SOVIET HELP OF MADRID TO DRAW ACTION

Loyalists Retreat As Insurgents Occupy Navalcanero

Spanish insurgents poked a new spearhead toward Madrid today as diplomats of politically opposite nations rumbled fresh threats over Spanish neutrality.

The government forces fell back behind barbed wire entanglements just outside of the city and about 10 miles from the capital after fascists moved into Navalcanero, "key city" to the Madrid defenses.

In London German and Italian fascist diplomats intimated that their nations would spring into action if Russia dumped overboard the 27-nation agreement to isolate the Spanish civil war.

Germany accused the Soviet of shipping planes, and ammunition to Madrid.

Lord Plymouth, chairman of the neutrality committee, summoned the members for another discussion tomorrow.

The Madrid government accepted the French offer to evacuate refugees from the battle zones.

SOVIET DISGUISED ARMS FOR SPAIN, CHARGE

LONDON, Oct. 22. (AP)—Germany has accused Russia of shipping arms to the Spanish government disguised as food, an informant said today.

It was disclosed that the German note to the non-intervention committee prior to tomorrow's meeting of the group contained a sweeping denial of charges that Germany had shipped arms to the Spanish insurgents, and gave specific dates that the alleged Russian arms were transported to Spanish government ports.

High School Classes Hold Weekly Meetings

Regular class meetings were held at the high school this morning at the activity period. The seniors elected officers for the kangaroo court which will be held the Monday following freshman week for the purpose of punishing those fresh disobeying the rules for the week. Matters concerning the senior rings and the Lobo were also discussed.

Prosperity Back To Stay, Hartford Is Told by FDR

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 22. (AP)—President Roosevelt, in a bid for the eight electoral votes of Connecticut, which went republican in 1932, said here today that the state was "happier than four years ago," and pledged the federal government to do its share toward New England flood control.

President Roosevelt said he was glad that prosperity is back again, adding, "believe me, it is going to stay."

LONDON PASSES THROUGH TEXAS

ENROUTE WITH GOV. LANDON, Oct. 22. (AP)—Governor Alf Landon carried his campaign eastward today through New Mexico and the corner of Texas with the contention that "regimentation of the individual and curbing of his liberties underlie every one of the New Deal's plans."

Only railroad operating stops were ahead today in the trip to Oklahoma city for an address tomorrow expected to touch on government "relief and waste."

Aaron Cohen and daughter of Baltimore, Md., who have been transacting business here, left Wednesday for their home.

Baronet's British Fascists Gain Attention

FASCIST LEADER... Sir Oswald Mosley delivers a fiery speech to his British fascists, whose activities caused...

STRENGTH IS KEPT SECRET

Sir Oswald Mosley Is Fascist Head

By DeWITT MacKENZIE NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (AP)—Sir Oswald Mosley, the fighting baronet who is leader of British fascists, has finally forced conservative England, which at first snifed contemptuously at his black-shirts, to sit up and take note of his now very extensive operations.

Constant bloody street battles between fascists and communists have resulted in the hard-hitting reds appealing to the government to take "effective measures against fascist hooliganism." Britons could almost smile at that, were it not for the fact that these fierce conflicts have become a menace to life and property.

Blamed For Attacks On Jews There is another situation at which they cannot smile. Anti-Semitic disturbances in London's crowded East End are the order of the day, and these attacks on the persons and property of Jews are, rightly or wrongly, laid at the door of the fascists.

How many followers Mosley has is a secret carefully guarded at fascist headquarters. It is known that they run to many thousands, and there are some 500 fascist branches in the United Kingdom. He has achieved this in four years of hard work.

3 GROUPS TO MEET TONIGHT

Teachers, Lions and Rotarians Dine

School teachers, members of the Lions club and those of the Rotary club will gather on the roof garden of the Laguna hotel this evening at 7 o'clock for a dinner unique in character, but designed to bring about a closer understanding between those who operate and teach the schools and the men and women who direct the business affairs and the professional services of the community.

Arrangements are being made to take care of an attendance of 100, H. L. Dyer, chairman of ticket sales, announced.

The program, in charge of Horace Condeley who will preside, will consist of the contribution of one number by each of the three groups. The character of these numbers has not been announced. Condeley made plain, however, that there would be no speeches. No business session will be held. It is planned to limit the program to one hour following the dinner.

Both the Lions and Rotary clubs postponed their regular meetings of the week until tonight.

Rev. Siceloff Is Leading Revival Through Singing

The singing revival at the Methodist church got under way last evening with Rev. John A. Siceloff of Fort Worth leading. Many new hymns were sung as an interpretation of the gospel message and Christian experience.

"Through every genuine gospel hymn there shines the experience of some individual christian, an experience that strikes home to the heart of humanity everywhere,"

House Won't Favor Strict Pension Law

2 ACCUSED OF HELPING REDS

Writer, Teacher Admit Meeting Aid

AUSTIN, Oct. 22. (AP)—Evidence that a Texas University faculty member and a writer assisted preparations for a communist meeting here in the record today at a legislative investigation.

Charles Raines, a tutor, and Herbert Reece, a magazine writer, testified that they aided distribution of circulars advertising a campaign meeting for Homer Brooks of Houston, communist candidate for governor.

City officials refused to lend the use of the public parks so the meeting was not held.

Both said that they were not members of the communist party and they aided arrangements because of fidelity to constitutional rights.

AUSTIN, Oct. 22. (AP)—The house of representatives refused to go on record today against deliberalization of the old age pension law.

The house voted to give conferees on the omnibus tax bill no instructions except to have a compromise proposal by Monday. This was regarded as an important test of sentiment. Opponents were more restrictive of the pension and urged the spokesman of the house committee to be instructed to stand against a senate amendment.

In the conference committee efforts will be made to reconcile differences between the senate and the house on various taxes proposed to raise additional revenue for old age assistance.

Vote on the resolution came after a prolonged debate in which charges that the legislature was asked to break faith with the people and alternated with declarations that the pension statute would bankrupt the state.

NO BAND PRACTICE There will be no band practice tonight on account of Rotary-Lion banquet has been announced by R. L. Maddox, band director.

Former Cisco Teacher Sees Great Britain As Holding Key to Possibility of European War

AUSTIN, Oct. 22.—A general European war can be averted so long as Europe's greatest power, England, refuses to fight, and that country will not enter hostilities unless her own possessions are threatened, it is the opinion of Wilson H. Elkins, instructor in history at the University of Texas and former three-letter athlete at that institution, who recently returned from a three-year stay as a Rhodes scholar at Oxford university in England. Elkins is a former member of the Cisco high school faculty and coach. "Another so-called world war can be averted for a time, until Germany finds it imperative to demand more territory outside the present boundaries of that country," he said. "But when Germany decides to expand, and to take possession of additional territory, perhaps in Africa or in Russia, then England will be willing to fight."

European war was most imminent a few months ago when Germany re-occupied the Rhineland, but England refused to fight, and France knew that she could not be defeated if she fought alone, he continued. In case of German invasion of Russia, the alignment of powers would likely be Great Britain, France and Russia against Germany, Austria and Italy. Japan is opposed to Russia's policy in Siberia, and ultimately these two countries will meet in the middle of that territory, so that Japan may ally herself with Germany, Austria and Italy. In the next war, the alignment of powers will be fairly equal, he added.

The Pot and the Kettle

In the Italian conquest of Ethiopia, it was generally felt in England that, while perhaps Italy was not justified in making the campaign, actually she was doing just what Great Britain has done in the past, Elkins explained. Only European war would have stopped Italy, and England was unwilling (CONTINUED ON PAGE 6)

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE I have always wondered why a person should want to get drunk—or "tight," if you'd rather—at a football game. No more supposed and public place could exist and nothing could more inappreciate one for seeing and appreciating the game than the consumption of a pint or so of moon. You would think that a person wanting to get tight would get away to themselves or with a group of friends, instead of peking out a spot in a football stadium in the view of hundreds or thousands of people for getting polluted.

The suggestion was brought by recollection of the antics of a couple of drunks at the SMU-Vandy football game in the Centennial Cotton Bowl last week. Their actions attracted the attention of the officers and one of the pair was firmly removed, while the second, seated several rows down, was yelling demands upon the police to turn someone because "he ain't hurtin' nobody."

But the rest of the people were content to have him removed, and I think they would appreciate it if the officers had been less tolerant of the drunk offender. They were interested in the game, and not in a drunk clowning.

Colder weather, the anticipated appearance of the new automobile models and the national election are stimulating events nowadays. The presidential campaign will come to end November 3 when the voters of the country register their preferences. Most of us will be glad when it is over. The influence of such campaigns upon general conditions is a debated but feared question.

There is no doubt but what Roosevelt will be re-elected and by a large majority. Some of the boys are pulling for Landon, but they are wasting their efforts. They will have to put up with Roosevelt and Garner and the demagogue for another four years.

The opposite conclusions arrived at by the Literary Digest and the Institute of Public Opinion poll cause discussion and conjecture. The Digest registers Mr. Landon ahead in returns from all of the 48 states. The Institute of Public Opinion registers Roosevelt ahead.

Farley Claims 2 Additional States

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (AP)—Democratic Chairman James A. Farley, who has predicted President Roosevelt's reelection by a landslide, said Wednesday he would carry the normally republican states of New Jersey and Delaware.

The chairman has never before in this campaign included either state in any of his claims of victory.

Mercury Slides to 41 In Cisco as Rain Strikes the City

AMARILLO, Oct. 22. (AP)—Snow began falling here today as a wintry cold wave, penetrating deep into Texas, drove panhandle temperatures below freezing.

Chilly, unsettled weather prevailed over the southwest. Most of the region was feeling the sting of a "norther" rain reported at many points.

Heavy snow fell for 30 minutes around Pampa. Light flurries, melting as it fell, extended over the area between Amarillo and Memphis.

The mercury tumbled to 29 degrees at Pampa. The disturbance went deep into central Texas, indicating that it might reach the Gulf coast tonight.

FALL MERCHANDISING DUE FOR SPURT

Fall merchandising in Cisco and this section was expected to receive considerable impetus this week as a mild cold wave, accompanied by rain, swept over the country last night and today. Temperatures, according to the recording thermometer at the Cisco Gas corporation, dropped from 60 degrees at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon to 41 degrees at 10 a. m. today.

Rain totalled 4 of an inch at noon, according to the gauge at the city hall.

Merchants generally were encouraged by the cooler weather, the usual fall business volume having been held back by unseasonable warmth. Dry goods dealers, hardware merchants, and grocers were especially pleased.

Both Loboes and Midgets to Play Here Tomorrow

The Cisco Loboes, with the promise of colder weather and, perhaps, wetter weather than during the first half of their football season, will square off Friday night at Chesley field against the first Class B team they will have played this year. With eight conference games on their schedule, the team is allowed only two additional games by conference rules limiting those played during the district season to ten, and the first (CONTINUED ON BACK PAGE)

TWO PARKERS INDICTED BY FEDERAL JURY

MT. HOLLY, N. J., Oct. 22. (AP)—Ellis Parker, chief of Burlington county detectives, and his son, Ellis, Jr., were arrested and made bond Tuesday on indictments by the federal grand jury in connection with the Paul H. Wendel kidnaping.

The arrests were made 24 hours after the indictments were returned at Newark. The Parkers and three Brooklyn men were previously indicted in Brooklyn after Wendel charged he was abducted in Manhattan, taken to Brooklyn and tortured into making a false confession in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case.

Gov. Harold Hoffman turned down New York's first request that the elder Parker be extradited. He was also asked to extradite the son. He had not yet rendered an official decision.

Mother, I can't Study - My head hurts!

AS A USUAL THING, he is "such a regular guy." He comes home from school full of pep and energy. Of course you want him that way always. But are you protecting his health and safety during the few short months of winter when he must spend his evenings indoors?

That uncomfortable "stuffy" feeling . . . dullness . . . lowered vitality . . . headache—these are some of nature's ways of complaining against improper heating and insufficient ventilation. These are the warning signals that America's Public Health Enemy Number One, the common cold germ, has found another fertile field in which to attack. For your health's sake and that of your loved ones do not wait for these definite signs of warning that the air indoors has become stale. Keep the air you breathe constantly purified with fresh oxygen through adequate ventilation in every room in the house.

Without oxygen man cannot live. Without oxygen, fuel cannot burn. Therefore, if your family "huddles" in one or two rooms around an open flame heater during cold weather with the doors and windows tightly closed, you are violating all the rules of nature, good health and good heating. Sooner or later the occupants of the room and the burning fuel reduce the oxygen content to the point where the room air becomes stale. Without adequate ventilation and circulation the air indoors may become as foul and unhealthy as that of the tenement slums of large cities, even though your home may be the most beautiful in the neighborhood.

A simple and easy method of providing a constant circulation of fresh air is found by opening a window in each room slightly. Connecting doors left open between adjoining rooms when the entire house is adequately heated provide a natural circulation of pure warm air from one room to another.

Guard the health of your loved ones with adequate heat and proper ventilation of pure, warmed air in every room in the house.

"Science of Seeing" Is Subject Of Film Shown by WTU Lighting Expert

The "science of seeing," a subject that admittedly should have received the careful interest of lighting experts, eye specialists and parents fifty years ago, is the subject of one of the most interesting and instructive commercial talking films that has been made.

of intensity that contrast is removed and a soothing room condition prevails. Absence of glare in the use of proper paintings and the correct placing of lights was stressed as essential. The formula does not mean the brilliance of out of doors must be provided in the rooms, it was made plain. It simply means that sufficient light be placed in proper relation to the severest strain placed upon the eye and that there be an absence of contrast and an absence of glare.

The effect of bad seeing upon the nervous system, the heart and other vital bodily organs was shown through the results of tests that have been exhaustively carried out in General Electric laboratories. A meter for testing the intensity of light in terms of foot-candles was also demonstrated.

Hurling a field sport formerly very popular in Ireland, is similar to present-day hockey.

LODGING COSTS AVERAGE ONLY $10 PER MONTH

Nineteen Eastland county boys who are attending A. & M. college as members of the Eastland county project group received board and lodging their first month at an average expense of $10 each, according to Jack W. Morris, Ranger, manager of the group. The project is made up of 19 boys from all parts of Eastland county and was organized last summer in cooperation with Elmo V. Cook, county agent, and other A. & M. ex-students of Eastland county.

Early in September a committee composed of Wesley Lane of Eastland, Billy Jake Joyce, of Rising Star, and Jack Morris inspected several vacant houses near A. & M. college and rented a large house in Bryan. They were assisted in their plan by Dr. Daniel Russell, head of the rural sociology department of A. & M. Just before school started a truck was hired to pick up the boy's baggage and other equipment at Ranger, Eastland, Rising Star, and Pioneer and take it to Bryan.

A house mother was hired whose duty it is to prepare meals for the boys and see that they are properly supervised. Practically every boy in the group has gained weight since school started. Groceries and other supplies are bought cooperatively through the rural sociology department of the college.

Started 5 Years Ago The A. & M. project home idea started five years ago with one project. Last year there were over 500 boys in 43 groups. This year there are 1,000 boys staying in project houses. A. & M. college has the largest enrollment in history, more than 4,000 boys. It would have been impossible to accommodate all these boys but for the project groups. In former years, expenses of boys staying in project houses have been less than half the expenses of other students.

Eastland county boys who are members of the project are Cleo Key, L. A. Dolberry, Andy Taylor, Robert Henderson, Jack Gourley, and Wesley Lane of Eastland; Jack Gray, Billie Jake Joyce, W. R. Roberts, and Claude Chastain of Rising Star; Foster Cash of Pioneer; W. C. Robert of Desdemona; James Collins of Cross Plains; and Jack Morris, Jack Waggoner, Jack Palmer, Jasper Woods, C. F. Poyner, and Barto Watson of Ranger.

Bobcats Continue Their Drive For Title With 40 to 0 Win Over Lobos

The mighty San Angelo Bobcats continued their drive for the Oil Belt Pennant Friday night when they smashed the Cisco Lobos by a score of 4 to 0. At times the Cisco offense sparkled, as did its defense, but the powerful Bobcats could not be stopped. All the San Angelo gains were made by ground plays. They tried only one pass throughout the game.

San Angelo scored three times the first quarter, and the entire Bobcat starters were pulled. The substitutes did not fare so well. The Lobos easily outplayed them all the second and most of the third quarters.

Late in the third period a San Angelo back broke loose and ran from midfield to the Cisco 13, and on the next play the Bobcats circled end for the fourth tally.

The fifth touchdown was a result of a blocked punt early in the fourth with the ball on the Lobos 15. A Bobcat broke through the Lobos and blocked the kick which rolled behind the Lobo goal line and was recovered by Baker.

The last touchdown came late in the game when Slicker, rushed hard, punted out on his 25 yard line. Then using straight power plays they drove to the six where a Jones drove over for the counter.

Steyer, Lobo back, aided by good blocking, drove through the Bobcat line consistently for substantial gains, and Rainbolt broke loose twice for long gains and played a good defense game. There were no individual standouts in the Lobo line. Slicker got off several good punts and completed passes throughout the game. The Lobos will not play a game next week, but will meet the Abilene Eagles Oct. 30 at Chesley field.

The starting lineup: Cisco—Ends, Wallace and Bacon; tackles, Stewart and Shirley; guards, Flaherty and Yarbrough; center, Webster; quarterback, Slicker; half backs, Rainbolt and Donohoe; fullback, Steyer.

San Angelo—Ends, Fulghum and Billings; tackles, Drake and Cornelison; center, E. Brown; quarterback, B. Brown; halfbacks, Hay and Harrison; fullback, Hinde.

Can Borrow to Pay Delinquent Taxes, Explained

It is possible for property owners who owe considerable delinquent taxes to borrow from the federal savings and loan associations sufficient money to meet these obligations and repay the loan over 5- to 10-year periods. Rex Ragan, tax specialist with the Cisco school board, explained today.

A property owner can secure a loan of $500 to pay that much in back taxes and repay the loan at a monthly charge of only about $5.50, he said. He described it as the best opportunity the public has of relieving property of delinquent tax burdens—which constitute an overdue debt that can be demanded at any time—and of saving

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: The year 1757, Colonel Munro, defending Fort Mifflin, is forced to surrender. The Hurons, allies of the French, begin to massacre the helpless garrison. The Colonel is killed defending his two daughters, Cora and Alice, who are carried away by the Hurons. Hawkeye, a Colonial hunter, and his Mohican friends, Uncas and Chingachgook, have been imprisoned by Munro for insubordination, but they escape, and set out to rescue the girls.

Chapter XI

UNCAS AND MAGUA

Uncas drew his tomahawk and stepped to the edge of the cliff. As the first of the Hurons burst up to the ledge, Uncas was upon him like a whirlwind. The Huron dropped, the sharp stone in his skull. Magua's head appeared. His arm drew back. As Uncas spun to meet him, Magua's tomahawk struck him full in the side. Writhing on the ground, Uncas drew his knife, and sought to raise himself on one elbow. But Magua, con-temptuously, with one foot toppled him off the ledge, to go hurtling down, two hundred feet below.

Magua breathed deeply, and advanced upon Cora. She, facing him, her eyes courageous, backed slowly towards the edge of the cliff as he advanced, and then, soundlessly, flung herself over the edge. Her body struck near the bank of the stream below. She was killed instantly. Uncas, still alive, crawled painfully towards her until he could barely touch her with his hand. And then his body, too, was still.

As Magua and the remaining Huron peered over the cliff, grimly surveying their handiwork, a shot rang out. The Huron slumped on the ledge. Magua jumped back to safety.

It was Hawkeye's deadly rifle that had fired the shot. Now he began to reload, watching Magua, but Chingachgook shook his head. Hawkeye nodded. Magua belonged to Chingachgook. The Mohican cupped his hands and shouted: "Magua. Come down!"

Magua accepted the challenge. Tomahawk in hand, he began to clamber down the cliff, where Chingachgook, his rifle flung aside, awaited him.

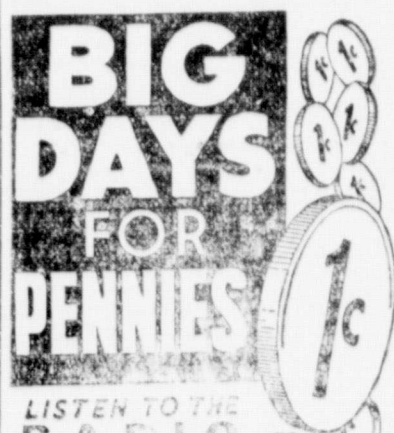

As Hawkeye and Heyward watched grimly, there began a duel fought between two adversaries of equal strength and cunning. They parried and struck with their tomahawks with all the skill of fencers. Suddenly, they came to grips, and rolled to the ground. Chingachgook was on top, holding Magua's armed hand helpless to the ground with his left, while in his right hand the tomahawk was poised aloft, ready to strike, stayed only by Magua's taut free hand.

For a moment the implacable enemies glared their hatred. And then Chingachgook tore his hand free, and his tomahawk descended with fearful force. Magua was still. Breathing hard, the Mohican arose, sheathed his tomahawk, and stood impassive, with folded arms.

Silhouetted in the mist against the sky, near the edge of a great lake, were two cairns, containing the bodies of the unfortunate Uncas and Cora, united in death as they could never have been in life. Hawkeye and Heyward stood with bowed heads while Chingachgook spoke over the bier of his son.

Age Negro Injured In Car Accident

Alexander, colored, of Texas, paid a fine of $100 in justice court Monday on charges of reckless driving in connection with an accident at the Harrell Crossing overpass on Highway No. 1 west of Cisco a short time earlier in the afternoon. Alexander, who was driving a car, caused another car to get out of control and overturn a trailer which Willie Caldwell, aged 60, hitch-hiker of Ft. Worth, riding Caldwell and two other negro youths were picked up by another negro driving the car and trailer at Putnam, a short while before. They said the truck cut in too quickly and struck the top on the car, knocking it down on the driver whose efforts to regain control of his machine caused the trailer to overturn, injuring Caldwell. None of the others were hurt.

Caldwell was taken to Ft. Worth last night by relatives who were notified. His injuries were said not to be serious.

Venire of 140 Is Summoned to Try Mrs. Henry Nov. 2

EASTLAND, Oct. 22.—A special venire of 140 men from which will be chosen a jury for the Nov. 2 trial of Mrs. Raymond Henry on a charge of slaying her former husband, H. L. McBee, 42, was ordered Monday by B. W. Patterson, judge of 88th district court.

The venire was ordered on motion of Criminal District Attorney Grady Owen. The venire will be drawn from the jury panel for the November term of the court.

Raymond Henry, 25, husband of Mrs. Henry, was assessed a 50-year sentence April 5 on his conviction of slaying McBee.

Lynn Smith, 29, is accused as an accessory in the case.

The state charged Henry with slaying McBee, a highway worker, at Rising Star May 1, 1933 and that the body was buried, exhumed three weeks later and hung from a tree to give the appearance of suicide.

The skeleton was found on the O. C. Broughton farm near Rising Star one year later by two boys.

A fourth defendant, Jack Smith, 40, brother of Lynn, committed suicide in jail by slashing his throat.

Application has been made by the state for the subpoena of the following witnesses:

Lila Gay Earh, Olden; Ollie Barnett, Carbon; Mrs. Hulin Erwin, Rising Star; Perry James Blake, Brown county.

Application has been made by the defense for the subpoena of the following witnesses:

Clarence Butler, Hamlin; Alfa Butler, Hamlin; Vol Pennington, Wink; Finis Pennington, Wink; A. E. Hankins, Joshua, Johnson county; Mrs. A. E. Hankins, Joshua; Mrs. Viola Smith, Joshua; Mrs. Lois Smith, Joshua; Lynn Smith, Gatesville.

How far from drudgery this is!

Many women get so used to the weekly grind of washing and ironing they become dulled to the drudgery involved in old-fashioned methods. The next time you do the weekly ironing, keep a time record of how many hours it takes you. Is it two hours, three, four—or all day or more? No matter whether it is two hours or the better part of two days, just consider this: An electric ironer will save you two-thirds of the time, and the third you spend will be oh, so much easier than any ironing you have ever done by hand. And a modern electric ironer is not complicated, either. You learn to use it quickly, it does a fine job, even on fussy pieces, and can be bought on easy terms.

It takes minutes -- not hours -- to do the ENTIRE IRONING!

Of course you own a modern electric ironer. For this triumph of scientific invention takes the backache out of washing, shortens the time, and saves the clothes, too.

Together, the washer and ironer save you hours and hours—hours turned from drudgery into recreation. A washer costs very little to operate. See both in our showrooms!

A Training Ground--Or a Wilderness?

FATHERS and mothers of college students will view with tolerant amusement, if not a little awe, an editorial in the Daily Texan of several days ago which vigorously defends the maturity of student ideas and outlook at the average age of 21.46 years. They will wonder, perhaps, in just what manner those students would deal with the problem they, themselves, present. The editorial protest was inspired by the censorship of the Daily Texan editorials which the board of regents and the administration of the university decreed. That censorship was the occasion for a considerable uproar which extended beyond the confines of the university to be echoed in more serious political and editorial fields where it was termed a violation of the good old American doctrine of freedom of the press. Those protests, of course, did not explain that the Daily Texan is an institution of the University of Texas and as such is subject to its official supervision just as a newspaper in the commercial field is subject to the supervision of its board of directors.

WHILE this newspaper champions freedom of the press as a vital American doctrine, we fail to reconcile the idea of unrestrained student ebullitions, editorial or otherwise, with the proposition that the university is a field of training and therefore, for the sake of its purpose, subject to directional restrictions. Students are not sent there to grow up wild, no more than cotton is permitted to grow wild in the field.

IF the circulation of the editorials of the Daily Texan was restricted entirely to class rooms there would be no argument against their so-called censorship. But since they reach out into the newspaper field and become public influences, criticism has been raised against supervision of their writing. There exists a curious paradox.

"Jim And Us Are Agin It!"

JIM FERGUSON'S attitude on the six proposed amendments to the constitution of the state which are to be voted on November 3 is interesting in view of the ex-governor's long experience in the administration of state affairs both as governor and as the husband and advisor of a governor. Ferguson expresses approval of all but one of the six amendments. He turns thumbs down on the proposition that the state enter the liquor business with the simple opinion that such a condition would promote a general corruption and increased violation of the law.

IN that opinion we agree with Mr. Ferguson. Not only is the proposition a violation of a fundamental principle of democratic government, but the effort to establish the state monopoly plan is admission of the inadequacy of the present moral value of the legal structure in dealing with the question of liquor control. It is admission that the liquor issue is bigger than the determination of the people to deal with it in a firm and resolute manner. And the imminent danger of such a political state of mind is that the voters will toss the fat out of the frying pan and into the fire. It is a naive and unlettered state of mind that proposes to unload the problem in such a manner. One would certainly think that the experience of the past hundred or more years with the issue would have taught the simple lesson which so plainly denies the efficacy of such a move.

OTHER OPINIONS

The Teacher Retirement Amendment

ON November 3 the people of Texas will vote upon a constitutional amendment to permit the legislature to enact a teacher retirement law. This is one of the most progressive movements that has been made in our state in recent years. Briefly, this amendment provides that each teacher coming into the profession will deposit with the state monthly a small part of his salary, not to exceed five per cent, and in no case to exceed $180 yearly. The state will match this deposit, and both sums will earn compound interest on investments. Prior to reaching retirement age a teacher must have taught at least 20 years in the schools of Texas before he is entitled to retirement annuities. This does not mean that teachers are retired after 20 years of teaching service. If a teacher withdraws before he has taught the required 20 years in Texas, he will receive back his own investment with the compound interest that has accrued, but he will not draw anything from the state. Thus, the teacher retirement is a business-like arrangement between the teacher and the state in which both contribute to the fund and from which both profit. Teachers working under this plan will not be eligible for old-age pensions.

It is believed that the people of the state will endorse this amendment by a large majority for the following reasons:

First, a sound teacher retirement law protects school children from teachers rendered less competent by advanced age. Such teachers will be willing to retire if they can see where the next day's living is coming from. This plan relieves school boards from the obligation of continuing to employ teachers formerly satisfactory. School boards are human. They hesitate to dismiss the old teacher who has no other means of support.

Second, a sound teacher retirement law tends to attract people into the profession because it gives a better guarantee of promotion, tenure in service, and security of retirement. It increases the dignity of the teaching profession.

Third, a sound teacher retirement system tends to keep many capable teachers in the classroom, because it is unnecessary for them to seek other employment financially more attractive. Many of our best teachers leave the profession early for better salaries in other lines, thereby leaving the children in the hands of the less efficient teacher.

Fourth, a sound teacher retirement system increases the efficiency of the teacher in the classroom for the following reasons: It lengthens the period of teaching efficiency by relieving the teachers' mind of the fear of a destitute old age; it improves the morale of a teaching force by keeping open the paths of promotion; and it increases the child's respect for the teacher and thereby makes his work more effective.

Another most important reason for favoring this plan is that in the long run a teacher retirement system means a substantial saving to the taxpayers because it makes possible the replacement of superannuated teachers, who receive the maxim salaries, by younger teachers who begin at a smaller salary; it protects the public from the waste of an expensive school plant manned by a worn-out teaching staff; and it is cheaper than a pension system. The compound interest feature, and the withdrawal privilege, make it better for the teacher and less expensive for the state. In fact, it is believed by those best informed on the subject that within a few years the state will make little or no contribution to the retirement fund because a revolving fund will accrue due to withdrawals. And since teachers under this system will not draw old-age pensions, the state should effect a substantial saving. But, best of all, the children will benefit because of the retirement of the incompetent and the employment of more active teachers. A vote for the amendment is a vote for better schools for the money expended.

Mosley's silver-haired, aristocratic mother, Lady Maud, then cast her lot with her fascist son, taking over the political work which Lady Cynthia once had done. In 1933, not long after his wife's in England—a paradoxical figure in some ways. This blue-blooded man of title is a fighter from the drop of the hat, quite as ready and efficient with his fists as he is on the speaker's rostrum. When he is off the war-path, however, you get the picture of a quiet-spoken aristocrat, with finely chiseled features and drawing-room manners, whose slight build belies the wiry strength of his athletic body. He looks like anything but a scrapper.

Born a Conservative
Mosley is an individualist, and has always been a rebel against orthodox political ideas. He was born with a gold spoon in his mouth, the son of aristocracy, and he inherited his title.

He was a brilliant youth and was only 22 years old when first elected to the House of Commons in 1918. He started out under the conservative flag, as was rather natural, but he quickly kicked over the traces and in a few brief years ran the gamut of political emotions.

He deserted the conservative party of his father and ancestors and went over to socialism and the laborites. Then he quit labor and formed a party of his own—the "New Party"—and advocated dictatorship to remedy the economic ills of the country.

There was a fascist tinge to the "New Party," and this tinge became a blaze of color in 1932 when Mosley turned his organization into "The British Union of Fascists," and adopted the Mussolini tenets.

When Mosley went socialist, Lady Cynthia followed her man out into the wilderness and they took the rebuffs of society together. She was elected to commons as a laborite, and fought side-by-side with her husband.

They called her "Comrade Cynthia"—this daughter of the proud Marquess. She even attacked her father politically, and meantime Mosley and his father, Sir Oswald, had split over the young man's politics. When the father died in 1928 the son got the title but that was all—his father did not mention him in his will.

It was Cynthia who formally launched the New Party at its inauguration in old Memorial Hall, London. Mosley was ill, and his tall, goodlooking wife took the platform before the big crowd. There was heckling and a free-for-all fight in the gallery, but she handled the situation well and got an ovation at the finish.

Mother Helps Now
Mosley's New Party was not successful in the general election of 1931, and he was not elected to commons. Lady Cynthia was in poor health and did not run. She could no longer give her husband active support in his work. In 1933 she died, and a lovely romance was ended.

Mosley's silver-haired, aristocratic mother, Lady Maud, then cast her lot with her fascist son, taking over the political work which Lady Cynthia once had done.

death, Mosley was said to have ordered his followers to drop an anti-Semitic attitude that had developed. Many people at that time called attention to the fact that Lady Cynthia had Jewish blood in her—she was the granddaughter of the late Levi Leiter, the Chicago millionaire. Last year, however, Mosley finally came out against the Jews in a violent speech at Leicester. Mosley always is in danger of physical attack when he appears in public; bloody fights have pursued his meetings for years; many times he has been hurt. Long ago he organized and trained athletes among his followers to use their fists, and a guard of these fighting black-shirts is present at every fascist meeting.

Elkins--

to enter such an affray. "There were rumors afloat in Europe," Elkins added parenthetically, "that France perhaps financed the Ethiopian expedition."

England wants peace, Elkins went on. The majority of the British people, whether of the upper, middle or lower class, want peace and fear war. There is peace in England momentarily, and certain factions in that country advocate a "splendid isolation" in order to keep that peace. This naturally involves restriction of trade to commerce between England and the possessions of the British Empire. Political leaders, however, realize that this is impractical. They are determined, on the other hand, to keep England out of war as long as possible. The mass of British people are unwilling to go to war for any cause, but they are trained in a long tradition of subordination to the rule of the few, and should war come, they will fight.

Evidence of Weakness
"Students at Oxford, as well as the people of England generally, feel that the League of Nations' failure to halt Mussolini's attack on Ethiopia was evidence of its weakness," Elkins declared. "The League can function if small nations are involved in disputes, but is powerless if major interests are at stake. It is generally believed that the League will continue to fail unless it is completely reorganized."

"England has more interest in the League than any other country, for she does not want war, and she feels that the League is the only preventive."

Elkins spent five months in Spain about two years ago, and even at that time it was apparent that the seeds of revolution were sprouting, he asserted. Resentment against the ruling class, the wealthy aristocrats, was simmering. Victory of the socialist party in the last election was the outcome, with the natural aftermath of war between the socialists and the rebel aristocrats. The rebels have practically all the money, and most of the fighting equipment, so that in actual battle they will probably be the victors.

"But the war will not end with the capture of Madrid, or with any other battle," Elkins predicted. "If the rebels win a decisive victory, and set up a new government, it will be necessary to establish a dictatorship, and what dictatorship can survive when 80 per cent of the populace is against it? Spain today is going through the stage France experienced in the French revolution. Mexico entered the same phase a decade ago."

Outstanding Student
While a student in the University of Texas, Elkins was a stellar football and basketball player and represented the University in track events, becoming one of the comparatively few "three-letter" men the institution has ever had. Surprisingly, he was an outstanding student scholastically, and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic honor society. He obtained both the bachelor of arts and the master of arts degrees, and then received the appointment as Rhodes scholar to Oxford university in 1933. He was this year awarded the bachelor of literature degree from that institution, and has practically completed the work toward the doctor of philosophy degree. A native of Medina, Texas, he later moved to San Antonio. Before coming to the University of Texas, he attended Schreiner institute.

Cost of Getting Into White House Is Found Great

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—It takes more than catchy ballyhoo and a compelling discussion of the issues to put a man in the White House. It takes dollars, too—millions of them.

While the total spent by democrats and republicans this year may amount to less than that of the 1928 boom days, it will make the expenditures of an earlier day seem like "pin money."

$100,000 For Lincoln
Only $100,000 was spent in 1860 to elect Abraham Lincoln and $125,000 to reelect him in 1864. The democrats reported expenditure of $1,520,658 to reelect President Roosevelt in financial statements filed with the house of representatives clerk, last month, as required by law. They reported $372,000 left in the campaign chest.

The republican statement showed $2,544,919 spent in behalf of

The minor parties reported an aggregate expenditure of $43,420.

Chieftains of both major parties expect substantial increases in contributions between now and the closing days of the campaign.

Prior to the Civil war, the largest campaign fund collected was $25,000 for James Buchanan.

The radio and high pressure methods of "selling" a candidate make necessary far greater sums today.

$11,598,000 In 1928
The all-time record for a presidential campaign was attained in 1928 when the two major parties reported a total expenditure of $11,598,000. Of this amount, the republicans spent $6,256,000 to elect Herbert Hoover and the democrats $5,342,000 in behalf of Smith.

The depression bore down heavily on the parties in 1932. The total spent was less than $5,000,000—of which $2,670,652 went for Hoover and $1,708,507 for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It required only $150,000 to send General Grant to the White House for the first time and $250,000 to keep him there for a second term. It was not until 1884 that presidential campaign funds entered the million dollar class. Grover Cleveland's first campaign cost $1,400,000 and that of his opponent, James G. Blaine, $1,300,000.

Thereafter more than a million dollars was expended each presidential year for the winning candidate.

Minors On Shoestring
Minor groups usually have to get along on a shoestring. The Union party listed expenditure of $23,853; the Socialists, $12,082; the Prohibitionists, $7,585.

Of the independent political organizations in the field this year, Father Coughlin's Union for Social Justice reported spending $473,350; the American Liberty League (anti-New Deal), $404,297; Good Neighbor League (pro-New Deal), $30,400; Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution, $4,970; and National Jeffersonian Democrats, $2,736.

Baugh Not Only Player on Team Froggies Resolve

FORT WORTH, Oct. 22.—The best fighting spirit that the Horned Frogs have carried into a game this year. That's what the spectators are going to see when T. C. U. meets Mississippi State in Dallas Saturday.

It has all come about because a certain sports writer observed that "The Frogs, with Baugh in first-class condition, are the best team in the conference; with Baugh unable to play, they are the worst."

In all probability Slingin' Sam will see little or no action in Dallas Saturday. So the Frogs are out to save the family honor.

"Maybe we have had too much of the attitude of 'Let Sam do it,'" one player observed. "Certainly we have let down too much when he hasn't been in the line-up. Well, we'll show 'em Saturday!"

Various backfield combinations are being tried out in this week's practice sessions. No one will know just what four will start until the team takes the field against the Bull Dogs.

The quartet of starting backs will be selected from the following: O'Brien and Montgomery, quarters; Clifford, McCall, Harrell, left halfbacks; Montgomery, Hall McClure, right halfbacks; Roberts, Wilkinson, Blackmon, fullbacks.

Coach Dutch Meyer has been working these backs in almost every possible combination and there is no knowing just which four will get the call.

One thing is certain, however. The T. C. U. eleven will be out to show the world that they can play good football—winning football, if possible—without Baugh.

Life Sentence Is Given in Holdup Conspiracy Case

ROBY, Oct. 22 (AP)—J. D. Echols received a life sentence Tuesday in 194th district court as a conviction of conspiracy to rob the First National bank of Rotan automatically carried with it conviction under the habitual criminal act.

Notice of appeal was given by defense counsel.

The jury, which had received the case early Tuesday afternoon after the day Monday and morning Tuesday had been consumed in hearing testimony, asked Judge W. R. Chapman for rulings on two questions at 5:15 p. m. They sought definition of the term, "life imprisonment," and to know whether mercy could be recommended, upon conviction. After the judge had replied, the group deliberated about a half hour before returning a verdict.

Three Arrests
Charge of conspiracy to commit a felony followed the arrest of Echols, Frank Hardy and J. H. Nowlin at Odessa early this year.

The state charged that the three entered into a pact to rob the Rotan First National Bank, and approached R. J. Yantis, night watchman at the bank, to solicit his aid. Hardy and Nowlin will be tried on conspiracy charges at a later date.

Yantis was the principal witness for the state. He testified that he was approached by a group of men with a proposition to rob the bank after tying him up; that, to lead them on, he agreed, and then notified bank officials and officers of Rotan, who, for several nights, lay hidden on a building opposite the bank with machine guns and shotguns. Yantis said dates for the robbery were set several times.

THEFT PROBE MANY PEOPLE MAY INVOLVE

With the prospect that between 30 and 40 people may eventually be involved in charges, officers of the state automobile theft bureau, the state department of the public safety and local officers throughout the state this week continued their work of smashing what they described as one of the biggest, if not the biggest, automobile theft syndicate in the southwest.

Tentacles of the underworld institution, whose nerve center was found on a farm near Bowie, Texas, last week, have been found to reach into almost every part of the state, and officers were certain that they would cross state lines into adjoining states.

State theft bureau officers—whose department is a state institution maintained by insurance companies—and state rangers made a swift arrest a week ago at Bowie and quickly seized a farm 10 miles from Bowie, near Alvord, where the ring maintained a "cooling pasture." The man charged with being the "brains" of the syndicate operated a paint and body plant in Bowie and the farm upon which the stolen cars were disassembled, disguised and rebuilt into salable vehicles, was understood to be that of a relative.

Came From Cisco

The tip that led to the arrest and raid was reported to have come from Cisco, as a result of the investigations of several cars stolen in this section, including that of R. N. Cluck, superintendent of the Cisco public schools. This car was stolen several months ago, and Friday Mr. Cluck, accompanying Chief of Police Perdue to Bowie, viewed and identified parts of his stolen car. The body of the car had been found buried under hay in the barn on the farm. The radiator, fenders, running boards and other parts were found in the same barn under a pile of shucks. The motor was not found. It was believed to have been installed in another car. Scratches on the radiator, an odd bolt in the fender, a scrap of cloth from a pattern which Mrs. Cluck had used in a dress, and, most damaging of all, a portion of a school census blank filled out on a Cisco family, were among the evidence by which the Cluck car was quickly identified. The car was known to have been "hot" for some time, which was the reason for its having been buried under the hay, the investigators said. Friday night Cisco police officers arrested L. M. Weed of Cisco and lodged him in Eastland county jail on charges of automobile theft in connection with the disappearance of the Cluck car. Weed, under a suspended sentence, denied the charge, admitting that he had known he was under suspicion for several months.

In Unknown Jail

The "brains" of the syndicate has been lodged in an unnamed jail. Thursday and Friday efforts of his wife to locate him and obtain his release on a writ of habeas corpus were unavailing. He was said to have paid a sum of money for any car of the years 1934 to 1936 inclusive, delivered on the lot near Bowie, the man who delivered the stolen vehicle taking no further responsibility for the concealment and disposition of the car.

At the time of the raid, officers reported, there were eight cars—Chevrolets and Fords—in rebuilt and running condition on the farm. Five trucks had been dismantled. Seven toolboxes of parts and bodies were hauled away by the officers.

The farm in a somewhat remote section from Bowie, was the scene of much excitement Friday as townspeople and farmers gathered to watch the officers and witnesses in the investigation.

The syndicate had been in operation for a number of years, it was believed. One officer said he had been endeavoring to "get the goods" on it for seven.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Terence Mahony walks deliberately into one of Ambrose Lawson's traps, trying to get information against him and his dope and kidnaping gang. A mysterious Irishman accuses Terence of being an equally mysterious Mr. Brown, however, they fight, and when the police come, escape together to a den run by Fatty Bassett. And now it appears that Lawson put up the Irishman to fight Terence, and expected to have them both arrested—a trick which even Bassett's gang doesn't approve.

Chapter 24 TURNING TABLES

The big Irishman took a pace forward. His battered features were contracted in an ugly scowl. "So it was you, Mister, that sent this fellow down to that house to-night," he said to Lake. "An' it was your pal Scrubby Redman that gave me the tip that if I went to that house I'd find Mr. Brown there, and advised me I might have difficulty in gettin' me money and maybe I'd have to batter it out av'im with me two fists. An' it was somebody known to you, maybe, who tipped the police off that they'd find me in that house to-night."

There was another short silence after this accusation. Then Milson spoke again.

"Well, what if it was?" he demanded defiantly.

He turned to the fat man. "You'd better get rid of these two out of this place as quickly as you can," he went on. "If the Big Boss wants them out of the way it's not your business to shelter them."

Barney made a slight movement, as if to hurl himself at the speaker, but Mahony suddenly gripped his arm, restraining him. For a couple of seconds no one spoke; no one seemed to know what to say. The fat man fidgeted uncomfortably.

"I don't like it," he said. "I dunno as I'm very particular, an' if the Big Boss wants a couple of blokes knocked off it's not my place to interfere, but when it comes to squealin' on 'em to the cops . . ."

He looked round at the faces of the other men in the room. The little bow-legged man nodded.

"Squealin's a dirty game," he stated.

"And quarrelling with the Big Boss is a mug's game," put in Lake sharply. "You know what happens to people who quarrel with him."

"He gets someone to squeal on them and the police arrest them," said Mahony sarcastically.

Lake made an angry gesture. In his anger he said quite the wrong thing.

"Are you going on sheltering these two? Do you want the police to come and find them here in your place?" he said roughly.

"Because if you do, the Big Boss will willingly arrange to have them tipped off that we are here," put in Mahony.

The fat man drew himself up. Frowzy, greasy, horrible to look at as he was, there was yet a curious air of dignity about him.

"I don't want no trouble with the Big Boss, but I ain't goin' to put no one out to be run in by the cops, not if 'e was me own worse enemy," he stated.

The other men, as Mahony could see by their expressions, were not all of the same opinion; two of them were evidently frightened of what the Big Boss might do. Before they could speak Mahony interposed.

"Thanks very much; that's decent of you," he said to the fat man, and then to the others: "If any of you don't agree, you'd better keep quiet about it, because I'm not going till it suits me."

He drew his pistol from his pocket, and made a motion to the Irishman.

"Now then, Barney, let's hear some more about Mr. Brown," he said. "He owes you some money, doesn't he?"

"Sure he does," replied Barney. "I was to steal a big book from a safe in the house of a rich feller named Ambrose Lawson. I got me directions from Redman, who got them from Mr. Brown. I was to get fifty for trying the job, and a hundred and fifty if I brought it off."

"And did you bring it off?" asked Mahony.

"Bring it off! Sure, if I'd known what like of job it was I'd never have taken it on at all. What with burglar alarms and electric wires, 'tis lucky I was to get out with me whole skin. At that I was recognized; the cops was after me the very next morning."

"That was tough," said Mahony sympathetically. "When did all this happen?"

"It would be five days ago to-day," answered Barney. "And never a sign or a smell of me fifty quid have I seen, though I wrote in and asked for it. All I got was a typewritten note saying there was no money for me. Then, to-night, I got the tip that Mr. Brown would be there, and it was you."

Obviously, if Ross had been Mr. Brown, he had not been at the house when the Irishman first called for his money because he was in hospital. As he saw things, Mahony reckoned that Ross, desperate, had employed one of Lawson's own crooks to rob Lawson's house and get that book. But why had he wanted the book? That book would be worth getting hold of.

"And you think that Mr. Brown was annoyed with you because you failed to get the book, and so he refused to pay you and then squealed on you," said Mahony.

He shook his head. "It wasn't Mr. Brown who squealed on you," he said. "It was your chief, the Big Boss himself. He was annoyed with you for trying to rob his house, and so he meant to get you put away."

"The Big Boss?"

All the men in the room stared at him. Mahony stood there quite calm and sure of himself.

"Yes, the Big Boss," he repeated. "He and the man you call Mr. Brown had a quarrel, and Mr. Brown sent you to rob his house. The Big Boss is Ambrose Lawson."

"The 'ell 'e is. Are your sure of that, mate?" asked the fat man incredulously.

"Of course I'm sure" answered Mahony. "That's why he is out to get me, because I know who he is. I figure that he had me sent to that house on a fool's errand, and then tipped Barney off that I'd be there, and the police that Barney would be there, hoping that Barney and I would start murdering one another and the police would arrive in the middle of it."

"He wanted them to catch Barney, and find me, apparently quite at home in a room with dope and other things in it. He's already tried to frame me for a murder I didn't commit. He doesn't like people knowing who he is."

"Gawd!" exclaimed one of the men in a frightened voice. "Then 'e'll be after us, now we knows who 'e is."

"He certainly will," agreed Mahony cheerfully. "He'll be out to scupper the whole lot of you, except our friend Lake, who may be in his confidence. But I don't suppose he'll be too pleased with Lake after the mess he's made of things this evening."

He paused. "After all, though, it won't be like fighting against someone you don't know and can't get at," he went on. "Now you know who he is you can fight back at him."

The fat man stared at Mahony. "I reckon you told us who he is, Mister, so that we should have to fight back at him whether we wanted to or not," he remarked.

"Maybe I did," agreed Mahony coolly. "I'm out to fight Lawson from start to finish, and I mean to beat him; but I can do with a few tough guys like you on my side."

"Who would you rather have as your Chief anyway, a dirty squealer like Lawson who plots and plans in a sly way and lets other people do the dirty work, or me?"

"Sure, I'm wid yez," cried the Irishman. "A man that can lay me on the flat of me back with a blow of his fist is the chief for me, and to hell wid Lawson."

Mahony's next move was a piece of clever bluff. He gave nobody the opportunity to argue whether he was going to be their Chief or not. He took it completely for granted, and asserted his authority straight away.

"I'll lead you, and help you to fight Lawson, but I want you to understand this—I mean to be obeyed," he said sternly. "You fellows don't have to argue with me; you just have to do what you're told. Or else you'll strike such a heap of trouble you'll wish you were safe in jail. Is that clear?"

The fat man nodded. (Copyright, 1936, Hugh Clevely)

Jaycees Will Aid In Charity Ass'n Drive for Funds

The Cisco junior chamber of commerce will lend its assistance to the City Charity and Welfare association in the association's campaign for funds this fall. The Jaycees at a buffet supper at the Cisco Country club Monday night, responded to an appeal by J. C. McAfee, president of the welfare group, who asked that they help in a drive for the $600 or $700 that is estimated to be needed for the charitable work of the association during the winter.

The vote to assist means that the Jaycees will probably make the drive with their own organization, since the welfare association is not a membership group and does not have the manpower upon which to call. It is an association formed of representatives of the various churches, fraternal and civil bodies, and its purpose is to coordinate the relief and charity work of these groups to the end that it may be done with the greatest economy, efficiency and absence of duplication.

Committee Named

President A. D. Starling, who presided over the meeting of between 20 and 25 members—a gratifying attendance of the members—named H. L. Dyer, Wightman Moore and James McCracken as a committee to organize the Jaycees for the campaign.

Reports on the work of the association last year and its experiences in raising funds were made by Horace Condeley, J. A. Bearman and Mr. Dyer.

The group also voted to sponsor a number on a Halloween program to be presented by the P-T-A. under direction of Mrs. Ray Godfrey at the Ideal theater Halloween night. Dr. Hubert Seale, O. L. Stamey and James McCracken were named to prepare this number.

McCracken served as secretary for the meeting in the absence of Frank Langston, Jaycee secretary.

The meeting was the first since the series of trade territory trips and band concerts sponsored by the organization during the summer, and an appeal was made to the members for better attendance on the regular meetings, the next of which will take place on the second Monday in November. It was directed that postal cards be mailed to all members in advance of the meetings to remind them to attend.

Two applications for membership were received. They were from G. L. Grasty, commercial teacher in the Cisco high school, and Scott Miller of the Modern Steam Laundry.

Dedicated to the Legal Profession

By IRVIN S. COBB

THE scene was a court-room in a Missouri town. The occasion was a criminal trial and the two principal performers were a colored witness for the state—by name Jefferson White—and a lawyer for the defense, whose name doesn't matter.

Jefferson White having duly been sworn gave testimony on behalf of the prosecution. Counsel for the defendant now took him in hand for cross-examination. If he meant to save his client it was necessary for the attorney materially to weaken the force and effect of the evidence which just had been offered. Assuming a stern expression the lawyer began:

"Jefferson, exactly where were you standing at the precise moment when you claim to have seen the beginning of this alleged crime?"

It was plain that the person on the stand was daunted by the manner of his interrogator.

"Well, suh," he began, "I thinks—"

"Never mind what you think—" broke in the attorney. "This jury is not interested in your mental processes, if any such there be. Tell us what you know. Now, will you be so good as to inform us just where you were standing at the time when you observed the striking of the first blow?"

"I thinks, suh—" repeated the pestered witness, "I thinks dat—"

"Hold on!" bellowed the counsel. "Didn't I tell you that we felt no concern in what you think?"

"Scuse me, please suh," apologized Jefferson, "but boss, de trouble wid me is, dat, seein' I ain't no lawyer, I has to think befo' I speaks."

Vocational Meet To Attract Many To San Antonio

(Special to The Daily Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 22.—It is anticipated that between 2,500 and 3,000 interested persons from the United States, Canada, Mexico, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Alaska, and the Philippine Islands will attend the meeting of the American Vocational association in San Antonio, December 15, according to Miss Laura Murray, chief of the University of Texas bureau of industrial teacher-training, who is a member of the state committee in charge of arrangements for the convention.

Many prominent national and state educators including University of Texas men and women, men from industry and commerce, and leaders in agricultural, industrial, and home-making education will read papers and take part in the discussions, Miss Murray said. Industrial arts, vocational guidance and vocational rehabilitation will have special sections where those phases of education will be discussed.

Commercial exhibits from the leading publishing and equipment houses will be on display. Both state and national school exhibits have been planned also. The social side of the convention will be directed by the San Antonio committees. It will include dinners, luncheons, banquets, and sight-seeing trips. An after-convention trip to Mexico will interest northern and eastern delegates.

New Method of Seed Growth Is Claimed

MOSCOW, Oct. 22 (AP)—A new method of vernalization of seed is claimed by a young scientist here.

He claims results by moistening seed to a certain temperature where it is held for some time before planting. By this method it is claimed all stages of vegetation and maturation of plants has been accelerated from 5 to 7 days, an important factor in getting the harvest past maturity before summer heat waves parch the arid soil.

Vernalization also is said to increase yields by 20 per cent. Crop rotation is widely practiced as a further means of holding the soil for future benefits of humanity.

HERBERT HOOVER ELECTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Former President Herbert Hoover was elected chairman of the board of the Boys' Clubs of America, Inc., by directors Tuesday night.

County Council Meets With A&M Extension Man

The Eastland county agricultural council held its regular October meeting in the court house Thursday, October 15, at which time R. H. Bush, extension organization specialist, spoke to the group on approved activities for 1937. He also pointed out that the organization's duties are to assist in government agricultural programs and cooperate with the county agent in planning and operating a worthwhile program in the county.

A committee composed of R. F. Cox, Okra; F. S. Boland, Sranton; A. L. McDonald, Rising Star; J. D. Guy, Carbon; W. J. Jones, Alameda; and T. E. Castleberry, Yellow Mound, was appointed to cooperate with the commissioner's court and the county agent in securing terrace building equipment for the county and encouraging farmers to terrace and contour their land. This committee met with the county commissioners Wednesday afternoon at 2.

In addition to cooperating with all soil conservation programs, the council went on record as sponsoring boys 4-H club work, preserving of surplus feed by means of trench silos, and an educational program in the county which will give each farmer of the county an opportunity to state what kind of government program he wants for 1937.

The meeting was attended by 13 of the 20 councilmen. The membership of the county agricultural council, which was elected by farmers of the county last spring, consists of Dick Weekes, chairman; R. R. Bradshaw, secretary;

R. F. Cox, F. S. Boland, O. Schaefer, Joe Donaway, A. L. McDonald, W. A. Williams, J. Smith, J. D. Guy, H. W. Gilbreath, H. A. Lovell, L. A. Bennett, W. Jones, Ben F. Wood, T. E. Castleberry, E. E. Blackwell, W. J. Dyer, H. L. Fry, and R. M. Earp.

Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm Redeems German Coin

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Oct. 22 (AP)—Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, now exiled in Doorn, Holland, has redeemed part of his old imperial currency—a five-mark piece, now valueless.

A Dutch bus driver had the coin "palmed" off on him, but instead of philosophically accepting his loss, he sent the coin to Doorn with a letter addressed to the former emperor.

By return post came a personal letter from the one-time war lord thanking him for his message and enclosing a Dutch rijksdalder, a negotiable Dutch coin equivalent in value to the old German five-mark piece.

LABOR SHORTAGE

HOUSTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—A shortage in relief labor was reported in Harris county Saturday. Maj. J. Perry Moore, assistant district labor director of the WPA, said work projects were being curtailed because of lack of men who need jobs.

Funeral Services Held Sunday for Mrs. A. J. Houston

Funeral services for Mrs. A. J. Houston, 91-year-old mother of Mrs. J. C. Mayhew who died at the Mayhew home, 1101 West Seventh at 7:10 p. m. Saturday, were held at the First Presbyterian church Sunday at 3 o'clock. Burial was in Oakwood with Lane's Funeral home-in charge of arrangements. Rev. M. H. Applewhite, pastor, conducted the services.

Mrs. Houston was born December 18, 1845, in LaFayette county, Miss., and came to Texas 46 years ago with her husband, a Confederate veteran. The couple settled in Coryell county where they lived until 1918. After the death of her husband, she came to Cisco to make her home with her daughter here. She lived here 15 years.

She is survived by three daughters and two sons. They are Mrs. A. J. McCoy of El Campo, Texas; Mrs. I. H. Brasher of Amarillo, Texas, and Mrs. Mayhew, of Cisco, daughters who were here at the time of her death; and Edwin Houston of Oxford, Miss., and Dudley Houston of Tucuman, N. M., who were unable to be here when she died. Nineteen grandchildren, 40 great-grandchildren and 5 great-great-grandchildren also survive.

Pall bearers were E. C. McClelland, J. W. Slaughter, E. L. Wilson, Leon McPherson, Charles Mayhew and W. C. Clements.

Half of the pecan supply of the world is produced in Texas.

Texas Is Urged To Conserve All Water Supplies

(Special to The Daily Press) AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 22.—Texas today was urged to conserve all underground and surface water supplies by the Texas planning board's water resources committee in a statement of policy made in connection with an exhaustive survey which is being made of the state's water supplies.

Agriculture was asked by the committee to conserve water through such methods as terracing, contour plowing, strip cropping, rotation of crops, destruction of weeds in pastures, control of livestock grazing, and the retirement of timber of such areas as are best adapted to the growing of timber crops.

The committee also advised the construction of storage dams on all tributaries as well as on the main streams of Texas for the purpose of storing water for every useful purpose, as well as for the prevention of floods and the regulation and control of stream flow.

Legislation which will enable the state board of water engineers to exert a positive control over the utilization of underground and surface water, including drainage water in artificially constructed channels, was proposed in the committee's statement of policy.

Enforce Pollution Laws The state department of health was requested to strictly enforce existing regulations against pollution of Texas streams and the cooperation of the Texas state parks board and the state game, fish and oyster commission was asked in the development of water recreational areas in the state.

Turning to the threat of future floods, the committee recommended the construction of a coordinated system of levees in connection with flood storage along the main streams for the purpose of protecting and reclaiming alluvial lands and protecting municipalities against flood damage.

The committee also recommended the encouragement of friendly cooperation between Texas and Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Arkansas, and between Mexico and the United States, for conservation of the waters of the Pecos, Canadian, Red and Sabine rivers, and the Rio Grande.

Chas. J. Kliner and J. A. Bearman of Cisco are members of the committee's advisory board.

85,270 Pensions Are Mailed for October

AUSTIN, Oct. 22.—As state money in the Texas pension fund neared exhaustion, the entire picture was changed this week by the legislature's enabling act authorizing transfer of the $475,450 permanent fund to that available for paying assistance. Orville S. Carpenter, executive director of the Old Age Assistance commission, explained this week.

The commission sent out 83,270 October checks ($1,301,787) Tuesday and then Friday mailed 2,000 more warrants ($28,844) bringing the total number of October recipients to 85,270.

This transfer will enable the addition of more names to the rolls during October. Funds transferred will not be sufficient for the State's share of the November payments, Carpenter explained.

Bob and Bud Orf, Missouri freshman gridgers, look so much alike that one day recently the freshman coach said: "I guess I'll start one of the Orf twins at end, but I don't know which one because I can't tell them apart."

Singing Revival--

according to Rev. W. H. Cole. "There is an emphasis of this Christian experience in these services as well as a singing of the hymn which makes the service an evangelistic factor and motive.

"In the service, as carried on those who hunger for the heart of the gospel of Jesus Christ will discover it as they enter into the singing of these great hymns with others with whom they live and walk daily. Who can measure the power of a great hymn to reach the farthest corners of human souls?"

"The services will continue each evening beginning at 7:15. There will be no service Saturday evening.

Opinion, taking a cross section of opinion at regular intervals, shows Roosevelt with increasing leads. The explanation for this apparent inconsistency seems to be that both conclusions are right but the premises are not the same. For instance, the institute's conclusions take into consideration a great body of voters who have neither telephones nor automobiles and who are not reached by the Digest poll which is restricted principally to the middle class upwards.

However, the November 3 result will tell. The Digest poll has always been sustained by the official elections in the past.

Granbury, a strong Class B contender of the country between Stephenville and Fort Worth, will furnish the opposition Friday night. The visitors whose weights approximate those of the Loboes are expected to give the Cisco boys a tough time of it.

The local team, whose inexperience, youth and weight have been factors decidedly against them in the strong competition of the Oil Belt, have shown steady improvement during the season, however, and a better record is anticipated in the last five games on their schedule.

The contest will begin at 8 o'clock.

Proceeding the night game, the Cisco grammar school Midgets will entertain the Cross Plains grammarians at the same field in the afternoon. The Midgets, undefeated and unscored upon in 15 games, are one of the outstanding grammar school elevens in the state.

The game begins at 3:30 and the admission will be 10 cents for all.
