Nazi Policemen Raid Residence Of Archbishop

MUNICH, Oct. 16 (AP)—Nazi police agents Thursday raided the home of Alberto Vassalla-Torregrossa, Titular Archbishop of Etna and former Papal Muncho to Bavaria, supposedly in a search for evidence against Catholic youth organizations.

A number of letters were seized by the raiders in their second search of the house within a month. It was disclosed that a protest had been sent to the Vatican against the search.

Neither the Nazi police nor Msgr. Vassalla-Torregrossa would discuss the incident but informed persons said the raid grew out of alleged attempts to reorganize the banned Catholic youth movement.

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

Back from his summer's work with the prospect of a winter in his home town before rejoining the St. Louis Cardinals at spring training next year, comes Cotton Pippen one of the most versatile and able of the old Lobos and pitching artist of the baseball teams that Coach W. B. Chapman used to produce at the Cisco high school.

Cotton was pulled from a Pacific Coast league late in the season by the Cardinals who were battling the amazing New York Giants for the National league pennant and entry into the 1936 world series. He had been having great success on the coast, and the Cards needed him badly to help Dizzy Dean and the others of the ailing Card pitching staff.

"I wore myself out on the coast," said Cotton, "but I hope to get an even start with the other St. Louis pitchers next year." A youngster, he is battling for a place in the sun of baseball with the prospect that he will make the grade. His work in the minor leagues has been of a character to stamp him as mighty good big league material.

Cotton is a product of the Lobo period that produced Boon Magness at Breckenridge in the first reversal of Lobo prestige over the green wave. Boon passed, looked and ran the Breckenridge team to a 21 to 0 victory over the Lobos on Chesley field that year, but the only reason he did it, many of the more rational Lobo fans still believe, was because Cotton was not in the Lobo lineup. Cotton's ability as triple-threat football player rivaled that of Magness, but, unfortunately, injuries kept him on the sidelines that season and he was never permitted to match his skill and talent with the Breckenridge ace.

His football ability was demonstrated so thoroughly at El Paso in an intersectional game early in the season, that the El Paso sports writers could with difficulty write a line about the game without breaking out in beads about Cotton. He ran, passed and kicked in such masterful manner that the like had never been seen on an El Paso field and the boys out in that corner of Texas were filled with amazement and admiration and were vociferous in praise.

Cotton and Mrs. Pippen came in yesterday from Beatrice, Neb., Mrs. Pippen's home, where they visited a week or more after the close of the season at St. Louis. Their two children are with them.

Pharmacist Wynn at the Dean Drug company has produced a novel and interesting window display in observance of national pharmacy week. Some of the tools used by the dispenser of drugs in filling the prescriptions of the doctor and the manner in which they are arranged are employed in the display. There are the spatula and the pile tile, the tile having a concoction of powder.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Lee-Ramsden had hired Ambrose Lawson and his gang of kidnapers to make away with Ruth Fraser, who is Lee-Ramsden's ward. Terence Mahony released Ruth, however, and Ruth has tried to repay him by providing a false alibi for Terence in the matter of a murder. Terence did not commit. Ruth and Terence are having lunch with Lee-Ramsden, and in his guise of perturbed guardian, Lee-Ramsden is extracting valuable information for the use of himself and Lawson.

Chapter 19
FALSE AT HEART
After coffee had been served, Lee-Ramsden took Mahony up to the study for a cigar, leaving Ruth in the drawing-room. There Lee-Ramsden's manner changed, became altogether serious.

"This is a nasty business, Mahony, a very nasty business," he said. "I may seem rather casual about it, but I hate my ward being mixed up in it. You were a friend of young Ross, weren't you?"
"Yes," admitted Mahony.
"And Ross pretended to be a friend of Lawson. Actually he hated him—hated and feared him. I don't go about with my eyes shut, and I've noticed the way Ross looked at Lawson when he thought nobody was watching him."

It was absolute lies, of course; he had noticed nothing of the kind; but he spoke very convincingly. Mahony was conscious of a new respect for the old man.

"A charming fellow, Lawson," continued Lee-Ramsden. "So handsome and cultured. And also, if I'm any judge of men, one of the most unprincipled blackguards in creation. He seems to have been bobbing up a good deal in this matter last night and this morning, doesn't he?"
He paused.

"Won't you tell me the whole story?" he asked. "I'll help you if I can. My ward is a very good reason why I should help you. I might easily be useful; I'm not altogether without brains, and even influence."

Again it was superbly acted; the old man appeared quite sincere. Mahony was quite won over. He told Lee-Ramsden the whole story. At the end of the story Lee-Ramsden's face was very stern.

"Those fellows must be crushed," he said. "Utterly stamped out. Hanging's a damned sight too good for them. I'm with you Mahony, to the last inch."

He held out his hand. Mahony took it. It was then that, for the first time, Mahony noticed the curious shape of Lee-Ramsden's hands.

After Mahony had gone, Lee-Ramsden laughed. There was still an air of amusement about him when Mullins entered later in the afternoon with his tea.

"What did you think of young Mahony, Mullins?" he asked.
"A very ordinary young man, if I may say so, sir," replied Mullins.

Lee-Ramsden shook his head.
"On the contrary, Mullins, a very extraordinary young man," said Lee-Ramsden. "He has both brains and guts. I like him. And that's a great pity, because I'm afraid he's going to die young. Do you know what he told me?"
"No sir," said Mullins.

"He told me," said Lee-Ramsden in a shocked tone, "that the foul gang who kidnapped Miss Ruth meant to make her a drug addict, so that when they released her, she, and incidentally her money, would still be entirely under their control. Isn't that dreadful?"
"Er... yes, sir," said Mullins. He hardly seemed to know how to answer.

Lee-Ramsden laughed.
"Don't be a hypocrite, Mullins; the only dreadful part of the scheme from our point of view is that it did not succeed," he said genially. "What will be really dreadful will be if I lose control of Ruth's money when she's twenty-one. But I don't intend to Mullins; I don't intend to."

After leaving Lee-Ramsden's house, Mahony took the Underground to Notting Hill Gate Station, and began to walk back to his lodgings. About ten yards from the station entrance a man hurrying along the pavement bumped into him somewhat roughly.

"Sorry," said the man.
He paused for a moment, looking at Mahony curiously.

"Isn't your name Mahony?" he asked. "Terence Mahony?"
"Yes," answered Mahony. "What about it?" He did not feel in the mood to chat with strangers.

"My name's Milson," said the stranger. "Andrew Milson. Don't you remember me?"
"No," answered Mahony. To the best of his knowledge he had never seen the man before in his life. "I met you a couple of years ago, in the Shanghai Bar," said Milson confidently. "At that time I believe you were special correspondent in China for an American newspaper—the Chicago Leader."

That information was correct. Two years previously Mahony had done newspaper work for an American paper. He had also

Calf Feeding Plan Started at Gordon

EASTLAND, Oct. 16.—J. S. Bridges, vocational agricultural teacher of Gordon, has started feeding 30 beef calves to encourage calf feeding among the boys in his classes.

The 30 calves are being fed on a ration that has been figured out by the teacher and a check of their progress is to be kept. The calves were selected from herds in the Gordon community.

Mulgrave was the man whom Mahony had held up at the pistol point to find out where Ruth was imprisoned. And Kosoff had made his living in China by exporting dope. Mahony began to be interested in Milson's conversation.

"When did you see Kosoff?" asked Mahony.

"About four days ago. He looked so prosperous that I tried to touch him for a fever. I didn't expect to get it, of course. I was never so surprised in my life as when Kosoff actually gave it to me. He also told me that if I was down on my luck and not too particular, he knew a place where I could get a job."

Milson laughed.
"Well, I am down on my luck, and I've never been very particular—as a matter of fact, I had to leave China rather suddenly—but there are some jobs that I do draw the line at, and Kosoff's are among them. He had a chat with Mulgrave about me, and Mulgrave gave me a note of introduction."

"The job was dope peddling, I suppose?" suggested Mahony.

Milson nodded.
"Kosoff was quite frank about it. He knows I'm a public school man, that I've got a pretty tough record in China, and that the English police don't know me, and those are the qualifications he wanted. I took the note and thanked him because of the money, but there's nothing doing."

Mahony buys the note from Milson, Sunday.

the other day, too," went on Milson. "Kosoff—you knew him, didn't you? He's over here now on a visit. Very well dressed and prosperous. He introduced me to his partner, a man named Mulgrave."

Ripper Collins Aspiring to Fame As Noah Webster of Baseball Game

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16. (AP)—With the diamond season over, James (Ripper) Collins, St. Louis Cardinal first-baseman, has returned to his home in Rochester, N. Y., ready to take over a new role as baseball's Noah Webster.

A journalist off the diamond, Collins has been writing a daily column for a home-town newspaper. This gave him the idea of compiling a baseball players' dictionary.

All season he jotted down expressions he heard during the games, catching the colorful phrases that go to make up the vocabulary of such purists as Dizzy Dean and Pepper Martin. Now he has the job of sorting the notes and getting them into some kind of order.

"I'm going to put out that dictionary," Lexicographer Collins said just before completing his baseball chores, "although I don't know what I'll do with it when I finish."

He was reluctant for "a special reason" to disclose any of the outstanding expressions he had gathered for his volume.

Field Goals Due For Big Part In Aggie-Frog Tilt

FT. WORTH, Oct. 16.—It might easily be the "battle of field goals" when Texas Christian and Texas A. & M. meet in College Station Saturday.

T. C. U. won from Tulsa by the margin of a field goal. A. & M. used the same means of finishing ahead of Rice Institute. A week earlier, the Aggies had likewise won from Hardin Simmons through a kick from placement.

And field goals have spelled victory in the Frog-Farmer contest on two occasions in fairly recent years. In 1930 Capt. Noble Atkins, T. C. U. center, booted one over the goal posts at College Station to carry his team to a 3-to-0 victory. In 1935 the Horned Frogs fumed "Three-point" Johnny Washmon kicked a field goal from the 35-yard line to give the Christians the game, 3 to 0.

Bill Boyd, half, and John Morrow, end, both juniors, are the Aggie field-goal artists. Capt. Walter Roach, senior wing man, booted the goal for T. C. U. in the Tulsa tilt. Vic Montgomery, senior half, had attempted one earlier in the game, but missed.

SHIFT ABILENE TACKLE
ABILENE, Oct. 16.—Making room for Forrest Orr, a Vernon junior who has done a fine job of understudying him for the last season and a half, Capt. "Squib" Carruthers, all-Texas conference center, may play right tackle for Abilene Christian college against Trinity here Saturday afternoon.

Baylor Prepares For Hard Battle With Steer Team

(Special to The Daily Press)

WACO, Oct. 16.—With courage undaunted after a heart-breaking fourth quarter defeat at the hands of the powerful Arkansas Razorbacks last week-end, the Baylor Bears are spending many hours this week drilling against the famous Notre Dame system which Coach Jack Chevigny's Texas Longhorns will use in the coming Baylor-Texas contest. Wednesday afternoon's drill for the Bruins consisted of a stiff scrimmage session against the husky Baylor Cub team.

Lack of reserve strength handicapped the Grizzlies noticeably last week when they dropped their initial conference encounter to the Ozark Pokes. For more than three quarters Coach Jennings' Bears were supreme on Razorback field, but the fourth quarter found the Baptists too weary to cope with the flashy aerial show which the Thomsenmen staged. John Reynolds, who has proved himself as one of the Southwest's greatest linemen, Owen Parry, husky Bruin tackle, and Sam Boyd, sensational sophomore wingman, all were sent from the Hog tilt with

Parson Believes Golf Is Drudgery At Enormous Price for Privilege

PALESTINE, Tex., Oct. 16. (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Ewart H. Wyle, who minces in better-than-average golf games with his preaching at the First Christian church here, decries the game of golf as follows: "Golf is what letter-carrying, ditch-digging and carpet-beating would be if those three tasks had to be performed on the same hot afternoon in short pants and colored socks by gouty looking gentlemen who required a different implement for every mood.

"It is the simplest game in the world when you take it up and the toughest after you've been at it 10 or 12 years.

"It is probably the only known game a man can play as long as a quarter of a century and then discover that it was too deep for him in the first place.

"One golfer can support a family of 10 people, all adults, on the amounts represented by the balls lost by some golfers on a single afternoon.

"A 'green' is a small parcel of grass costing about $1.98 a blade and usually located between a brook, a couple of apple trees and a lot of unfinished excavations. "The idea is to get the golf ball from a given point into each of the cups in the fewest strokes and the greatest number of words. The ball must not be thrown, pushed or carried. It must be propelled entirely by about $200 worth of curious-looking implements, especially designed to provoke the owner. "After each hole has been completed, the golfer counts his strokes. Then he subtracts six and announces he made a five. 'Shall we play for 50 cents on the hole?" he asks."

Agent Expects NYA Help For Terrace Work

EASTLAND, Oct. 16.—Beginning November 1, two crews of N. Y. A. youths will be put to work in Eastland county running terrace and contour lines and doing conservation work, according to the county agent. A full-time supervisor who works out of the county agent's office will have supervision over the work. All work done will follow rules and instructions recognized by the extension service as being sound.

Types of conservation work that can be done under the N. Y. A. project are terrace or contour line running and pasture demonstration work such as clearing, deadening timber, listing, contouring, fertilizing, sodding, reseeding, removing cactus and fencing modified grazing areas. Making and laying of sub-irrigation garden tile also will be done.

N. Y. A. workers will not build terraces, only running the lines. Pasture work will be done on a limited scale where land owners wish to improve a reasonable area and are willing to furnish everything except the labor.

Most interesting are two bundles of yellowed prescriptions filled during the years 1910 and 1911. They reminded me of Paris, Texas, when as a small boy I had the doggonest case of double pneumonia. A lovable old doctor of the homeopathic school treated me with sugar pills over which he poured colorless, tasteless liquids. The pills were like candy.

He was the only physician of that school I ever knew.
