of Austria—thereby apparently bringing to an end a situation fraught with danger to Europe.

The announcement, made after an agreement with the Austrian government, contained a significant proviso that Austria declares herself to be "a German state."

Paul Josef Goebbels, Germany's minister of press and propaganda, described the accord to the German people in a radio broadcast.

No Meddling

In addition to establishing Germany's recognition of Austria's independence, the accord provides that the two nations agree to refrain from interfering with each other's internal affairs.

(Hitherto, Austrian leaders have contended that the Nazi movement in Austria was directed from Germany, alleging that the Austrian government was menaced by German politics.)

Both nations agreed to cooperate toward stabilization of the Central European situation, this cooperation to be undertaken as two closely related German states.

Nazi in Cabinet

It was understood that the Austrian government would permit inclusion of one Nazi minister in the cabinet.

The accord between the two nations, it was believed, will have a far-reaching effect upon the future of Europe.

Text of the announcement had been carefully guarded by German officials until the time of the broadcast by Minister Goebbels.

Farmers Rejoice Over End of Long Heat Wave

CHICAGO, July 11. (AP)—The end of the heat wave was sighted today, with the weather bureau predicting that cool weather should begin to sweep eastward from the northwest tonight. The parched population hailed the news joyfully. Farmers felt encouraged that some crops might be saved.

On the Chicago board of trade the weather forecast caused a sharp decline in corn and wheat. The heat and drought have caused at least 536 deaths and a crop damage estimated at $300,000,000.

Miss Anderson Is Luncheon Honoree Of Miss Crawford

One of a series of pre-nuptial compliments to Miss Adele Anderson, bride-elect of Mr. Paul Vogt, was given Wednesday when Mrs. E. P. Crawford and Miss Helen Crawford entertained with a luncheon at their home on Seventh street.

A profusion of pink asters and blue vitex was used throughout the entertaining rooms, and carried out the scheme of pink and blue. The luncheon was served on card tables, and the places of the guests were marked by tiny place cards carrying out the wedding theme. The table in the dining room was covered with a lace cloth centered with a silver basket of asters and blue on a mirrored reflector. The three course luncheon was served buffet style. The dessert, ice cream, was molded in the form of pink wedding bells. The favors were cupid with gold wedding rings.

After lunch the guests played bridge. Miss Annetta Parish danced and then entered again with a slipper. She fitted the slipper on the foot of the bride-elect, and then took her into the dining room. Automatic Spacer Eliminates Ragged Lines in Typewriting, Says Inventor

By SAM JACKSON (Associated Press Staff Writer) STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., July 8 (AP)—How to make a typewriter space to produce an even margin on the right-hand side of the sheet has puzzled inventors for years. A young Russian immigrant here says he has solved the problem.

By flipping a little lever on the side of his machine, Sergei M. Toman now turns out neat columns of typewritten copy resembling those of a newspaper or magazine. Gone are the ragged, irregular line endings.

Toman developed his device under a grant from the Stanford University Press, whose executives see an immediate use for it in photolithographic, or offset, printing, used for cheap reproduction of reports, scientific treatises and the like.

Simple, He Says How far the spacer will get in America's vast volume of business correspondence, Stanford Press executives say, will depend on how much importance business men attach to having their letters look like a printed page.

"The principle of the thing was simple," Toman says, "and I had to build only about five models before getting this present one, which works."

Production of evenly aligned type-writing involves a double process. The original draft is made on graph paper, which shows at a glance how much each line must be spaced out to reach uniform width.

Inventor A Musician For re-copying, an indicator is set at a number, usually from one to seven, corresponding with the number of extra spaces needed in a particular line. The automatic spacer does the rest, evenly distributing the excess space through the entire line.

Toman says the device operates by regulating the movement of the typewriter carriage and can be installed on any machine.

Twenty-six years old, Toman was born in Russia but has spent most of his life in Harbin, Manchoukuo, where his father is a civil engineer. He came to America seven years ago for an education. Although a trained musician, he says invention is to be his career.

Railroad Commissioner

PROTECT THE FUTURE OF TEXAS' SCHOOL CHILDREN!

THE men who founded Texas made wise provision for the education of Texas children by dedicating large tracts of public lands to free Public Schools. These lands had but little value and brought but little income until discovery of oil and gas made them extremely valuable. School funds receive the income. The Common School Permanent Fund now is $6,466,703.71 and that of the University of Texas and Texas A. & M. College is now $18,490,411.71. This is chiefly due to oil and gas leases and royalties. This income varies directly with the price of oil. When the East Texas oil field was wastefully "wide open," oil dropped to 10 and 15 cents a barrel. The income of the Permanent School Funds during the year September 1, 1932, to August 31, 1933, totaled $1,569,266.22. Then the Railroad Commission of Texas, under the able leadership of Ernest O. Thompson, chairman, enforced the present legislative policy of conservation. Immediately, the price of oil went to $1.00 a barrel. In the year September 1, 1934, to August 31, 1935, the income of the two Permanent School funds rose to $3,797,562.27. This was a clear dividend to the school children of Texas of $2,228,296.05 per year over the chaotic period of wasteful oil production. SAFEGUARD THE FUTURE OF YOUR CHILDREN! VOTE TO RE-ELECT ERNEST O. THOMPSON RAILROAD COMMISSIONER!

Scarred Public Enemies Indexed By New Method

CINCINNATI, July 11. (AP)—By their scars police some day may know criminals just as they now trace down "public enemies" by their finger-prints.

Because witnesses in two killings remembered prominent scars on the faces of the slayers, Lieut. George Schattle, head of the Cincinnati homicide squad and crime laboratory, devised a system of classifying various marks on criminals' faces.

Submitted to Washington Schattle also has submitted his method of criminal investigation to the United States bureau of investigation at Washington.

The homicide squad had run up against a stone wall seemingly in solving two murders. Studying the clues, Schattle noticed that witnesses invariably mentioned scars by which the killers might be identified.

"If we had a scar method of classification," mused Schattle, "we'd soon know whether the murderers had a criminal record."

Developed in Six Months For six months, he worked on his system before perfecting it and bringing it to his chief's attention. Now he has a two-month job of compiling a scar identification file for the Cincinnati police.

"When this file is completed," he says, "we ought to be able to identify many persons wanted for crimes but whose names and fingerprints we do not have."

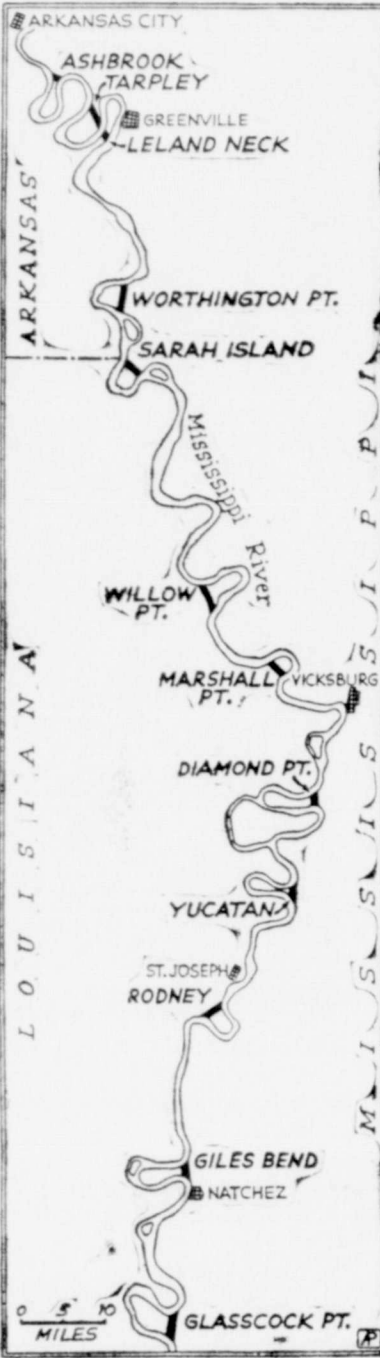

"We'll classify the marks, and within a few minutes we'll be able to produce a picture of a criminal with scars similar to those noted by witnesses."

Schattle's method is to divide the head and neck into nine parts, each numbered. The forehead is numbered 1; a scar on the right side of the forehead would be noted as R-1, on the left side as L-1. The nature of the scar and any pertinent facts about it would be noted.

EGYPTIAN DISK MYSTIFIES SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Local archaeologists are puzzled by a metal disk of alleged Egyptian origin found in an Indian grave antedating the Mission fathers. The disk was with ashes and other remains dug up in San Pasqual valley by Fred C. Perrigo.

One of the world's largest floating docks was recently completed in Danzig for Germany and towed to the harbor at Kiel. It is 800 feet long by 220 feet wide and has a capacity of 100,000 tons.

Army Reforms Mississippi River Course by Lopping Off Its Necks

This aerial view shows how a 2.6 mile cut eliminated a 12-mile horseshoe bend in the Mississippi at Diamond point, located on the map (at left), with 11 similar cut-offs which shorten the river's lower channel by about 100 miles.

VICKSBURG, Miss., July 11. (AP)—In defiance of the tradition that the Mississippi's meandering course must not be disturbed, army engineers have been working since 1932 to take kinks out of the river's lower channel.

The result today: A shorter, tamer Mississippi. The river itself first suggested the benefits from cutting across the narrow necks of land that separated its horseshoe bends.

Of its own volition, it broke through at Yucatan bend, a few miles above St. Joseph, La., and saved itself some five miles of useless wandering.

If Old Man River was willing to mend his ways, reasoned General Harley R. Ferguson, president of the Mississippi River commission, why not help the regeneration?

Diamond point, near Davis island south of Vicksburg, was selected for the first man-made cut-off. Slashing through a 2.6 mile neck of land with hydraulic dredges shortened the river by 12 miles at that point.

Other cutoffs were put through at Ashbrook, Tarpley, Leland Neck, Worthington point, Sarah island, Willow point, Marshall point, Rodney, Giles bend and Glascock point—a dozen in all, saving about 100 miles between the Arkansas river mouth and Red river landing.

Their efficiency, engineers say, was proved last spring when, as a result of faster "set-away," the flood-swollen Mississippi did comparatively little damage in the lower valley.

Watermelons Get Drugstore Flavors

COLEMAN, July 11. (AP)—John Davis, amateur gardener, hopes to produce different flavored watermelons this year.

When the melons reach a certain size, he plans to connect them by strings with jars containing fruit flavors. The melons will draw the liquid from the containers, he believes. He expects to have orange, lemon and strawberry melons.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Smith and daughter Jean, of Overton, are visiting friends here.

Modify the Grand National? Britons Perish the Idea

LIVERPOOL, July 11. (AP)—A movement inaugurated since the last Grand National Steeplechase to have the famous event abolished on the ground of cruelty to animals, or to have its hazards lessened, promises to die aborting.

Since the subject reached the House of Commons, and the home secretary was asked to give it his attention, there has been such a storm of rebuttal from the side of the owners and trainers that there is slight prospect of any action.

Americans may continue to buy their Sweepstakes tickets with every confidence of getting a run for their money — providing, of course, that they draw a horse.

Even Mrs. Violet Mundy, fond owner of the unfortunate Avenger, which broke its neck while running second in this year's race, scorns the thought of modifying Aintree's jumps.

"I shall never forgive myself for running my horse in the National," she says, "but I wouldn't have it abolished or changed. There is no sport in which there is not some element of risk, and perhaps cruelty."

Major Noel Furlong, owner of the twice-triumphant Reynolds-town, blasts the whole proposition.

"It is a grand course and one which British sportsmen should be proud of," he declares. "It is a national institution and I wouldn't have it modified one iota."

"I can't remember a fatal accident to a rider for over 25 years, and until Avenger was killed this year I don't think there has been a fatality to one of the horses in at least 15 years. There are plenty of falls, as in all steeplechases, but most of them in the National cause only minor injuries."

Aintree's 16 jumps, no two of which are the same height or width, are jealously trimmed and guarded all year by a staff of workmen. Each hedge has its own precise measurement, down to a fraction of an inch, and it isn't permitted to vary.

Scout Radio Patrol Gets Amateur License

Railroad Commission's Part in The State's Recovery Told by Thompson

(Special to The Daily Press)
AUSTIN, July 11.—The railroad commission of Texas has had a major share in the economic upturn of Texas through the six large industries for which it administers regulatory laws, Ernest Thompson, chairman of the commission, said in a recent address.

Almost all consumer's pocket-books in the state are affected to some degree by the railroad commission's activities, whether they participate in the industries under the commission's jurisdiction or not, Thompson pointed out.

The railroad commission administers the regulatory laws of oil, gas, gas utilities, railroads, buses, and trucks.

Thompson pointed out the good condition all of these lines of business are in and the reductions consumers have enjoyed in gas and freight rates.

"I am convinced," he said, "that the sane, sensible and careful regulation of these great industries has been largely responsible for the new era of economic contentment and security that Texas is entering upon in her centennial year."

"We are within nine million dollars of having the all-time peak in bank deposits. The high point was in 1929 when deposits reached $1,017,000,000 and we are fast approaching that total again."

"Surely the regulation of six great industries by the railroad commission must be reflected in the general economic condition of our state."

Boys Construct New Station For Broadcasts Here

The Radio Patrol of Boy Scout Troop Four has been notified it is to receive a license for an amateur broadcasting station.

The notification, which came Friday, followed here more than two months ago. The tests, taken under the supervision of a notary public, were forwarded to Washington where they received the attention of the National Amateur Radio Control bureau.

The patrol has been in active work since its organization more than a year ago. Four of its members have applied for separate radio operators' licenses, two of which have already been granted. They are William Scarlett and William Hoyt. Hoyt was the past president of the club before he moved to Austin, where he is now operating a portable station.

Each station is required to have a trustee. Hoyt is the trustee for the Cisco station, where he holds his license. His Austin portable station, where he is operating, is under the Cisco license.

Building Station

The patrol is now constructing its station. Some time ago it had a transmitting set, which was not strong enough for the purposes of the patrol. The boys of the patrol are building 750-volt transmitter. They have obtained money for the expensive parts by leasing their public address system to candidates for political offices and doing other radio service work.

The station is listed as W5FXT, located at 506 East Twentieth street, near the home of C. S. Horn. The members of the patrol are planning to build an extra room at the clubhouse so that the transmitting and receiving rooms may be separated.

At various times the members have built temporary transmitters and receivers, monitors and oscillators, voice amplifiers, and other radio instruments from parts donated by business men of the city.

Plan Voice Broadcasts

At present the boys will be able to broadcast only code over their transmitter, but they intend ultimately to operate a voice station. Meetings are held two evenings a week, Wednesdays and Saturdays, at which time the boys practice sending and receiving code on a special built oscillator. The members conduct regular lesson periods, with each boy assigned a definite amount of radio work for study.

The patrol was organized by J. R. D. Eddy, former scoutmaster, who led the discussions. Since his departure from Cisco, the work has been supervised by William Hoyt, the club president.

Members of the radio patrol are: William Hoyt, president; Berl Martin, vice-president; Robert Horn, secretary-treasurer; Robert Waters; Tommy Wilson; Billy Latch. Past members have been Eugene Lankford, first president; J. R. D. Eddy, first supervisor; Wm. Scarlett, Ralph Barton; and Cecil Edwards.

Tomatoes Double For Fire Extinguisher

MISSION, July 11. (AP)—If you need a fire extinguisher in a hurry, there's nothing quite like a few ripe tomatoes.

Local firemen responded to an alarm which reported an automobile ablaze on a highway near here. When they reached the car, they found the fire out and the motor splattered liberally with the dripping remains of a number of ripe tomatoes.

The driver explained that a farmer drove by, saw his predicament and offered the tomatoes as fire extinguishers. The men stood off and bombarded the blazing engine, putting out the fire in a few moments.

Watch Barometer For Mischief Periods

SPARTANBURG, S. C., July 11. (AP)—The barometer is an accurate forecaster of little Johnny's or Mary's conduct, according to a group of local school teachers who have checked their pupils.

"When winds are blowing from the east, cloudy weather prevails and the atmospheric pressure decreases—look out! Children are more inclined to misbehave," says Teacher L. R. Bull.

On several succeeding days when these conditions prevailed, the teachers say their charges were much more unruly than usual.

"I guess it's because that, with less pressure on their bodies, children have more opportunity to rid themselves of meanness," Bull comments.

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

SYNOPSIS: Inspector Hylton has found at least two persons, Captain Reeves and Dale Shipley, who have had trouble with old Arthur Burdett. Since that ancient skinflint just has been murdered, the Inspector is interested. And now Burdett's solicitor returns from France, hears of the murder, and arrives at the police cottage in Hope Enderton with a copy of Arthur Burdett's latest will—plus a good deal of excitement.

Chapter 16 NEW SCENT

"I want it to be clearly understood," he said almost severely, "that I am doing this on your orders and authority as a police officer and that no initiative rests matter," Quinton Hanley said repressively, "now follows. The wording, you will please understand, is exactly as Mr. Burdett wished it himself.

"In my previous Will I left all my property and possessions whatsoever to my half nephew Dale Shipley, but owing to that young man's insufferable rudeness, his bad temper and even threats used towards me this day, I have decided that he shall not benefit by my death to the extent of one penny. All my property and possessions whatsoever therefore I hereby give and bequeath to Andrew Lumsdale, my manservant,

"When I as executor apply for probate."
"Well, don't start applying yet," Hylton said crisply. "We want to keep all this under our hats for a bit."

"I hope I appreciate the value of discretion as much as anybody," Quinton Hanley said. "I feel that I have done my duty by coming here, and however unpleasant a task may be that feeling is some sort of consolation. I wish you good evening, gentlemen."

He bowed, not without a sort of comic dignity and attended by Sergeant White made his way out to his car.

When the Sergeant came back into the office he found Kingsley Hylton pacing up and down animatedly, an unlit cigar between his lips.

"By gad, Sergeant, this makes you think a bit," he cried.

"You consider it very important, sir?"
The Inspector glanced at James White almost in annoyance. "Well, damn it all, man," he exploded, "it gives us what we haven't had a ghost of yet—real motive. Two motives for that matter, and two of the strongest—greed and anger. We must look a little more closely into Andrew Lumsdale's story. And what do you suppose Mr. Dale Shipley was doing that evening?"

"He was dining with Captain Reeves."
"Yes... with Reeves, eh?... and I also happen to 'know' that Andrew Lumsdale spent the entire time from say three till half past seven in Morechester, but, Sergeant, I don't quite trust that knowledge now. Do you play chess?"

"Yes, sir, I do."
"Good Perry said you did. Let's have a game now; it's wonderfully good for clearing one's brain."

A little surprised, but nothing loath, White answered "All right, sir."

In the living room White produced the board and men from a drawer and set them out on the table; then each man settled down and there was something about the other's attitude that warned Kingsley Hylton he might be in for a surprise.

Very little conversation was heard for the next eighty minutes. Then James White leaned back and said, "I think you'll find that's mate, Inspector."

Secretly, Hylton was just a shade chagrined; he rather prided himself on his chess and it was some time since he had been bested in a game.

"Oh, just a bit of luck," James White said modestly, but it was humanly impossible to keep a hint of pleasure out of his voice.

"Luck for the Law, eh?" Hylton ruminated. "Well, I dare say we shall need it all before we're finished with this case."

(Copyright, 1936, Laurence W. Meynell)

Hylton checks up Andrew Lumsdale, tomorrow.

Sailors say port wine, which takes its name from Porto, Portugal, gave the name "port" to the left side of ships because early red lanterns had the tawny color of port.

"I insisted on that clause being included."

with me in the matter whatsoever. Do you agree?"

"Dear Mr. Hanley," Hylton laughed, "a policeman's life is practically one long round of irregularities. I'll take full responsibility for looking at the will—so go ahead."

"Very well." The mere familiar feel of a legal document seemed to give little Hanley more confidence and clearing his throat he read aloud:

"This is the last will and testament of me, Arthur Clayton Caldwell Burdett of Enderton Court Hope Enderton in the county of Sussex made this twelfth day of January in the year of Our Lord nineteen hundred and thirty-six. I hereby specifically revoke the will and testament made by me on the twenty-second day of February, 1922. I appoint my solicitor Quinton Eustache Hanley of the firm of Hanley & Payne, Morechester, to be my executor and I direct that all my debts and funeral expenses shall be paid as soon as reasonably possible after my decease."

"I insisted on that clause being included," Mr. Hanley said almost fiercely.

"So far it's all cackle," Hylton said, "when do we come to the 'bones'?"

"The gist or vital essence of the at present in my employ, who at least is reasonably honest and keeps a civil tongue in his head.

"And that," said Quinton Hanley, as he folded the document carefully and put it back in its long envelope, "is all."

The Inspector whistled; he was beginning to be excited. "Well, it's a pretty good beginning," he said. "Who witnessed this will, Mr. Hanley?"

"Two of the clerks in my office. It was witnessed, and duly executed there and then."

"Did young Shipley know about it?"

"That I can't say. But I am afraid it would be very unlike Arthur Burdett to do anyone a bad turn and not tell them about it."

Hylton nodded; he could imagine that to be true well enough.

"And Lumsdale, did he know?"

"There again I can't say."

"How much was the old boy worth?"

"From what I know already as his legal adviser I should be very much surprised if the total is less than sixty thousand pounds."

"Sixty thousand! Then Lumsdale's a rich man. How much used the old miser keep in his safe up at the house?"

"I haven't any idea what Mr. Burdett did about that."

"Um. When will this will be made public, Mr. Hanley?"

Million Owners Of Homes Receive
Loans of HOLC

WASHINGTON, July 11. (Spl.)—Loans made to distressed home owners by the Home Owners' Loan corporation up to June 13, when by law the lending period expired, total 1,021,817 in the amount of $3,092,870,784, according to final reports received today. The average of all loans was $3,027.

More than 98 percent of the loans were made to refinance defaulted mortgages which had come due in whole or in part at a time when over a million home owners faced immediate loss of their properties if the government did not come to their aid. The borrowers were given 15-year loans, repayable monthly in small installments that would leave their homes free of debt at the end of that period. HOLC also made 12,136 loans, amounting to $6,156,572, on unmortgaged properties to pay past-due taxes or make necessary repairs. As in all loans by the corporation, it was required that the applicant establish that he could not obtain the required credit elsewhere.

McDonald Flays
His Opponent At Edinburg Rally

(Special to The Daily Press) EDINBURG, July 11.—"My opponent, in his speeches, glories in a situation that is costing the school children of Texas $250,000 a year when a few scratches of a pen would save that great sum," declared William H. McDonald of Eastland county, candidate for state land commissioner, in a speech here Saturday.

"He is boasting that the new Sabine River bed lease gives the state public school fund more money than the old lease gave—43 per cent more money and the oil companies are taking 300 per cent more of the school children's oil."

McDonald then propounded the following questions for his opponent to answer:

"Doesn't the new lease give the land commissioner the power on 10 day's notice to increase the schools' share of the oil by $700 a day?"

"Haven't you been acting land commissioner?"

"Why didn't you give that $250,000 a year to the schools?"

McDonald said that, if elected, his first official act would be to add that amount to the school fund.

Advertising is not an expense—its the life blood of any business.

had been raised by previous administrations—to 62 cents, a reduction actually accomplished of 13 cents on the $100.

Tells of Savings
"Real estate taxpayers of Texas were saved a total of $4,787,400 on their 1935 tax bill as a result of this reduction. I submit that this 'performance' beats all the 'promises' in the world!"

Other achievements of his administration cited by Governor Allred in his speech under the floodlights of Birdwell Field on the Stephen F. Austin College campus were:

Initiation of the first broad social security program in the history of Texas, including old age assistance which, he pointed out, already has become an accomplished fact; raising of the per capita school apportionment to its highest point in the state's history; and passage of the largest rural aid appropriation in Texas history.

ALLRED COMES TO CISCO TUESDAY

AUSTIN, July 11. (Spl.)—After a vigorous six-day invasion of North and East Texas during the last week on his campaign for a second term of office, Governor James V. Allred was scheduled to abandon politics Sunday in favor of helping citizens from his old home town to celebrate "Bowie Day" at the Dallas centennial exposition.

The governor's complete schedule for next week is as follows:

Allred Schedule
Monday: Coleman 8 a. m. to 3:30 p. m.; Ballinger 4:30 to 6 p. m.; Abilene, "All West Texas Rally," 8 p. m.

Tuesday: Baird 9 to 10 a. m.; Cisco 10:30 a. m. to 2 p. m.; Ranger 3 to 5 p. m.; Eastland 8 p. m.

Wednesday: Mineral Wells, National Guard encampment until noon. Reisel, 2 p. m.; Granger 4 p. m.; Cameron 8 p. m.

Thursday: Rockdale 9 to 10 a. m.; Lexington 10:30 to 11:30 a. m.; Giddings, noon to 1:30 p. m.; LaGrange 2 to 4:30 p. m.; Austin, 8 p. m.

Friday: Taylor 10 to 11 a. m.; Hearne, noon to 1:30 p. m.; Mexia 3 to 4 p. m.; Fort Worth, 8 p. m.

Saturday: Fort Worth, Frontier centennial exposition opening; Hillsboro, 4 p. m.; Waco, 8 p. m.

FISCHER TO CLOSE DRIVE IN SOUTH TEXAS

DALLAS, July 11. (Spl.)—F. W. Fischer of Tyler, regarded by many of the state's newspapers as a virtual certainty for a position in the second primary to select a governor of Texas, reenters South Texas next week to close his pre-July 25 election campaign.

Fischer, just concluding his campaign in Central and East Texas, will speak in Dallas Friday night, July 17, and Fort Worth Saturday night, July 18, before returning to the Houston and Beaumont area. His addresses in Dallas and at Houston the night of July 24 will be broadcast over a state-wide radio hook-up, embracing stations WFAA, Dallas, WBAP, Ft. Worth, KPRC, Houston, and WOAI, San Antonio.

BROOKS STRESSES BUSINESS PLANS

HOUSTON, July 11. (Spl.)—Climaxing his fortnight's Central and Southwest Texas campaign activities with a public address here, Pierce Brooks, Dallas Business man candidate for governor, dropped all criticism of the Allred administration and stressed his own business administration proposals before a large and enthusiastic audience. It was the first of a series of larger city engagements Brooks will carry out, his Houston headquarters announced.

"All business interests throughout Texas and the nation are on the upgrade, except those of the state," Brooks declared in his address. "I began my campaign six months ago with a plan for business reform in Texas state affairs. I have carried this plan to voters in all parts of this state and now I have the extreme satisfaction of holding their endorsement of my business administration platform. The voters have given their endorsement in open meetings, in personal interviews and in thousands of letters and messages received in our headquarters. There can be no doubt that they will endorse my platform more substantially at the polls July 25."

The Ciscoans will attend the first week.

Scout activities will be carried on throughout the encampment, this year's slogan being "Every Scout a Swimmer."

About a dozen scouts from Troop Four have already been listed in the group going to the camp. A smaller number from Troop 101 is expected.

Traffic signposts at Graz, Austria, emblazoned with the Austrian colors, red and white, and the Heimwehr insignia are the latest political advertising venture here.

Wealthy visitors to Hawaii in the last year bought more than a million dollars worth of island real estate.

"Sacrament" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist on Sunday, July 12, including First church at Eastland. The Golden Text is: "To do good and to communicate forget not: for with such sacrifices God is well pleased" (Hebrews 13:16).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne" (Revelation 3:21).

The lesson-sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Waking to Christ's demand, mortals experience suffering. This causes them, even as drowning men, to make vigorous efforts to save themselves and through Christ's precious love these efforts are crowned with success" (page 22).

Churches of Kilkenny, Ireland, have been put to various uses. The cathedral has been a stable, the Franciscan friary, a tennis court, the Black abbey a court house.
